Send for Catalogues and Prices.
135 Canal St., New Orleans.

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.,
SUCCESSORS TO STERN'S Fert. and Chem. Manufacturing Com'y
14 UNION STREET, New Orleans, La.

MANUFACTURERS OF HIGH GRADE Bone Fertilizers, PURE GROUND BONE ACID PHOSPHATE, KAINIT, Etc.
Write for Agricultural Hand-Book. Buyers of Cotton Seed.

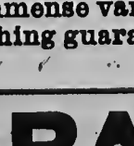
H. Dudley Coleman Machinery Co., Lim'd,
New Orleans, La.
STEAM ENGINES, BOILERS, MILLS AND MACHINERY.
Pumps, Pipe, Presses, Pulleys, Shafting,
Saw, Sugar and Corn Mills,
Cotton Gins, Feeders and Condensers.
Examine Our Stock. Our Prices Are Very Low.
FOUNDRY, FACTORY & OFFICE, Cor. Magnolia and Erato Sts. | SUPPLIES & SAMPLE STORE 9 Perdido St. New Orleans, La.
If readers of this advertisement who wish to purchase goods in our line would mention this paper when writing for information or when ordering goods from us, we could then determine whether the money we pay for advertising in this paper is well invested or not.
H. DUDLEY COLEMAN MACHINERY CO., LIMITED, New Orleans, La.

Office Telephone, 32. Yard Telephone, 261.
Pennsylvania Coal Company,
Office, 67 Carondelet Street.
PITTSBURGH COAL.
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.
L. S. WIDNEY, Manager.
Cotton Presses, Factories, and the Family trade supplied at Lowest Market Rates.
CITY YARDS: Foot of Robin Street, Foot of Desire Street, Corner Short and St. Charles Avenue.

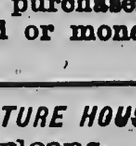
AS A GARMENT OF MERIT
THE GENUINE JACKSON CORSET WAIST
STANDS AT THE FRONT.
It is Rapidly Replacing Old-Style, Uncomfortable and Unhealthful Corsets.

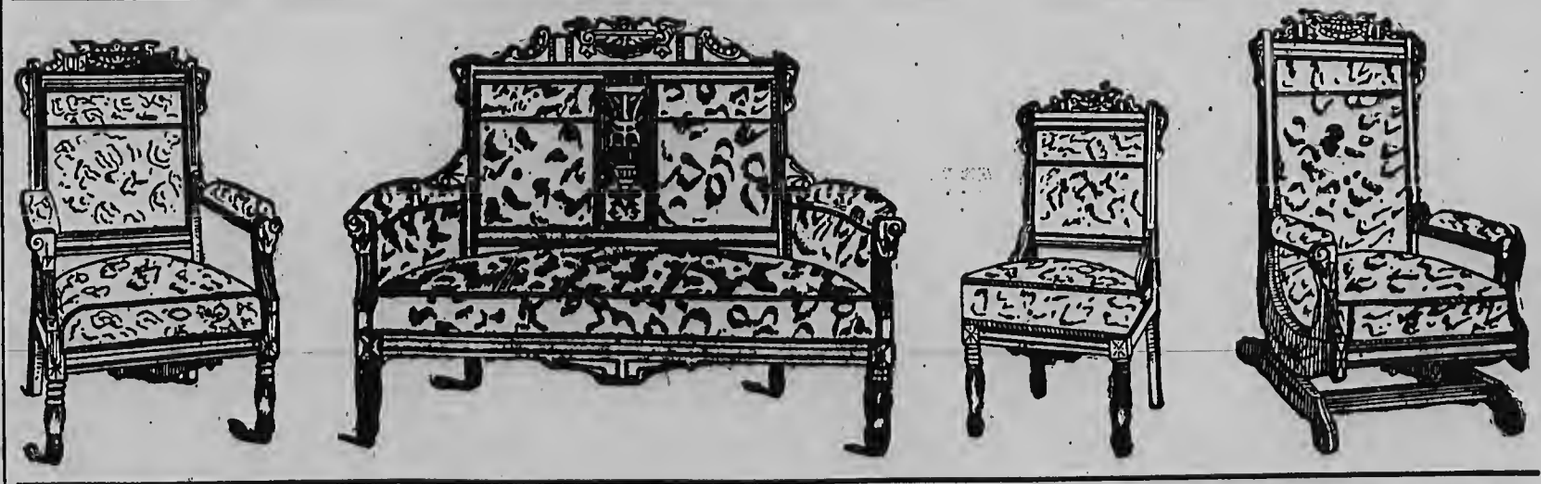
Easy-fitting, yet giving complete support to the form. It is well made, of good material and fast colors. We ask you to try it.
For sale by leading merchants everywhere. Take no substitute. If your dealer will not get it for you, write to the factory.
Made Only by the JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.

WE WANT RIGHT AWAY Reliable men in every section of America to represent us, advertise and keep our show cards tacked up in towns, on trees and fences along public roads. Steady work in your own county. $75 A MONTH. SALARY AND EXPENSES PAID EVERY TWO WEEKS WHEN STARTED. J. M. SCHAAF & CO., CINCINNATI, O.



The Great Church LIGHT.
FRINK'S Patent Reflectors give the Most Powerful, the Softest, Cheapest and the Best Light known for Churches, Stores, Show Windows, Parlors, Banks, Offices, Picture Galleries, Theatres, Depots, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room. Get circular and estimate. A liberal discount to churches and the trade. I. P. FRINK, 551 Pearl Street, N. Y.



Latest Styles -- Lowest Prices!


This handsome Parlor Suit is upholstered on solid walnut frames with Imported Marbleized Silk Plush and the seats are all Spring Edge. Colors are Red, Red and Old Gold, Blue and Old Gold or each piece of a different color. For $45 I will sell seven pieces of this suit:--one Sofa, one Divan, one Patent Rocker, one Arm Chair and three Reception Chairs. $65 buys the complete suit of ten pieces consisting of two Sofas, one Divan, one Patent Rocker, one Arm Chair, and five Reception Chairs. Same suit covered with Hair Cloth, seven pieces $35 or ten pieces $55. Every other article in my store at proportionately low prices. Bedroom suits, twelve pieces, from $40 up to $1000 Dining room suits, eight pieces, from $17 upwards. Complete Kitchen outfits from $20 upwards. Quality at top—prices at bottom. I have an immense variety of strictly reliable goods and purchasers can depend upon getting the very latest styles. Everything guaranteed to be exactly as represented or money will be promptly refunded.
CHEAPEST FURNITURE HOUSE in New Orleans, 28 CAMP STREET 30 | J. G. GRANT, | CHEAPEST FURNITURE HOUSE in New Orleans, 28 CAMP STREET 30

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

A meeting of prominent silver men of California was held in San Francisco, on July 15, and resolutions adopted favoring the restoration of silver to the position it occupied as a money metal previous to the demonetization of 1873. Another meeting will be held next week for the purpose of electing delegates to the silver convention at Chicago.

It was learned at the Pension Office, on July 14, that 2,560 pensioners have been suspended to date under Secretary Smith's ruling, requiring beneficiaries of the act of June 28, 1890, to prove total disability where they are drawing pensions of $12 per month. The suspensions are not confined to any particular locality, but are well distributed throughout the country.

The French national fete, commemorative of the fall of the Bastile, was celebrated on July 14 at the Fair Grounds, in this city, in the usual brilliant and elaborate manner. The occasion has become a red-letter day in the history of New Orleans, and the people of the city turn out en masse to participate with their French fellow-citizens in honoring the memorable event.

The World's Fair is to be closed on Sunday, and after July 16 it will not be open to the public on the first day of the week. The admissions of last Sunday have been donated for the relief of the families of the firemen who lost their lives in the recent fire on the grounds. The vote of the local directory rescinding its former action was overwhelmingly in favor of closing, standing 24 to 4.

The New York Board of Trade and Transportation has sent the 1,100 commercial bodies in all sections of the United States copies of the resolutions recently adopted by the board urging the repeal of the compulsory silver purchasing sections of the Sherman law, and requesting each organization to forward a report of such action as it may take upon the question for presentation to Congress at the approaching extra session.

The Mississippi River Commission has recommended to the Secretary of War that no more money be expended in the improvement of the harbor of Vicksburg for the present. This is in consequence of the fact that nearly two-thirds of the excavations have been filled up by the action of the current, and it seems almost an impossibility to keep the channel clear. Nearly 300,000 yards of earth have been excavated, but the river has filled with mud 300,000 yards of this.

Notwithstanding it was advertised far and wide that the proceeds of ticket sales at the World's Fair on July 16 were to be donated to the families of the firemen who lost their lives in the awful fire last Monday, the attendance was usually small. It was announced as "Heroes' Day," and the total admissions for the day, according to the estimate of the bureau of admissions, will scarcely reach 35,000. Midway Plaisance had a deserted and somber Sabbath-like air. There was no music in any of the pavilions.

FOREIGN.

Two German anarchists have been expelled from Switzerland by order of the government.

The German Army Bill was passed in the Reichstag, on July 15, by a majority of sixteen.

A syndicate of Mexican capitalists has agreed to loan the Mexican government $5,000,000 to tide over the present financial crisis.

It is customary on the anniversary of the fall of the Bastile for the President of France to extend clemency to certain prisoners. In accordance with this onstom, President Carnot pardoned 319 convicts.

The corn crop in the valley of Mexico and throughout all the southern States of the republic is the most abundant yield known for several years, and the price of grain has already taken a big decline.

All arrangements are now completed for the work of construction to begin on the proposed railroad between the City of Guadalajara, Mexico, and Chamala, a port on the Pacific coast. The road will pass through a splendid agricultural and mining country.

A dispatch from Bangkok, capital of Siam, states that twenty Siamese were killed and fourteen wounded last week during the exchange of fires between the forts at the mouth of the Meinam river and the French gunboats Comete and Inconstante, which forced the passage of the bar in the face of orders from the Siamese government prohibiting their entry into the river. The Siamese government has been informed by the French minister that the French vessels had no instructions to ascend the river, and did so contrary to orders.

Their Name Is Legion.

Reader, there are many blood purifying medicines.

There is but one Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Do not allow high-sounding advertisements or other devises to turn you from your purpose to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, because in this purpose you are right and will not be disappointed in the result.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is an honest medicine, honestly advertised, effects honest cures, and gives every patron a fair equivalent for his money. What more can you reasonably ask?

A fair trial guarantees a complete cure.

The Memphis Confsrence Female Institute.

We have just received a catalogue of this famous old Methodist school, which for fifty years has been doing valiant service for God and the church. The catalogue is a thing of beauty. It has rarely been our pleasure to see so artistic a piece of workmanship. Our readers will find a notice of this institution in our columns this week. It is with pleasure that we commend this college of the church to our Methodist parents. Send to the president for a catalogue. Note particularly the course of study which is equal to that of most male colleges. The faculty is large and composed of the finest teachers in the land. Several of them have spent years in Europe, and all of them are from leading colleges.

The buildings are being thoroughly renovated at a cost of several thousand dollars. The roof of the main building is being replaced by a handsome dome. In this there will be a splendidly equipped gymnasium, and the art studio. A number of new pianos have been ordered from the manufacturers. These, with many interior comforts for the boarders, will be added before the Fall session opens.

We wish to congratulate all lovers of music, both vocal and instrumental, elocution and art upon the superior advantages provided at this institution for perfecting themselves in their various accomplishments.

If solid instruction is wanted, it is here provided; if ornamental training is sought, let Methodist parents consider well the claims of the Memphis Conference Female Institute.

The religious culture of your daughters will not be neglected at this Christian school. They will return to your homes with intensified desires for usefulness in the church.

Let every Methodist parent look well to the religious environment of children when removed from the hallowing influence of a Christian home.

We commend this school of the church as safe on all of these lines.

To Whom It May Concern.

Macon, Ga., March 13, 1893.

About three years ago I received a sample bottle of MULENOL. I had never heard of it before. I began using it, however, as occasion required, and soon found that it was all that is claimed for it, and more. For cuts, burns, bruises, scalds and all kinds of sores it is superior to any remedy I have ever used. Is is also exceedingly efficacious in colic and diarrhœa. For sore throat it is incomparably better than anything I know of. I heartily recommend it as a medicine worthy of a place in every household.

W. C. BLACK,
Pastor Mulberry St. Methodist Church
Manufactured by F. A. Dicks, Natchez, Miss.

Illinois Central Railroad.

REDUCED RATES TO CHICAGO AND THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Tickets now on sale from New Orleans to Chicago and return at $36 75 for the round trip; sale to continue daily until Oct. 15, 1893, inclusive; good to return until Nov. 15, 1893. Remember that the Central Route is the only railroad from the South whose trains enter Chicago without transfer or detour in full view of the Exposition Buildings, and make regular stops at the World's Fair gates. (World's Fair Station—Midway Plaisance.)

For further particulars, tickets, etc., call on or address your local or nearest I. C. R. R. ticket agent.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Philip Werlein,

New Orleans, wants you to write to him if you want to get a good Piano cheap, or an Organ, Music or Musical Instruments. His is the old reliable music store of New Orleans.

Free! Free!

AN ELEGANT LITHOGRAPH PICTURE OF MILLSAPS COLLEGE.

We need $1,500 to pay for furniture already bought to finish furnishing the college and to make necessary improvements.

To everyone sending us $1 we will send the picture unframed, and to everyone sending us $5 we will send the picture neatly framed ready for hanging. Let us hear from you.

JOHN W. CHAMBERS, Agt.
Jackson, Miss.

A widower married a second time, and his choice was a wealthy lady about fifty years of age. When the bride and bridegroom returned home from the wedding, the husband, introducing his wife to his children, said: "My dear children, kiss this lady. She is the new mama I promised to bring you." After taking a steady look at the "new mama," little Charlie exclaimed: "Papa, you have been cheated! She isn't new at all!"

For Jackson District Conference at Edwards, Miss., July 27-30.

We have secured from the authorities of A. and V. railroad instructions to sell "round-trip" tickets to our Conference at four cents per mile. This is same rate as usual, but secured by buying "round-trip" in coming. Certificate plan will not work this time for want of sufficient number to attend. No response from agent of I. C. road. We can accommodate a few brethren with horses within short ride from town. Welcome all.

J. P. DRAKE, P. C.

Alexandria W. C. T. U.

The ladies of the Alexandria W. C. T. U. celebrated the Fourth of July by giving a temperance picnic in the court-house and grounds, to which the public was cordially invited. In response to this invitation about three hundred people of every Christian denomination met and occupied the comfortable seats under the sheltering arms of the oaks, until invited upstairs to the temperance meeting, which was opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. Brown, of the Baptist Church. The choir then sang a hymn, and the address of welcome was made by Mr. R. H. McGimpsey, who was to have been followed by Hon. E. G. Hunter in a temperance lecture; but sickness in his family detained him, and the meeting was adjourned without further talk.

This is the first public Christian celebration of the Fourth of July ever held in this community, and was such a success that the writer is carried away with joy of it. The dinner was every way fitted to the circumstances of the case, and everyone did ample justice to it. The most remarkable feature of this novel entertainment was its simplicity. No brass bands, flags or decorations made the grounds conspicuous; but in Christian peace and harmony these friends of temperance spent this happy birthday of the great American nation. This union is the largest and most enthusiastic in the fourth district, and as Alexandria is very centrally located and easy of access, it is hoped by its members that the District Convention will be held here in the Fall.

MRS. JAMES ANDREWS.

Camp Meetings.

There will be a camp meeting for the conversion of sinners and sanctification of believers held at Longtown, Pleasant Grove circuit, Sardis district, North Mississippi Conference, beginning Aug. 25 and running over the first Sunday in September. Rev. B. A. Cundiff, of the Louisville Conference, a man full of faith and the Holy Ghost, author of "Scriptural Holiness," will do most of the preaching.

Longtown is ten miles west of Como. Como is on the M. and T. Division of the I. C. R. R., 45 miles south of Memphis and 55 miles north of Grenada. A dining hall and livery stable on the grounds for the accommodation of visitors who will be entertained at the lowest possible cost. Preachers of all denominations entertained free of charge, and are cordially invited to attend.

REV. W. H. ECKLES, President,
Pleasant Grove.

J. A. FREEMAN, Secretary,
Longtown.

The St. Tammany Camp Meeting will begin Sept. 22. We are seven miles from Covington, La., our nearest railroad station. There will be hacks to meet all trains during the week. We have secured the help of an effective evangelist, with our presiding elder and other brethren, who will urge the necessity of scriptural holiness, and the possibility of attaining the experience instantaneously. We will spend much time and money enlarging and beautifying the grounds, and we are expecting a great ingathering of souls. All ministers and lay workers are invited to come and help us in the good work.

D. C. RAWLS, P. C.

The Mt. Zion Camp Meeting, in Claiborne parish, 7 miles north of Homer, will begin on Thursday night before the fourth Sunday in September and continue about seven days. A special invitation is extended to ministers of the gospel and other workers.

R. M. BLOCKER, P. C.
Lisbon, La.

Camp meeting at Sam Jones Camp Ground, on the L., N. O. and T. R. R., near Glosier, Miss., begins Friday, Aug. 18, to continue ten days. All passenger and local freight trains stop at camp ground during continuance of meeting. A cordial and general invitation given to ministers and people.

J. A. B. JONES, Pres.

Camp Meeting Calendar.

Camp Meet'g.	Begins.
Bethel	July 27
Scottsville	Aug. 8
Topisaw	Aug. 11
Victoria	Aug. 17
Orville-Whittington	Aug. 18
Sam Jones	Aug. 18
Heulington	Aug. 24
Longtown	Aug. 25
Leaf River	Aug. 30
Mt. Zion	Sept. 21
St. Tammany	Sept. 22
Palmer	Sept. 30

Unlike the Dutch Process

No Alkalies
—OR—
Other Chemicals

are used in the preparation of

W. BAKER & CO.'S

BreakfastCocoa

which is absolutely pure and soluble.

It has more than three times the strength of Cocoa mixed with Starch, Arrowroot or Sugar, and is far more economical, costing less than one cent a cup. It is delicious, nourishing, and EASILY DIGESTED.

Sold by Grocers everywhere.

W. BAKER & CO., Dorchester, Mass.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SEASHORE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Seashore Camp Meeting	July 19-20
Hattiesburg, at Enon	22, 23
Columbia circuit, at Thomson's Chapel	29, 30
Mt. Carmel circuit, at Bethel	30, 31
Moss Point	Aug. 5, 6
Americus circuit, at X Roads*	6-8
Whittington circuit, at Whittington*	11-13
Biloxi	12, 13
Williamsburg circuit, at Oakohay	19, 20
Ellisville circuit, at Sandersville	26, 27
Eastahuchie circuit, at L. River C. G.	30, Sept. 6
Heidelberg circuit, at Paulding	9, 10
Augusta cir., at Boone's Ch'l. (Th., Fri.)	14, 15
Vancleave circuit, at N. Prospect C. G.	16, 17
Ocean Springs, at O. Springs (Wed.)	20
Talisheak circuit, at St. Tammany C. G.	22-28
Covington circuit (Wed.)	27
Bay St. Louis, at Handsborough	29, 30
Whittington c. (4th round), Palmer C. G.	30 to Oct. 6
Pearlington, at Log Town	7, 8
E. Pearl mis., at Byrd's Ch'l. (Tues.)	10

The Conference for charges marked with * will be held on second day published.

Let special prayer be made by all our people for the camp meetings. Observe the quarterly fast. Have General Rules read, and registers on hand for examination. Preachers will please try to "clear the decks" of the collections during this quarter, at least in good subscriptions. Push the interests of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

HENRY E. PARTRIDGE, P. E.
Hattiesburg, Miss.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Magnolia, at Muddy Springs	July 22, 23
Summit, at Johnson	24
Caseyville, at Bethesda	29, 30
McComb City	Aug. 4
Adams, at Pisgah	5, 6
Lebanon, at Mizpah	8
Wesson	10
Holmesville and Topisaw, at Topisaw	12, 13
Bowerton, at Pleasant Valley	19, 20
Pleasant Grove, at Monticello	Sept. 2, 3
China Grove, at Waterboles	5
Brookhaven circuit, at New Hope	9, 10
Terry circuit	15
Gallman, at Mt. Pleasant	16, 17
Hazlehurst	22
Providence, at Georgetown	23, 24

R. S. WOODWARD, P. E.

MERIDIAN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Shubuta circuit, at Shubuta. (Thurs.)	July 20
Waynesboro circuit, at Enon	22, 23
Clarke circuit, at Scott. (Fri. and W.)	25, 26
Vossburgh circuit, at McGowan	29, 30
Enterprise and S., at Mayerhoff	Aug. 5, 6
Daleville circuit, at Soule. (Thurs.)	10
Linwood circuit, at Linwood	12, 13
DeKalb circuit, at Marvin	19, 20
North Kemper, at Blair	26, 27
Chunkey circuit	Sept. 2, 3
Marion circuit, at Pleasant Hill	9, 10
Why Not circuit	16, 17
Meridian—Central (Wed. night)	20
Lauderdale circuit (Thurs.)	21
Binnsville circuit	23, 24

Attention is called to Questions 14 and 15. Registers and Records should be presented. Question 13 will be called where not properly answered on second round. Brethren, let us keep our vows to "recommend fasting or abstinence, both by precept and example," and let us continue to pray and look for the presence and power of the Holy Spirit.

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

WINONA DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Indianola	July 22, 23
Brooklyn and Dublin	29, 30
West	Aug. 5, 6
Carrollton circuit	12, 13
Black Hawk	19, 20
Winona circuit	26, 27
Vaiden circuit	Sept. 2, 3
Leherton	9, 10

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Fulton and Nettleton circuit	July 22, 23
Shannon	29, 30
Prairie	Aug. 1
Aberdeen station	2
Amory and Smithville	5, 6
Saltillo	12, 13
Pontotoc	17
Houston and Wesley	19, 20
Athens	23
Okolona	26, 27
Tremont	Sept. 2, 3
Buena Vista	9, 10

J. B. STONE, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Algiers (morn.)	July 26
Gretna (eve.)	28
Felicity (morn.)	30
Parker Chapel (eve.)	30
Rayne (morn.)	Aug. 6
Louisiana Ave (eve.)	6
Baton Rouge	16
Carondelet (morn.)	20
Moreau (eve.)	20
Gross Tete, at Rosedale	27
Dryades (morn.)	Sept. 3
Craps (eve.)	3
Plaq. and Donaldson, at Vacherie	10
Lower Coast, at Port Eads	17

C. W. CARTER, P. E.

ARCADIA DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Minden, at Pine Grove	July 22, 23
Ringgold, at Brushwood	29, 30
Sparta, at Bear Creek	Aug. 5
Arcadia, at Pains Chapel	5, 6
Summerfield, at Harmony Chapel	12, 13
Haynesville, at Flat Lick	19, 20
Valley, at Blockers Chapel	22, 23
Vernon, at Wesley Chapel	26, 27
Gansville	Sept. 2, 3
Vienna, at Pine Grove	9
Ruston station	10, 11

J. L. P. SHEPPARD, P. E.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Mooringsport, at Mooringsport	July 22, 23
DeSoto, at Woodside	29, 30
North Bossier, at Walkers Chapel	Aug. 1, 2
Conshatta, at Brownsville	5, 6
Wesley, at Davis' Springs	7
West Natchitoches, at Shiloh	16
Anacoco and S'th Vernon, at F. Island	12, 13
Grand Cane, at Cypress C. G.	15
Victoria mission, at Oak Grove	19
Cane River, at Ragans Chapel	20
Natchitoches station. (Sun. night, Mon.)	20, 21
Many, at Negreet	25, 26
Fort Jessup, at Rocky Mount	27, 28

ROBT. J. HARP, P. E.

Address: 629 Hope St., Shreveport.

In this issue of the ADVOCATE appears the advertisement of the Classical and Commercial Institute, No. 7 Prytania street, and presided over by Messrs. Chenet, Reid and Harmon. These are all gentlemen of ripe scholarship, the two former having been connected with Tulane University and High School, if we are not mistaken, and the latter, Prof. G. W. Harmon, long a successful instructor at Soule's College. The former are spoken of in the highest terms; but Prof. Harmon we can commend from personal acquaintance. He is the man for the place, and in it will undoubtedly win laurels for the institution. The professor is a skilled penman, is thoroughly acquainted with book-keeping in all its branches, and, moreover, is devoted to his calling. But all the branches of a classical education, including ancient, modern languages, mathematics, English, etc., are taught. We wish the institute much success.

What Can Cuticura Do

Everything that is cleansing, purifying, and beautifying for the Skin, Scalp, and Hair of Infants and Children, the CUTICURA REMEDIES will do. They speedily cure itching and burning eczemas, and other painful and disfiguring skin and scalp diseases, cleanse the scalp of scaly humors, and restore the hair. Absolutely pure, agreeable, and unfailing, they appeal to mothers as the best skin purifiers and beautifiers in the world. Parents, think of this, save your children years of mental as well as physical suffering by reason of personal disfigurement added to bodily torture. Cures made in childhood are speedy, permanent, and economical. Sold everywhere. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Boston.

"All about Skin, Scalp, and Hair" free.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp purified and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP. Absolutely pure.

ACHING SIDES AND BACK, Hip, Kidney, and Uterine Pains and Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster, the first and only pain-killing plaster.

B.&S. BUSINESS COLLEGE, LOUISVILLE, KY. Superior advantages. Send postal for circular.

ROANOKE COLLEGE.

Choice of Courses for Degrees; high standard. Course in Physical Training in New Gymnasium. A Commercial Course. Library 17,000 volumes. Working Laboratory. Buildings improved. Steam heat. Healthful mountain climate. Expenses for nine months, $155 to $210 (fees, board, etc.) Aid to deserving students. Begins Sept. 13th. Catalogue, with 8 views, free. Address,

JULIUS D. DREHER, Pres't, Salem, Va.

LAGRANGE FEMALE COLLEGE

LaGrange, Georgia.

Course—Literature, Music, Art, Normal course in each. Music and art first-class.

Location—Elevated, healthful, retired.

Advantages—Uniform, gymnasium, baths, electric lights. Pupils board with faculty. Industries, harmony, Sight-singing taught.

49 Session will begin Sept. 20, 1893.

EULER B. SMITH, SEC. RUFUS W. SMITH, PRES.

VIRGINIA MILITARY INSTITUTE, LEXINGTON, VA.

55th Year. State Military, Scientific and Technical School. Thorough Courses in general and applied Chemistry, and in Engineering. Confers degree of graduate in Academic Course, also degrees of Bachelor of Science and Civil Engineer in Technical Courses. All expenses, including clothing and incidentals, provided at rate of $336.50 per month, as an average for the four years, exclusive of outfit. New Cadets report Sept. 1st.

GEN. SCOTT SHIPP, Superintendent.

WASHINGTON & LEE UNIVERSITY, Lexington, Virginia. Academic; Law; Engineering. Opens Sept. 14. For catalogue address

G. W. C. LEE, President.

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY, At the healthful Shenandoah Valley, near Staunton, Virginia. English, Classical and Business courses with Military Tactics. For catalogue apply to Chas. S. Roller, Prin., Fort Defiance, Va.

HOLLINS INSTITUTE BOTETOURT SPRINGS, Va.

For Young Ladies. 51st session opens Sept. 13th, 1893. Eclectic courses in all Languages and Sciences, Music, Art, and Elocution. Eight professors and twenty ladies. Beautifully situated in Valley of Virginia, on N. & W. R. R., near Mountain scenery. Mineral waters. Climate unexcelled. Write for illustrated catalogue to

CHAS. L. COCKE, Supt., Hollins, Va.

Millsaps College,

Jackson, Miss.

The Second Session Begins Sept. 20th, 1893.

College Fees, Only $30 for the Entire Session.

Board in Students' Homes and in Private Families, $12 per month.

Provision has been made for the payment of the College Fees in the case of young preachers and the sons of preachers.

For Catalogue and other information address

W. B. MURRAH, PRESIDENT.

Davis Military School

For BOYS and YOUNG MEN.

A Military College. Preparatory Classes for those not prepared for College Classes. Full Course in Civil Engineering. Scientific Course. Classical Course. Complete Business College Department. Preparatory Medical Course for Young Men desiring to study Medicine. Practical instruction in Telegraphy. Location famous for Beauty and Health. Cornet Band and Orchestra. Instruction in Music and Art. We offer the advantages of a fine education at low rates. Write for Register. It gives full particulars. Address

DAVIS MILITARY SCHOOL, WINSTON, N. C.

MALONE COLLEGE

For Young Ladies.

HOLLY SPRINGS, MISSISSIPPI.

The Third Annual Session will begin Monday, Sept. 20, 1893.
Location, highest point in the State. Elevation, 613 feet.
Health unsurpassed in the Southwest.
Course thorough and comprehensive.
Each department under the charge of specialists.
Special advantages offered in music, art and elocution.
A HOME SCHOOL for pupils under Christian influences.
Terms moderate. For catalogues or further particulars address

Rev. J. W. HONNOLL, President.

WALL & MOONEY'S SCHOOL,

FRANKLIN, TENNESSEE.

S. V. WALL. W. D. MOONEY, A. M.

Fits Boys for College or Business.

Our Students Enter Vanderbilt on Certificate, Without Examination. Positive Engagement Necessary to Secure Admission.

Fall term will open August 29, 1893.

Address W. D MOONEY, Secretary.

VANDERBILT -:- UNIVERSITY,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Next Session opens September 20th. Full graduate as well as under graduate courses. Ten Fellowships for college graduates. Seven Departments—Academic, Engineering, Biblical, Law, Pharmaceutical, Dental, Medical. Fully equipped laboratories and museums.

WILS WILLIAMS, Secretary.

WESLEYAN FEMALE INSTITUTE Opens Sept. 6th, 1893.

STAUNTON, VIRGINIA. Climate and surroundings exceptional. Handsome buildings, now being remodeled, thoroughly renovated, repainted inside and outside, and refurnished with new pianos, carpets, &c. Steam heat, gas lights, bath rooms on every floor. New Laboratory thoroughly equipped. Excellent Faculty of Experienced Teachers. Advanced courses in English, Latin, German, French, &c. Special advantages in Art. Conservatory Course in Music. One hundred and forty-one boarding pupils from eighteen States. Terms moderate. For Catalogues of this celebrated old Virginia school, address

W. W. ROBERTSON, President, Staunton, Virginia.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 40.—NO. 30. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, JULY 27, 1893. WHOLE NO. 1927.

Rev. J. M. BEARD, D. D., Editor and Publisher. } PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA CONFERENCE, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH. { ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

HUMILITY.

e bird that soars on highest wing
Builds on the ground her lowly nest;
nd she that doth most sweetly sing
Sings in the shade when all things rest; lark and nightingale we see hat honor hath humility.

hen Mary chose the better part,
She meekly sat at Jesus' feet;
nd Lydia's gently-opened heart
Was made for God's own temple meet;
airest and best adorned is she hose clothing is humility.

he saint that wears heaven's brightest crown
In deepest adoration bends;
he weight of glory bows him down
The most, when most his soul ascends; earest the throne itself must be he footstool of humility.

—Exchange.

Koi Nobori, or Carp Flag.

Japan is a land of many curious and teresting customs, and I want to tell oo of one in this letter.

If you could stand on the second-ory porch of the house in which we ve in Kobe, and look over the city, u would see, in all directions, hun-reds of fish swimming in the air, just you would if you were to look rough the side of a glass aquarium the fish and turtles moving about in e water. In some places we see only e fish, but in others there are four or ve together, and even more. Some of em are very large, larger than any ving fish you have ever seen, unless, rhaps, you have seen a whale, such swallowed Jonah. Just to the orth of our house we can see a great g fellow swimming in the air by him-lf. He is about twenty feet long, hile immediately in front are four or ve together, the smallest one being ot two feet long. If you would look osely, you would notice that the fish, though they seem to be moving all e time, remain in about the same po-ion. There they are, all day and all ght long, swimming about in the air, t making no progress, and the rea-on is that they are tied to the top of a gh pole, just like a flag. Of course, ese fish are not alive, for you know at if they were, they would die just soon as they were taken out of the ter. They are of paper, and are ade to resemble the fresh water fish lled "oarp," or "koi" in Japanese. ey have large mouths that are open l the time, and the wind, blowing to them, keeps them inflated, so that ey look very much like a living fish. ut the most curious thing about this range custom is, that they are used to lebrate the birth of a boy baby in the ouse, over which they float. On the ineteenth of every June, if a little boy as come into the family during the ear, the father and mother purchase ne of these paper fish, and tie it to a ng pole and let it float in the air. In is way they announce to the commu-ity that they have had a son. If there re more than one koi, or carp, then ey have been presented to the family y friends or by relatives.

There are two reasons why the carp used instead of some other kind of h. First, it is a very strong fish, be-g able to go far up the rivers, into e mountains, and over the rapids; nd, secondly, the Japanese people ink very highly of it. I have been ld that the Chinese consider it a cred fish, and so, when the fathers nd mothers hang out the koi nobori, carp flag, they not only announce at they are the happy possessors of a y baby, but they also express the ish that this little boy may grow rong and be preserved to them, and lso that he may be a good and obedi-nt son.

There is a very pretty custom that is ed in celebrating the birth of girl abies in Japan, but, as I have written ou a long letter to-night, I will have tell you of that some other time.

W. E. TOWSON.

Kobe, Japan, June 21, 1893.

Perfect Love.

On the tenth of August, 1819, the ev. Wilbur Fisk attended a camp eeting at Wellfleet, Cape Cod, Mass. his meeting was signalized by re-arkable displays of divine power in the awakening of sinners and sanctifi-cation of believers. He had many ex-ercises of mind on the subject of per-fect love, but was not, when he went to the meeting, under any special con-cern about it. But while there his at-tention became strongly interested in the subject, especially under a sermon by the Rev. Timothy Merritt, on the baptism of the Holy Ghost. He be-came fully sensible of his want of a full conformity to the Christian stand-ard of experience. He sought earnest-ly through the blood of the atoning sacrifice, and in the course of the meeting obtained that perfect love that "casteth out fear." His religious emo-tions now acquired a wonderful inten-sity and elevation. One who was pres-ent at the time says: "His language and whole appearance had something in them more than human, most mani-festly indicating that his soul then glowed with ardors of love nearly al-lied to those of angels. The next morning he preached on 'Growth in Grace,' when the impression made upon the audience was deep and glori-ous. His beautiful, classic style, vivi-fied with fire from heaven, never ap-peared to better advantage. Some ef-fects of these exercises of mind are not unworthy of notice. His views of the Divine Being, and especially of the power, glory, and fullness of Christ, were almost overwhelming. He felt such a horror of sin, and had so great an apprehension of the divine law, that, to use his own strong language, he 'almost feared to set his foot on the ground, lest he should do wrong.' Familiarity with these views would necessarily abate somewhat the inten-sity of his feeling, but other effects be-came permanent. Previously to this he had often doubted not only his in-terest in Christ, but in the truth of the Christian religion; afterward never. Prior to this he was often subject to desponding, gloomy seasons. We heard him say long afterward 'that he knew no gloomy hours; his mind was always serene and happy.'" To his sister he wrote: "Most willingly do I devote all to God, and rejoice in the service of such a Master." To a minister he wrote: "I thank God that I ever saw this day. Let holiness of heart be the motto, my dear brother. Will you preach it in the desk, in the class, and from house to house?"

Talent and learning should never be despised, but be diligently sought; and yet this perfect love is necessary to ministerial usefulness as nothing else may be called necessary.

Church organization is never to be despised. Yet this is not as essential to the best church life as is perfect love.

There is not a single characteristic of this love that will not add immense-ly to our efficiency in Christ's service. "Now unto Him that is able to do ex-ceeding abundantly above all we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us, unto Him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages. . . . Amen."—Exchange.

Sunday-School Convention, Meridian District.

The Sunday-school Convention for the southern part of Meridian district was held at Quitman, July 11 and 12, J. F. Boydston presiding. The program, as given out by our presiding elder, was taken up, and discussions entered into on the various questions.

1. "The Best Way in Which to Open a Sunday-school Session." Led by J C. Cavitt, who gave his method of opening and conducting the Sunday-school, enforcing his remarks by black-board illustration.

2. "The Bible in the Sunday-school, and Its Importance," was brought out in the remarks made by J. F. Boydston, and the discussion revealed the fact that the Bible is not used to the extent it should be in the Sunday-schools by teachers. Too many confine their study to the lesson helps.

At 11 A. M., first day, the convention listened to a sermon by Rev. R. Brad-ley, of Vossburg circuit. Subject: "Duty of Parents in the Religious Ed-ucation of Children." Text: Part of the fortieth verse of the twentieth chapter of II. Kings, showing that all were intrusted with a trust, and the advantages of the Sunday-school as a field to educate the young; also the duty of teachers and parents.

Afternoon devotional exercises con-ducted by Rev. J. N. Weir; song 852, hymn book; scriptural lesson, Psalm xci.

1. "How to Study the Sunday-school Lesson." On this point we had sev-eral suggestions, all centering on the plan of using all the helps, and thor-ough study in the spirit of prayer.

2. "How to Get Parents Interested in the Sunday-school." Discussion led by Rev. A. T. Bell, who thought the best method he knew would be to draw the parent through the child by impressing the child with the fact you loved him, thereby drawing the par-ent's heart to the teacher or superin-tendent. Thought that meetings for song, inviting the children and their parents, a good method.

"How to Teach in the Sunday-school," "How to Get Children Inter-ested in the Church," "How to Interest the Sunday-school in Mission Work," etc., were questions discussed at the convention with more or less interest, which we hope will benefit Sunday-school workers that were present.

I would like to say, in conclusion, that there was not the interest mani-fested in the convention that should have been by those appointed to take part in its proceedings. The Sunday-school is the most important factor of our church. There is no pastor or community that the Sunday-school question does not materially affect. There are many Sunday-schools that are dragging out a miserable existence because the superintendents do not know how to move up on a higher plane. There are hundreds of teachers to-day that want light to aid them in the work of teaching. There is no bet-ter place to get this knowledge than from men of experience. If we do not go to the convention, how are we to meet those men? If those men who have been selected by the Sunday-schools and the presiding elder fail to do their part, and our Sunday-school interest drag, where does the blame belong?

R. M. CAMERON.

BE BRIEF.

When you've got a thing to say,
Say it! Don't take half a day.
When your tale's got little in it,
Crowd the whole thing in a minute!
Life is short—a fleeting vapor—
Don't you fill an eight-page paper
With a tale which, at a pinch,
Could be cornered in an inch!
Boil it down until it simmers;
Polish it until it glimmers.
When you've got a thing to say,
Say it! Don't take half a day.

—Texas White Ribbon.

Notice.

To the Pastors of the North Mississippi Confer-ence, and Whom It May Concern—

Dear Brothers: At the last meeting of the Parsonage and Home Mission Soci-ety I was elected treasurer, and by those means have come into a more perfect knowledge of its workings, and the end it is destined to accomplish. My heart has always been in the work since its organization, but my zeal was latent until I saw the great demand for the workers and the means it would take to carry out one of the greatest works of our dear old Methodist Church. Not mentioning the other workings of our society, I will say that when each circuit and station is fur-nished with a good home and every-thing to make it comfortable, just that moment is one of the greatest hugbears (?) of the itinerancy removed, not only in the way of the preacher's wife knowing she is going to a home, but the preacher's mind is relieved of the worry of providing a place with a small pocketbook for his family, and he goes with the good of his "flock" bearing upon his heart and mind, to work and pray and plan for their in-terest. To us, the women of the church, is left the sweet privilege of providing a home for his loved ones.

I know from experience there are many good women—and men, too—who are not zealous in this work be-cause they are not aroused to the im-portance of it. The "pick is not ap-plied often enough to the rock," and lethargy embraces us. Now, to each of you I appeal to tell to each of your churches the plan and workings of this society, where there is no organization as well as where there is one, and let the women know of it.

When I look over my last quarter's report and see only $47, and know the great need there is for help, my heart aches, and is only palliated by the re-membrances, "He had not where to lay his head," and the women that minis-tered unto Him of their substance.

I see from the NEW ORLEANS ADVO-CATE, the much-loved organ of our Conference, that it comparatively reaches a very few of our members; therefore, our president's notice, tell-ing who is treasurer and urging prompt remittances of dues, has fallen under the eyes of not many of the grand women of North Mississippi. I have recently received letters asking if the dues must be sent to me, they not knowing whether or not I was treas-urer. I wrote to every district secre-tary in May, asking them to inform their auxiliaries. For many reasons I can not write to each church, for all should know. So, brethren, I turn to you, asking that you see to it that I re-ceive no more letters of that character, and that you remember Paul's injunc-tion, "Help those women which la-bored with me in the gospel."

Yours in Christian love,

MRS. ROWAN THAYER.

Greenwood, Miss.

Revival.

I have been made to understand and to realize that "it is a good thing to wait upon the Lord." For five days we have been going to the house of God to inquire in his holy temple, and for those days the power of God, through his gospel, has been doing its work.

Our meeting began at Plattsburg, Sunday, July 9. Bro. J. C. Long, of the Mississippi Conference, was with us from first to last, and did all the preaching. He is a man of God, and preaches with power and demonstra-tion of the Spirit.

From the first there seemed to be a powerful influence at work. A mighty undercurrent that at times would sway the congregation, but yet remained under the surface; but Wednesday night the preacher took for his text, "The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." For one hour the Spirit preached through him to the hearts of men and women; the Spirit came and the mighty deep was broken up. Twenty or more presented them-selves at the altar for prayer. At the close of the services five presented themselves as candidates for member-ship!

Thursday the Spirit came again in power, and men and women rejoiced together, and with one accord praised God.

We were indeed sorry to break the meeting so early, but Bro. Long had engagements elsewhere and could not remain. God only knows the result of the meeting. The work was powerful and deep. One Baptist brother said to me, "Every soul in this town has been benefited." There were seven acces-sions to the Methodist Church, and others said they expected to join other churches. Such profound silence and attention I have never seen. Saint and sinner alike sat in anxiety to catch every word as it fell from the lips of the man of God.

This being our first year in the work, and this our first revival, our heart is made to rejoice and cry out: Surely in the midst of our youth God is blessing our days.

S. B. MEYERS.

Rural Hill, Miss., July 14, 1893.

Woman's Missionary Convention, Auxiliary to Louisiana Conference.

This body met in Grand Cane, July 7. Only a few delegates were present, largely due, we suppose, to the scarci-ty of money. We had a very pleas-ant session—that is, the proceedings were harmonious, but the weather was extremely hot. The corresponding secretary reported only 18 adult socie-ties, numbering 447 members, and 9 juvenile societies, numbering 164 mem-bers. These are all that have reported to her this year, but the treasurer's re-port shows others. We hope the time will come when all the societies will report promptly and through the right channel. The treasurer's report also showed a falling off, which we deeply deplore. She reported only $1,046.17, which is about $160 less than last year's report. We hope to report an increase next year if our State organizer, Mrs. B. F. Alexander, is able to travel this year in the interest of missions. The same Executive Board was elected, with a change in State organizer, and some of the district secretaries.

Rev. F. S. Parker preached for us most acceptably on Sunday, at 11 A. M. and 8 P. M.

Bro. Reid and Bro. Scott were kind and helpful throughout all our meet-ings.

Grand Cane was profuse in hospitali-ties. Each hostess had the best dele-gates, and each delegate the best home in the city.

It was decided to hold our next con-vention at Lecompte, to embrace the first Sunday in October, 1894. July is usually so warm it was thought best to change the time.

Now, as recording secretary, please let me add a word for myself. My dear sisters, you will greatly alleviate the labors of your officers if you will re-port promptly in a definite form, and send up the State treasurer's receipts to the annual conventions. It will save a great deal of trouble and secure greater accuracy than can be hoped for otherwise.

L. PAXSON, Rec. Sec.

Keachi, La.

Greasing the Wheels.

I have but just returned from the railroad station, where everyone I saw seemed to have ardor in his heart and hurry in his eye. If we were half as much in earnest in preparing for heaven as we are for jaunts of pleas-ure, and our journeys of business, it would be something! What a bustle pervaded the whole station—loading and unloading, running backward and forward, some going into carriages, and others coming out, while the rat-tling vehicles set off and arrived by turns.

In the midst of all this hustle I no-ticed a man walking coolly along with a tin pan in his hand, greasing the wheels of the carriages. He took no notice of the fine folk or hustle; who-ever and whatever the people might be, did not appear at all to trouble his head; whither they came or went, was not his business; on he went with his employment; it was his duty to grease the wheels, and grease the wheels he did.

Thinks I to myself: "Here's a lesson for me. This man is but a picture of what I should be." Oh, that I had humility and godly integrity enough in my breast to go straight on with my work! "greasing the wheels," if needs be! patiently and cheerfully occupying the lowest station assigned me by duty, until it should be said unto me, "Friend, go up higher."—Selected.

Malone College.

The Malone College is located in the city of Holly Springs, which is ele-vated 623 feet above the level of the sea, the highest point in Mississippi. Its health is unsurpassed. It is at the junction of the I. C. and K. C., M. and B. railways.

This college is under the auspices of the M. E. Church, South, at Holly Springs. The property is owned by a stock company, who have repaired the building and furnished it throughout with new furniture. The property is not owned by the Methodist Church, but does the same work that those col-leges do which do belong to the church, making the same reductions to preachers' daughters that they make, will duplicate their offers, and is purely a Methodist school. Every teacher in the college, except one, is a staunch Methodist, and she, the art teacher, is a consistent member of the Presbyterian Church. Not one of our teachers will play cards, pass the wine glass, or attend any kind of a dance. Girls who come here will live in the house with the family, and eat at the same table of just such food as the family and teachers eat. Three of the teachers, who will be in the house and with the girls all of the time, are women of more than twenty years' ex-perience in church work and the school-room.

We are not expecting to make money, but to do good; hence put board and tuition at what we think will just pay expenses. We will give board, in-cluding washing, lights and everything, for $12 per month. Tuition in literary department from $2 to $4 per month. Music, instruction on piano, guitar, violin, violincello or voice culture at $3 per month, art from $2 to $3, and there are no extra charges for use of piano, guitar, etc.

Girls who attend the Malone College will be under the auspices of one of the best churches and Sunday-schools in the State of Mississippi.

Any traveling preacher of the M. E. Church, South, may send his daughter here free of any charge, except for board, $12 per month, and may send as many as two orphan girls from his charge who are not able to pay tuition, free of charge, except for board.

J. W. HONNOLL.

Holly Springs, Miss., July 20, 1893.

Notice.

To Pastors and Sunday-school Superintendents:

Brethren: We have arranged with our Publishing House to do the busi-ness of our Conference. So we ask you to make your Sunday-school or-ders for the year and, if convenient, to remit in full when you make the order. Send your order for the year and make your remittances quarterly. This will save confusion and loss of time. Fraternally,

W. D. DOMINICK,
General Colporter for Miss. Conference.

Biblical Institute.

The first annual session of the Bibli-cal Institute and Summer School for Christian Workers opened on the Sea-shore Camp Ground, Wednesday even-ing, the twenty-sixth instant, and will continue for two weeks. A choice programme has been prepared, and a large attendance is expected.

The L. and N. R. R. Co. have made a one and a one-third fare rate for the round trip, on the certificate plan, good to return on as late as Aug. 31.

Be sure to make use of this oppor-tunity to take in the feast for body, mind and soul at the Seashore.

The Modern Buddhist's Creed.

Modern Buddhists are inclined to-wards atheism. They neither assert or deny a future life, saying they will not speak definitely of that which they can not clearly see nor understand. The words of an educated Siamese prince may enable us to understand some-thing of their convictions: "When you go and travel in the desert, you must always take a bottle of water with you. If you find water in the desert, all very well; if you find none, you have your bottle of water. So it is with our creed. We should do our best. If there is no future, we have in this case, in the life, the conviction of having done no harm, and if there is a future, the good we have done will follow us in the next life. There is no creed which we attack or condemn. I can believe in Christ—I even confess that I am a great admirer of Christ. I am a great admirer of the moral principles which he inculcated. Love your ene-mies. Sacrifice your life for truth. Be gentle and tender. Avoid everything that may lead to vice. Reverence old age. Provide food and shelter for the poor and aged. Despise no man's reli-gion. Persecute no man."—E. S. Car-rington, in August Californian.

A splendid Family Bible containing old and new versions, and selling at retail by publishers for $10, free for ten subscribers with the cash.

FROM THE WORK.

Rev. H. J. Boltz, Pelican, La., July 15: "Our meeting at Pelican closed last night after being continued two weeks. Bros. Whatley and Clark were with me most of the time, and did good, faithful work for the Lord. The people were well pleased with their preaching, and the Lord was with us in great power. The meeting resulted in fifteen accessions to the church, and the church greatly revived. We are hoping and praying that the good Lord may give us a complete victory throughout the entire work."

Our agent in the field sends us this note:

G. A. R. Lawrence, Franklinton, La., July 13: "I have been here for several days, and find the people of all denom-inations kind, hospitable, and in hearty sympathy with the ADVOCATE. Bro. W. M. Sullivan, the Franklinton pastor, has been carrying on a protracted meeting at Fisher's Creek since Satur-day, the eighth instant, with great suc-cess, and which it was my privilege to attend. In the preaching he has been assisted by Bro. Wallace, of Coving-ton, La., and Bro. Brown, of Amite City, who made full proof of their ministry. The meeting was one of great power, and the result to date, many conversions and twenty-eight accessions. Your correspondent wit-nessed for the first time the immersion of several persons according to the Methodist rite, Bro. Sullivan being the administrator."

Rev. W. T. Griffin, P. C., Terry, Miss., July 20: "From our District Conference we protracted the meeting for three weeks, and have had such a revival as Terry never experienced be-fore. The Holy Ghost took charge in the beginning, and continued with us until the close, and at times such power was manifested that many shouts went up to God as in 'old times.' Terry has never enjoyed as much religion before in its history. Church revived, back-sliders reclaimed, family altars estab-lished, many converted, nineteen ac-cessions. Enough raised in cash and subscription to complete the church and paint it, and a parsonage will soon be built. We are indebted to Bros. Chambers, Cammack, Berben and Peebles, who did the preaching, the latter three remaining during the meeting. Bro. Chambers was with us two days, and started the people to giving, in which service he seems to take a de-light. We rejoice to hear many mem-bers say that 'Methodism is coming back to the old paths.'"

SAVED.

What is the soul He would save?
The being with all its powers;
The root, with the leaves and flowers;
All possible good we can crave
To this God-given life of ours.

From what would He save the soul?
From contented selfishness,
And from bleak unlovingness;
From the lower aim's control,
From the downward passion's stress.

From the hell of an exile choice,
When our eyes on his presence close;
From an earth-clogged ear that knows
No tone of His tender voice;
From a void heart's waste of woes.

He saveth thee, soul, for what?
To be born anew, as a child,
In the clear and open thought;
In the love that enrieth not;
The desires all undefiled.

To enrich thee with every gift
That His fatherly thought can plan;
From belittling sins to lift
Thee up to the angel swift,
And the stature of a man!

He saveth thee, soul, to be
As the cleansing salt and the leaven;
His mind and His will to see;
To be faithful and strong and free
In the truth, which alone is heaven.

Not to wait for the far-away,
Wrapped in Eden-dreams—but now
To become a warmth, a ray,
O Christ, of thy deathless day!
For the life of our life art thou!

About the Advocate.

From a supernumerary preacher, away off here in Kentucky, any word volunteered through the ADVOCATE respecting the straits into which it has come, financially, may be regarded as superluminous; but with strict sincerity is there the declaration that it is not to make light of a matter so important to the successors of old-time itinerant comrades that there is this offering. You will perceive the terms of this statement have been chosen, considerately; "important" is used rather than essential, for it may hardly be affirmed that any one of the journalistic enterprises of the church, that it is essential. And then, successors of "old-time itinerant comrades," rather than such as were, themselves, comrades.

The NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE was, in the days of Hamilton, Dorman, Neely, C. C. Calla way, Hutchinson, Ferguson, Ross, and their confederates, the accepted organ of the Alabama Conference, and it was in the days of the zeal of the younger of the Conference brotherhood that the lists of new subscribers, with accompanying subscription fees, passed in from Grace, Harris, Lawrence Wilson, Brandon, Shores, Tom Abernethy, Jr., Dowling, Motley, and others whose images are bright before the imagination now of the comrade of these, who is prompted, by what he reads of the statement of the reduction of price of subscription, to say: Yes! Just that is such a new departure of a practical kind as will bring the ADVOCATE, at every point, into coincidence (coincidence is preferred to co-ordination) with ministrations of the gospel, as verbally given.

McTyeire, Gillespie, Keener, Parker, Galloway and Carter! Successively these have radiated from the city, central and focal, on line of boundary to the dear old South, along the Gulf; and the fruits that have been gathered of the nurturing and ripening beams of the light thus shot forth have not turned to ashes on the lips of Zion. Let all be imagined that might be elaborated in specific statement commendatory of the men who have editorially contributed to the force whence there has been the solidarity and unblanched persistence of Southern Methodism, through the varying tribulation of her history, as she has met the severities of outward trial and inward temptation, obedient to an exceptionally singular vocation.

The NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE has gleamed, in literary distinctness, through variations of sixfold editorial unity, ornamenting the robe of the queen who has swayed the scepter of gospel affranchisement over a people every otherwise despoiled and disfranchised.

Now, let there be a rally of every individual agent in enterprise of securing to each home the weekly visit of the evangel whose wings will sparkle with rarest jewels of enriching thought, and whose entire plumage will be a-gleam with sentiment of chastening, soul-inspiring hope and helpfulness. Of course, there may be expected a painstaking putting forth of effort through the columns of the paper on the part of the brethren who allow themselves to think out for their own nurture, and relish what alone brings muscle and nerve commensurate with the task each, individually, in his turn, has appointed to him. Truth, whilst one and unifying, is, through personal phenomena, differentiated interminably; and the daring requisite to each, in witnessing on behalf of what operates wholeness and symmetry in his personal testimony to that which exacts to the ultimate, is identical with that of Him who trod the wine-press alone. The counterpart of this chivalry which meets each requirement of individuality in voicing the one wisdom, is the generousness, the humility, the genuine brotherliness which grants to each and to all others identical liberty, for where there is autocratic imperiousness, perpendicular or oblique, operative through measures of official decision or assignment, or in deploy of critical discount, verbally, or in aloofness, socially, there is, on the part of him so assuming, shortage in the matter of ingenuous coalescence with the genius of the kingdom in which servitude is the only royalty, and whereof humility comes through realization of heirship to all honor and excellence. A great deal of commendation accrues to him whose native force of intellectual and temperamental manhood is felt in defense of somewhat with which he is identified by hereditary alliance, and through partisanship for which he has signalized himself as pertinacious and pugnacious. A complacency that sublimates itself under delusion of its being assurance of faith and spirit-witness, reaches crystallization, and whilst there is a celluloid-like toughness and imperviousness in the ideal of moral manhood thus produced, excluding all misgiving as to the weaknesses which call for reprehensive pity and sympathy toward the average human endeavorer, there will creep in upon the mind, in estimate of the one so self-assured and insulate, recollection of the language of Him who is to say to a certain type of us, "I never knew you!" But verily, in compass of time, such have their reward.

A genuinely alive paper, through the columns of which there may be conference, in reciprocity of freest expression of tentative views along all speculative lines of religions and theological inquiry, as also criticism of modes and measures, prudential, in furthering the cause of the kingdom that is "in righteousness" and in ever-unfolding surprise of consistency and promised fulfilment, is a centre around which there can be a pleasing rally of the intelligent and courteous—the studious and benevolently purposeful—of the Annual Conferences engaged for its circulation; and this expression of interest for the consummation of the enlightened endeavor is prompted by both confidence and solicitude.

Does inquiry arise concerning the probable or possible benefit to the world of mind of just such special expression of apprehension and experience as differentiate the circle centred by the ADVOCATE from other circles centred by journals adapted to exigencies and ventures peculiar to them? The answer is ready: It is of the varieties which harmonize in syllabling the one word of life and liberty to those whose angle of vision is broadening to a view of the providential unity which seeming contradictions blend in the articulation of, that a genuine human fellowship, above the partisan and local, is evolved. Differences are occasion of a courtesy and kindliness that sameness would stifle, and each varying of the confession of the one human faith qualifies to nearer approximation to its perpendicular utterance those antedating it. There is a perpetual round of repetition in production of the cereals of the soil to the view of the superficial observer; yet is it true that the differentiating finger-touch of the power whence all have form and coloring is foil to monotony? Parallel with this marvel of the phenomenal is there requisite a variety in reproduction of the ever the-same, never-the-same word of law and life and liberty and love which patriarchs and prophets, poets and philosophers have been born of along the centuries, thereby empowered to yield treasures, continuously cumulative, in enrichment and empowerment, as also in unification of humanity. There is palpably in place such distinctive varying of the expression of the thought of our Zion, as arises from the environment of those in the extremest south range of our rehabilitating Southland.

JOSEPH B. COTTRELL.

Cloverport, Ky.

Administration of Discipline.

WHO IS TO BLAME?

Much has been written of late in our Conference organs in reference to the lax administration of discipline in our church. All agree that the church suffers on account of it; but there is division as to where or upon whom the blame should rest. I am not anxious that my name should appear in the papers. But the question is now prominently before our people, anonymous articles are not in order; so it has occurred to me to write an outline of my experience as a pastor, and let the readers judge whether or not I am justified in believing that the pastor who administers discipline according to past usage signs his own death warrant as a preacher.

Before I became a minister I believed in the doctrines and discipline of Methodism and loved the church with all my heart. Before I took upon me the vows of the ministry I tried to inform myself in reference to my duties. I shrank from the prospective duty of administering discipline more than anything else. My presiding elder and the brethren of the ministry with whom I was associated gave me their views, which seemed then to be according to the plain wording of the law and the teaching of the Bible. My course till about five years ago was shaped by the conviction that Methodists should live according to the principles stated in the "Sermon on the Mount" and incorporated in the Discipline, and that offenders should be either reformed or removed. I had observed outbreaking sinners who had been permitted to remain in the church, but never knew a case which did not prove disastrous to the cause of Christ in that community.

On my first circuit I found some dancers and tipplers. I persuaded all to repent and ask the forgiveness of God and the church except two young ladies who, led on by their worldly mother, forced themselves to be expelled. That trial was the beginning of a revival of religion on the circuit, and before the year closed eighty-five persons were received into the church. My presiding elder encouraged me in my course, as did all the good men and women of the church, together with the offenders, who reformed rather than be expelled.

At the next Conference I was removed to another circuit in the same district. My presiding elder informed me that he had me removed because he wanted me to deal with some refractory members who were disturbing the peace of Zion. On that circuit I found dancers, drunkards, and one who, later, was tried and found guilty of stealing. If I remember correctly, all asked forgiveness and promised reform, except two drunkards and the man accused of petty theft, who were expelled. The trials did not destroy the spirituality of the church. There was a revival at every appointment, and eighty-six were received into the church.

On my next charge I found many of the best men and women—some of the dearest friends I ever had; but, unfortunately, I also found among the membership some persons who were guilty of the grossest immorality. Here I met my first real difficulty. I appointed committee after committee of investigation; but, as several of the accused had made sundry wicked threats, my committees were afraid to act. I soon saw it was necessary for me to use all the liberty the law gave me. No charge had been filed against any of them, so I visited each one myself and persuaded them to withdraw from the church. But there were two "smart Alecks" who thought I would act like the committee I had appointed. One told me he was guilty of the charges, but for me to prove them if I could. After much loud talk on his part, he told me to take his name off the list if I wanted it off. The other told me I could do as I pleased about his name. He told all his neighbors that he told me I could do as I —— pleased. I took them both and all the others at their word and announced before the congregation on Sunday that they had withdrawn from the church. I stated particularly that this was done to save us the hard feelings that would accompany and grow out of a trial on charges they would not attempt to deny. Soon the change for good was apparent, the good people joined the presiding elder in approval of my course; but I am sorry to say one of my brethren in the ministry began to meddle, and though I explained to him, and though he knew the true state of affairs, he persisted in using the version of the wrong-doers and "Mrs. Grundys," and actually went so far as to ride around among the members and endeavored to generate dissatisfaction.

At the first Quarterly Conference the presiding elder stated that the circuit made a better showing, after the pruning, both spiritually and financially, than it ever had done since he knew anything about it. He is still alive, and will say it again if it becomes necessary.

At the close of my second year on that charge I was ordained elder, and located to continue my studies. While I was local a company of young preachers and preachers' sons of my acquaintance visited a neighboring Annual Conference. They related in my presence the following incident which occurred there:

A presiding elder was making his report. He stated, with evident satisfaction, that there was a disposition among the preachers of his district to use the pruning knife—that several unworthy members had been expelled—that the church had been benefited by such expulsion, etc. These statements displeased the Bishop, and he expressed himself rather forcibly. In his talk he said a member should never be expelled from the church, or words to that effect. The question naturally arises, What can a preacher hope for from that Bishop if in doing his duty he should incur the displeasure of a rake who should report him for maladministration, the specification being that he, the rake, had been expelled from the church?

I rejoined the Conference a year after I located, received a new appointment, and was under (to me) a new presiding elder. Among the membership of that charge I found one saloon keeper. He was a reasonable man and frankly admitted that he was wrong, but that he would not quit the business till he had made more money. I visited his family as long as I remained on the charge, but he remained in the church only a few days after I became acquainted with him. That was the only case I had on the charge; but every one knew my sentiments. I did not bring persons before a church court for fun, but I did not take upon me the vows of the ministry for fun either.

A Bishop presided at our District Conference, which was held late in the Spring. Somebody misinformed him in reference to my observance of discipline on the noted charge more than two years previous. Without trying to inform himself as to my methods or the characters I had to deal with, he began the delivery of a philippic. Had I been tried and found guilty of maladministration, he could not have reprimanded me more severely. He denounced me in the most caustic terms for having such a misconception of the Discipline as to believe it authorized me to (I quote his words) "expel a little girl because she persisted in shaking her foot a little." As soon as he had exhausted his vocabulary and breath I tried to tell him that he was mistaken; that very few dancers had been driven out; that the majority had been guilty of lewdness and drunkenness. Most of the preachers present were acquainted with the facts in the case, and one, in an undertone, encouraged me to stand my ground. The Bishop saw and heard, and quickly admitted if the people had been guilty of such crimes I should not have done otherwise than as I had done. He spoke the words rapidly without emphasis, and without an expression of regret for his unkind speech. He deprived me of the privilege of making a full defense by calling for the report of another preacher. Soon afterwards I was convinced that a part of the powers that be were determined to teach the people that had moral character would not disqualify anyone for membership in the M. E. Church, South. The two "smart Alecks" I have mentioned were received back into the church without reassuming the vows and without even being present when their names were proposed. The pastor, in cold blood, announced to the congregation that the men were illegally deprived of membership by me, and had his men picked to move and second, etc., that they be received back into the church. That was done on the same charge where seven Quarterly Conferences were held during my pastorate after these men had withdrawn, and they never once denied that they gave me the privilege of announcing them withdrawn from the church. It was done in the very building where another presiding elder, during my pastorate two or three years before, announced to the congregation that he sustained me and that the entire District Conference approved my course. He made that statement because he heard there was an impression that he did not sustain me. He, therefore, carefully corrected the impression. What intensified the moral turpitude of the act was the fact that that preacher's presiding elder was in the building at the time looking on. I was informed that he advised the pastor to do the iniquity, and, of course, reported, "Nothing against him, Bishop," at the next Annual Conference. That caused me to decide to hold no more church trials, to enforce no more discipline till I knew the Bishop and presiding elders are so much in favor of enforcing the law, as it is written in the Discipline that they will sustain the man who faithfully performs that very unpleasant work, instead of treating him as if he were a criminal.

For some months our papers have contained articles on this subject. Some saying the faithful preacher was punished for his pains; others vigorously denying it.

The foregoing is a brief outline of my experience. I could have stated many interesting particulars. I can prove everything I have written and much more. I have used no names, but can do so should it become necessary.

If a Bishop reprimands a preacher for administering discipline, using among a torrent of words such as "crank," "hobby-rider," etc., and the presiding elder follows up the preacher and advises the re-instatement, regardless of their moral character, of those expelled, or otherwise gotten rid of, is it surprising that the administration of discipline is neglected?

JAMES HEALEY.

Santa Ana, Cal., July 4.

Our Indian Mission.

I have read with interest the communication of Bro. Miller on this subject; and while I have no authority to say the money subscribed to send Bro. Tubby to Millsaps College shall be applied as he suggests, I am perfectly willing that my own subscription shall go that way, and sincerely hope the other subscribers will also consent. After some experience and a more extended observation in mission work, it is not my opinion that the best interest is conserved by educating native helpers away from their own people and the work they are expected to do. It is an easy matter to educate them so far above their own people, and of the self-sacrificing labors they must perform and endure, as to drive them out of the work and into a more remunerative place.

Then, too, I like that colonization idea. I was profoundly convinced while in Mexico that this was the surest way to final and permanent success in that country, and was preparing to present my plans to the Board of Missions when, by overwork, my health gave way, and I had to quit the field. And as the existing conditions of the poor people of Mexico are very much the same as those of the Choctaws of Mississippi, I can see no reason why the plan should not be a good one for them. In my opinion it is an easy and satisfactory solution of the questions of stability and of self-support in their church relations.

As to the week of self-denial, I do not know so much about that. Fact is, every dollar I put into the treasury of the Lord is the piece of some self-denial, and somehow giving never helps me much until I have given until it hurts me to give. One of my stewards said to me after Conference, "If you will not pay so much this year, I will increase my own subscriptions to the collections ordered by the Conference." I told him I would be glad to see him increase his subscription, but that neither he nor any other person should take from me my crown. I wish I had the money to buy that land and give it to the church for the Choctaws. The resurrection morning would be made brighter and more glorious to me as I watched the bodies of the blood-washed Indians coming up out of the land my money had purchased and given to the Lord as a means of their salvation. As I can not give it all, I will do what I can, and give my ten dollars. Who next?

J. M. WEEMS.

Brookhaven, Miss.

Reduce the Price to $1.

In the ADVOCATE, of July 6, there is "an open letter to the Publishing Committee of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE," by Bro. L. Carley, which impressed this scribe as well as others in his charge. There is just one point I desire to call attention to in Bro. Carley's letter, and then will give my experience in soliciting subscriptions to the ADVOCATE.

Bro. Carley truthfully states that the ADVOCATE is not reaching the great masses of the people for whom it is designed, and that no smaller number than thirty-five or forty thousand copies will do this. He then asks the question, "Can the ADVOCATE be made a success?" and adds, "I believe it can. How? By putting the price down to $1 a year."

That these statements are true no one dares to deny. I agree with Bro. Carley that the ADVOCATE would reach numbers of people at $1 per annum whom it does not and never will reach at $2. For people will not pay $2 for the ADVOCATE when they can get secular papers just as large for $1—that is, a goodly number of people will not do so. But every question has two sides to it, and it is the other side I propose to call attention to.

Now, I have in my charge about one hundred members, and only four (I believe) ADVOCATES (i. e., N. O.) taken, and only two of my stewards take it. I have insisted on them to subscribe, but have failed so far. Like Bro. Carley, "I may not be a good agent. The most serious hindrance in my way is the price." But "the two-dollar men" on my charge have not all subscribed, and won't do it. One I have in mind just now does not take a religious paper of any kind, and yet there are three weeklies and two monthly secular papers that come into his house regularly. Such cases as this brethren show the inconsistency that is in some of our people. Very frequently where we find a church member who is too poor to pay $2 for his ADVOCATE, you will learn (by inquiring of him what papers he takes) that there are two or three weekly or monthly secular papers come to his office in his name.

The day has come, and now is, when our people must be willing to pay as much or more for their religion as for other things. With some of our people it doesn't matter how high coffee or tobacco goes, they are going to have it; but, oh, why don't they reduce the price of the ADVOCATE? some will say when you ask them to subscribe. Brethren, let us be careful that we do not practice inconsistency by paying more for tobacco and coffee, etc., than we do for the cause of Christ in circulating religious literature and otherwise. Yes, my people, too, perish for lack of knowledge which the ADVOCATE could supply, and I need its help in many ways. I shall not say how much I have received for my support this year. Glad to know, however, that Bro. Carley is not in the same financial situation I am in. The ADVOCATE could supply the knowledge which my people need; but so many will not take it at $1 even. I have tried this plan.

While Bro. Mitchel had charge of the publishing department of the ADVOCATE, he wrote to me in regard to getting those subscribers on my charge whose subscriptions had expired to renew, and if I found anyone among my people who were really too poor to pay $2 for the paper, he would send it to such for $1. I tried this among the poor class of my people, but, to use the expression, "It would not work worth a cent." Some say they can't pay a dollar for it, and one good sister, to whom I made the offer, said her folks didn't want it; they would never read if they would take it, but I must come around and tell them the news. She was so sorry to hear of Bro. T. Y. Armstrong's death, and he had been dead a month then. But if she had been taking the ADVOCATE, and would read it, she would have heard about it before I told her.

Yes, my people perish for lack of knowledge, and they are to blame to a great extent; and if they go on as they have since I have had charge of this circuit, it will only be a question of time when it will be said of them as the Savior said of Jerusalem, "How oft would I have gathered thy children . . . but ye would not," etc. They have had the opportunities offered them, but they will not accept.

Now, I am in favor of reducing the price of the ADVOCATE to one dollar per year; but I am also in favor of people being consistent in religious matters as well as in worldly matters. "Consistency, thou art, indeed, a jewel." F. B. ORMOND.

Why Not, Miss.

Holly Springs District.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON PERIODICALS.

Your committee beg leave to report on the circulation of our church periodicals in a general way, as follows:

We recognize as a self-evident fact that the religious welfare of every Methodist family depends largely upon the character of literature it receives and reads. And particularly must it be supplied more abundantly with religious than secular literature. As the interest of every professing Christian in the institutions of the church is measured by the church periodicals he reads. The plea of hard times works the greatest hardships upon our church literature.

In this district there is about one CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE taken to every fourteen church members. These fourteen members represent about five families. We then have an ADVOCATE to every fifth family. Of course, we hear a lamentable cry from almost every charge of the lack of information on church institutions, especially on mission work. Our people in the rural districts know almost nothing of our foreign mission work. We have gone one-half the way towards meeting the responsibilities of giving our people the necessary information in order to utilizing and developing the talents and strength of the church and maintaining its integrity and loyalty to its original missionary spirit. Our rural districts are as strong financially as our towns and cities; but for the lack of information and training in systematic giving, contribute only about one-half as much proportionately to their ability. Only eight copies of the Missionary Reporter are taken in the district. Three charges do and nine do not distribute the tracts and leaflets sent out by the Board of Missions.

Our humble judgment is, that our periodicals must be made cheaper. The reasonable claim by the publishers that they are worth their cost will neither answer the cry for cheaper literature or put a paper into the hands of all our people. Our secular papers are cheap, within reach of almost every family, and the people having them will not pay more in getting a religious paper. Some will not, the majority can not. In view of these considerations, and pledging our every effort to introduce our church papers and missionary literature into every Methodist family, we submit the following:

We respectfully request our Annual Conference to memorialize the General Conference:

First. To authorize the Book Committee to publish the Nashville Christian Advocate at one dollar per annum to all subscribers, giving no commission to agents.

Second. To order all subscriptions of the Advocate to run out with the end of the year.

Third. To authorize the establishment of an Advocate endowment fund for putting the paper into every appreciative family in the church not otherwise provided for.

Fourth. To authorize the Board of Missions to publish the missionary literature free, to be distributed through the pastors to every family of the church, either as the Reporter or as a supplement to the Nashville Christian Advocate.

Resolutions were passed endorsing and commending the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, and also the Memphis Christian Advocate.

J. H. SHUMAKER,
O. N. KOON,
PRYOR CASEY,
Committee.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL LESSON.—July 30, 1893.

PREPARED BY REV. A. F. WATKINS.

Paul at Ephesus.

(Acts xix, 1-12.)

GOLDEN TEXT.—"When he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth." (John xvi, 13.)

TOPICAL OUTLINE.—I. The Holy Ghost Declared (vs. 1-5). II. The Descent of the Holy Ghost (vs. 6 and 7). III. Disputing and Persuading (vs. 8-10). IV. Miraculous Gifts (vs. 11 and 12).

CENTRAL THOUGHT.—The Holy Ghost.

HOME READINGS.

Sunday (July 23)—Paul at Ephesus. (Acts xix, 1-12.)
Monday—Jewish Exorcists. (Acts xix, 13-20.)
Tuesday—Paul Persecuted. (Acts xix, 21-29.)
Wednesday—Paul Preserved. (Acts xix, 30-41.)
Thursday—The Baptism of John. (Mark i, 1-8.)
Friday—The Spirit of Christ. (John xiv, 15-26.)
Saturday—The Gifts of the Spirit. (I. Cor. xii, 1-11.)

INTRODUCTORY.

After a year and a half of quiet, but faithful and successful work, Paul is made to feel again the hostility of his countrymen by being brought before Gallio, the newly arrived Roman deputy, on the charge of interfering with their religious customs. The pro-consul contemptuously drove them from the judgment-seat, and even allowed the Gentile spectators, who reproved, to show their hatred for the Jews by beating the ruler of the synagogue before the judgment-seat. The conduct of the pro-consul secured the missionaries from further interruption, and "for yet a good while" Paul continued his labors in Corinth, where, in addition to his public ministry, he wrote his first and second Epistles to the Thessalonians. Upon leaving Corinth, Paul, accompanied by Aquila and Priscilla, sailed across the Ægean Sea to Ephesus, the principal city of Lydia. Here, staying only long enough to preach, he set sail again for Cæsarea, and after a hurried visit to Jerusalem returned to Antioch after an absence of two years. Not long did he remain there, however, for his restless spirit hurried him away upon his third missionary journey. Attended by four or five companions, he visited Galatia and Pamphilia, and "having passed through the upper coasts," came again to Ephesus, as he had promised. (Acts xix, 22.) Here, in the meanwhile, had been laboring Apollos, an eloquent Alexandrian Jew, who, after zealously and effectually preaching the truth as far as he knew it, had gone to Corinth, bearing letters of introduction from the Ephesian brethren. The fact that Apollos had been instructed by Aquila and Priscilla made him in a certain sense a disciple of Paul, and renders probable the idea that there was any rivalry between him and the great apostle to the Gentiles. Whatever the spirit of faction that manifested itself under the cover of his name, it seems to have found no favor from him, and in fact there seems to have been a loyal recognition of the authority of Paul, while Paul, on his part, seems to look upon Apollos as a beloved fellow-laborer.

EXPLANATORY.

I.—THE HOLY GHOST DECLARED.

Ver. 1. Upon resuming his work in Ephesus, Paul finds "certain disciples" whom he probably noticed the lack of those characteristics which evidence the presence of the Holy Ghost in the heart of the true believer in Christ. We are not to infer that these half-taught disciples were the only Christians in Ephesus; but simply that from some cause or other these had not been fully instructed in the faith. It is significant that these brethren are described as having about the same degree of spiritual enlightenment as the eloquent and zealous Apollos; but it does not necessarily follow that they were his converts. On the contrary, they would, in that case, probably share with him the enlightenment which he received from Aquila and Priscilla. They were probably contacted by other disciples of John the Baptist, who could teach them no more than they themselves knew.

Ver. 2. The question of the apostle implies that the reception of the Holy Ghost is the privilege and uniform experience of all who by faith accept Christ, and the absence of the distinctively Christian character and life in these disciples excites wonder and causes the question. Their answer does not indicate that they were ignorant of the existence of the Holy Ghost, for, as disciples of the Baptist, they must have known this truth. Their thought is that they did not know that this promise of the Father had been fulfilled and that the Holy Ghost had been bestowed on believers. They knew only repentance for sin and a promise of the Spirit.

Ver. 3. Their answer increases the astonishment of the apostle. They were disciples, and had evidently been baptized, yet they were untaught. Hence the question: "Unto what then were you baptized?" The reply to this question explains the difficulty, and the apostle is able to supply that which was lacking in their spiritual understanding.

Ver. 4. This verse contains the synopsis of his instruction to them. John's cry was: "Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." The burden of John's preaching was repentance toward God and faith in a Savior who was about to be revealed. This Savior has been revealed in Jesus, and all men are to accept him, and in accepting him to be baptized with the Holy Ghost.

Ver. 5. The former baptism was preparatory; it was not Christian baptism; but under Paul's instruction, which they willingly and candidly received, they were baptized again, this time "in" or "into" "the name of the Lord Jesus."

II.—THE DESCENT OF THE HOLY GHOST.

Ver. 6. Under such influences—the broadening of their knowledge, the deepening of their faith, the quickening of their love—they were prepared for their new experience, and as Paul laid his hands upon them the Holy Ghost came upon them, and witnessing his presence were the spiritual gifts, which were needed and given in that period of the church's history. They needed not now to be told that the Holy Ghost had been given, for he was in their hearts his own witness.

Ver. 7. No significance is to be attached to the number of these disciples. The text says, "about twelve." "Luke did not know, had not been told or did not remember the precise number." (Lindsey). The fanciful ideas that clustered around the number—twelve—have no value.

III.—DISPUTING AND PERSUADING.

Ver. 8. The Revised Version has "reasoning" and persuading. It was not a rancorous dispute with individuals, but an argumentative discourse, a marshalling of the facts of prophecy and history to prove the Messiahship of Jesus, and the effect was to persuade them that these things were so. To the synagogue Paul always went first of all, and to his countrymen "boldly spake" "concerning the kingdom of God." In some respects it required more boldness to preach Christ to the Jew than to the Greek; to the latter it was indeed foolishness, but to the former it was peculiarly offensive, and Paul's love for his countrymen is shown by his always preaching to the Jew first.

Ver. 9. Unbelief had checked the Master's work at Nazareth, and now it interposes an effectual barrier to the work of the apostle at Ephesus. That it was wilful and culpable is evident. Unbelief comes from disobedience, and its moral element is found in the unwillingness to yield to the conditions of salvation. The hostility of the unbelieving Jews is seen in their speaking evil of "the way." The gospel points the path for us to tread. It is not a body of truth merely, but it is a guide for practice. "Discipleship is manifested in conduct. The gospel points the way through the wilderness to Zion and to rest." (Alexander McLaren.) Paul's life was at the service of those who would hear his message; but he had not one moment to waste upon the incorrigibly wicked. Accordingly, he separates his "persuaded" ones from the obdurate, and now, not upon the Sabbath days only, but daily he pleads the cause of his Master in the school of Tyrannus. This Tyrannus, we may suppose, was a Gentile and a teacher of rhetoric or philosophy, and had become a convert to Christianity.

Ver. 10. These two years were in addition to the three months of verse 8. What time may have elapsed before verse 8 and what followed after this verse we can not tell; but it was probably considerable, for Paul speaks (in Acts xx, 31) of having labored among them three years. The word "Asia" in this verse is to be understood to mean the western part of Asia Minor—the proconsular district of Asia—of which Ephesus was the capital and principal city.

IV.—MIRACULOUS GIFTS.

Ver. 11. Ephesus was not more famous for its wealth than for the extent to which magic and witchcraft were practiced, and, doubtless, the special, extraordinary miracles worked by the hands of Paul were intended to impress this wonder-loving people. These "powers" were exercised by God through his servant without the immediate presence of Paul, and possibly without knowledge. Their character is indicated in the next verse, and reminds us of the mysterious virtue that went out of Jesus when the woman touched the hem of his garment. In this case the miracle followed the exercise of faith upon the part of the sufferer without the direct agency of the apostle.

Ver. 12. The handkerchiefs and aprons was such as had been used by Paul, and had been in contact with his body. The distinction between "diseases" and evil spirits is made here, as elsewhere, and is not to be overlooked, though both were subject to the mysterious power given by God to the apostle.

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

1. The baptism of the Holy Ghost and his continual presence and power are promised to every true believer in Christ. (Verse 2).

2. Sincere repentance and unfeigned faith are acceptable to God, even though mixed with ignorance. (Verse 2).

3. Many a church member stops short of a personal faith in Christ Jesus. (Verse 3).

4. It is as necessary to enlighten and develop believers as to induce them to join the church. (Verse 4).

5. A willingness to learn is the condition of spiritual enlightenment. (Verse 5).

6. Christianity admits of logical statement. It stands argument. The more carefully and rationally people discuss it the more likely are they to become convinced of its truth. (Ver. 8.)

7. A man is responsible not only for acting in accordance with his belief, but also for not believing as he ought. The basis of unbelief is a rebellious will, and hence it is culpable. (Verse 9.)

8. Special powers are given as they are needed. A complete equipment is promised to every Christian. We need no more and our faith should claim no less. (Verse 11).

9. Personal influence exerts its power without the presence, and even without the knowledge, of him from whom it emanates. (Verse 12).

The Price of Subscription.

The letter of Bro. L. Carley, in ADVOCATE of the sixth instant, provokes this communication. Bro. Carley says: "Recent occurrences in connection with the ADVOCATE have saddened many hearts." "The publisher failed, and the editor, after working most of this year for nothing, resigned."

Now, I ask this question. Why has Bro. Mitchel failed, and why has Dr. Carter resigned? I will answer: Back of all this is a failure that should "sadden many hearts." It saddens my poor heart, for I love the ADVOCATE and I love the ex-editor and publisher. I speak of the failure of the ministry of the Louisiana and the two Mississippi Conferences to do their duty as agents for their Conference organ. Two years ago we had it in our power to put our paper on "a solid financial basis;" but we failed to do our duty, and now many hearts are saddened. I shall not prophesy as to the success or failure of the present management. You have my prayers and best wishes. And if I can be of any advantage, you may always command me; but there is one thing I want to protest against, and that is a reduction of the price of the ADVOCATE. Keep the price at $2; but give us a two-dollar paper. Seven thousand subscribers at $2 is equal to 14,000 at $1; and then you have to pay extra for 7 000 of the paper and the mechanical labor of printing the 7 000 additional copies.

No, Bro. Beard; you may put the paper down to fifty cents a year, and I will admit that there will be a spasmodic effort on the part of some who have not done their duty before, but only a spasmodic effort, unless by some means or other you might rivet conviction on their mind and conscience, that they are to blame in great measure for the present condition of affairs, and that the success or failure of the paper in the future depends largely on their efforts, not only to extend the circulation, but to see that there be no delinquents in the bounds of their respective charges. I think you did right in putting down the price to 50 cents for the next six months, and I signed a resolution at our recent District Conference to that effect; but do not, I beseech, lower the price permanently. I think just at this time it would be in order for all who are responsible for "saddening" so "many hearts" to make an honest confession, and to say (not in word, but in deed) the paper shall be sustained. I wish to say just here in closing I have no confession to make.

B. F. PHILLIPS.

Booneville, Miss.

Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer is unquestionably the best preservative of the hair. It is also curative of dandruff, tetter, and all scalp affections.

Centenary and Our Boys.

Within the next few weeks many Louisiana boys will decide where they are to attend school next session. Remember that Centenary College, at Jackson, La., by virtue of past work and present equipments, holds a sure place among the leading colleges of the South. For your information I here give a complete list of all your necessary expenses for an entire session of ten months at Centenary.

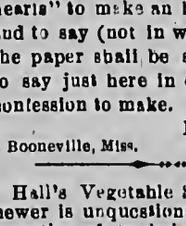
Board	$ 90 00
Admission Fee	30 00
Washing	12 00
Fuel, lights	8 00
Total	$140 00

Preachers and laymen of Louisiana, we can send two hundred boys to Centenary this coming session. For the sake of the boys, will we do it? May it be so! W. J. ROBERTS.

Slaughter, La., July 17, 1893.

Blood Poisoning

Mrs. Mary E. O'Fallon, a very intelligent nurse of Piqua, Ohio, was poisoned while assisting physicians at an autopsy 5 years ago, and soon terrible ulcers broke out on her head, arms, tongue and throat. Her hair all came out. She weighed but 78 lbs., and saw no prospect of help. At last she began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and at once improved; could soon get out of bed and walk. She says, "I was cured by



Mrs. M. E. O'Fallon.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

and am now a well woman. I weigh 128 lbs., eat well and do the work for a large family. My case seems a wonderful recovery and physicians look at me in astonishment, as almost like one raised from the dead."

HOOD'S PILLS cure liver ills, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, sick headache, indigestion.

FOR SALE.

A new Magic Lantern, about sixty views, Bible views and pictures of the Holy Land. Canvas and everything in perfect order. Will sell cheap. Address

MRS. L. W. WOOD,
207 S. Wall St., Natchez, Miss.

ANGELL'S

HOMŒOPATHIC PHARMACY,

153 and 155 JULIA ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Richard Angell, M. D., Proprietor.

DEALER IN

Homœopathic Medicines, Book and All Other Articles used in Homœopathic Practice.

Try Angell's Celebrated Whooping Cough Syrup.

North Mississippi Conference Colportage and Sunday-School Agency

KOSCIUSKO, MISS.

Any Good Book Furnished at Publisher's Prices.

A specialty is made of the Books, Periodicals and Sunday-school Supplies of our church, which are furnished at Publishing House prices exactly.

Bibles and Testaments, All Styles and Sizes, Are a Particular Feature of the Work.

Our House requests that all the business of this Conference be transacted through this office.

All orders for books or papers promptly filled, and all pertinent questions concerning good literature and our Sunday-school interests will be readily answered.

G. W. BACHMAN,
Colporter and Sunday-school Agent.

WALL PAPER.

The Spring patterns of Wall Paper are handsomer than ever before, and we are able to offer them to you at prices which are within the reach of all. We believe that anyone buying cheap paper will do better to invest 10, 12½ or 15 cents and buy a gilt paper or a fine blank for the small difference than to invest 5 cents in a cheap blank; but if you want the 5-cents paper, we have it and will be glad to sell it.

MATTINGS.

In novel and dainty designs, which can not be had elsewhere, as we control our own private patterns. Prices from $5 per roll of 40 yrds, and up

LACE CURTAINS,

Rugs, Screens, Easels, Oil Cloth, Window Shades and Upholstering Goods.

ESTIMATES

Given for papering in the country under the direction of our foreman and with our own experienced corps of men.

Heath, Schwartz & Co., Lim.,

116 Camp Street, New Orleans.

FINE WRITING MATERIAL

BOX PAPER.

(Each box has one quire of Paper, with Envelopes to match.)

"Gilt Edge Paper," 25c; by mail, 34c.
"Old Saxon Mills" (Ivorine finish), 25c; mail, 35c
"Latest Style Court Mourning," 40c; by mail, 50c
"Antique Linen," 15c; by mail, 24c.
World's Fair "Cuckoo," 10c; by mail, 17c.

TABLETS.

(Ruled or Plain.)

"Pompeii Parchment," 35c; by mail, 43c.
"Aeme Linen," 35c; by mail, 43c.
"Westchester Linen," 20c; by mail, 28c.
"Cotton Fiber," 10c; by mail, 15c.
The Favorite Blotter Writing Tablet, 10c; by mail, 17c.

COMMERCIAL NOTE.

½ Ream Richmond Mills (White-wove, ruled), 25c; by mail, 45c.

Send cash (stamps taken) with all orders to

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp Street, - New Orleans, La.

WANTED.

An A. M. graduate, having twenty years' successful experience in managing large institutions of learning, wants to lease desirable school or college property. Parties interested please address

"COLLEGE PRESIDENT,"
Care of ADVOCATE.

Advertising in England, European Continent, Etc.

SELL'S

ADVERTISING AGENCY, Limited.

Capital, $250,000. Henry Sell, Manager (editor and founder of "Sell's World's Press").

Full particulars regarding British or European Advertising, sample papers, rates, etc., at the London Office, 167-168 Fleet street, or at New York Office, 21 Park Row, Ground Floor.

Kursheedt's Marble Works

120 and 122 Camp St., New Orleans

$525 Agent's profits per month. Will prove it or pay forfeit. New Articles just out. A $1.50 sample and terms free. Try us. Chidester & Son, 27 Bond St., New York City.

When answering advertisements please mention the Advocate

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

GREAT FAST MAIL ROUTE.

Four Daily Trains between NEW ORLEANS and CHICAGO.

The Only Line running Pullman Buffet Sleepers and Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes.

FREE RECLINING CHAIR CARS TO CHICAGO.

St. Louis Without Change.

The Only Line running a Double Daily Train Service to

ST. LOUIS.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS FROM NEW ORLEANS TO Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York

The great Steel Bridge, spanning the Ohio River at Cairo, completed, and all trains (freight and passenger) now running regularly over it, thus avoiding the delays and annoyances incident to transfer by ferry boat.

TICKET OFFICE: Corner St. Charles and Common Streets.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.
A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

THE WORLD'S FAIR

And American Railways.

THE QUEEN & CRESCENT ROUTE, widely known as the road running the "Finest Trains in the South," is in the field to carry everybody from the South to the World's Fair at Chicago. No part of the Southern country is left uncared for by this great railway and its connections. The Through Car System is an admirable exposition of the wonderful capabilities of American railroading. From New Orleans Through Sleeping Cars run daily, morning and evening, carrying its passengers via Cincinnati or Louisville, as they may select.

From Shreveport, Vicksburg and Jackson another Through Sleeping Car Line comes to join and become a part of the magnificent Vestibuled Through Trains, which passing through Birmingham and the famous Wills Valley of Alabama, is joined at Chattanooga by the train from Jacksonville, Fla., Brunswick, and Atlanta, Ga., over the E. T. V. & Ga. Ry., and proceeds north over the beautiful Cincinnati Southern, through the grandest natural scenery and most attractive historical country in the world, to Oakdale, where another magnificent Pullman car is received, coming from the Richmond & Danville System from Charleston, S. C., through Columbia, S. C., the beautiful French Broad country, and Ashville, N. C., and Knoxville, Tenn.

The time to Chicago is made so as to afford the most convenient hours for departures from the principal cities, and arrivals in Chicago.

Passengers can purchase tickets good over one line north of the River, and returning via another if they desire a variable route without extra charge. Or they can go via Cincinnati, returning via Louisville, or vice versa.

Round-trip tickets on sale at reduced rates. Agents of the Chicago line will on request assist in looking up rooms or accommodation for visitors to the Fair.

Everything that an almost perfect system can devise to deserve the praise and patronage of the traveling public has been provided. Any of the agents of the company named below, will cheerfully give all possible information and assistance. R. H. GARRATT, New Orleans, La.; I. HARDY, Vicksburg, Miss.; J. R. McGREGOR, Birmingham, Ala.; E. T. CHARLTON, Chattanooga, Tenn.; W. D COZATT, Junction City, Ky., or D. G. EDWARDS, Cincinnati, O.

Yazoo and Mississippi Valley RAILROAD COMPANY.

All trains arrive and depart from new Passenger Station, cor. Howard Ave. and Rampart St.

	Leaves.	Arrives
Kansas City and Memphis Fast Train	5:00 p. m	8:35 a. m
Vicksburg & Natchez Ex.	7:55 a. m	6:55 p. m
Bat. Rouge "Coast Train."	5:40 p. m	10:00 a. m

The Only Line running Old Trains between New Orleans, Memphis and Vicksburg, with Modern Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars through to Memphis and Kansas City.

The direct and favorite route to Kansas City, Denver, and All Points West.

The short line to Hot Springs and points in Arkansas and North Louisiana.

Commutation Tickets, Mileage Books, Party Rates and Week End Excursions.

Summer Excursion Tickets on Sale in season.

Ticket Office: St. Charles St., cor. Common.

JAMES DINKINS, Div. Pass. Agt.
J. W. COLEMAN, A. G. P. A.
A. H. HANSON G. P. A.

CLARK & MEADER,

16 and 18 CARONDELET ST.

BRANCH STORE:

Cor. ST. CHARLES and NAPOLEON Avenues,

NEW ORLEANS.

Stuffed Olives in Oil; Boneless Anchovies in Oil; Boneless Anchovies in Salt; French Crescent Olives; Mammoth Queen Olives; Cepes au Naturel; Mushroom Powder; Bijou Cans of Aiguettes; Thon a huile; Pure uf Fois Gras; Saucisses Truffe; Pure of Sardines; Truffled Sardines; New Maple Syrup in Quart bottles, 1 Gallon and ½ Gallon Cans; Maple Sugar in 1-pound cakes; Franco-American Game Pates, such as Wild Duck, Grouse, Partridge, Pheasant, Chicken, Chicken Liver, Woodcock; Entrees—Chicken Curry a la Indienne. Chicken Sante a fa Marengo; Calves' Tongues with Tomato Sauce; Veal and Green Peas; Calves' Tongue, sauce Piquant; Braised Beef a la Jardeniere; Ross' Belfast Ginger Ale, Sarsaparilla, Club Soda, and Raspberry Vinegar; Potoma's Roe Herring; Clysmic Water; Smoked Beef; Small Whole Boneless Cooked Hams in cans; Whole Boiled Beef Tongues in cans; Wheatena; Pettijohn's California Breakfast Food; Schumacher's Rolled Wheat and Avena; Cerealine Flakes; Mott's Pure Sparkling Sweet and Crab Apple Cider; Large Smoked Beef Tongue.

J. C. MORRIS CO., Limited.

40, 42 and 44 Tchoupitoulas Street.

E. F. DYER, Pres. E. P. MACKIE, Treas

WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

Refrigerators, Freezers, Water Coolers, Fishing Tackle, Seines, Oars, Hammocks, Croquet, Baseballs, Baskets, Brooms, Brushes, Fruit Jars, Bottles, Flasks, Demijohns, Rope, Twine, Axle Grease, Wrapping Paper, Bags, Stationery, Cheese Safes, Cages, Scales, Tacks, Chimneys, Lamps, Tinware, Blacking, Woodenware, Cutlery, Clocks, etc.

W. W. CARRE,

LUMBER MERCHANT

AND MANUFACTURER OF

PLANTATION CABINS, STORES, Etc.

Nos. 542, 544, 546 and 548 Howard Ave.,

NEW BASIN. NEW ORLEANS

GUARANTEED CURE

OR NO PAY.

Nothing Fairer Than This.

When we say cure, we do not mean simply to stop it for the time being, but a

PERMANENT AND POSITIVE CURE

For Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Impure Blood, and all diseases arising from a disordered Liver. Write for Treatise, Testimonials, and Free Sample Bottle of

DR. ROC'S LIVER, RHEUMATIC and NEURALGIA CURE to

CULLEN & NEWMAN,

182 GAY ST., Knoxville, Tenn.

POSITIONS GUARANTEED Guarantee in Writing. Send for free catalogue of DRAUGHON'S Consolidated Practical Business College, Nashville, Tenn. Cheap Board. No vacation. MENTION THIS PAPER.

Shorthand in a Vest Pocket.

DR. LAFFERTY, the Stenographer to the Virginia Senate, has given the CONGRESSIONAL SYSTEM OF SHORTHAND in a series of simple, witty, chatty talks; each illustrated. You learn it while you laugh. 65 pages. Price 50 cents. Address him, Richmond, Va.

8% GUARANTEED by a leading Trust Company is offered at par. Suitable for large and small investments. Full information furnished by W. E. LOWN, Mills Building, New York.

SOME MUSIC BOOKS

"FRIEND FRITZ" Gems. A collection of some of the most pleasing vocal numbers from this charming little musical sketch. Price 25 cents. "SONGS OF THE ASSEMBLY" by Geo. F. Root and C. C. Case. A superior collection of music especially adapted for use in Musical Conventions, Singing Classes etc. A host of splendid choruses. Price 50 cts. "PRACTICAL ANTHEMS" Vol 3. As its name indicates, this book contains thoroughly practical anthems, adapted to the use of average choirs. Price $1.00. "GOSPEL HYMNS" Nos 5 and 6 Combined, Excelsior Edition. A small type edition of the words and music of this latest volume in the Gospel Hymns series. Be sure to specify Excelsior Edition in ordering. Boards 50 cents, limp cloth 35 cts. "THE FESTIVAL CHOIR". The latest chorus book by H. R. Palmer. Replete with everything in the way of desirable choruses for all occasions. Price 60 cts. "THE MUSICAL VISITOR", a monthly magazine of musical literature, with anthems for the choir and volunteries for organists. $1.50 per year, special terms to clubs of five or more. Sample copy 10 cents.

—PUBLISHED BY—

THE JOHN CHURCH CO.,

CINCINNATI, - - NEW YORK, - - CHICAGO

Thousands of miles in use. Catalogue FREE. Freight Paid. McMULLEN WOVEN WIRE FENCE CO., CHICAGO, ILL.

Established 1857.

The Great CHURCH LIGHT

Frink's Patent Reflectors for Gas, Oil, or Electric give the most powerful, softest, cheapest, and best light known for Churches, Stores, Banks, Theatres, Depots, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room, for circular & estimate. A liberal discount to churches & the trade. Don't be deceived by cheap imitations. I. P. FRINK, 551 Pearl St., N.Y.

A NEW UNIQUE and VALUABLE Historical Chart of Christianity from the Apostolic Period through the Reformation has been prepared by REV. M. LOUCKS, D.D. of Dayton, Ohio. For particulars address postal to him and receive circulars free,

REV. M. LOUCKS, D. D, Dayton, Ohio.

CHURCH SCHOOL FURNITURE

Before purchasing any PEWS, PULPITS or any other Furniture, write Wm. H. Morrow, No. 8 Nodle Bl'k, Nashville, Tenn., FOR Catalogue.

WHY PAY DEALER'S PROFIT?

TRIAL FREE.

$2.75 buys a $9 White Reed Baby Carriage, freight prepaid, shipped on 30 days' trial. Latest design and style. Perfect, reliable and finely finished. Nothing but the best material used and warranted for 3 YEARS. We have been in the manufacturing business many years, and are reliable and responsible; make and sell nothing but what we can guarantee as represented. Quote lowest factory prices. Write to-day for our large, free catalogue, which is one of the most complete ever published.

OXFORD MFG. CO., 340 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WE WANT AT ONCE

RELIABLE MEN everywhere (local or traveling) to advertise and keep our Show Cards tacked up in towns on trees and fences along public roads. Steady work in your own county. $70 A MONTH SALARY AND $3 A DAY EXPENSES ADVANCED every 10 days when started. FRANCO-GERMAN ELECTRIC CO., CINCINNATI, O.

No Tobacco. NO OPIUM. The only practicable way to reach CATARRH thoroughly and pleasantly. A positive cure even if all else has failed. Sample FREE by mail Dr. J. W. BLOSSER & CO., DALTON GA.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

CHONEY. $20 for 1: $50 for 2: $100 for 3: $200 for 5: $500 for 10: $1,200 for $20. Address P. O. Box D, Huntington, N. Y.

THE CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO. (CINCINNATI, OHIO.) SOLE MAKERS OF THE BLYMYER BELLS FOR CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM &c. Catalogue with 2500 testimonials, Prices and terms FREE.

THE LARGEST ESTABLISHMENT MANUFACTURING CHURCH BELLS CHIMES & PEALS (Established 1858) in the World. PUREST BELL METAL, (COPPER AND TIN.) Send for Price and Catalogue. McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY, BALTIMORE, MD.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO., Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S. A. Best Imported Copper and E. India Tin. CHURCH BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES. Price & Terms Free. Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Christian Advocate.

OFFICE: 113 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased Preachers, $1

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

All correspondence with the ADVOCATE, literary or business, and all money due or to become due should be addressed to Rev. J. M. Beard, CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, 113 Camp Street, New Orleans, La.

Capt. G. A. R. Lawrence is an accredited agent of the ADVOCATE in the city and country, and he is authorized to take subscribers, contract for advertisements, and receipt for money due on subscription or otherwise.

Rev. J. M. BEARD, D. D., Editor and Publisher.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. J. M. BEARD, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. J. B. A. AHRENS, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. J. W. CHAMBERS.
REV. W. B. LEWIS.
REV. R. J. JONES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER.

Thursday, July 27, 1893.

Extraordinary Offer.

We offer the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE to new subscribers until Jan. 1, 1894, for fifty cents when sent in clubs of ten, and accompanied by the cash.

BRIEFS.

The Baton Rouge Advocate has a timely editorial on the resolution of the directors of that institution to close the World's Fair on Sunday, taking the position that the nation is built on a foundation of morality. Even so, and by this time even Chicago and even the newspaper reporters have found it out. The CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE commends the brave and consistent course of its secular contemporary in this matter.

There is much truth in the old adage that fine clothes do not make a fine man. Even the snake crawls from the slime to don a new and variegated suit in the Spring, the chameleon has more brilliant changes than the lady of fashion, and the common grub sprouts from his uncomeliness a radiancy of attire that altogether eclipses "Solomon in all his glory." Let us stick to plain clothes and be in the succession of Dr. Johnson, Carlisle, Horace Greely, Cromwell, Socrates the great, and the world's Redeemer.

That the different orders of people in the world are illustrated or parodied in the various biological species there seems little room to doubt; among animals as lions, tigers, wolves, foxes, lambs and the various domestic tribes; among fowls from eagles to buzzards in one parallel, and from the peacock and bird of paradise to the sparrow in another; among insects from the bee and the ant to the vegetable destroyer and common worm, from the bounding tarantula of the prairies to the jumping spider of the boudoir, and from lightning bug or candle fly, inhabiting night and darkness, to moth and mote frequenting sunbeam and artificial glare. He who rejects the Bible of Revelation should study closely the Bible of nature.

The Southern Churchman publishes several columns of extracts from Wesley's journal to prove that he never left the church. Indeed! and neither did he leave his wife, but there can be little doubt but that both his church and his wife left him. Wesley often spoke and wrote of the invisible body which is the true church of Christ when not having the least reference to the bald ecclesiasticism that by a fine exhibition of the exceedingly animal quality of peacock sovereignity always considers itself addressed when the word "church" is used. He loved the church as all of her true sons, and prayed and wrought and died for it, whether represented in the Anglican or Non-Conformist establishments; but the form of godliness, whether in the shape of a church or a man, he heartily disliked. "What makes a state" is a topic which won immortality for one poet; there remains to us and to the poet of the future the greater theme, "What makes a church?"

See our club offer of Family Bible and ADVOCATE for one year at $6.50.

As by Fire.

During a somewhat extended pastorate the author of these lines has known a multitude saved by the office of affliction, and comparatively the fewest number brought to Christ without some such prompting as worldly losses or crosses. It seems necessary to destroy human confidence in that quality which in the absence of a better word we will call selfhood. It is passing strange how the feeling of omnipotence is innate in the weakest sort of people, and that every man when off his guard is to be found bowing down at the shrine or throne of self-sovereignity. I, me, and myself, is an anti-religious league in the human breast that "dies, but never surrenders." If pride or self-sufficiency, and we know not how to distinguish the two things, appears to be a muscular and well-conditioned beast of prey in the outer deportment, it is a whole jungle of man-eaters within, which nothing but starvation or pestilence will subdue. The Lord of universal sovereignity knowing this acts accordingly. He does not employ rat bane upon tigers. Understanding their savage natures he does not try to tame them, and being thoroughly conversant with their perverse natures he does not seek to educate them. Rather he calls for the east wind and sends it in upon the retreat of monsters, or he summons famine out of the north and sends its lank form into the wilderness where they seek the prey, to consume their means of subsistence.

It is a pitiful sight to see that creature whom God made in his own image, but now antipathetic to him and his gracious reign, with its physical defenses removed, its walls of sense broken down—yea, demolished—and brought for the first time face to face with the Being whom not only "winds and waves," but worlds and devils obey. But yet Hercules, faint and starved and gasping for a little breath beyond the dark boundary of convalescence, is the way the Lord will have him, and in that forlorn position he shakes him with rigors, and burns him with consuming fervors, until he gets a confession from him; for while there are some men quite courageous, there are very few who are brave far into the shadows of death. This is the philosophy of what we started out to say; and the sentiment of it is, that there is an affinitive relation between divine and human sorrow; and where the exemplary sufferer, the man of sorrow, suffers with groanings which can not be uttered, the sorrowing of all ages draw nigh transfixed by a pathos which no words can describe, and which only the form of the cross can feebly image to the thought.

A Sur-Review.

The Southern Quarterly Review is on our desk. It is an excellent number, containing the following articles: Albert Taylor Bledsoe, by W. F. Tillett; Moravian Missions, by E. R. Hendrix; Marriage and the Home, by S. W. Cope; Modern Science, by A. C. M.; The Presbyterian Church Case, by J. R. G.; Elihu Embree, Abolitionist, by E. L. Hoss; A Campaign of Education, by A. G. Haygood; An Adventure in Venice, by Traveller; Barnabas, the Son of Consolation, by Mrs. C. B. Howard; The Law of Sanctification, by W. M. Leftwich.

All these we have read with interest because all are able articles on subjects worthy to be Reviewer's themes, but the latter with close attention as being the production of an able and logical mind upon the foremost topic of the age and church. But, alas! we found it to be only special pleading which dismisses both the gospel and the Holy Ghost from all involvement in that higher work of redemption which our Lord Jesus Christ accomplishes for the souls he saves. According to Dr. Leftwich, sanctification is altogether a ceremony, and a human ceremony at that. Instead of being the life of a doctrinal system, as we had fondly conceived it to be, with fine imaginative essay he makes it out to be its bare, unoiled machinery. Ignorance of all this, rather than scorn of it, he charges upon the poor, demented creatures, who, under the lead of John Wesley, blundered into bogs of experimental truth, and sloughs of subjective theology to their utter undoing. The whole trouble with this deluded community who are credited with nothing but experience of "the truth as it is in Jesus," is that they have not discovered the Doctor's discovery. Sanctification he argues finally, and when he can escape from the dry bones of Jewish ceremonials, is the death of Christ, and that death, too, as seemingly hopeless an one as any infidel creed could suggest, and without any hint of resurrection joys to relieve its despair, or of holy dove ministries to cancel its gloom. Sanctification is all right according to the learned reviewer, who, however, makes no distinction between consecration and sanctification in a text of Scripture where our Lord does; but experience is all wrong. But yet the Bible stresses experience more than all, and Wesley, Clark and Watson, the greatest theologians of modern times, insist that experience is the principal thing. Ye must not witness, says the Doctor; but Christ says, witness. If you are so unfortunate as to have an experience, do not relate it, he counsels; but the Holy Ghost, who teacheth not according to man's teaching, declares that there are not languages enough to contain its rapture, and confers other tongues upon the disciples to aid them in giving it expression. The Doctor is a great revivalist, and writer and scholar, too; but if we are to take this article as a sample, he is a poor reviewer. But we counsel everybody to buy the Review and possess themselves of this article as a curious instance of the failure of mere intellectuality, under the most favorable conditions, to compass the most simple teachings of divine revelation.

Rich and Poor.

There is only one democracy, and that is a kingdom. This may seem a paradox, but instead it is an every-day, russet clad truism. "Greater is he that serveth than he that ruleth," is the first term of the constitution of this monarcheial democracy, and the effect of it is to make slaves the partners of kings. But in a less minute survey, the substance of its chart of sovereignity, which was not wrested by force from an earthly tyrant, but freely given from heaven by its loving Monarch, is, "the law of love." There is no such creator of caste as fear, because it must ascend a throne before it can be obeyed, and there is no such leveller as love, because by the very terms of its being it must not only be a servant, but a worshipper. Fear, creating a subterfuge out of its own impotence, esteems itself better than others; love, because omnipotent in subjection, sits meekly at the footstool of inferiors. So much for the theory. A practical application of the theory is what our times demand. The rich minority have gotten so far away from the poor majority that it avers its inability to reach them. Not only can it not reach the poor without, it can not reach the poor within. Dives and Lazarus, like the castes of another age, have no dealings with each other. Dives is purse proud and Lazarus is poverty proud, and there is a "great gulf between them." Two aristocracies of earth, then, threaten our divine democracy; they are those of riches and poverty. Next to reconciling man to God the most difficult task that our Savior has to perform is to reconcile proud poverty with unrelenting riches. Unless their hearts can be melted together with the fire of the Holy Ghost, that great minister of God's love, it is a forlorn hope, if not an improbable miracle.

Sanctification.

The editor of the ADVOCATE has been interpellated from various esteemed sources concerning the doctrine of sanctification, both pure and simple, and as related to what has been called the second blessing. In replying he will state only such convictions as have been impressed upon his heart by a divine signet, and as seem to him to be wholly irrefutable from both metaphysical and biblical standpoints of controversy.

First of all, sanctification is indispensable to the Christian character, and is as necessary to it as flavor to a peach or perfume to a rose. It is its sweetness, its leading charm, its perfection, and just as much that which gives relish to it as unctuous flavors and odors to the "brightest things beneath the sky."

Where the flavors of the choicest fruits come from we do not know; it is, indeed, not essential that we should know, but it is beyond all question a suggestion both of perfectibility and divinity. Whence came the odors of the rose we can not declare either, but we are quite sure that the chemistry of its own nature or of the plant that bore it had far less to do with it than the laboratory of sunshine and atmospheres and wooing winds. Whatever glory may belong to it from adventitious causes, its beauty and its redolence came from above as a special baptism. It was when the sun was looking upon it, and the breezes were blowing upon it, that it came to the birth, and both smiled and sent a love throb into its environment. The fruit and the flower do not ripen, but are ripened. Yet green fruit does not proceed immediately to a state of perfection, and a green or sour Christian does not attain at once to the bloom of sanctification. It is a remarkable fact in connection with pentecostal meetings that the most pious people among the unsanctified are those who make professions of sanctification.

Secondly, sanctification as "a second blessing," as it was happily termed by Mr. Wesley, is offered to all upon the condition of faith only. A growth in the grace of sanctification we heartily concede, but a growth towards it we have never been able to verify from scriptural teaching. The regenerated man without this blessing remains an infant and a weakling like the Ephesus converts. He has so many shortcomings, like the beetle who crawls, though provided with flying apparatus, and backslidings, like the frog in the fable, he gets nowhere in a lifetime or a century. He is a Christian, indeed, but is one who excels both in mental dwarfishness and spiritual limitation. "Jesus Christ is of God made unto us sanctification," not because we are wise or worthy, but believing. Grace in any stage of it does not contemplate human perfection as its basis, but, quite on the contrary, its absence, which is equivalent to saying that grace is grace. Where sin abounded, grace abounds; where sin reigned, grace reigns. There is no greater manifestation of earthly pride than that which proposes to grow divine fruit on a human tree, or to enter the divine by more human steppings. Sanctification may be coming to God in one sense, but in another and superior, it is putting both our hands into his and suffering a shock to the immoral sensibilities that slays them. To show that God is no respecter of persons in the administration of "this grace wherein we stand," Saul of Tarsus, Jacob and David were conspicuous examples of its power. To show that it is by faith only, read the second chapter of Hebrews and many similar passages, and examine the whole philosophy of human redemption as set forth in divine perfection and human imperfection representing gifts and graces as the unfailing concomitant of the former, and only degrees of faith as the characteristics of the latter.

Thirdly, it is an instantaneous work. Because it is an effect of the Holy Spirit's ministry, all whose offices to souls are quick as omniscience. It electrifies rather than transmogrifies. It is the great minister of that Being, the first law of whose being is motion. It brings to man tidings of that swift-moving universe where the motion of the flying spheres of our lower firmanent would be mere snail creeping, and the pace of a sun ray through our heavy atmospheres would represent dynamics on the lowest scale. And because it is the gift of an Almighty Being who does not require centuries for a moment's task, and because power in the sphere which he inhabits represents alertness, and because he will not make a promise, one or many, to the ear that he will break to the heart. And because not only does he employ an agent quick and powerful to secure such a wonderful result, but he has always communicated this superior grace in this way, as on the day of Pentecost and at the revival of Samaria; and at Peniel; and at Damascus (in the interview with Ananias); and as with Cornelius; the twelve Ephesians; Apollos, etc. And because sanctification is always the beginning of a growth in grace, and beginningness is as essential a quality of suddenness as suddennness of beginningness. We can not conceive of either without the other. Yet we hear of people growing in grace who have not been sanctified. Such growth is phantasy or is growth in human grace as antithetically related to the divine. It is astonishing how many Christian people there are in the world who are growing—growing rapidly some of them—very Jack and the bean-stalk prodigies of growth—and growing all the time all of them, and not a grown disciple among them all. We challenge anybody to produce a well-accredited case of anybody in America or Europe who even professes to have grown into sanctification. The exertion of growing seems to disqualify them for the harvest stage of being as well as to predestinate them to everlasting toils of expansion through a perpetual horizon of childhood. But the professor of sanctification does not depend upon the folly of opposing theories for the vindication of his own belief, nor altogether upon the cumulative testimony of Holy Scripture, setting forth the subject as a most distinct, and the most distinguished work of grace which the Creator works for and in the souls of his creatures, but rather upon the signs infallible which he treasures up in his own heart. Whatever may be the views of professors or non-professors, or whatever may be the sum of human and divine knowledge bearing on the subject, he, at least, can say, "For me to live is Christ, and for me to die is gain."

We have written this not in the spirit of polemics, or to awaken controversy, but for the instruction of persons who, in letters addressed to the editor profess anxiety about their spiritual state, and all of whom sustain the relation of doubters or infidels to the "grand depositum of the people called Methodists."

NOTES.

"'Tis life whereof our nerves are scant;
More life and fuller, that we want."

***

Preaching is knee work and not tongue exercise.

***

It is hard, if not the hardest to be religious without religion.

***

The head is the seat of vitality, and the revival must begin there.

***

"What you can do or dream you can begin Boldness has genius, power and magic in it."
—Goethe.

***

A splendid Family Bible for ten subscribers, or for one subscriber at $6.50.

***

It is easier to be good than to be bad, even as it is more joyous and profitable.

***

The preacher who does not introduce the ADVOCATE robs himself and wrongs his Lord.

***

There is nothing in the wide, wide world so youthful as love, and nothing so hoary as hate.

***

Go into thy closet, shut to thy door and stay there until the Lord comes to go out with you.

***

The man who does not go to church in this world will hardly be allowed the privilege in the next.

***

A sanctification wave is coming that will transform whole communities, and transfigure whole churches.

***

Do not let the revival go by without sending us a long list of subscribers unless you want the revival to stop.

***

Power against us is granted to Satan in two ways; either for our punishment, when we yield to temptation, or for our glory, when we stand the test.—St. Cyprian.

***

The NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE has more agents and less cost than any business institution of the city.

***

Upon the success of our first club offer depends the reduction of the price of subscription to the paper. So far it is not a success.

***

In the case of a dead body there must be in the nature of things either burial or a revival. Let it be the latter and the sooner, the surer.

***

There are many people in the world who get cursed for doing their duty, a great sacrifice; but that, if nothing else, exalts them to fellowship with their loving Lord.

***

Preaching should be condensed, but the condensation should be in the heart and not on the tongue. It is the boiler that furnishes power to the engine, and not the safety valve.

***

The first copy of the Church Extension Bulletin, edited by Dr. Morton, D. D., and Wilbur F. Barclay, has reached us. Like all of Dr. Morton's enterprises, it will be a success.

***

It is a sacred humanity and one upon which the fires of eternity have passed, to which Christ refers when he declares, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these, ye have done it unto me."

***

Of our distinguished young friend Dr. J. W. Lee made a telling speech before the Christian Endeavor Convention held in Montreal, Canada; and Dr. W. DuBose, of San Francisco, at the Epworth League Convention, which met at Cleveland, Ohio.

***

A young Christian, or old one either, longing for usefulness, can secure the end more successfully by obtaining a club of subscribers to the ADVOCATE under our offer to send it to ten persons at 50 cents until Jan. 1. Go to work at once.

***

The proverb which says that "a young dog learns tricks, the old dog learns nothing," is offset by another which reads, "The young dog learns everything and knows nothing, and the old dog learns nothing and knows everything." So much for a proverb.

***

A fearless ADVOCATE of the cause of our Lord Jesus Christ among men will make many enemies, and its hope of surviving will depend altogether upon the number of friends which it can gain in their stead. Subscribe for the ADVOCATE and get your friends to do it.

FREE!!

A genuine Self-Pronouncing, Pictorial Family Bible. Old and New Versions in parallel columns.

Strong, Handsome, Durable Binding.

BOUND IN AMERICAN MOROCCO, raised panel sides, gold centre, comb edges, and contains over 2,000 pages of valuable matter, including the Old and New Testament Scriptures, to which are added over 300 illustrations, including full-page steel engravings, superb illuminated title pages, and colored plates of Scripture illustrations in both the Old and New Testaments. A complete Bible Dictionary and a complete Concordance are included.

The Latest and Very Best

edition. Printed with large, clear type on good paper.

SPECIAL PREMIUM OFFER.

We will send this magnificent Family Bible absolutely free for ten new subscribers, or upon receipt of $6.50 will send you the paper or renew your subscription for one year and send this Bible by express.

PERSONAL AND OTHERWISE.

News of the death of Rev. George E. Greene, of Big Cane circuit, Louisiana Conference, reaches us as we go to press. Bro. Greene was an alumnus of Centenary College, and one of our brightest young men. We will be glad to furnish the readers of the ADVOCATE with a further account.

The camp meeting closed on Wednesday night with the best service of the series.

Send us a club and expect great things in return. The Lord is a diligent rewarder.

Rev. Josiah Banoroft's preaching at Seashore Camp Ground was the subject of favorable comment.

Rev. H. S. Partridge called at the ADVOCATE en route from Seashore to his home at Hattiesburg.

If you do not want your name dropped from the ADVOCATE list, send in your renewal with arrearages.

Anybody of good standing in their church or neighborhood, is authorized to send us a club with the money.

The increased attendance at Seashore Camp Ground this year, in spite of side attractions, and the financial dearth, is significant.

The ADVOCATE subscription list continues to grow, and we are now thinking of a ten thousand limit in the not distant future.

What preacher in all our bounds is willing to have it said that he did nothing for the paper in its time of distress. Awake, thou that sleepest.

The ADVOCATE is glad to hear, through a note from Dr. McVoy, that his son Arthur is slowly recovering from his late dangerous illness.

Let two things prompt everybody to subscribe for the ADVOCATE; first, that they are making a good bargain for the Lord, and second, that they are making a good bargain for themselves.

The Bible Institute is set for July 26 at Seashore Camp Ground, and will continue to Aug. 5. It will be a celebration not without the important element of celebrities. But by all means let the God of the Bible preside.

Sam Jones told the Dallas people of a little Georgia girl who prefaced her last prayer on her native heath with the words, "Good-by, God; I'm going to Texas," and then generously added, "Texas is a whale in politics, but a minnow in religion."

Rev. C. H. Ellis writes that he is with the pastor, Bro. Porter, at Plaquemine Brulee, and that though there are many discouragements, the prospects for a good meeting are excellent. The crowds are large, and there have been already some conversions.

The ADVOCATE had a pleasant call from that rising young college president, Dr. W. B. Murrah, of Millsaps, during Seashore week. He speaks confidently of the future of the institution of learning over which he presides; well endowed and beautiful for situation. We wish both abundant success.

We strayed into Bro. Van Valkenburgh's book store and picked up a book with the shocking title, "From the Ball Room to Hell." We read a few pages and were shocked some more. Indeed, that hall-room business is a shocking subject, and all the more so when, as in this case, handled by an ex-dancing master.

Our friends who send us either correspondence or reports of public meetings will do us and the ADVOCATE public a great favor by passing their communications through the important processes of concentration and condensation. The ordinary man wants but little of certain kinds of literature, nor wants that little long.

Dr. J. B. A Ahrens and daughter Elise left on Wednesday last per steamer City of Monroe for St. Louis, where he will tarry for a short while, and then proceed to Chicago, taking in the Columbian Exposition and its glories. He has promised some correspondence for the ADVOCATE, and we can say in advance that it will be as breezy as the metropolis he visits.

To Advocate Delinquents.

Dear Brethren: I am coming to see you on my first round for the ADVOCATE. Please be ready with whatever amount you can spare, or with your whole indebtedness to the paper, unless you see fit to remit before I reach you. I have undertaken an arduous work, and hope that our brethren will endeavor to lighten it by being ready to settle up on my first call, thereby greatly benefiting their church organ and adding to their store another means of grace.

Fraternally yours,

GEO. A. R. LAWRENCE,
Agent N. O. CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

200 Agents Wanted.

One in every community in State of Mississippi to sell Bishop Fitzgerald's Epworth Book. Prospectus, 50 cents. Holman Self-Pronouncing Sunday-school Teacher's Bible. Prospectus, $1. Imitation of Christ, beautifully illustrated by Thomas a Kempis. Prospectus, 75 cents. Full supply of International Bibles in stock. Send for catalogue. Order your Sunday-school supplies for the year, and remit quarterly, if you can not send cash with order. Apply at once.

LAIRD & DOMINICK,
JACKSON, MISS.

Do You Know?

That when your bowels are disordered, and irregularities caused by change of diet or location exist,

Brodie's Astringent Cordial

Will correct all the troubles, and never fails, but

CURES

DIARRHŒA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, CRAMPS, BLOODY FLUX, and Such Symptoms.

TESTIMONIAL.

July 28, 1889.

Dear Sirs:—I have used Brodie's Astringent Cordial in my family, and am using the third bottle. It always acts like a charm upon my children, correcting ailments of the bowels better than any medicine I ever tried. * * *

Yours, most respectfully,
MRS. A. W. MOORE.

Price: 50 cts. and $1 a Bottle.

I. L. LYONS & CO., New Orleans, La.

Sold by All Druggists.

Persons Attending the BIBLE INSTITUTE AT

Seashore Camp Ground

May obtain good board at the Montgomery Cottage (on the beach) at Reasonable Prices.

GRENADA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

Is Devoted to the Education of Girls and Young Ladies.

FALL TERM OPENS SEPTEMBER 5TH, 1893.

The Institute affords the very best advantages for culture in Vocal and Instrumental Music; in Art, Drawing, Painting, etc.; and in all the branches of collegiate study—English, Latin, French and German. The teachers are experienced and competent. The Boarding Department is home-like and comfortable. The health is fine. The expenses are moderate. For catalogue address Rev. Thos. J. Newell, A. M., Pres., Grenada, Miss.

Clinton Female Academy,

(Chartered in 1832)

WILL OPEN MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1893.

Course thorough. Charges lower than offered by any school of its grade in the South.

CHARGES PER MONTH.

Tuition per month	$2 00 to $3 00
Music " "	3 00
Use of Piano per Month	1 00
Painting in Oil " "	3 00
Drawing " "	1 00
Latin, French and Book-keeping, each per month	1 00
Incidental Expenses per Session	50

Board, Tuition, Washing, Fuel and Lights, $12 per Month. $120 per the Session of Ten Months. For particulars address the Principal,

MRS. S. E. MUNDAY, Clinton, La.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT
Tulane University of Louisiana.

Its advantages for practical instruction, both in ample laboratories and abundant hospital materials, are unequaled. Free access is given to the great Charity Hospital with 700 beds and 20,000 patients annually. Special instruction is given daily AT THE BEDSIDE OF THE SICK. The next session begins October 19th, 1893. For catalogue and information address

PROF. S. E. CHAILLE, M. D., DEAN,
P. O. Drawer 261. NEW ORLEANS, LA.

WESLEYAN FEMALE COLLEGE, MACON, GA.

Annual Session begins September 20th, 1893. Best advantages in Literature, Music and Art. For safety, health and domestic comfort, there is no better home for girls. Apply for Catalogue to

REV. W. C. BASS, PRES.

WILKINSON'S
MATCHLESS MINERAL WATER.

The Most Wonderful Tonic in America.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY OF THE UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA.

Analysis of W. W. Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water, by E. A. Smith, Professor Chemistry and Geology, and J. B. Little.

The amount of water taken was one gallon, wine measure, and was found to contain:

Grains.		Grains.
Sulphuric Acid	314.094	Potassic Oxide	1.115
Ferric Oxide	86.582	Alumnic	3.640
Ferrous Oxide	81.381	Silica	5.036
Calcic Oxide	24.527	Sodium Oxide	4.091
Magnetic Oxide	22.711	Chlorine	2.472

Carbonic Acid.....Not yet determined.
The specific gravity of the water is 1.0070.

From Prof. Henry Leffman, M. D., Analytical Chemist and Expert, Hygienist and Food Inspector to the Pennsylvania State Board of Agriculture, and Professor of Chemistry in the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania:

W. W. Wilkinson—I have examined a sample of your Matchless Mineral Water, and find it possesses the properties specified in the above statement of analysis by Profs. Smith and Little; but the water you are now furnishing is much stronger in the active mineral ingredients.

HENRY LEFFMAN.

Cures Dyspepsia in its worst form, Chronic Diarrhœa, Diabetes, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Sores, Bilious Colic, Tetter, Ring Worm, Chronic Sores, Ulceration of the Womb, Throat, Catarrh, Gonorrhœa, Debility. Best Natural Tonic in the World.

As a Tonic and Alterative.—A teaspoonful to a tablespoonful in one-half glass of water three times a day, directly after eating; but if stomach is soured, take before eating.

As a Cathartic.—Three to five tablespoonsful in same amount of water.

For External Application.—Use as a wash without diluting (warm if possible).

For Injection.—If water is too strong, slightly dilute and use twice a day.

For Cholera Morbus and Cramp Colic.—Two tablespoonsful every hour or two until relieved (in a little water).

Will keep full strength for any length of time in any climate. Never dilute except as used.

Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water.

I am seeking to protect all against many diseases and cure all who are sick by such diseases as may be cured by this, nature's wonderful remedy,

WILKINSON'S MATCHLESS MINERAL WATER.

It cures Dyspepsia in its worst form, Chronic Diarrhœa, and Acute; cures Flux, all Diseases of the Bowels and Stomach, Skin Diseases, Piles, Sore or Granulated Eyelids, Ulcerated Sore Throat, Blood Diseases, Rheumatism; Debility, Physical and Mental; Liver Complaint, Female Complaints, Cholera Morbus, Cholera, Biliousness, Bruises, Cuts and Scald-head, Eczema, Sick-headache, Colic.

1. W. D. Rogers says: "Your Mineral Water has cured me of dyspepsia, and my wife of womb disease, when all else failed."

2. John H. McCullough says: "This water cured me of dyspepsia after suffering four years and trying medicine, doctors, etc."

3. W. D. Newman says: "I was afflicted for twelve years with tetter. Matchless Mineral Water cured me when all doctors and treatment failed."

4. Rev. Chas. R. Lamar was cured of dyspepsia of more than two years' standing by use of two gallons of Matchless Mineral Water.

5. J. H. Gilbert says: "Matchless Mineral Water is, beyond doubt, the best remedy known to me for sore eyes."

6. Jesse B. Basser says: "I have suffered long from chronic ulcerated sore leg. Offered $100 to doctors to cure. This water cured me."

7. Rev. J. M. Whitehead: "It cures every species of indigestion; can eat anything I want, and a good appetizer."

8. James J. Ingle says: "I have suffered five years with kidneys and liver. Have used one bottle. Most wonderful medicine I ever used."

9. J. G. Lightfoot says: "My son down five years. General debility and impure blood. Doctors failed. Two bottles Mineral Water cured him."

10. John Brannan says: "I was down three years with bilious colic. Spent $150 for medical treatment; grew worse; one and a half gallons. This water cured me."

11. Martin Eady says: "My eye was about out from gun cap in it. The two bottles of Mineral Water made a complete cure of my eyes."

12. George Green says: "I have been suffering fifteen or twenty years with chronic diarrhœa. The Matchless Mineral Water cured me."

13. W. J. Gardner says: "For seven or eight years I was victim of nervous dyspepsia and all its horrors. One quart Mineral Water cured me. Spent thousands of dollars for medical treatment. Would not go back for $10,000."

14. J. B. Brown says: "My only child, three years old, sick two years. Spent much for medical treatment. Child given up to die. Mineral Water cured him. I would not take $1,000 for benefits of that bottle of Mineral Water."

16. Mrs. Eliza Austin, Caddo parish, La., says: "The water is curing everything it is used for. Deaf, blind, lame, halt, I believe it will cure anything curable. One says, 'It's worth to me $500;' another: 'It is worth to me one thousand dollars.' 'It is worth its weight in gold.' I wish I could tell half the good it has done."

16. Mr. J. A. Davis, Bonham, Texas, says: "My horse was as sick with colic as any horse I ever saw. One pint of water cured him in five minutes."

Price: Per bottle, 25c, 50c, and $1.

Address

C. M. FUSH
106 Camp Street,
NEW ORLEANS, - - - LA.

READ THIS.
Board and Lodging by Day, Week or Month.

Regular meals, 25 cents. Lodging, 25 to 50 cents.

I endeavor to make my place home-like and comfortable. Give me a call.

MRS. BRAKEL,
No. 535 Chartres St., near Northeastern Depot.

Tulane University Scholarships.

TULANE UNIVERSITY, New Orleans, for the purpose of encouraging post-graduate studies, offers fifteen scholarships to the graduates of its own and other colleges. The appointments are made for merit, and entitle the holder to free tuition and an honorarium of one hundred and fifty dollars.

For further particulars address the Secretary of Tulane University, New Orleans, Louisiana.

Cincinnati Conservatory of Music,

MISS CLARA BAUR, Directress.

Thorough musical education after the methods of foremost European conservatories. The Conservatory will as usual be open during the entire Summer, and students can, as during the school year, enter at any time.

Branches taught: Vocal culture, the Pianoforte, Organ, Harp, Violin, and all other Orchestral Instruments; also Guitar, Mandolin and Banjo; Elocution, Delsarte, Modern Languages, English Literature and Art.

Young ladies from a distance can board in the Conservatory building, where they pursue their studies under the supervision of the Directress. For Catalogue address in full,

MISS CLARA BAUR,
Conservatory of Music, 4th and Lawrence,
Cincinnati, O.

State Normal School,

NATCHITOCHES, LA.

Reopens Oct. 2, 1893. Both sexes admitted. Attendance last session, 293. Faculty of twelve instructors. Unsurpassed in beauty and healthfulness of location, thoroughness of instruction, and perfection of discipline. Diploma entitles holder to first-grade teacher's certificate without examination.

Tuition free. Total expense need not exceed $110 per annum.

For catalogue address

THOS. D. BOYD, A. M.,
President.

Opelousas Female Institute.

Opelousas, St. Landry Ph., La.

A practical, non-sectarian Institution, founded in 1871. Discipline firm, but kind, and based on sound principles. Honor and self-respect promoted. Thorough training and culture. Curriculum revised, and prepares for university or practical life. Diplomas are conferred. Buildings are comfortable and commodious. Unrivalled health record.

Twenty-third session begins Sept. 11, 1893.

For Catalogue and further particulars apply to the Principal or Vice-Principal.

J. F. ARMENTROUT, B.A. (Univ. of Va.), Principal.
MRS. M. M. HAYES, Vice-Principal.
MISS LEOLA B. WHITE, First Assistant.

-:WHITWORTH FEMALE COLLEGE:-

AND

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC AND ART,

BROOKHAVEN, MISS.

The 33rd Annual Session begins Sept. 13, 1893. The prestige of a long and phenomenally successful career—the reputation it has always enjoyed of thorough, honest work—its commodious buildings, heated by steam—its ample grounds—its wonderful health record—and the magnificent facilities it furnishes in the departments of Literature, Science, Art, Elocution and Music all combine to put this institution in the very front rank of the best Female Colleges of the South.

For further information and for Catalogues, apply to

L. T. FITZHUGH, A. M., President.

McTyeire -:- Institute,

MCKENZIE, TENN.

Prepares students for Vanderbilt and such institutions.

Expenses for five months, $72.50 to $82.50.

Students completing our course enter Vanderbilt without examination.

Next session begins August 31.

For circulars or information address

J. H. HARRISON, Prin.,
McKenzie, Tenn.

Memphis Conference Female Institute
—AND—
Conservatory of Music,

Jackson, Tenn.

A HIGH GRADE COLLEGE FOR GIRLS AND YOUNG LADIES.
A METHODIST SCHOOL FOR METHODIST GIRLS.

Faculty Large and Course of Study Extensive.
Teacher of Elocution Trained in the Emerson School of Oratory.
Thoroughly Equipped Gymnasium.
Conservatory of Music and Art.
Water throughout Buildings.
Lighted with Gas and Electricity.
Library of Over 6,000 Volumes.
Twenty-three Pianos.

The city of Jackson is noted for its culture and healthfulness. Thirty bored wells furnish a water supply which chemical experts pronounce as pure as that from the famous Eureka Springs in Arkansas.

A fine opportunity is here provided to secure health while acquiring an education.

For catalogue and other information write the president,

Rev. Howard W. Key, A.M., Ph.D.

SCIENCE HILL,
— SHELBYVILLE, KY.

AN ENGLISH AND CLASSICAL SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

Our Certificates admit to Wellesley without examination.

W. T. POYNTER.

Alabama Conference Female College.

Organized in 1856. Average annual patronage for four years past, over 200. Twenty-two professional Officers, Teachers and Lecturers. Fine Literary Curriculum extending through four years. Music taught on Conservatory methods by three able and brilliant Musicians. Art taught by a celebrated teacher of four years' European study. Scientific and Literary lectures by the Professor of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Location high; health record phenomenal; not a case of serious sickness during the past year.

For catalogue containing full statement address JOHN MASSEY, President, Tuskegee, Ala.

VIRGINIA COLLEGE
FOR YOUNG LADIES. ROANOKE, VIRGINIA.

Opens Sept. 14th, 1893. New buildings with all modern improvements, among the finest in the South. New Pianos and furniture. Campus of ten acres; magnificent mountain scenery; in the Valley of Virginia, far famed for health. European and American teachers. Degrees of B.S., B.A., and M.A. conferred. Unsurpassed advantages in Music and Art. One of the most attractive and beautiful College homes for Young Ladies in the South. For Catalogue, address W. A. HARRIS, D.D., President, Roanoke, Virginia.

HOLLINS INSTITUTE,
BOTETOURT SPRINGS, VA.

For Young Ladies. 51st session opens Sept. 13th, 1893. Eclectic courses in all Languages and Sciences, Music, Art and Elocution. Eight male Professors and twenty Ladies. Beautifully situated in Valley of Virginia, 1,200 feet above sea level, on N. & W. R. R. near Roanoke. Mountain Scenery. Mineral Waters. Climate Unexcelled. Write for catalogue to CHAS. L. COCKE, Supt., Hollins, Virginia.

Nashville College for Young Ladies

Privilege of Lectures, Museum, Apparatus, in Vanderbilt University. Three large Buildings. Faculty of 40, pupils average over 400 for four years past. Music, Art, Calisthenics, Health, Accessibility. Fully Equipped Gymnasium. Address Rev. Geo. W. F. Price, D.D., Prest., Nashville, Tenn.

EMORY COLLEGE
OXFORD, GA. Forty Miles East of Atlanta.
—Location Proverbially Healthy! No Saloons.—

57th Session opens Sept. 20th, 1893, closes June 13, 1894. Endowment recently increased $100,000 and equipment greatly improved. Total expenses within $225. For full information, address W. A. CANDLER, D. D., PRESIDENT.

SOUTHERN FEMALE COLLEGE
PETERSBURG, VA.

Historic Home School in perfect Climate. Unsurpassed course in Literature, Language, Science, Conservatory advantages in Music and Art. All modern improvements. 31st session. Terms low. Send for catalogue to ARTHUR K. DAVIS, A. M., Pres't, Petersburg, Va.

ROSE TOBACCO CURE

A quick, cheap, pleasant and absolute cure for the Tobacco Habit

In all its Forms. For proof write the ROSE DRUG CO., Birmingham, Ala.

The ADVOCATE in clubs of ten from now until Jan. 1, 1894, at fifty cents. Cash must accompany names.

LAW SCHOOL
WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY,
LEXINGTON, VIRGINIA.
Opens Sept. 14. For catalogue address
JOHN RANDOLPH TUCKER, Dean.

CENTENARY COLLEGE, JACKSON, LA.

Jackson, La., is near Ethel, on the Valley R. R., 113 miles north of New Orleans. The location is beautiful, and healthful, the buildings are elegant and ample, and the Faculty is complete and able. The sale of intoxicating drinks is forbidden by law within five miles of the College. Its endowment fund is being rapidly increased, and the college has entered upon a new career of prosperity.

Special attention will be given to the health, morals and biblical instruction of the students.

For terms, Catalogue, or other information apply to Prof. G. H. Wiley, Jackson, La., or to

W. L. C. HUNNICUTT, PRESIDENT.

The Reflections of a Married Woman —are not pleasant if she is delicate, run-down, or overworked. She feels "played out." Her smile and her good spirits have taken flight. Its worries her husband as well as herself.

This is the time to build up her strength and cure those weaknesses or ailments which are the seat of her trouble.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription regulates and promotes all the proper functions of womanhood, improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, melancholy and nervousness, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and strength.

It's a safe remedial agent, a tonic and nervine guaranteed to cure those disorders and derangements incident to womanhood, or the money paid for it is returned.

It would not pay to sell a poor medicine on these terms.

There wouldn't be any cases of Chronic Catarrh if everyone used Dr. Sage's Remedy. There's $500 reward for an incurable case.

HENRY P. DART,

Attorney-at-Law,

49 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

WIDOW HOOD'S LODGING HOUSE,

No. 19 ST. CHARLES ST.

I wish to announce to the public that I have renovated and refitted my house, and solicit the patronage of the traveling public. Open all night. Beds can be had for 25 and 50 cents. I especially solicit the patronage of Christian people visiting the city.

WIDOW A. A. HOOD.

NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

Founded by Dr. Eben Tourjee. CARL FAELTEN, Director.

The Leading Conservatory of America.

In addition to its unequalled musical advantages, exceptional opportunities are also provided for the study of Elocution, the Fine Arts, and Modern Languages. The admirably equipped Home affords a safe and inviting residence for lady students. Calendar free.

FRANK W. HALE, General Manager, Franklin Square, Boston, Mass.

Huntsville Female -:- College.

HUNTSVILLE, ALABAMA.

Forty-fourth Session begins Wednesday, September 6, 1893. Healthy, well-furnished; twenty Officers and Teachers. All departments of Female Education thoroughly taught; Music, Art, Languages, Sciences, Literature and Commercial Course. A Christian home for pupils. Charges reasonable. For Catalogues, etc., apply to

Rev. A. B. JONES, President.

Mississippi Industrial Institute and College.

BUREAU OF EDUCATION.

Persons desiring to employ competent teachers, or young women qualified to do good work as dress makers, telegraphers, type writers and book keepers, are invited to correspond with this Bureau. No charge for services.

Apply to MISS S. C. McLAURIN, I. I. and C., Columbus, Miss.

Educate for Business.

AT THE

BOWLING GREEN BUSINESS COLLEGE AND LITERARY INSTITUTE.

Railroad Fare Paid.

A School of Business, Shorthand, English, Typewriting, Telegraphy, Penmanship, Teacher's Training. Catalogues free.

CHERRY BROTHERS, Bowling Green, Ky.

FAT PEOPLE

To reduce your weight SURELY use Willard's Obesity Pills and lose 15 pounds a month. No injury to the health. No interference with business or pleasure. NO STARVING. They build up and improve the general health, beautify the complexion and leave NO WRINKLES. Lucy Anderson, 54 Auburn St., Cambridge, Mass., writes: Three bottles of your Obesity Pills reduced my weight from 225 pounds to 190 and I never felt better in all my life. I am much pleased with the result, and shall do all I can to help you. Our patrons include Physicians, Bankers, Lawyers, and leaders of Society. Our goods are not sold in drug stores; all orders are supplied direct from our office. Price per package $2 00 or three packages for $5 00 by mail prepaid. Particulars (sealed) 4cts. ALL CORRESPONDENCE CONFIDENTIAL.

WILLARD REMEDY CO., BOSTON, MASS.

CARPETS!

Don't have your carpets half cleaned; all know how impossible it is to clean carpets by hand.

All dust thoroughly taken out by steam.

Feathers purged of all impurities.

44 St. Peter Street.

$21 PAID WEEKLY

To active, faithful men and women, boys and girls, working for us taking orders for THE ILLUSTRATED WORLD'S FAIR, edited by John McGovern, the Prince of the Literary West. 25c. a month, or $2 50 a year. Entire Series, from July, 1891, to January, 1894, 30 monthly issues, only $6.00. Sells at sight. Most beautiful, interesting and popular, and the only publication receiving official recognition. THE ORGAN OF THE FAIR. Chicago Inter Ocean says: "It is a handsomely prepared and valuable publication, to which many celebrities are contributors." Send 15c. (stamps) for full particulars and sample copy containing fifty large rich engravings of the PRINCIPAL ATTRACTIONS of the World's Fair. Address.

THE NATIONAL BOOK CONCERN, 124 VAN BUREN ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

HOME CIRCLE.

HEREAFTER.

BY GEORGE COOPER.

Not from the flowers of earth,
Not from the stars,
Not from the voicing sea
May we
The secret wrest which bars
Our knowledge here
Of all we hope and all that we may fear
Hereafter.

We watch beside our graves,
Yet meet no sign
Of where our dear ones dwell.
Ah! well,
Even now your dead and mine
May long to speak
Of raptures it were wiser we should seek Hereafter.

O, hearts we fondly love!
O, pallid lips
That bore our farewell kiss
From this
To yonder world's eclipse!
Do ye, safe home,
Smile at our earthly doubts of what would come
Hereafter.

Grand birthright of the soul,
Naught may despoil!
O precious, healing balm,
To calm
Our lives in pain and toil!
God's boon that we
Or soon or late shall know what is to be Hereafter.

Recollections of Carlyle.

Rev. Gerald Blunt, rector of Chelsea, has been giving some personal recollections of Thomas Carlyle, from which the following is taken: "On one occasion Mr. Blunt walked to Hyde Park corner with Carlyle, when he told him about his boyhood days and his early life; of the hardships he had to undergo from poverty, and the work that he had to perform. Carlyle told him of his life in the village of Ecclefechan, and stated how his father took him to the Scotch kirk, where there was a man, a true disciple of Knox, whose character, stern and inflexible, left an impression on the whole village in which he labored. This minister seemed to have been a remarkable man; so great was his influence that bodies of men using bad language in the street would desist when he came in view and until he had passed them. To this Scotch kirk Carlyle had seen shepherds come for miles and miles across the plains; often walking eight and ten miles through the rain, and hanging up their plaids on the church walls, from which streamed small pools of water—quite content to sit there, not through one, but two services, to listen, sing and go home again. The effect of this was manifest through the whole of Carlyle's life. He (the rector) remembered Carlyle telling him one evening at the rectory, after dinner, of another incident about his early youth. When a boy, Carlyle said his father and mother had gone to market and left him alone in the cottage. A poor beggar, wretched and miserable, came and asked for something to buy food with. On the mantelpiece the lad had a small china money box, which he got at once and handed the contents to the beggar. Carlyle added, 'I never knew what heaven was like before.' This deed was one of the most beautiful actions of Carlyle's life.

"A born peasant, Carlyle remained a peasant, though magnificently gifted, to the end of his days. Much had been written about Carlyle's irritability of temper, but it should not be forgotten that he suffered all his life. This, the speaker maintained, was brought about through the want and poverty from which he had suffered in early childhood. Carlyle once remarked to his friend, 'I have had forty years of dyspepsia.' Further, until almost a few years before his death, Carlyle was a poor man; a statement which was absolutely and literally the truth. Previous to the issuing of cheap editions of his works, he was often in want of money, and was anxious at times how to pay his way in the world. After Carlyle's return from a great public funeral at Westminster Abbey, Mr. Blunt asked him what he thought of the occasion. His reply was that it was a very imposing ceremony, but he thought the Abbey would require a gaol-delivery before an honest man could lie there in peace. Mr. Blunt told the story of Carlyle's introduction to the Queen. He asked Carlyle what he thought of her, and he replied: 'I was very much struck with the Queen's presence. No one could doubt she was a queen when she swam into the room, and that she was the greatest lady in the land.' She praised the Scotch to him, and Carlyle said, 'Well, ma'am, I suppose they are just like other folk, no better and no worse.' Carlyle did not care all the time to stand in the Queen's presence, and said: 'Excuse me, ma'am, I am an old man, and would like to sit down.' The Queen allowed him to do so. The rector believed that the Queen was a little annoyed at Carlyle's manner, and that his strong independence and rugged nature did not please her."

Crying Out after God.

One of the most pathetic instances of the yearning of the human being for the Divine is that related by Bishop Whipple, of Minnesota: "Some years ago," he says, "an Indian stood at my door; and as I opened the door he knelt at my feet. Of course, I bade him not to kneel. He said: 'My father, I knelt only because my heart is warm to a man who pitied the red men. I am a wild man. My home is five hundred miles from here. I know that all the Indians east of the Mississippi had perished, and I never looked into the faces of my children that my heart was not sad. My father had told me of the Great Spirit, and I have often gone out into the woods and tried to talk to him.' Then he said so sadly as he looked in my face: 'You don't know what I mean. You never stood in the dark and reached out your hand and could not take hold of anything. And I heard one day that you had brought to the red man a wonderful story of the Son of the Great Spirit.' That man sat as a child and heard the story of the love of Jesus. And when we met again, he said, as he laid his hand on his heart, 'It is not dark; it laughs all the while.'"

How Mr. Edison Invents.

His genius comes near to justifying that definition of the word which makes it an infinite capacity for taking pains. "Are your discoveries often brilliant intuitions? Do they come to you while you are 'lying awake nights?'" I asked him.

"I never did anything worth doing by accident," he replied, "nor did any of my inventions come indirectly through accident, except the phonograph. No, when I have fully decided that a result is worth getting, I go ahead on it and make trial after trial until it comes."

"I have always kept," continued Mr. Edison, "strictly within the lines of commercially useful inventions. I have never had any time to put on electrical wonders, valuable simply as novelties to catch the popular fancy." And he named in distinction some noted electricians who had made their reputations through the pyrotechnics of the profession.

In the July number of the Review of Reviews, Mr. Lanier says:

I asked Mr. Edison what, in his opinion, was the practical speed limit on the horizon of electrical locomotion, and he answered: "Perhaps one hundred and fifty miles an hour." He made at Menlo Park one of the first important experiments in electrical railways, exhibiting one in 1882 that carried cars forty miles per hour. But before we come to moving heavy trains by electricity, to which there are serious, though not insuperable, obstacles, he believes that we shall shoot our mail through the country by some electrical device, or telpherage construction, possibly.

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder.

The only Pure Cream of Tartar Powder.—No Ammonia; No Alum.

in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard

OUR YOUNG PEOPLE.

FIDO.

BY ANNIE A. PRESTON.

"Our Fido must be a Christian dog,"
Said little Fred one day;
"I'll tell you why. He never snaps,
Not even when at play.

"He carries letters to the mail;
I ride upon his back;
He fetches parcels from the store,
And eats with pussy-cat.

"He drives the hens out of the yard,
The cosset lamb he loves;
They play together by the hens,
As sweetly as two doves.

"He always does as he is bid;
That's more than I can say,
For I am cross and selfish oft,
And sometimes disobey.

"Mama says Christians may not be
Naughty, even in fun;
And Fido does the best he knows;
That's why I think he's one."

Ragged Tom.

One Sabbath afternoon a big boy stood at the door of the Sabbath-school. He was so bad that he had been turned out of school the Sabbath before. His father and mother had brought him, and begged that he might be received again. The superintendent said: "We should be glad to do him good, but we are afraid he will ruin all the other children. It is very bad for a school when a big boy sets a wicked example."

"We know he is a bad boy at school, sir," said the parents, "but he is ten times worse at home. He will be ruined if you do not take him back."

"We could take him back, if we could secure his good behavior. I will see," replied the superintendent.

So he stepped back into the school, and rang his bell for silence. All listened while he said: "That boy wants to come into the school again, but we can not take him back without making sure his good behavior. Will anyone be surety for him?"

A pause followed. The elder boys shook their heads. They said they knew him too well. The other boys did not care for him. But one little boy pitied the big bad boy, and was very sorry that no one would be surety. The little boy went by the name of "Ragged Tom." It was not his fault that he was ragged, for his mother was very poor. The superintendent soon heard his little voice saying, "If you please, sir, I will, sir."

"You, Tom, a little boy like you! Do you know what it means to be surety, Tom?"

"Yes, sir, if you please; it means that when he is a bad boy again, I'm to be punished for it."

"And are you willing to be punished for that big boy?"

"Yes, sir, if he's bad again."

"Then come in," said the superintendent, looking to the door; and the big boy, with a downcast face, walked across the floor. He was thinking as he walked: "I know I am a bad boy, but I'm not so bad as that! I'll never let that little fellow be punished for me—never!" And, true to his word, he became one of the best boys in the school.

Jesus did what Tom promised to do. He stood surety for sinners.—Selected.

Little Peter.

This is the real name of the petrel, a bird that lives on the sea. The harder it storms the better he likes it, and the more noise the sea makes the louder he cries.

The sailors, who are all so jolly, never like to meet a petrel. They are so dismal in their coal-black coats, and seamen think they bring them ill luck too.

You could not guess how the petrel sleeps. He first makes of himself a feather ball and sits on the water, just as your canary does on his perch.

Why doesn't he sink? Because his feathers are so oily he can't.

These birds grow so fat that, to the poor islanders, in very cold countries, they are invaluable. After they are dead a wick is drawn through their bodies and set on fire, and you can hardly believe how well this queer kind of lamp lights up their simple huts.

The petrel never goes on shore except to build her nest, which is hidden snugly away between rocks or in the sand. There she lays her one egg and brings up her baby. All day the petrel lives on the water, but she never forgets at night to feed it.

Sometimes they are called "Mother Carey's chickens." If you ever go across the water, you may see them some day.—Our Little Ones.

THE LITTLE BIRD.

A little bird with feathers brown
Sat singing on a tree;
The song was very soft and low,
But sweet as it could be.

And all the people passing by
Looked up to see the bird
That made the sweetest melody
That ever they had heard.

But all the bright eyes looked in vain,
For birdie was so small;
And with a modest dark-brown coat
He made no show at all.

"Why, papa," little Gracie said,
"Where can this birdie be?
If I could sing a song like that I'd sit where folks could see."

"I hope my little girl will learn
A lesson from that bird
And try to do what good she can,
Not to be seen or heard.

"So live, my child, all through your life,
That he it short or long,
Though others may forget your looks,
They'll not forget your song."

—Selected.

Children and Sleep.

Children, until they are twelve or thirteen years old, should have at least ten hours' sleep, eleven is better; until eighteen or nineteen, nine hours is none too much. In this country our children inherit nervous temperaments. No hygienic measure soothes, quiets, and strengthens the nerves like plenty of sleep. Children should never be wakened in the morning. Yet the demands of household convenience and the claims of school make it necessary that they should be out of bed at a certain hour, usually not later than seven. To make this possible, and to give them their fair share of sleep, so that they will be ready to waken of their own accord, they must be in bed between eight and ten, according to their ages. If bed-time is made pleasant to them, as mother-love can make it, with a story, a little talk over the events of the day, with loving words and ministrations, the hardship of banishment to bed will be robbed of most of its bitterness.

What is the road to Slumberland? and when does the baby go?
The road lies straight through mother's arms,
when the sun is sinking low,
He goes to the drowsy "land of nod" to the music of "lullaby,"
When all wee lambs are safe in the fold, under the evening sky.
A soft little night-gown, clean and white; a face washed sweet and fair;
A mother brushing the tangles out of the silken,
golden hair;
A little round head which nestles at last close to the mother's breast,
And then the lullaby, soft and low, singing the song of rest;
And closer and closer the blue-veined lids are hiding the baby eyes,
As over the road to Slumberland the dear little traveler flies.
For this is the way, through mother's arms, all little babies go
To the beautiful city of Slumberland, when the sun is sinking low.

—Scottish Reformer.

Fire-Works in the Ocean.

The ocean, too, has its living lanterns, or phosphorescent animals, and among these the jelly-fish and sea-anemone are very numerous. Sometimes they look like pillars of fire, sometimes like stars, and sometimes like fiery serpents, flashing out red, green, yellow, and lilac rays. Many luminous sea creatures are very small, not larger than a spark, but these gather in such masses that in the Indian Ocean the water often looks like a great sea of molten metal; and a naturalist who bathed among them in the Pacific said that he found himself illuminated for hours afterward, while the sands on which the insects were stranded at low tide gleamed like grains of gold. The bottom of the ocean is magnificent with its star-fish and sea-pads, some in rich purple, and shedding a soft golden-green light, while others send out silver flashes, and the lamp-fish carries on its head at night a golden light. Another fish seems to be decorated with pearls, and it is evidently the fashion there to be brilliant in some way. Even crabs, in hot climates, seem to set themselves on fire, and, when captured and teased, they blaze all over with indignation. A species of shark, too, is intensely brilliant at night, and one that was drawn up shone like a splendid lamp for some hours after it was dead. Naturalists have long been at work on this curious subject, and the source of the illuminating power is supposed to be contained in the little sacs or cells in the body of the animal.
—Harper's Young People.

SAIDIE'S FLOWERS.

Every morning through the summer,
From her little garden spot,
Saidie brings me pretty clusters
Of the flower forget-me-not.

But the name seems hard to Saidie,
Or does not her fancy please,
For she always says: "Good morning!
Here are some remember me's."

—St. Nicholas.

KEEPS Leather twice as soft and long—Vacuum Leather Oil; 25c, and your money back if you want it.

Patent lambskin-with-wool-on swob and book—How to Take Care of Leather—both free at the store.

Vacuum Oil Company, Rochester, N. Y.

Dr. King's Royal Germetuer

Is a unique, peerless preparation, which embodies the best and latest fruits of medical research, and differs radically from ordinary medicines in a number of particulars. Here are three of them:

1. It is as pleasant to take as lemonade.
2. It is harmless always—may be safely given to a babe one day old.
3. IT CURES WHEN ALL ELSE FAILS.

REV. SAM P. JONES SAYS:

"My wife, who was an invalid from nervous sick headache, has been entirely cured by six weeks' use of Dr. King's Royal Germetuer. Her health is perfect. In three weeks two of my children were cured completely of nasal catarrh. IT IS TRULY A GREAT REMEDY."

GENERAL LONGSTREET SAYS:

"I have suffered for months past from insomnia and indigestion, and failing of relief, was induced by a friend to try Dr. King's Royal Germetuer. I am now relieved, and I hope permanently so."

TESTED AND PROVED FOR YEARS.

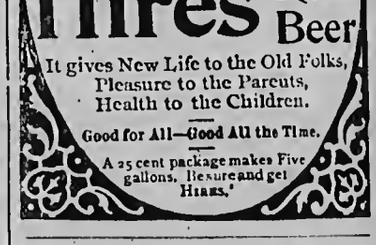
TARAY, MISS., April 21, 1893.

We have been using Dr. King's Royal Germetuer for several years in our family, and have recommended it to many others. It has always done what is claimed for it, as far as tried, and I regard it as the best medicine we have ever had in our family.

Mrs. J. J. HALBERT.

This great remedy presents an array of testimonials absolutely without a parallel in the history of medicines either as to character or number. These statements show that it cures Nervous Disorder, Stomach Troubles, Bowel Derangement in old or young, whether recent or chronic, Kidney and Bladder Troubles, Debility.

Give it a fair trial, and you will be convinced. $1 per bottle, 6 for $5.



ALL THE COMFORTS OF HOME
includes the great temperance drink
Hires' Root Beer
It gives New Life to the Old Folks,
Pleasure to the Parents,
Health to the Children.
Good for All—Good All the Time.
A 25 cent package makes Five gallons. Be sure and get Hires'.

READ THIS!

(I SEND BY MAIL.)

The Making of a Man (Lee)	$1 50
Peloubet's Notes on S. S. Lessons—1893	1 25
Hurlburt's Notes on S. S. Lessons—1893	1 25
Journey to Palestine (Carradine)	1 25
Behold the Lamb of God (Withers)	75
Methodism in Texas (Thrall)	75
Leaves from the Tree of Life (Pickett)	75
The Coming Kingdom (Wadsworth)	75
Christian's Secret of a Happy Life (Paper, fifty cents)	75
Sanctification (Carradine) (Paper, 40c.)	80
The American Epic (Paper, 50c.)	1 00
Lands of the Orient (Chapman)	1 25
Letters from the Orient (Mrs. Bishop Wilson)	1 00
Revisions of the Discipline (Peterson)	75
Book of Forms (for pastors) (Allen)	50
Man of Galilee	75
Methodist Steward	75

Methodist Hymn Books, 25c., 50c., $1, $1.50, $1.75, and $2 for small size.

Gospel Hymns, Living Songs, Cheerful Songs, The Revival, Notes of Praise, etc.

Marriage Certificates from 15c. to $3 each.

Bibles from 25c. to $25 each.

Order any book at publisher's price.

Include orders for Pens, Pencils, Ink and Stationery of all kinds.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,

RELIGIOUS BOOK AND CHART HOUSE,

106 Camp St., - - - New Orleans.

AGENTS WANTED ON SALARY or commission, to handle the new Patent Chemical Ink Erasing Pencil. The quickest and greatest selling novelty ever produced. Erases ink thoroughly in two seconds. No abrasion of paper. Works like magic. 200 to 500 per cent. profit. One Agent's sales amounted to $620 in six days. Another $32 in two hours. Previous experience not necessary. For terms and full particulars, address, The Monroe Eraser Mf'g Co., La Crosse, Wis. X 378.

HOPKINS' PRINTING OFFICE,

20 Commercial Place,

John P. Hopkins. New Orleans

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

DO YOU

Want a teacher for a Summer school? A bookkeeper for a few months while your regular man takes in the World's Fair? A fine young man for any kind of honorable work? If you do, write to DR. W. B. MURRAH, President, or J. W. CHAMBERS, Agent, of Millsaps College, and they will supply the man.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS 25 CTS

MARRIAGES.

SALES—McELWEE.—At the residence of the bride's father, about seven miles from Homer, La., June 1, 1893, by Rev. Robt. P. Howell, Mr. Wm. P. Sales to Miss Minnie Lee McElwee, both of Claiborne parish, La.

JARRELL—GILBERT.—At the residence of the bride's parents, near McNair, Miss., June 7, 1893 by Rev. J. A. B. Jones, Mr. Monroe Jarrell, of Columbia, La., and Miss Pearl Q. Gilbert, of Jefferson, Miss.

COOLEY—DOWNER.—In the Methodist Church, Pearlington, Miss., July 11, 1893, by Rev. Robt. B. Downer, Mr. Augustus Cooley, of Hillsville, Miss., to Miss Susie V. Downer.

What if the morning dies
And twilight's feet
Climb up the evening hills? The sunset skies
Are sweet.
What if the wings of life
Fold up and rest?
The bird is happiest, far from care and strife,
Within its nest.

—W. H. Field.

OBITUARIES.

We publish obituaries of 200 words free of charge; for all over this, one cent per word must be sent. If you want the notice to appear in its order, comply with this rule. Count the words, and send one cent for each word over 200.

IN MEMORIAM.

CHARLES H. DISQUE.

After an honored life did the solemn notes of the last curfew ring out his day of life; peacefully and willingly did his pure and spotless soul cross that shadowy river which lies between the shores of earth and eternity.

He was a native of New Orleans, and his friends were as numerous as his acquaintances. His life was one raised far above the commonplace by that conscientious devotion to the duty of the hour, whether that duty was the quiet, unostentatious following of the pursuits of daily life or on the battlefield where he gave four of the brightest years of his youth to the service of the Lost Cause. He left New Orleans as a member of the Louisiana Guards, Co. C, Crescent Regiment, and participated in the battles of Shiloh, Mansfield, and many others. He was ever a loyal adherent of the Lost Cause from the firing of the first gun to the day when its flag was furled and its gallant leaders laid down their arms.

In his religious life he had the faith and trust of a little child. His daily life in its simplicity, unvarying honor and integrity was proof of how every act and thought was guided and shaped by honesty and unselfishness, so as to be ready for the Master's eye.

He leaves a widow and three children to mourn his absence and the lost treasures of his love and companionship. He was visited during his last illness by his brother, Judge J. H. Disque, of Alabama; but was prevented from seeing his only daughter by the illness of her child.

He was a member of the Rayne Memorial Church. His funeral was attended by Rev. Frank Parker and Rev. Dr. Markham, who performed the last sad offices of friendship as well as of religion and ministerial duty for the lamented dead. The Association Army of Tennessee, of which he was a member, laid him to rest under a pall of fairest flowers out in the flowery fields of the Metairie. His family circle, the loving wife and affectionate children, have his life as their comfort, his love for them as their sweet, mournful memory, a meeting with him as their hope, and a knowledge of how ready and prepared he was as their great consolation. At peace with the world, with hope and trust in the Savior and in the heaven he had lived to gain, his soul gently passed away. "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." A FRIEND.

In addition to what is written above, the editor of the ADVOCATE desires to say, as facts within his own knowledge, that Bro. Disque was for many years a foremost church and Sunday-school worker in New Orleans; that he was one of the most trusted leaders and faithful workers of the Y. M. C. A. during the last yellow fever plague in this city; and that he had been an employee of the establishment of Messrs. Rice, Born & Co. for a period of twenty-three years, and was by them held in the highest esteem. May the blessing of the Lord he served abide with his loved ones!

TAGGART—Mrs. MARY TAGGART, daughter of Orlas and Serena Taylor, was born in Georgia, March 28, 1819; married, in 1835, to Dr. Patterson, who died in 1851; married, in 1863, to Mr. John Taggart, and died at her home, near Richland, Miss., March 14, 1893.

She joined the M. E. Church in early life, lived a consistent member, and, though greatly afflicted, attended the ministrations of the sanctuary whenever she was able. She faithfully performed her duties as wife, mother and friend, and her memory will be cherished ever and fondly by her loving aged husband, her only surviving child, Thomas Patterson, her relatives and friends, who hope to meet her in a purer, happier world than this.

A loving friend, MRS. E. Y. PEPPER.

Timothy Davis, postmaster at Pattersonville La., says: "Some years ago, while living in Algiers, I contracted a cough that everyone thought would cause my death. I was unable to sleep—had night-sweats, and soon became too weak to work. I had several doctors and tried many remedies, but with no improvement. An old friend hearing of my condition recommended Dr. Davis' Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar. It had cured him of a serious lung trouble, and he had great confidence in Davis' Wild Cherry and Tar. Before three bottles had been taken I was up and about, a well man. It saved my life. I always recommend it for consumption, asthma, bronchitis, any lung or throat trouble." One dollar bottles hold two and a half times as much as a 50c. bottle.

The Lutheran World says: "Prof. Huxley, now that he has become an old man looking eternity in the face, is not quite so sure of his materialistic theories as he once was. He is inclined to think that, perhaps, 'it is not all of death to die.' He has certainly read these lines of Tennyson's death song:

"'For I shall see my Pilot face to face
When I have crossed the bar,' and now he admits he, too, may need a pilot when he has 'crossed the bar' into an unknown ocean. May he find him."

Sympathy for the Distressed.

Our lives are all music if we but touch the chords rightly, so says one of our poets, and we all know there is a golden thread entering into the warp and woof of every-day life that is touched by sympathy for the distressed and suffering. At such a time what a boon to have on hand Dicks' Mul-en-ol to offer as a relief for cuts, burns, bruises, sprains and colic. It is soothing and cooling. Large bottles 50 cents.

In Japan.

Here is another composition by a student, corrected by me. A class named Eta were lower than Chugen, and not considered among the people. A merchant or a farmer had to bow as a knight passed, but an Eta needed not, being as a lower animal.

CHUGEN.

There was a time when the society was under the ordinance of feudal system in our country—thirty years ago. At that time the classes of the people were very evident, and the distinction between noble and common people was very great.

Chugen was one of the lowest class of the people. He was servant of a feudal lord or military man who formerly wore two swords. It was his duty to clean the lot of ground on which his master's house stood, boil the water in a wooden bath-tub, attend and carry the sedan chair, the spear and many other things for his master and master's family. He wore the coarse cloth always with the sign which showed his master's name on his back. He was not allowed to put on the beautiful cloth such as silk. He must walk with bare feet unless he put on the straw sandals. Although the day is rainy, he cannot put on his feet the wooden clogs, which are Japanese shoes in rainy weather, and he had no right and could carry only one sword, worn in the belt. His salary was very little, so that he could nourish his family scarcely, and his house was very poor, also belonging to his master, or rarely to himself; and there were many houses on the same place in which many Chugens were living. Thus Chugen was a very poor and sorrowful man; but the great man was known from Chugen very often.

The following is a sample of stories current among Japanese students:

SHIBA ONKO.

In a Chinese city there was a temple and a large jar near by filled with water. Many boys were playing on the jar's side. After a little one cried, "Oh, Ling is not here!" Every boy was astonished, and asked for him. "There," said one, looking into the jar, "he is drowning!" They gathered disturbed and dismayed; but no one did anything to save him. Then Onko took a large stone and broke the jar. The water ran out and the life was saved.

The priest, having heard it, became angry, and said: "Why did you break my jar? You must indemnity it!" Then Onko answered: "Yes, I will indemnity it; but hear, my priest! Which is more valuable, a boy or a jar? A boy becomes a man and does any act." The priest, moved, said: "You are a wise boy. Forgive my rudeness." Onko said, "I thank you," and returned home with great fame.

The following is a partial copy of a note received from a young man, and tells its own story:

My father is — years old, his name is ——, his proper work is ——. His health is very good now, and his nature is very honest. He is very kind to me and others. He likes to bestow upon a poor person. But he dislikes confidence in Christ. He thinks always that if we believe Christ we will become eccentric. Therefore my father does not permit me to believe Christ. I am very unlucky. If my father allowed it, I would go to church. O, you, think of me!

H. G. HAWKINS.

Matsuyama, Japan, June 4.

P. S.—Sister J. W. Lambuth sailed for America, May 31, per Canadian line, and on the night of May 30 Rev. W. A. Davis and Miss M. F. Bice, both members of the Mission, were happily married in Kobe. H. G. H.

Big Pecan Island.

I have just returned from my second trip to Big Pecan Island. It derives its name because of the wild groves of pecan trees on it. And it bears the name of an island, not that it is surrounded by water, but by water and mud; and I have found more of the latter than of the former.

It is twelve miles from the east end of Grand Chenier Island to the Big Pecan, and eight miles of this distance is marsh inhabited by snakes and alligators, but no large alligators, as their skins are too valuable for them to show themselves. But I find where they have been when my horse gets into one of their bottomless holes that they dug out before their skins came into market.

There are twenty-four families on the island. Half of these are Roman Catholics. Bro. Joe Burwick, a local elder, who came over from the Baptist ranks to our church about three years ago, was the first man who had grace and grit enough to go and preach the gospel to those people. He organized a church with twenty members about two years ago. They had no preaching until about three months ago I visited them, and the good Lord was with us, and we had a good revival, with two accessions, some conversions, and baptized seven infants. This time we had one accession, organized a Sunday-school with thirty-five members, and out of eight heads of families six have erected family altars. They have had a weekly prayer meeting since my first visit. We are thankful to God for the good that is being accomplished on Last Island. F. N. SWEENAY, L. D.

Rome Shows Her Teeth at Montreal.

Last week Montreal, as the seat of the International Christian Endeavor Convention, was the object of special attention. All Christian denominations were represented, and the proceedings were of unusual interest. A large tent for overflow meetings were pitched in Champ de Mars. At a meeting there, last Friday night, a native Hindoo missionary, Karmarthar, is reported to have exhibited specimen idols, before whom the natives bow down, and to have said: "There is a remarkable similarity between Romish worship and Hindoo worship. Romanism is but a new label on the old bottle of paganism, containing the deadly poison of idolatry. Often the Hindoos ask, when seeing the Romish worship, What is the difference between Christianity and Hindooism? In India we have not only to contend with the hydra-headed monster of idolatry, but also the octopus of Romanism."

Such an utterance would have excited no particular comment in any city of the United States, and is of the nature of a fact to which the Hindoos had a right to bear witness. It is alleged, also, that a Colorado Endeavorer declaimed publicly against the mother of Christ as a woman of ill repute. This may be set down as absolutely false; for no Endeavorer could hold any such views. Somebody wearing an Endeavor badge may have said it. If so, he said it as an enemy to the organization, and with the definite purpose to bring on trouble. Probably the same persons who decorated a drunken loafer with Endeavor badges and the California colors, were responsible for this blasphemous speech, if it was made.

The Romanists of the city waxed furious over the Hindoo's speech, and Friday night the nucleus of a mob formed, and threw rocks and cut some of the guy ropes of the tent. Saturday morning the papers took up the alleged insult, and the Romanists became uncontrollable. Saturday night, as the Convention was approaching its adjournment, notwithstanding the disavowal by the Convention of any responsibility for the offensive utterances, and of any hostility to the Catholic Church, an immense mob gathered, and undertook to break up the Convention, and was not finally dispersed by the police until midnight, and not without the most obstinate fighting for seven hours. At one time the attempt of a body of local militia to go to the rescue of the imperiled Endeavorers threatened to involve the city in a general and bloody struggle, and the police fought them and the mob indiscriminately. There seem to have been no weapons used but maces and clubs, and the result is cracked skulls rather than cords of dead men.

With great self-control, encouraged by assurance of police protection, the Convention carried out its Sunday program. The scenes at adjournment, as given in the press dispatches, were memorable.—Western Christian Advocate.

No mineral water will produce the beneficial results that follow taking ONE or more of "BEECHAM'S PILLS" with a glass of water immediately upon arising in the morning.

Painless. Effectual. Covered with a tasteless, soluble coating.
"Worth a guinea a box."—Price only 25 cents.
Of all druggists, or a box will be mailed on receipt of 25cts. in stamps by D. F. Allen Co., 365 Canal St., New York. 27

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR
The Celebrated
CHOCOLAT MENIER
Annual Sales Exceed 33 MILLION Lbs.
Write for Samples. Sent Free. Menier, Union Sq., N. Y.

Marble, Slate and Hardwood Mantels.
TILES for Fire-places and Floors. GRATES of all kinds.
SLATE HEARTHS. BUILDING MATERIAL.
GEO. M. LEAHY,
No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Designs and prices furnished on application.

Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.
Losses Paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3,236,091.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429,729.
All Losses Paid in Cash without Discount, as Soon as Adjusted.
Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office, the same as with local companies.
DIRECTORS IN NEW ORLEANS.
GUSTAF R. WESTFELDT, Chairman. L. C. FALLON. LUCAS E. MOORE. C. M. SORIA.
CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Resident Sec'y. H. V. OGDEN, Resident Secretary.

Home Insurance Co., of New Orleans
No. 78 CAMP STREET.

CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1886,	$400,479.08
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1887,	$413,860.76
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1888,	$459,369.50
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1889,	$510,584.54
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1890,	$551,897.82
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1891,	$600,414.81

Steadily Increasing in Strength and Popularity.
Solicits Fire and River Business
Liberal Settlements and Prompt Payments.
Thos. Sefton, Pres't. Capt. J. B. Woods, Vice-Pres't. Jno. G. Byrd, Sec'y
J. B. WOODS, JOS. BAYLE, JNO. BARKLEY, JNO. J. BARR, ANDREW STEWART, CHAS. CHAFFE. J. B. LEVERT, E. BORLAND, P. R. RICE, W. B. BLOOMFIELD, W. T. HARDIE, THOS. SEFTON.

W. B. LYMAN, President. JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-President. JOHN E. WHITING, Secretary
Crescent Insurance Com'y
Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.
Cash Capital, - - - - - - $300,000.
Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849. ANNUAL and TERM POLICIES Issued on Desirable Fire Business.
See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

—THE—
Great Southern Music House of
Philip Werlein
Is Prepared to Suit All Comers.
Elegant and Durable Pianos from $250 up.
Good Second-hand and Slightly Used Pianos from $50 up.
Send for Catalogues and Prices.
135 Canal St., New Orleans.

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.,
SUCCESSORS TO STERN'S Fert. and Chem. Manufacturing Com'y
14 UNION STREET, New Orleans, La.

MANUFACTURERS OF HIGH GRADE Bone Fertilizers, SUCH AS GROUND BONE ACID PHOSPHATE, KAINIT, Etc.
Write for Agricultural Hand-Book. Buyers of Cotton Seed.

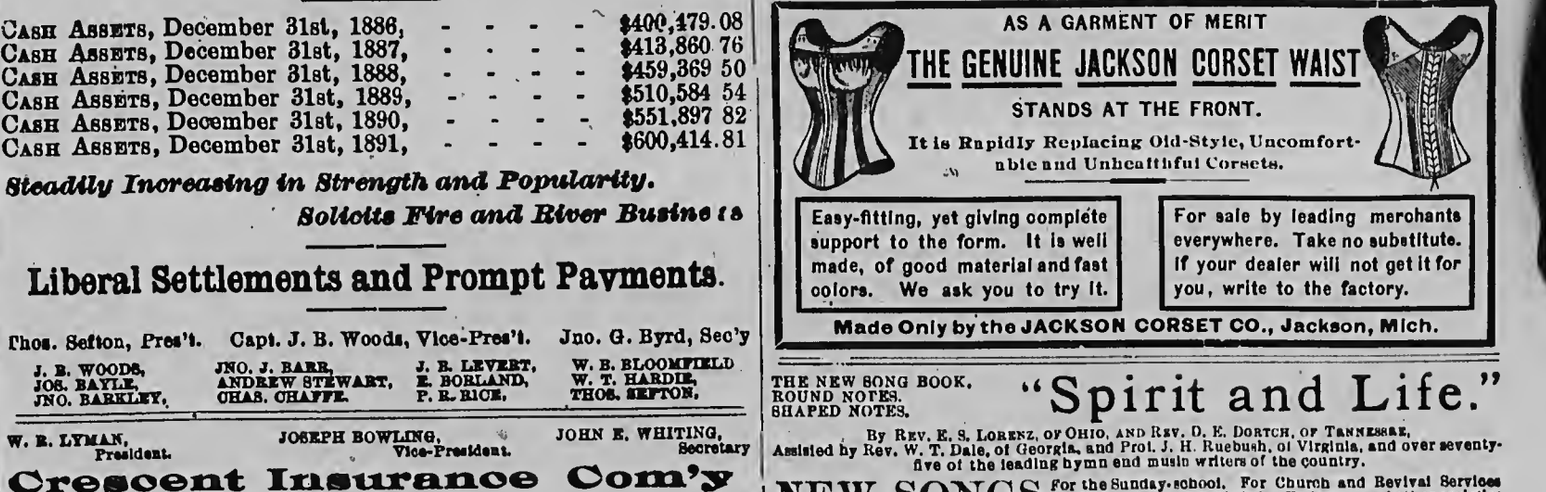
H. Dudley Coleman Machinery Co., Lim'd,
New Orleans, La.
STEAM ENGINES, BOILERS, MILLS AND MACHINERY.
Pumps, Pipe, Presses, Pulleys, Shafting,
Saw, Sugar and Corn Mills,
Cotton Gins, Feeders and Condensers.
Examine Our Stock. Our Prices Are Very Low.
FOUNDRY, FACTORY & OFFICE, Cor. Magnolia and Ereto Sts. | SUPPLIES & SAMPLE STORE 9 Perdido St. New Orleans, La.
If readers of this advertisement who wish to purchase goods in our line would mention this paper when writing for information or when ordering goods from us, we could then determine whether the money we pay for advertising in this paper is well invested or not.
H. DUDLEY COLEMAN MACHINERY CO., LIMITED. New Orleans, La.

Office Telephone, 82. Yard Telephone, 331.
Pennsylvania Coal Company,
Office, 67 Carondelet Street.
PITTSBURGH COAL.
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.
L. S. WIDNEY, Manager.
Cotton Presses, Factories, and the Family trade supplied at Lowest Market Rates.
CITY YARDS: Foot of Robin Street, Foot of Desire Street, Corner Short and St. Charles Avenue.

AS A GARMENT OF MERIT
THE GENUINE JACKSON CORSET WAIST
STANDS AT THE FRONT.
It is Rapidly Replacing Old-Style, Uncomfortable and Unhealthful Corsets.
Easy-fitting, yet giving complete support to the form. It is well made, of good material and fast colors. We ask you to try it.
For sale by leading merchants everywhere. Take no substitute. If your dealer will not get it for you, write to the factory.
Made Only by the JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.

THE NEW SONG BOOK. ROUND NOTES. SHAPED NOTES.
"Spirit and Life."
By REV. E. S. LORENZ, OF OHIO, AND REV. D. E. DORTCH, OF TENNESSEE, Assisted by Rev. W. T. Dale, of Georgia, and Prof. J. H. Ruebush, of Virginia, and over seventy-five of the leading hymn and music writers of the country.
NEW SONGS For the Sunday-school. For Church and Revival Services For Epworth Leagues, Christian Endeavor, and other societies
One of the grandest books ever issued. The hymns are eminently devout and evangelical; full of the spirit and life of Christ. The music is bright and fresh, easy and catching.
BEAUTIFULLY PRINTED. SUBSTANTIALLY BOUND. HANDSOME LITHOGRAPHED COVER.
PRICES: 35 cents per copy, postpaid, in any quantity; 30 cents per copy, by express, charges unpaid, in any quantity.
Be sure to see Children's Day Programs, "Rainbows of Promise," "The Children's Crusade," and "Children's Day Treasury, No. 3." The three for 15 cents.
BARBEE & SMITH, Publishing House M.E. Church, South, NASHVILLE, TENN. OR LORENZ & CO., Publishers, DAYTON, OHIO.

Latest Styles -- Lowest Prices!


This handsome Parlor Suit is upholstered on solid walnut frames with Imported Marbleized Silk Plush and the seats are all Spring Edge. Colors are Red, Red and Old Gold, Blue and Old Gold or each piece of a different color. For $45 I will sell seven pieces of this suit:—one Sofa, one Divan, one Patent Rocker, one Arm Chair and three Reception Chairs. $65 buys the complete suit of ten pieces consisting of two Sofas, one Divan, one Patent Rocker, one Arm Chair, and five Reception Chairs. Same suit covered with Hair Cloth, seven pieces $35 or ten pieces $55. Every other article in my store at proportionately low prices. Bedroom suits, twelve pieces, from $40 up to $1000. Dining room suits, eight pieces, from $17 upwards. Complete Kitchen outfits from $20 upwards. Quality at top—prices at bottom. I have an immense variety of strictly reliable goods and purchasers can depend upon getting the very latest styles. Everything guaranteed to be exactly as represented or money will be promptly refunded.
CHEAPEST FURNITURE HOUSE in New Orleans, 28 CAMP STREET 30 | J. G. GRANT, | CHEAPEST FURNITURE HOUSE in New Orleans, 28 CAMP STREET 30

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

The World's Fair was closed last Sunday.

A destructive fire occurred on Canal street, in this city, on July 22. Keiffer Bros.' wholesale shoe store was completely destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of about $300,000. One fireman was killed.

A company of militia and a gang of outlaws met in Wise county, Va., last week, and a fight ensued in which four soldiers were killed and six mortally wounded. One of the outlaws was fatally shot.

On last Saturday, with appropriate ceremonial, amid a houseful of the friends of the enterprise, the Waif's Home, under the care of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, was dedicated to the beneficent uses for which it was intended.

There was a splendid attendance at the convention of Levee Boards of Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi which convened in Baton Rouge, July 20, pursuant to the call of Gov. M. J. Foster. An address was issued. Congress will be urged to make liberal appropriations for levees, also to authorize the Mississippi River Commission to assume charge of the Arkansas river.

A special train of ten coaches left Birmingham, July 23 over the Kansas City, Memphis and Birmingham railroad for Pittsburg, Kan., having on board 500 negro miners, who are going to take the places of strikers in Southern Kansas. The train was made of cars of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road, which were sent there especially for that purpose. This is the first party of a series of several parties of negro miners that will go to Kansas during the next two weeks.

It is said President Cleveland has made, by one of the most competent officers of the government, a thorough canvass of both houses of Congress on the silver question. The conclusions reached by the President's canvass point to a long and exciting and bitter contest in both branches of Congress. The eventual repeal of the bill may be brought about, but not promptly. The extra session will doubtless run into the regular session without an agreement on this disturbing question.

The foreign exhibitors at the World's Fair held a meeting the other day and decided to bring claims against the government to the amount of $400,000. They assert that they have lost that much and more in exhibits ruined by snow, rain and sunshine. They make their claim against the government because, they say, the Fair is a government enterprise, and assert that a precedent has been established by the government's paying damages to the amount of $300,000 at the New Orleans Exposition. Congress has already passed a bill disclaiming any responsibility for damages incurred by the Chicago directory.

Congressmen who were most interested in defeating the passage of the Force bill, it is reported, may aid their Western colleagues in opposing the unconditional repeal of the Sherman Silver bill. This state of affairs is represented to have been brought about by correspondence between Western silver senators and many Southern senators. It is said that at the time the Force bill was before the House the Western silver senators bolted their party caucus to aid their Southern friends and resisted to the bitter end all efforts to "whip them into line;" that it was through their efforts, united with those of the solid Democratic minority, led by Senator Gorman, that the fight against the Force bill was successful.

FOREIGN.

Siam's reply to France's demands is deemed unsatisfactory, and Admiral Humanne has been ordered to institute the blockade.

Sixty thousand Italian women, led by the flower of aristocracy of Rome, are petitioning the Chamber against divorce. They consider it a religious offense.

All the clerks employed in the department of promotion in Mexico have donated part of their salaries to the government. The soldiers stationed at Matamoras have done the same thing, and it is certain that all the government employees throughout the republic will contribute toward aiding the government over the present financial crisis.

Emperor William's departure on a yachting cruise, during which he will visit several points in Sweden, and the adjournment of the Reichstag marked the beginning of the dead season in Berlin, which is in great contrast to the lively period of ferment caused by the Army bill. The respite, however, will be brief, since the government will soon be busy considering the Army bill budget.

It is said Russia will assist France in the difficulty with Siam, and China is expected to protect Siam. Siam has for many years paid tribute to China, but only as a matter of usage and convenience, and it is now apparent that China is determined to assist the Siamese against French encroachments upon their territory. The present and future position of Great Britain in Siam depends on the action that shall be taken by the French.

After Breakfast

To purify, vitalize and enrich the blood, and give nerve, bodily and digestive strength, take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Continue the medicine after every meal for a month or two.

Hood's Pills cure constipation. 25 cents.

Free! Free!

AN ELEGANT LITHOGRAPH PICTURE OF MILLSAPS COLLEGE.

We need $1,500 to pay for furniture already bought to finish furnishing the college and to make necessary improvements.

To everyone sending us $1 we will send the picture unframed, and to everyone sending us $5 we will send the picture neatly framed ready for hanging. Let us hear from you.

JOHN W. CHAMBERS, Agt.

Jackson, Miss.

Important Changes in Educational Institutions.

Staunton Vindicator, June 9, 1893.

Prof. W. W. Robertson, who for seven years has made one of the very best School Superintendents, not only that Staunton has had, but the State has had, has been elected President of the Wesleyan Female Institute for a term of five years. He is a young man, fully abreast with the most modern and complete system of education, and full of enthusiasm. He has declined positions in the capital of the State, and other States, to take this one, and there is little possibility that he will not, with proper backing, make it a success beyond even the highest expectations of the Baltimore Conference, under whose auspices it will be conducted.

Roanoke College.

Roanoke College, which has just celebrated its 40th Anniversary, offers at small cost many superior advantages, including a new gymnasium. The College draws its students from many States, Indian Territory, and Mexico, and has graduates in 33 States and 5 foreign countries. Its location in the attractive town of Salem in the beautiful Roanoke Valley is unsurpassed. The Annual Catalogue of 56 pages, with eight views of the College and vicinity, and the June number of the Roanoke Collegian will be sent free on application to Dr. Julius D. Dreher, President, Salem, Va.

An Educated Lady

Has undoubted advantages in Society, at home or—if called on by reason of misfortune in business or death—to provide for herself, has unfailing resources in her educational training which will enable her to gain a livelihood in the School, Concert room or Counting-room. For this reason we urge everyone to secure an education for their daughters as an unfailing bank account, as well as for the pleasure and profit which are to be derived from a liberal education. And among the very best Colleges to be found is LaGrange Female College, LaGrange, Ga.

For the past two years Wall & Mooney's School has sent to Vanderbilt University larger classes than any other school. Their record is unsurpassed, as shown by the following statistics taken from the honor roll of Vanderbilt University: In the Freshman Class, in Greek, only eight were on the honor roll, and two of the eight were from Wall & Mooney's school; in Freshman mathematics, three of eleven; in Sophomore Latin, three of eight; in Sophomore Greek, three of ten; in Sophomore English, five of sixteen; in Suphomore Mathematics, two of four; in Junior Mechanics of Engineering, the only man on the honor roll was from Wall & Mooney's school; also in Mechanics of Materials. The only pupil in the Freshman class who gained the honor roll in Latin, Greek, History, English and Mathematics was from Wall & Mooney's school.

Harvest Excursions, via Queen and Crescent Route.

AUGUST 2 AND 3, 1893.

Excursion tickets will be used from points in Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia and Louisiana, August 2 and 3, good to return 30 days from date of sale to points in Texas and the West. At one fare for the round trip, good to return 30 days from date of sale, and permitting stop overs at any point west of the Mississippi river.

For further particulars apply to any Q. & C. Agent, or to E. T. Charlton, D. P. A., Chattanooga, Tenn.; C. A. Baird, T. P. A., Chattanooga, Tenn.; J. R. McGregor, T. P. A., Birmingham, Ala.; J. S. Leith, T. P. A., Birmingham, Ala.

To Whom It May Concern.

Macon, Ga., March 13, 1893.

About three years ago I received a sample bottle of MULENOL. I had never heard of it before. I began using it, however, as occasion required, and soon found that it was all that is claimed for it, and more. For cuts, burns, bruises, scalds and all kinds of sores it is superior to any remedy I have ever used. Is is also exceedingly efficacious in colic and diarrhœa. For sore throat it is incomparably better than anything I know of. I heartily recommend it as a medicine worthy of a place in every household.

W. C. BLACK,
Pastor Mulberry St. Methodist Church.
Manufactured by F. A. Dicks, Natchez, Miss.

Illinois Central Railroad.

REDUCED RATES TO CHICAGO AND THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Tickets now on sale from New Orleans to Chicago and return at $36 75 for the round trip; sale to continue daily until Oct. 15, 1893, inclusive; good to return until Nov. 15, 1893. Remember that the Central Route is the only railroad from the South whose trains enter Chicago without transfer or detour in full view of the Exposition Buildings, and make regular stops at the World's Fair gates. (World's Fair Station—Midway Plaisance.)

For further particulars, tickets, etc., call on or address your local or nearest I. C. R. R. ticket agent.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Camp Meetings.

The Rapides Camp Meeting begins Aug. 19. The "camp" is situated in the edge of the rugged pine hills, on a brooklet, some eight miles nearly due south of Boyce. The Board of Trust have made ample provisions for the coming meeting, and it is thought this will be the best meeting ever held here. All ministers are invited. This is the place where visitors take hacks for the camping ground.

JAS. E. RINDLE.

Boyce, La.

The Cypress Camp Meeting will begin on Aug. 11. The camp ground is situated three miles from Stonewall, about eighteen miles south of Shreveport. There will be conveyance to and from the camp ground upon the arrival of each train. There will be board and other conveniences on the ground for the public. All are invited to attend. We extend a hearty invitation to the preachers who may wish to attend.

L. A. REED,
ROBERT RANDLE,
W. F. HENDERSON,
Preachers in charge.

Keachie, La.

When Weary and Languid

Use Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

When you are weary and languid with the heat of summer, and strive in vain to keep cool, and your temper also, the use of Horsford's Acid Phosphate will materially aid you.

Camp Meeting Calendar.

Camp Meet'g.	Begins.
Bethel	July 27
Scottsville	Aug. 8
Topisaw	Aug. 11
Cypress	Aug. 11
Victoria	Aug. 17
Orville-Whittington	Aug. 18
Sam Jones	Aug. 18
Rapides	Aug. 19
Henington	Aug. 24
Longlown	Aug. 25
Leaf River	Aug. 30
Mt. Zion	Sept. 21
St. Tammany	Sept. 22
Palmer	Sept. 30

An Only Daughter Cured of Consumption

When death was hourly expected from Consumption, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H. James was experimenting, he accidentally made a preparation of Indian Hemp, which cured his only child, and now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. Hemp also cures nightsweats, nausea at the stomach, and will break a fresh cold in twenty-four hours. Address Craddock & Co., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa., naming this paper.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SEASHORE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Columbia circuit, at Thomson's Chapel	July 29, 30
Moss Point	Aug. 5, 6
Americus circuit, at X Roads*	5-6
Whittington circuit, at Whittington*	11-13
Biloxi	12, 13
Williamsburg circuit, at Oakohays	19, 20
Ellisville circuit, at Sandersville	26, 27
Eastabuchie circuit, at L. River O. G.	30, Sept. 3
Heidelberg circuit, at Paniding	9, 10
Augusta cir. at Boone's Ch'l. (Th., Fri.)	14, 15
Vancleave circuit, at Mt. Zion	16, 17
Ocean Springs, at O. Springs (Wed.)	20
Talisheak circuit, at St. Tammany O. G.	23-10
Covington cir., at St. Tam'y O. G. (Mon.)	25
Bay St. Louis, at Handsborough	29, 30
Whittington c. (4th round), Palmer O. G.	30 to Oct. 3
E. Pearl miss., at Pine Grove. (Tues.)	10

The Conference for charges marked with * will be held on second day published.

Let special prayer be made by all our people for the camp meetings. Observe the quarterly fast. Have General Rules read, and registers on hand for examination. Preachers will please try to "clear the decks" of the collections during this quarter, at least in good subscriptions. Push the interests of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

HENRY E. PARTRIDGE, P. E.

Hattiesburg, Miss.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Caseyville, at Bethesda	July 29, 30
McComb City	Aug. 4
Adams, at Pisgah	5, 6
Lebanon, at Mizpah	8
Wesson	10
Holmesville and Topisaw, at Topisaw	12, 13
Bowerton, at Pleasant Valley	19, 20
Pleasant Grove, at Monticello	Sept. 2, 3
Ohina Grove, at Waterholes	5
Brookhaven circuit, at New Hope	9, 10
Terry circuit	15
Gadman, at Mt. Pleasant	16, 17
Hazlehurst	23
Providence, at Georgetown	23, 24

R. S. WOODWARD, P. E.

MERIDIAN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Vossburgh circuit, at McGowan	July 29, 30
Enterprise and S., at Mayerhoff	Aug. 5, 6
Daleville circuit, at Soule. (Thurs.)	10
Linwood circuit, at Linwood	12, 13
DeKalb circuit, at Marvin	12, 20
North Kemper, at Blair	26, 27
Ohunkey circuit	Sept. 2, 3
Marion circuit, at Pleasant Hill	9, 10
Why Not circuit	16, 17
Meridian—Central (Wed. night)	20
Lauderdale circuit (Thurs.)	21
Rinnsville circuit	23, 24

Attention is called to Questions 14 and 15. Registers and Records should be presented. Question 13 will be called where not properly answered on second round. Brethren, let us keep our vows to "recommend fasting or abstinence, both by precept and example," and let us continue to pray and look for the presence and power of the Holy Spirit.

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Decatur, at Union	July 28
Neshoba, at Philadelphia	29, 30
Walnut Grove, at White Plains	Aug. 1
Clarksburg, at Holly Bush	5, 6
Lake, at High Hill	9
Shiloh, at Bethany	12, 13
Brandon station	20, 21
Marvin, at Richland Academy	Sept. 1
Fannin, at Drake's	2, 3
Raleigh, at Trinity	7
Westville	9, 10
Homewood	16
Trenton, at Gasque	16, 17
Montrose, at Mt. Zion	23, 24

O. MCDONALD, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Washington, at Locust Grove	July 29, 30
Learned, at Reeves Chapel	Aug. 5, 6
Martin, at Rodney	13, 19
Sunflower, at Bethel (Sat.)	19
Rolling Fork, at Cary (Sun.)	20
Fayette, at Ebenezer	26, 27
Meadville, at New Providence (Tues.)	29
Warren, at Wesley Chapel	Sept. 3, 3
Port Gibson	9, 10
Rocky Springs	13, 17
Mayersville, at Mayersville	23, 24
Hermanville (Thur.)	28

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

North Wilkinson	July 27
Wilkinson, at Bethel	29, 30
East Baton Rouge, at Antioch	Aug. 3
Live Oak, at Dupont	4
Port Vincent, at Bayou Barbary	5, 6
Amite City, at Amita City	13, 19
Springfield, at Ponchatoula	13, 14
St. Helena, at Camp Ground	19, 20
East Feliciana, at Camp Ground	19, 26
Franklinton, at Tally's Chapel	26, 27

P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Edwards	July 29, 30
Renton, at New Hope	Aug. 5, 6
Sharon, at Forest Grove (Tues.)	6
Jackson—First Church	12, 13
Jackson—Capitol Street	13, 13
Madison, at Madisonville	19, 20
Silver Creek, at R. Lake (Wed.)	24
Lake City, at Ledi	26, 27
Yazoo circuit, at Anding (Tues.)	23
Camden, at Thomastown	Sept. 2, 3
Bolton, at Clinton	9, 10
Pocahontas, at Liberty Grove (Tues.)	12
Tranquil, at Locust Grove	16, 17
Canton	23, 24

E. H. MOUNGER, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

WINONA DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Brooklyn and Duhlin	July 29, 30
West	Aug. 5, 6
Carrollton circuit	12, 13
Black Hawk	19, 20
Winona circuit	26, 27
Walden circuit	Sept. 2, 3
Leherton	9, 10

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Shannon	July 29, 30
Prairie	Aug. 1
Aberdeen station	3
Amory and Smithville	5, 6
Saltillo	12, 13
Pontotoc	17
Houston and Wesley	19, 20
Athens	22
Okolona	26, 27
Tremont	Sept. 2, 3
Buena Vista	9, 10

J. B. STONE, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Mt. Vernon, at Fredonia	July 29, 30
Wall Hill (Wed.)	Aug. 2
Cockrum	5, 6
Arkabutla, at Sullivan's	12, 13
Pauola, at Mt. Olivet	19, 20
Morgansville mission (Tues.)	22

H. O. MORSHEAD, P. E.

COLUMBUS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Phebe (Fri.)	July 28
Columbus circuit	29, 30
Sparta	Aug. 5, 6
Sturges	12, 13
Hebron	19, 20
Brooksville (Mon.)	21
Mashulaville	23, 27
Shuqualak (Wed.)	30
Macon	Sept. 3, 3

T. C. WIER, P. E.

KOSCIUSKO DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Belzoni circuit, at Four Mile	July 29, 30
Stewart circuit, at South Union	Aug. 5, 6
Wier circuit, at Liberty Hill	19, 20
Chester circuit, at South Union	21
Louisville circuit, at Rocky Hill	26, 27
Eupora circuit, at Sapa	Sept. 3, 3
Rural Hill circuit, at Plattsburg	9, 10

Will the preacher in charge please see that the general rules are read, and that church register and the records of Church Conferences are presented for examination?

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, P. E.

HOLLY SPRINGS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Holly Springs and Early Grove	July 30, 31
Red Banks circuit	Aug. 5, 6
Ashland circuit	12, 13
Mt. Pleasant circuit	19, 20
East Holly Springs circuit	26, 27
Shelby Creek mission	Sept. 2, 3

J. W. HONNOLL, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Clarksdale (morn.)	July 30
Lynn (eve.)	30
New Salem	Aug. 6
Friar's Point	13
Selen	20

J. A. RANDOLPH, P. E.

GRENADA DISTRICT—THIRD ROUND.

Pittsboro	July 29, 30
Oxford station	Aug. 5, 6
Oberry Hill	12, 13
Atlanta	19, 20
Abbeville	26, 27
Sanner	Sept. 2, 3
Grenada circuit	9, 10
Water Valley circuit	16, 17

R. A. BURROUGHS, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Felicity (morn.)	July 30
Parker Chapel (eve.)	30
Rayne (morn.)	Aug. 6
Louisiana Ave (eve.)	6
Baton Rouge	13
Carondelet (morn.)	20
Moreau (eve.)	20
Gross Tete, at Bosedale	27
Dryades (morn.)	Sept. 3
Craps (eve.)	3
Plaq. and Donaldson, at Vacherie	10
Lower Coast, at Port Eads	17

C. W. CARTER, P. E.

ARCADIA DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Ringgold, at Brushwood	July 29, 30
Sparta, at Bear Creek	Aug. 3
Arcadia at Palms Chapel	5, 6
Summerfield, at Harmony Chapel	12, 13
Haynesville, at Flat Lick	19, 20
Valley, at Blockers Chapel	22, 23
Vernon at Wesley Chapel	26, 27
Gansville	Sept 2, 3
Vienna, at Pine Grove	9
Bnston station	10, 11

J. L. P. SHEPPARD, P. E.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

DeSoto, at Woodside	July 29, 30
North Bossier, at Walkers Chapel	Aug. 1, 2
Coushatta, at Brownsville	5, 6
Wesley, at Davis' Springs	7
West Natchitoches, at Shiloh	12
Anacoco and 3'th Vernon, at P. Island	12, 13
Grand Cane, at Cypress C. G.	15
Victoria mission, at Oak Grove	19
Cane River, at Ragans Chapel	20
Natchitoches station (Sun. night, Mon.)	20, 21
Many, at Negreet	25, 26
Fort Jessup, at Rocky Mount	27, 28

ROBT. J. HARP, P. E.

Address: 629 Hope St., Shreveport.

DELHI DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Delhi, at Delhi	July 29, 30
La Pine	Aug. 2
Winnsboro, at Prairie	3, 6
Lingrove, at Jones	12, 13
Calhoun, at L. Village	18
Harrisonburg, at Harrisonburg	19, 20
Oakley	22
Floyd, at Oak Grove	26, 27
Lake Providence	Sept. 2, 3
Waterproof	9, 10

H. O. WHITE, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Crowley	July 29, 30
New Iberia	Aug. 5, 6
Lake Charles, at B. Street	12, 13
Grand Chenier, at Johnson's Bayou	19, 20
S. Mine, at Calcasieu (Tu., Wed.)	22, 23
Jackson Street and W. Lake, at J. St.	26, 27
Lake Arthur (Wed., Thurs.)	30, 31

JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Lecompte and Evergreen, at L'compte	July 29, 30
Montgomery, at St. Maurice	Aug. 5, 6
Dry Creek, at D. C.	12, 13
Colfax and Sprug O., at Rapides C. G.	19, 20
Vidalia, at Vidalia	19, 20
Ohicot, at Elm Bayou	26, 27
Mellville, at Big Cane	Sept. 3, 3
Simsport	9, 10

The District Conference will convene at Lecompte on Thursday, July 27. The preachers will please bring the Quarterly Conference Records for inspection.

S. J. DAVIES, P. E.

If out of order, use BEECHAM'S PILLS.

See our splendid club offer at the head of "Personal" column.

WASHINGTON & LEE UNIVERSITY.—We call attention to the advertisement, in another column, of Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va. The Academic Department, as well as the professional schools of Law and Engineering, open Sept. 14.

Before selecting a school for your boys, you had better write for catalogue to Chas. S. Roller, Principal of Augusta Military Academy, Ft. Defiance, Va. (near Staunton). See advertisement in another column.

MANLY PURITY

To cleanse the blood, skin, and scalp of every eruption, impurity, and disease, whether simple, scrofulous, hereditary, or ulcerative, no agency in the world is so speedy, economical, and unfailing as the

CUTICURA

Remedies, consisting of CUTICURA, the great skin cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite skin purifier and beautifier, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood purifier and greatest of humor remedies. In a word, they are the greatest skin cures, blood purifiers, and humor remedies of modern times, and may be used in the treatment of every humor and disease, from eczema to scrofula, with the most gratifying and unfailing success. Sold everywhere. POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CORP., Boston. "How to Cure Blood Humors" mailed free.

PIMPLES, blackheads, red, rough hands and falling hair cured by CUTICURA SOAP.

RHEUMATIC PAINS

In one minute the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster relieves rheumatic, sciatic, hip, kidney, chest, and muscular pains and weaknesses. Price, 25c.

PATENTS THOMAS P. SIMPSON, Washington, D. C. No atty's fee until Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide

ROANOKE COLLEGE.

Choice of Courses for Degrees; high standard. Course in Physical Training in New Gymnasium. A Commercial Course. Library 17,000 volumes. Working Laboratory. Buildings improved. Steam heat. Healthful mountain climate. Expenses for nine months, $155 to $210 (fees, board, etc.) Aid to deserving students. Begins Sept. 13th. Catalogue, with 8 views, free. Address

JULIUS D. DREHER, Pres't, Salem, Va.

LAGRANGE FEMALE COLLEGE

LaGRANGE, GEORGIA.

Course—Literature, Music, Art, Normal course in each. Music and art first-class.

Location—Elevated, healthful, retired.

Advantages—Uniform, gymnasium, baths, electric lights. Pupils board with faculty. Industries, harmony. Sight-singing taught.

49 Session will begin Sept. 20, 1893.

EULER B. SMITH, SEC. RUFUS W. SMITH, PRES.

VIRGINIA MILITARY INSTITUTE,
LEXINGTON, VA.

55th Year. State Military, Scientific and Technical School. Thorough Courses in general and applied Chemistry, and in Engineering. Confers degree of graduate in Academic Course, also degrees of Bachelor of Science and Civil Engineer in Technical Courses. All expenses, including clothing and incidentals, provided at rate of $336.50 per month, as an average for the four years, exclusive of outfit. New Cadets report Sept. 1st.

GEN. SCOTT SHIPP, Superintendent.

WASHINGTON & LEE
UNIVERSITY, Lexington, Virginia.

Academic; Law; Engineering. Opens Sept. 14. For catalogue address

G. W. C. LEE, President.

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY, Location, in the healthful Shenandoah Valley, near Staunton, Virginia. English, Classical and Business courses with Military Training. For catalogue apply to Chas. S. Roller, Prin., Fort Defiance, Va.

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA.

Session begins 15th Sept. Full equipment and corps of instructors in Academical, Engineering, Law and Medical Departments. Excellent Climate. New Gymnasium, with baths free to all students. For catalogues address

WM. M. THORNTON, LL.D., Chairman.

Millsaps College,

Jackson, Miss.

The Second Session Begins Sept. 20th, 1893.

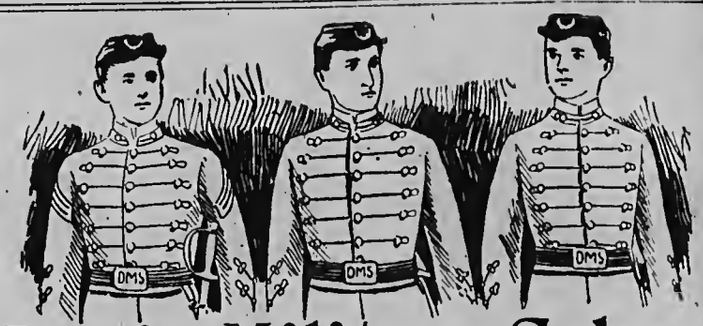
College Fees, Only $30 for the Entire Session.

Board in Students' Homes and in Private Families, $12 per month.

Provision has been made for the payment of the College Fees in the case of young preachers and the sons of preachers.

For Catalogue and other information address

W. B. MURRAH, PRESIDENT.



Davis Military School

For BOYS and YOUNG MEN.

A Military College. Preparatory Classes for those not prepared for College Classes. Full Course in Civil Engineering. Scientific Course. Classical Course. Complete Business College Department. Preparatory Medical Course for Young Men desiring to study Medicine. Practical instruction in Telegraphy. Location famous for Beauty and Health. Cornet Band and Orchestra. Instruction in Music and Art. We offer the advantages of a fine education at low rates. Write for Register. It gives full particulars. Address

DAVIS MILITARY SCHOOL, WINSTON, N. C.

MALONE COLLEGE

For Young Ladies.

HOLLY SPRINGS, MISSISSIPPI.

The Third Annual Session will begin Monday, Sept. 20, 1893.

Location, highest point in the State. Elevation, 613 feet.

Health unsurpassed in the Southwest.

Course thorough and comprehensive.

Each department under the charge of specialists.

Special advantages offered in music, art and elocution.

A HOME SCHOOL for pupils under Christian influences.

Terms moderate. For catalogues or further particulars address

Rev. J. W. HONNOLL, President.

WALL & MOONEY'S SCHOOL,

FRANKLIN, TENNESSEE.

S. V. WALL. W. D. MOONEY, A. M.

Fits Boys for College or Business.

Our Students Enter Vandorbilt on Certificate, Without Examination. Positive Engagement Necessary to Secure Admission.

Fall term will open August 29, 1893.

Address W. D. MOONEY, Secretary.

Classical and Commercial Institute,

7 PRYTANIA STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Regular session begins Sept. 4th. Students admitted at any time. Full Classical and Literary Courses. Commercial Sciences taught practically. Normal Penmanship. Shorthand and Type-writing, standard systems. Day and night classes. Ladies admitted to Commercial Department. Boarding Department under supervision of Principal. Write for circular.

Endorsed by the editor of the ADVOCATE and W. H. LaPrade, D. D., pastor of Carondelet Street church.

H. S. CUENET, A. M., Principal.
G. W. HARMAN, Prin. Com. Dep't. LYMAN C. REED, A. M., Assistant.

WESLEYAN FEMALE INSTITUTE Opens Sept. 6th, 1893.

STAUNTON, VIRGINIA. Climate and surroundings exceptional. Handsome buildings, now being remodeled, thoroughly renovated, repainted inside and outside, and refurnished with new pianos, carpets, &c. Steam heat, gas light, bath rooms on every floor. New Laboratory thoroughly equipped. Excellent Faculty of Experienced Teachers. Advanced courses in English, Latin, German, French, &c. Special advantages in Art. Conservatory Course in Music. One hundred and forty-one boarding pupils from eighteen States. Terms moderate. For Catalogues of this celebrated old Virginia school, address

W. W. ROBERTSON, President, Staunton, Virginia.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 40.—NO. 31. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, AUGUST 3, 1893. WHOLE NO. 1928.

Rev. J. M. BEARD, D. D., Editor and Publisher. } PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA CONFERENCE, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH. { ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

WITH OTHER EYES.

What soul was his when from the naked top
Of some bold head-land he beheld the sun Rise up and bathe the world in light. He looked—
Ocean and earth, the solid frame of earth
And ocean's liquid mass, beneath him lay
In gladness and deep joy. The clouds were touched,
And in their silent faces did he read
Unutterable love. Sound needed none,
Nor any voice of joy; his spirit drank
The spectacle; sensation, soul and form
All melted into him. They swallowed up
His animal being. In them did he live,
And by them did he live; they were his life.
In such access of mind, in such high hour
Of visitation from the living God,
Thought was not; in enjoyment it expired;
No thanks he breathed, he proffered no request;
Rapt into still communion that transcends
The imperfect offices of prayer and praise,
His mind was a thanksgiving to the power
That made him; it was blessedness and love.
—Wordsworth.

What God Hath Wrought; or, a Few Facts about First Church, of St. Louis.

As the time approaches for my entrance upon the work of an evangelist, I feel that a few words about First Church, my present appointment, is due that congregation, and may also prove interesting to my brethren of the Conference. There are many things we would like to speak of in connection with the church work, altar scenes, remarkable conversions, etc., but we have concluded to mention a few facts, and leave them with the reader.

In the first place, we would like to state that in the last twenty-one months we have had over 700 accessions. About half of these joined on profession of faith. Deducting the annual losses by death, withdrawal, and other causes, the present membership is now about 850. The congregations are large, and fill the building. For quite awhile we have had to line the aisles with chairs.

The activities of the church are numerous. There are three Sunday-schools, five class meetings, six regular prayer meetings, one or two weekly cottage prayer meetings, a Young People's Epworth League, a Dorcas Sewing Society for the Poor, a Parsonage and Home Mission Society, three Foreign Missionary Societies (Woman's, Young Ladies' and Children's), two female missionaries, a down-town mission, with preaching every night; a Rescue Home for fallen girls, and several bands of open-air workers, who sing, pray, testify and preach on the streets every Sabbath afternoon.

The finances of the church are equally remarkable. In the twenty-one months past there has been a steady advance from $3,700 to about $10,000. This is a clear lift of $5,000 or $6,000. Most of the money has come from new quarters. It is evident to anyone who will study the statistics of the past Conference that First Church has not obtained its wonderful increase of members and money from her sister churches. After deducting 150 members, and $1,200 said to have come to us from one church, yet there is still given an advance of $4,800, and an increase of over 550 members.

The works and enterprises of First Church are such that it takes a good amount of money to run them. Besides the regular church expenses, always heavy in a city, there are the salaries of the pastor, assistant pastor, two female missionaries, and the support needed for the "down-town mission," and the "Rescue Home." The monthly salary of the pastor is over $[illegible], the assistant $50, the female workers $30, the mission about $70, while the Rescue Home for over a year has secured from $50 to $75 a month. And yet God has so blessed this congregation, and so given the people a spirit of giving, that last month the receipts were $75 ahead of the expenditures. When it is remembered that there is not a rich man in the congregation, this exhibit becomes all the more remarkable.

The last thing we mention is the salvation feature. For twenty-one months First Church has been in a revival phase. We have often four altar services a week. It is a mistake to suppose that a revival should die out of a church; her one chief business is the saving of souls, and that all the time; and to do this, she must be in spiritual travail or revival power all the time.

It has been thoroughly demonstrated in First Church that a revival can last twenty-one months; and if twenty-one months, why not twenty-one years, and, indeed, so long as the church stands?

The faith of the people are constantly kept keyed up to expect God's saving power, and behold present results. Their trust is not disappointed. Many times has the Holy Spirit fallen upon the people during the regular service, while at the altar salvation has repeatedly rolled like a mighty tide. Two weeks ago there was such a remarkable outpouring of the Spirit upon the audience one night that scores of people in the neighborhood, attracted by the shouts and praises, ran to the church, filling the windows with their faces and forms to see what was the matter. They gazed upon another Pentecost.

Every Sunday night service has sufficient power to remind one of a camp meeting at high tide. We precede the night service with a prayer meeting in the church parlor. Forty or fifty of the members meet with their pastor and remain on their knees nearly an hour, praying for the outpouring of the Holy Ghost. And blessed be God! he does descend. Every Sabbath night we have conversions, reclamations and sanctifications. Between the mission and the church, it would be difficult to estimate how many souls have been converted and sanctified in the last twenty-one months.

There are over one hundred members—children, young people and adults—who will pray in public, while in the testimony meetings we have often five and six on the floor at once, ready and anxious to speak for Christ. Christian visitors from distant cities and States tell me that they have never seen anything like it.

As a crowning fact, I would mention that First Church has now two evangelists in the field, and next Fall will have several more. Besides this, she has ten boys and young men called of God to preach, and who, sooner or later, will knock at the door of the Annual Conference for admission.

We conclude with the question, If this is not spiritual prosperity, what, then, is it? Truly, every candid reader, as he glances over the facts stated in this communication—and they are facts well known in St. Louis—such a reader must admit that God is graciously and remarkably with the people of First Church.

B. CARRADINE.

A Notable Event.

A notable occasion at the Vanderbilt commencement was the valedictory of the venerable Dr. Garland, long chancellor of the university, and the installation of his successor, Dr. Kirkland. The following is a report of Bishop Keener's remarks on the occasion:

Dr. Kirkland, as the senior member of the college of Bishops, and as the official representative of one ministry, membership and people at this first instant of your inauguration, I most heartily greet you as the second chancellor of the Vanderbilt University of the M. E. Church, South.

Those noble persons whose full-length portraits now look upon this assembly, in the spirit of a great patriotism and a high estimate of Christian civilization laid the princely foundation of this institution, and committed it to the care of the Conferences and godly men who constitute the Board of Trust. This Board has, by due election, placed you at its head, charged with the responsibility of its many duties and vast possibilities.

The past administration of this trust has been eminently successful, guided by your venerable predecessor and others who have passed to their reward. The events of this day are the harbinger of an equal success in the future. The horizon of such a university is as wide as the fortunes of our common humanity. The lines of it go forth into all the earth. No language or people are hid from its light. Every barbarous shore will echo its voice in ceaseless murmurs of love and gratitude to God, who has committed to its care both the ministry and the word of reconciliation for the good of the nations, and for the glory of his name. Our own country will find in it a bulwark of truth and law. Built, as our American republic is, upon the sacredness of a Christian oath, it must look to denominational schools for its support in the departments of justice, of legislation, and of executive power. Only men who fear God and dare not violate the solemnity of a duly administered oath can be safely trusted with the lives and fortunes of the people who constitute these United States. The sanction and terror of that "blessed and only potentate, the King of kings and the Lord of lords, who only hath immortality, dwelling in the light which no man can approach unto; whom no man hath seen or can see; to whom be honor and power everlasting." This only is the adequate security for our liberties, our persons, and our property.

But, of necessity, behind the value of an oath, as a religious act, there must be taken for granted a whole series of religious ideas, which must be steadily inculcated in the minds of the people by primary teachings and by the most advanced methods of instruction.

A uniformity of moral sentiment can only be secured by the teaching of one and the same standard of divine truth—the Sacred Scriptures. And this not occasionally, but everywhere and always. A reverence for the Word of God taught in the house of God as well as in the homes of the people, is the one secure foundation of our Christian civilization.

Other institutions of learning may regard only the mercantile, the agricultural, or the political welfare of the nation; but this institution, and all others like it of the several denominations which cover this broad and happy republic, counsel and teach that godliness which is profitable for all things, for the life that now is as well as that which is to come.

May the blessing of God be upon you, my dear Doctor, as the chancellor of this university, and may he consummate and perfect in you those gracious qualities of heart and mind which, in the judgment of the Board of Trust, pre-eminently fit you for this high office!

Woman's Missionary Society, Mississippi Conference.

The destructive fire at Newton, the place chosen for the fourteenth annual meeting of the Mississippi Conference Woman's Missionary Society, necessitated a change. The Canton Auxiliary kindly came to the rescue, and we were hospitably entertained by the good people of that place from June 30 to the morning of July 4, which found the entire Conference, with but very few exceptions, on board the train homeward bound, happier and better from having been there. The urgent invitation to come again, and other tokens, justify the statement that our friends were richly repaid. With Rev. L. S. Jones and his estimable wife to aid in entertaining and helping in business, we may safely expect a good time.

Each session was opened with a half-hour's devotional service, which left its impress. Adamantine the heart that received not the baptism of the Holy Spirit at this meeting, which was pleasant and harmonious throughout. A goodly number of officers and delegates responded at roll-call, despite the sickness, and change of place at a late hour. Some splendid reports were read, Miss Smylie's district (Meridian) equaling, in the number of auxiliaries, all of the others combined. Jackson district was deprived of the district secretary last December by removal. Ill health of the district secretary of the Vicksburg district, and the late appointment of another, hindered the work on that district.

The address of welcome by Mrs. Coleman, of Canton, and response by Mrs. J. S. Parker, district secretary of the Seashore district, were most fitting and so highly appreciated that request was made for publication in the Minutes. The president, Miss A. V. Marshall, followed these with her well-prepared annual address.

We were favored with the presence of several of the brethren in the ministry, and the brethren of the Canton churches enjoyed being with us. We are indebted to Bro. J. P. Drake for presence and assistance during the meeting, and especially for the excellent sermon on Sunday, who enjoyed with us the delightful reception given by the auxiliary at the lovely home of Mrs. Smith, rendered charming to us by being so cordially received by her and her family. We were pleased to see that Bro. Drake was honored as one of the "big bugs." Some of us did not need the badge, and wore other souvenirs.

The Spanish girl whom Rev. Walter Featherstun, D. D., has given two years' board and instruction in McGehee College, preparatory for work in Mexico, was with us, and won many admirers and friends. We enjoyed her Spanish songs, her sweet voice giving pathos to her broken English in her pleadings for her country. The Canton Auxiliary most cheerfully pledged one month's expenses ($12.50), and the church two months. Rev. P. A. Johnston secured pledges at the Vicksburg District Conference, completing one year's expenses, Bro. W. A. Gunning, of Natchez, promising one-half. He has given one hundred dollars for the furnishing of a room in the Scarritt Training-school in honor of his sainted wife, who was one of our beloved members.

The Conference pledged two hundred dollars for the education of Miss McNemar, of Edwards, Miss., in the training-school, who offers her services to the Woman's Board of Missions. "How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things!" Mrs. White, of Lumberton, who offered her services to the Parent Board, touched our hearts by telling us her sad, but beautiful, experience, which ripened into a noble and Christ-like submission to our heavenly Father's will. Her fidelity to the mother was not without its reward.

Among the resolutions passed was one of thanks to Dr. Carter for kindly giving space to the editor of items in the NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE.

At the request of the Conference agent, Bro. L. S. Jones presented the claims and advantages of the Woman's Missionary Advocate and The Little Worker, and in such a forcible manner that ten of the Canton sisters subscribed to the Advocate. We wish the editor could have heard him. He said no delegate should be sent to the annual meeting who did not take the paper.

We were forcibly reminded on Sunday afternoon, at the missionary experience meeting, that we are always safe, though "the night is dark," while following the leadings of the Holy Spirit.

We were nicely entertained by the children of the Sabbath-school on Sunday night. The choir who so kindly led us in singing during the meeting inspired us with sweet music. A paper prepared and read by Miss Agnes Chrisman was too good not to be shared with others. The editor of the NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE will be requested to publish it. Also one by Miss Smylie (read on Monday) on the "Duties of District Secretaries." True to his Methodist loyalty, Bro. Jones took a collection.

Our hearts were gladdened on Monday morning by the visit of a fraternal delegate from our twin sister, the North Mississippi Conference. We appreciate and will return the visit (D. V.).

Several invitations were presented for the next annual meeting, but we deemed it fit that we go to Newton.

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper, administered at the close of the meeting, served a grand purpose. "Meet and remember me."

Statistics: Adult Auxiliaries, 65; Young People's and Juveniles, 14; total, 79. Members: Adults, 1,600; Young People's and Juveniles, 200; life members, 31; total, 1,831. Subscribers to the Woman's Missionary Advocate, 400; to Little Worker, 100.

We have seasons for concert of prayer, but how often do we have the prayer meeting of one for the spiritual anointing of ourselves for the work in hand? We learn of Chinese Gordon that during his first visit to London, "a handkerchief always lay outside his tent for half an hour each morning, and no foot dared enter the tent so guarded. Everyone knew that God and Gordon were alone in there together." As our Savior realized the need, and "departed into a solitary place and prayed," shall not we often put the handkerchief on guard duty, and be alone with God? The ever-watchful eye was a witness to our profession at the annual meeting, and demands a sacred remembrance.

MRS. E. D. JONES,
Editor W. M. Society, Miss. Conf.

Aberdeen District Conference.

The Conference of the Aberdeen district convened in the live and prosperous town of Tupelo, Miss., July 6, 1893. The first day was spent in the Sunday-school work. Bro. M. C. Snell, of Houston, was elected president, and he did his work well. About fifty Sunday-school workers were present to enter into and profit by the discussions. Seven topics—practical in their nature, upon the proper solution of which depends the continuity and vitality of the Sunday-school—furnished a broad foundation for the investigation of this important work. The discussions were practical and pointed, interspersed with prayer, and in some instances accompanied by manifestations of divine power.

On the following morning the District Conference organized for its work. The illness of our beloved presiding elder, Rev. J. B. Stone, left the Conference without a leader. The body exhibited its wisdom by electing Bro. G. J. Leftwich, of Aberdeen, chairman. He is a devoted Christian, a splendid presiding officer.

Every session was opened with devotional exercises, and the whole Conference was spiritual. The work of the Conference was facilitated by the use of written reports. Thus was given more time for the discussion of important questions.

Bro. Bachman was with us, magnifying his office by advertising and placing in the hands of the people the best literature the world affords.

Bro. J. W. Chambers, agent of Millsaps College, was present. The Conference was rejoiced to hear of the marvelous prosperity of this, our own school for boys.

Rev. T. J. Newell, president of Grenada Collegiate Institute, was there to represent our own school for girls. He reports a year of success far beyond his most sanguine anticipations. This institution deserves success. It should receive the daughters of the Methodists of our Conference.

Bros. Lagrone, presiding elder of Corinth district, and B. F. Phillips, of Booneville and Baldwyn charge, en route to their District Conference, spent an hour with us.

Rev. T. Masao, of Japan, was in the Conference. He delighted all with his lecture on Japan life, and, doubtless, augmented the missionary zeal of all Christians who heard him.

Bro. J. H. Mitchell, of Macon, was also with us. We enjoyed the presence and help of these brethren.

Bros. B. B. Sullivan, H. R. Tucker, J. W. Chambers, J. A. Bowen, W. W. Mitchell, Jno. H. Mitchell, M. E. Tumlin, T. J. Newell and J. C. Park did the preaching.

One young man was converted and joined the church during the session.

The next session will be held at Shannon, Miss.

Delegates elected to Annual Conference: M. C. Snell, G. J. Leftwich, S. T. Harkey, and A. T. Boggan. Alternates: J. H. Long and J. W. Miller.

The entertainment at Tupelo was such as to cause us to favor a return to this little city.

J. C. PARK, Sec.
Houston, Miss.

Notice.

WEEK OF PRAYER AND SELF-DENIAL.

MR. EDITOR: I want to re-announce the Week of Prayer and Self-Denial for the Indian Mission in Mississippi—Aug. 7 to 13. Will all the preachers announce, and all the preachers and people observe, the above time in interest of the poor heathen Indians? We need one thousand dollars, and how easy it will be to raise the whole amount in one week if the Mississippi and North Mississippi Conferences, and any others that will, will only deny themselves for Christ's sake of a small amount of earthly things! Oh, brethren and sisters, if we love Christ and desire the salvation of these greatly neglected people, let us remember and not forget to observe this special time for this special work! We may have all the money we need for this work in one week if our people will observe this time. Brethren and sisters, help me this one time.

Now, a great many of our people do not take the ADVOCATE. Let those that do hand them around, and also beg the people to keep this time, and then get amounts together and send to me by postoffice order on Vicksburg or Jackson, or registered letter to me at Oak Ridge, Warren county, Miss., and let us honor God in the salvation of the Indian in Mississippi.

Now, sisters, can't you spare me a few chickens or eggs?—and, brethren, can't you do without a few cigars, or something else, and send me the amount? I shall confidently wait, watch and pray for the means to make the mission a success. Shall I be disappointed? God forbid. And you that have subscribed, please send it on. Remember, amounts raised during Week of Prayer and Self-Denial are to be divided equally—to pay salary of missionaries and buy land for them; so let it come.

Your brother in Christ,

A. D. MILLER.
Oak Ridge, Miss., July 25, 1893.

A splendid Family Bible containing old and new versions, and selling at retail by publishers for $10, free for ten subscribers with the cash.

FROM THE WORK.

Rev. P. M. Brown, P. C.: "The work of God in this part of his vineyard moves on slowly, but we think steadily and surely. We closed recently a meeting of great power in Amite City. Bro. F. N. Parker was with us five days in the 'fullness of the Spirit.' Every service, from beginning to end, was one of marked spiritual power. Never have we seen the Spirit more forcibly at work in his convicting, converting and sanctifying power. To God be all the praise. More anon."

Rev. M. L. White, Mt. Carmel, Miss., July 22: "Just closed meeting at Bethel Church. Lasted seven days. Twenty accessions to church, fourteen children baptized, membership revived. Thanks to Bros. J. H. Evans and L. J. Jones for their services. All praise to our God."

Rev. J. F. Wynn, Pineville, La., July 25: "Am thankful to report glorious meetings at Fellowship and Holloway. About thirty conversions, and quite a number of sanctifications; fifteen added to the church. Bro. Manly was with me in the Spirit of the Master, and every sermon was owned of the Lord."

Rev. J. N. Tucker, Learned circuit, Mississippi Conference, July 21: "Yesterday evening we closed a protracted meeting at Roaves' Chapel. Visible results: Four infant and twelve adult baptisms, fifteen accessions to the church, several conversions, one family altar erected, the church generally revived, and eleven subscribers to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE on the club rate. Thanks to Bro. J. P. Drake, of Edwards, Miss., for valuable service rendered, and to God be all the praise."

Rev. W. W. Hopper, Meridian, Miss.: "On July 18 I closed a meeting of five days at Lockhart, Miss., with Rev. Geo. Bancroft, pastor. It was good from the first. Great power rested on the people, for there were many in the church who enjoyed religion and maintain a steady piety; but, praise the Lord! seven of this number entered gloriously into the experience of entire sanctification. Accessions five, and about one dozen conversions. Come-out-ism has injured the cause some in that community; but the people were ready for the preaching of sanctification when they knew it did not mean come-out-ism."

Rev. W. A. Bowlin, P. C., Water Valley circuit, July 22: "We have just closed our first protracted meeting, assisted by Rev. L. G. Boggan, and the Lord did manifest himself to us in great power to the driving of sin and Satan from our church. Brothers and sisters in the church who have been living a lie, in that they were not in love and on speaking terms with each other, buried the hatchet, and promised love to one another and loyalty to God. We had nine accessions to the church, and we are praying and expecting others to follow. We will begin another meeting to-morrow at Palestine. To God be all the praise."

Rev. L. T. Sargent, P. C., Nettleton and Fulton circuit, Aberdeen district, North Mississippi Conference, July 10: "Perhaps some of the anxious friends would like to know how we are getting on. I want to say, first, something about our Children's Day at Old Carolina Church the fourth Sabbath in June. Notwithstanding the extremely warm day, we had quite a crowd, and a nice and profitable time. The little folks performed their parts extremely well. Prof. Miller, of Smithville, was with us, and performed his part well as organist. The singing also by the choir was splendid. The speeches delivered by Messrs. Francis and Wygul were good and to the point. Prof. Miller also gave us a splendid lecture in the afternoon. It was a day long to be remembered by all. Our third Quarterly Conference will convene at Pine Grove the twenty-second and twenty-third of this month. We anticipate a good time. It is always a treat to the people of this country to hear the familiar voice of our beloved presiding elder, Rev. J. B. Stone. We have a Sabbath-school at every appointment on this part of the work. Our protracted meetings will soon commence. We are looking forward and praying for a grand revival all over the work."

LOWER COAST—PORT EADS.

Bro. Roy, the regular pastor of Lower Coast Mission, and your correspondent began a meeting at Port Eads the sixteenth instant, and ran it till the following Thursday, the twentieth. Four persons were received in the church on trial—i. e., they had their names put down as candidates. This was their request. The time spent there was varied with sailing, boating, fishing (we caught thirty-seven flounders one night after church), and sea-riding. It was our good fortune to go out to sea twice—once seven miles, and again five miles—with the bar pilots. To them we extend thanks. The sea was calm. Our work on the Lower Coast Mission is gradually becoming stronger. At the Jump and Port Eads no preacher has ever held service except Methodist preachers. Bro. Roy has the work well in hand, and the people love and respect him.

H. S. JOHNS.
Algiers, La., July 25, 1893.

IN THE DARK.

BY LUCY LARCOM.

O Thou who art my only light,
Thee do I follow through the night;
Though home and hope are out of sight,
Firm trust in Thee my spirit hath;
Thou knowest my path!

Although I can not see Thy face,
I feel the warmth of Thy embrace.
Enfold me in the dangerous place
Where sin lies waiting to betray;
Thou knowest my way.

O Thou who seest me through and through—
The thoughts I think, the deeds I do—
Thou knowest I would to Thee be true!
O draw me closer to Thy side,
My Lord, my guide.

Thou knewest me, lovedst me in the past,
Even when the tempter held me fast;
Thy wanderer has come home at last,
Never again from Thee to stray—
From Thee, my way.

I know not what may yet unfold
Beyond the mourning's gates of gold,
This is my heaven, Thy hand to hold,
Thy steps to follow through the night—
My life, my light.

Our Young People.

Back of the question of worldliness in the church, and of that of discipline, is one of far more serious import. If it was only a question of getting worldly members out of the church, we could soon solve that by expelling them, and letting them seek refuge in some other church; or if they are too hardened to amend, let them drift into perdition, where they will cease to vex and to trouble the righteous. But the difficulty does not end here; the influence that wrought the first evil will continue to work disaffection until we have disciplined ourselves out of a membership, and the world will be no better by our action.

The question is: How are we to so employ and direct our young people as to keep the world out of them, and through them out of the church, and, at the same time, establish them in the faith and in their church relations? It does not answer this question to say, "Get them soundly converted," any more than is the question of a living answered by teaching a man a trade. The regenerate soul can no more live and grow upon the fact of this single experience than the skilled workman can make a living and grow rich without applying what he has learned. Or as James so aptly puts it: "Even so faith, if it hath not works, is dead, being alone." So long as we get people into the church, as men catch wild animals—merely to cage them—will we have trouble, for people are not going to be caged in idleness merely to make a show. If the church does not provide the means for giving expression to the fact and the joy of religious life, the world will provide another class of pleasures, and they will be accepted.

For a number of years I have tried to discover the lack in the church that made the modern evangelist a necessity, and how he so supplied the demand as to make himself a success. I do not believe either is found in their abuse of the people or in the slang so many seem so eager to imitate. I believe they would be more successful if both these were omitted; for while there is almost universal condemnation of both these evils, there is an apologetic sufferance of them in the presence of the great good done. But I believe that the whole matter is explained in the fact that they make it possible for the people to give expression to religious zeal and feeling. Southern Methodism is starving to death at the very point where once she fed and grew strong. The time was when our people did not quench the life-giving power of the Holy Ghost out of their hearts; when conversion meant more than segregation from the world and worldliness; when it included the great joy of salvation in the heart, and earnest devotion to Christ in the life.

But we have lived out these days, and have lost the hallowed experience of our fathers. We get excited and make all sorts of demonstrations on all other occasions, while we sit stoical as stones under the strongest appeals of the Holy Ghost. That is a shoddy refinement and is born of the devil that scoffs at religious excitement, and gives way under the influence of all others. The church realizes this fact, and hence the man who can, by all sorts of pulpit ledgerdemain, create the possibility for giving expression to religious zeal and feeling is, and will be, in demand, though the cost in dollars be great, and though he be opposed by every preacher and Bishop in the land. Did ever any class of men since the days of St. Paul live and succeed in the face of such strong and combined opposition as have these evangelists? They are stronger today, and their work is more deeply rooted in the heart of the church than they have ever been, and if any man can give another and better reason for this fact than I have, I will be only too glad to hear from him.

Another fact, along this same line of thought, has most profoundly impressed me. For years past we preachers have, by word, and more especially by our conduct, persistently fought the camp meeting. We determined to count them out, and at one time I felt that success was assured. Yet in spite of the great expense, the sacrifice and the discouragement, the church has held to them, and is more determined to hold to them than ever before. Why is this? How are we to account for it? Does not the same fact that makes the evangelist a necessity also demand the camp meeting? May it not be after all that they are to prove to be the salvation of Southern Methodism from this great flood tide of worldliness? I find our very best people going to them, and giving as a reason for so doing that they need that liberty of religious expression that the camp meeting alone affords. And I also find that those churches and families that take the greatest interest in the camp meeting give their pastors the least trouble in worldliness.

If any wish to criticise these thoughts, let them do so freely. They can not more severely arraign me than I have arraigned myself. I freely confess these conclusions have been forced on me in spite of my will and of my prayers. But who am I that I should fight God's chosen methods? Are not his ways above my ways? Let us, my brethren, take hold of this mighty arm of power to the church in the past, and see what it is to her today. And let our Bishops cut loose from all local entanglements and take their places at the head of the column and lead the church back to Christ. We need more straw and dust and fewer gala days.

J. M. WEEMS.

Brookhaven, Miss.

Why Subscribe for the Advocate?

I send some extracts from an essay read at the Brandon District Conference on the Importance of the Church's Literature. There wasn't any resolution passed requesting its publication, though some of my friends intimated that I ought to have a part of it published in the ADVOCATE. I send these extracts, hoping they will be of service to the ADVOCATE and its readers.

"I wrote to the publisher the first of the year that if I were able I'd send the paper to half of my members for six months. Why? Because I believed it would be of great benefit to them. Because I recognized it as a great educator in Christian work and life. Because I was convinced it would be money profitably spent. I am satisfied when our people are convinced of the benefits and importance of the paper, they will continue to take and read it. What advantage is it to the preacher? The same that text-books are to the school teacher. The same that printed rules and regulations are to the president of any organization. Our ADVOCATE when read saves the preacher, at least, one-half of his preaching. Then it is so often better than we country preachers can do.

"When our people don't take the ADVOCATE, the preacher has to tell them who this preacher and presiding elder are; where each of the preachers was sent; when and where the Quarterly and District Conferences met; what they must do if they should happen to go; what each of these many collections are for, and through how many hands they pass. He has to tell them how to receive their next preacher. It's too late, if he dared, to tell them how their present one should have been received. He has to tell them the methods our stewards are using in collecting quarterage, and best methods for raising Conference collections. Has to tell the stewards what they ought to do; what other stewards are doing on other works, and how they are succeeding. All of which, and more, too, has been published in the ADVOCATE. And all of which it is necessary for them to know. If every member would read the ADVOCATE, it would save them from begging the information they ought to have gotten for themselves, besides supply them with enough energizing fire and spiritual food to keep them moving and growing from one sermon to the next. And also prepares them to partake of the gospel feast prepared for them by their preacher. Then they become well-disciplined soldiers. Not only so, but the younger members of the family who read the ADVOCATE, instead of being experts in wielding the yellow-back, paper-bound weapons of the devil, become familiar with all the Methodist tactics. Also with the failures, successes and all the movements of our grand old army. So when they enlist they are ready to labor anywhere and do efficient work. Instead of having to be hauled in the gospel wagon they gather hold and pull steady and strong. If you hitch them in without this training, they will sometimes be in the traces and sometimes out; sometimes pulling forward and sometimes backward. Just like some horses I have seen, called 'mustangs.' Yes, and many of the wild colts we catch out of the Methodist pastures, or families, are as hard to break to Christian work or harness as the mustang. For after you have seoured him with the church vows, and begin to approach him with the saddle of prayer, he begins to snort and go backward, and if you should happen to get it on him, he is liable to 'buck' it off before you can get it securely fastened. If you attempt to put on the collar of liberality, he will paw at you as if he were mad. If the traces of Christian work, by which he may aid in pulling the gospel wagon, when you go up to the right side he will turn the wrong, when you approach in front you will find yourself behind. But if by skillful management you succeed, he is so frightened that he stands there all trembling, too weak to pull anything. But when you put the breaching of holiness on him to keep the wagon from running down hill into worldly amusements and sins he begins to kick and continues till the elements are filled with particles of the Christian harness, till the preacher will not be able to decide whether he is in the midst of a modern cyclone or approaching the portals of perdition.

"All this may be obviated by circulating our church literature. What are some of the obstacles that lie in our way?

"First, Avarice. "The love of money is the root of all evil." Some of our members love money and gain more than they do knowledge, equipments, efficiency, or God. Those members read only that that aids them in making money.

"Second, Covetousness. Some are so selfish as to want to use all on themselves. They would not deprive themselves of one pair of shoes during the year for the privilege of having the ADVOCATE the whole year. It isn't because people are poor that they don't take our paper, as some suppose. There is not a Methodist family within the bounds of this district that can not take the paper, for I will venture the assertion that the poorest family uses two dollars' worth of tobacco a year. Now, why don't they give the two dollars for the ADVOCATE instead of the tobacco? Because they love the tobacco more. I don't think their physical being would be impaired as much for the want of the tobacco as their spiritual being for want of the paper. Which is more important, physical or spiritual food? Christ says, 'Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you.' There is not a family that can not raise chickens enough to pay for tobacco for the father, snuff for the mother, a few cigarettes for the boys, and the ADVOCATE for the girls.

"Third, Prejudice. Some because they think the paper is making big money, and the church thus speculating, which they don't think is the right thing for a Christian church to do. Some because it has advertisements in it. All these and many other difficulties confront an earnest worker for our paper. But let us not be daunted; but let us work the harder.

"About the hardest thing a preacher has to do is to pull the gospel wagon with a majority of the members pulling the other way. So the first thing to do, if possible, is to get all the members to pull in the same direction. When a preacher succeeds in doing this, he has virtually removed every obstacle in his way to success. The easiest and most successful way to do this is to get them to read the ADVOCATE.

"Then, brethren, let us talk up our ADVOCATE and other literature like a real estate man does his town lot. Then you will see Methodism build up."

W. M. WILLIAMS.

Decatur, Miss.

North Mississippi Conference Notes.

The District Conferences—nine—have all been held, and this scribe had the opportunity of attending seven of them. Only one was honored with the presence of a Bishop. In one case—Aberdeen district—the presiding elder, Rev. J. B. Stone, could not be present by reason of personal sickness, and a layman, Hon. G. J. Leftwich, was chosen to preside, which he did creditably and satisfactorily.

In connection with nearly every District Conference a Sunday-school Conference has been held with interest and profit. These meetings, where preachers and people take counsel together for Christian work, can not be otherwise than beneficial. We ought to have more of them in every district and pastoral charge.

The writer is just home off a three and a half weeks' tour, during which he visited the Woman's Missionary Conference at Water Valley, District Conferences at Coffeeville, New Albany and Tupelo; aided in a meeting at Fulton, and made several other calls.

Fulton is the county seat of Itawamba county, and is populated by clever people. Here the Methodists have a neat church-house—the only one in town—and a good membership. Rev. J. W. Hargrove, L. P., is the pastor this year. By his invitation it was my privilege to help in a meeting there one week, which was a season of spiritual refreshing to our souls. We held three services each day, which were well attended and heartily participated in by men, women and children. Three joined the church, and nearly all the membership were revived in "the old-time religion." Revs. Davenport, Sargent and Raper were present a portion of the time, rendering valuable service and partaking of the joys. It will afford me great pleasure to see Fulton again and mingle with its kind and appreciative people.

We are expecting a general revival in our bounds this year. The flame is already burning in many places. Protracted and camp meetings will be the order for the next two months. Let us use the means to make them each and all occasions of great spiritual power.

G. W. BACHMAN.

Kosciusko, Miss.

Woman's Missionary Society of North Mississippi Conference.

On Saturday night, June 24, the women of the North Mississippi Conference Missionary Society met for the annual praise and preparation service in the Methodist Church in Water Valley. The Spirit of the Lord was present in this, our first meeting, and it was, indeed, a preparation for the communion of saints that was ours throughout the Conference. The annual sermon preached on Sunday, at 11 A. M., by Rev. T. B. Malone, of Grenada, from Acts 1, 8, was an inspiring missionary effort, urging us not only to witness faithfully to the uttermost parts of the earth, but also faithfully in "Jerusalem and Judea."

On Sunday afternoon a children's service was held, and our young Japanese Bro. Masao, from Vanderbilt University, who was with us, gave the children an interesting and touching address. Sister Hargrove followed him in a brief, but impressive, talk, and Bro. Malone also added a few words of warning, vividly illustrated. Little Lou Taylor sang so sweetly, "Scatter Sunshine."

On Sunday evening, at 8:30 o'clock, the address of welcome from Water Valley was delivered by Mrs. Binford, and responded to by Mrs. Dean, of Iuka. The annual address of the president, strong and wise, reviewing the work, discussing its present needs, and giving as the motto for the coming year, "Enlarge Thy Borders," was then delivered. Music and recitations added to the pleasure of the evening.

At 8:30 A. M., Monday, the business of the Conference was commenced. After the devotional exercises the president took the chair, assumed her official manner and tone, and called the meeting to order. Sixty-six delegates and officers responded to the roll—the largest number we have had. The business sessions were delightful. Matters were not always despatched with the desired speed, and one more morning was consumed by business than has been our custom; but the intercourse of the Conference room was very pleasant and harmonious, not that there were no differences of opinion—among what thinking body of women are there not?—but these were the occasion of no unsisterly wrangling, but were discussed with loving candor, and settled to the apparent satisfaction of all. Doubtless, there were those in the condition of the "woman convinced against her will;" but they gave no signs of dissatisfaction or harbored resentment.

The mornings and afternoons of Monday and Tuesday and the morning of Wednesday were given strictly to business. Reports of officers, delegates, committees; discussions of the needs and best methods of work, occupied the time profitably and well. The past year has not brought the increased forces that we had desired, but auxiliary reports show faithful work among our ranks. Our treasurer's report shows that the depression in money matters has affected our receipts for the past year about $500. We were sorry to know this, and trust it will never be so again.

The committee on nomination of Conference officers brought in the following report, which was adopted by the Conference: For president, Mrs. Nannie B. Fant; vice-president, Mrs. S. M. Thames; corresponding secretary, Mrs. T. B. Hargrove; treasurer, Miss Mollie Clark; recording secretary, Miss Carrie Gillespie; auditor, Mrs. J. F. Evans.

We regretted that Sister Stone found it necessary to resign her position as corresponding secretary, which she has held for fifteen years. We fully appreciate that what we are as a Conference society, and what we have done for our Master in foreign fields, is largely due to her untiring efforts, and we give her up very reluctantly. The room in the Bible and Training-school for which we appropriated money is to be called the M. Koger Stone room, as a little tribute which we delight to offer to her loving devotion to the work.

On Monday night the reports of secretary and treasurer were re-read, that the public might be posted concerning our work for the past year; also the report of our delegate to the Woman's Board of Missions, and letters from Mrs. Addie Gordon Burke, of China, and Lelia Lipscomb Waters, of Japan.

On Tuesday night Bro. Masao made an interesting and impressive lecture on the work in Japan. His presence added interest to our meeting, and his words were an inspiration to us to labor more faithfully for the spread of the gospel, that our heathen sisters everywhere may know the liberty wherewith Christ has made us free.

Never before has it been the sad pleasure of the North Mississippi Conference Missionary Society to honor its dead; but on Tuesday afternoon we gathered to offer a loving tribute to the memory of our honorary life member, Rev. Geo. S. Inge. Many testified to his devotion to the Master's cause and his yearning love for the souls of men. As we mingled our tears we rejoiced in his joy, and gathered strength to press on.

Water Valley has made herself famous in the annals of the Woman's Missionary Society by her generous hospitality and cordial entertainment of delegates and visitors. On Monday evening the ladies of the town entertained the society at a tea in the church-yard, and there under the trees seated in groups we chatted, drank ice tea, and ate—well, never mind what or how much; suffice it to say, all voted it charming. Many grateful remembrances are stored to the credit of Water Valley in the hearts of North Mississippi women.

Kosciusko was chosen as the place for the next meeting.

This is the record of such things as can be recorded; but who can tell of the vows to more faithful service, the heart yearnings after a closer walk with God, the deepened love for each other, recorded only in the record book on high, which filled our hearts as we, woman-like, kissed each other and turned our faces homeward?

MRS. GEO. H. LIPSCOMB.

Cyclones and Pits.

In and near districts that have been visited recently by cyclones the principal talk, especially during threatening weather, is about cyclones and pits. So much has been said that even the little children are scared by the appearance of nearly every cloud. We are heartily mortified at professing Christians of the different churches. They act as if the devil was turned loose upon the earth, and that God had given it up to him, and left it entirely to his control. Some claim that the devil causes the cyclone. This, we are sorry to say, is the teaching of some of the ministers of our Mississippi Conference. How anybody that has read the Bible, much less studied it at all, can believe such stuff, I am unable to say. No one knows how demoralized many people—children, young people, old people—whether members of the church or not, and even ministers of the gospel of Christ, have become in and near cyclone districts but him who has had an opportunity to take knowledge of matters during signs of stormy weather in such districts. People—young, old, and of all ages—are running in holes in the ground like rats and snakes at the appearance of every angry-looking cloud. Old people who are old and helpless insist on being carried into these holes to share protection with the rest of their inmates. People have been known to stay all night in them, however damp or muddy, being afraid to come out. What a comment on the faith of believers! What a comment on the faith of those who profess to be the children of the God of heaven! I had rather that my blessed Lord would kill me outright by the cyclone, and take me on to heaven, than to be branded with such distrust and cowardice as to leave my house and, like a cowardly rat, run in a hole in the ground. What can we hope for our children in the matter of trusting God as their Father by running in the ground from every cloud, or any cloud at all? We can not hope for anything for their good. We will bring up children full of distrust and slavish fear. Why, there are people who will not go to church if the weather is little threatening, because they are afraid a cyclone will catch them away from their pit or hiding-hole in the ground. Is it not awful that such a state of things exists? It is. But, before we close, let us see if the Bible teaches that God controls the cyclone. It is true the word cyclone does not occur in the Bible, because it is of recent application to wind, but the words "storm," "wind" and "whirlwind," which express the same thing, do. David, in speaking of God, said: "He did fly upon the wings of the wind." (Psa. xviii, 10.) "Who walketh upon the wings of the wind." (Psa. civ, 3.) "For he commandeth and raiseth the stormy wind." (Psa. cvii, 25.) "Stormy wind fulfilling his word." (Psa. cxlviii, 8.) In Jonah it is said: "But the Lord sent out a great wind into the sea, and there was a mighty tempest in the sea." (Jonah i, 4.) "Then the Lord answered Job out of the whirlwind." (Job xxxviii, 1.) "The whirlwind of the Lord goeth forth with fury." (Jer. xxx, 23.) "The Lord hath his way in the whirlwind and in the storm." (Nahum i, 3.) "The Lord God . . . shall go with whirlwinds of the south." (Zech. ix, 14.) God is said to "bring forth the wind out of his treasures." (Jer. x, 13.) If God sends the wind as a chastisement, the people should not run. If they do, they will be like a disobedient child running from its parent, who is going to punish him, and, therefore, would deserve double, or more than he purposed to give him. If God does not send them as a chastisement, then why should his children fear? "The angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him, and delivereth them." (Psa. xxxiv, 7.)

ISAAC L. PEEBLES.

In Memoriam.

On Thursday, July 20, 1893, Rev. George E. Greene passed from life into life eternal. One of our most cultured and promising young men has been called away. I had known him from a boy and always admired his untiring industry and modest demeanor. Under that quiet, unostentatious appearance was hidden the mind of a scholar and the heart of a true disciple of Christ. While a student at Centenary College he won the scholarship medal for proficiency in Greek, and was more familiar with Livy and Tacitus than some I have seen holding a professor's chair as teachers of ancient languages. But why tell of mere worldly wisdom when he lies sleeping awaiting the resurrection of the just? Because in this as in many things he was an example unto us. Still with a brighter lustre glow the graces of the loyal, earnest, devoted minister of Jesus Christ. He was deeply pious, and his piety was grounded upon the sure conclusions he had arrived at from earnest, careful thought. Careful and painstaking in his work, there was no important item in connection with his church and pastoral work that could not be given on short notice. His reports were models of accuracy and neatness. His ministry yielded the fruits of righteousness and peace among the people. Though not eloquent in the ordinary sense of the term, there was in his preaching a deep strain of earnestness and thought that carried conviction to the mind of his hearer.

None of us can know or tell why God called him hence. He seemed just ready to do his best work for the Master and his kingdom. Perhaps, we never shall know, while in this mysterious life this side the grave, with its strange lights and shadows. But God knows—yes, he knows. On the further shore the light will break, but it's dark on this now. May the God of Israel give grace and consolation to the desolate widow and care for the fatherless child!

S. J. DAVIS.

East Mississippi Female College, Meridian, Miss.

This institution of learning has just closed with great eclat one of its most prosperous sessions. There have been years when there was a larger number of boarders, but probably none in which there was better health, more interest and success in study, a higher mark in recitations, or a more brilliant exhibition of pedagogic skill and scholarly devotion to class work. The retiring president, C. W. Anderson, takes leave of the trustees, teachers, pupils and their parents with assurances of universal good-will.

Rev. T. B. Holloman, who has been pastor of the large congregation at Wesson, and who is said by some to be the most popular member of the Mississippi Conference, has been elected president for the incoming year. He is a graduate of Emory and Henry College, a fine preacher, an urbane Christian gentleman, a genial, consecrated and diligent man of God, and comes to us because we sought him.

The outlook is encouraging for both local and distant patronage. The imposing and beautiful buildings furnish ample accommodations for 250 girls, and every attention is being paid to the health, comfort and application of the crowd we are confidently expecting at the opening of the next term. Large plans—financial and moral, as well as educational—are being discussed, and it would not surprise me if our liberal and enterprising trustees did not bring the institution up to the level of the foremost schools in the South for girls.

Now that every prospect pleases, let the friends of this institution rally to its support, and send their daughters here from all East Mississippi.

CHAS. F. EVANS.

Meridian, Miss.

Notice.

To the Pastors and Sunday-school Superintendents of North Mississippi Conference—

Dear Brethren: Will you please send at once the full amount of Children's Day collections to the treasurer, Rev. O. L. Savage, Indianola, Miss., or to myself. We send the ten per cent. to treasurer at Nashville. The fund on hand is about exhausted, and applications are coming in for help, as appropriated by the Board. So your prompt action will be appreciated and will enable us to do much good during the Summer.

It is a misappropriation and illegitimate for the money raised on Children's Day to be applied locally, or otherwise than as directed in the Discipline, page 142, paragraph 245. Read also Sunday-school Report in Conference Minutes (1892), page 29.

G. W. BACHMAN,
Sunday-School Agent.

Kosciusko, Miss.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL LESSON.—Aug. 6, 1893.

PREPARED BY REV. A. F. WATKINS.

Paul at Miletus.

(Acts xx, 22-35)

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Remember them which have the rule over you, who have spoken unto you the word of God." (Heb. xiii, 7.)

TOPICAL OUTLINE.—I. His Unknown Future (vs. 22-27). II. Parting Counsels (vs. 28-31). III. Commended to God (vs. 32-35).

CENTRAL THOUGHT.—Consecration.

HOME READINGS.

Sunday (July 30)—Paul at Troas. (Acts xx, 1-12.)
Monday—Paul at Miletus. (Acts xx, 13-21.)
Tuesday—Paul at Miletus. (Acts xx, 22-38.)
Wednesday—Christian Duties. (Rom. xii, 1-9.)
Thursday—Christian Devotedness. (Rom xii, 10-21.)
Friday—Faithful Ministry. (II. Cor. iv, 1-10.)
Saturday—Retrospect and Prospect. (II. Tim. iv, 1-8.)

INTRODUCTORY.

TIME.—April, A. D. 58 or 59. (Pelonbet says April 23, A. D. 58.) Ten months after our last lesson.

PLACE.—Miletus, a celebrated city of Caria, in Asia Minor. It was situated at the mouth of the river Meander, and was thirty miles south of Ephesus.

PERSONS.—1. Paul, 2. Luke, 3. The Ephesian Elders.

CONNECTING LINKS.—After three years spent in successful missionary labor in Ephesus, Paul is made again to feel the enmity of both Jew and Greek. The religious zeal of the latter is worked upon by a cunning artisan, and they are made to resent a seeming insult to their goddess Artemis. The former, of course, care nothing for injury done to the heathen goddess, their inveterate hatred to the apostle causing them to be always ready to make war upon him. This conflict probably hastened the carrying out of a purpose formed some time before of visiting the Macedonian churches. He had already sent Timothy and Erastus into Macedonia (see chapter xix, 22), and thither he now goes. After passing hurriedly through the northern provinces, he again visits Corinth, where he spends three months. Keeping in mind his purpose to reach Jerusalem by the day of Pentecost, he was about to sail for Syria, when he discovered a plot formed by the Corinthian Jews to put him to death, and to avoid their snare he returned through Macedonia. At Philippi, where he was joined by Luke and others, he observed the feast of unleavened bread, and then sailed for Asia, reaching Troas after a protracted journey of five days. From Troas to Assos, from Assos to Mitylene, thence to Samos, thence to Trogyllium, and thence to Miletus, he sailed hurrying to Jerusalem, "bound in the Spirit." Unwilling to tarry at Ephesus, lest he should fail to carry out his purpose to spend the day of Pentecost in Jerusalem, he sends for the elders of the church to meet him at Miletus, where he delivers to them the address, from which our lesson is taken.

EXPLANATORY.

I.—HIS UNKNOWN FUTURE.

Ver. 22. "Bound in Spirit." Paul felt an inward compulsion to go to Jerusalem. The Holy Spirit, moving upon his own spirit, led him by a conviction of duty. "Not known." Paul's prophetic gifts did not enable him to read his own future. He did not care to know. It was enough for him to know that he was under the guidance of his Lord.

Ver. 23. He did not know his future; but in every city prophetic declarations had been uttered by his brethren, and in his own heart the Spirit's testimony had been felt that bonds and afflictions awaited him.

Ver. 24. This was no idle boast. In intensest pain and extremest perils his composure was unmoved, his faith never wavered, his courage was undaunted. These words were not uttered by one who theorized upon suffering, or one whose philosophy caused him to despise life; but by one who had tasted suffering, and whose religion placed the highest estimate upon the nobility of life. It is not a stoical resignation to the inevitable that finds expression here, but a heroic subordination of all things to the carrying out of a noble purpose. Ease, pleasure, safety, life, were all counted as nothing; the completion of his ministry was everything to him.

Ver. 25. In order that his words might be more deeply impressive he expresses the strong conviction that they would never see his face again. Whether or not he ever visited Ephesus is uncertain, though it is probable that he did; whether he did or not, it makes no difference. Paul was not omniscient; he states that the future is unknown to him. He simply feels that his work in Asia is done, and that he will never again see his Ephesian brethren.

Ver. 26. In view of the fact that he does not expect to see them again, he calls them to hear testimony to the faithfulness of his ministry among them. If any had perished, they had perished through no fault of his. (See Ezekiel iii, 17-21.)

Ver. 27. For he had not through fear or favor hesitated to declare the whole plan of redemption, involving as it did the necessity of repentance and faith—a turning from sin and a turning to God.

II.—PARTING COUNSELS.

Ver. 28. After reminding them of his own courage and fidelity, as though their testimony to these things would give additional emphasis to his words of exhortation, he warns them, in view of the perils and temptations that would come, to take heed to their own lives first of all, and then to carefully tend the flock over which the Holy Ghost had made them shepherds. These elders were "episcopoi," or Bishops; made so by the Holy Ghost through the imposition of Paul's hands, and their office was to "feed the church of God, purchased with his own blood." The divinity of Jesus is strongly taught in this verse.

Ver. 29. Paul's knowledge of the future trials and divisions of the church was probably not a direct revelation from heaven, but a firm conviction based upon observation and experience. It may be that he had seen indications of the fact that only his presence has prevented the coming of these evils up to that time. These false teachers, seeking their own selfish interests, would divide the church and corrupt the faith and life of its members.

Ver. 30. Not only from without would false teachers come, but from among themselves would arise turbulent and schismatic disciples who would pervert and corrupt the truth and draw away the believers from the purity of the gospel and the unity of their Christian brotherhood. For the realization of these apprehensions see II. Timothy ii, 17, and Rev. ii, 2-7.

Ver. 31. In view of these things I exhort you to be on your guard, and remember not only the warning I give you now, but also that for three years I warned you day and night with tears. "This was watching indeed! Who copies after this example?" (John Wesley.)

III.—COMMENDED TO GOD.

Ver. 32. His labors among them, he is sure are ended, and now his words of counsel and warning must close. He could only commend them to God as the author and finisher of their faith, and to the word of his grace as the means by which this work is to be accomplished. The inheritance among the sanctified is evidently a figurative allusion to the apportionment of the promised land to the tribes, applied in this case to spiritual blessings.

Ver. 33. Paul, in this wise, refers them again to his unselfish and disinterested labors among them as an example to his followers. The mention of "apparel" is explained by the fact that much of the wealth of Oriental people consists in their costly clothing, and the Ephesians are said to have been celebrated for their luxurious apparel. (See II. Cor. xii, 14, where Paul says: "I ask not yours, but you.")

Ver. 34. "These hands." Luke says nothing about Paul having worked at his trade in Ephesus; but his appeal here is to those who know what he uttered was true. The language is very striking. It is as if he had raised his hands, rough and callonsed with toil, as he spoke to them. It is probable that the manual labor of this heroic man not only supported him, but his fellow-missionaries as well.

Ver. 35. Paul could justly point them to himself as their example, and did so; but, as if ever mindful of him who was and is the Great Exemplar, he refers to the words of his Lord. It was only as he followed Christ that he could say, "Be ye followers of me." The "weak" ones in the text are those who were poor and needy, not the spiritually "weak" This quotation from the words of the Lord is not found in the writings of the evangelists, but we may well believe that the Christians in Paul's day held in sacred remembrance many of the utterances of our Savior which were not written in the Gospels. The one before us is Christly in form and spirit, and may well have been uttered by the Great Teacher.

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

1. It is well that we do not know what will befall us, lest our courage fail us. It is enough to know that we are where our Lord would have us and that he is with us. (Verse 22.)

2. The difference between a failure and success in life is to be found in importance of life and duty as they stand related to each other. (Verse 24.)

3. The words of the last farewell ought to be wise and serious words. But every farewell may be final—every word may be the last. How wise and helpful every word should be! (Verse 25.)

4. Blessed is the Christian who can say, "I am pure from the blood of all men." (Verse 26.)

5. Fidelity to the whole counsel of God is the condition of purity from the blood of all men. (Verse 27.)

6. We love most that which costs us most. How dear then to the Lord is the church bought with his own blood! (Verse 28.)

7. A traitor within is more dangerous than an armed foe without. (Verse 30.)

8. Not every Christian can be wise in counsel as was Paul; but everyone can do that which Paul esteemed the most important thing that he could do for the Ephesian elders. What was that? Find it in verse 32.

9. In Paul's judgment "these hands" were as much the Lord's property as this voice, this brain, this heart. (Verse 34.)

10. We would rather enjoy helping the strong; but alas! it is only the weak who need our help! (Verse 35.)

To play the orator in prayer is a solemn mockery. No one should seek to make a prayer that will attract attention or provoke remark by its singular beauty. When the rhetoric of the prayer is so conspicuous as to cause its spirit to remain unnoticed and unfelt, it is not well done.—New York Christian Advocate.

Notice.

To All Whom It May Concern:

James Harvey came to my town (Newton) in March, passed himself as a preacher, raised about $18. I met him at Gallman yesterday, and he acknowledged that he was a fraud in the presence of Rev. W. W. Morse, Mr. C. R. Henington, Mr. J. S. Francis, and Mr. Crawford. He is a black-hearted hypocrite. He has a certificate given him by Bro. Richey, of the North Mississippi Conference. I warn all preachers and people against him. He will likely try to operate in South Mississippi and Louisiana. I read the clipping from the Nashville Advocate, and he said it was correct. He told me that he had raised several hundred dollars, and he is still working in that direction. Please publish clipping with this note.

J. M. MORSE, P. C.

Newton, Miss.

[We omit the lengthy clipping, which is a corroboration from other quarters of what is written here.—EDITOR.]

The use of Hall's Hair Renewer promotes the growth of the hair, and restores its natural color and beauty, frees the scalp of dandruff, tetter, and all impurities.

BOOKS AND PERIODICALS.

All books received will be acknowledged in this column. A fuller notice will depend upon the interests of our readers.

BOOKS.

The ADVOCATE has received from the McDonald and Gill Company a volume entitled a "Representation of the Heart of Man," which sets forth the depravity of man's nature and the effect of God's Spirit upon it, and which is a reprint of a former popular work bearing this title. It is illustrated and written in excellent style. It is sent out in the interest of the higher life. And also a work entitled "John Wesley and His Doctrine," by Rev. W. McDonald. In this little book there is a large amount of curious information about Wesley and his times and preaching, and much information calculated to set him right on the subject of his relation to that second blessing of which he was the great modern apostle. The volumes are 12 mo, of 150 pages, neatly bound in cloth, and can be had of the publishers, 36 Bromfield street, Boston, Mass.

COMMON FOLKS' RELIGION. By Lonis Albert Banks, D. D., Author of "White Slaves," "The People's Christ," "The Revival Quiver," "Our Brother in Yellow," etc. Lee & Shepard, publishers, Boston. Price, $1.50. Can be bought of G. F. Wharton & Bro.

In nothing is the spirit of the new age more clearly revealed than in the recent discourses of clergymen. Here is Dr. Banks' book which Lee & Shepard have just published: "Common Folks' Religion." If the reader looks in it for an old-fashioned sermon, with its nine or ten divisions and its "improvements," he will be happily disappointed. The texts appears in stand as mottoes or suggestions. The topic to be treated is presented in the first sentence. The statement and comments are clear, incisive and always to the point. If it is not the religion of common folks, it is, at least, put in a way for common folks to understand and profit by it.

REVELATION BY CHARACTER, ILLUSTRATED FROM OLD TESTAMENT LIVES. By the Rev. Robert Tuck, B. A. It is printed on good paper, tastefully bound in cloth, contains over 308 pages, and the retail price is $2. Wilbur B. Ketcham, 2 Cooper Union, New York, is the publisher.

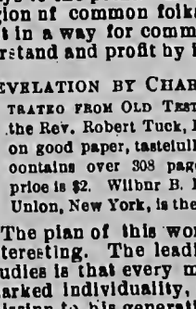
The plan of this work is novel and interesting. The leading idea in the studies is that every man has his own marked individuality, and his precise mission to his generation in that individuality. The object of the author is to illustrate that God has been pleased to give many invaluable moral lessons to the human race, through the characters of the men whom he has sent forth. He writes clearly and exhibits the candid temper of the true scholar, but does not lack positiveness of conviction, taking up and discussing in a fair, candid and intelligent way, which leaves little to be denied. The twenty-four chapters of the volume treat of many Bible characters, the author having selected most suggestive titles. Among them we note the following: Righteous Abel, Meek Moses, Self-Satisfied Solomon, Fretful Jonah, and Hopeful Isaiah.

PERIODICALS.

From Wharton's the North American Review has been placed on our desk. Among subjects of interest discussed are The Future of Presbyterianism in the United States, by the Rev. Charles H. Briggs, D. D.; Should the Chinese be Excluded—I. Col. R. G. Ingersoll; II. Hon. T. J. Geary; The Family of Columbus, by the Duke of Veragua.

Eyesight Saved

After Scarlet Fever, Diphtheria, Pneumonia and similar diseases, Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled to thoroughly purify the blood and give needed strength. Read this:



Clifford Blackman.

"My boy had Scarlet Fever when 4 years old, leaving him weak and blood poisoned with canker. His eyes became inflamed, his sufferings were intense, and 7 weeks he could not open his eyes. I took him to the Eye and Ear Infirmary on Charles street, but their remedies failed to do any good. I began giving him which soon cured him. It saved his sight, if not his very life." ABBIE F. BLACKMAN, 2888 Washington Street, Boston, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

HOOD'S PILLS are the best family cathartic, gentle and effective. Try a box. 25 cents.

FOR SALE.

A new Magic Lantern, about sixty views. Bible views and pictures of the Holy Land. Canvas and everything in perfect order. Will sell cheap. Address

MRS. L. W. WOOD,
207 S. Wall St., Natchez, Miss.

ANGELL'S
HOMŒOPATHIC PHARMACY,

153 and 155 JULIA ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Richard Angell, M. D., Proprietor.

DEALER IN

Homœopathic Medicines, Book and All Other Articles used in Homœopathic Practice.

Try Angell's Celebrated Whooping Cough Syrup.

North Mississippi Conference Colportage and Sunday-School Agency

KOSCIUSKO, MISS.

Any Good Book Furnished at Publisher's Prices.

A specialty is made of the Books, Periodicals and Sunday-school Supplies of our church, which are furnished at Publishing House prices exactly.

Bibles and Testaments, All Styles and Sizes, Are a Particular Feature of the Work.

Our House requests that all the business of this Conference be transacted through this office.

All orders for books or papers promptly filled, and all pertinent questions concerning good literature and our Sunday-school interests will be readily answered.

G. W. BACHMAN,
Colporter and Sunday-school Agent.

WALL PAPER.

The Spring patterns of Wall Paper are handsomer than ever before, and we are able to offer them to you at prices which are within the reach of all. We believe that anyone buying cheap paper will do better to invest 10, 12½ or 15 cents and buy a gilt paper or a fine blank for the small difference than to invest 5 cents in a cheap blank; but if you want the 5-cents paper, we have it and will be glad to sell it.

MATTINGS,

In novel and dainty designs, which can not be had elsewhere, as we control our own private patterns. Prices from $5 per roll of 40 yrds, and up

LACE CURTAINS,

Rugs, Screens, Easels, Oil Cloth, Window Shades and Upholstering Goods.

ESTIMATES

Given for papering in the country under the direction of our foreman and with our own experienced corps of men.

Heath, Schwartz & Co., Lim.,

116 Camp Street, New Orleans.

FAT PEOPLE

To reduce your weight SURELY use Willard's Obesity Pills and lose 15 pounds a month. No injury to the health. No interference with business or pleasure. NO STARVING. They build up and improve the general health, beautify the complexion and leave NO WRINKLES. Lucy Anderson, 84 Auburn St., Cambridge, Mass., writes: Three bottles of your Obesity Pills reduced my weight from 225 pounds to 190 and I never felt better in all my life. I am much pleased with the result, and shall do all I can to help you. Our patrons include Physicians, Bankers, Lawyers, and leaders of Society. Our goods are not sold in drug stores; all orders are supplied direct from our office. Price per package $2.00 or three packages for $5.00 by mail prepaid. Particulars (sealed) 4cts. ALL CORRESPONDENCE CONFIDENTIAL.

WILLARD REMEDY CO., BOSTON, MASS.

DO YOU

Want a teacher for a Summer school? A bookkeeper for a few months while your regular man takes in the World's Fair? A fine young man for any kind of honorable work? If you do, write to DR. W. B. MURRAH, President, or J. W. CHAMBERS, Agent, of Millsaps College, and they will supply the man.

WANTED.

An A. M. graduate, having twenty years' successful experience in managing large institutions of learning, wants to lease desirable school or college property. Parties interested please address

"COLLEGE PRESIDENT,"
Care of ADVOCATE.

Advertising in England, European Continent, Etc.

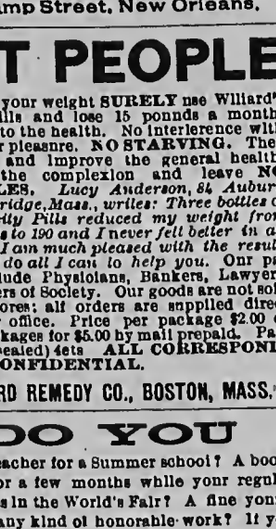
SELL'S

ADVERTISING AGENCY, Limited.

Capital, $250,000. Henry Sell, Manager (editor and founder of "Sell's World's Press").

Full particulars regarding British or European Advertising, sample papers, rates, etc., at the London Office, 167-168 Fleet street, or at New York Office, 21 Park Row, Ground Floor.

Kursheedt's Marble Works



120 and 122 Camp St., New Orleans

$525 Agent's profits per month. Will prove it or pay forfeit. New Articles just out. A $1.50 sample and terms free. Try us. Childester & Son, 21 Bond St., New York City.

When answering advertisements please mention the Advocate

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

GREAT FAST MAIL ROUTE.

Four Daily Trains between NEW ORLEANS and CHICAGO.

The Only Line running Pullman Buffet Sleepers and Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes.

FREE RECLINING CHAIR CARS TO CHICAGO.

St. Louis Without Change.

The Only Line running a Double Daily Train Service to

ST. LOUIS.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York

The great Steel Bridge, spanning the Ohio River at Cairo, completed, and all trains (freight and passenger) now running regularly over it, thus avoiding the delays and annoyances incident to transfer by ferry boat.

TICKET OFFICE: Corner St. Charles and Common Streets.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.
A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

THE WORLD'S FAIR
And American Railways.

THE QUEEN & CRESCENT ROUTE, widely known as the road running the "Finest Trains in the South," is in the field to carry everybody from the South to the World's Fair at Chicago. No part of the Southern country is left uncared for by this great railway and its connections. The Through Car System is an admirable exposition of the wonderful capabilities of American railroading. From New Orleans Through Sleeping Cars run daily, morning and evening, carrying its passengers via Cincinnati or Louisville, as they may select.

From Shreveport, Vicksburg and Jackson another Through Sleeping Car Line comes to join and become a part of the magnificent Vestibuled Through Trains, which passing through Birmingham and the famous Wills Valley of Alabama, is joined at Chattanooga by the train from Jacksonville, Fla., Brunswick, and Atlanta, Ga., over the E. T. V. & Ga. Ry., and proceeds north over the beautiful Cincinnati Southern, through the grandest natural scenery and most attractive historical country in the world, to Oakdale, where another magnificent Pullman car is received, coming from the Richmond & Danville System from Charleston, S. C., through Columbia, S. C., the beautiful French Broad country, and Asheville, N. C., and Knoxville, Tenn.

The time to Chicago is made so as to afford the most convenient hours for departures from the principal cities, and arrivals in Chicago.

Passengers can purchase tickets good over one line north of the River, and returning via another if they desire a variable route without extra charge. Or they can go via Cincinnati, returning via Louisville, or vice versa.

Round-trip tickets on sale at reduced rates. Agents of the Chicago line will on request assist in looking up rooms or accommodation for visitors to the Fair.

Everything that an almost perfect system can devise to deserve the praise and patronage of the traveling public has been provided. Any of the agents of the company named below, will cheerfully give all possible information and assistance. R. H. GARRATT, New Orleans, La.; I. HARDY, Vicksburg, Miss.; J. R. McGREGOR, Birmingham, Ala.; E. T. CHARLTON, Chattanooga, Tenn.; W. D. COZATT, Junction City, Ky., or D. G. EDWARDS, Cincinnati, O.

Yazoo and Mississippi Valley
RAILROAD COMPANY.

All trains arrive and depart from new Passenger Station, cor. Howard Ave. and Rampart St.

	Leaves.	Arrives
Kansas City and Memphis Fast Train	5:00 p. m	8:35 a. m
Vicksburg & Natchez Ex.	7:55 a. m	5:35 p. m
Bat. Rouge "Coast Train."	3:40 p. m	10:00 a. m

The Only Line running Solid Trains between New Orleans, Memphis and Vicksburg, with Modern Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars through to Memphis and Kansas City.

The direct and favorite route to Kansas City, Denver, and All Points West.

The short line to Hot Springs and points in Arkansas and North Louisiana.

Commutation Tickets, Mileage Books, Party Rates and Week End Excursions.

Summer Excursion Tickets on Sale in season.

Ticket Office: St. Charles St., cor. Common.

JAMES DINKINS, Div. Pass. Agt.
J. W. COLEMAN, A. G. P. A.
A. H. HANSON G. P. A.

CLARK & MEADER,

16 and 18 CARONDELET ST.

BRANCH STORE:

Cor. ST. CHARLES and NAPOLEON Avenue,

NEW ORLEANS.

Stuffed Olives in Oil; Boneless Anchovies in Oil; Boneless Anchovies in Salt; French Creoont Olives; Mammoth Queen Olives; Capes au Natural; Mushroom Powder; Bijou Cans of Aluettes; Thon a huilic; Pure of Fois Gras; Sauces Truffe; Pure of Sardines; Truffled Sardines; New Maple Syrup in Quart bottles, 1 Gallon and ½ Gallon Cans; Maple Sugar in 1-pound cakes; Franco-American Game Pates, such as Wild Duck, Grouse, Partridge, Pheasant, Chicken, Chicken Liver, Woodcock; Entrees—Chicken Curry a la Indienne, Chicken Saute a la Marengo; Calves' Tongues with Tomato Sauce; Veal and Green Peas; Calves' Tongue, sauce Piquant; Braised Beef a la Jardeniere; Ross' Belfast Ginger Ale, Sarsaparilla, Club Soda, and Raspberry Vinegar; Potoma's Roe Herring; Clysmic Water; Smoked Beef; Small Whole Boneless Cooked Hams in cans; Whole Boiled Beef Tongues in cans; Wheatena; Pettijohn's California Breakfast Food; Schumacher's Rolled Wheat and Avena; Cerealine Flakes; Moll's Pure Sparkling Sweet and Crab Apple Cider; Large Smoked Beef Tongue.

J. C. MORRIS CO., Limited.

40, 42 and 44 Tchoupitoulas Street.

E. F. DYER, Pres. E. P. MACKIE, Treas.

WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

Refrigerators, Freezers, Water Coolers, Fishing Tackle, Seines, Oars, Hammocks, Croquet, Baseballs, Baskets, Brooms, Brushes, Fruit Jars, Bottles, Flasks, Demijohns, Rope, Twine, Axle Grease, Wrapping Paper, Bags, Stationery, Cheese Safes, Cages, Scales, Tacks, Chimneys, Lamps, Tinware, Blacking, Woodenware, Cutlery, Clocks, etc.

W. W. CARRE.
LUMBER MERCHANT

AND MANUFACTURER OF

PLANTATION CABINS, STORES, Etc.

Nos. 342, 344, 346 and 348 Howard Ave.,

NEW BASIN. NEW ORLEANS.

GUARANTEED CURE
OR NO PAY.

Nothing Fairer Than This.

When we say cure, we do not mean simply to stop it for the time being, but a

PERMANENT AND POSITIVE CURE

For Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Impure Blood, and all diseases arising from a disordered Liver. Write for Treatise, Testimonials, and Free Sample Bottle of

DR. ROC'S LIVER, RHEUMATIC and NEURALGIA CURE to

CULLEN & NEWMAN,
182 GAY ST., Knoxville, Tenn.

POSITIONS GUARANTEED

Guarantee in Writing. Send for free catalogue of DRAUGHON'S Consolidated Practical Business College, Nashville, Tenn. Cheap Board. No vacation. MENTION THIS PAPER.

Shorthand in a Vest Pocket.

DR. LAFFERTY, the Stenographer to the Virginia Senate, has given the CONGRESSIONAL SYSTEM OF SHORTHAND in a series of simple, witty, chatty talks; each illustrated. You learn it while you laugh. 65 pages. Price 50 cents. Address him, Richmond, Va.

TO MINISTERS.

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN YOUR CHOIR

to the extent of desiring to have each Sunday, new and bright ANTHEMS, thoroughly devotional in character?

If You Are

and will take the time to send us the name and address of your Choir leader, or better still, of all your choir singers, we shall take pleasure in sending you and them something that will satisfactorily solve the question of how to obtain new and good music at an exceedingly moderate outlay. If you cannot attend to the matter personally, please ask some one in your congregation who can.

ADDRESS

THE JOHN CHURCH CO.,
S. E. Cor. 4th and Elm Sts., Cincinnati, O.

$1.50 AMERICAN WATCH

$1.50 will now buy a reliable AMERICAN WATCH in strong GOLD PLATED Dust Proof Case. Will not vary a minute in 30 days; is as durable as any watch made. FULL GUARANTEED. (Publishers of this paper will tell you we are reliable.) It has AMERICAN patent lever MOVEMENT, Patent Escapement and Regulator, Lantern Pinion, 240 beats to minute; No key required to wind or set; weight 4 oz; exactly like cut; Post-paid for $1.50, 3 for $4.00, 12 for $15.00, by express. Mention paper and we will include handsome gold plated CHAIN & CHARM. AGENTS WANTED. Jewelers keep send for TERMS. Catalogue of 1000 n. FREE.

ROBERT H. IN... & BRO.,
Room 2, 65 Cortlandt St., New York City.

FENCING

GALVANIZED WOVEN WIRE

WIRE ROPE SELVAGE.

RAILROAD, Farm, Garden, CEMETERY, LAWN, POULTRY and RABBIT FENCING. Thousands of miles in use. Catalogue FREE. Freight paid. McMULLEN WOVEN WIRE FENCE CO., CHICAGO, ILL.

A NEW

UNIQUE and VALUABLE Historical Chart of Christianity from the Apostolic Period through the Reformation has been prepared by REV. M. LOUCKS, D. D. of Doyton, Ohio. For particulars address postal to him and receive circulars free.

REV. M. LOUCKS, D. D, Dayton, Ohio.

CHURCH SCHOOL FURNITURE

Before purchasing any PEWS, PULPITS or any other Furniture write Wm. H. Morrow, No. 8 Noel Blk, Nashville, Tenn. — FOR — Catalogue.

WHY PAY DEALER'S PROFIT?

$2.75 buys a $9 White Reed Baby Carriage, freight paid, shipped on 30 days' trial. Latest design and style. Perfect, reliable and finely finished. Nothing but the best material used and warranted for 5 YEARS. We have been in the manufacturing business many years, and are reliable and responsible; make and sell nothing but what we can guarantee as represented, quote lowest factory prices. Write to-day for our large free catalogue, which is one of the most complete ever published.

OXFORD MFG. CO., 340 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WE WANT AT ONCE

RELIABLE MEN every where (local or traveling) to advertise and keep our Show Cards tacked up in towns on trees and fences along public roads. Steady work in your own county. $70 A MONTH SALARY AND $3 A DAY EXPENSES ADVANCED every 15 days when started. FRANCO-GERMAN ELECTRIC CO., CINCINNATI, O.

No Tobacco. NO OPIUM. The only practicable way to reach thoroughly and pleasantly. A positive cure even if all else has failed. Sample FREE by mail

CATARRH

DR. J. W. BLOSSER & CO., DALTON, GA.

SKIN DISEASES Tetter, Eczema, Chapped Skin, Burns, Piles, Chilblains and all skin troubles cured by GREVE'S OINTMENT. 50c. Druggists. HISCOX & CO., N. Y.

ARE YOU CONSUMPTIVE

Use PARKER'S GINGER TONIC without delay. A rare medicinal compound that cures when all else fails. Has cured the worst cases of Cough, Weak Lungs, Asthma, Indigestion, Inward Pains, Exhaustion, Invaluable for Rheumatism, Female Weakness, and all pains and disorders of the stomach and bowels. 50c. & $1 at Druggists.

CORNS. The only sure cure for Corns. Stops all pain. 15c. at Druggists. HISCOX & CO., N. Y.

$ MONEY. $20 for 1: $50 for 2: $100 for 3: $200 for 5: $500 for 10: $1,200 for $20. Address P. O. Box D, Huntington, W. Va.

THE LARGEST ESTABLISHMENT MANUFACTURING CHURCH BELLS CHIMES & PEALS in the World.

PUREST BELL METAL (COPPER AND TIN)

Send for Price and Catalogue.

McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY, BALTIMORE, MD.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY

THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO., Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S. A. Best Lake Copper and E. India Tin. CHURCH BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES. Price & Terms Free. Satisfaction Guaranteed.

BELLS

Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. Send for Catalogue. C. S. BELL & CO., Hillsboro, O.

Christian Advocate.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased Preachers, $1

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

All correspondence with the ADVOCATE, literary or business, and all money due or to become due should be addressed to Rev. J. M. Beard, CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans, La.

Capt. G. A. R. Lawrence is an accredited agent of the ADVOCATE in the city and country, and he is authorized to take subscribers, contract for advertisements, and receipt for money due on subscription or otherwise.

Rev. J. M. BEARD, D. D., Editor and Publisher.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. J. M. BEARD, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. J. B. A. AHRENS, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. J. W. CHAMBERS.
REV. W. B. LEWIS.
REV. R. J. JONES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER.

Thursday, August 3, 1893.

Extraordinary Offer.

We offer the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE to new subscribers until Jan. 1, 1894, for fifty cents when sent in clubs of ten, and accompanied by the cash.

Does he circulate the paper? is a question the Bishop asks about the preacher before he renews the episcopal stamp, and gives him a wider circulation.

The people who had oceans of theology, and not a drop of living water or grace, were the people who in a mad campaign against fanatics and a miracle-working gospel, crucified the Lord of glory. Judging from much that we witness in our own day, the quantity of their descendants is only equalled by the quality of their record. Fortunate is that disciple, who, if not of such sterner stuff as the making of a martyr, yet does not like Paul (upon principle) object to crucifixion.

Two principal criticisms have been hurled at the young editor—one calling in question his punctuation, which he habitually leaves to the printer; the other deprecating his extra profundity as beyond the capacity of the ordinary reader. Verily, it is but a step from the ridiculous to the sublime, and only about the same distance from the misunderstandable to the incomprehensible. Begging pardon of our critics, we deduce this moral for young writers: "To avoid being despised sometimes affect cloudland."

"The World in the Church," by the Rev. J. T. Sawyer, is having a marvellous circulation, because the church has just awaked up to the fact that the world is not only in its parlor, but has nonchalantly crossed its legs, lit its cigar, and is proceeding to make a hat rack of the empty and cheerless grate, and a spittoon of the center table. We sympathize with the church, and wish Bro. Sawyer all the money and fame that he can realize from his well-written booklet and the lugubrious situation. The age of martyrs, however, is quite past, and we fear that the latter is too serious and advanced to be cured by the shedding of any quantity of the best writing fluid. Nothing but a miracle can work health to consumpted and wasted Zionne, and in default of that we shall expect at no distant day a gorgeous death-bed scene, in the midst of which the pillow-propped and bejewelled patient will make her exit with a great waving of tearless adieux from perfumed silk handkerchiefs, and a floral display to astonish even a New Orleans funeral director in flower time. The autopsy, of course, will reveal heart failure.

We are requested to announce again that Wilhites Church, about sixteen miles northwest of Monroe, and on the Downsville work, Rev. R. A. Davis, pastor, will be dedicated Sunday, Aug. 6, Rev. J. M. Beard officiating.

Camp Meetings.

Camp meetings have had much to do with the moral development and religious history of our country, especially in the West and Southwest. Until very recently houses of worship were small, and worshipping neighborhoods quite contracted, and for great results in evangelism this necessitated both concentration of forces and open-air meetings. Solomon's familiar proverb, "Iron sharpeneth iron, so a man the countenance of his friend," and the rustic tastes of the people, will explain much of the fictitious interest that belonged to the occasion; and as far back as the writer's memory goes, which is a period somewhat antedating the war, the religious morale of these meetings was hardly better or worse than now. The people of wealth, culture, and what is called style, were nearly all Methodists at this period; Episcopalianism, Presbyterianism, and other isms having had their rise in an age that was not so distinctively pioneer; and all the worldliness that the country contained flowed to the camp meeting as a diverting and corrupting element. But notwithstanding this, there was much more of simplicity in the camp life and social interchange, and the preaching and altar service was, in the main, after the most primitive style. Whatever of evil leaven may have been contributed by its mere presence, and however active in other ways as an opposing force, the great world was quite overshadowed by a popular gathering where the leaders of fashion knelt to pray, where congressmen and judges were at home as if to the manor born, and where the head of the nation himself was sometimes content to find an obscure seat; and behaved itself accordingly. The preachers preached with great vehemence to sympathetic audiences, and at the close, so popular was the theme and honorable the calling which it depicted, there was often a popular response quite thrilling to behold. Sometimes as many as an hundred people were converted at one service, and that, too, not by a show of hands, unless we mean by that a show of the clapping of hands, and not by a confession of Christ, unless we mean by that loud acclamations of thanksgiving and praises.

During the year 1855, the writer, then a mere child, and accompanying his father, who was the agent of an educational institution, attended as many as five or six of these meetings in a single season, and the impressions made upon his mind are quite indelible. The emotional in all the exercises was much more prominent than now, and there were sometimes trances and other manifestations bordering on hysteria, if not partaking of it.

One scene quite vividly before his thought is that which occurred at the close of an impassioned discourse—and seemingly the fittest tribute that could have been offered to inspired speech—of a whole congregation throwing itself forward as by an irresistible impulse to greet and embrace the speaker as he descended from the pulpit into the altar. Heaven came down, indeed, to "crown with glory that mercy seat," and though there was no calling of penitents, there must have been hundreds of conversions. Preaching was not so doctrinal or even scriptural then as now, but anecdotal and hortatory to a great extent, if the writer's memory serves him correctly, and a much smaller percentage of the people either understood or practiced the tenets of the Christian religion. Its very popularity hindered it, and what it gained in respectability it lost in force and genuineness. The Holy Ghost in his offices was not much understood or preached, and sanctification was seemingly a lost doctrine and experience. The fervor was, therefore, less genuine, and the effects, especially as to the quality of endurance, far less to be dependod on.

Indeed, in a summing up of the interest in the way both of fruits and the reform of methods after a long probationary period, we may reasonably conclude, as those who have fallen heir to the estate, that if we have not gained much in the last two decades, we have lost little.

Finally, we may say that the camp meeting is distinctively Methodistic in its aims and influence as well as in its origin; it suits the genius of both the Wesleyan people and doctrine, and we risk little in adding also that we are to look to the future for its greatest triumphs and for the approximate perfection of its system.

Who Is on the Lord's Side?

A great many people are on no side, morally, socially and religiously. They are on the fence, and, being on the fence, are almost sure to come down on the wrong side, as Bishop Duncan is credited with having said. The wire-barb that is coming into fashion for fencing purposes in both material and moral spheres may have something to do with this, however, and to the embarrassed man on the fence it may be that a decensus averno will be better than no descent at all. Whether that be true or not, it is not a lonesome perch. The fences, both political and ecclesiastical, that are staked and ridered with ponderous and pondering humanity are almost as numerous as quarter section lines and as interminable as the enclosures of a Western cattle farm. Riding the fence are multitudes, as though the fence were a real worm and not a counterfeit, and could wriggle them into fame and riches, or a steed who would bear them to some longed-for goal of prosperity. How they ride it day and night, to find, like the boy on the hobby-horse, that the most industrious equestrianism, is the least satisfactory kind. A double-minded man is unstable in all his ways, and in nothing is his duplicity so absurdly manifest as in his purpose to observe a strict neutrality between issues that do not admit of a compromise, and between contestants who give no quarter to foes who oppose their resolution to destroy each other.

Circumstances, too, whatever they may be, are against the man who is on neither side, and whose independence is that of a slave. He can raise no crops in the air, and he is in a much more favorable position to stop bullets than if on a level with common people. He is the friend of nobody and nobody's friend. No States were raided like the neutral States in our late war. Both parties delighted to revenge themselves upon a false friend, and sometimes they would go round a fair foe to do it. At that vortex of war all industries withered, and shot and shell plowed neutral ground as no other soil was plowed. Indeed, by a nice mathematical calculation, we might establish that he who stands between embattled lines is exposed to just twice as many chances of destruction as each of the combatants, and yet there are those who seek the intermediate of the fiercest conflicts as places of safety. Bullets fly faster and wound deeper, too, at the mean than at the extremes of battle. Thus Poland fell under the steady fire of contending Russ and German, while Switzerland, the weak, has not only survived, but grown great by shouldering a musket in all wars but her own.

A neutral is always whipped in anticipation as a non-combatant. He is anybody's captive who will go after him, and as he is anybody's friend he is everybody's spy, and, therefore, obnoxious to hanging by all.

The conflict between the Lord and his enemies is about the most real that the universe supports, and the chances of fatality—and such a fatality—are correspondingly great. The issue of controversy involves temperance, the Sabbath, the Ten Commandments, the inspiration of Holy Scripture, the divinity of Christ, the personality of the devil, and such like, and he who denies any of these and affects to be a belligerent will find that his trust will be more in flight than fight when the battle is joined. The Lord has no more mercy on people who halt between two opinions than Elijah had on the priests of Baal. There is no manhood to be spared in such a contest, and why spare it, and of the rest it can be said in any event that it is only serviceable for a holocaust.

There will be no neutral ground in the judgment; it will be well done or ill done, sheep or goats, the right or the left, at that assize. And meantime, let us bear in mind that even on this side the judgment the man who is on the Lord's side of sin is on the Canaan side of Jordan.

Society.

Society is the great world of which you and I are an infinitesimal part, gone to seed. If we consider the former a vegetable, the latter would be its bloom in decay. Dissatisfied with itself, it proposes an artificial heaven out of the best material that it can collect at random, and betakes itself to illuminated retreats and gaudy festal chambers to enjoy its repast. But before it can enter upon the latter, it has a grave task to perform which is nothing less than the construction of angels out of ordinary flesh and blood, of joys out of the froth of the wine cup, and of treasure from such hypothetical assets as the produce of the card table and gambler's art, all of which are, of course, impossible things.

The ideal heaven we may conjecture to be composed of three things: Life, love and liberty; and, therefore, the counterfeit heaven that is called society must substitute life, a spiritual essence, with mere excess of the animal function; and love with the gross passions which attract the sexes to each other; and liberty, with common license, at least, so far as the law of God is involved. An element of the heavenly life is joy, and that must be obtained from brain and nerve stimulants, and exploitation along the boundaries of the world of chance, and the delirium of lusty embrace in the charming exercise of "hugging made easy," and of waving limbs in frenzied motion to voluptuous airs. Heaven is pure, and society must affect a virtue of this kind which turns out to be either the nondescript subject called honor, or the empty boast termed conventionality. Heaven is an aristocracy of learning, and society, the parvenue, must don green spectacles and reap culture from light literature and small pedagogy. Heaven is beautiful, and to compass the ideally beautiful society smirks and simpers, and paints, and adorns with precious gems, and squeezes its body and limbs into artist robes, and poses and pouts, and displays its upper and nether of statuesqueness with ad nauseam abandon. Heaven is a glorious assemblage of the true nobility, and society gets itself gartered, titled, decorated, ennobled, escutcheoned and whatsoever else of extravaganza our poor debased humanity can be trusted to essay, in the effort to exalt itself to heaven.

But in vain. It is a Babel builder, and can not push its flaunting columns beyond the horizon of sense. It is mere drama and staginess falling as far short of the model it affects as the real in any sort of comparison does of the ideal. It may sound like a truism to declare that when the world is trying hardest to deceive that it is falsest; but whether it does or not, this unadorned statement will establish the force and justness of all that we have felt constrained to write here on this exceedingly flimsy and hollow subject. It is not so much that society people have one heaven, and do not seek for another, that they and their fabric society are to be judged; but it is that they have built a false fabric, on a false foundation, out of fraudulent materials. It is that that makes the prancing and painted and bouncing jade that we call society look ridiculous to practiced eyes. But she is worse than ridiculous and false, qualities which would forfeit our love to any other lovely object. Added to all this and much more of the same kind, she is heartless. With the nonchalance of flying feet pursuing a rhythmic measure, she dances off the head of John the Baptist, and with a show of teeth in smile or frown, or amorous toss of the head, she disposes of the life of an inconvenient husband, and in all ages reigns queen of the duello. Verily, she is hardened even to the supple throng who pay court to her, and heartless to her own offspring. Heavenly they may be to her enchanted suitors, the buzz flies that dash themselves against her radiance, but there are daggers in her soft glances and drawn swords in her sylph tones. But even her modesty is impudence in disguise, and her innocence the ill-concealed art of a prude. There are just four hundred society angels in New York; but that must seem a large average if we consider how many accomplishments must be reckoned to each. But whether there are few or many, the latest almanac conundrum should be amended to read, "Why is the best society composed of the worst people?"

How!

He who gets sanctified must "tumble to it," if we may be pardoned that slang, and really it is very expressive. It is by a sudden motion, fall or leap, going over the precipice of exalted self to be caught in the arms of the loving Savior. No one will ever walk or grow or soar into the experience, for that is not only making too much of flesh and blood, but it is minifying too much the gift of God. There are two pourings out, so to speak; one of the Holy Spirit, and that which constitutes his true inwardness, and the other that of the individual to be blessed, and his selfhood; and to expect one without the other is to anticipate more than is pledged.

The mountain of sin can not be removed by fine-spun biblical theories with only a sinner behind them for motor attachment, and the tree of sin can not be plucked up by the roots and transported to a sea of oblivion for instant burial, by a plan of salvation which is mainly plan, and with only a spectroscopic residuum of salvation. "Teeth pulled gently," is a dentist sign that we pass daily returning from our editorial task, and as often as we gaze upon it we think of prevailing theological methods, and inwardly resolve never to visit that dentist shop.

We can not remember that the Savior dealt gently with the mobs of gainsayers who thronged his steps as he walked in Jewry, or wrought miracles by the sea; or that he cleansed lepers or expelled demons or imparted revival to the dead, by a patent process warranted not to shock delicate nerves. Let a man leap from the fifth story of the house of death, like both the chief of the publicans and the chief of sinners, if he would experience eternal life in contact with the bosom of his Lord; or let him go from home with a pledge never to return, if he would have the Spirit of burning to go through him, and the trinity of love, joy and peace to dwell in him.

NOTES.

Pay your preacher.

***

Take your collection.

***

A miser and his money are late parted.

***

Suspicion is foul and false, too; put it away.

***

"Love one another" is the ever new commandment.

***

Do not get riches, for it is forbidden but get love, which is a royal substitute.

***

Love is a piano in the house, a harmonica in the pocket, and a whole opera in the heart.

***

A man's happiness is within his own resources. "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

***

Deportment must consist with experience. If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit.

***

Take the Lord into partnership by transferring a part of your capital to his account and be sure to have witnesses.

***

It has been well said by a giver that "giving is living, and he that gives lives, and to be always giving is to be always living."

***

If anything in these columns seems to strike you, it will have been the effect of a stray shot. The servant of the public can not deal in personalities.

***

We are debtors both to the Chinese and the Japanese, not to mention the Anamese, the Burmese, and the Siamese. And yet we are at ease in Zion.

***

The grip of the miser may be relaxed by misfortune or death, but that of the yellow metal on his hard heart, never. Pinto, alas! in the lower regions is both king and captive.

***

In addition to the $12.50 received for the overflowed church at Jonesville and reported in a late issue of the ADVOCATE, fifty cents should be added as the contribution of a Mississippi friend.

***

The man who is not in thorough sympathy with foreign missions, and who does not count his fortune as a part of the Lord's assets, to be used for the redemption of the nations of the earth, has not the mind of the Spirit.

***

We had fifty new subscribers during one day last week, and will certainly pass the thousand mark during hot weather. But if we were to publish the names of all who are not helping, it would cause a blush on the facial horizon almost as wide as two States and reaching from the southern border of Tennessee to the Gulf.

***

The camp meeting season is on. Don't forget to pray, sing, shout, roll in the saw-dust, warm up the Amen corner, and let the people know that you are at home with the Lord. It is a good place to show your colors and become a fool in glorying. We have attended some camp meetings that were chilly, others that were cold, and a few that were frozen a foot thick.

***

Our readers will notice that our reading space has been in cramped quarters for a few weeks. This has been caused by the midsummer advertising of popular colleges and schools, all of which must have space to relate the particulars in which they are unsurpassed, as well as to call attention to those which speak for themselves as purely original and phenomenal. But this can not last always.

***

The Rescue Mission has survived the fate to which it was consigned equally by false prophets and false friends, and is proceeding upon a career of great usefulness. The large rent bill has been regularly paid, the grocery bills have been met, and the house has been furnished from top to bottom, while the debts are comparatively few. The meetings every night are numerously attended, and reach a class which only meetings on this plane and at this place could reach. It is truly an oasis in that great Sahara. If you want to help the mission, you can send to the editor of this paper, who will publish your name and contribution, or you can send to Rescue Mission, 43 Basin St.

FREE!!

A genuine Self-Pronouncing, Pictorial Family Bible. Old and New Versions in parallel columns.

Strong, Handsome, Durable Binding.

BOUND IN AMERICAN MOROCCO, raised panel sides, gold centre, comb edges, and contains over 2,000 pages of valuable matter, including the Old and New Testament Scriptures, to which are added over 300 illustrations, including full-page steel engravings, superb illuminated title pages, and colored plates of Scripture illustrations in both the Old and New Testaments. A complete Bible Dictionary and a complete Concordance are included.

The Latest and Very Best

edition. Printed with large, clear type on good paper.

SPECIAL PREMIUM OFFER.

We will send this magnificent Family Bible absolutely free for ten new subscribers, or upon receipt of $6.50 will send you the paper or renew your subscription for one year and send this Bible by express.

PERSONAL AND OTHERWISE.

See our club offer of Family Bible and ADVOCATE for one year at $6.50.

Rev. Albert Lutz, pastor of West Lake Charles, La., called at the ADVOCATE office last week en route to the Biblical Institute, Seashore. He had cheering news from his work, and seems in love with the ministry.

Rev. E. T. Denson, of Abbeville, gave us an appreciated call on last Wednesday en route to Topisaw and other Mississippi camp meetings. He is another Louisiana-Mississippian, who in his fondness for his new wife can not forget his old mother.

We had a pleasant call last week from Rev. J. W. Hensch, the pastor of our German Church in Houston, Texas, and who began his ministry in New Orleans a few years ago. Bro. Hensch, who is looking much improved himself, reports that our churches in Houston are quite prosperous.

Our Japanese brother, Rev. T. Masao, who is just now doing Mississippi and the Southwest, gave us a cheerful call on his way to the camp ground and Biblical Institute, where he had an engagement to lecture. He will return and visit other points in Mississippi, and may touch at New Orleans again before his tour concludes.

The death of two talented ministers in their prime of usefulness is a serious blow to the Louisiana Conference, which so abounds in work, and where there is such a scarcity of workers; but it is not irreparable if we have faith in him who hurles the tired workmen with one hand and with the other carries on their allotted task. There was a time but comparatively ancient when the whole world did not contain as many preachers of the gospel as are to be found in this small territory; but, my! how they did shake it up.

The Biblical Institute has been holding a very creditable session at the Seashore Camp Ground, the crowds being small, but the interest good. The young workers in the line of practical instruction have exhibited considerable skill as well as learning. Among these we have heard Bros. Godat, Parker, Masao and others receive distinguished mention. Of those who occur to our recollection as having a place on the program this week are Rev. C. W. Carter, D. D., and Prof. J. W. Pearce, Ph.D., and during next week Bishop Galloway to appear on Monday night, and Dr. J. B. Walker to deliver the concluding address on Wednesday night.

By a telegraphic dispatch from Bro. J. M. Davies, dated Minden, July 26, the ADVOCATE has received the sad intelligence of the death of Rev. J. W. Medlock, one of the best and most useful ministers of the Louisiana Conference. A good man and true has been lost from the community, the church, the home. Bro. Medlock had been for many years secretary of the Conference Board of Church Extension—indeed, was quite prominent in all the committee work of that body; had filled some of the best stations in the Conference; and in all relations was both loved as a comrade and trusted as a leader. In a late issue of the ADVOCATE an able article from Bro. Medlock on the subject of Sunday-schools appeared. But while we have tears for our dear brother and will sadly miss him, we mourn not as those who have no hope.

A Veterans' Loan Fund.

John L. Wheat, Esq., of Louisville, Ky., himself a "veteran" member of the Board of Church Extension, has proposed a Veterans' Loan Fund, to be made of contributions from persons who have been members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, over since its organization. The idea is a capital and a taking one, and we heartily adopt it.

In 1845 our first church census was taken, and the number of communicants reported, lay and ministerial, was 459,569. Of this great army, how many are yet alive? There should be not less then ten thousand of them. We desire to take and preserve a list of these veterans, and request every one of them to send us a contribution, however small, with the donor's name, age, and address, to the "Veterans' Loan Fund," to aid in the work of building Methodist Churches. All remittances received for this Fund will be promptly acknowledged through the church papers, and we hope to make up a large and interesting list. Send all contributions on this call to David Morton, Corresponding Secretary, 705 W. Chestnut street, Louisville, Ky.

200 Agents Wanted.

One in every community in State of Mississippi to sell Bishop Fitzgerald's Epworth Book. Prospectus, 50 cents. Holman Self-Pronouncing Sunday-school Teacher's Bible. Prospectus, $1. Imitation of Christ, beautifully illustrated by Thomas a Kempis. Prospectus, 75 cents. Full supply of International Bibles in stock. Send for catalogue. Order your Sunday-school supplies for the year, and remit quarterly, if you can not send cash with order. Apply at once.

LAIRD & DOMINICK,
Jackson, Miss.

Do You Know?

That when your bowels are disordered, and irregularities caused by change of diet or location exist,

Brodie's Astringent Cordial

Will correct all the troubles, and never fails, but

CURES

DIARRHŒA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, CRAMPS, BLOODY FLUX, and Such Symptoms.

TESTIMONIAL.

July 26, 1889.

Dear Sirs:—I have used Brodie's Astringent Cordial in my family, and am using the third bottle. It always acts like a charm upon my children, correcting ailments of the bowels better than any medicine I ever tried. * * *

Yours, most respectfully,
MRS. A. W. MOORE.

Price: 50 cts. and $1 a Bottle.

I. L. LYONS & CO., New Orleans, La.

Sold by All Druggists.

INTERNATIONAL BIBLES.

Largest Type Teacher's Bible in the World.

We have for years been trying to get a large type Teacher's Bible which was not too large and heavy. We have it in this series. Besides this feature, the helps are entirely new, and were written by the greatest scholars of both America and Europe, which guarantees their superiority over all others. Everyone who is familiar with the Oxford and Bagster Teacher's Bibles knows that the book printed in Minion type makes the most desirable sized volume, but the Minion type is too small for any but the best eyes; and while their books in Bourgeois type suit the eyes, they are entirely too large and heavy for convenient handling. This International Series overcomes both these faults by having the Bourgeois type book no larger or heavier than the much smaller type (Minion) Oxford and Bagster books, while the prices are much less than for books of corresponding type in any other series, and the bindings are not only similar in design, but equal in every particular to the older Teacher's Bibles; and some of these bindings are finer than those of any other Teacher's Bibles we have ever seen.

We are specially glad to be able to say that the prices of these Bibles are in many cases much cheaper than the Oxford or Bagster Books, while they are altogether equally well made and have the newest and best helps and Maps. We claim for these new Teacher's Bibles that they give

The Largest Type in the Smallest Book.
The Newest and Best Helps.
The Newest Maps, Which Were Made Especially for This Series.
Bindings Unsurpassed.
Smaller Prices Than Any Other Series.

We confidently assure our patrons that in the INTERNATIONAL TEACHER'S BIBLE SERIES we have the very BEST line of Teacher's Bibles ever offered.

Write us for a Descriptive Catalogue showing size of type, size of books, etc.

Address

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp Street, - New Orleans, La.

Mansfield Female College

AND

Conservatory of Music and Art.

The forty-first session opens Sept. 13, 1893, with a full faculty of experienced teachers in all departments.

Prof. G. D. Pickles takes the chair of Mathematics and Pedagogy. This institution is celebrated for thorough and honest work, for a locality remarkable for health, for every comfort provided, for the care and attention given to students, and for the great economy secured to parents. The great aim is to afford as good facilities for education as can be found outside the State. A new era is opening for the college that will make the next session peculiarly advantageous to those who attend. It is demonstrated that this is the best place for Southern girls.

A. D. McVOY, A. M.,
President.

VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Next Session opens September 20th.

Full graduate as well as under graduate courses. Ten Fellowships for college graduates. Seven Departments—Academic, Engineering, Biblical, Law, Pharmaceutical, Dental, Medical. Fully equipped laboratories and museums.

WILS WILLIAMS, Secretary.

LOOK!

WILKINSON'S MATCHLESS -:- MINERAL WATER.

The Most Wonderful Tonic in America.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY OF THE UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA.

Analysis of W. W. Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water, by E. A. Smith, Professor Chemistry and Geology, and J. B. Little.

The amount of water taken was one gallon, wine measure, and was found to contain:

	Grains.		Grains
Sulphuric Acid	14.094	Potassic Oxide	1.115
Ferric Oxide	86.532	Ammonic	8.640
Ferrous Oxide	81.381	Silica	5.036
Calcic Oxide	24.527	Sodium Oxide	4.091
Magnetic Oxide	22.711	Chlorine	2.472
Carbonic Acid	Not yet determined.

The specific gravity of the water is 1.0070.

From Prof. Henry Leffman, M. D., Analytical Chemist and Expert, Hygienist and Food Inspector to the Pennsylvania State Board of Agriculture, and Professor of Chemistry in the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania:

W. W. Wilkinson—I have examined a sample of your Matchless Mineral Water, and find it possesses the properties specified in the above statement of analysis by Profs. Smith and Little; but the water you are now furnishing is much stronger in the active mineral ingredients.

HENRY LEFFMAN.

Cures Dyspepsia in its worst form, Chronic Diarrhœa, Diabetes, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Sores, Bilious Colic, Tetter, Ring Worm, Chronic Sores, Ulceration of the Womb, Throat, Catarrh, Debility. Best Natural Tonic in the World.

As a Tonic and Alterative.—A teaspoonful to a tablespoonful in one-half glass of water three times a day, directly after eating; but if stomach is soured, take before eating.

As a Cathartic.—Three to five tablespoonsful in same amount of water.

For External Application.—Use as a wash without diluting (warm if possible).

For Injection.—If water is too strong, slightly dilute and use twice a day.

For Cholera Morbus and Cramp Colic.—Two tablespoonsful every hour or two until relieved (in a little water).

Will keep full strength for any length of time in any climate. Never dilute except as used.

Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water.

I am seeking to protect all against many diseases and cure all who are sick by such diseases as may be cured by this, nature's wonderful remedy,

WILKINSON'S MATCHLESS MINERAL WATER.

It cures Dyspepsia in its worst form, Chronic Diarrhœa, and Acute; cures Fits, all Diseases of the Bowels and Stomach, Skin Diseases, Piles, Sore or Granulated Eyelids, Ulcerated Sore Throat, Blood Diseases, Rheumatism; Debility, Physical and Mental; Liver Complaint, Female Complaints, Cholera Morbus, Cholera, Biliousness, Bruises, Cuts and Scald-head, Eczema, Sick-headache, Colic.

1. W. D. Rogers says: "Your Mineral Water has cured me of dyspepsia, and my wife of womb disease, when all else failed."

2. John H. McCullough says: "This water cured me of dyspepsia after suffering four years and trying medicine, doctors, etc."

3. W. D. Newman says: "I was afflicted for twelve years with tetter. Matchless Mineral Water cured me when all doctors and treatment failed."

4. Rev. Chas. R. Lamar was cured of dyspepsia of more than two years' standing by use of two gallons of Matchless Mineral Water.

5. J. H. Gilbert says: "Matchless Mineral Water is, beyond doubt, the best remedy known to me for sore eyes."

6. Jesse B. Basser says: "I have suffered long from chronic ulcerated sore leg. Offered $100 to doctors to cure. This water cured me."

7. Rev. J. M. Whitehead: "It cures every species of indigestion; can eat anything I want, and a good appetizer."

8. James J. Ingle says: "I have suffered five years with kidneys and liver. Have used one bottle. Most wonderful medicine I ever used."

9. J. G. Lightfoot says: "My son down five years. General debility and impure blood. Doctors failed. Two bottles Mineral Water cured him."

10. John Brannan says: "I was down three years with bilious colic. Spent $150 for medical treatment; grew worse; one and a half gallons. This water cured me."

11. Martin Eady says: "My eye was about out from gun cap in it. The two bottles of Mineral Water made a complete cure of my eyes."

12. George Green says: "I have been suffering fifteen or twenty years with chronic diarrhœa. The Matchless Mineral Water cured me."

13. W. J. Gardner says: "For seven or eight years I was victim of nervous dyspepsia and all its horrors. One quart Mineral Water cured me. Spent thousands of dollars for medical treatment. Would not go back for $10,000."

14. J. B. Brown says: "My only child, three years old, sick two years. Spent much for medical treatment. Child given up to die. Mineral Water cured him. I would not take $1,000 for benefits of that bottle of Mineral Water."

16. Mrs. Eliza Austin, Caddo parish, La., says: "The water is curing everything it is used for. Deaf, blind, lame, halt. I believe it will cure anything curable. One says, 'It's worth to me $500;' another: 'It is worth to me one thousand dollars.' 'It is worth its weight in gold.' I wish I could tell half the good it has done."

16. Mr. J. A. Davis, Bonham, Texas, says: "My horse was as sick with colic as any horse I ever saw. One pint of water cured him in five minutes."

Price: Per bottle, 25c, 50c, and $1.

Address

C. M. FUSH,
106 Camp Street,
NEW ORLEANS, - - - LA.

READ THIS.

Board and Lodging by Day, Week or Month.

Regular meals, 25 cents. Lodging, 25 to 50 cents.

I endeavor to make my place home-like and comfortable. Give me a call.

MRS. BRAKEL,
No. 535 Chartres St., near Northeastern Depot.

Persons Attending the BIBLE INSTITUTE AT

Seashore Camp Ground

May obtain good board at the Montgomery Cottage (on the beach) at Reasonable Prices.

Tuskaloosa Female College,

TUSKALOOSA, ALA.

Thirty-fourth Session begins Sept. 26, 1893. Terms reduced to suit the times. For Catalogues apply to

ALONZO HILL, President.

Tulane -:- University Scholarships.

TULANE UNIVERSITY, New Orleans, for the purpose of encouraging post-graduate studies, offers fifteen scholarships to the graduates of its own and other colleges. The appointments are made for merit, and entitle the holder to free tuition and an honorarium of one hundred and fifty dollars.

For further particulars address the Secretary of Tulane University, New Orleans, Louisiana.

Cincinnati Conservatory of Music,

MISS CLARA BAUR, Directress.

Thorough musical education after the methods of foremost European conservatories. The Conservatory will as usual be open during the entire Summer, and students can, as during the school year, enter at any time.

Branches taught: Vocal culture, the Pianoforte, Organ, Harp, Violin, and all other Orchestral Instruments; also Guitar, Mandolin and Banjo; Elocution, Delsarte, Modern Languages, English Literature and Art.

Young ladies from a distance can board in the Conservatory building, where they pursue their studies under the supervision of the Directress. For Catalogue address in full,

MISS CLARA BAUR,
Conservatory of Music, 4th and Lawrence,
Cincinnati, O.

State Normal School,

NATCHITOCHES, LA.

Reopens Oct. 2, 1893. Both sexes admitted. Attendance last session, 293. Faculty of twelve instructors. Unsurpassed in beauty and healthfulness of location, thoroughness of instruction, and perfection of discipline. Diploma entitles holder to first-grade teacher's certificate without examination.

Tuition free. Total expense need not exceed $110 per annum.

For catalogue address

THOS. D. BOYD, A. M.,
President.

Opelousas Female Institute,

Opelousas, St. Landry Ph., La.

A practical, non-sectarian Institution, founded in 1871. Discipline firm, but kind, and based on sound principles. Honor and self-respect promoted. Thorough training and culture. Curriculum revised, and prepares for university or practical life. Diplomas are conferred. Buildings are comfortable and commodious. Unrivalled health record.

Twenty-third session begins Sept. 11, 1893.

For Catalogue and further particulars apply to the Principal or Vice-Principal.

J. F. ARMENTROUT, B.A. (Univ. of Va.), Principal.
MRS. M. M. HAYES, Vice-Principal.
MISS LEOLA B. WHITE, First Assistant

-: WHITWORTH FEMALE COLLEGE :-

AND

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC AND ART,

BROOKHAVEN, MISS.

The 23rd Annual Session begins Sept. 18, 1893. The prestige of a long and phenomenally successful career—the reputation it has always enjoyed of thorough, honest work—its commodious buildings, heated by steam—its ample grounds—its wonderful health record—and the magnificent facilities it furnishes in the departments of Literature, Science, Art, Elocution and Music all combine to put this institution in the very front rank of the best Female Colleges of the South.

For further information and for Catalogues, apply to

L. T. FITZHUGH, A. M., President.

Memphis Conference Female Institute

—AND—

Conservatory of Music,

Jackson, Tenn.

A HIGH GRADE COLLEGE FOR GIRLS AND YOUNG LADIES.
A METHODIST SCHOOL FOR METHODIST GIRLS.

Faculty Large and Course of Study Extensive.
Teacher of Elocution Trained in the Emerson School of Oratory.
Thoroughly Equipped Gymnasium.
Conservatory of Music and Art.
Water throughout Buildings.
Lighted with Gas and Electricity.
Library of Over 6,000 Volumes.
Twenty-three Pianos.

The city of Jackson is noted for its culture and healthfulness. Thirty bored wells furnish a water supply which chemical experts pronounce as pure as that from the famous Eureka Springs in Arkansas.

A fine opportunity is here provided to secure health while acquiring an education.

For catalogue and other information write the president,

Rev. Howard W. Key, A.M., Ph.D.

SCIENCE HILL,—

— SHELBYVILLE, KY.

AN ENGLISH AND CLASSICAL SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

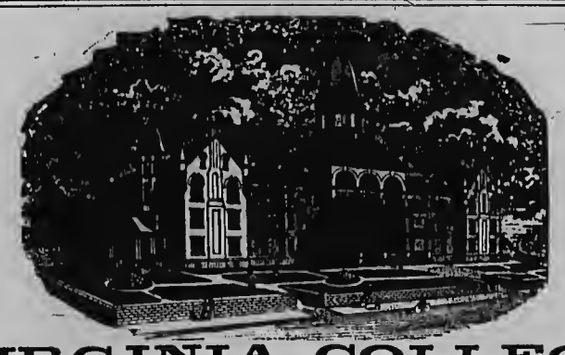
Our Certificates admit to Wellesley without examination.

W. T. POYNTER.

Alabama Conference Female College.

Organized in 1856. Average annual patronage for four years past, over 200. Twenty-two professional Officers, Teachers and Lecturers. Fine Literary Curriculum extending through four years. Music taught on Conservatory methods by three able and brilliant Musicians. Art taught by a celebrated teacher of four years' European study. Scientific and Literary lectures by the Professors of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Location high; health record phenomenal; not a case of serious sickness during the past year.

For catalogue containing full statement address JOHN MASSEY, President, Tuskegee, Ala.



VIRGINIA COLLEGE

FOR YOUNG LADIES. ROANOKE, VIRGINIA.

Opens Sept. 14th, 1893. New buildings with all modern improvements, among the finest in the South. New Pianos and furniture. Campus of ten acres; magnificent mountain scenery; in the Valley of Virginia, far famed for health. European and American teachers. Degrees of B. S., B. A., and M. A. conferred. Unsurpassed advantages in Music and Art. One of the most attractive and beautiful College homes for Young Ladies in the South. For Catalogue, address W. A. HARRIS, D.D., President, Roanoke, Virginia.

Nashville College for Young Ladies.

Privilege of Lectures, Museum, Apparatus, in Vanderbilt University. Three large Buildings. Faculty of 40, pupils average over 400 for four years past. Music, Art, Calisthenics, Health, Accessibility. Fully Equipped Gymnasium. Address Rev. Geo. W. F. Price, D.D., Prest., Nashville, Tenn.

EMORY COLLEGE

OXFORD, GA. Forty Miles East of Atlanta. Location Proverbially Healthy! No Saloons.

57th Session opens Sept. 20th, 1893, closes June 13, 1894. Endowment recently increased $100,000 and equipment greatly improved. Total expenses within $125. For full information, address

W. A. CANDLER, D. D., PRESIDENT.

SOUTHERN FEMALE COLLEGE

PETERSBURG, VA.

Historic Home School in perfect Climate. Unsurpassed course in Literature, Language, Science. Conservatory advantages in Music and Art. All modern improvements. 31st session. Terms low. Send for catalogue to ARTHUR K. DAVIS, A. M., Pres't, Petersburg, Va.

Clinton Female Academy,

(Chartered in 1832)

WILL OPEN MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1893.

Course thorough. Charges lower than offered by any school of its grade in the South.

CHARGES PER MONTH.

Tuition per month	$2 00 to $3 00
Music " "	3 00
Use of Piano per Month	1 00
Painting in Oil " "	3 00
Drawing " "	1 00
Latin, French and Book-keeping, each per month	1 00
Incidental Expenses per Session	50

Board, Tuition, Washing, Fuel and Lights, $12 per Month. $120 per the Session of Ten Months. For particulars address the Principal,

Mrs. S. E. MUNDAY, Clinton, La.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT
Tulane University of Louisiana.

Its advantages for practical instruction, both in ample laboratories and abundant hospital materials, are unequaled. Free access is given to the great Charity Hospital with 700 beds and 20,000 patients annually. Special instruction is given daily AT THE BEDSIDE OF THE SICK. The next session begins October 19th, 1893. For catalogue and information address

PROF. S. E. CHAILLE, M. D., DEAN,
P. O. Drawer 261. NEW ORLEANS, LA.

McTyeire -:- Institute,

MCKENZIE, TENN.

Prepares students for Vanderbilt and such institutions.

Expenses for five months, $72.50 to $82.50.

Students completing our course enter Vanderbilt without examination.

Next session begins August 31.

For circulars or information address

J. H. HARRISON, Prin.,
McKenzie, Tenn.

HOLLINS INSTITUTE

BOTETOURT SPRINGS, Va.

For Young Ladies. 51st session opens September 13th, 1893. Eclectic courses in all Languages and Sciences, Music, Art, and Elocution. Eight able professors and twenty ladies. Beautifully situated in Valley of Virginia, on N. & W. R. R. near Roanoke. Mountain scenery. Mineral waters. Climate unexcelled. Write for illustrated catalogue to

CHAS. L. COCKE, Supt., Hollins, Va.

LAW SCHOOL

WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY,
LEXINGTON, VIRGINIA.

Opens Sept. 14. For catalogue address

JOHN RANDOLPH TUCKER, Dean.

CENTENARY COLLEGE, JACKSON, LA.

Jackson, La., is near Ethel, on the Valley R. R., 113 miles north of New Orleans. The location is beautiful, and healthful, the buildings are elegant and ample, and the Faculty is complete and able. The sale of intoxicating drinks is forbidden by law within five miles of the College. Its endowment fund is being rapidly increased, and the college has entered upon a new career of prosperity.

Special attention will be given to the health, morals and biblical instruction of the students.

For terms, Catalogue, or other information apply to Prof. G. H. Wiley, Jackson, La., or to

W. L. C. HUNNICUTT, PRESIDENT.

PECULIARLY MADE. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are made of refined and concentrated botanical extracts. They're different from the large old-fashioned pills for these Pellets are as tiny as mustard seeds, and are sugar-coated. They're made in an improved chemical laboratory under the direct supervision of scientific men. Everything else being equal, the smaller the size of a liver pill, the more comfort. They do not shock the system, but regulate, cleanse and tone up, the liver, stomach, and bowels, in nature's own way. They're put up in sealed glass vials, easily carried in the vest-pocket.

In Bilious Disorders, Sick Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Dizziness, or for breaking up sudden attacks of Colds, Fevers, and Inflammation, "Pleasant Pellets" are prompt and effective in action.

Peculiar in the way they're sold, too, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned.

A certain and lasting cure, for the worst Catarrh in the Head, is guaranteed by the makers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

HENRY P. DART,

Attorney-at-Law,

49 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

Founded by Dr. Eben Tourjee. CARL FAELTEN, Director.

The Leading Conservatory of America.

In addition to its unequalled musical advantages, exceptional opportunities are also provided for the study of Elocution, the Fine Arts, and Modern Languages. The admirably equipped Home affords a safe and inviting residence for lady students. Calendar Free.

FRANK W. HALE, General Manager, Franklin Square, Boston, Mass.

Huntsville Female -:- College.

HUNTSVILLE, ALABAMA.

Forty-fourth Session begins Wednesday, September 6 1893. Healthy, well-furnished; twenty Officers and Teachers. All departments of Female Education thoroughly taught; Music, Art, Languages, Sciences, Literature and Commercial Course. A Christian home for pupils. Charges reasonable. For Catalogues, etc., apply to

Rev. A. B. JONES, President.

Mississippi Industrial Institute and College.

BUREAU OF EDUCATION.

Persons desiring to employ competent teachers, or young women qualified to do good work as dress makers, telegraphers, type writers and book keepers, are invited to correspond with this Bureau. No charge for services.

Apply to MISS S. C. McLAURIN, 1. I. and C., Columbus, Miss.

Educate for Business.

AT THE

BOWLING GREEN BUSINESS COLLEGE AND LITERARY INSTITUTE.

Railroad Fare Paid.

A School of Business, Shorthand, English, Typewriting, Telegraphy, Penmanship, Teacher's Training. Catalogues free.

CHERRY BROTHERS, Bowling Green, Ky.

GRENADA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

Is Devoted to the Education of Girls and Young Ladies.

FALL TERM OPENS SEPTEMBER 5TH, 1893.

The Institute affords the very best advantages for culture in Vocal and Instrumental Music; in Art, Drawing, Painting, etc.; and in all the branches of collegiate study—English, Latin, French and German. The teachers are experienced and competent. The Boarding Department is home-like and comfortable. The health is fine. The expenses are moderate. For catalogue address Rev. Thos. J. Newell, A. M., Pres., Grenada, Miss.

WESLEYAN FEMALE COLLEGE, MACON, GA.

Annual Session begins September 20th, 1893. Best advantages in Literature, Music and Art. For safety, health and domestic comfort, there is no better home for girls. Apply for Catalogue to

REV. W. C. BASS, PRES.

CARPETS!

Don't have your carpets half cleaned; all know how impossible it is to clean carpets by hand.

All dust thoroughly taken out by steam.

Feathers purged of all impurities.

44 St. Peter Street.

$21 PAID WEEKLY

To active, faithful men and women, boys and girls, working for us taking orders for THE ILLUSTRATED WORLD'S FAIR, edited by John McGovern, the Prince of the Literary West. 25c. a month, or $2 50 a year. Entire Series, from July, 1891, to January, 1894, 30 monthly issues, only $6.00. Sells at sight. Most beautiful, interesting and popular, and the only publication receiving official recognition. THE ORGAN OF THE FAIR. Chicago Inter Ocean says: "It is a handsomely prepared and valuable publication, to which many celebrities are contributors." Send 15c. (stamps) for full particulars and sample copy containing fifty large rich engravings of the PRINCIPAL ATTRACTIONS of the World's Fair. Address.

THE NATIONAL BOOK CONCERN, 134 VAN BUREN ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

HOME CIRCLE.

THE WATCHES OF THE NIGHT.

BY JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY.

Oh, the waiting in the watches of the night!
In the darkness, desolation, and contrition, and affright;
The awful hush that holds us shut away from all delight;
The ever weary fancy that forever weary goes
Recounting ever over every aching loss it knows—
The ever weary eyelids gasping ever for repose—
In the dreary, weary watches of the night.

Dark—stifling dark—the watches of the night!
With tingling nerves at tension, how the blackness flashes white
With spectral visitations smitten past the inner sight!
What shuddering sense of wrongs we've wrought that may not be redressed—
Of tears we did not brush away—of lips we left unpressed,
And hands that we let fall, with all their loyalty unguessed!
Ah! the empty, empty watches of the night!

One leads us through the watches of the night—
By the ceaseless intercession of our loved ones lost to sight,
He is with us through all trials, his mercy as his might;
With our mothers there about him, all our sorrow disappears,
Till the silence of our sobbing is the prayer the Master hears,
And his hand is laid upon us with the tenderness of tears
In the waning of the watches of the night.

A Sister's Influence.

A girl in the house, to my mind, can wield a wonderful influence. I can not conceive a more beautiful sight than the affection of a sister for her brother. A sister's love is one of the sweetest flowers planted by God in the heart of a girl. It is born of filial sympathy and confidence, and ripens into spiritual love different from any other affection.

Powerful as is the influence of a mother, there have been innumerable cases where the presence of a sister's sweet and tender love, or the memory of a sister's holy affection, have been the saving grace of a brother's life. The sister's love in the home often formulates the brother's estimate of her sex. A sister can have a softening influence upon a brother where everything else fails. She raises his opinion of a woman by her actions towards him.

A young man can be made pretty well what his sister chooses to make him. As he sees her in the home, so he judges the sisters of other brothers. She is often his standard whereby others are measured.

Perfect, more perfect, most perfect. Is such comparison allowable? We suppose not, in accordance with the strict use of language. Yet who that really loves the Lord as he deserves to be loved can fail to feel a special fitness in some such words as these, a call for some form of expression like this that shall indicate his dissatisfaction with present attainments no matter how high, and his aspiration for the closest imaginable walk with God. He wants to be better. He sees so much room for improvement before he can be absolutely like the model, that he is prone to minimize the achievements already gained. There is a little danger that he will not sufficiently praise God for what has been done so deeply conscious is he that more needs to be done. There is just one thing on which he had set his heart, one thing about which his mind is fully made up—he must and will have the most perfect life that is attainable, and honor the Master in the highest degree.—Zion's Herald.

A Safe Knowledge.

A passenger who had been looking with great interest at the "man at the wheel" as he was directing the course of a steamboat through the windings of an intricate channel, said to him: "I suppose, sir, you are the pilot of this boat?"

"Yes," replied the man at the wheel, "I have been a pilot on these waters for over thirty years."

"Indeed!" continued the inquirer; "you must then, by this time, know every rock and bar, and shoal on the whole coast!"

"No, I don't, not by a long ways," said the pilot.

"You don't!" responded the passenger, in great surprise; "what, then, do you know?"

"I know," answered the pilot, with strong emphasis, "I know where the deep water is."

Character Will Show.

Character will show itself in the outer man. If the character be deteriorating, it will gradually give signs of this in the expression and features. If the character be making progress Christward, it will steadily suffuse the face, and glow in the very form and bearing. A man may deceive himself as to the direction of his moral movement, but God has so ordered nature that a man can not permanently deceive his fellows on that point. The light or the shade of his inner character will, sooner or later, be manifest in a man's exterior.—Sunday-School Times.

If every Christian who trims his lamp and keeps the oil of grace up to its full supply is such a blessed benefactor to others, what a terrible thing it is for a Christian to let his light burn low or go out entirely! A traveler who once visited a lighthouse in the British Channel said to the keeper: "But what if one of your lights should go out at night?" "Never," said the keeper, "never—impossible! Sir, yonder are ships sailing to all parts of the world. If to-night my burner were out, in a few days I might hear, from France or Spain, or from Scotland or America, that on such a night the lighthouse in the Channel gave no warning, and some vessel had been wrecked. Ah, sir, I sometimes feel, when I look at my lights, as if the eyes of the whole world were fixed on me. Go out!—burn dim!—never, sir, never!"—Theodore L. Cuyler, D. D.

A recent investigation in Louisiana, says the New York Evening Post, brings out the fact that the same text-book on physiology that is furnished in the Ohio public schools for seventy-five cents is sold in Virginia for $1, and in Louisiana for $1.25, "and this ratio seems to hold good all through the list." This is an example of what is called by railroad men "charging what the traffic will bear." In Ohio people can afford to pay $1.25, but compel their school boards to act as purchasing agents, and get the book for seventy-five cents. In Louisiana the people can not afford to pay seventy-five cents, but allow the State to make long term contracts with particular dealers, and are charged $1.25. Verily, the destruction of the poor is their poverty.—Southern Churchman.

A girl, rummaging through her mother's trunk, said: "Mama, I found your religion in your trunk." She had discovered her mother's church letter. About all the "religion" some mothers have left.

Experience and Science Concur.

Almost Everybody knows that

Dr. Price's

Cream Baking Powder

Is the Purest and Best of all the Baking Powders

And Everybody should know that 99 per cent. of the Baking Powders contain Ammonia, Alum, Lime or other hurtful ingredients.

What a revelation to the good housewife when she uses her first can of Dr. Price's, and remarks the beautiful work it does, so immeasurably superior to that of any other.

OUR YOUNG PEOPLE.

THE GRUMBLIES AND THE SMILIES.

Oh, there never was yet
Such a hard-used set!
They have to study, or have to sew,
When everyone knows they hate it so,
And mama is always a-saying "no;"
While grandmama is getting the dreadfullest way
Of asking for something most every day!
At dinner there's nothing that's fit to eat;
And somebody else has the brownest meat—
Or the soup's too hot, or the bread's too dry;
And they never did like that kind of pie.
So they're grumbly and growly,
And sulkily and scowly,
Till everyone thinks we could get on without them.
Poor Grumblies! I feel so sorry about them!

But who can be glum
When the Smilies come?
They are always polite; and errands, they say,
Are never too hard or too far away.
And whether they work, or whether they play,
Their faces are bright as a new-coined dime,
And they have just the jolliest kind of a time.
And everyone's happy to have them nigh;
For if ever a bit of a cloud comes by,
They are whisking it inside out in a minute,
And finding the silvery lining that's in it,
They're funny, and sunny,
And sweeter than honey,
And always a scattering sunshine about them.
Dear smilies! Why, how could we live without them?

—Our Little Men and Women.

The Mother of Oliver Cromwell.

In the life of Oliver Cromwell, by Dr. George H. Clark, just published by D. Lothrop Co., there is a charming chapter on his later domestic life, from which we make the following extract:

"There was one inmate of Whitehall who calls for a page in this narrative—Oliver's old mother, who is said to have given him some of his best traits of character. She was now ninety-four years old, but her mental faculties were little obscured. Every day, it is related, her kind, affectionate son visited her in her room. Every day she wished to see his face and to hear his voice. To her he was not the great captain of Dunbar, nor the invincible conqueror whom all the sovereigns of Europe feared; he was her Oliver, her boy, her only one, the pet of the old Huntingdon home. He sits and talks with her, but not a word he said of war or Parliament; the talk is of the far past.

"Memories sweet and dear are gone over again and again, and never seem to lose their interest; the kind father long ago gone, who took his boy to Cambridge; the old house; the brook running near it; the Winter evenings when Dr. Beard and others came in for a little talk; Cousin Hampden, yes, with tears and tender voice, good Uncle Oliver, godfather Oliver, and the pleasant walks to Hinchinbrook. All the past, little of the present is gone over.

"At last came a scene worth the vision of an angel. Oliver for the last time is by her side, and she is passing to the other life. She looks up and says: 'My dear son, I leave my heart with thee; good night!' and dies. Tenderly through nearly forty years of widowhood, this mother had been watched over and cared for by the most dutiful of sons, and now he lays her body in Westminster Abbey. She was a noble woman. Even Royalists spoke kindly of her. Her picture is a pleasant one to look at. Her memory will be kept alive, for she was the mother of a hero."

Aim High.

Boys and girls, aim high. Do not say, "I will be pretty good," but endeavor to be perfect.

A great artist was once highly praised for a beautiful painting which he had just completed. "Ah, do not praise me," he said, sadly. "It may be very beautiful, but I aimed at perfection."

I once put the following question to a little ragged newsboy, "What are you going to be when you are a man?" The little fellow met my half-quizzical glance with a look of determination in his bright eyes; then he replied, "President of the United States, sir." That lad may not become President, but he will not remain a newsboy.

George Eliot, in writing the last words of one of her most powerful novels, exclaims, "It is so much less than what I hoped for; I am dissatisfied."

Bear this in mind, "If we aim at the ground, we shall never reach the sky."—The Lutheran.

It is said that Gen. Booth has "passed over" his son, Lieut.-Gen. Bramwell Booth, and nominated his daughter, Le Marechale Booth-Clibborn, to succeed him as the head of the Salvation Army, explaining his course with the remark that "women are the best rulers."

True Courage.

During a terrible naval battle between the English and the Dutch, the English flagship, commanded by Admiral Narborough, was drawn into the thickest of the fight. Two masts were soon shot away, and the mainmast fell with a fearful crash upon the deck. Admiral Narborough saw that all was lost, unless he could bring up his ships from the right. Hastily scrawling an order, he called for volunteers to swim across the boiling water under the hail of shot and shell. A dozen sailors at once offered their services, and among them a cabin boy. "Why," said the admiral, "what can you do, my fearless lad?" "I can swim, sir," the boy replied. "And if I be sunk can be easier spared than anyone else." Narborough hesitated, his men were few, and his position was desperate. The boy plunged into the sea amid the cheers of the sailors, and was soon lost to sight. The battle raged fiercer, and as the time went on defeat seemed inevitable. But just as hope was fading a thundering cannonade was heard from the right, and the reserve was seen bearing down upon the enemy. By sunset the Dutch fleet was scattered far and wide, and the cabin-boy, the hero of the hour, was called to receive the honor due him. His modesty and bearing so won the heart of the old admiral that he exclaimed: "I shall live to see you have a flagship of your own." The prediction was fulfilled when the cabin-boy, having become Admiral Cloudesley Shovel, was knighted by the king.—Selected.

Macaulay's Mother.

"Children," wrote Lord Macaulay, the great essayist and historian, "look in those eyes; listen to that dear voice; notice the feeling of even a single touch that is bestowed upon you by that gentle hand! Make much of it while you have that most precious of all good gifts—a loving mother. Read the unfathomable love of those eyes; the kind anxiety of that tone and look, however slight your pain. In after life you may have friends—fond, dear, kind friends; but never will you have again the inexpressible love and gentleness lavished upon you, which none but a mother bestows. Often do I sigh, in my struggles with the hard, uncaring world, for the sweet, deep security I felt when, of an evening, nestling in her bosom, I listened to some quiet tale, suitable to my age, read in her tender and untiring voice. Never can I forget her sweet kiss of peace given at night. Years have passed away since we laid her beside my father in the old church-yard! yet still her eye watches over me as I visit spots long since hallowed to her memory."—Selected.

Boys, read this fact and see how whisky does its work:

One of the best Greek scholars in New York is a guard on the Sixth Avenue Elevated Road. Not long ago a famous professor in one of our leading universities published a volume on certain features of the ancient Grecian dialects, of interest only to scholars. The "L" guard referred to above, wrote to a New York newspaper, pointing out several errors made by the professor in his book. He signed himself "Sixth Avenue Elevated Guard, No.—." For a month, writes the Pittsburg Despatch's New York corre-pondent, I watched the badges of the guards on that road as I made my daily trips back and forth. One morning I was rewarded by finding the learned man I sought. "How does it happen," I asked, showing him my card, "that you, a Greek scholar of first rank, should be doing such work as this?" He looked at me sadly, and his red face grew more flushed than usual: "I was the best Hellenist of my year at Dublin," he said. "My Greek is still what it used to be, but my career has been mined by—whisky."—Selected.

Mrs. Uppercrust—"You go abroad a great deal lately, do you not, Mrs. Newmonie?" Mrs. Newmonie—"La, yes, my dear. Why, we're in Paris so much lately that I call us reg'ler Parisites!"—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The world is dying because there are not more people getting religion so that those who live in the same house with them can see it.—Ram's Horn.

MAKES Leather soft and strong and durable—Vacuum Leather Oil; 25c, and your money back if you want it.

Patent lambskin-with-wool-... swoh and book—How to Take Care of Leather—both free at the store.

Vacuum Oil Company, Rochester, N. Y.

Dr. King's Royal Germetuer

Is a unique, peerless preparation, which embodies the best and latest fruits of medical research, and differs radically from ordinary medicines in a number of particulars. Here are three of them:

1. It is as pleasant to take as lemonade.
2. It is harmless always—may be safely given to a babe one day old.
3. IT CURES WHEN ALL ELSE FAILS.

REV. SAM P. JONES SAYS:

"My wife, who was an invalid from nervous sick headache, has been entirely cured by six weeks' use of Dr. King's Royal Germetuer. Her health is perfect. In three weeks two of my children were cured completely of catarrh. IT IS TRULY A GREAT REMEDY."

GENERAL LONGSTREET SAYS:

"I have suffered for months past from insomnia and indigestion, and failing of relief, was induced by a friend to try Dr. King's Royal Germetuer. I am now relieved, and I hope permanently so."

TESTED AND PROVED FOR YEARS.

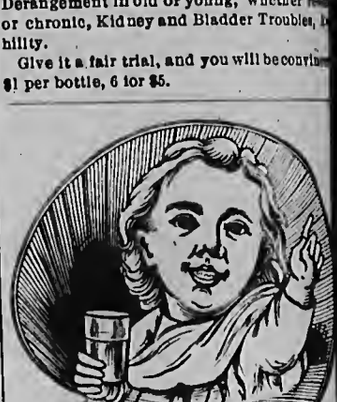
TERRY, MISS., April 21, 1893.

We have been using Dr. King's Royal Germetuer for several years in our family, and have recommended it to many others. It has always done what is claimed for it, as far as tried, and I regard it as the best medicine we have ever had in our family.

Mrs. J. J. HALBERT.

This great remedy presents an array of testimonials absolutely without a parallel in the history of medicines either as to character or number. These statements show that it cures Nervous Disorder, Stomach Troubles, Bowel Derangement in old or young, whether recent or chronic, Kidney and Bladder Troubles, Inability.

Give it a fair trial, and you will be convinced. $1 per bottle, 6 for $5.



I KEEP COOL inside, outside, and ... the way through by drinking

HIRES' Root Beer

This great Temperance drink; ... is as healthful, as it ... pleasant. Try it.

WIDOW HOOD'S LODGING HOUSE

No. 19 ST. CHARLES ST.

I wish to announce to the public that I have renovated and refitted my house, and solicit the patronage of the travelling public. Open all night. Beds can be had for 25 and 50 cents. I especially solicit the patronage of Christian people visiting the city.

WIDOW A. A. HOOD.

THE GREAT CHURCH LIGHT REFLECTORS OR OIL, GAS OR ELECTRIC LIGHT. I. P. FRINK, 551 PEARL ST. N. Y.

FREE by return mail, full descriptive circulars of MOODY'S NEW and MOODY'S IMPROVED TAILOR SYSTEMS OF DRESS CUTTING. Revised to date. These, only, are genuine TAILOR SYSTEMS invented and copyrighted by PROF. D. W. MOODY. Beware of imitations. Any lady of ordinary intelligence can easily and quickly learn to cut and make any garment in any style, to any measure, for ladies, men and children. Garments guaranteed to fit perfectly without trying on. Address MOODY & CO. CINCINNATI, O.

OPIUM and Whiskey Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D. Atlanta, Ga. Office 101½ Whitehall St.

8% GUARANTEED by a ... ing Trust Company is offered at par. Suitable for large and small investments. Full information furnished by W. ... Lown, Mills Building, New York.

AGENTS WANTED ON SALARY or commission, to handle the new Patent Chemical Ink Erasing Pencil. The quickest and greatest selling novelty ever produced. Erases thoroughly in two seconds. No abrasion of paper. Works like magic. 200 to 500 per cent. profit. One Agent's sales amounted to $630 in six days. Another $32 in two hours. Previous experience not necessary. For terms and full particulars address, The Monroe Eraser Mf'g Co., La Crosse, Wis.

HOPKINS' PRINTING OFFICE

20 Commercial Place,

John P. Hopkins. New Orleans.

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.

CATARRH

Sold by Druggists or sent by mail, 50c. E. T. Hazeltine, Warren Pa.

MARRIAGES.

LOWTHER—VAN HOOK.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. M. A. Van Hook, June 20, 1893, by Rev. A. F. Watkins, Mr. J. T. Lowther and Miss Fannie Van Hook, both of Jackson, Miss.

RATLIFF—REDFIELD.—In the Methodist Church, Edwards, Miss., July 12, 1893, by Rev. E. H. Meunger, Dr. W. A. Ratliff and Miss Nora E. Redfield.

SMITH—SIMPSON.—At the residence of Mr. W. T. Dallas, New Iberia, June 28, by Rev. Fitzgerald Sale Parker, Miss Ida P. Simpson to Mr. Charles E. Smith.

BOGARRY—BOAS.—At the residence of the bride's father, New Iberia, March 30, by Rev. Fitzgerald Sale Parker, Miss Mamie E. Boas to Mr. Leon P. Bugarry.

DUSON—PHARR.—At the residence of Capt. E. A. Pharr, New Iberia, July 20, by Rev. Fitzgerald Sale Parker, Miss Eunice Pharr to Mr. C. C. Duson, of Opelousas.

OBITUARIES.

We publish obituaries of 200 words free of charge; for all over this, one cent per word must be sent. If you want the notice to appear in its order, comply with this rule. Count the words, and send one cent for each word over 200.

DEAL—BALUS EARL DEAL died at his beautiful home, in Noxubee county, Miss., June 21, 1893. He was born in Tuscaloosa county, Ala., Sept. 26, 1828. While quite a child his parents moved to the place where he afterward lived and died. Many of the preachers of both the North Mississippi and North Alabama Conferences will remember Bro. Deal's hospitality with much pleasure, for his house was made the headquarters for many of the preachers, and their families, who have traveled the Hatron or Memphis circuits. Being one of the oldest citizens of this part, and a member of our church for many years, he will be greatly missed, but by none so much as by his bereft companion, and only daughter (Mrs. Maggie Lee Skinner).

It would be hard to find a husband more affectionate and kind to his wife, or a better provider for his household. As a father he was indulgent, giving largely of his means for the culture and well-being of his children.

His last sickness lasted nearly seven weeks—all of which time he was patient, not murmuring. However, he was in a comatose state most of the time; hence he said nothing of the future. May his loved ones meet him "in the sweet by-and-by." D. W. BABB.

Stone, Ala.

HUDSON—Mrs. MARY P. HUDSON was born June 14, 1815, and died July 2, 1893, at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. C. B. Austin. She became a member of the M. E. Church, South, when sixteen years old, of which church she remained a faithful member until called to the church triumphant. She was married to Mr. Henry Hudson. This marriage was blessed by nine children. All except one have preceded her to the other world. Her beloved husband passed away in the prime of life, leaving her alone to rear her little ones, which she did through many difficulties. God spared her to raise several grandchildren, all of whom are now grown. Her greatest delight was to minister to the sick and needy.

She leaves one daughter, many grandchildren and great-grandchildren, relatives and friends to mourn her loss; but we mourn not as they who have no hope, for we know our loss is her eternal gain. May God help us to so live that we may meet her around the great white throne, where pain and death and parting will be felt and feared no more!

A GRANDDAUGHTER.

SHARP—Mrs. MARY J. SHARP (nee Medlin) was born in 1852, and died July, 1893. In early life she gave her heart to God, and never from the hour of her conscious conversion and assumption of church vows was there a withdrawal of her heart's affections off the altar whereon she laid them. Sister Mary was always the same consistent Christian woman. At home, in the social circle, at church, ever exhibiting the same beautiful, Christly life.

Her marriage with our Bro. Frank Sharp was a happy one. Her husband could trust her with every interest; and the home circle will miss its greatest attraction. Sister Sharp's last illness was protracted, and for the past two years her suffering at times was great. Yet she bore it all without a murmur or complaint. Our dear friend was ready to go to her home above. No dread of the chill of death's cold flood. Her work is done, and she rests well. The husband and two daughters have the prayers and sympathy of a host of friends. May a gracious God bless them in this, their great sorrow! T. W. DYE.

ADAIR—B. F. ADAIR was born in Jefferson county, Miss., Jan. 31, 1842; died April 29, 1893. At the age of fifteen he joined the M. E. Church, South, and was happily converted, and ever afterward lived a consistent Christian life. He was quite modest and retiring in his disposition. Duty was his polar guide in all the relations of life; hence true and faithful as son, husband, father, citizen and church member. Consequently death had no terrors to him; but when told by his physician that he had but a short time in which to arrange any unsettled matters, he answered calmly, "My spiritual affairs are all arranged." His wife and two children preceded him to the better world. He left five children and many relatives and friends; but their loss is his eternal gain.

Yes, the Christian's course is run,
Ended is the glorious strife;
Fought the fight, the work is done,
Death is swallowed up of life.

IRA B. ROBERTSON.

Vicksburg, Miss.

SHARP—MARY J. SHARP was born in Morgan county, Ala., Jan. 13, 1833; died in Wall Hill, Miss., July 1, 1893.

Miss Mary had been from early youth a child of affliction, which she bore with the patience born of faith in God. It was not hers to look upon the beauties of nature nor into the faces of the loved ones who so tenderly ministered to her wants since the time when that dread disease, typhoid fever, closed the windows of the soul at about ten years of age.

The eye is lustrous now, and is permitted to sweep over the fields of unfallen beauty. In answer to the question of her brother and physician, our Dr. J. W. Sharp, "How do you feel as to the future?" "All is well. I'm not afraid to go." Religion was all and in all to her in life and in death. She sleeps well. Asleep in Jesus. T. W. DYE.

HAVENS—JEFFERSON STEWART, infant son of Rev. Jefferson H. and Mrs. Mary J. Havens, was born April 6, 1893, and died July 6, 1893.

This sweet little boy was a real jewel in the family. But the fatal hand of death came and snatched the precious bud from earth; but the hand divine has transplanted it in heaven. Oes crossed over the river before. Five more, with father and mother, remain in hope of a blissful reunion in heaven. N. B. YOUNG.

HOLMES—WILLIE LUSK, son and only child of John W. and Sallie M. Holmes, was born Jan. 13, 1892, and died July 7, 1893. Eighteen fleeting months was the space of time granted this sweet little babe by him who doeth all things well, and said, "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not; for of such is the kingdom of Heaven."

He was a sprightly, lovable child, and his death has saddened our hearts and made home desolate. His short, sweet life was a continual diffusion of sunshine into the lives of those to whom he was nearest and dearest.

To the bereft parents we would say: Trust in God, for this trial may index a better understanding of his goodness and wisdom. Little Willie is standing just within the jasper gates "waiting and watching" for and beckoning to mama, papa and other loved ones. May theirs at last be a reunion where sickness, sorrow, pain and death are felt and feared no more! GEO. S. HOLMES.

GREENE—Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God, in his all-wise providence, to remove from our midst our beloved pastor, G. E. GREENE, of the Melville and Big Cane circuit, we truly and most humbly bow ourselves and submit to the bereavement wherein we have been subjected to the loss of one of the most tender and loving spiritual advisers, a strict disciplinarian, a pure Christian, and a true friend, not only to the membership of the church at Melville, but to every individual citizen of this place; one of the most devoted Sabbath-school advocates and attendants, and a willing worker in the Woman's Christian Temperance Union; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we pray God that we may all be made to realize that whilst he is to us no more on earth, never to return, that his memory may be always with us, that his example, teachings and unflinching church government be a continual incentive to our devotion to our God, to the church of Christ, with all her ordinances and duties, so that his influence may still live and work out the salvation of many souls.

Resolved, That we, the members of Melville Church, extend to Mrs G. E. Greene our heartfelt sympathy and condolence in her bereavement, that while God has taken away from her a helpmate, yet He is able still to care for her, far better than mortal man can; that all we can do is to extend to her this assurance of our earnest regard and reverence to Bro. Greene's memory, and that we can only commit her to her Creator and Father in heaven until such time as they meet again above.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions shall be filed away with the church papers, and that a copy be sent to Sister Josephine Greene, and that a copy be sent to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE for publication.

J. E. CHURCH, Steward,
P. PAYTON, Steward,
S. K. BUTLER, Stew'd and Ch. Sec.

TEMPTED AND TRIED.

"Tempted and tried!
O the terrible tide
May be raging and deep, may be
Wrathful and wide!
Yet its fury is vain,
For the Lord shall restrain;
And forever and ever Jehovah shall reign."
—Havergal.

Many people neglect a cold, thinking it will go as it came. Frequently with serious results, the cold of to-day may be the pneumonia of to-morrow. Nothing will cure a cough or cold as rapidly as Dr. Davis' Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar. Its reputation has been established for over fifty years as the best remedy for coughs, colds, bronchitis, asthma, all throat and lung troubles. For croup and whooping-cough it is invaluable. Mothers will be saved much anxiety and loss of children by having Davis' Wild Cherry and Tar always on hand. Consumption has been cured many times by its use. One dollar bottles hold two and a half times as much as a 50c. bottle.

A Conversation with Monkeys.

In 1857 Jules Richard had occasion to visit a sick friend in a hospital, where he made the acquaintance of an old official of the institution from the south of France, who was exceedingly fond of animals, his love of them being equaled only by his hatred of priests; he claimed also to be perfectly familiar with the languages of cats and dogs, and to speak the language of apes even better than the apes themselves. Jules Richard received this statement with an incredulous smile, whereupon the old man—his pride was evidently touched by such skepticism—invited him to come the next morning to the zoological garden. "I met him at the appointed time and place," says Mr. Richard, "and we went together to the monkeys' cage, where he leaned on the outer railing and began to utter a succession of guttural sounds, which alphabetical signs are scarcely adequate to represent—'Kirrun, kirrikiu, knruki, kirikiu'—repeated with slight variations and differences of accentuation. In a few minutes the whole company of monkeys, a dozen in number, assembled and sat in rows before him with their hands crossed in their laps or resting on their knees, laughing, gesticulating, and answering." The conversation continued for a full quarter of an hour, to the intense delight of monkeys, who took a lively part in it. As their interlocutor was about to go away, they all become intensely excited, climbing up on the balustrade and uttering cries of lamentation; when he finally departed and disappeared more and more from their view, they ran up to the top of the cage and clinging to the frieze made motions as if they were bidding him good-by. "It seemed," adds Mr. Richard, as though they wished to say, "We are sorry to part and hope to meet again, and if you can't come, do drop us a line!"—From Studies of Animal Speech, by Prof. E. P. Evans, in The Popular Science Monthly.

Sympathy for the Distressed.

Our lives are all music if we but touch the chords rightly, so says one of our poets, and we all know there is a golden thread entering into the warp and woof of every-day life that is touched by sympathy for the distressed and suffering. At such a time what a boon to have on hand Dicks' Mul-en-ol to offer as a relief for cuts, burns, bruises, sprains and colic. It is soothing and cooling. Large bottles 50 cents.

An American who has lived for several years in China has this to say about our national extravagance: "What an American family throws away would keep an European family from starving, and would feed a Chinese or Japanese family. It is not merely food that we waste, it is fuel. Look at this," and he produced a cylinder of bronze as large as a "plug" hat. "Here is a Chinese stove or oven. With four or five pieces of charcoal a Mongolian will make tea and cook rice and eggs over that, while an American domestic would use up at least a hod of coal in the same operation."—Times-Democrat.

An Only Daughter Cured of Consumption

When death was hourly expected from Consumption, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H. James was experimenting, he accidentally made a preparation of Indian Hemp, which cured his only child, and now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. Hemp also cures night sweats, nausea at the stomach, and will break a fresh cold in twenty-four hours. Address Craddock & Co., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa., naming this paper.

No mineral water will produce the beneficial results that follow taking ONE or more of "BEECHAM'S PILLS" with a glass of water immediately upon arising in the morning.

Painless. Effectual. Covered with a tasteless, soluble coating.
"Worth a guinea a box."—Price only 25 cents.
Of all druggists, or a box will be mailed on receipt of 25cts. in stamps by B. F. Allen Co., 365 Canal St., New York. 27

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR
The Celebrated
CHOCOLAT MENIER
Annual Sales Exceed 33 MILLION Lbs.
Write for Samples. Sent Free. Menier, Union Sq., N. Y.

Marble, Slate and Hardwood Mantels.
TILES for Fire-places and Floors. GRATES of all kinds.
SLATE HEARTHS. BUILDING MATERIAL.
GEO. M. LEAHY,
No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Designs and prices furnished on application.

Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.

Losses Paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3,235,091.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429,729.

All Losses Paid in Cash without Discount, as Soon as Adjusted.

Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office, the same as with local companies.

DIRECTORS IN NEW ORLEANS.

GUSTAF R. WESTFELDT, Chairman. L. C. FALLON, LUCAS E. MOORE C. M. SORIA.
CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Resident Sec'y. H. V. OGDEN, Resident Secretary.

Home Insurance Co., of New Orleans
No. 78 CAMP STREET.

CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1886,	$400,479.08
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1887,	$413,860.76
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1888,	$459,369.50
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1889,	$510,584.54
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1890,	$551,897.82
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1891,	$600,414.81

Steadily Increasing in Strength and Popularity.
Solicits Fire and River Business

Liberal Settlements and Prompt Payments.

Thos. Sefton, Pres't. Capt. J. B. Woods, Vice-Pres't. Jno. G. Byrd, Sec'y

J. E. WOODS, JOS. BAYLE, JNO. BARKLEY, JNO. J. BARR, ANDREW STEWART, CHAS. CHAFFE, J. B. LEVERT, E. BORLAND, P. E. BIOE, W. B. BLOOMFIELD, W. T. HARDIE, THOS. SEFTON.

W. R. LYMAN, President. JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-President. JOHN E. WHITING, Secretary

Crescent Insurance Com'y

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.

Cash Capital, - - - - - - $300,000.

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849. ANNUAL and TERM POLICIES Issued on Desirable Fire Business.

See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

—THE—
Great Southern Music House of
Philip Werlein
Is Prepared to Suit All Comers.

Elegant and Durable Pianos from $250 up.
Good Second-hand and Slightly Used Pianos from $50 up.
Send for Catalogues and Prices.
135 Canal St., New Orleans.

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.,

SUCCESSORS TO
STERN'S
Fert. and Chem.
Manufacturing Com'y
14 UNION STREET,
New Orleans, La.
Write for Agricultural Hand-Book.

STANDARD AMMONIATED SOLUBLE GUANO
STERN'S PURE
STERN'S AMMO BUFFER PHOSPHATE
100 SULPHURIC ACID.
MANUFD BY STANDARD C. & C. M. CO.

MANUFACTURERS OF
High Grade
Bone Fertilizers.
PURE
GROUND BONE
ACID PHOSPHATE,
KAINIT,
Etc.
Buyers of Cotton Seed.

ROSE TOBACCO CURE A quick, cheap, pleasant and absolute cure for the Tobacco Habit
In all its Forms. For proof write the ROSE DRUG CO., Birmingham, Ala.

Office Telephone, 83. Yard Telephone, 381.
Pennsylvania Coal Company,
Office, 67 Carondelet Street;
PITTSBURGH COAL.
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.
L. S. WIDNEY, Manager.
Cotton Presses, Factories, and the Family trade supplied at Lowest Market Rates.
CITY YARDS: Foot of Robin Street, Foot of Desire Street, Corner Short and St. Charles Avenue.

AS A GARMENT OF MERIT
THE GENUINE JACKSON CORSET WAIST
STANDS AT THE FRONT.
It is Rapidly Replacing Old-Style, Uncomfortable and Unhealthful Corsets.

Easy-fitting, yet giving complete support to the form. It is well made, of good material and fast colors. We ask you to try it.

For sale by leading merchants everywhere. Take no substitute. If your dealer will not get it for you, write to the factory.

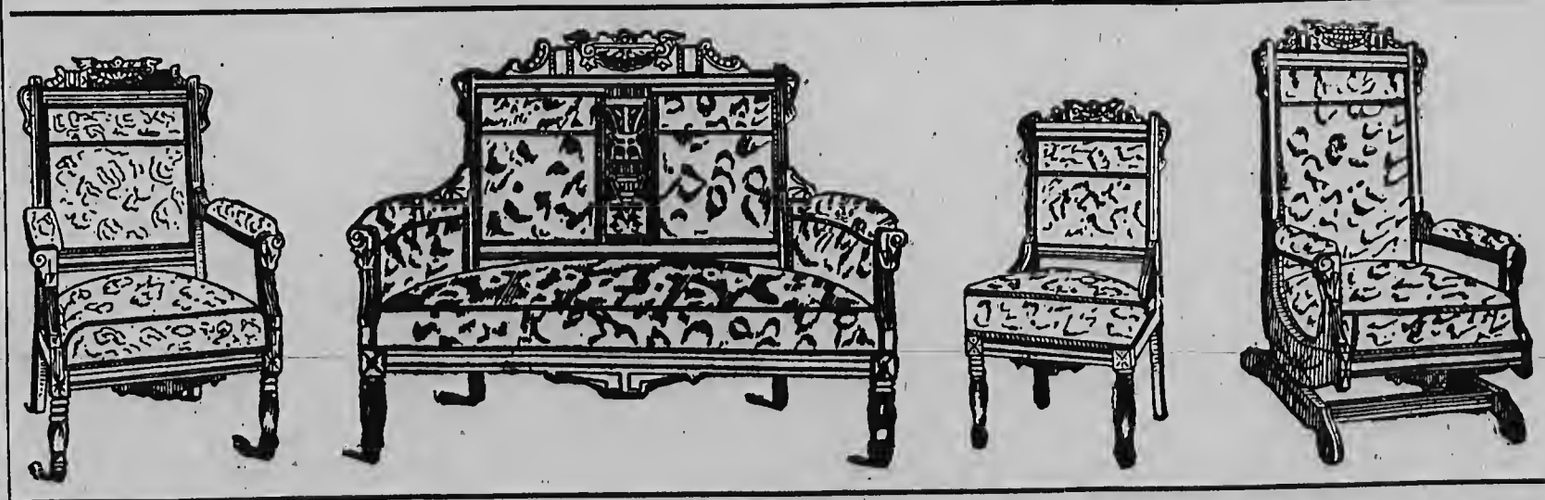
Made Only by the JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.

THE NEW SONG BOOK.
ROUND NOTES.
SHAPED NOTES.
"Spirit and Life."
By REV. E. S. LORENZ, OF OHIO, AND REV. D. E. DORTCH, OF TENNESSEE,
Assisted by Rev. W. T. Dale, of Georgia, and Prof. J. H. Ruebush, of Virginia, and over seventy-five of the leading hymn and music writers of the country.

NEW SONGS For the Sunday-school. For Church and Revival Services For Epworth Leagues, Christian Endeavor, and other societies
One of the grandest books ever issued. The hymns are eminently devout and evangelical, full of the spirit and life of Christ. The music is bright and lrush, easy and catching.
BEAUTIFULLY PRINTED. SUBSTANTIALLY BOUND. HANDSOME LITHOGRAPHED COVER.
PRICES: 35 cents per copy, postpaid, in any quantity; 30 cents per copy, by express, charges unpaid, in any quantity.
Be sure to see Children's Day Programs, "Rainbows of Promise," "The Children's Crusade," and "Children's Day Treasury, No. 3." The three for 15 cents.
BARBEE & SMITH, Publishing House M.E. Church, South. NASHVILLE, TENN. or LORENZ & CO., Publishers. DAYTON, OHIO.

Metal Tipped. EVER READY DRESS STAY Will Not Cut Through.
See Name "EVER READY" on Back of Each Stay.
Acknowledged the BEST DRESS STAY On the Market
Made with Gutta Percha on both sides of steel and warranted water-proof. All other stays are made differently and will rust. Beware of Imitations. Take none but the "Ever Ready."
Manufactured by the YPSILANTI DRESS STAY MFG. CO., Ypsilanti, Mich.
FOR SALE BY ALL JOBBERS AND RETAILERS.
SPECIAL DEPOTS. MODEL DRESS STEEL CO., 74 Grand St., New York. BROWN & METZNER, 535 Market Street, San Francisco.

Latest Styles -- Lowest Prices!



This handsome Parlor Suit is upholstered on solid walnut frames with Imported Marbleized Silk Plush and the seats are all Spring Edge. Colors are Red, Red and Old Gold, Blue and Old Gold or each piece of a different color. For $45 I will sell seven pieces of this suit:—one Sofa, one Divan, one Patent Rocker, one Arm Chair and three Reception Chairs. $65 buys the complete suit of ten pieces consisting of two Sofas, one Divan, one Patent Rocker, one Arm Chair, and five Reception Chairs. Same suit covered with Hair Cloth, seven pieces $35 or ten pieces $55. Every other article in my store at proportionately low prices. Bedroom suits, twelve pieces, from $40 up to $1000 Dining room suits, eight pieces, from $17 upwards. Quality at top—prices at bottom I have an immense variety of strictly reliable goods and purchasers can depend upon getting the very latest styles. Everything guaranteed to be exactly as represented or money will be promptly refunded.

CHEAPEST FURNITURE HOUSE in New Orleans, 28 CAMP STREET 30 | J. G. GRANT, | CHEAPEST FURNITURE HOUSE in New Orleans, 28 CAMP STREET 30

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

The army officers are about to test the Frankfurt smokeless powder made in California.

The First Baptist Church, in this city, whose house of worship was destroyed by fire, have purchased the Garden District Theatre for $18,000, and are remodeling it for church purposes.

The United States gunboat Bennington sailed on July 31 for the Mediterranean. Her mission abroad is to enable her commander to investigate charges relating to persecution of American missionaries in Asia Minor. Upon leaving Europe, the Bennington will sail for Montevideo in the South Atlantic.

There is fear that the Seminole Indians in South Florida may again go on the war path, after over forty years peace. "Little Tiger," a chief of that portion of the scattered tribes which has its village on the edge of the Everglades, not far west of Biscayne Bay, is now on his way to Tallahassee to seek an official interview with Gov. Mitchell.

Eighteen Russian horses have been imported for the Russian exhibit at Chicago. These horses come from the private stud farm of the Czar of Russia, and are said to be exceptionally fine types of the Russian horse. At the close of the Fair it is the intention of the Czar to exchange these for American trotting horses and carry the trotters to Russia.

The Chino (Cal.) beet sugar factory, the largest in the United States, with a maximum producing capacity of 740 tons of beets per day, starts on July 31. The industry gives direct employment to 2,000 men in Chino and 700 in Anaheim. The crop of the Chino ranches is estimated at 50,000 tons. The factory will run day and night during the season.

The World's Fair was open to the public on last Sunday. The attendance was the lightest of the season. Midway Plaisance and all were practically deserted. The total attendance up to 8 o'clock, including the employees and concessionaires, was scarcely 10,000, and the officials at the bureau of admission do not think the total for the entire day and evening would run over 12,000, if that many.

Mr. Crisp will organize the House in harmony with the wishes of the administration. This is not due necessarily to any agreement he has made, but because he desires to carry into effect Democratic policy, and Democratic policy, he believes, is that which has been determined upon as best by the administration. Whether Mr. Bland goes to the head of the Coinage Committee or not, that committee will favor the unconditional repeal of the Sherman act.

FOREIGN.

Striking miners rioted in Gran, Hungary, on July 28, until dispersed by the police. Many were wounded. Ten were arrested.

It is said that England has given France to understand that the blockade of Siamese ports must not apply to English ships, and that the seizure of English ships will be regarded by England as an act of hostility.

The editors of an opposition newspaper, started in the City of Mexico, a few days ago, have been arrested and locked up in Belem prison. They published articles of an unfavorable nature against the government.

In accordance with the decision of the Miners' Federation the great strike of the English coal miners was inaugurated, July 28, at a majority of the pits. No disorder has been reported from any quarter. Something like 350,000 men are directly affected by the strike.

Dr. Haffkine has inoculated over 200 persons at Simla for cholera, including many medical men, high officials and ladies. Several native Indian States have taken up his system of inoculation, and it is used at Agra, Delhi, and Lucknow. In one British regiment over 400 men have been inoculated.

In view of the Siamese concession of all the demands made by the French, notice of which reached Paris, July 30, it is expected that France will withdraw the notice of blockade. It is also expected that France will accept Siam's acceptance of her ultimatum. It is understood that the provinces on the upper Mekong that were ceded to Siam by Great Britain will form the subject of further negotiations between France and England.

It is generally held that the tariff war that has been started between Russia and Germany is more likely to cause damage to the former country than the latter. It seems that Russia, in applying her maximum tariff on German products, was mainly influenced by the unfavorable early reports regarding the harvest prospects in Germany. These reports, it is said, led Russia to believe that Germany desiring Russian grain, etc., would not retaliate for the imposition by Russia of the highest tariff on imported German products. In this belief, however, she was disappointed.

Are You Nervous,

Are you all tired out, do you have that tired feeling or sick headache? You can be relieved of all these symptoms by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla which gives nerve and bodily strength.

Hood's Pills are easy in action.

New Service on Queen and Crescent Route.

On May 28, 1893, the QUEEN AND CRESCENT ROUTE inaugurated a new service of magnificent vestibuled trains and sleeping cars through to Chicago, without change, from all principal points in the South.

A solid vestibuled train leaves New Orleans 7:50 P. M., Birmingham 7:00 A. M., Chattanooga 11:40 A. M., carrying sleeping car through to Chicago, via C. H. and D. and Monon Route from Cincinnati, arriving Cincinnati 10:40 P. M. and Chicago ——. Through sleeping cars from Savannah and Jacksonville via S. F. and W. and E. T., V. and G. railways pass through Macon and Atlanta, joining this train at Chattanooga, and run through to Chicago, via C. H. and D. and Monon, leaving Savannah 8:10 P. M., Jacksonville 6:20 P. M., and Atlanta 6:35 A. M.

Additional train service is afforded by the "Chicago Limited," a solid vestibuled train, which leaves Macon 11:10 A. M., via E. T., V. and G. railway, Atlanta 2:10 P. M., Chattanooga 7:25 P. M., and arrives Cincinnati 6:30 A. M., running through to Chicago, via the Big Four, arriving Chicago 4:35 P. M. This train is joined at Chattanooga by a sleeper coming from Birmingham, which runs through to Chicago. The Asheville and Knoxville sleeper to Cincinnati, leaving Asheville 4.15 P. M., and Knoxville 8:00 P. M., is also attached to this train at Oakdale. Sleeping car leaves Chattanooga 7:25 P. M. for Louisville, arriving Louisville 8:00 A. M. Sleeper leaving Asheville 4:15 P. M., and Knoxville 8.00 P. M., arrives Louisville 7:59 A. M.

Sleeper leaves Shreveport 8:30 A. M., and Vicksburg 4:50 P. M., for Chattanooga. Sleeper leaves New Orleans 7:50 P. M., and arrives New York 2:00 P. M. Train leaves New Orleans 11:20 A. M., arriving Cincinnati 7:20 P. M. Trains leave Chattanooga 11:40 A. M., 6:10 A. M., 7:25 P. M. and 6:00 P. M. for Cincinnati, arriving there 10:40 P. M., 7:20 P. M., 6:30 P. M. and 7:20 P. M.

This increased service will make it possible to reach Cincinnati, Louisville, Chicago, or any other point in the North, East or West more rapidly and more comfortably than ever before.

Buy your tickets via the Queen and Crescent Route. For tickets, schedules, etc., address

D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. A.,
Cincinnati, O.

To Whom It May Concern.

Macon, Ga., March 18, 1893.

About three years ago I received a sample bottle of MULENOL. I had never heard of it before. I began using it, however, as occasion required, and soon found that it was all that is claimed for it, and more. For cuts, burns, bruises, scalds and all kinds of sores it is superior to any remedy I have ever used. It is also exceedingly efficacious in colic and diarrhœa. For sore throat it is incomparably better than anything I know of. I heartily recommend it as a medicine worthy of a place in every household.

W. C. BLACK,
Pastor Mulberry St. Methodist Church.
Manufactured by F. A. Dicks, Natchez, Miss.

Illinois Central Railroad.

REDUCED RATES TO CHICAGO AND THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Tickets now on sale from New Orleans to Chicago and return at $36.75 for the round trip; sale to continue daily until Oct. 15, 1893, inclusive; good to return until Nov. 15, 1893. Remember that the Central Route is the only railroad from the South whose trains enter Chicago without transfer or detour in full view of the Exposition Buildings, and make regular stops at the World's Fair gates. (World's Fair Station—Midway Plaisance.)

For further particulars, tickets, etc., call on or address your local or nearest I. C. R. R. ticket agent.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

I want an active agent in every parish in the bounds of the Louisiana Conference to handle that wonderful new book by Bishop Fitzgerald, The Epworth League Book. Don't miss this opportunity of a lifetime. First come first served! Prospectus, 75 cents.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp St., - - - - - - - New Orleans.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Philip Warlein,

New Orleans, wants you to write to him if you want to get a good Piano cheap, or an Organ, Music or Musical Instruments. His is the old reliable music store of New Orleans.

Free! Free!

AN ELEGANT LITHOGRAPH PICTURE OF MILLSAPS COLLEGE.

We need $1,500 to pay for furniture already bought to finish furnishing the college and to make necessary improvements.

To everyone sending us $1 we will send the picture unframed, and to everyone sending us $5 we will send the picture neatly framed ready for hanging. Let us hear from you.

JOHN W. CHAMBERS, Agt.
Jackson, Miss.

The ADVOCATE in clubs of ten from now until Jan. 1, 1894, at fifty cents. Cash must accompany names.

Camp Meeting Calendar.

Camp Meet'g.	Begins.
Scottsville	Aug. 8
Topisaw	Aug. 11
Cypress	Aug. 11
Victoria	Aug. 17
Orville-Whittington	Aug. 18
Sam Jones	Aug. 18
Rapides	Aug. 19
Henington	Aug. 24
Longtown	Aug. 25
Leaf River	Aug. 30
Mt. Zion	Sept. 21
St. Tammany	Sept. 22
Palmer	Sept. 30

Delightfully Cool and Refreshing

Horsford's Acid Phosphate, with ice-water and sugar.

It is Worth $10,000 to Me.

For the past seven or eight years I have been a victim of Nervous Dyspepsia in its worst form. I have spent thousands of dollars, and have kept poor paying for medicine and doctors' bills. Up to the time I began the use of Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water, every kind of food caused me untold misery that none but God and myself knew. After having tried everything that I read or heard of, I must confess that I had no faith or hope whatever that the water would do me any good. But "like a drowning man grasping at a straw," I bought from Mr. Wilkinson one quart of his mineral water and began to take one dessertspoonful after each meal and at bedtime. Contrary to my expectations and to my very great joy and surprise, in three or four days I began to improve, continued to do so steadily until I was entirely well. It cured me in spite of myself. I could hardly realize the truth. Now I can and do eat anything I want, at any time, without it disagreeing with me in the least. My digestion is perfect, my heart trouble is all gone, I sleep well, and my general health is all I could wish. All of which, I am happy to say, was brought about by one quart of Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water in the space of six weeks. Will say in addition that I have every reason to know that as a constitutional nerve tonic and restorative it is unsurpassed. For $10,000 I would not be put back where I was when I began the use of the water and not be able to get any more of it.

Anyone suffering as I did can, if they choose, write to me and I will cheerfully answer.

W. J. GARDNER.
P. O. Box 73, Montgomery, Ala.
For sale at 106 Camp street.

Notice.

I have the best thing in the way of a Teacher's Bible for an agent to handle ever published. Write for full descriptive circulars at once.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp St., - - - - - - - New Orleans.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SEASHORE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Moss Point	Aug. 5, 6
Americus circuit, at X Roads*	8–9
Whittington circuit, at Whittington*	11–12
Biloxi	12, 13
Williamsburg circuit, at Oakohaye	19, 20
Ellisville circuit, at Sandersville	26, 27
Eastabuchie circuit, at L. River C. G.	30, Sept. 3
Heidelberg circuit, at Paulding	9, 10
Augusta cir., at Boone's Ch'l. (Th., Fri.)	14, 15
Vancleave circuit, at Mt. Zion	16, 17
Ocean Springs, at O. Springs. (Wed.)	20
Talisheek circuit, at St. Tammany C. G.	22–24
Covington cir., at St. Tam'y C. G. (Mon.)	25
Bay St. Louis, at Handsborough	29, 30
Whittington c. (4th round), Palmer C. G.	30 to Oct. 3
E. Pearl miss., at Pine Grove. (Tues.)	10

The Conference for charges marked with * will be held on second day published.

Let special prayer be made by all our people for the camp meetings. Observe the quarterly fast. Have General Rules read, and registers on hand for examination. Preachers will please try to "clear the decks" of the collections during this quarter, at least in good subscriptions. Push the interests of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

HENRY E. PARTRIDGE, P. E.
Hattiesburg, Miss.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

McComb City	Aug. 4
Adams, at Pisgah	5, 6
Lebanon, at Mispah	8
Wesson	19
Holmesville and Topisaw, at Topisaw	12, 13
Bowerton, at Pleasant Valley	19, 20
Pleasant Grove, at Monticello	Sept. 2, 3
China Grove, at Waterholes	6
Brookhaven circuit, at New Hope	9, 10
Terry circuit	13
Gallman, at Mt. Pleasant	16, 17
Hazlehurst	23
Providence, at Georgetown	23, 24

R. S. WOODWARD, P. E.

MERIDIAN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Enterprise and S., at Mayerhoff	Aug. 5, 6
Daleville circuit, at Scuie. (Thurs.)	10
Linwood circuit, at Linwood	12, 13
DeKalb circuit, at Marvin	19, 20
North Kemper, at Blair	25, 27
Chunkey circuit	Sept. 2, 3
Marion circuit, at Pleasant Hill	9, 10
Why Not circuit	16, 17
Meridian—Central (Wed. night)	20
Landerdale circuit. (Thurs.)	21
Binnsville circuit	23, 24

Attention is called to Questions 14 and 18. Registers and Records should be presented. Question 18 will be called where not properly answered on second round. Brethren, let us keep our vows to "recommend fasting or abstinence, both by precept and example," and let us continue to pray and look for the presence and power of the Holy Spirit.

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Clarksburg, at Holly Bush	Aug. 5, 6
Lake, at High Hill	9
Shiloh, at Bethany	19, 13
Brandon station	20, 21
Marvin, at Richland Academy	Sept. 1
Fannin, at Drake's	9, 3
Raleigh, at Trinity	7
Westville	9, 10
Homewood	15
Trenton, at Gasque	16, 17
Montrose, at Mt. Zion	23, 24

C. MCDONALD, P. E.

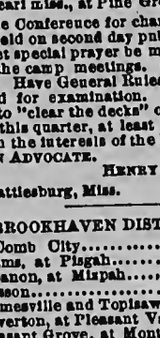
Unlike the Dutch Process

No Alkalies
—OR—
Other Chemicals

are used in the preparation of

W. BAKER & CO.'S

Breakfast Cocoa



which is absolutely pure and soluble.

It has more than three times the strength of Cocoa mixed with Starch, Arrowroot or Sugar, and is far more economical, costing less than one cent a cup. It is delicious, nourishing, and EASILY DIGESTED.

Sold by Grocers everywhere.

W. BAKER & CO., Dorchester, Mass.

VICKSBURG DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Learned, at Reeves Chapel	Aug. 5, 6
Martin, at Reduey	12, 13
Sunflower, at Bethel. (Sat.)	19
Rolling Fork, at Cary. (Sun.)	20
Fayette, at Ebenezer	26, 27
Meadville, at New Providence. (Tues.)	29
Warren, at Wesley Chapel	Sept. 2, 3
Port Gibson	9, 10
Rocky Springs	16, 17
Mayersville, at Mayersville	23, 24
Hermanville. (Thur.)	28

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

East Baton Rouge, at Antioch	Aug. 3
Live Oak, at Dupont	4
Port Vincent, at Bayou Barbary	5, 6
Amite City, at Amite City	12, 13
Springfield, at Ponchatoula	15, 14
St. Haleus, at Camp Ground	19, 20
East Feliciana, at Camp Ground	19, 26
Franklinton, at Tally's Chapel	26, 27

P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Benton, at New Hope	Aug. 5, 6
Sharon, at Forest Grove. (Tues.)	8
Jackson—First Church	12, 13
Jackson—Capitol Street	17, 18
Madison, at Madisonville	19, 20
Silver Creek, at B. Lake. (Wed.)	23
Lake City, at Lodi	26, 27
Yazoo circuit, at Anding. (Tues.)	29
Camden, at Thomastown	Sept. 2, 3
Bolton, at Clinton	9, 10
Pocahontas, at Liberty Grove. (Tues.)	12
Tranquil, at Locust Grove	16, 17
Canton	23, 24

E. H. MOUNGER, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

WINONA DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

West	Aug. 5, 6
Carrollton circuit	12, 13
Black Hawk	19, 20
Winona circuit	26, 27
Valden circuit	Sept. 2, 3
Leherton	9, 10

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Amory and Smithville	Aug. 5, 6
Saltillo	12, 13
Pontotoc	17
Houston and Wesley	19, 20
Athens	26
Okolona	26, 27
Tremont	Sept. 2, 3
Baena Vista	9, 10

J. B. STONE, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Cockrum	Aug. 5, 6
Arkabutla, at Sullivan's	12, 13
Pauola, at Mt. Olivet	19, 20
Morgansville mission. (Tues.)	22

H. C. MORRHEAD, P. E.

COLUMBUS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Sparta	Aug. 5, 6
Sturges	12, 13
Hebron	19, 20
Brooksville. (Mon.)	21
Mashulaville	26, 27
Shuqualak. (Wed.)	28
Macon	Sept. 2, 3

T. C. WEBB, P. E.

KOSCIUSKO DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Stewart circuit, at South Union	Aug. 5, 6
Wier circuit, at Liberty Hill	12, 13
Chester circuit, at South Union	21
Louisville circuit, at Rocky Hill	26, 27
Eupora circuit, at Sapa	Sept. 2, 3
Rural Hill circuit, at Plattsburg	9, 10

Will the preacher in charge please see that the general rules are read, and that church register and the records of Church Conferences are presented for examination?

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, P. E.

HOLLY SPRINGS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Red Banks circuit	Aug. 5, 6
Ashland circuit	12, 13
Mt. Pleasant circuit	19, 20
East Holly Springs circuit	26, 27
Shelby Creek mission	Sept. 2, 3

J. W. HONNOLL, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

New Salem	Aug. 5
Friar's Point	13
Belen	20

J. A. RANDOLPH, P. E.

GRENADA DISTRICT—THIRD ROUND.

Oxford station	Aug. 5, 6
Cherry Hill	12, 13
Atlanta	19, 20
Abbeville	26, 27
Banner	Sept. 2, 3
Grenada circuit	9, 10
Water Valley circuit	16, 17

R. A. BURROUGHS, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Rayne. (morn.)	Aug. 6
Louisiana Ave. (eve.)	8
Baton Rouge	13
Carondelet. (morn.)	20
Morgan. (eve.)	20
Gross Tete, at Rosedale	27
Dryades. (morn.)	Sept. 3
Craps. (eve.)	3
Plaq. and Donaldson, at Vacherie	10
Lower Coast, at Fort Eads	17

C. W. CARTER, P. E.

ARCADIA DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Sparta, at Bear Creek	Aug. 5
Arcadia, at Pains Chapel	5, 6
Summerfield, at Harmony Chapel	12, 13
Haynesville, at Flat Lick	19, 20
Valley, at Blockers Chapel	22, 23
Vernon, at Wesley Chapel	26, 27
Gansville	Sept. 2, 3
Vienna, at Pine Grove	9
Ruston station	10, 11

J. L. P. SHEPPARD, P. E.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Coushatta, at Brownsville	Aug. 5, 6
Wesley, at Davis' Springs	7
West Natchitoches, at Shiloh	10
Anacoco and 8th Vernon, at P. Island	12, 13
Grand Cane, at Cypress C. G.	13
Victoria mission, at Oak Grove	19
Cane River, at Ragans Chapel	20
Natchitoches station. (Sun. night, Mon.)	20, 21
Many, at Negreet	25, 26
Fort Jessup, at Rocky Mount	27, 28

ROBT. J. HARP, P. E.
Address: 829 Hope St., Shreveport.

DELHI DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Winsboro, at Prairie	Aug. 5, 6
Lisgrove, at Jones	12, 13
Calhoun, at I. Village	13
Harrisonburg, at Harrisonburg	19, 20
Oakley	22
Floyd, at Oak Grove	26, 27
Lake Providence	Sept. 2, 3
Waterproof	9, 10

H. C. WHITE, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

New Iberia	Aug. 5, 6
Lake Charles, at B. Street	12, 13
Grand Chenier, at Johnson's Bayou	19, 20
S. Mine, at Calcasieu. (Tu., Wed.)	22, 23
Jackson Street and W. Lake, at J. St.	26, 27
Lake Arthur. (Wed., Thurs.)	29, 31

JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Montgomery, at St. Maurice	Aug. 5, 6
Dry Creek, at D. C.	12, 13
Colfax and Spring C., at Rapides C. G.	19, 20
Vidalia, at Vidalia	19, 20
Chicot, at Elm Bayou	26, 27
Mailville, at Big Cane	Sept. 2, 3
Simsport	9, 10

S. J. DAVIES, P. E.

See our splendid club offer at the head of "Personal" column.

Hol Traveler, take BEECHAM'S PILLS with you.

BABY'S BLOOD AND SKIN

Cleansed and purified of every humor, eruption, and disease by the celebrated

CUTICURA REMEDIES

These great skin cures, blood purifiers, and humor remedies afford immediate relief in the most torturing of Itching and Burning Eczemas and other itching, scaly, crusted, and blotchy skin and scalp diseases, permit rest and sleep, and point to a permanent and economical (because most speedy) cure when the best physicians and all other remedies fail. Thousands of grateful testimonials attest their wonderful, unfailing, and incomparable efficacy. Sold everywhere. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Boston. "All About the Skin, Scalp, and Hair," mailed free.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp purified and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP. Absolutely pure.

HOW MY SIDE ACHES!

Aching Sides and Back, Hip, Kidney, and Uterine Pains, and Rheumatism relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain-killing, strengthening plaster.

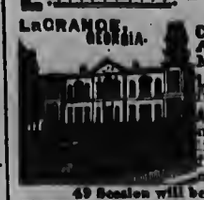
B. & S. BUSINESS COLLEGE, LOUISVILLE, KY.
Superior advantages.
Send postal for circular.

ROANOKE COLLEGE.

Choice of Courses for Degrees; high standard. Course in Physical Training in New Gymnasium. A Commercial Course. Library 17,000 volumes. Working Laboratory. Buildings improved. Steam heat. Healthful mountain climate. Expenses for nine months, $155 to $210 (fees, board, etc.) Aid to deserving students. Begins Sept. 13th. Catalogue, with 8 views, free. Address,

JULIUS D. DREHER, Pres't, Salem, Va.

LAGRANGE FEMALE COLLEGE



LaGRANGE, GEORGIA.

Course—Literature, Music, Art, Normal course in each. Music and art first-class. Location—Elevated, healthful, retired. Advantages—Uniform, gymnasium, baths, electric-light. Pupils board with faculty. Industries, harmony, Sight-singing taught.

49 Session will begin Sept. 20, 1893.
EDLER B. SMITH, SEC. RUFUS W. SMITH, PRES.

WASHINGTON & LEE UNIVERSITY, Lexington, Virginia.
Academic; Law; Engineering. Opens Sept. 14. For catalogue address
G. W. C. LEE, President.

VIRGINIA MILITARY INSTITUTE, LEXINGTON, VA.

55th Year. State Military. Scientific and Technical School. Thorough Courses in general and applied Chemistry, and in Engineering. Confers degree of graduate in Academic Course, also degrees of Bachelor of Science and Civil Engineer in Technical Courses. All expenses, including clothing and incidentals, provided at rate of $336.50 per month, as an average for the four years, exclusive of outfit.

New Cadets report Sept. 1st.
GEN. SCOTT SHIPP, Superintendent.

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY. Location, in the healthful Shenandoah Valley, near Staunton, Virginia. English, Classical and Business courses with Military Training. For catalogue apply to Chas. S. Roller, Prin., Fort Defiance, Va.

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA.

Session begins 15th Sept. Full equipment and corps of instructors in Academical, Engineering, Law, and Medical Departments. Excellent Climate. New Gymnasium, with baths free to all students. For catalogues address

WM. M. THORNTON, LL.D., Chairman.

FIVE DOLLAR REDUCTION

IN

WORLD'S FAIR RATES

BY THE Queen & Crescent Route

Beginning July 23rd, in addition to the regular World's Fair Excursion rates, the Queen & Crescent will sell first class excursion tickets, good fifteen days from date of sale for return, at $5.00 less than the regular World's Fair rate. These tickets are via either Cincinnati or via Louisville, going and returning same route.

Through Cars to Chicago. Quick Time. Finest Trains in the South. Be sure to take the Queen & Crescent Route.

For rates, schedules, sleeping car reservations, etc., call on any agent of the E. T. V. & G. R'y, Queen & Crescent Route or Louisville Southern R. R., or D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. A., - Cincinnati, O.

Millsaps College,

Jackson, Miss.

The Second Session Begins Sept. 20th, 1893.

College Fees, Only $30 for the Entire Session.

Board in Students' Homes and in Private Families, $12 per month.

Provision has been made for the payment of the College Fees in the case of young preachers and the sons of preachers.

For Catalogue and other information address

W. B. MURRAH, PRESIDENT.

MALONE COLLEGE

For Young Ladies.

HOLLY SPRINGS, MISSISSIPPI.

The Third Annual Session will begin Monday, Sept. 20, 1893.
Location, highest point in the State. Elevation, 613 feet.
Health unsurpassed in the Southwest.
Course thorough and comprehensive.
Each department under the charge of specialists.
Special advantages offered in music, art and elocution.
A HOME SCHOOL for pupils under Christian influences.
Terms moderate. For catalogues or further particulars address

Rev. J. W. HONNOLL, President.

WALL & MOONEY'S SCHOOL,

FRANKLIN, TENNESSEE.

S. V. WALL. W. D. MOONEY, A. M.

Fits Boys for College or Business.

Our Students Enter Vanderbilt on Certificate, Without Examination. Positive Engagement Necessary to Secure Admission.

Fall term will open August 29, 1893.

Address W. D. MOONEY, Secretary.

Classical and Commercial Institute,

7 PRYTANIA STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Regular session begins Sept. 4th. Students admitted at any time. Full Classical and Literary Courses. Commercial Sciences taught practically. Normal Penmanship. Shorthand and Type-writing, standard systems. Day and night classes. Ladies admitted to Commercial Department. Boarding Department under supervision of Principal. Write for circular.

Endorsed by the editor of the ADVOCATE and W. H. LaPrade, D. D., pastor of Carondelet Street Church.

G. W. HARMAN, Prin. Com. Dep't. H. S. CHENET, A. M., Principal. LYMAN C. REED, A. M., Assistant.

WESLEYAN FEMALE INSTITUTE Opens Sept. 6th, 1893.

STAUNTON, VIRGINIA. Climate and surroundings exceptional. Handsome buildings, now being remodeled, thoroughly renovated, repainted inside and outside, and refurnished with new pianos, carpets, &c. Steam heat, gas light, bath rooms on every floor. New Laboratory, thoroughly equipped. Excellent Faculty of Experienced Teachers. Advanced courses in English, Latin, German, French, &c. Special advantages in Art. Conservatory Course in Music. One hundred and forty-one boarding pupils from eighteen States. Terms moderate. For Catalogues of this celebrated Virginia school, address

W. W. ROBERTSON, President, Staunton, Virginia.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 40.—NO. 32. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, AUGUST 10, 1893. WHOLE NO. 1929.

Rev. J. M. BEARD, D. D., Editor and Publisher. } PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA CONFERENCE, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH. { ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

HOPE OF VICTORY.

I hear it singing, singing sweetly,
Softly in an undertone,
Singing as if God had taught it—
"It is better farther on."

Night and day unceasing sings it;
Sings it while I sit alone,
Sings it so the heart can hear it,
"It is better farther on."

Sits upon the grave and sings it—
Sings it when the heart would groan,
Sings it when the shadows darken,
"It is better farther on."

Farther on? Then how much farther?
Count the milestones one by one?
No—no counting—only trusting
"It is better farther on."

—Selected.

"Labor and Capital."

MR. EDITOR: Under the above caption an article appeared in the ADVOCATE, of July 6, 1893, and by your permission, Mr. Editor, I would like to make a few comments.

Your correspondent, "Layman," takes a good text, because it is found in the good Book, and spoken by a good author. In his article he stated many truths; but there are some things that he said, being a plain farmer, that I can not agree to. He assumes in his first paragraph that his text is wrong, and that some are privileged to live by the sweat of some other man's face, and also that what is, is right; that those who possess wealth have the privilege to command the less fortunate to sweat for them. It is assumed that all such men obtained their wealth by just means, and are entitled to their riches and all it secures for them, even the labor of others, and that they ought not to complain at their lot of servitude and want, as they were placed in that condition by the indolence and ignorance of their ancestors. Observation has taught this old farmer that while riches have sometimes come down by entailment, or otherwise, from ancestors, which were the result of honest toil, but such cases are rare, few and far between, while thousands have come through chicanery, oppression and fraud, which Bro. "Layman" seems to construe as superior business sense or his way of getting riches, but not by right, for the Apostle James calls it the keeping back of the hire of those who reap down your fields.

The present state of society—and "Layman," too—that he that is poor ought to be kept poor, because they always will be poor in the world; and, further, he says it is the law of God and man that there should be poor and rich in the world. Whether it is the unalterable law of God, or not, it is the case. But is the want of business sense the cause?

I look with deep concern upon the condition of the laboring classes of this country, and looking, I behold a condition of affairs that should give every lover of his country the heartache. Thirty years ago eighty per cent. of the wealth of this nation belonged to the farmer and other laboring classes; now only about twenty per cent. belong to them, and heavy mortgages of indebtedness hanging over most. At present it seems only a question of a short time when all wealth will be in the hands of a few, and the balance of the people will be their tenants, and, as it were, aliens in their own native land. This being the case, what will they do? Well, they must not complain, for it will be the fruit of their success in trade and superior business sense, and we must not deprive them of the wealth, or the engagement of it, for it would begin at once and strike down and destroy the title to honest possessions, and to disorganize the very fabric of society. Oh, how strange that anyone should be dissatisfied with such a state of affairs!

There can not be any effect without a cause, and it becomes every philanthropist to search out the cause of the depression of labor as it exists. Is it for the want of industry that the world's markets are glutted? One doctor says that "overproduction" is the cause. Strange, strange, that people grow poor by making too much. No one man, who does not want to deceive, will preach such doctrine. Another doctor says it is because we don't diversify our crops. Well, every product I know of is supplied; it does not fall the cost of production. Others say you are lazy. Well, that all may be so, but the gorged markets do not say so, and hence there must be some other cause than the above, and my humble opinion is that it is largely the fault of the law which has made it possible for the rich trusts and combines to lay tribute on the people, and by their "superior business (?) sense" to grow rich at the expense of honest toil. The oil trusts, to illustrate, that makes the seamstress pay more than is just and right for light to make shirts at seventy cents per dozen, which is not sufficient to keep soul and body together, until health and strength are gone, sinking down at last to a premature grave, while the president's name is trumpeted forth as a great founder of universal charity! Not only does the law make all that I have said possible, but also in the burdens of government it discriminates against labor and in favor of capital. I can not, in this article, point out all the wrongs, but will say that while the laboring element owns about twenty per cent. of the capital of the country, it pays about eighty per cent. of the taxes.

"Layman" gave a description of villenage tenure as it was at one time in England, and how it was abolished, and also how the villein was blessed by that act of the government, but that it only served to make him arrogant and more miserable, because, having gotten that much, he wanted more, and was miserable because he could not get it. Now, if this argues anything, it is that law and statute to liberate slaves are failures, and liberty is a curse instead of a blessing, and that they must now try in some other direction, for after all that has been said and done, the laborer still flaunts the red flag, and the cry is: "Anarchy! Ungrateful wretches!"

I might have supposed that "Layman" had reference solely to the English villein, if he had not have said that (with emphasis) this was the natural outcome of the agitation of the labor question. Now, I do not claim to be a labor agitator, but the labor question is up, and will stay up until the government takes hold and settles it justly and correctly. Labor does not only embrace miners, railroad employees, factory hands, etc., but embraces also farmers, and to say because they complain and agitate that it is the cry of the politician and demagogue, is wrong. I think that a Christian, though he be a layman, and writing in a religious journal, should not resort to such charges, since many of his brethren are laboring men, and think and talk the labor question. My brother, do not call your brother an "anarchist."

I have a few more remarks to make, and then I am done. "Layman" says that it may be true that many, at times, have undue rights in the legislative halls. It may be true. Well, can you admit that much? It may be. I do not wish to be uncharitable or sentential; but do you not, Mr. "Layman," think you ought to have left off the "may be" when you know, or you should before posing before the public as a molder of public opinion, that the rich hood-holdor has his thousands, and yet pays no taxes whatever, while the poor widow has to pay tax on the tin pan in which she washes her hands, the salt she uses in her corn-bread, and the blanket under which she sleeps? Please don't say "may be" any more. But how strange is the next sentence, which says that our laws are impartial! Please tell us how you reconcile the two statements, "Layman."

"Layman" makes the illustration of the poor man, who, by hard labor, supports his family, and his rich employer driving by him in his coach and four, which presents a great (?) contrast. That poor man knows that the "coach and four" are the product of his own sweat and toil, but he must remember that he is poor, and another has the right to the sweat of his face, and if he complains, he will be branded as an "agitator" and an "anarchist."

I am made to feel, while reading the article under review, that it was written in the interest of the money lords of this nation, and had it not have appeared in the columns of a religious journal, I would have certainly supposed that it was written for some bankers' journal. There is none of that spirit in it which teaches us to do unto others as we would have them do unto us. What I have written has not been, I hope, written in an unkind spirit.

FARMER.

A splendid Family Bible containing old and new versions, and selling at retail by publishers for $10, free for ten subscribers with the cash.

Paul at Athens, and the Sunday-School Lesson.

MR. EDITOR: I notice in the introduction of our Sunday-school lesson, of July 23, prepared by Rev. A. F. Watkins, and published in our ADVOCATE, a statement, though in the subjunctive mood, referring to St. Paul's visit to Athens, the propriety of which I question, more especially as the same thought has been expressed heretofore, and that, too, through religious journals, to wit: "It may be that he felt that he had made a mistake in the indirect and conciliatory manner of his preaching at Athens. Certainly he approached Corinth 'with fear and trembling,' and a determination to know nothing but Christ crucified."

While the above quotation is expressed as possible, the closing sentence rather confirms it as probable, thereby recommending this view of the subject to the Christian world.

The objections which present themselves to my mind against the probability referred to are the following:

1. To admit that the Apostle Paul was capable of making a mistake in the subject matter of his preaching at any time or place after his conversion, is to question seriously his inspiration.

2. To say that he could and did write inspired epistles to the churches, and then to question his inspiration when preaching, is somewhat contradictory, more especially when we recall the words of our Lord where he says, "Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth." (St. John xvi, 13.)

3. The result of Paul's preaching at Athens does not justify us in entertaining the thought of the probability of his having made a mistake, especially when we consider the fact that he was "all things to all men, that by all means he might win some." This he carried out to the letter at Athens. Beginning at Acts xvii, 16, we read: "Now, while Paul waited for them at Athens, his spirit was stirred in him when he saw the city wholly given to idolatry. Therefore disputed he in the synagogue with the Jews and with the devout persons. Then certain philosophers of the Epicureans and of the Stoics encountered him, . . . because he preached unto them Jesus and the resurrection."

Thus we learn that when Paul entered Athens he disputed with the Jews and devout persons by preaching "Jesus and the resurrection," they being already believers in the existence of the true God. But it happened there were some in his audience who were idolators, who did not believe in the spirituality of God; hence to preach Christ the Son to them who did not believe in God the Father would have been the height of folly. Therefore Paul addressed those heathen philosophers with the following words of matchless beauty and divine compassion: "Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious. For as I passed by, and beheld your devotions, I found an altar with this inscription, 'To the unknown God.' Whom, therefore, ye ignorantly worship, him declare I unto you. God that made the world, and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands; neither is worshiped with men's hands, as though he needed anything, seeing he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things; and hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation; that they should seek the Lord, if haply they might feel after him, and find him, though he be not far from everyone of us: for in him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your poets have said, For we are also his offspring. Forasmuch, then, as we are the offspring of God, we ought not to think that the Godhead is like unto gold, or silver, or stone, graven by art and man's device. And the time of this ignorance God winked at; but now commandeth all men everywhere to repent: because he hath appointed a day, in the which he will judge the world in righteousness, by that man whom he hath ordained: whereof he hath given assurance unto all men, in that he hath raised him from the dead."

Paul, having thus laid the foundation of the superstructure of Christianity by preaching the doctrine of the fatherhood of God, he brought his sermon to a close by declaring the sonship of Christ, attested by his resurrection from the dead, the result of which was the conversion of Dionysius, one of the judges of the great court, and Damaris, probably his wife, "and others with them."

In this instance, as in others, the wisdom of Paul's discourse was justified by the children God gave him.

Respectfully, J. N. TUCKER.

Learned, Miss.

"What is the Luminiferous Ether?"

MEETING OF THE VICTORIA INSTITUTE, THE HON. T. F. BAYARD PRESENT.

A few days ago Sir Gabriel Stokes, Bart., F. R. S., who now occupies Sir Isaac Newton's Professorial Chair at Cambridge University, gave the results of his investigations on this subject, which he, as a man of science, has made his specialty. The occasion chosen was the annual meeting of the Victoria Institute (at London, England), of which he is president. Sir Gabriel Stokes was supported by His Excellency the United States ambassador to England, and a large number of home, foreign, and colonial members. Although the hall was densely crowded in every part; yet many letters of regret at not being able to be present were read from others, among these the Dukes of Argyll, Westminster, Fife, and special communications were also received from Lord Salisbury, vice-president, and Lord Kelvin, the president of the Royal Society. The report for the year was read by Captain F. Petrie, the honorary secretary, and showed that the home, colonial, and American members now numbered 1,450. The society's scientific work had tended to bring about a truer appreciation of the results of scientific inquiry, and to show that there is an absence of real opposition between science and revelation. Sir Gabriel then described the luminiferous ether, which had been termed a medium whose vibrations are supposed to cause light, pervades all space, is imponderable and infinitely elastic. He explained the results of the investigations of home and foreign men of science into the nature of that substance, and said that it was quite conceivable that further great discoveries might be made as regards it. What its nature was we could only assume. For instance: the results of modern astronomical calculation had shown that light traveling at the rate of 186,000 miles a second would take four years, say, to go from the nearest star to the earth. Now, as we saw the fixed stars, there must be some link of connection between us and them. There were two theories of light. According to one, light was a substance darted forth from the luminous body; according to the other, it was a state of change taking place, propagated by a medium intervening between that body and the observer. Sir Isaac Newton held that there must be such a medium, either material or immaterial; but the question arose, How far did it extend; was it infinite like space? Science could give no answer. If it were limited, what was outside it? Was there another system subject to the same or different laws? If there be such, then, according to phenomena open to our investigation, there can be no communication therewith. But the properties of ether are no less remarkable than its extent. The question whether it gravitates toward ponderable matter science can not answer; but if it be connected with gravitation, it can not be imponderable. Sir Gabriel then referred to the undulatory theory of sound, and to his own suggestion to Faraday, forty years ago, in regard to the possibility of the electricity having an undulatory motion somewhat similar to that of light. Since then Clark Maxwell had shown that the velocity of light agrees with that of electricity, and Hertz had shown that the one exhibits some phenomena of the other.

At the conclusion of the address His Excellency the Hon. T. F. Bayard, the United States ambassador to England, as a member of the Institute, moved, and Sir Henry Barkly, G. C. M. G., K. C. B., F. R. S., seconded a vote of thanks for the address. Canon Girdlestone and Admiral Grant, C. B., moved and seconded a vote of thanks to the chair, and the Summer list of home and colonial applicants for enrollment as supporters was begun, after which the members and associates held a conversazione in the museum, where refreshments were served.

Victoria Institute, 8 Adelphi Terrace, London.

In the Spirit.

In speaking of a minister of the gospel we frequently hear the question, Is he a revivalist? Would it not be more proper to ask, Does he preach and pray in the Spirit? There is no power short of the power of the Holy Ghost that can send conviction to the hearts of sinners. The sermon or prayer wherein the mind of the human author alone is exercised can only furnish food for the intellectual portion of our being. "God is a Spirit, and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth." Our Savior recognized the unqualified state of his apostles when he "commanded them that they should not depart from Jerusalem, but wait for the promise of the Father, which, saith he, ye have heard of me." It was necessary that they should be "baptized with the Holy Ghost" before entering upon their mission of saving souls. No wonder that preachers sometimes complain of a lack of success in their labors, and become discouraged at the coldness and indifference of their hearers. To such we would, in kindness, say: You have lost your connection with the current of spirituality which emanates from the throne of God, and are besieging the enemy in your own strength. "The wires are down," and you are powerless to transmit the life-giving current until connection is restored. Sincere and importunate prayer is the remedy, and the only remedy, in all such cases. Get in direct and constant communication with God if you would make the Felixes tremble with fear and the Agrippas cry out, "Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian." D. K. HUNT.

Vidalia, La.

Epworth Leagues of the New Orleans District.

On Friday, Aug. 4, 1893, at eight o'clock P. M., at the Louisiana Avenue Church, pursuant to a call from the Louisiana Avenue Epworth League, delegates from the several Leagues of the city met to discuss the advisability of the organization of a Union Epworth League in this city. After many encouraging remarks, it was unanimously decided that Monday, Aug. 14, 1893, at 7:45 o'clock P. M., be set aside as a most convenient evening upon which a permanent organization might be entered into.

Resolved, That a copy of the above be published in the next issue of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Resolved, That the editor of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE be requested by this committee to write an editorial pertaining to this forthcoming organization.

(Signed) JULIA STEIN,
MORRIS B. DEPASS,
A. S. MCKNIGHT,
HATTIE HOLLEY,
Committee on Resolutions.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 5, 1893.

In Livingston Parish.

Last Monday, with my little daughter, Bessie, I took the steamer Alice at Magnolia Bridge, New Basin, for Bayou Barbary. Out into and across Lake Pontchartrain we reached Pass Manchac. Going up the river we crossed Lake Maurepas, and, entering the Amite river, passed on to the mouth of Bayou Barbary, where at Gun Boat Bluff we landed at about midnight. Len Gowers and Otto were there with a skiff waiting for us. Comfortably seated in the stern of the boat, the young brethren bent to their oars, and we were before long safely landed and well housed in the hospitable home of Mr. L. Z. Gowers.

The meeting had been in progress since Thursday, the Rev. Ed. T. Denson having done the preaching from the start. So we found everything in good condition for a fine meeting, both Bro. Denson and the pastor, Rev. W. T. Woodward, being encouraged to look for the best results. The people along the bayou came to church in skiffs and flats, and it was, indeed, a novel sight after service to see them moving off for home over the placid waters and around the serpentine windings of the bayou. The attendance at all the services, in the day as at night, was large, and the spiritual interest very great. The altar was crowded all along with earnest seekers, and we feel sure that much good was done. Bro. Denson, from whom we heard a most powerful and practical sermon at a morning service, remained after we left, and Bro. Pinckney A. Johnston, presiding elder of the Woodville district, was expected to be on hand on Sunday.

We are under great obligations for kindly attentions to Bro. Gowers and family, and to Bro. Clenncay and wife, at whose home on the Amite river we spent a night waiting for a boat. We arrived in the city late on Saturday, and so were in our pulpit on Sunday. We enjoyed the trip, and were benefited in both body and spirit. May God abundantly bless the Bayou Barbary brethren and their live young pastor!

JNO. T. SAWYER.

FROM THE WORK.

Rev. J. S. Sanders, Rocky Mount, La., July 28: "We are having a glorious revival at Hughes Spur, North Bossier circuit. Twelve or fifteen conversions, a number reclaimed, and several bright sanctifications. Several old men have been happily converted, and we received a class of thirteen in the church last night. We hope to build a church at this point before Conference. Rev. S. H. Whatley, from Pleasant Hill, is with me."

Rev. H. J. Boltz, Pelican, La., July 28: "Our second protracted meeting, which was held at Bethel, closed yesterday, after having continued seven days. We had no ministerial help, but the Lord was with us in great power. The meeting resulted in twenty-five accessions to the church, and a glorious revival throughout the church. The two meetings have resulted in forty accessions to the church. The good Lord has done great things for us, whereof we are glad."

Rev. Heslep R. Tucker, Houston and Wesley, North Mississippi Conference, Aug. 1: "We closed Sunday, July 30, a successful meeting at Wesley Chapel. The church was greatly revived, and much good done in reclaiming and in strengthening the members. Three joined the church, two of which were men advanced in life. Nearly all the people of the community are now in the church. We were assisted by Rev. N. G. Augustus, who did excellent work."

Rev. W. G. Backus, P. C., Eastabuchie, Miss., Aug. 3: "We have just closed our protracted meeting at Bay Springs with good results—thirteen accessions, three infants baptized and one adult. We are glad to state that this church is moving up every way. We expect in the near future a fine church to be built, and Methodism to take root in that neglected part of the country. Bro. B. H. Rawls did most of the preaching, and it was good and greatly enjoyed."

Rev. C. F. Staples, Winnsboro, La., July 31: "We began a meeting at Magnolia Church on July 23. Bro. Singletary was with me the first part of the week, and Bro. Reames came in later. Both did efficient work. The Holy Ghost took charge in the beginning, and continued with us until the close. The meeting resulted in twenty-one accessions, and the church graciously revived, with the entire neighborhood moved toward God and a better life. We also got ten new subscribers to the ADVOCATE on your fifty cents proposition. To God be all the glory."

Rev. Lewis A. Reed, Grand Cane, La., July 31: "We closed a meeting at Bethel yesterday, which had been in progress for ten days, resulting in the baptizing of five subjects, and registering the same on the church roll as members of the church. There were other candidates, who will be attended to at some future time. The Lord be praised for his goodness. Our camp meeting at Cypress Camp Ground will commence on Friday, Aug. 11. We are praying for and looking forward to a time of refreshing from the presence of the Lord. Please pray for us."

Rev. W. G. Backus, P. C., Eastabuchie, Miss., Aug. 1: "We have just closed our last protracted meeting on Eastabuchie circuit. At Soule Chapel the church was greatly revived; several conversions and eight accessions. At Hebron backsliders were reclaimed, sinners converted, old feuds adjusted, and a gracious revival in the church. We received seven on profession of faith and nine by certificate; one baptized, and twelve promised to erect family altars. Bro. J. C. Long did most of the preaching, and it was good and greatly enjoyed."

Rev. D. P. Bradford, P. C., Shuhuta, Miss., July 31: "Last Thursday week we held our third Quarterly Conference. Finances from this and Quitman Churches up in full. DeSoto does not adhere to the monthly assessment plan; hence this church is behind. But we believe all our assessments will be paid in full. Shuhuta has employed Prof. C. W. Anderson, late of East Mississippi Female College, and Mrs. R. M. Hand to preside over her educational interests for the term of 1893-94. This guarantees a fine school. We have about $100 on hand to repaint our parsonage. There has been no friction yet, but all is moving on pleasantly. We have had twenty-five accessions to the church since January. Two of our oldest members (Dr. Shannon and wife) are passing under a dark cloud. In addition to other sorrows, they buried last week their youngest son—James—who died of typhoid fever in Meridian. May their spiritual vision be made brighter by this sad visitation!"

Continued on Seventh Page.

THE BLESSED WILL OF GOD.

BY MARIANNE FARNINGHAM.

Thy will is to bring the Summer
Into the hearts of men—
The singing of birds in the morning hours,
The noontide glory of myriad flowers,
The healing beams, and the rippling streams,
And the Eden life again.

Thy will is to make men holy
With the gift of Christ to all—
Is to banish sin from the weeping earth,
And fill the cities with sweet, true mirth,
And make Love king till the world shall sing
In the joyous festival.

Thy will is to make men happy
Through the loss of a load of care—
Is to make the lives of the children glad,
While even the aged are not sad,
And to lift Hope's light through the darkest night,
And to bring joy everywhere.

Thy will is to make men wealthy
With riches—a store untold—
With love and gentleness, joy and peace,
And a plenteous harvest that shall not cease,
Of the true heart's good, and the daily food
Of love that is more than gold.

Thy will is the world's redemption—
The world to its Savior given.
Oh, Father! soon may the morning break!
And the prayer be answered for Jesus' sake,
Thy kingdom come, and Thy will be done
On earth as it is in heaven.

The Old and New Testament.

It seems to me that the trend of what is called the "Higher Criticism," is to lower, if not to deny the claim of the Old Testament to be an inspired book, and to assert that the Jewish Church and the Christian Church have been all wrong all these centuries in ascribing inspiration to "Moses and the prophets." It seems to me that anch of those critics as claim to be Christians are putting themselves in a hard position. Bagster's English Bible inserts a list of over eight hundred quotations from the Old Testament by Christ and the inspired New Testament writers. Now if, as some of these writers affirm, "the ideas of God held by most of the writers of the Old Testament were faulty and false irreconcilable with the idea of God presented in the New Testament," of what value are these quotations? and of what value are the statements of the New Testament writers, if they were not inspired enough to know that these quotations were "faulty and false" in their presentation of the character of God. This position would not be embarrassing to Ingersoll and men of his ilk who deny inspiration to both Old and New Testament writers; but to men who "profess and call themselves Christians," the position seems to be embarrassing, if not untenable. It looks to me as if they were digging away the foundation on which they claim to be standing. At the period of Christ's visible sojourn among men there were no Holy Scriptures accepted as such among the Jews but the list of books from Moses to Malachi that now make up the Old Testament Scriptures. Christ said to the people, "Search the Scriptures, for in them ye think ye have eternal life, and they are they which testify of me." Did Christ rest his claim to be divine upon these Scriptures, knowing them to be "false and faulty" in the presentation of himself, for he "was God?" Did he say to the people, "The Scribes and Pharisees sit in Moses' seat; all, therefore, whatsoever they bid you observe, that observe and do; but do not ye after their works: for they say and do not." If he indorsed Moses, can we as Christians, followers of Christ, allow that Moses was "faulty and false in his presentation of the divine character?" Can we allow that Christ, in his discourse to the two disciples—"beginning at Moses, and all the prophets, he expounded unto them in all the Scriptures the things concerning himself"—did so, knowing these writings to be untrustworthy? Such an admission must place a professed Christian on most untenable ground.

Let us see what Moses declares God proclaimed himself to be. He says: "And the Lord passed by before him and proclaimed the Lord, the Lord God, merciful and gracious, long-suffering, and abundant in goodness and truth, keeping mercy for thousands, forgiving iniquity, transgression and sin, and that will, by no means, clear the guilty, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, and upon children's children unto the third and fourth generation" (as it reads in this same book) "of them that hate me." I must confess I have not sufficient mental acumen to see any appreciable difference between this presentation of the character of God and the presentation of him in the Lord Christ. It is true the death of Christ on the cross for us sinful men was an unspeakable display of our Father's love, but at the same time it was a more awful and solemn protest against sin than all the flames, thunders and denunciation of Sinai.

It would seem from what we read, more than seven hundred years after the giving of the law, that the teachings of "Moses and the prophets" had not given any harsh conception of God as cruel and implacable. Some eight hundred and sixty years before Christ, Jonah, by divine command, proclaimed the threatened doom of Nineveh. The people, from beggar to king, believed the message; but they believed that God was merciful, and would mercifully regard the cry of sincere penitents. God did compassionately regard them, and the threatened doom was averted. "It displeased Jonah exceedingly." His precious reputation as a prophet was at stake, and he "prayed unto the Lord, and said, I pray thee, O Lord, was not this my saying when I was yet in my own country? Therefore, I fled unto Tarshish, for I knew that thou art a gracious God, merciful and slow to anger, and of great kindness, and repentest thee of the evil." Jonah knew from what he had read in the Scriptures, and had heard in the traditions of his people, that God was gracious, merciful, and of great kindness, so that if he proclaimed the doom of Nineveh, and the people should repent, the Lord would not destroy them, and his dear character as a prophet would suffer. Now, if Jonah was at all a representative man, the character of God among the Jews was not harsh and repulsive, but quite the reverse.

Infidels and semi-infidels dwell much upon the harshness and severity of God as his character is set forth in the Old Testament, especially in the matter of the destruction of the Canaanitish nations. The Book tells us of their extreme wickedness, that "the land spued them out." These Jews were the simple executioners of the divine purpose, and what took place is nothing more remarkable or cruel than what is now constantly taking place in some part of the earth, in epidemics, storms, and earthquakes.

The denunciations against sin and incorrigible sinners in the New Testament are equal in severity and strength of statement to anything in the Old Testament. Christ says that he came not to "destroy the law, or the prophets, but fulfil." He says those that blaspheme the Holy Ghost shall never be forgiven. He says Capernaum, that had been exalted to heaven, should be cast down to hell. He says the rich man who had his good things in this world, made a God of the world, died, and in hell he lifted his eyes, being in torments. He says "except sinners repent they shall perish," that they that believe not shall be damned—that they that "believe not are condemned," or damned already. He says the wicked shall go away into everlasting punishment.

We might quote largely from the New Testament writers to show that God's attitude towards sin and sinners, under all dispensations and in all ages, has been the same—always abhoring sin. O. T.: "The soul that sinneth shall die." N. T.: "The wages of sin is death." O. T.: "Ho every one that thirsteth come ye to the waters." N. T.: "Whosoever will let him take the water of life freely."

J. B. WALKER.

Rev. J. H. Brooks.

Joseph Howard Brooks, son of Thomas and Rebecca Brooks, was born in Shelby county, Ky., March 24, 1815; was converted July 25, 1838, at Carter's Camp Ground, Carroll county, Tenn.; licensed to preach Oct. 31, 1840; joined the Memphis Conference at its organization in Jackson, Tenn., Nov. 4, 1840.

A prince in our Israel has fallen. To record his worth in part—for only in part can it be done—is a mournful pleasure. My first presiding elder and spiritual adviser, Bro. Brooks took a strong hold on my confidence and admiration in the youth-time of my ministry.

In 1870, at the organization of the North Mississippi Conference in Water Valley, I first found myself in touch with this noble man of God. His personal presence was commanding—conspicuously so, even in the company of so many noble men who made up that—to me—famous Conference group. His voice, clear and rich in its tones, was the blending of distinct harmonies—making music. In the social circle he was easily first, when he would, and the children where he visited smiled when he came, and ran to kiss "Uncle Joe." Bro. Brooks was as gentle as a woman in the mercy extended to fallen humanity, but firm as justice on the throne in administering discipline as a corrective of evil deeds. He could and did both rebuke and exhort.

He was proud, but not haughty. Yes, proud of his work—it was well done; proud of his name—it was an honored one; proud of his place and record as a Methodist preacher—'twas his peculiar glory; proud of his church and her glorious history—the divine approval is the seal to their worth and honor; proud of his loved home circle, for God had given them—wife and children and all—as a gift to be prized. He was selfish, but never a miser. Those heaven-born intuitions of the subjective self must find their correspondence in the objective world. This is natural, and because it is natural it is right. Bro. Brooks, in harmony with this law and all fairly balanced minds, sought and obtained a splendid home, where he could entertain, and made money to spend and to spare for "sweet charity." Money by him was sought, not as an end, but as a means, and so he used it. His family, his friends, his preacher-comrades and the worthy poor will attest this as truth. One instance needs suffice for the illustration of this fact in the life of our beloved father in Israel:

A representative of one of the wealthiest corporations in this country sought the influence of his name to extend the interest of his company. "Mr. Brooks, allow us the use of your name in our business, and we will pay you eighteen hundred dollars per annum." "No," was the gentle, yet firm response; "I am a Methodist preacher, and can not turn aside from my one work to make money; nor can I afford to take any position that might, in the exigencies of your business, compromise myself, and so bring discredit to the church of God." He was aware of his great and growing popularity with the people, and was too noble to use it in any way save in the furtherance of the gospel and in building up his beloved church. In his pride and selfishness we see the force of the law of grace refining, spiritualizing the law of nature's true self. He lived for others.

The first three years of his itinerancy were spent in Jackson, Trenton and Wesley circuits. From 1843 to 1847 we find him in Trenton, Paducah, Grenada, Jackson and Sommerville stations. In 1848 to 1852 on Paducah district. In 1852 Asbury Chapel, Memphis, is the scene of his labors. In 1853 to 1857 on the Aberdeen district. From 1857 to 1861 on the Holly Springs district. In 1861 on the Holly Springs circuit. In 1862 Byhalia circuit is his work. In 1863 and '64 he is in Holly Springs station. In 1865, '6, '7, '8 and '9 we find him on the Holly Springs district. In 1870 he was appointed to Hernando district. For four years his work on the district was greatly blessed. In 1875, '6, '7, '8 on the Grenada district. In 1879 Byhalia circuit. In 1880 and 1881 on Chulahoma circuit. From 1882 to 1885 on Cookrum circuit. In 1885 and '86 on Emory circuit. In 1887 he was granted a superannuated relation. What a record of work—these years of his itinerancy. From 1848 to 1878 he was presiding elder, except the one year in the city of Memphis, and four years during the war, when every work was more or less disorganized, and it was best for him to remain near his home. In 1869 the Holly Springs district was divided, and such the esteem in which he was held by preachers and people, that on petition of these friends Bishop Kavanaugh appointed him to the district again, making his stay on that district five years. And had not Bishop Doggett's decision in 1870 declaring his ineligibility, he would have presented the anomaly of a Methodist preacher appointed to the same charge nine years in succession. Such was his popularity as preacher and presiding elder that no one thought of this irregularity.

As a preacher, he was strikingly original. He was clear in his statement; unique in exegesis; forceful in appeal and practical in the application of truth to the conscience. You were made to feel—to weep, to rejoice, to repent, to vow; according to the mood of the preacher and his theme the hearer responded. Bible history, with its charming picture gallery of patriarch, prophet, priest and king "in full survey," was his chosen field of exploration. His audience, and he always had audience, was charmed with the discovery of great truths in this supposed barren field. The New Testament themes were familiar ones to him, and, at times, he discoursed grandly on the New Birth, the Resurrection, the Incarnation, and miracles of our Lord. When in full voice and health I have seen the vast multitude at quarterly and camp meetings cry out in shouts of praise to Elijah's God as Bro. Brooks would lead them on to behold the "King in his beauty" and glory. He had no equal as an artist in painting the historical characters of the Old Testament times. They stood out in bold relief, not simply heroes, but a hero "enthused"—God in him. Bro. Brooks was a true and loyal Methodist preacher. The doctrines and polity of Episcopal Methodism suited him, for he felt it to be the very best—the one to teach the people, the other to reach the people. Bro. Brooks was a close student of God's Word. He was so well acquainted with its every part, that frequently a quotation from the Bible was all he need speak to silence his startled opponent, who never dreamed of such a writing being in existence. No part of God's Word was obscure to him, or neglected by him.

Bro. Brooks was a judicious and safe counselor. No young preacher ever went to him for advice but he was sure to get the best the young preacher's friend could give. He was anxious for his "boys," as he called the preachers he had brought up to Conference for admission, to succeed. "God bless you!" was his parting word, and the cordial greeting was tonic in its effects on the heart of a timid young man coming to Conference his first time.

Bro. Brooks was loyal to his church and creed; but no prejudice narrowed his view of others. He had reverence for our standard authors. He was satisfied with the witness of the Spirit with his own that he was a child of God. No phylacteries were worn by him. He never hastened to report himself in advance of his church and brethren by flaunting the sanctimonies of his religion in your face. He could never forget the time and place of his conscious salvation. "Thy faith hath made thee whole" was enough for him. The hour of his conversion to God was cherished as the blissful hour when the Spirit bore witness to his salvation. "The same Spirit, and the same experience, I am happy in it," was often on his lips. During his last days, leaning on my arm, he walked about his home. "I am dying, brother;" but, then, calm and buoyant with hope, he smiled, and pointing upward, said: "The home up there is far better than this." His heirship to the inheritance of his heavenly home had not been forfeited. He was happy as a child going home. What a vision!

In the year 1846 Bro. Brooks was happily married to Miss Callie Berry, of Grenada, Miss. This was a most fortunate step for him and for her. The one was the complement of the other.

How touchingly beautiful the closing scene in the death chamber of our sainted brother. Everything had been put in readiness for this last event—the coffin, shroud, attendants, funeral sermon and service all provided for by him. "Nothing to do now but to wait the Master's call." Walking about his room, leaning on his staff, in low and musical tones he would call his children by name, the living and the dead. Sallie, Lula, Tate and Howard he would soon see over the river. Four of the living were with him. The other was on his work—the preacher boy, our Bro. J. J. Brooks. He would like to see him and bestow a father's blessing, but he is at work, and all is well. Then, feeling that the end was near, he tenderly kissed the cheek of his beloved wife as if starting on his journey, and in words of loving tenderness bade all good-night. On Sunday morning, bright and beautiful, the fourth day of June, the tired and worn, old soldier walked to the door of his room. "I'm going now;" was assisted to his chair, and in a few moments "fell on sleep."

What a privilege to visit him! What a joy to see him so happy! Honored by his Conference in being sent to the General Conference, confided in by the Bishops; loved by his brethren, and reverenced by the people, our glorified friend was ready to go and get the honors of the other world. "Our central light has gone out," sadly did Sister Brooks say; but it burns a living flame in the beyond. We miss him now, but we shall meet again.

T. W. DYE.

Among the Mississippians.

I was delighted with Millsaps College. It has a beautiful location, about a mile north of the capital at Jackson, Miss. The campus comprises about seventy acres of ground, which in time will rival any in the land in beauty. The college building is on the crest of a ridge commanding a wide view, and is substantial, commodious, and admirably designed. The success of the first year has been phenomenal, the roll showing 149 matriculates. Dr. Murrah, the president, seems to be just the man to manage this great enterprise—scholarly, wise, and far-seeing. He has a superior faculty, an able Board of Trustees, a wise counsellor in Bishop Galloway, and a strong friend and supporter in Mr. Millsaps. They are fixing the moral type of the college after the highest order, and henceforth every move the devil makes in Mississippi he will have to reckon with the influence of Millsaps College. Let it be speedily and largely endowed. I am opposed to the multiplication of church schools. Better one strong, well-endowed college, capable of doing the best work, than half a dozen rival schools that succeed only in defeating each other. But the success of Millsaps College, and all the circumstances attending the birth of this new enterprise, seem to justify the movement. Whether there is room for Centenary and Millsaps is no longer an open question. Both are in the field, both have big backers, and, it may be, they will provoke each other to good works. Perhaps the General Conference will create a Board of Education and set about the gigantic, and yet necessary, task of correlating our various schools, colleges and universities, so as to secure co-operation of effort and greater results. However, that is a big question, and has two sides to it. It is too warm now to discuss it.

One of the most enjoyable things about my visit to Mississippi was meeting beloved brethren of the ministry, with whom I was formerly in Conference association. I am a transfer! I defy anybody, anywhere, who has any regard for truth, to say that I ever button-holed a Bishop, or coddled a presiding elder, or intrigued with a Board of Stewards, to influence my appointments. But on no motion of my own, and simply in obedience to ecclesiastical authority, I have been transferred from one Conference to another, until I have vital relations to none. I do not care so much for the criticism of transfers, but I do miss that sense of comradeship with my brethren, which is possible only between those who remain long enough in one Conference for attachments to be formed, and which is one of the most valued compensations of a Methodist preacher's life. We ought to have more transfers. It might break up the farming business. I know from experience that a man can not accumulate much if he moves as I have done, at the beck and call of the Bishops. And yet that is what I, and every other man in the "traveling connection," promised to do. As it is, men are transferred only for important appointments, and are received and treated as "guests," and sometimes made to feel that they are uninvited and unwelcome guests. The Mississippi preachers know me, and know that I have simply obeyed orders. They are generous, big-hearted fellows down there. A royal fellow is Newell, now president of Grenada Female Institute, an old Emory and Henry chum. His den was on Smoky Row, near Peebles and Lambuth and Tom Holloman—all honored ministers now. Cameron is sturdy as a Scotch crag; takes life easy, divides his time between his garden and his library, thinks. He shared with me the honor of this first commencement Sunday at Millsaps. Thames was there, square-shouldered, with the jolly good humor which age can not stall; the lisp and stock of "old sermons." Murrah, the president, is solid, substantial, brainy, built on the model of Grant, and bound to "get there," too. And Standefer! Standefer wears immense Burnsides. You might take him for an Austrian count, but hardly a Methodist parson. They tell a good joke on him about those whiskers. In one of his charges the dear sisters were greatly scandalized by the unministerial style of his beard, and "took it to the Lord in prayer." Their faith, however, was unequal to the task. It might remove mountains, but not Standefer's beard. The hirsute implety still flaunts in the face of the saints, and Standefer, as he brushes the ashes from his cigar, says with a wicked wink, "It has roots." I met also a number of brethren of the Mississippi Conference, among them the courtly Dr. Evans and Dr. Mellen, who said he "had been first an exhauster, then a locust preacher, then a circus rider, and is now a sliding elder." What humor in it all; what sparkling chat over Mrs. Murrah's teacups; what healthful mirth, tickling the ribs of care until it forgot that hanks are breaking and times are hard; what reckless impudence of fun sometimes ventured even to pinch the beard of a Bishop in the abandon of its rollicking freedom! And why not? Who can tell more stories, or laugh with a more hearty and orthodox cheerfulness, than Galloway? Such society is a sovereign remedy for the blues. A day or two in such an atmosphere revitalizes a man.

I have alluded, in a former article, to the permanence of the old Southern type of life in Mississippi. I am happy to add that it is not a fossilized type. Those Mississippi men are not a set of old fogies, mouthing about the long ago, quarreling with Providence over the march of events, gloomy pessimists, stolid conservatives opposing the issues of this mighty age. They are alert, aggressive, on the front line, and fully abreast of the times. Listen to those young men on the rostrum of Millsaps College. Ben Hill, Grady and Lamar are the magic names that ring out their inspiring challenge to the youth of Mississippi like a bugle call on the eve of battle. Listen to those preachers discussing the questions of the day, and they are independent, fresh, and in the foremost file of thinkers. I did not hear bolder opinions advanced at a luncheon in Boston, where living topics were discussed, than I heard among these Ruperts of the pulpit in Mississippi. Look at Galloway. He was just in when I got there from a hand-to-hand fight with the saloon, the crozier of the Bishop serving as the sword of the crusader in the battle of right against wrong. These are pointers. Straws, it may be, but sufficient to show the current of public sentiment; evidence of a powerful and healthy spirit in the people of Mississippi, out of which will come, in the due order of Providence, "nobler modes of life, with sweeter manners, purer laws." There is undoubtedly a haughty and stubborn conservatism in that South country that clings with a desperate seriousness to the old order of things, but the spirit of the age is telling upon it. Like the current of a mighty river, it is cutting the ground from under it. I rejoice at this. It is this progressive, free and wider spirit that must mould the future of Mississippi.

However it may be with others, I have settled it in my creed that "God sitteth on the throne and ruleth all things well." What was true in the old order can not die, and what is true in the new can not live. Truth is one, and out of the fiery discord of the past there shall come a blessed harmony at last. It ought to be our joy to help on this great work of progress. If we oppose it, it will grind us to powder. "The centuries," says Victor Hugo, "are the phases of civilization. What she says here, she does not repeat there. But these mysterious phases are linked together, logic—the logic which is within them, and their series constitute progress. In all these phases, in all expressions of a simple thought, we are slowly deciphering the word fraternity." I admire the conservatism that refuses to give up what is good because it is old; but I repudiate the conservatism that says only the old is true, and refuses to accept the new. For "New occasions teach new duties;

Time makes ancient good uncouth;
They must upward still and onward,
Who would keep abreast with truth."

Mississippi is all right. Her brave, generous people are not behind any in this Union in the qualities of American citizenship. I am a Mississippian!

S. A. STREET.

—St. Louis Christian Advocate.

Opelousas, La.

We closed last Sunday night one of the most successful and glorious meetings held in this place (Opelousas) in many years. The meeting commenced the first Sunday in this month and continued through to the close of the fourth Sunday. God was with us in great power. We had many bright conversions.

Bro. E. T. Denson, of Abbeville, was with us most of the time during the meeting, and did most of the preaching while here. His preaching was with power and in demonstration of the Holy Spirit. We had fine congregations from the first to the close, the house running over at times. Rev. Mr. Drake, of Crowley, and Bro. Montgomery, of Washington, were with us several days, and did us good service. May God bless these dear brethren.

Results: The church greatly revived, backsliders reclaimed, three or four conversions, and twenty-one accessions. Our oldest son was gloriously converted and called of God to the ministry, and expects to join our Conference next December.

During our meeting at Belieview our son Robert was powerfully converted and called to the ministry, and was licensed at our last Quarterly Conference. Praise the Lord for his goodness to the children of men! To his name be all the praise and glory for the great work accomplished here.

J. S. RANDLE.

P. and H. M. Society, North Mississippi Conference.

A special meeting of the Executive Committee of the Parsonage and Home Mission Society of the North Mississippi Conference was called to meet in the Methodist Church at Water Valley June 28, for the purpose of receiving the resignation of our president, Mrs. Robert Somerville, and electing some one to fill the unexpired term.

Our hearts were filled with sadness when we learned that ill health had forced our dear president to give up this department of our work. How much we regret the loss of such a faithful and efficient officer, who since the organization of this society has labored ably and untiringly to promote every interest of the work! Much of our success is due to her wisdom, energy and devotion, and we wish to express our appreciation and gratitude for the valuable service she has rendered, and to pray God's blessings upon her, that she may be restored in health and yet do valiant service for him.

Mrs. H. W. Foote, an earnest Christian worker, who served us faithfully and efficiently as corresponding secretary last year, was elected president, and has accepted the office. Hereafter all business communications for the president must be addressed to Mrs. H. W. Foote, Macon, Miss.

MRS. S. M. THAMES, Rec. Sec.

An Interesting Case.

Rev. Tokichi Masao, our Japanese student of Vanderbilt, has been preaching at our District Conference in Edwards. His lecture on customs and religions, and his discourse on the missionary work and progress in Japan were brimful of thrilling interest to the many hearers. He is a young man of uncommon intelligence and bright mind. Our expectations were met and surpassed. Any pastor securing his services to a people will be conferring a blessing in many ways. His time is already engaged till after Aug. 8. From that date letters addressed to care of Rev. T. L. Mellen, at Meridian (or as advertised Quarterly Conference plan) may secure the service of this talented able man.

J. P. DRAKE.

Edwards, Miss., July 31, 1893.

Some One Is to Blame.

James Healey states, in his article, that administration of discipline, that the church prospered the years he enforced discipline. I would like to ask him, How have the churches under his care prospered since he ceased to enforce discipline?

S. S. COX.

Paulding, Miss., July 31, 1893.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL LESSON.—Aug. 13, 1893.

PREPARED BY REV. A. F. WATKINS.

Paul at Jerusalem.

(Acts xxi, 27-39.)

GOLDEN TEXT.—"For unto you it is given in the behalf of Christ, not only to believe on him, but also to suffer for his sake." (Phil. i, 29.)

TOPICAL OUTLINE.—I. Attacked by the Jews (vs. 27-30). II. Rescued by the Romans (vs. 31-36). III. Speaking for Himself (vs. 37-39).

CENTRAL THOUGHT.—Jewish Prejudice.

HOME READINGS.

Sunday (Aug. 6)—Paul at Cæsarea. (Acts xxi, 1-9.)
Monday—Persecutions Foretold. (Acts xxi, 10-17.)
Tuesday—Paul among the Brethren. (Acts xxi, 18-26.)
Wednesday—Persecuted and Imprisoned. (Acts xxi, 27-40.)
Thursday—Paul's Defense. (Acts xxii, 1-16.)
Friday—Paul's Defense, and the Result. (Acts xxii, 17-30.)
Saturday—Rejoicing in Persecution. (Rom. viii, 31-39.)

INTRODUCTORY.

TIME.—April, A. D. 58 or 59. According to Doubel, Tuesday, May 23, 58 A. D.

PLACES.—1. The Temple in Jerusalem, 2. The stairway leading from the Temple up to the tower of Antonia.

PERSONS.—1. Paul, 2. Trophimus, a Gentile convert to Christianity, 3. The Jewish mob, 4. The chief captain and the Roman soldiers.

CONNECTING LINKS.—After the sad farewell at Miletus, Paul and his companions sailed down the coast of Asia Minor, stopping first at Coos, then at Rhodes, and disembarking the third day at Patara, in Pamphilia. Here they boarded a Syrian ship, and passing to the south of Cyprus, they reached Tyre. After a delay of several days they re-embarked, and sailing down the Syrian coast, they came to Ptolemais, and then to Cæsarea, where they found lodging at the home of Philip, the evangelist. At Tyre Paul had been urged not to go to Jerusalem, but now at Cæsarea the prophetic voice again warns him of the persecutions that await him at the holy city; but Paul is "ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus." Accordingly they went up to Jerusalem, where the brethren gladly received them, and rejoiced in the work they had accomplished. The prudential measure suggested by the elders, and willingly adopted by Paul, were calculated to remove any reasonable doubt of Paul's willingness to conform strictly to the law of the Jews; but their prejudice was so blind and intolerant that Paul's very effort to conciliate his brethren served to precipitate the outbreak that he sought to avoid.

EXPLANATORY.

I.—ATTACKED BY THE JEWS.

Ver. 27. At the suggestion of James, Paul had associated himself with the four Nazarites, assuming all the necessary expense, hoping thereby to remove any prejudice that may have existed against him on account of his supposed disregard of the temple service. During these seven days Paul and his associated Nazarites had remained in the temple or daily visited it, and now near the close of the period certain Jews of Asia Minor, probably from Ephesus, where Paul had so effectually aroused their anger by his successful preaching of the gospel, saw him and stirred the ory of Jewish prejudice against him.

Ver. 28. No people were more excitable than the Jews, no subject was more calculated to excite them than the profaning of their temple, no place existed in which this passion would be more easily aroused than in the temple enclosure, and there was no time in their history at which they were more zealous for the preserving of their religious customs than now, when all else that marked them as an independent people had been taken from them. No wonder that the ory, "Men of Israel, help," was enough to cause a tumult. The charge was a serious one, but untrue in every particular.

Ver. 29. They may have recognized Trophimus as a fellow-citizen, since he was from Ephesus. On the strength of a supposition, they were ready to commit murder.

Ver. 30. The Revised Version indicates the violence of their manner. They laid hold on Paul and dragged him out of the temple." A wild mob, acting its murderous action on the supposition of a few unknown Jews from Asia Minor. As the crowd poured out, dragging with them their unresisting victim, the "beautiful gate" of the temple were closed by the ministering Levites, lest blood should be shed within the sacred precincts of the temple.

II.—RESCUED BY THE ROMANS.

Vers. 31, 32. As they were dragging him out, intending to kill him in the outer court, and beating him as they carried him along, they were overseen by the Roman guard who had watched from the castle of Antonia, where they were stationed in readiness for just such an uprising of this turbulent and exoitable people. Upon the approach of the soldiers they ceased beating Paul. The lawlessness of their action, even upon the supposition of the justice of their charges against Paul, is seen in the fact that Trophimus, and not Paul, would have been guilty of profaning the temple.

Ver. 33. As the baffled mob fell back the chief captain approached the centurals and bleeding man, and, putting his hand upon him to indicate that he arrested, or that he would protect the prisoner, he commanded that two chains be put upon him. The Roman officer did not know the prisoner or his crime; but the natural inference was that he was a desperate criminal. In any event punishment ought to follow investigation, not precede it. An unexcited pagan is more just than any angry Jew.

Ver. 34. Most of this excited mob were ignorant of the name and crime of their prisoner, much more of the evidence supporting the charge against him. A mob, whether Jewish or Gentile, whether ancient or modern, has no brains nor heart; it has only feet and hands. The dictates of prudence, justice and mercy were obeyed in carrying the prisoner into the castle.

Vers. 35, 36. The crowd, seeing that the soldiers were content to rescue their victim and showed no disposition to attack the rioters, now became more bold and, cowards as they were, pressed so closely upon the heels of the retreating guard that when they came to the stairs leading up into the tower, the prisoner had to be borne upon the shoulders of the guards and hurried away while the multitude followed shouting, "Away with him." In this trying experience Paul may have thought of the same mob, shouting the same words upon the day of the crucifixion; he may have thought of the wild mob yelling around the martyr Stephen, and these thoughts may have helped him to bear more heroically his own sufferings.

III.—SPEAKING FOR HIMSELF.

Vers. 37, 38. The surprise of the chief captain at Paul's being able to speak Greek is explainable only on the supposition that he was the Egyptian robber; for many of the Jews of Paul's time could speak that language. The second question seems in our text to imply an affirmative answer; but we are told that the question really implies a negative reply, being equivalent to "Thou art not then that Egyptian," etc. Paul, on the stairway leading up to the tower of Antonia, is greater than Paul at Mars Hill. His perfect composure, his complete mastery of himself, his intense love for his countrymen, and his all-subduing desire to preach the gospel of his Lord, showed the marvelous grandeur of his character.

Ver. 39. Paul's answer is equivalent to a denial of the implied charge of the chief captain. He declares with commendable pride, first, that he is a Jew, and of this he was never ashamed, and, secondly, that he is a Roman citizen of no insignificant and unknown city.

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

1. The true Christian should be considerate of honest differences of opinion and conciliatory toward those who differ from him.

2. Many a supposed wrong has led to greater real wrongs. Be sure you have been wronged before you resent it.

3. A mob is essentially lawless. It commits a hundred wrongs in attempting to correct one.

4. A mob is essentially unreasonable and dangerous; a few men, often obscure and generally depraved, do the thinking for the great crowd of frenzied followers.

5. A soul controlled by God's Spirit finds no difficulty in self-control.

THE POETS.

BY W. J. HENDERSON.

There's never a robin that pipes of spring,
Nor a stream that runs and leaps,
Nor a bee that dreams on drowsy wing
O'er a perfumed petal's deeps,
But has it rhymes and runes,
Its subtle tunes,
Whose rhythm in silence sleeps.

There's never a star that spins in space,
Nor a leaf that falls to earth,
Nor a billow that wrinkles the ocean's face,
Nor a raindrop brought to birth,
But has its rhymes and runes,
Its mystic tunes
Of sweet unfathomed worth.

There's many a soul that throbs in time
With the robin, the leaf, or star,
That may not voice the silent rhyme;
But some can hear afar;
And they, yes, they have rhymes and runes,
And they can sing the mystic tunes,
For they the poets are.

—Harper's Weekly.

Gov. Tillman, of South Carolina, has received a letter from Dr. Joseph Allard, pastor of the French Congregational Church of Fall River, Mass., asking what inducements would be offered to French Canadians and "a large number of Roman Catholics who are ready to follow their example" to settle in South Carolina. The Doctor states that he was selected to make inquiries at a meeting of French Congregational ministers. He says that they are worried over the question as to how they could best free themselves from "the increasing persecutions" of their Roman Catholic compatriots because they had the courage to "break away from the superstition and tyranny of Romanism to accept evangelical Protestantism and become devoted citizens of this Republic." He states that the first colony will consist of fifty families, after which 500 more will come. South Carolina has been specially recommended to them as a place where they would "find sympathy and encouragement greater than in any other Southern State." Dr. Allard says that his people are greatly alarmed at the constantly invading progress of the Roman Catholic Church in New England. He says that Lafayette's prediction, "if ever the liberty of the American Republic is destroyed, it will be the work of Roman Catholic priests," will be realized if "things go on as they have been going."—Mid-Continent.

Light Wanted.

In a late treatise, "Which Day to Keep," the writer takes the ground that we are not under the law of the old covenant at all, not even the tables of stone, or Ten Commandments, but under that law as amplified, spiritualized and given out by Moses, but by Christ, where hate is murder, and impure thoughts adultery; that the whole of that law was designed for the Israelites alone, and we are not under any part of it except as brought forward and merged into the new covenant, and that as it is well known all of those statutes are brought forward and re-enacted in the New Testament but the seventh-day Sabbath, which is changed to the Lord's day, or the first day of the week; that it is improper under our dispensation to keep any other day but Sunday, or the Lord's day.

Now, this cuts up seventh-day Sabbaths by the root, for it is well known no Jewish Sabbath, or circumcision even, which came before Moses was ever engrafted by the apostles on any Gentile church, and this fact alone, it seems to us, ought to satisfy all doubt respecting the propriety of keeping our New Testament Sabbath; but as long as we contend for keeping the law of the tables in which that old Sabbath was enjoined on Jews alone, some minds can not rest satisfied with the day enjoined by the New Testament; hence as the Jews troubled the Galatian Church with desiring it to take on circumcision, so to the Colossians they tried to engraft on their church abstinence of swine's flesh and keeping the seventh-day Sabbath, which occasioned the apostle, in his epistle to Colossians, second chapter, to write: "Let no man judge you in meat or in drink, or in new moon and Sabbath days, which are a shadow of things to come, but the body is of Christ." Here these Judaizing teachers tried to get this church to give up their pork and keep a Jewish Sabbath, and the apostle declares they shall not be judged in their departures in these things from not following the old law of Jewish covenant.

But while this settles "which day to keep," it takes from us the law of Moses in the Ten Commandments; and have not all been taught to keep the law of Moses, especially that part of it written on stone, which our theologians tell us denotes perpetuity, though God's Word don't say so, and that part may have been engraved on rock because its principles are eternal, and is thus put because it is the gist and substance of the whole law? But whatever the form of that Mosaic law, the apostle, this writer says, compares it to Hagar, a slave, engendered to bondage, and to show he means the Ten Commandments he says Hagar symbolizes "Mount Sinai," whence the tables came, and declares, "We are not under it," and that it is passed, or now (that is, in the apostle's day) "is ready to vanish away."

St. Paul argues also the abolition of the Mosaic law by the change of the priesthood, saying it was the changing of the covenant or law that necessitated "a change in the priesthood also." And to show that when speaking of the law he meant the tables, he quotes directly from them, saying, "Thou shalt not covet."

Now, for one, I desire light on this subject. Are we under the Mosaic law or under any part of it? If under any part of the law of Moses, is not our new covenant incomplete? Can not the new covenant alone save the Gentiles, without any guidance or keeping the precepts of the old covenant? Or are we under the new and still a bond-slave like Hagar to the old? A little light on this point will oblige an OLD DISCIPLE.

Covington, La.

Buckingham's Dye for the Whiskers is the best, handiest, safest, surest, cleanest, most economical and satisfactory dye ever invented. It is the gentlemen's favorite.

There is no end to the sky,
And the stars are everywhere,
And time is eternity,
And the here is over there,
And the common deeds of the common day
Are ringing bells in the far away.

The way to fame is like the way to heaven—through much tribulation.—Sterne.

A Veteran's Story

Jos. Hemmerich.

Mr. Joseph Hemmerich, an old soldier, 529 E. 146th St., N. Y. City, writes voluntarily. In 1852, at the battle of Fair Oaks, he was stricken with typhoid fever, and after a struggle of several years in hospitals, was discharged as incurable with Consumption. Doctors said both lungs were affected and he could not live long, but a comrade urged him to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. Before he had finished one bottle his cough began to get loose, the choking sensation left, and night sweats grew less and less. He is now in good health and cordially recommends as a blood purifier and tonic medicine, especially to comrades in the G. A. R.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

HOOD'S PILLS are purely vegetable, and do not purge, pain or gripe. Try a box. 25c.

FOR SALE.

A new Magic Lantern, about sixty views. Bible views and pictures of the Holy Land. Canvas and everything in perfect order. Will sell cheap. Address

MRS. D. W. WOOD,
207 S. Wall St., Natchez, Miss.

ANGELL'S
HOMŒOPATHIC PHARMACY,

153 and 155 JULIA ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Richard Angell, M. D., Proprietor.

DEALER IN

Homœopathic Medicines, Book and All Other Articles used in Homœopathic Practice.

Try Angell's Celebrated Whooping Cough Syrup.

North Mississippi Conference Colportage and Sunday-School Agency

KOSCIUSKO, MISS.

Any Good Book Furnished at Publisher's Prices.

A specialty is made of the Books, Periodicals and Sunday-school Supplies of our church, which are furnished at Publishing House prices exactly.

Bibles and Testaments, All Styles and Sizes, Are a Particular Feature of the Work.

Our House requests that all the business of this Conference be transacted through this office.

All orders for books or papers promptly filled, and all pertinent questions concerning good literature and our Sunday-school interests will be readily answered.

G. W. BACHMAN,
Colporter and Sunday-school Agent.

WALL PAPER.

The Spring patterns of Wall Paper are handsomer than ever before, and we are able to offer them to you at prices which are within the reach of all. We believe that anyone buying cheap paper will do better to invest 10, 12½ or 15 cents and buy a gilt paper or a fine blank for the small difference than to invest 5 cents in a cheap blank; but if you want the 5-cents paper, we have it and will be glad to sell it.

MATTINGS,

In novel and dainty designs, which can not be had elsewhere, as we control our own private patterns. Prices from $5 per roll of 40 yrds, and up

LACE CURTAINS,

Rugs, Screens, Easels, Oil Cloth, Window Shades and Upholstering Goods.

ESTIMATES

Given for papering in the country under the direction of our foreman and with our own experienced corps of men.

Heath, Schwartz & Co., Lim.,

116 Camp Street, New Orleans.

FAT PEOPLE

To reduce your weight SURELY use Willard's Obesity Pills and lose 15 pounds a month. No injury to the health. No interference with business or pleasure. NO STARVING. They build up and improve the general health, beautify the complexion and leave NO WRINKLES. Lucy Anderson, 84 Auburn St., Cambridge, Mass., writes: Three bottles of your Obesity Pills reduced my weight from 225 pounds to 190 and I never felt better in all my life. I am much pleased with the result, and shall do all I can to help you. Our patrons include Physicians, Bankers, Lawyers, and leaders of Society. Our goods are not sold in drug stores; all orders are supplied direct from our office. Price per package $2.00 or three packages for $5.00 by mail prepaid. Particulars (sealed) 4cts. ALL CORRESPONDENCE CONFIDENTIAL.

WILLARD REMEDY CO., BOSTON, MASS.

DO YOU

Want a teacher for a Summer school? A bookkeeper for a few months while your regular man takes in the World's Fair? A fine young man for any kind of honorable work? If you do, write to DR. W. B. MURRAH, President, or J. W. CHAMBERS, Agent, of Millsaps College, and they will supply the man.

WANTED.

An A. M. graduate, having twenty years' successful experience in managing large institutions of learning, wants to lease desirable school or college property. Parties interested please address

"COLLEGE PRESIDENT,"
Care of ADVOCATE.

Advertising in England, European Continent, Etc.

SELL'S
ADVERTISING AGENCY, Limited.

Capital, $250,000. Henry Sell, Manager (editor and founder of "Sell's World's Press").

Full particulars regarding British or European Advertising, sample papers, rates, etc., at the London Office, 167-168 Fleet street, or at New York Office, 21 Park Row, Ground Floor.

Kursheedt's Marble Works

120 and 122 Camp St., New Orleans

$525 Agent's profits per month. Will prove it or pay forfeit. New Articles just out. A $1.50 sample and terms free. Try us. Chidester & Son, 2? Bond St., New York City.

When answering advertisements please mention the Advocate

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

GREAT FAST MAIL ROUTE.

Four Daily Trains between NEW ORLEANS and CHICAGO.

The Only Line running Pullman Buffet Sleepers and Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes.

FREE RECLINING CHAIR CARS TO CHICAGO.

St. Louis Without Change.

The Only Line running a Double Daily Train Service to

ST. LOUIS.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York

The great Steel Bridge, spanning the Ohio River at Cairo, completed, and all trains (freight and passenger) now running regularly over it, thus avoiding the delays and annoyances incident to transfer by ferry boat.

TICKET OFFICE: Corner St. Charles and Common Streets.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.
A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

T. AND P.

TO

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

DOUBLE DAILY TRAIN SERVICE

—TO—

Dallas, Fort Worth, and Points in North Texas.

SHORT LINE TO

Hot Springs, Little Rock and Denver.

TIME CARD.

	Leaves.	Arrives.
Den. and Cal. Express....	8:15 a. m.	7:00 p. m.
Tex. and Ark. Express....	8:20 p. m.	6:50 a. m.
Local	3:50 p. m.	10:05 a. m.

8:15 a. m. train has through Pullman Buffet Sleepers to Denver and connects at Fort Worth with Pullman Sleepers to California.

8:20 p. m. train has through Pullman Buffet Sleepers to Shreveport, Dallas and Fort Worth; connects with Canton Ball train for Hot Springs. Also through Sleeper to Little Rock via Alexandria.

For tickets and other information apply at 47 St. Charles street, corner Gravier, or Texas and Pacific Depot, foot of Terpsichore street.

A. S. GRAHAM, Passenger and Ticket Agent.
GASTON MESLIER, Gen'l Pass. and T'kt. Agt.
L. S. THORNE, Third Vice President and General Superintendent.

Yazoo and Mississippi Valley
RAILROAD COMPANY.

All trains arrive and depart from new Passenger Station, cor. Howard Ave. and Rampart St.

	Leaves.	Arrives
Kansas City and Memphis Fast Train.....	5:00 p. m	8:35 a. m
Vicksburg & Natchez Ex.....	7:55 a. m	5:35 p. m
Bat. Rouge "Coast Train."	3:40 p. m	10:00 a. m

The Only Line running Solid Trains between New Orleans, Memphis and Vicksburg, with Modern Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars through to Memphis and Kansas City.

The direct and favorite route to Kansas City, Denver, and All Points West.

The short line to Hot Springs and points in Arkansas and North Louisiana.

Commutation Tickets, Mileage Books, Party Rates and Week End Excursions.

Summer Excursion Tickets on Sale in season.

Ticket Office: St. Charles St., cor. Common.

JAMES DINKINS, Div. Pass. Agt.
J. W. COLEMAN, A. G. P. A.
A. H. HANSON G. P. A.

CLARK & MEADER,

16 and 18 CARONDELET ST.

BRANCH STORE:

Cor. ST. CHARLES and NAPOLEON Avenues,

NEW ORLEANS.

Stuffed Olives in Oil; Boneless Anchovies in Oil; Boneless Anchovies in Salt; French Crescent Olives; Mammoth Queen Olives; Cepes au Naturel; Mushroom Powder; Bijou Cans of Aluettes; Thon a hullie; Pure of Fois Gras; Saucisses Truffe; Pure of Sardines; Truffled Sardines; New Maple Syrup in Quart bottles, 1 Gallon and ½ Gallon Cans; Maple Sugar in 1-pound cakes; Franco-American Game Pates, such as Wild Duck, Grouse, Partridge, Pheasant, Chicken, Chicken Liver, Woodcock; Entrees—Chicken Curry a la Indienne, Chicken Saute a la Marengo; Calves' Tongues with Tomato Sauce; Veal and Green Peas; Calves' Tongue, sauce Piquant; Braised Beef a la Jardeniere; Ross' Belfast Ginger Ale, Sarsaparilla, Club Soda, and Raspberry Vinegar; Potoma's Roe Herring; Clysmic Water; Smoked Beef; Small Whole Boneless Cooked Hams in cans; Whole Boiled Beef Tongues in cans; Wheatena; Pettijohn's California Breakfast Food; Schumacher's Rolled Wheat and Avena; Cerealine Flakes; Mott's Pure Sparkling Sweet and Crab Apple Cider; Large Smoked Beef Tongue.

J. C. MORRIS CO., Limited.

40, 42 and 44 Tchoupitoulas Street.

E. F. DYER, Pres. E. P. MACKIE, Treas.

WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

Refrigerators, Freezors, Water Coolers, Fishing Tackle, Seines, Oars, Hammocks, Croquet, Baseballs, Baskets, Brooms, Brushes, Fruit Jars, Bottles, Flasks, Demijohns, Rope, Twine, Axle Grease, Wrapping Paper, Bags, Stationery, Cheese Safes, Cages, Scales, Tacks, Chimneys, Lamps, Tinware, Blacking, Woodenware, Cutlery, Clocks, etc.

W. W. CARRE.
LUMBER MERCHANT

AND MANUFACTURER OF

PLANTATION CABINS, STORES, Etc.

Nos. 542, 544, 546 and 548 Howard Ave.,

NEW BASIN. NEW ORLEANS

GUARANTEED CURE
OR NO PAY.

Nothing Fairer Than This.

When we say cure, we do not mean simply to stop it for the time being, but a

PERMANENT AND POSITIVE CURE

For Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Impure Blood, and all diseases arising from a disordered Liver. Write for Treatise, Testimonials, and Free Sample Bottle of

DR. ROC'S LIVER, RHEUMATIC and NEURALGIA CURE to

CULLEN & NEWMAN,
182 GAY ST., Knoxville, Tenn.

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA.

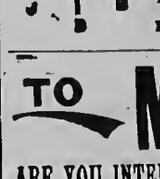
Session begins 15th Sept. Full equipment and corps of instructors in Academical, Engineering, Law, and Medical Departments. Excellent Climate. New Gymnasium, with baths free to all students. For catalogues address

WM. M. THORNTON, LL.D., Chairman.

POSITIONS GUARANTEED

Guarantee in Writing. Send for free catalogue of DRAUGHON'S Consolidated Practical Business College, Nashville, Tenn. Cheap Board. No vacation. MENTION THIS PAPER.

Shorthand in a Vest Pocket.



DR. LAFFERTY, the Stenographer to the Virginia Senate, has given the CONGRESSIONAL SYSTEM OF SHORTHAND in a series of simple, witty, chatty talks; each illustrated. You learn it while you laugh. 65 pgs. Price 50 cents. Address him, Richmond, Va.

TO MINISTERS.

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN YOUR CHOIR to the extent of desiring to have each Sunday, new and bright ANTHEMS, thoroughly devotional in character?

If You Are

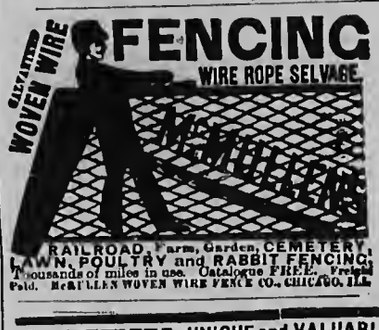
and will take the time to send us the name and address of your Choir leader, or better still, of all your choir singers, we shall take pleasure in sending you and them something that will satisfactorily solve the question of how to obtain new and good music at an exceedingly moderate outlay. If you cannot attend to the matter personally, please ask some one in your congregation who can.

ADDRESS

THE JOHN CHURCH CO.,
S. E. Cor. 4th and Elm Sts., Cincinnati, O.

FENCING

WIRE ROPE SELVAGE



RAILROAD, Farm, Garden, CEMETERY, LAWN, POULTRY and RABBIT FENCING. Thousands of miles in use. Catalogue FREE. Prices Reduced. McMULLEN WOVEN WIRE FENCE CO., CHICAGO, ILL.

A NEW

UNIQUE and VALUABLE Historical Chart of Christianity from the Apostolic Period through the Reformation has been prepared by REV. M. LOUCKS, D.D., of Dayton, Ohio. For particulars address postal to him and receive circulars free.

REV. M. LOUCKS, D.D, Dayton, Ohio.

CHURCH SCHOOL FURNITURE

Before purchasing any PEWS, PULPITS or any other Furniture, write Wm. H. Morrow, No. 8 Noel Bl'k, Nashville, Tenn., for Catalogue.

WHY PAY DEALER'S PROFIT?

TRIAL FREE.

$2.75 buys a $9 White Reed Baby Carriage, freight prepaid, shipped on 10 days' trial. Latest design and style. Perfect, reliable and finely finished. Nothing but the best material used and warranted for 3 YEARS. We have been in the manufacturing business many years, and are reliable and responsible. I make and sell nothing but what we can guarantee as represented, quote lowest factory prices. Write to-day for our large free catalogue, which is one of the most complete ever published.

OXFORD MFG. CO., 340 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WE WANT AT ONCE

RELIABLE MEN everywhere (local or traveling) to advertise and keep our Show Cards tacked up in towns on trees and fences along public roads. Steady work in your own county. $70 A MONTH SALARY AND $3 A DAY EXPENSES ADVANCED every 15 days when started. FRANCO-GERMAN ELECTRIC CO., CINCINNATI, O.

8% GUARANTEED

by a leading Trust Company is offered all par. Suitable for large and small investments. Full information furnished by W. E. Lown, Mills Building, New York.

No Tobacco. NO OPIUM.

The only practicable way to reach

CATARRH

thoroughly and pleasantly. A positive cure even if all else has failed. Sample FREE by mail

DR. J. W. BLOSSER & CO., DALTON GA.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

CASH MONEY. $20 for 1; $50 for 3; $100 for 5; $500 for 10; $1,200 for $20. Address P. O. Box D, Huntington, N. Y.

THE CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO. CINCINNATI, OHIO. SOLE MAKERS OF THE BLYMYER BELLS FOR CHURCH SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM &c. Catalogue with 2500 testimonials. Prices and Terms FREE.

THE LARGEST ESTABLISHMENT MANUFACTURING CHURCH BELLS & CHIMES & PEALS in the World. PUREST BELL METAL (COPPER AND TIN.) Send for Price and Catalogue. McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY, BALTIMORE, MD.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY. THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO., Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A. Best Ingot Copper and E. India Tin. BUCKEYE BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES. Price & Terms Free. Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Christian Advocate.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased Preachers, $1

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

All correspondence with the ADVOCATE, literary or business, and all money due or to become due should be addressed to Rev. J. M. Beard, CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans, La

Capt. G. A. R. Lawrence is an accredited agent of the ADVOCATE in the city and country, and he is authorized to take subscribers, contract for advertisements, and receipt for money due on subscription or otherwise.

Rev. J. M. BEARD, D. D., Editor and Publisher.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. J. M. BEARD, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. J. B. A. AHRENS, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. J. W. CHAMBERS.
REV. W. B. LEWIS.
REV. R. J. JONES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIKE.

Thursday, August 10, 1893.

Extraordinary Offer.

We offer the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE to new subscribers until Jan. 1, 1894, for fifty cents when sent in clubs of ten, and accompanied by the cash.

The two young brethren whose names are signed to the Alexandria District Conference resolntions, asking for a change in the management of the ADVOCATE, are members of the Alexandria district by sufferance or, to literally express it, as squatter sovereigns. The former was appointed by the Bishop to another district, and the latter to another Conference, but with singular coincidence of the reasoning faculty they both resolved on a change of management, and had themselves appointed to the Lecompte station and the Washington circuit, respectively. Verily, they are given to change, committed to the policy, as well as sold under the habit; and if they deal thus with a Bishop and an Annual Conference, what may not a de-functo paper and a de-facto editor expect?

Who could read the resolutions of the Alexandria District Conference, which occur in another column, and suspect that there was to be found in them even an allusion to the doctrine of sanctification? They advance upon the subject with as much deliberation as if it were an electric wire fully charged, and when they have reached it they step back and forth over it with as much care as an independent newspaper of party lines. Just to think that a departure from sonnd words npon the part of the editor of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE should mean a virnlent attack upon the doctrine of Wesley and Methodism by its excited foes. Not since the days of Socrates has anybody been executed for a departure "from sound words;" bnt the people who use some such phrase as that when they mean sanctification, should throw no stones and pass no hemlock.

A well-written sketch of the life of Robt. A. Barnes, the St. Louis millionaire, who, in addition to many other bequests of smaller snms, lately gave a million dollars to the M. E. Chnrch, South, to endow a Methodist hospital in St. Louis, and which was prepared by Rev. T. M. Finney and Bishop Hendrix, has been received by the ADVOCATE. Mr. Barnes was an Episcopalian, and was married to a Catholic lady, but he had observed that while the Methodists were both nnmerous and poor, and, therefore, scarcely able to take care of themselves financially, that yet they did more for the poor than any other church, and concluded in consequence that they were the providential means for the administration and distribution of his large fortune and charities. It is a little remarkable that in a land of millionaires, others in the same category with reference to this world's goods, and under the same obligation to make the best possible use of them, have not made the same discovery. We obtain two important lessons from the incident: 1. That a man must stoop to give as well as to pray and preach; and 2. That those who profess most ove to God, practice most love to men.

A notice of the dedication of the Wilhelte Church will occur in our next.

Prohibition Extraordinary.

The following was adopted by the Alexandria District Conference at its recent session held at Lecompte, and by resolution of the Conference a copy was ordered sent to the ADVOCATE for publication:

No more important subject could be presented for our consideration than the subject of literature in general, and Christian literature in particular. To know what our people are reading, and to see to it that that reading is of the highest grade and purest quality, is without question the duty of everyone who has the responsibilities of the pastorate upon him.

We think it is safe to assert that the reading matter of our membership at large is not of snch a quality as to warrant us in expecting or looking for favorable spiritual results. In many instances reading matter is entirely wanting or meagerly supplied, and this meager supply consists not of literatnre of that quality that would impart needed information or insure Christian growth.

We are keenly alive to the great need of a live church paper in our midst, one that would be the official organ of our chnrch and a faithful exponent of our doctrines.

With these introdnctory remarks, we offer the following preamble and resolutions:

Whereas, We consider that the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, under its present late management, has departed from the "form of sound words," and is teaching doctrines that are erroneous and harmful in their tendency; therefore, be it

Resolved, By the Alexandria District Conference, in regular session convened, that we do not endorse the present management of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Resolved, That we sincerely hope that the Publishing Committee will take steps at their earliest opportunity to have the management changed.

J. I. HOFFPAUIR,
J. E. DENSON.

This is rare reading, and we much regret that it was too late for the last issue of the ADVOCATE. Such an endorsement as an arraignment for heresy by these youths, for most of whom we performed the office of wet nurse at the door of the Annual Conference, and all whom are indebted to us for most of their original ideas, if not sermons, mnst mean something for a paper, if it does not speak volnmes for an editor. In a church that we had a great deal more to do in building than Solomon in the erection of his temple, and in a community whose infant feet we taught the way to the house of God, these rare and racy resolutions were concocted with haste, read with breathless stillness, and railroaded with T. and P. dispatch, into the marvelous papal bull that forms a preface to this article. Off goes onr head into the very same waste-basket that we have long devoted as a sacred receptacle for the contributions of these diligent patrons of our literary department. Verily, like another, whom we too little resemble in many important particulars, we have been wounded in the "honse of our friends," if not poniarded by the sword of our familiar. One of our first and warmest greetings when we came to the unwelcome tripod was from the talented young presiding elder of the Alexandria district, and we never remember to have received as pressing an invitation to go anywhere as to the session of this Conference by him (especially) and others. Was it the same good providence that for many years has never suffered us to be tempted above that which we were able to bear, that kept us away from the released menagerie that raged in the church at Lecompte on last Saturday?

As to the resolutions themselves, which have not yet reached us from an official source, bnt were kindly taken down and forwarded to us by a friend, we must, as chairman of the Pnblishing Committee, decline to receive them as being wanting in respect to that functionary; but, as editor of the paper, we can not refrain from sharing onr medltations with the public on this interesting occasion; and how conld we do so without the very words of the text?

In conclusion of this friendly bout, let us say, with a smile, which is heartfelt, that if our friends of the Alexandria District Conference and district, too, in which the paper has next to no patronage, do not feel interest enough in the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE to subscribe for it or read it, that consistency and conscience, too, should induce them to abstain with care from denunciatory invectives against its editorial management. And let ns take time to say also, in justice to these dear brethren, whom we love as mnch as we ever did, and whom none could love more, that they have nothing against the editor or the paper, but are only mad, senselessly mad, against the red banner he waves. The edition of the ADVOCATE which was laid on their secretary's desk had two mild reviews of the doctrine of sanctification on its editorial page, and a few notes and extracts from other papers calling attention to the subject; and this circumstance qnite turned the heads, if not the stomachs, of the members of the august body. That was quite too unmentionable an offense against decent orthodoxy, and so they hastily improvised a rude cross and on it crucified the Lord afresh in the person of one of his weakest members, and in the substance of his most divine doctrine. If the devil and sanctification had been mentioned in the same breath before that excited body, there can be little doubt that the former wonld have stood most in the following of compliment and have been imprecated least on the subject of a change of management. So far as we are personally concerned—and we thought we had more friends in the Alexandria district than anywhere in the world—we thank our brethren for this fresh opportunity of dying with our Lord, and we ought certainly to be satisfied with the prospect of popnlar support when we obtained fifty new subscribers from the same mail that contained this welcome bull of excommnnication. And then, too, we have an experience of being hung up, riddled with explosives, drenched with hemlock, drawn and quartered, and sat down upon with a gravity of odium theologicum representing many tons weight, which in the natnre of things can never come to the anthors of these resolutions; to say nothing of another experience and a still rarer one of that peace that passeth understanding, which may and we trust shall speedily come to all of them.

Bnt yet this District Conference, slimly attended and largely composed of youths who, like the two signers of the resolutions, have just graduated into the ministry—though yet fated to become historic in the annals of Southern Methodism—no more represents the Alexandria district, than red faction anywhere can be taken to represent liberty, tolerance and truth.

Serpent and Dove.

Wisdom is the serpent quality; the more gall the more intuition, the more understanding of mysteries the more devotion to the black art. Not that every wise man is in league with Satan, but that Satan seeks an alliance with scholarship, and desires with the most human instruments that he can select to make the "worse appear the better canse." He does not eschew material haunts and forego witchcrafts indeed, but only depends for the greatest victories of both in the sphere of the intellect rather than that of the body. The witches of the ignorant classes in another era were poor, vnlgar things that were quite helpless when put on trial for their lives, and blnndered to the gallows in troops, and so instead of winning converts influenced the masses with contempt for their cause; but the more majestic intellectual types as the English Shelley, the German Strauss, and the Frenchmen Rosseau and Voltaire, defied the ministers of justice, both human and divine, and duped millions by the same specions art which triumphed over the first man. A witch-ridden brain is a great potency for evil in the moral nniverse, and it is putting it mildly to say that the anthor of all evil "seeketh such to serve him." Engene Aram, who stands at the head of the English criminal type, was a great scholar, but not accidentally, and a great murderer, bnt not incidentally. Dr. Webster, the American representative mnrderer, was a scholar, and a gentleman, and it was by a mere fortuity that he made a Faust bargain with Satan for his soul.

But intellectuality does not produce heartlessness by dwarfing it as a snperior growth supported from the same stem or root; the latter is rather one of its numerous contingencies or derivatives. It is not that the man has more intellect, and is of necessity less emotional and affectional, but that he has more capacity for exploit and is nnder foreign influence. The arch-deceiver, the father of lies, is himself sole sovereign and undivided ruler of the realm of sortilege, and he bewitches the sorcerers with superior sorcery. The Savior had many devils to cast out of the bodies of the poor, and he conld send out a whole "clattering legion" with a monosyllable; bnt there was another sort which infected the higher natnre that "came forth only by fasting and prayer," and which utterly baffled what might be called the second-hand incantation of the disciples. The devil went out of Simon Magns, one of the latter class, with a mental reservation, and he departed from Elymas, the sorcerer, perhaps, only until St. Paul's back was tnrned. The Witch of Tudor conld have raised the devil as easily as she did the connterfeit of the prophet; for he serves those who serve him, and in the realm of magic is always at home to callers if they manifest a reasonable regard for favors bestowed.

In the first place, firstly, to quote a back-woodsism, and in order both of time and discussion, he managed to excite Eve's cnriosity abont the fruit, and she was on fire with prnrient desire to get a taste. She was not apple-struck nor hunger-bitten, but curiosity-ridden. It was not that it was "fair to the eye" or "sweet to the taste," but that it was the frnit of the tree of knowledge and "desirable to make one wise," that caused her to lust. And lastly, in the last place, it was as a theosophist that he appeared again, and as one having not much more interest in that branch of the subject called telepathy than in the other of witchcraft. To eclipse omniscience as a revealer of hidden trnth has always been his lofty purpose, and in pursnance of it there are, perhaps, few things in this lower sphere that represent him as trnly as what is known as modern spiritnalism. That 'ism' of all others is in the same category of bewitched and bewitching as the first tempted, and furnishes what the arch-deceiver has long desired—a medinm for direct communication with the sonls he would destroy. It is medinmistic in the highest sense. And if we consider who is the principal designer of that Penelope web which hangs between it and the dnped public, the marvel is not that spiritnalistic manifestations and seance spectacles are unaccounted for in some particulars of deception, but that they are accounted for in any.

The knowing ones of this world, alas! who are they, and where are they in the mighty conflict between good and evil that is world-wide and age-endnring. "Now the serpent was wiser than all the beasts of the field," and the most venomous. Indeed, the contents of his poison bag is but cerebral overflow, and, therefore, a highly concentrated statement of what has been called the "wisdom of the wise." "Be ye as wise as serpents," the Savior said to his disciples, "but as harmless as doves," and we have always held that the emphasis should rest on the refrain of the sentence. The faculty of ingenuous reasoning or snperculture in the realm of metaphysics, if drawn out to its last limit, is but qualification for harm-doing on the largest scale. In one sense it is chicane; and in another, bnt one remove from demonology. Mere brain power is a savage fnnction, and can amuse itself with tortnring flies, or vivisecting animals, or tearing the heart tendons of rock-bound Promethens; or it can find entertainment in watching wild beasts mangle their human prey, or gloat with ecstasy over the spectacle of war or famine marching to the conquest of nations. On a Rnssian battle-field, to one who deplored the carnage, Bonaparte said, in leaden tones and with a glance which is said to have resembled a scowl, "It is impossible to have an omelet without breaking a few eggs;" and in that sentence there was electrotyped for us and for all ages the heart of a despot.

Love is the balance wheel of wisdom, and will not suffer it to perform cruelties or to shed blood, and it is the foil of the arch-enemy, both checking and overcoming his malign rule with gospel benignities.

Satan invades the intellect of man, and with it as an ally proposes world conqnest; but Jesus comes into our humanity by the door of the heart, and, opposing to him greater strength and skill, hurls him down from that eminence. Satan wonld be content to have his throne in the intellect, and with the sceptre of genins win victories and keep the nations in subjection. Jesus is content to reign over the heart, if that will result in the destruction of opposing sovereignties, and bring the whole life—the thoughts of the heart, and mind, too—in subjection to himself. Wisdom is a thing only to be desired or enjoyed when coupled with an infinite philanthropy. It will take a large wisdom and a boundless charity to get us through the world with credit as the disciples of Jesus. Anyone who chooses to do so can see in this counsel of onr Lord last qnoted not only the highest kind of wisdom, but the most exemplary kind of love, and in the serpent the emblem of Satan, or the evil spirit for a type of the former in nature; and in the dove the emblem of the Holy Ghost or Divine Spirit in natnre, a striking symbol to set forth the latter.

The editor during last week enjoyed all the pleasures and trials of a midsummer outing in two States, but finds upon returning that there will not be space enough in this issne to tell about it. Next week he hopes to furnish a correspondence on the snbject.

The Alexandria District Conference has at length become famous, and in a way quite nnexpected. But it took help and that, too, from a quarter where revivals are about as numerons and copious as rains in Sahara. The most amusing part of the contretemps is, however, found in the fact that the editor of the ADVOCATE, like the Frenchman in the anecdote, has been kicked up stairs by mistake. Our first snbscriptions and remittances from that quarter came after the smoke of the great deliverance elsewhere aforesaid; and still they come.

NOTES.

Renew. Renew. Renew.

Anything done in anger is do wrong.

Bricks in the air indicate circulati if not life.

The Alexandria resolutions sm of tobacco smoke.

Let the professor of sanctificati take heed lest he fall.

Now we know what it is to be bo cotted by the black list.

Thon mayst say it if thy motive love, and thy purpose as unselfish.

The devils believe and tremble; it yours and mine to tremble and b lieve.

Preachers who have much time spare, like other people, will get i mischief.

Perhaps the ADVOCATE subscripti list never increased faster than duri the past four weeks.

A sound Christian orthodoxy i volves belief in two things—viz, G in man, and man in Satan.

Oh! that men's prejudices did get in the way of their interest, their hates destroy their loves.

A mother must sometimes use verity towards her child, but from circumstance she does not love it less, bnt the more.

A country subscriber, paying up two years, writes that he "can not along without the ADVOCATE, does not intend to try."

The preacher who fights sanctifi tion (after the manner of the w beasts who clawed St. Paul at Ep sus) has not had a revival on his w for years.

We hear of no conversions at compte, the session of the late Al andria District Conference. All t lightning seems to have been reser for the green tree of sanctification.

Et tu Brute, Sam Jones says h one that howls, when hit; but w known them to raise their voice lamentation, and speed round the ner in response to an animated gest

The preacher's wife is not the sla in-law of the church, but the pre er's better half. An invitation to former to dine, or to ride out, o spend the evening should always olnde the latter.

The great revivalists of the sec age of Methodism were Bram Caughey and Carvosso, all whom, cording to the pert critics of sanc fication, had departed from the "f of sound words."

If you would acquire courage, first qualification of a soldier of Cross, be much with Christ in sec "When they saw the boldness of disciples they took knowledge of th that they had been with Jesus."

Methodist preachers are paid l than those of other denominations cause they are more in the power those who both draw and best checks. Worldly honor and Christ obligation, to say nothing of grace, mand a speedy and wide-spread form in this matter.

While these written sentences being turned to printed matter writer is being caught away to Sabb duties in Northern Louisiana, where will find hearts as warm and true those he leaves behind. Everywh love finds a motive in the wounds the All Savior, and everywhere an ject in the persons of those for wh he died. And Love will crown u last.

A note from Bro. Upton informs that the noble people of Minden w pay Bro. Medlock's salary in full to widow, and perhaps purchase a ho for his family. This would be ki generous and just. Sister Medlo besides being a noble woman, is ir in the Methodist succession, as b the daughter and the wife of preache Thus Lake Charles in a former c generously provided for Sister Bradl and earned the good-will of Method and good people everywhere.

When we said in a former note t the paper would refrain from pers allties, of course we did not mean t there would be no reference to pers in its columns, but only that we wo carefully avoid that offensive and ec ardly habit indulged by some of or cising people when their backs turned, or of taking revenge upon foe by way of innuendo address both against him and the pub We hope that we have no occasi even as we [illegible] no heart; for a thing of this

FREE!!

A genuine Self-Pronouncing, Pictorial Family Bible. Old and New Versions in parallel columns.

Strong, Handsome, Durable Binding,

BOUND IN AMERICAN MOROCCO, raised panel sides, gold centre, comb edges, and contains over 2,000 pages of valuable matter, including the Old and New Testament Scriptures, to which are added over 300 illustrations, including full-page steel engravings, superb illuminated title pages, and colored plates of Scripture illustrations in both the Old and New Testaments. A complete Bible Dictionary and a complete Concordance are included.

The Latest and Very Best

edition. Printed with large, clear type on good paper.

SPECIAL PREMIUM OFFER.

We will send this magnificent Family Bible absolutely free for ten new subscribers, or upon receipt of $6.50 will send you the paper or renew your subscription for one year and send this Bible by express.

PERSUNAL AND DTHERWISE.

A friend, writing from Crystal Springs, Miss., says that the price of the ADVOCATE must be kept at two dollars, and adds that "it is the best paper anywhere."

One of our Mississippi correspondents, the honored head of an educational institution, in a note to the editor says that the ADVOCATE must be sustained, and adds these strong words, "The friends of Christianity, of civilization should rally to its support."

There have been many complaints by our city patrons of failure to receive the paper. We earnestly request that all complaints be put in writing and addressed to this office, where they will receive prompt attention. This is most desirable for all concerned, and often necessary to rectify errors.

Our young friend, Rev. Herman Knickerbooker, the pastor of Bastrop, has been visiting his home in the city, and the seashore at the camp ground, in search of health. We suspect that the Washita headwaters are too malarious for him. He preached with much acceptability during the session of the Biblical Institute.

Rev. J. V. Penn, of Waynesboro and State Line charge, Mississippi Conference, paid us a pleasant call last Thursday. Bro. Penn's annual salary is nearly all paid, and his work is to be credited with more than one hundred dollars on the missionary debt. One of the first questions propounded to each other by preachers when they meet is, "How much have you received on your salary?" and in 999 instances of 1,000 the answer is embarrassing to the answerer.

The ADVOCATE has received a copy of "High Steeple, and Its Official Staff," and will notice it at more leisure. It is written by Bishop Haygood, skilled in book-making, and issued from our Publishing House at five cents, about the cost of the material. Also a sermon entitled "The Golden City," by Rev. W. V. Tudor, D.D. It is in Dr. Tudor's best vein, published by the stewards of his church, and can be had free, on application to W. F. Richardson, Richmond, Va.

The ADVOCATE acknowledges the receipt of an address delivered by Col. Wm. Preston Johnston before the convention of parish superintendents at Lake Charles, June 28. It is good and useful reading. The Tulane University, over which Col. Johnston presides with commanding ability, is in a flourishing condition and bids fair to take high rank among the young universities of the country. Vanderbilt, Leland Stanford, Tulane and a few others prove that money and brains are often a good substitute for age and experience in promoting the higher education.

Among the excellent magazine publications that come to this office are the Century, Harper's, Review of Reviews, California, Scribner's, Cosmopolitan, McClure's, the last two being marvels of cheapness; the Quiver, Cassells, Godey's, Art Journal, Wide Awake, Harper's Young People, the Southern States, Household, Preachers' Magazine, Homletic Monthly, Southern Home Companion, and many others, all of them being excellent, and some of them super-excellent in their own department. How they can be published at the prices offered is one of the remarkable things connected with this book-making age.

Capt. D. C. McCan, an old and very wealthy citizen of New Orleans, died on last Thursday, and was buried from his palatial mansion in the Fourth District on the following day, a large concourse of leading business and professional men attending the obsequies. Capt. McCan was a man of great force of character, and had many traits that gave him standing and popularity with the outside world, and many others that endeared him to the family and home circle. During two years, the greater portion of which time he was visited by the writer as a friend and minister, he suffered from progressive paralysis, and this season was doubtless the providential means of his conversion. As the weeks passed, dragging their slow lengths by, he gave many signs of true penitence, and seemed more and more to welcome the hour of prayer and Christian interview. This will be cheering news to Bro. Mathews, Werlein, and former pastors of New Orleans, who were much attached to him and whom he fondly remembered to the last. His devoted wife, a member of the Felicity Street charge, will have the sympathy and prayers of the church in her great bereavement.

Don't you know to have perfect health you must have pure blood, and the best way to have pure blood is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the best blood purifier and strength builder.

Hood's Pills may be had by mail for 25 cents of C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

A great deal of time is contracted in opportunity—which is the flower of time.

200 Agents Wanted.

One in every community in State of Mississippi to sell Bishop Fitzgerald's Epworth Book. Prospectus, 50 cents. Holman Self-Pronouncing Sunday-school Teacher's Bible. Prospectus, $1. Imitation of Christ, beautifully illustrated by Thomas a Kempis. Prospectus, 75 cents. Full supply of International Bibles in stock. Send for catalogue. Order your Sunday-school supplies for the year, and remit quarterly, if you can not send cash with order. Apply at once.

LAIRD & DOMINICK,
Jackson, Miss.

Do You Know?

That when your bowels are disordered, and irregularities caused by change of diet or location exist,

Brodie's Astringent Cordial

Will correct all the troubles, and never fails, but

CURES

DIARRHŒA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, CRAMPS, BLOODY FLUX, and Such Symptoms.

TESTIMONIAL.

July 26, 1889.

Dear Sirs:—I have used Brodie's Astringent Cordial in my family, and am using the third bottle. It always acts like a charm upon my children, correcting ailments of the bowels better than any medicine I ever tried. * * *

Yours, most respectfully,
Mrs. A. W. MOORE.

Price: 50 cts. and $1 a Bottle.

I. L. LYONS & CO., New Orleans, La.

Sold by All Druggists.

Persons Attending the BIBLE INSTITUTE AT

Seashore Camp Ground

May obtain good board at the Montgomery Cottage (on the beach) at Reasonable Prices.

Educate for Business.

AT THE

BOWLING GREEN BUSINESS COLLEGE AND LITERARY INSTITUTE.

Railroad Fare Paid.

A School of Business, Shorthand, English, Typewriting, Telegraphy, Penmanship, Teacher's Training. Catalogues free.

CHERRY BROTHERS,
Bowling Green, Ky.

Tuskaloosa Female College,

TUSKALOOSA, ALA.

Thirty-fourth Session begins Sept. 26, 1893. Terms reduced to suit the times. For Catalogues apply to

ALONZO HILL, President.

Mansfield Female College AND Conservatory of Music and Art.

The forty-first session opens Sept. 13, 1893, with a full faculty of experienced teachers in all departments.

Prof. G. D. Pickles takes the chair of Mathematics and Pedagogy. This institution is celebrated for thorough and honest work, for a locality remarkable for health, for every comfort provided, for the care and attention given to students, and for the great economy secured to parents. The great aim is to afford as good facilities for education as can be found outside the State. A new era is opening for the college that will make the next session peculiarly advantageous to those who attend. It is demonstrated that this is the best place for Southern girls.

A. D. McVOY, A. M.,
President.

LOOK!

WILKINSON'S MATCHLESS MINERAL IRON TONIC.

The Most Wonderful Tonic in America.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY OF THE UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA.

Analysis of W. W. Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water, by E. A. Smith, Professor Chemistry and Geology, and J. B. Little.

The amount of water taken was one gallon, wine measure, and was found to contain:

	Grains.		Grains
Sulphuric Acid	814.094	Potassic Oxide	1.115
Ferric Oxide	86.532	Alumnic	3.640
Ferrous Oxide	81.881	Silica	5.036
Calcic Oxide	24.527	Sodium Oxide	4.091
Magnetic Oxide	22.711	Chlorine	2.472

Carbonic Acid.....Not yet determined.
The specific gravity of the water is 1.0070.

From Prof. Henry Leffman, M. D., Analytical Chemist and Expert, Hygienist and Food Inspector to the Pennsylvania State Board of Agriculture, and Professor of Chemistry in the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania:

W. W. Wilkinson—I have examined a sample of your Matchless Mineral Water, and find it possesses the properties specified in the above statement of analysis by Profs. Smith and Little; but the water you are now furnishing is much stronger in the active mineral ingredients.

HENRY LEFFMAN.

Cures Dyspepsia in its worst form, Chronic Diarrhœa, Diabetes, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Sores, Bilious Colic, Tetter, Ring Worm, Chronic Sores, Ulceration of the Womb, Throat, Catarrh, Debility. Best Natural Tonic in the World.

As a Tonic and Alterative.—A teaspoonful to a tablespoonful in one-half glass of water three times a day, directly after eating; but if stomach is soured, take before eating.

As a Cathartic.—Three to five tablespoonsful in same amount of water.

For External Application.—Use as a wash without diluting (warm if possible).

For Injection.—If water is too strong, slightly dilute and use twice a day.

For Cholera Morbus and Cramp Colic.—Two tablespoonsful every hour or two until relieved (in a little water).

Will keep full strength for any length of time in any climate. Never dilute except as used.

Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Iron Tonic.

I am seeking to protect all against many diseases and cure all who are sick by such diseases as may be cured by this, nature's wonderful remedy,

WILKINSON'S MATCHLESS MINERAL IRON TONIC.

It cures Dyspepsia in its worst form, Chronic Diarrhœa, and Acute; cures Flux, all Diseases of the Bowels and Stomach, Skin Diseases, Piles, Sore or Granulated Eyelids, Ulcerated Sore Throat, Blood Diseases, Rheumatism; Debility, Physical and Mental; Liver Complaint, Female Complaints, Cholera Morbus, Cholera, Biliousness, Bruises, Cuts and Scald-head, Eczema, Sick-headache, Colic.

1. W. D. Rogers says: "Your Mineral Water has cured me of dyspepsia, and my wife of womb disease, when all else failed."

2. John H. McCullough says: "This water cured me of dyspepsia after suffering four years and trying medicine, doctors, etc."

3. W. D. Newman says: "I was afflicted for twelve years with tetter. Matchless Mineral Water cured me when all doctors and treatment failed."

4. Rev. Chas. R. Lamar was cured of dyspepsia of more than two years' standing by use of two gallons of Matchless Mineral Water.

5. J. H. Gilbert says: "Matchless Mineral Water is, beyond doubt, the best remedy known to me for sore eyes."

6. Jesse B. Basser says: "I have suffered long from chronic ulcerated sore leg. Offered $100 to doctors to cure. This water cured me."

7. Rev. J. M. Whitehead: "It cures every species of indigestion; can eat anything I want, and a good appetizer."

8. James J. Ingle says: "I have suffered five years with kidneys and liver. Have used one bottle. Most wonderful medicine I ever used."

9. J. G. Lightfoot says: "My son down five years. General debility and impure blood. Doctors failed. Two bottles Mineral Water cured him."

10. John Brannan says: "I was down three years with bilious colic. Spent $150 for medical treatment; grew worse; one and a half gallons. This water cured me."

11. Martin Eady says: "My eye was about out from gun cap in it. The two bottles of Mineral Water made a complete cure of my eyes."

12. George Green says: "I have been suffering fifteen or twenty years with chronic diarrhœa. The Matchless Mineral Water cured me."

13. W. J. Gardner says: "For seven or eight years I was victim of nervous dyspepsia and all its horrors. One quart Mineral Water cured me. Spent thousands of dollars for medical treatment. Would not go back for $10,000."

14. J. B. Brown says: "My only child, three years old, sick two years. Spent much for medical treatment. Child given up to die. Mineral Water cured him. I would not take $1,000 for benefits of that bottle of Mineral Water."

16. Mrs. Eliza Austin, Caddo parish, La., says: "The water is curing everything it is used for. Deaf, blind, lame, halt. I believe it will cure anything curable. One says, 'It's worth to me $500;' another: 'It is worth to me one thousand dollars.' 'It is worth its weight in gold.' I wish I could tell half the good it has done."

16. Mr. J. A. Davis, Bonham, Texas, says: "My horse was as sick with colic as any horse I ever saw. One pint of water cured him in five minutes."

Price: Per bottle, 25c, 50c, and $1.

Address

C. M. FUSH,
106 Camp Street,
NEW ORLEANS, - - - LA.
Send stamp for circular.

READ THIS.

Board and Lodging by Day, Week or Month.

Regular meals, 25 cents. Lodging, 25 to 50 cents.

I endeavor to make my place home-like and comfortable. Give me a call.

MRS. BRAKEL,
No. 535 Chartres St., near Northeastern Depot.

GRENADA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

Is Devoted to the Education of Girls and Young Ladies.

FALL TERM OPENS SEPTEMBER 5TH, 1893.

The Institute affords the very best advantages for culture in Vocal and Instrumental Music; in Art, Drawing, Painting, etc.; and in all the branches of collegiate study—English, Latin, French and German. The teachers are experienced and competent. The Boarding Department is home-like and comfortable. The health is fine. The expenses are moderate. For catalogue address Rev. Thos. J. Newell, A. M., Pres.,
Grenada, Miss.

Tulane University Scholarships.

TULANE UNIVERSITY, New Orleans, for the purpose of encouraging post-graduate studies, offers fifteen scholarships to the graduates of its own and other colleges. The appointments are made for merit, and entitle the holder to free tuition and an honorarium of one hundred and fifty dollars.

For further particulars address the Secretary of Tulane University, New Orleans, Louisiana.

Cincinnati Conservatory of Music,

MISS CLARA BAUR, Directress.

Thorough musical education after the methods of foremost European conservatories. The Conservatory will as usual be open during the entire Summer, and students can, as during the school year, enter at any time.

Branches taught: Vocal culture, the Pianoforte, Organ, Harp, Violin, and all other Orchestral Instruments; also Guitar, Mandolin and Banjo; Elocution, Delsarte, Modern Languages, English Literature and Art.

Young ladies from a distance can board in the Conservatory building, where they pursue their studies under the supervision of the Directress. For Catalogue address in full,

MISS CLARA BAUR,
Conservatory of Music, 4th and Lawrence,
Cincinnati, O.

State Normal School,

NATCHITOCHES, LA.

Reopens Oct. 2, 1893. Both sexes admitted. Attendance last session, 293. Faculty of twelve instructors. Unsurpassed in beauty and healthfulness of location, thoroughness of instruction, and perfection of discipline. Diploma entitles holder to first-grade teacher's certificate without examination.

Tuition free. Total expense need not exceed $110 per annum.

For catalogue address

THOS. D. BOYD, A. M.,
President.

Opelousas Female Institute.

Opelousas, St. Landry Ph., La.

A practical, non-sectarian Institution, founded in 1871. Discipline firm, but kind, and based on sound principles. Honor and self-respect promoted. Thorough training and culture. Curriculum revised, and prepared for university or practical life. Diplomas are conferred. Buildings are comfortable and commodious. Unrivalled health record.

Twenty-third session begins Sept. 11, 1893.

For Catalogue and further particulars apply to the Principal or Vice-Principal,

J. F. ARMENTROUT, B.A. (Univ. of Va.),
Principal.

MRS. M. M. HAYES, Vice-Principal.
MISS LEOLA B. WHITE, First Assistant

WHITWORTH FEMALE COLLEGE AND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC AND ART,

BROOKHAVEN, MISS.

The 33rd Annual Session begins Sept. 18, 1893. The prestige of a long and phenomenally successful career—the reputation it has always enjoyed of thorough, honest work—its commodious buildings, heated by steam—its ample grounds—its wonderful health record—and the magnificent facilities it furnishes in the departments of Literature, Science, Art, Elocution and Music all combine to put this institution in the very front rank of the best Female Colleges of the South.

For further information and for Catalogues, apply to

L. T. FITZHUGH, A. M., President.

Memphis Conference Female Institute —AND— Conservatory of Music,

Jackson, Tenn.

A HIGH GRADE COLLEGE FOR GIRLS AND YOUNG LADIES.

A METHODIST SCHOOL FOR METHODIST GIRLS.

Faculty Large and Course of Study Exclusive.
Teacher of Elocution Trained in the Emerson School of Oratory.
Thoroughly Equipped Gymnasium.
Conservatory of Music and Art.
Water throughout Buildings.
Lighted with Gas and Electricity.
Library of Over 6,000 Volumes.
Twenty-three Pianos.

The city of Jackson is noted for its culture and healthfulness. Thirty bored wells furnish a water supply which chemical experts pronounce as pure as that from the famous Eureka Springs in Arkansas.

A fine opportunity is here provided to secure health while acquiring an education.

For catalogue and other information write the president,

Rev. Howard W. Key, A.M., Ph.D.

SCIENCE HILL, — SHELBYVILLE, KY.

AN ENGLISH AND CLASSICAL SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

Our Certificates admit to Wellesley without examination.

W. T. POYNTER.

Alabama Conference Female College.

Organized in 1856. Average annual patronage for four years past, over 200. Twenty-two professional Officers, Teachers and Lecturers. Five Literary Curriculum extending through four years. Music taught on Conservatory methods by three able and brilliant Musicians. Art taught by a celebrated teacher of four years' European study. Scientific and Literary lectures by the Professors of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Location high; health record phenomenal; not a case of serious sickness during the past year.

For catalogue containing full statement address JOHN MASSEY, President, Tuskegee, Ala.

VIRGINIA COLLEGE

FOR YOUNG LADIES. ROANOKE, VIRGINIA.

Opens Sept. 14th, 1893. New buildings with all modern improvements, among the finest in the South. New Pianos and furniture. Campus of ten acres; magnificent mountain scenery; in the Valley of Virginia, far famed for health. European and American teachers. Degrees of B.S., B.A., and M.A. conferred. Unsurpassed advantages in Music and Art. One of the most attractive and beautiful College homes for Young Ladies in the South. For Catalogue, address W. A. HARRIS, D.D., President, Roanoke, Virginia.

Nashville College for Young Ladies.

Privilege of Lectures, Museum, Apparatus, in Vanderbilt University. Three large Buildings. Faculty of 40, pupils average over 400 for four years past. Music, Art, Calisthenics, Health, Accessibility. Fully Equipped Gymnasium. Address Rev. Geo. W. F. Price, D.D., Prest., Nashville, Tenn.

EMORY COLLEGE

OXFORD, GA. Forty Miles East of Atlanta. Location Proverbially Healthy; No Saloons.

57th Session opens Sept. 20th, 1893, closes June 13, 1894. Endowment recently increased $100,000 and equipment greatly improved. Total expenses within $225. For full information, address

W. A. CANDLER, D. D., PRESIDENT.

SOUTHERN FEMALE COLLEGE

PETERSBURG, VA.

Historic Home School in point of Climate. Unsurpassed courses in Literature, Language, Science. Conservatory advantages in Music and Art. All modern improvements. 31st session. Terms low. Send for catalogue to ARTHUR K. DAVIS, A. M., Pres't, Petersburg, Va.

Clinton Female Academy.

(Chartered in 1832)

WILL OPEN MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1893.

Course thorough. Charges lower than offered by any school of its grade in the South.

CHARGES PER MONTH.

Tuition per month	$2 00 to $3 00
Music " "	3 00
Use of Piano per Month	1 00
Painting in Oil " "	3 00
Drawing " "	1 00
Latin, French and Book-keeping, each per month	1 00
Incidental Expenses per Session	50

Board, Tuition, Washing, Fuel and Lights, $12 per Month. $120 per the Session of Ten Months. For particulars address the Principal,

Mrs. S. E. MUNDAY, Clinton, La.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT Tulane University of Louisiana.

Its advantages for practical instruction, both in ample laboratories and abundant hospital materials, are unequaled. Free access is given to the great Charity Hospital with 700 beds and 20,000 patients annually. Special instruction is given daily AT THE BEDSIDE OF THE SICK. The next session begins October 19th, 1893. For catalogue and information address

PROF. S. E. CHAILLE, M. D., DEAN,
P. O. Drawer 261. NEW ORLEANS, LA.

McTyeire Institute,

McKENZIE, TENN.

Prepares students for Vanderbilt and such institutions.

Expenses for five months, $72.50 to $82.50.

Students completing our course enter Vanderbilt without examination.

Next session begins August 31.

For circulars or information address

J. H. HARRISON, Prin.,
McKenzie, Tenn.

WASHINGTON & LEE UNIVERSITY, Lexington, Virginia.

Academic; Law; Engineering. Opens Sept. 14. For catalogue address

G. W. C. LEE, President.

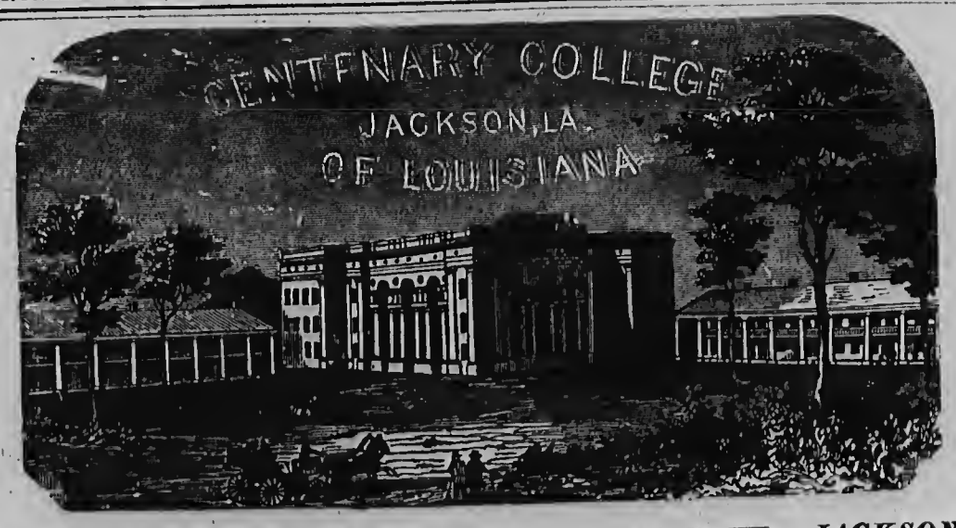
—A—

Washington and Lee College SCHOLARSHIP

FOR SALE CHEAP.

Apply at

Werlein's Music Store,
135 Canal Street.



CENTENARY COLLEGE, JACKSON, LA.

Jackson, La., is near Ethel, on the Valley R. R., 113 miles north of New Orleans. The location is beautiful, and healthful, the buildings are elegant and ample, and the Faculty is complete and able. The sale of intoxicating drinks is forbidden by law within five miles of the College. Its endowment fund is being rapidly increased, and the college has entered upon a new career of prosperity.

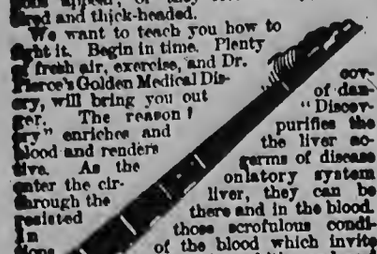
Special attention will be given to the health, morals and biblical instruction of the students.

For terms, Catalogue, or other information apply to Prof. G. H. Wiley, Jackson, La., or to

W. L. C. HUNNICUTT, PRESIDENT.

A LONG TRAIN

of diseases follows bad blood and inactive liver. Every one knows when their blood is impure and liver sluggish; pimples and boils appear, or they feel drowsy, weak, tired and thick-headed.



We want to teach you how to fight it. Begin in time. Plenty of fresh air, exercise, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, will bring you out of danger. The reason? "Discovery" purifies the blood and renders the liver active. As the germs of disease enter the circulatory system through the liver, they can be resisted there and in the blood. In those scrofulous conditions of the blood which invite catarrh, bronchitis, and end in Consumption, you have the means of prevention and cure. You can save yourself from Grip, Malaria, or Fever by putting all the functions of the body in a healthy state, besides building up healthy flesh, by taking the "Discovery." Better than all the emulsions of Cod liver oil which put on fat, but not wholesome flesh. G. M. D. is guaranteed to benefit or cure all blood disorders, or money refunded.

HENRY P. DART,

Attorney-at-Law,

49 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

WIDOW HOOD'S LODGING HOUSE,

No, 19 ST. CHARLES ST.

I wish to announce to the public that I have renovated and refitted my house, and solicit the patronage of the traveling public. Open all night. Beds can be had for 25 and 50 cents. I especially solicit the patronage of Christian people visiting the city.

WIDOW A. A. HOOD.

NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

Founded by Dr. Eben Tourjee. CARL FAELTEN, Director.

The Leading Conservatory of America.

In addition to its unequalled musical advantages, exceptional opportunities are also provided for the study of Elocution, the Fine Arts, and Modern Languages. The admirably equipped Home affords a safe and inviting residence for lady students. Calendar Free.

FRANK W. HALE, General Manager, Franklin Square, Boston, Mass.

Huntsville Female -:- College.

HUNTSVILLE, ALABAMA.

Forty-fourth Session begins Wednesday, September 6, 1893. Healthy, well-furnished; twenty Officers and Teachers. All departments of Female Education thoroughly taught; Music, Art, Languages, Sciences, Literature and Commercial Course. A Christian home for pupils. Charges reasonable. For Catalogues, etc., apply to

Rev. A. B. JONES, President.

Mississippi Industrial Institute and College.

BUREAU OF EDUCATION.

Persons desiring to employ competent teachers, or young women qualified to do good work as dress makers, telegraphers, type writers and book keepers, are invited to correspond with this Bureau. No charge for services.

Apply to MISS S. C. McLAURIN, I. I. and C., Columbus, Miss.

WESLEYAN FEMALE COLLEGE, MACON, GA.

Annual Session begins September 20th, 1893. Best advantages in Literature, Music and Art. For safety, health and domestic comfort, there is no better home for girls. Apply for Catalogue to

REV. W. C. BASS, PRES.

CARPETS!

Don't have your carpets half cleaned; all know how impossible it is to clean carpets by hand.

All dust thoroughly taken out by steam.

Feathers purged of all impurities.

44 St. Peter Street.

$21 PAID WEEKLY

To active, faithful men and women, boys and girls, working for us taking orders for THE ILLUSTRATED WORLD'S FAIR, edited by John McGovern, the Prince of the Literary West. 25c. a month, or $2.50 a year. Entire Series, from July, 1891, to January, 1894, 30 monthly issues, only $6.00. Sells at sight. Most beautiful, interesting and popular, and the only publication receiving official recognition. THE ORGAN OF THE FAIR. Chicago Inter Ocean says: "It is a handsomely prepared and valuable publication, to which many celebrities are contributors." Send 15c. (stamps) for full particulars and sample copy containing fifty large rich engravings of the PRINCIPAL ATTRACTIONS of the World's Fair. Address.

THE NATIONAL BOOK CONCERN, 134 VAN BUREN ST., CHICAGO, ILL

AGENTS WANTED ON SALARY or commission, to handle the new Patent Chemical Ink Erasing Pencil. The quickest and greatest selling novelty ever produced. Erases ink thoroughly in two seconds. No abrasion of paper. Works like magic. 200 to 500 per cent. profit. One Agent's sales amounted to $820 in six days. Another $32 in two hours. Previous experience not necessary. For terms and full particulars, address, The Monroe Eraser Mf'g Co., La Crosse, Wis. X 376.

HOPKINS' PRINTING OFFICE,

20 Commercial Place,

John P. Hopkins. New Orleans

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

HOME CIRCLE.

AN OLD FOGY.

BY S. W. FOSS.

I sit upon my ox team, calm,
Beneath the lazy sky,
And crawl contented through the land
And let the world go by.
The thoughtful ox has learned to wait
And nervous impulse smother,
And ponder long before he puts
One foot before the other.

And men with spanking teams pass by
And dash upon their way,
As if it were their hope to find
The world's end in a day.
And men dash by in palace cars,
On me dark frowns they cast,
As the lightning-driven Present frowns
Upon the slow old Past.

What do they chase, these men of steam,
Their smoke-flags white unfurled,
Pulled by the roaring fire-fiend
That shakes the reeling world?
What do you seek, ye men of steam,
So wild and mad you press?
Is this, is this the railroad line
That leads to happiness?

And when you've swept across the day
And dashed across the night,
Is there some station through the hills
Where men can find delight?
Ah, toward the Depot of Content,
Where no red signals stream,
I go by ox team just as quick
As you can go by steam.

—Yankee Blade.

Testing Consecration.

A good illustration of entire consecration is that of tapping the car wheels. Many a time, as I have been traveling on a sleeping car, I have been awakened in the night by the hammer of the wheel tester. At some principal station, where the engines are exchanged, a man will pass along the train with a flaming torch in one hand and a hammer in the other; with the light he first examines the wheels and axles under the cars, then with the hammer gives a sharp rap on the wheels. If there is a single crack, ever so small in a wheel, it will be indicated by the defective ring. That crack in a single wheel will stop the progress of that coach, it must be sent to the shop for repairs; and when every wheel gives a clear ring it can be sent on its journey at express speed. So in seasons of revival, at camp meetings or conventions, or with many a soul in retired life, God comes to examine the inner wheels of our mortal being. With the torch of his Spirit he searches underneath, in the recesses of our hearts, the axle-tree of our will, the wheels of our motives and propensities, and with the hammer of his Word he taps on every wheel. If there be a defect in our consecration it will be indicated by a crack in some wheel which will fail to ring our clearly, "Thy will be done." This will stop the progress of the soul, the great Master Mechanic will order us into the repair shop of grace, and when every wheel in us responds affirmatively to the stroke of his Word we are then sent on our journey to the celestial city on schedule time.

Some may ask, "How can I know when my consecration is entire?" The best answer is, "You will know it." There is a tremendous inner sense of giving up, of letting go, of getting through with your trying, of cutting the last shore line. There is an inward feeling that you have rolled yourself over on the Lord, and instead of trying to give up, you find yourself looking for something more to yield, and wondering at the littleness of what you have given. At the point where consecration is entire, perfect trust is spontaneous, easy, and natural.—Rev. G. D Watson.

The man who is climbing the Alps has but to follow his guide and set his foot in the right spot before him. This is the way you and I must let Christ lead, and have him so close to us also that it will be but a short way to behold him. Sometimes young Christians say to me, "I am afraid to make a public profession of Christ; I may not hold out." They have nothing to do with holding out, it is simply their duty to hold on.—Theodore L. Cuyler, D. D.

A Scotch Doctor.

A hot-headed, warm-hearted physician was Dr. Dougal, who practiced in Scotland in the latter part of the eighteenth century. He was of a contradictory nature, and would not allow the unlearned to express an opinion in regard to their own state of health.

One day a man, in a agony of pain, came into his drug shop and asked to have his tooth drawn.

"Man, you're no needing a tooth drawn," said the doctor. "Gae awa' hame and pit a poultice to it."

An argument ensued, during which the sufferer, driven to desperation, cried out:

"I dinna suppose ye can draw teeth!"

At this the doctor seized his forceps and jumped over the counter. "I'll draw every tooth in your heid!" he shouted, and started in pursuit of his patient, who rushed through the market square of Keith vainly shrieking for aid.

He was finally outrun by the doctor, who got him down on his back and triumphantly took out two of his teeth on the spot.

The remarks of the doctor were always short and sharp, and yet they contained a deal of homely wisdom.

"I've a deal to suffer with my een, doctor," said a patient.

"Better suffer with them than without them!" replied the doctor.

"Sic an awfu' heid as I've got, doctor!" said another. "Can ye do naething for't?"

"Weel, weel, lassie," said he, "it's nae muckle o' a heid, but ye'll hae to be doing wi't, for it's just a' ye hae for't ye ken."—N. W. Christian Advocate.

Lunatics Do Not Shed Tears.

One of the most curious facts connected with madness is the utter absence of tears amid the insane. Whatever the form of the madness, tears are conspicuous by their absence, as much in the depression of melancholy or excitement of mania as in the utter apathy of dementia.

If a patient in a lunatic asylum be discovered in tears, it will be found that it is one beginning to recover or an emotional outbreak in an epileptic who is scarcely truly insane; while actual insane persons appear to have lost the power of weeping, it is only returning reason which can once more unloose the fountains of their tears.

Even when a lunatic is telling one in fervid language how she had been deprived of her children, or the outrages that have been perpetrated on herself, her eye is never even moist. The ready gush of tears which accompanies the plaint of the sane woman contrasts strangely with the dry-eyed appeal of the talkative lunatic. It would indeed seem that tears give relief to feelings which, when pent up, lead to madness. It is one of the privileges of reason to be able to weep. Amid all the misery of the insane they find no relief in tears.—Exchange.

Obstacles.

As a diamond when turned about shines brightly forth with new beauties and lights before hidden, so a truth turned around brings out new virtues, and gives added forces to the man who perceives it.

"We acquire the strength of the obstacles we overcome." When we overcome them we acquire their strength. If we allow them to overcome us, they take away ours. Therefore our mission, our destiny, is to overcome them.

So obstacles were not intended to stop us, to make us give up or faint or turn back. Ah, no! They were meant solely for us to overcome, and the power to do it waits only upon our will.

Seen in this light, the obstacle which seemed formidable to me yesterday possesses no terrors to-day. "You are nothing but a thing for me to overcome," cries my will, and its shout of triumph is but the forerunner of its victory.—Harper's Bazar.

OUR YOUNG PEOPLE.

A SONG OF YOUTH.

BY HORATIUS BONAR, D. D.

Early seeking, early finding,
Happy, happy, we!
Looking up in life's sweet morning,
Looking up to thee!
We begin our children's days,
Lord of glory, with thy praise.

Early asking, early getting,
Happy, happy, we!
We would daily, blessed Jesus,
Find our all in thee.
In thy fullness is the store
Of the life for evermore.

Early knocking, early opening,
Happy, happy, we!
By the holy gate we enter,
Lord, to dwell with thee,
In the city of the blest,
In the home of heavenly rest.

Early loving, early trusting,
Happy, happy, we!
Looking upward, pressing onward,
Day by day to thee!
Leaving this poor world behind,
All, in thee, O Christ, to find!

A Night with Christ.

Fergus would have given all he possessed to have had that said of him—but he had lost the opportunity! Night settled down in darkness and stillness that could be felt, over that lonely isle in the sea. Fergus slept, for a while, the sleep of the weary, on the lowly pallet; and Jessie looked like a picture of the "Sleeping Beauty," on the rude bench, with the golden glow of the dying embers falling on her face.

Every now and then they would both be startled by the voice of one in the loft, who seemed never to be sleeping: "I was an hungered, and ye gave me meat; I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink; I was a stranger, and ye took me in; naked, and ye clothed me; I was sick, and ye visited me; I was in prison, and ye came unto me." "Verily I say unto you, inasmuch as ye ha' done it unto one o' the least o' these, ye ha' done it unto me." "Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy." "Whosoever shall give ye a cup o' water to drink in my name, shall na lose his reward."

"We're ha'in' a night wi' Christ, faither," whispered Jessie, as she heard the strong shepherd sighing and turning restlessly on his hard pallet. "I canna sleep while sic a guest is in the poor hut!"

The next evening the "blae'-berry laddies" came and took away their poor neighbor. Fergus and Jessie accompanied her to the shore, the former bearing her sack of wool on his shoulder, and saying, as he grasped her hand at parting, "I'll speak to the laird o' this matter, and mak' it a' right for ye to come again. The lovin' Master go wi' ye."

When "the grazing" was over on the island, and Fergus and Jessie returned, they were met, on entering the cottage, by this strange salute from the wife and mother: "Welcome hame! but what has coom o'er ye baith? Ye look like new creatur's, there's sic a shine on yer faces and sic a glad light in yer eyes!"

Fergus made no reply, but Jessie said, "Oh, mither, dear, we've been where the Lord was, and he suffered us to minister to ane o' his little ones, and so to minister to himsel'. We had a whole night wi' Christ."

And from that hour Fergus Macdonald talked in a new spirit, and was filled with gentleness, forbearance, and love towards all men.—Christian Age.

We were once amused and impressed with a reply we heard Sam Jones make to a butcher, who said to him: "Bro. Jones, what do you think of this sanctification movement?" Jones said, "Well, now, let me tell you, wherever I find sanctification I find agitation, and agitation means salvation. But where there is no sanctification there is almost sure to be stagnation, and stagnation is the last station on the road to damnation. You may get off of the train at stagnation station and jump the rest of the way to perdition."—Kentucky Methodist.

A little girl had sent back her plate for turkey two or three times and had been helped bountifully to all the other good things that go to make a grand dinner. Finally she was observed looking rather disconsolately at her unfinished dish of plum pudding.

"What's the matter, Ethel?" asked Uncle John; "you look mournful."

"That's the trouble," said Ethel; "I'm more'n full."

And then she wondered why everybody laughed.—The Interior.

BRINGING HOME THE COWS.

BY CHAS. G. D. ROBERTS.

When potatoes were in blossom,
When the new hay filled the mows,
Sweet the paths we trod together,
Bringing home the cows.

What a purple kissed the pasture,
Kissed and blessed the alder boughs,
As we wandered slow at sundown,
Bringing home the cows!

How the far-off hills were gilded
With the light that dream allows,
As we built our hopes beyond them,
Bringing home the cows!

How our eyes were thronged with visions,
What a meaning wreathed our brows,
As we watched the orange and lingered,
Bringing home the cows!

Past the years and through the distance
Throbs the memory of our vows.
O, that we again were children,
Bringing home the cows!

—Lippincott's.

Nettie's Mistake.

"That child really must be vaccinated this week or she can not go to school," mama said; and Nettie on the veranda outside of the open window listened eagerly.

"Yes, I will call and tell the doctor to come up at once," answered papa, as he went out.

"Vaccinated! That's something awful, for Nellie White told me her arm almost ached itself off. And 'that child' means me. Well, what if I'm not at home when the doctor comes?" mused Nettie, guiltily.

She watched the road to the village, and soon saw a buggy coming.

It was the doctor's she was sure, and soon the veranda was empty, and a hurried child was running across the fields toward the woods which skirted the pond.

What a hunt there was for Nettie when the buggy stopped before the gate! But she was not to be found.

It was more than two hours before she appeared, and, as soon as she was within doors, another buggy stopped before the house.

"The doctor! I'm very glad, for I was afraid he wouldn't come, and you can not go to school until you are vaccinated," said mama.

Nettie was silent.

She did not speak until the doctor had gone. Then she said slowly, with a deep flush upon her face:

"I thought the doctor was here a long while ago, mama."

"Oh, no; Uncle Will came for you to ride out with him, but we could not find you," answered mama, and there was a roguish gleam in her eyes. Did she know?

"O-h-h-h!" cried the dismayed Nettie; "Uncle Will's rides are just splendid. O mama, I ran away and got lost in the woods, and almost fell into the pond. I missed that nice time, when vaccinating don't hurt a bit. Oh, dear me!"

"Remember it, deary," said mama, significantly. "Never run away from a duty, no matter how hard it seems, for it sometimes brings an unexpected reward."

"I guess you are right, mama," smiled Nettie with tears in her eyes.—Our Little Ones.

A Secret for Boys and Girls.

As soon as you see this, without waiting a moment, and without saying much about it to any one, look about you, and see if you can find something to do for somebody else. To your surprise you will probably have a chance inside of two minutes. No matter what it is, or how trifling or unpleasant it may be, do it. Keep this up until bedtime, and you will find that you have had the pleasantest day of your life.—Christian Advocate.

A FOUR-FOOTED ELECTRICIAN.—The underground system of electric wires in London owes much of its success to "Strip, the electrician." Strip is not a man, but a tiny fox terrier, who has been trained to crawl through the street conduits, dragging a wire, the end of which is attached to her collar. She has done an immense amount of work that could not have been accomplished as well by any other agency.—Exchange.

The other day the Pall Mall Gazette gave some amusing blunders in cataloguing, but indexing can furnishing odd entries. An instance is now given from a volume of "Law Reports:" "The lord chief-justice, his great mind." Turning to the page indicated is this: "The lord chief justice said he had a great mind to commit the prisoner for contempt of court." Only that—and nothing more!

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder.

The only Pure Cream of Tartar Powder.—No Ammonia; No Alum.

in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard.

The plague of lamps is the breaking of chimneys; but that can be avoided. Get Macbeth's "pearl top" or "pearl glass."

The funnel-shaped tops are beaded or "pearled"—a trade mark.

Cylinder tops are etched in the glass "MACBETH & CO. PEARL GLASS."—another trade-mark.

Pittsburgh. GEO. A. MACBETH CO.

NEW Leather has great charm—keep it new with Vacuum Leather Oil; 25c, and your money back if you want it.

Patent lambskin-with-wool-on swob and book—How to Take Care of Leather—both free at the store.

Vacuum Oil Company, Rochester, N. Y.

Dr. King's Royal Germetuer

Is a unique, peerless preparation, which embodies the best and latest fruits of medical research, and differs radically from ordinary medicines in a number of particulars. Here are three of them:

1. It is as pleasant to take as lemonade.
2. It is harmless always—may be safely given to a babe one day old.
3. IT CURES WHEN ALL ELSE FAILS.

REV. SAM P. JONES SAYS:

"My wife, who was an invalid from nervous sick headache, has been entirely cured by six weeks' use of Dr. King's Royal Germetuer. Her health is perfect. In three weeks two of my children were cured completely of nasal catarrh. IT IS TRULY A GREAT REMEDY."

GENERAL LONGSTREET SAYS:

"I have suffered for months past from insomnia and indigestion, and failing of relief, was induced by a friend to try Dr. King's Royal Germetuer. I am now relieved, and I hope permanently so."

TESTED AND PROVED FOR YEARS.

TERRY, MISS., April 21, 1893.

We have been using Dr. King's Royal Germetuer for several years in our family, and have recommended it to many others. It has always done what is claimed for it, as far as tried, and I regard it as the best medicine we have ever had in our family.

MRS. J. J. HALBERT.

This great remedy presents an array of testimonials absolutely without a parallel in the history of medicines either as to character or number. These statements show that it cures Nervous Disorder, Stomach Troubles, Bowel Derangement in old or young, whether recent or chronic, Kidney and Bladder Troubles, Debility.

Give it a fair trial, and you will be convinced. $1 per bottle, 6 for $5.

Whether quaffed from a vessel of tin, glass or gold; There's nothing so good for the young or the old—as

Hires' Root Beer

A delicious, health-giving, thirst-satisfying beverage. A temperance drink for temperance people.

A 25c. package makes 5 gallons.

Sold and Enjoyed Everywhere.

INTERNATIONAL BIBLES.

Largest Type Teacher's Bible in the World.

We have for years been trying to get a large type Teacher's Bible which was not too large and heavy. We have it in this series. Besides this feature, the helps are entirely new, and were written by the greatest scholars of both America and Europe, which guarantees their superiority over all others. Everyone who is familiar with the Oxford and Bagster Teacher's Bibles knows that the book printed in Minion type makes the most desirable sized volume, but the Minion type is too small for any but the best eyes; and while their books in Bourgeois type suit the eyes, they are entirely too large and heavy for convenient handling. This International Series overcomes both these faults by having the Bourgeois type book no larger or heavier than the much smaller type (Minion) Oxford and Bagster books, while the prices are much less than for books of corresponding type in any other series, and the bindings are not only similar in design, but equal in every particular to the older Teacher's Bibles; and some of these bindings are finer than those of any other Teacher's Bibles we have ever seen.

We are specially glad to be able to say that the prices of these Bibles are in many cases much cheaper than the Oxford or Bagster Books, while they are altogether equally well made and have the newest and best helps and Maps. We claim for these new Teacher's Bibles that they give

The Largest Type in the Smallest Book.
The Newest and Best Helps.
The Newest Maps, Which Were Made Especially for This Series.
Bindings Unsurpassed.
Smaller Prices Than Any Other Series.

We confidently assure our patrons that in the INTERNATIONAL TEACHER'S BIBLE SERIES we have the very BEST line of Teacher's Bibles ever offered.

Write us for a Descriptive Catalogue showing size of type, size of books, etc.

Address

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp Street, - New Orleans, La.

PATENTS THOMAS P. SIMPSON, Washington, D. C. No atty's fee until Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS 25 CTS

FROM THE WORK.

Continued from First Page.

Molly Ford, Haughton, La.: "I have become so delighted with your paper I will say a few words to you about our trust in Christ. We say we love him and serve him, but do we do this with a pure heart? No, our hearts are full of evil thoughts, without his pure love. Let us love him more and serve him better. Let us bow in secret prayer day after day, and ask him for a pure heart. He will do this if we will only trust him. We say we do all of this; but how can we when we have not interest enough to pray to him every day? If our hearts are full of his holy love, we will not fail to pray to him daily."

Rev. A. D. Miller, Oak Ridge, Miss., July 31: "We have just closed a glorious revival at Bradley Chapel, Warren circuit, Mississippi Conference. The meeting lasted seven days, and the church was wonderfully stirred. Several conversions and twenty-eight accessions. We had a good meeting. I was assisted by my cousin, Rev. T. J. Miller, of Chapman P. O., Rankin county, Miss., and I will say now, any one wanting good, faithful and successful work in a meeting will do well to secure his services. We are now engaged in a meeting at Flower Hill. Good prospects. Many at the altar, and three accessions to date. We hope and pray for a gracious revival. Pray for us."

Rev. J. H. Evans, Williamsburg, Miss., July 14: "My first protracted meeting was held at Bethel Church, commencing July 8, and continued until July 13, which resulted in great good; fourteen conversions and twelve accessions to the church—eleven on profession of faith and one by letter—and the church graciously revived. We were assisted by Rev. G. W. Brown and E. J. Taylor, local. Bro. Brown did the most of the preaching, and he did his work well. Bro. Taylor preached but one time, but it was a feast to all present. We are thanking to the brothers for their help, but we give God the glory. We baptized nine children at the Winsburg Church on the first Sunday in this month. We are rounding the corners of our four years' service, and praying the God of heaven to bless our efforts. Pray for us."

Rev. G. D. Anders, East Felioiana circuit, Mississippi Conference: "We have just closed one of the finest revivals at Olive Branch that I ever witnessed. Every service from beginning to end was a grand success. We had fifteen accessions and some very bright conversions. All agree that the meeting was the best that they have had for ten years. Bros. W. E. Linfield, Dr. J. B. Whittington and R. W. Tucker assisted me in the meeting. They came to me in first-class condition, and the Lord gave each of them souls for their hire. The prospects for a sweeping revival are flattering. Our camp ground is ten miles southeast of Clinton, La., and our meeting will begin on Friday before the third Sunday in August. Bro. Joe Jones will be with us the entire meeting. All ministers are invited, and will be cared for free of charge."

Rev. George Jackson, P. C., Nugent, La., July 12: "Since I took charge of this (Nugent) circuit I have been well satisfied and very successful in all my undertakings, especially so at Nugent, and before many weeks elapse I hope to have a neat church-building erected. Mr. J. Monroe Nugent donated one-half an acre of land, and the firm of Nugent, Hardtner & Co., Limited, through the instrumentality of their junior member, Mr. Henry E. Hardtner, donated all the lumber necessary for the building of same. A subscription list has been started, and a neat little sum already subscribed. I have four appointments on the work. My congregations average from 30 to 150. I am well pleased with the work and am delighted with the people. We have made no effort yet at protracted meeting, but expect to commence on Saturday morning, Aug. 5. My health is good. I have not been so well for years. I took charge of the work in February; preached my first sermon the fourth Sunday in February. I have preached fifty-two sermons up to this time. I have organized one Sabbath-school on the Methodist plan. As soon as I get my church built at Nugent's I shall organize there. We expect to have it ready by the fourth Sunday in September. I have organized a W. C. T. U. at Pollock's. I am working and praying for a great revival and the salvation of souls."

Rev. C. W. Perkins, Shuqualak, Miss., July 29: "I have just closed a meeting at Eudora. Sixteen conversions (not reformations) and thirteen added to our church. But the crowning service was at four o'clock, Sunday evening. Two brethren who have not spoken to each other for ten years mutually agreed to bury their differences as deep as the bottomless pit, from whence it came, never to be resurrected again, and both mutually agreed never to suffer anyone to bring up the subject to them again. Glory to God for religion! It is the only thing in the world that will settle these troubles; and if religion does not cause a person to forgive his brother his trespasses, then it is not what we need. But, thank God, it will do it! The victory is ours through our Lord Jesus Christ. Bro. N. C. Terry and his good wife rendered us good service in the meeting. I love these saintly people of God. It is such a blessing to have them with us. I know sometimes that older people feel that they are in the way; but if they only knew how much we younger ones need their advice and instruction, and what a blessing and benediction they are to us, they would not feel thus. God bless Bro. and Sister Terry! Our beloved presiding elder reached us Saturday, and held third quarterly meeting. Bro. H. C. Morehead gave us three good, strong spiritual sermons. He is a man of God and of power, and is personally interested in and attentive to his preachers. God bless him more and more in his work! I suppose from what Bro. Morehead said that our finances are about on an average with the other appointments in this district. We have a great deal of sickness here now, probably owing to the continued dry weather. The corn crop has been cut off fully half; cotton looks well. I will try to get a club of ten subscribers under your last proposition. I want to put your paper in every home, if I can, on my work. May God bless you in your new work! Amen."

THE LOWEST PLACE.

Give me the lowest place, not that I dare
Ask for that lowest place, but thou hast died,
That I might live and share
Thy glory by thy side.

Give me the lowest place; or if for me
That lowest place too high, make one more low,
Where I may sit and see
My God, and love thee so.

Sympathy for the Distressed.

Our lives are all music if we but touch the chords rightly, so says one of our poets, and we all know there is a golden thread entering into the warp and woof of every-day life that is touched by sympathy for the distressed and suffering. At such a time what a boon to have on hand Dicks' Mul-en-ol to offer as a relief for cuts, burns, bruises, sprains and colic. It is soothing and cooling. Large bottles 50 cents.

MARRIAGES.

ARMENTROUT—RICHARDSON.—At the M. E. Church, at Delhi, July 10, 1893, by Rev. H. O. White, Prof. J. T. Armentrout, principal of Opelousas Female Institute, to Miss Minnie L. Richardson, of Delhi, La.

OBITUARIES.

We publish obituaries of 200 words free of charge; for all over this, one cent per word must be sent. If you want the notice to appear in its order, comply with this rule. Count the words, and send one cent for each word over 200.

STONE—SALLIE ELENOR LOVELACE STONE. The excellent woman whose name heads this notice was the daughter of G. L. Lovelace and Elenor Harding. She was born on Sicily Island, La., July 23, 1843. In her girlhood she professed religion under the ministry of Rev. L. A. Reed, of the Louisiana Conference, and, connecting herself with the M. E. Church, South, she sustained an irreproachable Christian character to the end.

For a short time she was the welcome inmate of the writer's household, and acquaintance ripened into an intimacy which revealed the steady, unbroken current of a consecrated Christian life.

On Dec. 24, 1876, she married Rev. Joseph H. Stone, of the Louisiana Conference, taking the place of a deceased sister, who had died some five years previously. Assuming the care of two small boys and the household cares of an itinerant home, her prayerfulness and her good judgment bore her up to an almost faultless acquital of all accompanying responsibilities. Carefulness, industry, economy and an abiding faith in God kept the affairs of that home above the breakers and sustained her husband in his great work when otherwise he must have failed. Besides this consecration to the interests of her home—wherever it might chance to be—she was equally consecrated to the work of the church along such lines as women usually labor, bestowing especial interest upon the Sabbath-school.

Sister Stone's illness was of short duration, but of a painful nature; yet she murmured not nor lost consciousness even at the last moment. She was taken sick on Sunday morning, July 15, and died of congestion, Monday evening, the sixteenth, at her home at Athens, La.

The facility with which she adapted herself to the conditions existing after the war affords a demonstration of the power of grace to support one in such a transition as hers was—from affluence to poverty.

Her last words were a message to her children—one farming in Texas, and the other practicing medicine in Louisville, Ky.—to meet her in heaven, reciting the fact that all the family who had died had died in the faith. Jesus, whom he has preached, will sustain our brother.

J. A. PARKER.

PRICE—THOM. H. PRICE, son of Rev. Thomas Price and wife, Mrs. G. E. Price, of the Mississippi Conference, was born in Chinton, La., Aug. 31, 1846, and died at Lake Charles, La., July 15, 1893, of typhoid-pneumonia.

He was at a very early age the subject of religious impressions, and was converted and joined the M. E. Church, South, and lived a consistent Christian to the time of his call to come up higher. He was married to Miss Ada Wheelis, Dec. 22, 1870. Seven intelligent children and the devoted wife are left for a short while, but not without strong hope and consoling assurance of meeting again.

Bro. Price was noted for his purity of heart. He loved his family as no one but a Christian can love, and has left them a bequest far more valuable than silver and gold. His purity of character and spotless life is a legacy invaluable. He was ready when the message came. A good fight had been fought and the faith kept, and to him a crown of life was given. He endeavored to join his pastor in singing a song of Zion only a few hours before he left us. We expect to meet again. May the God of all grace bless and comfort the family!

H. W. MAY.

HARVEY—Mrs. MARTHA ISORA HARVEY, youngest daughter of Col. Samuel Wells, was born in Franklin county, Miss., Nov. 11, 1832; died at Rolling Fork, Miss., July 29, 1893. Her parents moved to this section of the Delta in her childhood. She married E. Jones Harvey, Nov. 13, 1851, and joined the Methodist Church the next year.

Her life was full of trouble, but her trust was in God. The mother of eight children, she saw them one by one depart this life till only two remained, who now mourn her departure. She was left a widow in 1876. One of her severest afflictions was the death of her only son at the age of twenty-one. God was with her in the midst of her afflictions, and she was never known to murmur. Her death was unexpected to her family. But only a few days before the summons came she seemed to feel that her life was near its close, and remarked she was ready to go. Her trials are over and she is at rest. May God comfort the two daughters left behind, with the sorrowing loved ones!

W. H. LAWIS.

HARRIS—Mrs. BETTIE CHILDS HARRIS, daughter of Jas. M. and Sarah Childs, was born in Terry, Hinds county, Miss., April 17, 1856. Her parents being Christians, she was early led to Christ. She was happily married to Dr. Henry H. Harris, of Hinds county, Miss., Feb. 15, 1877, and remained in same State until January, 1893, when she, together with her husband and family, moved to Acadia parish, La., and located near Crowley, where, after ten days' suffering from a complication of diseases, she died suddenly from heart failure, July 5, 1893.

She was the mother of four children, two of whom preceded her to the better land. She leaves a devoted husband, two little girls and many relatives and friends to mourn her loss, to whom we commend the God she served.

W. J. PORTER.

I, A. C. Hafledinger, do say consumption can be cured by Dr. Davis' Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar. My mother, years ago, contracting a terrible cough soon became unable to attend to her household duties. Prominent physicians pronounced it incurable consumption. We knew of Dr. Davis' Wild Cherry and Tar, and commenced giving it to her. Before two bottles had been taken an improvement was noticed, and by the time one dozen bottles had been consumed she was well, and has never been troubled since. We have recommended it to many and always have it in the house. For coughs, colds, croup, whooping-cough, asthma, bronchitis, it is without a rival. One dollar bottles hold two and a half times as much as 50c. bottles.

The furrow which time is even now turning runs through the everlasting, and in that must we plant, or nowhere.—Lowell.

An Only Daughter Cured of Consumption

When death was hourly expected from Consumption, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H James was experimenting, he accidentally made a preparation of Indian Hemp, which cured his only child, and now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. Hemp also cures night sweats, nausea at the stomach, and will break a fresh cold in twenty-four hours. Address Craddock & Co., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa., naming this paper.

No mineral water will produce the beneficial results that follow taking ONE or more of "BEECHAM'S PILLS" with a glass of water immediately upon arising in the morning.

Painless. Effectual. Covered with a tasteless, soluble coating.
"Worth a guinea a box."—Price only 25 cents.
Of all druggists, or a box will be mailed on receipt of 25cts. in stamps by D. F. Allen Co., 365 Canal St., New York. 27

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR
The Celebrated
CHOCOLAT MENIER
Annual Sales Exceed 33 MILLION Lbs.
Write for Samples. Sent Free. Menier, Union Sq., N. Y.

Marble, Slate and Hardwood Mantels.
TILES for Fire-places and Floors. GRATES of all kinds.
SLATE HEARTHS. BUILDING MATERIAL.
GEO. M. LEAHY,
No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Designs and prices furnished on application.

Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.
Losses Paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3 235 091.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872 $1,429 729.
All Losses Paid in Cash without Discount, as Soon as Adjusted.
Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office, the same as with local companies.
DIRECTORS IN NEW ORLEANS:
GUSTAF R. WESTFELDT, Chairman. L. C. FALLON, LUCAS E. MOORE C. M. SORIA.
CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Resident Sec'y. H. V. OGDEN, Resident Secretary.

Home Insurance Co., of New Orleans
No. 78 CAMP STREET.

CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1886,	$400,479.08
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1887,	$413,860.76
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1888,	$459,369.50
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1889,	$510,584.54
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1890,	$551,897.82
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1891,	$600,414.81

Steadily Increasing in Strength and Popularity.
Solicits Fire and River Business
Liberal Settlements and Prompt Payments.
Thos. Sefton, Pres't. Capt. J. B. Woods, Vice-Pres't. Jno. G. Byrd, Sec'y
J. B. WOODS, JOS. BAYLE, JNO. BARKLEY, JNO. J. BARR, ANDREW STEWART, CHAS. CHAFFE, J. R. LEVERT, H. BORLAND, P. R. RICE, W. B. BLOOMFIELD, W. T. HARDIE, THOS. SEFTON.

W. B. LYMAN, President. JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-President. JOHN E. WHITING, Secretary
Crescent Insurance Com'y
Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.
Cash Capital, - - - - - - $300,000.
Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849. ANNUAL and TERM POLICIES Issued on Desirable Fire Business.
See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

Millsaps College,
Jackson, Miss.
The Second Session Begins Sept. 20th, 1893.
College Fees, Only $30 for the Entire Session.
Board in Students' Homes and in Private Families, $12 per month.
Provision has been made for the payment of the College Fees in the case of young preachers and the sons of preachers.
For Catalogue and other information address
W. B. MURRAH, PRESIDENT.

—THE—
Great Southern Music House of
Philip Werlein
Is Prepared to Suit All Comers.
Elegant and Durable Pianos from $250 up.
Good Second-hand and Slightly Used Pianos from $50 up.
Send for Catalogues and Prices.
135 Canal St., New Orleans.

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.,
SUCCESSORS TO STERN'S Fert. and Chem. Manufacturing Com'y
14 UNION STREET, New Orleans, La.
Write for Agricultural Hand-Book.

STANDARD AMMONIATED SOLUBLE GUANO
STERN'S PURE BONE
STERN'S AMMO SUPER PHOSPHATE
100 LBS. SULPHURIC ACID.
MANFD BY STANDARD C.S. CHEM. CO.

MANUFACTURERS OF HIGH GRADE Bone Fertilizers. ALSO GROUND BONE ACID PHOSPHATE, KAINIT, Etc.
Buyers of Cotton Seed.

ROSE TOBACCO CURE In all its Forms. For proof write the ROSE DRUG CO., Birmingham, Ala.
A quick, cheap, pleasant and absolute cure for the Tobacco Habit

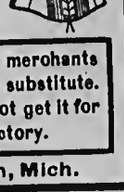
Office Telephone, 52. Yard Telephone, 261.
Pennsylvania Coal Company,
Office, 67 Carondelet Street,
PITTSBURGH COAL.
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.
L. S. WIDNEY, Manager.
Cotton Presses, Factories, and the Family trade supplied at Lowest Market Rates.
CITY YARDS: Foot of Robin Street, Foot of Desire Street, Corner Short and St. Charles Avenue.

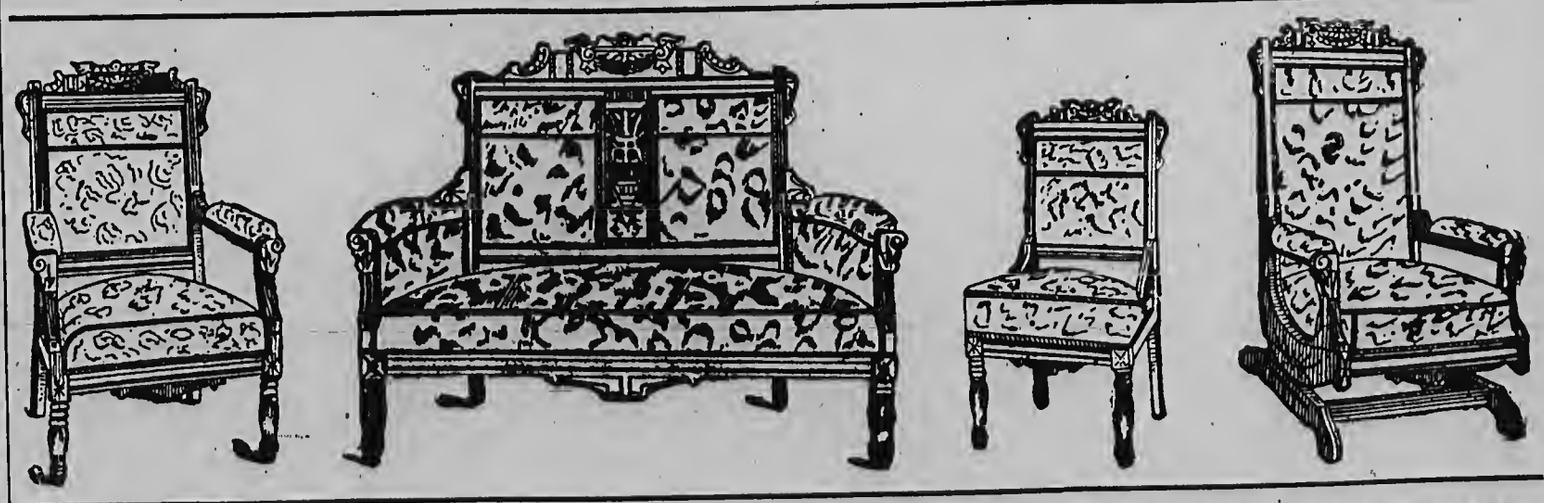
The Great Church LIGHT.
FRINK'S Patent Reflectory give the Most Powerful, the Softest, Cheapest and the Best Light known for Churches, Stores, Show Windows, Parlors, Banks, Offices, Picture Galleries, Theatres, Depots, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room. Get circular and estimate. A liberal discount to churches and the trade. I. P. FRINK, 551 Pearl Street, N. Y.

AS A GARMENT OF MERIT
THE GENUINE JACKSON CORSET WAIST
STANDS AT THE FRONT.
It is Rapidly Replacing Old-Style, Uncomfortable and Unhealthful Corsets.



Easy-fitting, yet giving complete support to the form. It is well made, of good material and fast colors. We ask you to try it.
For sale by leading merchants everywhere. Take no substitute. If your dealer will not get it for you, write to the factory.
Made Only by the JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.

Latest Styles -- Lowest Prices!



This handsome Parlor Suit is upholstered on solid walnut frames with Imported Marbleized Silk Plush and the seats are all Spring Edge. Colors are Red, Red and Old Gold, Blue and Old Gold or each piece of a different color. For $45 I will sell seven pieces of this suit:--one Sofa, one Divan, one Patent Rocker, one Arm Chair and three Reception Chairs. $65 buys the complete suit of ten pieces consisting of two Sofas, one Divan, one Patent Rocker, one Arm Chair, and five Reception Chairs. Same suit covered with Hair Cloth, seven pieces $35 or ten pieces $55. Every other article in my store at proportionately low prices. Bedroom suits, twelve pieces, from $40 up to $1000. Dining room suits, eight pieces, from $17 upwards. Complete Kitchen outfits from $20 upwards. Quality at top—prices at bottom. I have an immense variety of strictly reliable goods and purchasers can depend upon getting the very latest styles. Everything guaranteed to be exactly as represented or money will be promptly refunded.

CHEAPEST FURNITURE HOUSE in New Orleans, 28 CAMP STREET 30 | J. G. GRANT, | CHEAPEST FURNITURE HOUSE in New Orleans, 28 CAMP STREET 30

Highest of All in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

The Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union met at Lake Charles, La., last week, and after an unusually harmonious session of four days' duration adjourned. Resolutions were adopted urging the remonetization of silver.

Farmers in Indiana have begun to feed their new wheat to hogs. They claim that with corn at 50 cents a bushel it is cheaper to fatten swine on the wheat, which is worth less, taking the chances of a possible advance in wheat in the future.

New York is converting its famous old battery into a great aquarium. The Legislature appropriated $150,000 for the purpose. This old site was first a fortification, then a place of amusement with the name of Castle Garden, and then an immigration depot.

Although the Supreme Court of the United States has decided that the Geary law is constitutional, Judge Ross, of the United States District Court of Los Angeles, declares that the clause of it, which provides for the imprisonment at hard labor of its violators prior to deportation, is clearly unconstitutional.

The great reservoir of the Portland (Me.) Water Company, on the eastern promenade, burst on Aug. 6, letting loose 20,000,000 gallons of water in a short space of about fifteen minutes. The immense mass of water thus suddenly loosened dashed with mighty power upon two houses. Four persons were drowned.

As soon as Congress meets, and as soon as it becomes practicable, Mr. Bland, the leader of the silver forces in the House, will introduce a bill embodying the views of the silver men. It will provide for the repeal of the Sherman purchasing act, and substitute therefor the free coinage of silver at the present ratio of 16 to 1.

It is reported that the President will send a special message to Congress at its extra session in regard to the Hawaiian question. Mr. Blount's voluminous report, including his latest and most voluminous of all, are being carefully prepared at the State Department in the form of abstracts and extracts for the President's perusal.

The Osage Indians have refused to treat with the government commission for the cession of their reservation of nearly 2,000,000 acres, and which lies across the eastern end of the Cherokee strip, to the government, and the commissioners will return to Washington in a few days. These Indians are worth $15,000 in cash and over 1,000 acres of land for every man, woman and child in the tribe, and do not care to be crowded by white people.

The extra session of Congress began on Aug. 7. Convened for a single specific object—the repeal or modification of what is popularly known as the Sherman act—it will not be restricted to that bare programme, but will have, in connection, to legislate upon the whole subject of finance, including, probably, a thorough revision of the tariff. Those two subjects, distinct and yet connected, will supply material enough to occupy the attention of Congress for many months to come.

FOREIGN.

The government is closing all schools in south Russia on account of cholera. Twenty doctors have gone to the Caucasus, fourteen to Kieff and ten to Pudotia.

The steamship Straits of Gibraltar has been lost in the straits of Belle Isle by a collision with icebergs. She is a total wreck, and her cargo of coal has been entirely lost. Value, $100,000. No lives lost.

Lord Randolph Churchill has gone to France, accompanied by his wife. It is said that he is seriously ill, and it will be long before he will be seen in England in public again. An intimate friend of the family said that Lord Churchill's nervous system is shattered.

A Rome correspondent says: "Since the outbreak of cholera in Naples more than 100,000 residents have fled from the city. The official reports greatly understate the facts. The report for Sunday, July 29, said that there were nineteen new cases and nine deaths. Reliable private dispatches declare that there were 52 new cases and 28 deaths on the day."

According to the Lancet, the well-known English medical weekly, cholera has been epidemic in Marseilles for the last three months. The local officials, it is asserted, have carried their policy of deception to such length that even the government has been led astray in regard to the real state of affairs. There have been 601 deaths from cholera in Marseilles since the middle of May. On several days twenty deaths were recorded. During the last four weeks there have been 286 deaths from cholera throughout France.

Investigation Invited.

Of course it is proper to inquire about what any man says, is it true?

The most rigid investigation is invited into the testimonials published in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Special attention is called to the high character of the persons whose testimonials are published by the proprietors of this medicine, as evidenced by their occupations or endorsements. In fact, no matter where a testimonial in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla may be from, it is reliable and as worthy of confidence as if it came from your most trusted neighbor.

Free! Free!

AN ELEGANT LITHOGRAPH PICTURE OF MILLSAPS COLLEGE.

We need $1,500 to pay for furniture already bought to finish furnishing the college and to make necessary improvements.

To everyone sending us $1 we will send the picture unframed, and to everyone sending us $5 we will send the picture neatly framed ready for hanging. Let us hear from you.

JOHN W. CHAMBERS, Agt.

Jackson, Miss.

For Dyspepsia

Use Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

Dr. B. B. PETTITT, Sherman, Texas, says: "I have used it in dyspepsia, with great success. I think it is a fine remedy."

The ADVOCATE in clubs of ten from now until Jan. 1, 1894, at fifty cents. Cash must accompany names.

BEECHAM'S PILLS will save doctor's bills.

To Whom It May Concern.

Macon, Ga., March 13, 1893.

About three years ago I received a sample bottle of MULENOL. I had never heard of it before. I began using it, however, as occasion required, and soon found that it was all that is claimed for it, and more. For cuts, burns, bruises, scalds and all kinds of sores it is superior to any remedy I have ever used. It is also exceedingly efficacious in colic and diarrhœa. For sore throat it is incomparably better than anything I know of. I heartily recommend it as a medicine worthy of a place in every household.

W. C. BLACK,
Pastor Mulberry St. Methodist Church.
Manufactured by F. A. Dicks, Natchez, Miss.

It Is Worth $10,000 to Me.

For the past seven or eight years I have been a victim of Nervous Dyspepsia in its worst form. I have spent thousands of dollars, and have kept poor paying for medicine and doctors' bills. Up to the time I began the use of Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water, every kind of food caused me untold misery that none but God and myself knew. After having tried everything that I read or heard of, I must confess that I had no faith or hope whatever that the water would do me any good. But "like a drowning man grasping at a straw," I bought from Mr. Wilkinson one quart of his mineral water and began to take one dessertspoonful after each meal and at bedtime. Contrary to my expectations and to my very great joy and surprise, in three or four days I began to improve, continued to do so steadily until I was entirely well. It cured me in spite of myself. I could hardly realize the truth. Now I can and do eat anything I want, at any time, without it disagreeing with me in the least. My digestion is perfect, my heart trouble is all gone, I sleep well, and my general health is all I could wish. All of which, I am happy to say, was brought about by one quart of Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water in the space of six weeks. Will say in addition that I have every reason to know that as a constitutional nerve tonic and restorative it is unsurpassed. For $10,000 I would not be put back where I was when I began the use of the water and not be able to get any more of it.

Anyone suffering as I did can, if they choose, write to me and I will cheerfully answer.

W. J. GARDNER.
P. O. Box 78, Montgomery, Ala.
For sale at 106 Camp street.

Illinois Central Railroad.

REDUCED RATES TO CHICAGO AND THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Tickets now on sale from New Orleans to Chicago and return at $36 75 for the round trip; sale to continue daily until Oct. 15, 1893, inclusive; good to return until Nov. 15, 1893. Remember that the Central Route is the only railroad from the South whose trains enter Chicago without transfer or detour in full view of the Exposition Buildings, and make regular stops at the World's Fair gates. (World's Fair Station—Midway Plaisance.)

For further particulars, tickets, etc., call on or address your local or nearest I. C. R. R. ticket agent.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

I want an active agent in every parish in the bounds of the Louisiana Conference to handle that wonderful new book by Bishop Fitzgerald, The Epworth League Book. Don't miss this opportunity of a lifetime. First come first served! Prospectus, 75 cents.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp St., - - - - - - - New Orleans.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Philip Werlein,

New Orleans, wants you to write to him if you want to get a good Piano cheap, or an Organ, Music or Musical Instruments. His is the old reliable music store of New Orleans.

Camp Meeting Calendar.

Camp Meet'g.	Begins.
Topisaw	Aug. 11
Cypress	Aug. 11
Victoria	Aug. 17
Orville-Whittington	Aug. 18
Sam Jones	Aug. 18
Rapidos	Aug. 19
Henington	Aug. 24
Longtown	Aug. 25
Lake	Aug. 25
Water Valley	Aug. 25
Leaf River	Aug. 30
Mt. Zion	Sept. 21
St. Tammany	Sept. 22
Palmer	Sept. 30

Camp Meetings.

The Water Valley Camp Meeting, near Water Valley, Miss., will begin on Friday before the fourth Sabbath in August. J. W. PRICE.

Lake Camp Meeting will commence Friday night, Aug. 25, 1893. Eminent preachers have been secured to conduct the religious services. The large hotel will be open for the accommodation of visitors, also refreshment stands. Tents may be had by applying to the undersigned, free of charge. A line of hacks will be run from the grounds to Lake, meeting all trains. The A. & V. R. R. will sell round-trip tickets for one and one-third fare. Gate fee of 10 cents will be charged for the meeting. Everybody invited to come. W. M. THORNTON, Chairman Executive Committee.

July 25, 1893.

Don't forget the camp meeting at the Sam Jones Camp Ground. It will commence Aug. 18, 1893, and will continue for ten days. The excursion rates on railroads will be one fare for the round trip from the following places to camp grounds, inclusive: from Clinton and Baton Rouge, La., Woodville, Natchez, Port Gibson and Hermonville, Miss. Hotel and sleeping departments will be run by the Camp Ground Committee in the interest of the grounds. Meals, thirty-five cents; reduction made for board by the week. Gate system kept up. Twenty-five cents for season ticket for all over ten years of age. Everybody invited. Preachers entertained free. We will have some strong men of God to preach the gospel of Christ. We are expecting, believing and praying for one of the greatest meetings ever held at the Sam Jones Camp Ground. Come up, Mr. Editor, and see us in this meeting.

JNO. F. CASSELS,
Sec. S. J. C. G. Association.

Notice.

I have the best thing in the way of a Teacher's Bible for an agent to handle ever published. Write for full descriptive circulars at once.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp St., - - - - - - - New Orleans.

In this issue of the ADVOCATE appears the advertisement of the Classical and Commercial Institute, No. 7 Prytania street, and presided over by Messrs. Chenet, Reid and Harman. These are all gentleman of ripe scholarship, the two former having been connected with Tulane University and High School, if we are not mistaken, and the latter, Prof. G. W. Harman, long a successful instructor at Soule's College. The former are spoken of in the highest terms; but Prof. Harman we can commend from personal acquaintance. He is the man for the place, and in it will undoubtedly win laurels for the institution. The professor is a skilled penman, is thoroughly acquainted with book-keeping in all its branches, and, moreover, is devoted to his calling. But all the branches of a classical education, including ancient and modern languages, mathematics, English, etc., are taught. We wish the institute much success.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SEASHORE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Whittington circuit, at Whittington	Aug. 11-13
Biloxi	12, 13
Williamsburg circuit, at Oakohays	12, 20
Ellisville circuit, at Sandersville	26, 27
Eastabuchie circuit, at L. River O. G.	30, Sept. 6
Heidelberg circuit, at Paulding	2, 10
Augusta cir., at Boone's Ch't. (Th., Fri.)	14, 16
Vancleave circuit, at Mt. Zion	16, 17
Ocean Springs, at O. Springs (Wed.)	20
Tallahoek circuit, at St. Tammany O. G.	22-26
Covington cir., at St. Tam'y C. G. (Mon.)	26
Bay St. Louis, at Handsborough	29, 30
Whitlington c. (4th round), Palmer C. G.	30 to Oct. 6
E. Pearl mission, at Pine Grove (Tues.)	10

The Conference for charges marked with * will be held on second day published.

Let special prayer be made by all our people for the camp meetings. Observe the quarterly fast. Have General Rules read, and registers on hand for examination. Preachers will please try to "clear the decks" of the collections during this quarter, at least in good subscriptions. Push the interests of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

HENRY E. PARTRIDGE, P. E.

Hattiesburg, Miss.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Wesson	Aug. 10
Holmesville and Topisaw, at Topisaw	12, 13
Bowerton, at Pleasant Valley	19, 20
Pleasant Grove, at Pleasant Grove	Sept. 2, 9
China Grove, at Waterholes	5
Brookhaven circuit, at New Hope	9, 10
Terry circuit, at Byram	15
Gallman, at Mt. Pleasant	16, 17
Hazlehurst	22
Providence, at Georgetown	23, 24

R. S. WOODWARD, P. E.

MERIDIAN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Daleville circuit, at Senie (Thurs.)	Aug. 10
Linwood circuit, at Linwood	12, 13
DeKalb circuit, at Marvin	19, 20
North Kemper, at Blair	26, 27
Chunkey circuit	Sept. 2, 9
Marion circuit, at Pleasant Hill	9, 10
Why Not circuit	16, 17
Meridian—Central (Wed. night)	20
Lauderdale circuit (Thurs.)	21
Binnsville circuit	23, 24

Attention is called to Questions 14 and 16. Registers and Records should be presented. Question 13 will be called where not properly answered on second round. Brethren, let us keep our vows to "recommend fasting or abstinence, both by precept and example," and let us continue to pray and look for the presence and power of the Holy Spirit.

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Shiloh, at Bethany	Aug. 12, 13
Brandon station	20, 21
Marvin, at Richland Academy	Sept. 1
Fannin, at Drake's	2, 3
Raleigh, at Trinity	7
Westville	9, 10
Homewood	15
Trenton, at Gasque	16, 17
Montrose, at Mt. Zion	23, 24

O. MCDONALD, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Martin, at Rodney	Aug. 12, 13
Sunflower, at Bethel (Sat.)	19
Boiling Fork, at Cary (Sun.)	20
Fayette, at Ebenezer	26, 27
Meadville, at New Providence (Tues)	29
Warren, at Wesley Chapel	Sept. 2, 3
Port Gibson	3, 10
Rocky Springs	16, 17
Mayersville, at Mayersville	23, 24
Hermanville (Thur.)	23

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Amite City, at Amite City	Aug. 12, 13
Springfield, at Conchatoula	13, 14
St. Helena, at Camp Ground	19, 20
East Feliciana, at Camp Ground	19, 20
Franklinton, at Tally's Chapel	26, 27

P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Jackson—First Church	Aug. 12, 13
Jackson—Capitol Street	13, 16
Madison, at Madisonville	19, 20
Silver Creek, at B. Lake (Wed.)	23
Lake City, at Lodi	26, 27
Yazoo circuit, at Anding (Tues.)	29
Camden, at Thomastown	Sept. 2, 6
Bolton, at Clinton	9, 10
Pocahontas, at Liberty Grove (Tues.)	12
Tranquil, at Locust Grove	16, 17
Canton	23, 24

E. H. MOUNGER, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

WINONA DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Carrollton circuit	Aug. 12, 13
Black Hawk	19, 20
Winona circuit	26, 27
Valden circuit	Sept. 2, 3
Leherton	9, 10

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Saltillo	Aug. 12, 13
Pontotoc	17
Houston and Wesley	19, 20
Athens	23
Okolona	26, 27
Tremont	Sept. 2, 3
Buena Vista	9, 10

J. B. STONE, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Arkabutla, at Sullivan's	Aug. 12, 13
Panola, at Mt. Olivet	19, 20
Morgansville mission (Tues.)	22

H. O. MOREHEAD, P. E.

COLUMBUS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Sturges	Aug. 12, 13
Hebron	19, 20
Brooksville (Mon.)	21
Mashulaville	26, 27
Shuqualak (Wed.)	30
Macon	Sept. 2, 3

T. C. WIER, P. E.

KOSCIUSKO DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Wier circuit, at Liberty Hill	Aug. 12, 20
Chester circuit, at South Union	21
Louisville circuit, at Rocky Hill	26, 27
Eupora circuit, at Sapa	Sept. 2, 6
Rural Hill circuit, at Plattsburg	9, 10

Will the preacher in charge please see that the general rules are read, and that church register and the records of Church Conferences are presented for examination?

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, P. E.

HOLLY SPRINGS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Ashland circuit	Aug. 12, 16
Mt. Pleasant circuit	19, 20
East Holly Springs circuit	26, 27
Shelby Creek mission	Sept. 2, 3

J. W. HONNOLL, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Friar's Point	Aug. 13
Belen	20

J. A. RANDOLPH, P. E.

GRENADA DISTRICT—THIRD ROUND.

Cherry Hill	Aug. 12, 13
Atlanta	19, 20
Abbeville	26, 27
Banner	Sept. 2, 3
Grenada circuit	9, 10
Water Valley circuit	16, 17

R. A. BURROUGHS, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Baton Rouge	Aug. 13
Carondelet (morn.)	20
Moreau (eve.)	20
Gross Tete, at Rosedale	27
Dryades (morn.)	Sept. 3
Craps (eve.)	3
Plaq. and Donaldson, at Vacherie	10
Lower Coast, at Port Eads	17

C. W. CARTER, P. E.

ARCADIA DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Summerfield, at Harmony Chapel	Aug. 12, 13
Haynesville, at Flat Lick	19, 20
Valley, at Blockers Chapel	27, 28
Vernon, at Wesley Chapel	26, 27
Gansville	Sept. 2, 3
Vienna, at Pine Grove	9
Ruston station	10, 11

J. L. P. SHEPPARD, P. E.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

West Natchitoches, at Shiloh	Aug. 10
Anacoco and 8th Vernon, at P. Island	12, 13
Grand Cane, at Cypress C. G.	13
Victoria mission, at Oak Grove	19
Cane River, at Ragans Chapel	20
Natchitoches station (Sab. night, Mon.)	20, 21
Many, at Negreet	25, 26
Fort Jesup, at Rocky Mount	27, 28

ROBT. J. HARP, P. E.

Address: 629 Hope St., Shreveport.

DELHI DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Lingrove, at Jones	Aug. 12, 13
Calhoun, at L. Village	16
Harrisonburg, at Harrisonburg	19, 20
Oakley	22
Floyd, at Oak Grove	26, 27
Lake Providence	Sept. 2, 3
Waterproof	9, 10

H. C. WHITE, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Lake Charles, at B. Street	Aug. 12, 13
Grand Chenier, at Johnson's Bayou	19, 20
S. Mtue, at Calcasieu (Tu., Wed.)	22, 23
Jackson Street and W. Lake, at J. St.	26, 27
Lake Arthur (Wed., Thurs.)	30, 31

JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Dry Creek, at D. C.	Aug. 12, 13
Colfax and Spring C., at Rapides O. G.	19, 20
Vidalia, at Vidalia	19, 20
Chicot, at Elm Bayou	26, 27
Mellville, at Big Cane	Sept. 2, 3
Simsport	9, 10

S. J. DAVIES, P. E.

MILLWOOD

Female Institute.

This Institute is located near Jackson, La., and is as remarkable for its delightful environments as its healthy location.

Special teachers in each Department.

Charges lower than any school which offers the same advantages.

Session opens Sept. 4, 1893.

Send for Catalogue.

Miss M. McCALMONT,
Principal.

UNIVERSITY PREPARATORY SCHOOL,

73 COLISEUM STREET.

T. W. DYER, - - Principal.

The Eleventh Session begins Oct. 2 with a full corps of teachers. The location is perfect. The surroundings are attractive. The grounds are large (quarter of a square), with separate yard and accommodations for smaller boys. A few boarding pupils can be accommodated. References: The clergy of New Orleans and the faculty of Tulane University.

BAD COMPLEXIONS

Pimples, blackheads, red, rough, and oily skin, red, rough hands with shapeless nails and painful finger ends, dry, thin, and falling hair, and simple baby blemishes are prevented and cured by the celebrated

CUTICURA SOAP

Most effective skin-purifying and beautifying soap in the world, as well as purest and sweetest of toilet and nursery soaps. The only medicated Toilet soap, and the only preventive and cure of facial and baby blemishes, because the only preventive of inflammation and clogging of the pores, the cause of minor affections of the skin, scalp, and hair. Sale greater than the combined sales of all other skin and complexion soaps. Sold throughout the world.

POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Boston.

"All about the Skin, Scalp, and Hair" free.

HOW MY BACK ACHES!

Back Ache, Kidney Pains, and Weakness, Soreness, Lameness, Strains, and Pains relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster, the only pain-killing strengthening plaster.

ROANOKE COLLEGE.

Choice of Courses for Degrees; high standard. Course in Physical Training in New Gymnasium. A Commercial Course. Library 17,000 volumes. Working Laboratory. Buildings improved. Steam heat. Healthful mountain climate. Expenses for nine months, $155 to $210 (fees, board, etc.) Aid to deserving students. Begins Sept. 18th. Catalogue, with 8 views, free. Address,

JULIUS D. DREHER, Pres't, Salem, Va.

When answering advertisement please mention the Advocate

LAGRANGE FEMALE COLLEGE

LaGRANGE, GEORGIA.

Course—Literature, Music, Art, Normal course in each. Music and art first-class.

Location—Elevated, healthful, retired.

Advantages—Uniform, gymnasium, baths, electric lights. Pupils board with faculty. Industries, harmony, Sight-singing taught.

49 Session will begin Sept. 20, 1893.

EULER B. SMITH, SEC. RUFUS W. SMITH, PRES.

LAW SCHOOL

WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY,
LEXINGTON, VIRGINIA.

Opens Sept. 14. For catalogue address
JOHN RANDOLPH TUCKER, Dean.

VIRGINIA MILITARY INSTITUTE,

LEXINGTON, VA.

55th Year. State Military, Scientific and Technical School. Thorough Courses in general and applied Chemistry, and in Engineering. Confers degree of graduate in Academic Course, also degrees of Bachelor of Science and Civil Engineer in Technical Courses. All expenses, including clothing and incidentals, provided at rate of $336.50 per month, as an average for the four years, exclusive of outfit.

New Cadets report Sept. 1st.

GEN. SCOTT SHIPP, Superintendent.

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY. Location, in the healthful Shenandoah Valley, near Staunton, Virginia. English, Classical and Business courses with Military Training. For catalogue apply to Chas. S. Roller, Prin., Port Republic, Va.

HOLLINS INSTITUTE

BOTETOURT SPRINGS, Va.

For Young Ladies. 51st session opens September 13th, 1893. Eclectic courses in all Languages and Sciences, Music, Art, and Elocution. Eight male professors and twenty ladies. Beautifully situated in Valley of Virginia, on N. & W. R. R. near Roanoke Mountain scenery. Mineral waters. Climate unexcelled. Write for illustrated catalogue to

CHAS. L. COCKE, Supt., Hollins, Va.

FIVE DOLLAR REDUCTION

IN

WORLD'S FAIR RATES

BY THE Queen & Crescent Route

Beginning July 23rd, in addition to the regular World's Fair Excursion rates, the Queen & Crescent will sell first class excursion tickets, good fifteen days from date of sale for return, at $5.00 less than the regular World's Fair rate. These tickets are via either Cincinnati or via Louisville, going and returning same route.

Through Cars to Chicago. Quick Time. Finest Trains in the South. Be sure to take the Queen & Crescent Route.

For rates, schedules, sleeping car reservations, etc., call on any agent of the E. T. V. & G. R'y, Queen & Crescent Route or Louisville Southern R. R., or D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. A., - Cincinnati, O.

MALONE COLLEGE

For Young Ladies.

HOLLY SPRINGS, MISSISSIPPI.

The Third Annual Session will begin Monday, Sept. 20, 1893.
Location, highest point in the State. Elevation, 613 feet.
Health unsurpassed in the Southwest.
Course thorough and comprehensive.
Each department under the charge of specialists.
Special advantages offered in music, art and elocution.
A HOME SCHOOL for pupils under Christian influences.
Terms moderate. For catalogues or further particulars address

Rev. J. W. HONNOLL, President.

WALL & MOONEY'S SCHOOL,

FRANKLIN, TENNESSEE.

S. V. WALL. W. D. MOONEY, A. M.

Fits Boys for College or Business.

Our Students Enter Vanderbilt on Certificate, Without Examination. Positive Engagement Necessary to Secure Admission.

Fall term will open August 29, 1893.

Address W. D. MOONEY, Secretary.

Classical and Commercial Institute,

7 PRYTANIA STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Regular session begins Sept. 4th. Students admitted at any time. Full Classical and Literary Courses. Commercial Sciences taught practically. Normal Penmanship. Shorthand and Type-writing, standard systems. Day and night classes. Ladies admitted to Commercial Department. Boarding Department under supervision of Principal. Write for circular.

Endorsed by the editor of the ADVOCATE and W. H. LaPrade, D. D., pastor of Carondelet Street Church.

H. S. CHENET, A. M., Principal.
G. W. HARMAN, Prin. Com. Dep't. LYMAN C. REED, A. M., Assistant.

Spencerian Penmanship

With BOOK-KEEPING, COMMERCIAL LAW, SHORTHAND and TYPE-WRITING Thoroughly Taught in the

Commercial Department, Classical and Commercial Institute, 7 PRYTANIA ST., NEW ORLEANS.

G. W. HARMAN, Principal

Entire expenses for three months: Course, $90, including board, tuition, etc.

Ladies received in this department.

WESLEYAN FEMALE INSTITUTE Opens Sept. 6th, 1893.

STAUNTON, VIRGINIA. Climate and surroundings exceptional. Handsome buildings, now being remodeled, thoroughly renovated, repainted inside and outside, and refurnished with new pianos, carpets, &c. Steam heat, gas light, bath rooms on every floor. New Laboratory thoroughly equipped. Excellent Faculty of Experienced Teachers. Advanced courses in English, Latin, German, French, &c. Special advantages in Art. Conservatory Course in Music. One hundred and forty-one boarding pupils from eighteen States. Terms moderate. For Catalogues of this celebrated old Virginia school, address

W. W. ROBERTSON, President, Staunton, Virginia.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 40.—NO. 33. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, AUGUST 17, 1893. WHOLE NO. 1930.

Rev. J. M. BEARD, D. D., Editor and Publisher. } PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA CONFERENCE, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH. { ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

OUTSIDE THE GATE.

Outside the gate are grief and sin;
Joy, peace and harmony within,
An angel chorus sinks and swells
Like silvery chimes of sweet-toned bells;
Forlorn and lone I humbly wait
Outside the gate.

How long, O blessed Lord, how long
Must I still hear that seraph song,
Yet be denied that peace to gain
That washes out sin's ebon stain?
How long, dear Savior, must I wait
Outside the gate?

In saving grace reach forth thy hand,
And draw me to that happy band,
Lead me, and bid my soul rejoice
Within the magic of thy voice.
Forgive, nor let me longer wait
Outside the gate.

The paths of sin my feet have found,
The tempter's snares my soul hath bound,
Lord, let thy power their strength dispel
And bring me safe with thee to dwell;
Leave me not thus importunate
Outside the gate.

O let those heavenly portals wide
No longer be to me denied!
One single beam of light divine,
Will rescue this faint soul of mine.
Then I may sing thy praise, nor wail
Outside the gate.

—New York Observer.

Rev. Joseph William Medlock.

Rev. Joseph William Medlock has been transferred from the ranks of the militant church to the communion of the triumphant hosts of heaven.

He was born in the State of Georgia, Jan. 30, 1847, but reared from an infant year, and received his education in Minden, La., where he joined the church early in life. He lost his connection with the church during the war, but at the close of the war he returned to Minden and renewed his vows, put on the whole armor of God, and girded himself for the conflicts of the Christian warfare, and was a valiant soldier in the army of his God to his death, which occurred in Minden, La., July 26, 1893.

Bro. Medlock was licensed to preach by the Minden Quarterly Conference in 1869, and admitted on trial into the Louisiana Conference the same year. He was married to Miss Fannie Upton, daughter of Rev. T. J. Upton, of the Louisiana Conference, in January, 1870.

He passed rapidly through the course of study prescribed by his church, preparing himself with care for his examinations, passing an approved examination on two years of the course, at the close of his first year. He quickly took high rank in his Conference, which he sustained admirably through his useful life, filling important stations, circuits, and positions on committees and Boards, often acting as secretary of District Conferences, always meriting the highest encomiums for faithfulness and efficiency in performing the duties involved in the various positions that he was called to fill.

Bro. Medlock had many noble traits of character. Among them was sincerity. He could not be induced to express that which he did not feel, nor claim that which he did not realize; hence there was little of the blarney and gush about him; yet he was affable and pleasant in his intercourse with men. He was true—true to his convictions of right, true in every relationship of life; a true and faithful husband, a true and affectionate father, a true friend, a true minister of the grace of God, and a true and devoted son of the church, never forgetting for a moment the vows assumed at her altar. He was studious, constantly employed in storing his mind with useful knowledge. He knew how to study; read and studied much with pencil in hand, reading, marking and inwardly digesting what he read; hence he was exceedingly accurate in facts and statistics. He was modest to a fault. It was not in his nature to push his way forward, or take the uppermost seat anywhere. He was meek and humble, and as teachable as a child, willing to sit at the feet of the humblest of God's servants to learn of the deep things of God. I never knew a more charitable man; charitable in the light of the thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians. I can not call to mind a single instance in which he used an unkind word in reference to a brother. He made friends slowly, but he made them sure—and held them firmly to the end.

In the beginning of his ministry, at one of the prominent appointments in the Conference, he said in substance to the people: "I know you did not desire my appointment as your pastor, and I assure you I did not choose you as my work; but in the providence of God we are thrown together. Now, let us mutually agree to make the best of this arrangement for the year, and then we can peaceably separate." At their earnest request he was returned year after year, until the limit was reached.

His last appointment was Minden circuit, which he was serving his fourth year, and I do not hesitate to say that no preacher ever had a deeper hold on the affections of the people of Minden than did our sainted brother.

He preached his last sermon at Athens, one of the appointments of his circuit; came home sick, took his bed, and continued to have fever for more than two weeks, but was not considered dangerously ill until congestion seized him, from which he sank rapidly until he quietly and peacefully fell on sleep.

We buried him in Minden from the new church built under his ministry, and dedicated by Bishop Galloway last year. Every business house in the town of Minden was closed, and almost the entire populace followed his remains to their last resting-place.

"Servant of God, well done!
Rest from thy loved employ."

J. L. P. SHEPPARD.

Ministerial Education.

To those who are indebted to the Ministerial Aid Association of the Mississippi Conference we again appeal. We are nearing the time for the opening of the Fall terms of our colleges, and have before us the applications of five young ministers for aid in procuring an education. These young brethren are dependent upon us, in whole or in part, to pursue their courses. Our treasury is empty, yet we have in good promises a sufficient amount to meet all the demands upon us. If those who have given their notes will meet them at once, we can proceed safely; if not, we must refuse to them, whom God has called, the aid which they so much need in fitting themselves for the work of the pulpit. We recognize the scarcity of hard times as being evidently true; but can we, as an educated and educating people, withhold our support to such an important work as this?

We need, at least, $300 to begin the session with, and only one month in which to work. Brethren, please arrange in some way to meet your notes, now past due, that we may know how to proceed. We would be glad of help from any source. A small amount from every charge would relieve us greatly. An average of five dollars from every charge in our Conference would meet the demands upon us. Can not every charge send us this small sum? In after years you will reap the reward in a more cultured and better educated ministry.

Brethren of the church, all the benefits are to you and your children. Selfish motives should prompt you to action, if no higher incentive. We need the money now. You will need the preachers in the years to come. We hope that all who see this will try to help us some, and thereby relieve the necessities of your worthy young preachers. Fraternally,

T. B. HOLLOMAN, Pres. Ass'n.

The General Conference Delegates.

At our next Annual Conference delegates to the General Conference will have to be elected. These delegates, of course, will be ministers and laymen. The ministers will be elected by the ministers, and the laymen by the laymen, one of whom may be a local preacher. In this election we must have an eye to the good of our beloved Zion, and in order to this, we must endeavor to elect men who love our church and the cause of God so well that they will do nothing but for the glory of God and the good of the church, irrespective of all influences that may be exerted to the contrary. The ministers should be men of solid piety, of thorough acquaintance with the doctrines and usages of our church, and not only believers in discipline and its righteous enforcement, but men who both enforce it and encourage its enforcement. A church without discipline and its righteous enforcement is lawless, and unlike God, and, therefore, the great necessity of electing men to make laws for us, who are lovers of law and order, and, at the same time, are willing, and even do what they can to accomplish such a condition of things. How inconsistent it is to believe in law and order, and then elect men to our law-making body who are not even in sympathy with such a state of things! The laymen should elect from their number men of solid piety, of thorough acquaintance with the doctrines and usages of our church, and who are not only solidly in favor of discipline and its enforcement, but who do aid and do encourage its existence and its enforcement. They should avoid the mistake our sister Conference made when she sent a prominent delegate to the General Conference that interpreted a rule as being opposed to theaters, etc., and then shortly afterwards paid for a seat in a theater for himself and family. Is it not awful to think that a man would so stab his conscience as to do such a thing? It is; and may God save us from such delegates! It is sad that such a case escaped without a single rebuke. May God quicken to life and to great sensitiveness the conscience of our church!

ISAAC L. PEEBLES.

Joint Board of Finance, Mississippi Conference.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

I have received for Conference claimants, second quarter, as follows from the

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

Reported first quarter	$191 20
Daleville	22 00
Chunkey	11 60
Marion	16 00
Waynesboro circuit	20 00
Why Not	5 00
Vossburg	31 82
Enterprise and Stonewall	30 00
West End	6 50
Clark	10 00
Binnsville	6 50
Waynesboro and State Line	30 00
Lauderdale	15 00
Shubuta	10 00
Total	$405 02

VICKSBURG DISTRICT.

Reported first quarter	$251 10
Rolling Fork	61 50
Sunflower	17 00
Meadville	10 40
Port Gibson	20 00
Rocky Springs	45 00
Hermanville	7 20
Total	$312 60

JACKSON DISTRICT.

Reported first quarter	$193 60
Mt. Olivet	28 50
Bolton	24 00
Canton	65 00
Total	$310 50

SEASHORE DISTRICT.

Reported first quarter	$136 00
Ellisville	3 00
Vancleave	15 00
Biloxi	7 00
Williamsburg	15 00
Mt. Carmel	30 00
Bay St. Louis	10 15
Moss Point	25 00
Total	$246 15

WOODVILLE DISTRICT.

Reported first quarter	$ 69 05
Franklinton	15 00
Jackson, La	22 00
Clinton	25 00
Covington	8 00
Springfield	5 00
Gloster and Centerville	20 00
North Wilkinson	7 00
Total	$181 05

BRANDON DISTRICT.

Reported first quarter	$151 30
Neshoba	15 00
Homewood	5 00
Brandon	35 00
Fannin	5 00
Carthage and Walnut Grove	10 00
Lake	10 00
Total	$231 30

BROOKHAVEN DISTRICT.

Reported first quarter	$176 85
Wesson	7 00
Brookhaven circuit	5 75
McComb City	15 05
Brookhaven	56 00
China Grove	20 00
Total	$280 65

I have paid as follows to claimants:

Mrs. Fannie M. Stewart	$37 50
Rev. D. Merchant	31 25
Mrs. Wm. Finn	25 00
Mrs. V. H. Johnston	25 00
Mrs. A. M. Barrington	25 00
Mrs. D. W. Ditchey	37 50
Mrs. T. Y. Armstrong	25 00
Mrs. Wm. Wardsworth	25 00
Mrs. J. N. Williams	25 00
Mrs. Jos. Nicholson	31 25
Mrs. S. Dawson	31 25
Mrs. Matt. Calhoun	31 25
Mrs. H. H. Montgomery	37 50
Mrs. E. R. Strickland	31 25
John Calhoun	12 50
Mrs. J. M. Gilmore	25 00
Mrs. H. D. Berry	25 00
Mrs. D. M. Wiggans	31 25
Mrs. J. J. Smylie	25 00
Mrs. J. A. Godfrey	25 00
Rev. Thos. Price	50 00
Mrs. W. G. Millsaps	12 50
Mrs. J. C. Brogan	37 50
Mrs. J. L. Forsythe	31 25
Mrs. J. A. Newsom	6 25
Rev. A. B. Nicholson	37 50
Mrs. L. R. Wood	25 00
Rev. E. A. Flowers	12 50
Rev. Wm. B. Hines	31 25
Mrs. H. F. Johnson	62 50
Mrs. J. M. Gann	6 25
Mrs. G. Hawkins	18 75
Mrs. J. D. Hays	12 50
Rev. W. E. Ballard	50 00
Mrs. Ben Jones	25 00
Rev. H. J. Harris	12 50
Rev. J. T. Nicholson	50 00
Rev. J. W. Harmon	25 00
Rev. R. S. Gale	37 50
Otis Calhoun	6 25
Mrs. T. H. Napier	25 00
Mrs. J. A. Ellis	12 50

For the want of quarterly report draft has not been sent to Mrs. C. C. Watkins. W. M. THORNTON, Treas. J. B. F.

Let the preachers engage the new converts to get clubs for the ADVOCATE.

John Wesley and Entire Sanctification.

In a letter dated London, June 19, 1771, Wesley writes:

"Many years ago I saw that without holiness no man shall see God. I began following after it, and inciting all I had any intercourse with to do the same. Ten years after God gave me a clearer view than I had before of the way, how to attain this, namely: by faith in the Son of God. And immediately I declared to all we are saved from sin; we are made holy by faith. This I testified in private, in public, in print, and God confirmed it by a thousand witnesses. I have continued to declare this for above thirty years, and God has continued to confirm the word of his grace."—Ibid.

The last version of Wesley's Plain Account of Christian Perfection was made by him in 1777, in which he says:

"This is the doctrine which we have preached from the beginning, and which we preach at this day." And at the end of which he says: "I have done what I proposed; I have given a plain and simple account of the manner wherein I first received this doctrine of perfection, and the sense wherein I received and wherein I doctrinate and teach it to this day."—Wesley's Works, Vol. VI., pages 495 and 529.

In a letter to Miss Hester Anna Roe, afterwards Mrs. Rogers, written in 1782, Wesley says, "You should always have in readiness that little tract, The Plain Account of Christian Perfection." There is nothing that would so effectively stop the mouths of those who call this a new doctrine (Ibid, Vol. VII., page 105). And Wesley might have added, "To stop the mouths of those who will reject this doctrine an hundred years hence."

In a letter written by Mr. Wesley to Miss Richie, afterwards Mrs. Mortimer, he says: "That point—entire salvation from inbred sin—can hardly ever be insisted upon, either in preaching or prayer, without a particular blessing. Encourage honest Isaac Brown, who firmly believes this doctrine:

"1st. To preach Christian perfection constantly, strongly, and explicitly.

"2nd. To explicitly assert and prove that it may be received now.

"3rd. That it is to be received by simple faith."—Wesley's Works, Vol. VII., page 181.

In a letter written by Wesley to Garretson, in 1785, he writes: "The more explicit and strongly you press all believers to aspire after full sanctification as attainable now by simple faith, the more the whole work of God will prosper."

To R. C. Brackenberry, Wesley wrote, not six months before his death, saying: "I am glad Bro. D. has more light in regard to full sanctification. This doctrine is the grand depositum which God has lodged with the people called Methodist, and for the sake of propagating this chiefly, he appears to have raised us up."

Hear the conclusion of the whole matter. Not four months before Mr. Wesley's death, he wrote to Adam Clarke as follows (See Ibid, p. 206):

"If we can prove that any of our preachers or leaders speak directly or indirectly against this doctrine, let him be local preacher or leader no longer. I doubt whether he should continue in the society, because he that could speak thus in our congregations can not be an honest man."

Wesley wrote not three months before his death to Mr. E. Lewby: "A man that is not a thorough friend to Christian perfection will easily puzzle others and thereby weaken, if not destroy, any select society."—Ibid, p. 253.

Millsaps College Entrance Examinations.

The faculty of Millsaps College offers a prize of $10 in cash for the best examination papers from a student applying for admission into the Freshman Class. Some worthy young man will have an opportunity of making the money to buy his college textbooks. Let everyone who intends to enter Millsaps College this Fall consult a catalogue and prepare himself for the examinations. All candidates for admission should be in Jackson, Sept. 18 and 19, so as to be classified in time for the opening, Sept. 20. For catalogue or other information address Dr. Murrah.

W. B. MURRAH, D. D., Pres.
W. L. WEBER, Sec.

Mansfield College Reduction.

To meet the money stringency of the times, I will offer the same reduction as last year. Upon the advanced payment of $25 in lieu of tuition, I will take pupils for $13.50 per month in monthly payments if desired, pupils entering Sept. 13. In cases when it is impossible to make this payment upon this date, two or three weeks' time will be given. This affords an opportunity for a large number to enter. It is better to secure rooms now, for a limited number of boarders will be taken. A. D. MCVOY, Pres.

Send us clubs from every protracted and camp meeting.

FROM THE WORK.

Rev. F. M. Grace, Hiwassee College, Tenn., Aug. 2: "After spending a pleasant vacation at Birmingham, Ala., I have returned to Hiwassee College, which will open Aug. 29. Please note this for benefit of correspondents."

Rev. J. I. Hoffpauir, P. C., Lecompte, La., Aug. 7: "The Lord was with us at Lecompte in our late session of the District Conference. The preaching was spiritual. The services were protracted for several days. A number of bright conversions; twelve added to the church. During the year we have had twenty-three accessions. Work improving."

Rev. M. L. White, Mt. Carmel, Miss., Aug. 4: "Just closed meeting at Blountville; was what we expected—a success. Preaching by Bros. Moore and Brown was deep; hence the revival was deep—nothing shoddy about it. Seven joined the church, several conversions. Noble lot of young men and ladies at this church. House just ceiled, well lighted; will paint it in a few weeks."

Rev. R. M. Blocker, Lisbon, La., Aug. 3: "We have had a good revival at Arizona. Fine results. Rev. J. A. Parker assisted. We are now holding revival services at Lisbon. Good success. Rev. J. B. Williams has been with us, and Rev. J. O. Bennett is now with us. That these three men are fine preachers goes without saying. Now we want the power. May the Lord send it!"

Rev. S. H. Whatley, Pleasant Hill, La., Aug. 11: "I thank God for the change in editorial matter in the NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE, and pray that it may take its rightful place among our good people instead of 'Witnesses and Ways' that are circulated within its territory; and that such as be of the late resolution of the Alexandria District Conference may read II. Timothy iii, 4, 5. I have been present when 101 have enlisted in the army this year. Many more were converted, many sanctified. The Lord is with us; glory to his name."

Chas. W. Scott, Fayette, Miss., July 27: "The Fayette circuit will, doubtless, make cheering reports ere long. The protracted meeting season is at hand, and this charge, under the strong and eloquent leadership of the Rev. C. A. Powell, anticipates many and heroic accomplishments. The gospel—the power of God unto salvation—is preached in its purity and power to the spiritual impression and edification of the church, and Bro. Powell's deep solicitude for his flock is truly refreshing to behold. May the church stay up his hands as he holds forth the Word of Life! Former pastors will remember us with their prayers."

Rev. W. L. Hamil, P. C., Bellevue, La., Aug. 2 (Valley work): "We closed another meeting at Sapp's Church yesterday; no minister with us. Bro. Wilkerson and his good wife, of Pleasant Valley, came to our assistance. Such 'fathers and mothers in Israel' are a benediction during a revival. Eleven accessions, six children baptized—eighteen in all at that church this year; all good, solid material. Among those who joined we venture to make special mention of Capt. J. M. Only, sixty years old—twenty years' experience as steamboat captain—who says he is ready to serve God as faithfully as he has served the devil. God did the work."

Rev. J. H. Evans, Williamsburg, Miss., Aug. 3: "I will give you a few dots about my meeting at this place. We had a gracious revival here. Nearly everybody that attended the meeting was blessed, and we received 20 in the M. E. Church, South, and there were a great many seekers of religion, and there were many found Christ precious to their souls. Backsliders were reclaimed, and the church stirred up to the point of duty, and are ready to work for the Master. Bro. Brown and Bro. White did the most of the preaching, and they did their work well, and we give God all the glory. We are trying to get all the old subscribers to renew, and we are getting some to promise that they will take the paper next year. I think I will get several new subscribers by Conference; but money is out of the question up here at this time. Pray for us."

Rev. T. W. Lewis: "Just closed a grand meeting at Howard Chapel, two miles and a half north of Holly Springs. Had eight or ten conversions, and eight accessions. Had a praise service one morning, and every member of the church but two or three stood up to witness for Christ. Mr. Editor, do you mean to say that a regenerated man does not really grow in grace? Your article on sanctification implies as much. Is not a saved man sanctified? Is all sin forgiven in regeneration? Where is the Scripture that says that we must have a 'second cleansing?' Point it out, please. What does John mean in I. John i, 7; and i, 9? Does not the pardon and cleansing come together?"

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

I have just completed my third round of Quarterly Conferences through Greene, Wayne and Clarke counties. The crops are the very best that I have seen during my four years on the district. Even in the paths of the tornadoes some of the farms are yielding bountiful harvests. Of course, I heard some complaints of "hard times," just as I did when cotton was fifty cents a pound. But the people are learning to live at home. Many not only make their own corn and meat and molasses, but wheat and sugar, as well as oats and potatoes in the greatest abundance. The preacher who fails to bring up his collections in full, or to get his own salary in full from the lower part of the Meridian district, will be in a sorry plight at Conference. Dawson, Bradley, Bradford, Penn and Moore have now church buildings under way. Penn has built the handsomest parsonage in the district.

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

FROM WESSON.

To my many friends, who may be anxious to hear from me, I will say that I am now at Wesson trying to finish the year's work begun by Bro. Holloman. I am very pleasantly situated, having all the neat little parsonage, which is now being enlarged by the addition of two rooms, to myself. I have from the first felt very sensibly my youthfulness and weakness in taking such a heavy charge, and, but for the fact that I felt supported by the "everlasting arms," I would never have taken it; but, having reached my work and found myself supported by a Board of Stewards, all of whom are men seeking the salvation of the lost and the glory of God, I feel hopeful, indeed. The people of Wesson are exceptionally pleasant, kind and good people. As far as I have been able to learn, for a town of its size, Wesson is unsurpassed for pious, church-going people. At present there is a considerable starvation panic, caused by the shutting down of the mills; but I think this will not last long, and may be a blessing to us in the end. We are trusting in God, and expecting great things. E. T. BRELAND.

REVIVAL NOTES FROM THE MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

Lauderdale circuit, W. T. Browning, supply, assisted by Bros. Burton and Huff, local preachers from over the Alabama line: Mt. Hebron Church and Burton Chapel—20 accessions to our church, 2 to other denominations; more than 40 conversions; 7 new family altars erected; a number led for the first time in family prayer.

Vossburg circuit, McGowan Chapel, R. Bradley, P. C., assisted by the presiding elder: Several conversions, several led for the first time in public prayer, and the whole church much revived and strengthened. A neat frame building will soon take the place of the Chapel Hill log-house demolished by the tornado of April 19.

Marion circuit, Lockhart Church, Geo. Bancroft, P. C., assisted by W. W. Hopper: 4 accessions, several conversions, and 7 professed sanctification.

Clarke circuit, New Home Church: A meeting conducted by J. N. Broadway, A. Trotter and R. C. Gavin—all local preachers—resulted in 8 conversions and 6 accessions, and great good otherwise done. There are no idle local preachers in the Meridian district.

DeKalb circuit, Pleasant Ridge Church, R. A. Breland, P. C., assisted by W. W. Hopper: 7 accessions, and church greatly revived. Prospects good for a new house of worship. At DeKalb, following the Sunday-school Convention, Bro. Breland was assisted by W. J. Ferguson and E. T. Breland in a meeting which resulted in 3 accessions to our church and 1 to the Baptist Church.

Why Not circuit, Energy Schoolhouse, F. B. Ormond, P. C., assisted by a faithful exhorter, L. B. Moore: "A spiritual meeting," but no accessions. Seven new family altars. "Beginning to talk about a new church there." T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

DON'T LOOK FOR THE FLAWS.

Don't look for the flaws, as you go on through life;
And even when you find them,
It is wise and kind to be somewhat blind,
And look for the virtue behind them.
For the cloudiest night has a hint of light
Somewhere in its shadows hiding;
It is better by far to look for a star
Than the spots on the sun abiding.

The current of life runs ever away
To the bosom of God's great ocean;
Don't set your force 'gainst the river's course,
And think to alter its motion;
Don't waste a curse on the universe—
Don't butt at the storm with your puny form—
But bend and let it go o'er you.

The world will never adjust itself
To suit your whims to the letter;
Some things must go wrong your whole life long,
And the sooner you know it the better.
It is folly to fight with the infinite,
And go under at last in the wrestle;
The wisest man shapes into God's plan
As the water shapes into a vessel.

—Selected.

Going To and Fro in the Land.

To be lounging and yawning at a so-called watering place begets unrest. Diversion ensures recreation, and, hence, true rest. A trip on one of the elegant steamers of the Anchor Line from your city to St. Louis was, indeed, a rare treat. Pleasant and unpleasant reminiscences were awakened. At the mouth of the Arkansas river I was vividly reminded of the battle of Arkansas Post, where after much carnage our entire division, under Gen. Garland, was captured. As chaplain of the Twenty-fourth Texas cavalry, I would have been liberated had I desired. But I preferred to accompany the wounded officers and soldiers to the place of our destination. The Father of Waters became the burial place of many of our boys. Thirty of those on my steamer died while on the way to St. Louis. From this point we were shipped to Camp Chase, near Columbus, O. After five weeks' detainment, on account of pneumonia, I was sent via Baltimore, Fortress Monroe to James river and allowed to reenter the lines of the desolated Confederacy. But enough of that.

St. Louis is a beautiful city. It excels in charming parks and fine drives. It abounds in large churches. On Sunday morning I visited one of them. Knew its pastor; wished to hear him. But he was absent. A "supply" filled the pulpit. He had a good text, and preached a tolerably good sermon. But imagine a preacher in the pulpit of one of the leading churches in that city, during the delivery of his sermon, saying forty-three times: "As sure as you live!" Besides, his countenance wearing a patent grin, a species of celluloid expression. Besides this, habitually clinching his fist, whirling it fiercely through the atmosphere, as if threatening the audience, even though he would say at the time something very encouraging. Among the announcements, at the close of the services, a holiness meeting was given out for Tuesday evening. Prayer meeting on Wednesday evening. Tell me, in what can these two meetings differ? Can the prayer meeting, possibly, be held for unholy purposes?

After a four days' abode in St. Louis, an eight hours' ride on the Wabash railroad brought me to Chicago. Had engaged rooms at the residence of a presiding elder. Elegant room, comfortable bed and good breakfast for $1 per day. Rapid locomotion in every direction. Allow me here to correct two mistakes: The charges for meals on the Exposition Grounds are not at all exorbitant. Again, there is no lack of comfortable chairs and benches at all suitable places of the vast grounds.

The vastness of the buildings and exhibits bewilders. The intellect, like the stomach, can digest only a certain quantity. Excess gives nausea. I have learned to beware of excess. Made a cursory tour through all the buildings. To-day I shall commence special inspection, devoting three to six hours to every building.

Editors are admitted to the Exposition free of charge. I hope that you, Mr. Editor, will find time to attend. All leaders of public opinion should not fail to spend here a few days.

J. B. A. AHRENS.

Chicago, August 4, 1893.

Rev. John A. Ellis.

We offer the following as a tribute of respect to the memory of our deceased friend and brother, Rev. Jno. A. Ellis, and of love and sympathy for his grief-stricken wife and children:

All who knew Bro. Ellis knew him as one of the truest and most conservative servants of the church—his heart burning with zeal for the cause of his Lord, yearning for the salvation of immortal souls, wisely devising plans for the furtherance of Christ's kingdom. He was considered by all of his brethren "as wise as a serpent and harmless as a dove," and his sympathy and love for those under him was manifested in a degree pleasing and helpful to all concerned.

It is the verdict of the preachers of the Seashore district, who knew Bro. Ellis, that in his death we lost a friend and sympathizer whom we will miss as we continue in the march of battle till we shall have reached the golden strand just across the river.

In view of his hold upon the entire district, whose interests he supervised only one year, and his many years of untiring effort in the Mississippi Conference, and of the fact that he passed into the life beyond as one of us in the pastorate, we offer the following resolutions:

Resolved, In the death of Bro. Ellis the Mississippi Conference has lost the personality of one of her strongest men in the furtherance of the kingdom of grace and in council with his brethren—one whose voice we shall miss upon the Conference floor and in our annual reunions.

Resolved, That the Seashore district, in whose bounds, as pastor of Moss Point, he spent the last six weeks of his noble and pure life, has lost a friend whose life was very probably shortened by the over-exertion in his efforts to successfully present the message of truth and salvation.

Resolved, That we, as a District Conference, in session at Pearlington, Miss., tender his devoted and affectionate, now lonely and sad, widow, whom we much love for her Christian character, our deepest sympathy in her bereavement, praying God's richest blessings upon the remaining years of her life.

"Oh, for the touch of a vanished hand,
And the sound of a voice that is still."

We request, as a committee, that the above preamble and resolutions be forwarded to Sister Ellis, and to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE for publication.

ROBT. SELBY,
Chair'n of Committee.

Pearlington, Miss., May 18, 1893.

[The above should have been published immediately succeeding the adjournment of our District Conference, but the secretary was compelled to defer it on account of continued sickness in his family from his arrival home from the session of the District Conference till a few days ago. While we regret exceedingly not being able to furnish the above for publication, it was unavoidable.]

Evangelists and Their Work.

Evangelists are not parasites; they are workers. Their proper work entitles them to a living, and to the respect and love of the church. The most virulent opponent of evangelism, as it is now known among us, has never dared call them parasites. Neither are they unhealthy excrescences upon the body of the church, but a natural growth. Their call is of God. "And he gave some, apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers; for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ." (Eph. iv, 11, 12.) The Word of God gives them a place in the church. They certainly are God-ordained vessels for special work in the evangelization of the world. Trouble, however, seems to exist between pastors and evangelists—both classes ordained of God for special work. What is the explanation? The misunderstanding which exists has no reference to the call of the evangelists. No preacher—at least, no Methodist preacher—has ever been so prejudiced as to say they were not called of God. The disturbance lies mainly in regard to the work the evangelist shall do. In the early church the work of the evangelist was purely missionary. He was the first in the field. He labored, and other men entered into his labors. He organized, and others were left in charge of the organization to instruct and teach. The modern church has reversed the order. Now the pastor is the first in the field. He does more missionary work than the evangelist. The pastor labors and organizes, and the modern evangelist enters into his labors. He comes as a reaper—simply a reaper. The evangelists' failure to heed the cry of poor and weak churches, to go into untried fields, to do missionary work, has caused prejudice against them in the church, and, in a measure, destroyed their usefulness. Failure at these points destroys the main reason for their existence.

Rev. M. W. Knapp, in his book, "Revival Tornadoes," enumerates five providential openings for evangelists:

1. Destitute places where there are no churches established. This he gives as the main reason.

2. Where churches are already organized, but have become cold, formal and lifeless.

3. Where a man is called to be a pastor, yet has not evangelistic gifts.

4. Where the pastor is not physically strong enough to bear the burdens of his charge, and, at the same time, conduct a revival.

5. Where the powers of darkness are so strongly entrenched that the combined effort of both pastor and evangelist are required to dislodge them.

However we may differ from Mr. Knapp in regard to the four latter reasons, yet concerning the first we are all agreed. The main field for evangelistic efforts are places where there are no organized churches; places destitute of the gospel. There is not a pastor in Methodism to-day who could not make out a list of appointments of such places which would engage the time and labors of an evangelist for weeks and months.

Are the evangelists meeting this want? Are they giving the gospel to destitute places and helping weak churches? They certainly are not. Already this year the writer has preached the gospel in four destitute places, for which he did not receive one cent of money; ground which has never yet been pressed by the foot of an evangelist. One passed over it on wheels going to the Seashore Camp Ground, where he was liberally paid.

Did you ever hear of such a place being worked by an evangelist?

No, sir! They go to big cities, where all the pastors and churches unite to make the meeting a grand success. They go to big towns, where they can reap a good harvest of silver dollars. The Macedonian cry in their ears is drowned by the shouts of enthusiasm from big meetings in rich churches, and by the chink of the silver dollars of the rich. Destitute places can not give them the reputation they make in large cities. Oh, but they are not seeking reputation! They are after souls. No, but they want the reputation all the same. Destitute places and weak churches can not pay like rich churches, and in a two weeks' meeting they can not get an amount equal to a pastor's yearly salary. They are not after the money—souls they want. No, but they want the money, too.

No sane man opposes a brother making a reputation through evangelism, or receiving sufficient compensation for the work done; but many oppose—and strenuously, too—their refusal to use the abundance which has been given in rich churches to help hard-worked pastors give the gospel to the poor. Nor is there one word of opposition to evangelists going to large cities to declare against formality and worldliness; but when they give themselves up entirely to this work, to the neglect of the main work for which they were raised up of God—viz., to preach and organize in destitute places and help poor churches—then some voice must be heard crying in rebuke. How can they expect God to bless their labors among the rich when the cry of the poor is unheeded? They spend their God-given talents helping the strong churches, while the weak are left to struggle on in their weakness. Do you wonder that some of the weak begin to question the motives of these men? I am not a seer, nor the son of a seer; but one thing I can foretell. Let the evangelists go into destitute places and preach and organize, and let them do their duty to poor churches, and the trouble will vanish like mists before the rising sun.

NOTA BENE.

Brief Autobiography of Rev. Benjamin Jones.

In looking through some old papers a few days ago, I came across the following autobiography of our Bro. Benjamin Jones, who died recently at his home on the coast. It is the introduction to his semi-centennial sermon preached before the Mississippi Annual Conference, held in Brookhaven, December, 1891. I reproduce it because it gives an insight into the life and spirit of a good and useful man, and because it also contains some interesting items in our church history. Only a few changes are made in the manuscript now in my possession, and they are of a verbal character.

"My brethren of the Mississippi Conference, I appear before you tonight with a degree of anxiety—with feelings that approach trepidation. I am a plain man of humble pretensions. My opportunities for education and self-culture have never been good. I am not, therefore, sanguine of results. I have thought a good deal on the matter of preaching to you, and will now give you the result of my meditations. I have thought it easier to prophesy to than preach to you, though my prophecy will not be inspired. I find it easier also to pray for than to teach you. I have, therefore, chosen words of prophecy and of prayer for my text. First, however, a few words about myself. I desire to speak, not as an egotist; not in self-glorification; but simply as one of the patriarchs of your body.

"I united with the Mississippi Conference, or was admitted as a probationer, at Woodville, Miss., in 1835, fifty-six years ago. Four years of this time I was a local preacher, engaged in teaching. My location was caused by an expressed desire of some of the members of our Conference that every itinerant among us should be without a home, and that no member of the Conference should engage in teaching. When the General Conference met in 1854, a committee was appointed to inquire into the usefulness of teachers as ministers. Their report was to the effect that teachers had been the means of bringing as many souls to Christ as those in the regular work. I then applied for, and was readmitted. During the time I was teaching I did not slack my efforts as a preacher. Part of the time I was employed by the presiding elder. Living in Jackson, La., I secured letters of introduction to the wealthy sugar planters of West Feliciana parish and preached to them and their negroes. I organized a church in the Barrow neighborhood, and received several of the Barrow family into the church.

"My first appointment was to the Alexandria circuit. I swam creeks, bayous, and rivers, suffered from cold, rain and snow, and preached to some of its scattered inhabitants nearly every day. My next appointment was to Ouachita. Here again I found streams to cross without bridges or ferries, yet it was a pleasant year to me and a prosperous one for the church. My third appointment was to Little Rock, Arkansas. My fourth to Opelousas. I have filled successively the following charges: Woodville, Wilkinson circuit, Brandon circuit, Natchez, agent for Centenary College, Clinton and Jackson, La.; Feliciana Female Institute, Port Gibson Collegiate Academy, Fayette district, Wesson and Beauregard, Port Gibson Academy again, Summit and Magnolia, East Pascagoula, Walnut Grove, Crystal Springs, Raymond, Woodville again, Amite City, Pearlington and Bay St. Louis, Seashore, Handsboro and Biloxi, Scranton, Clinton, La. (At the close of his pastorate at Clinton, La., he asked for, and was granted, a superannuated relation. This was December, 1891.—B. F. L.) I have given within the bounds of the States of Mississippi, Louisiana and Arkansas—yet all within the bounds of the Mississippi Conference—fifty-six years of work for the church. Sixteen years of this time I had charge of schools. During these fifty-six years I have failed to preach, by reason of sickness, not more than five or six times. I have never been inefficient by reason of feeble health. Nearly every charge I have served has prospered.

"During the time I was engaged in teaching scores of my pupils were converted. I procured a charter and built up a school at Jackson, La.—the first female school ever chartered in the State—and conferred the first degrees upon women. Hundreds of girls and young ladies were taught at this school, most of whom became members of the church, and some of them became wives of itinerant preachers. I was the means of securing to our Conference the deeds of Port Gibson Academy, Whitworth Female College, and McGehee College. So I have been teacher, agent and trustee of schools, as well as preacher for our Conference. I had the honor of being elected reserve delegate to the convention that organized the M. E. Church, South. Once I was elected to preside over our Conference; once a fraternal messenger to the Protestant Methodist Church of Mississippi, and once I was a member of the General Conference."

Here the manuscript stops. But this is sufficient to show us the man. The church to-day will never, for it now can never, know how much it owes to the pioneers throughout this section. We sometimes think we have hard times. What did they endure?

B. F. LEWIS.

Meridian, Miss.

Both Pleasant and Profitable.

Many people look on the District Conference as tedious and profitless. Sometimes it does drag along weary wastes. The Jackson District Conference, lately held at Edwards, made quite a different impression on us all. Part of our delight may have grown out of its being held right here among us, thus giving us the joy of exercising hospitality. But aside from this, other factors entered into this pleasant product. Our presiding elder, Rev. E. H. Mounger, had planned far enough ahead to secure the thoughtful preparation of essays and addresses by competent brethren on all the leading topics pertaining to a District Conference. Sunday-school work, missionary work, finances and spiritual interests each received attention in turn. Meanwhile reports were being given by the brethren of their own works. Special effort was made to draw out the laymen, and with good measure of success. Though few in number, this class made themselves felt for good. Our president was always in place—mild in manner, but firm to direct and propel things to an issue in due time. Nothing was slouched or hurried through. Though we met Thursday morning and finished business Saturday evening, several preachers staying over till Monday, there was not a dull or wearisome hour. Most of the day from 8:30 A. M. was taken up with the regular work and preaching.

As visiting brethren, adding much to the interest of the occasion, we had Dr. C. G. Andrews, who so preached and talked as to show that he loved the souls of men fervently, and held the honor of God's church very dear. Bros. Chambers and Holloman represented their institutions of learning (Millsaps and East Mississippi) with characteristic vim and fervor. May God's choice blessings rest on both men and institutions! They are worthy of all confidence.

On Saturday and Sunday we had the presence of Rev. Tokichi Masao, our Japanese student at Vanderbilt. His talks and lectures highly delighted the large audiences that assembled to hear. The parsonage family and others felt it a high privilege to entertain this Christian gentleman. He is as refined and cultured as any could wish to meet. To associate with and hear the sprightly sallies and thoughtful statements of this trophy of the cross made our hearts to warm strangely toward him and the great missionary cause. We are glad he is to travel through our State for a few weeks, serving the church, and receiving enough, we trust, to complete his course in Vanderbilt. If spared (and he appears very vigorous), we anticipate for him a career of great usefulness among his own people. As presiding elders often say, and with less foundation, "He is a good case, Bishop."

J. P. DRAKE.

Edwards, Miss.

Alexandria District Conference.

The Alexandria District Conference convened in the town of Leocompte, La., July 27, 1893. This is the third District Conference held here since 1887. The young presiding elder, Rev. S. J. Davies, presided to the satisfaction of all. Sickness throughout the bounds of the district and elsewhere prevented a full attendance of the preachers. The session was harmonious from start to finish. The business was transacted in a spirit of love, and every detail of church work and its needs prayerfully considered and fully brought out in the different reports.

Rev. A. D. McVoy, always welcome, was present in the interest of our college at Mansfield. Bro. Robert Rundall, president of Board of Missions, was with us, and gave us a strong talk on that important subject, which has already resulted in good, and will continue to bear fruit in that direction. Rev. F. D. Van Valkenburgh, our Conference book-man, was with us magnifying his office, doing good work for the Master, selling hymn books, Bibles, and religious books generally.

The business of the Conference closed on Sunday afternoon, July 30, with an appropriate and touching memorial service in memory of our dear deceased brother, Rev. George E. Greene.

The following were elected delegates to the Annual Conference: J. B. Pickels, A. A. Dean, Dr. S. P. Ward, Rev. Fred White.

Colfax was selected as the place for holding the next session of the Conference.

J. I. HOFFPAUIR, Sec.

Grenada District Conference.

The session of this body was held at Coffeeville, June 29 to July 2, 1893. Rev. R. A. Burroughs, presiding elder of the district, was the bishop of the assembly. Rev. J. W. Luter was elected secretary. All the interests of the church were inquired into and matters of the deepest concern were discussed earnestly, patiently, ably. Bro. Burroughs made wise preparation for the Conference in advance. I would especially invite the attention of presiding elders to one feature of these preliminary arrangements. He selected a number of important subjects and speakers to briefly present them. The following is his list of subjects and speakers:

1. Responsibility of Official Relation in the Church of God—Rev. T. J. Newell, Prof. R. W. Jones.

2. The Mission of the Church in the World—Rev. J. E. Thomas, Rev. James Porter, J. L. Collins.

3. Worldliness in the Church; Remedy—Rev. E. P. Craddock, M. D. L. Stephens, Rev. A. J. Foster.

4. Doctrinal Fidelity and Identity of Methodism—Rev. J. W. Price, Rev. T. J. Newell.

5. Religious Literature—Rev. G. W. Bachman, Rev. J. W. Anderson.

6. Comfortable Church-Houses a Means of Grace—Rev. W. J. O. Bryant, Rev. J. M. Massey, Prof. J. W. Johnson.

7. Duty of Pastor in Caring for Parsonage—Rev. J. W. Luter, Rev. C. C. Grisham.

These discussions were deeply interesting and profitable; the Spirit of the Master was in them. I have attended many District Conferences. I never was in one that seemed altogether to be better than this. The main defect of this Conference was the failure to give to Sunday-schools the prominence due to that part of church work. The Discipline accords to this interest great importance, and requires of the pastor of each charge a written report at each Quarterly Conference; and yet our Sunday-school statistics are meager and inaccurate. We have not half as many scholars in our Sunday-schools as church members on our registers. It is not my purpose now to try to account for this; but I simply wish to call attention to the fact, and to declare that it is not creditable to us as a church. In this matter we are not doing the Lord's work as we should do, and it is an immense loss to our church and to the cause of Christ every year. The church of the future must live in the childhood of the present. I wish I had time to write fully of the work for Sunday-schools, as it has been done on the Weir Valley circuit, by Rev. W. A. Bowl[illegible]. He is a young man of very limited experience as a minister, and yet [illegible] has put new life and new moveme[illegible] into the Sunday-school work of [illegible] charge, and he shows by this what [illegible] be done in other charges. An excu[illegible] for not doing is not equal to doing [illegible] work. The Conference, through [illegible] careful committee, found that [illegible] charges which acted on the financ[illegible] plan of the Discipline paid be[illegible] Note that.

I heard excellent sermons by R[illegible] J. W. Luter, C. C. Grisham, T. [illegible] Malone. Dr. Murrah made a solid [illegible] dress in behalf of Millsaps Colle[illegible] and many spoke most highly of [illegible] Grenada Collegiate Institute, its wo[illegible] its management, its sweet, home-l[illegible] influences. Both these colleges w[illegible] unreservedly commended. The Co[illegible] ference organized an Auxiliary 'Lo[illegible] Fund Association to assist to educat[illegible] young ministers at Millsaps College.

The following were elected delega[illegible] to the Annual Conference: R. [illegible] Jones, L. Lake, J. L. Collins, J. [illegible] Hemphill.

The next Conference will be held [illegible] Abbeville. If we have the same p[illegible] siding elder, we may feel assured t[illegible] all preparatory arrangements will [illegible] made for a profitable session.

I have written from memory.

R. W. JONES.

University of Mississippi.

The Jubilee Fund.

IT CAN BE DONE.

Do not imagine that the Board fa[illegible] to consider deliberately and mainl[illegible] the financial condition of the cou[illegible] before it resolved to call upon [illegible] church for an extra effort this y[illegible] No phase of the situation was o[illegible] looked, and the business distress [illegible] allowed to have its full effect as a [illegible] tor in determining the question a[illegible] what the church should be asked [illegible] give. The conclusion was that by [illegible] of assessment no more should be a[illegible] than is asked every year, and that [illegible] simply that the regular assessment [illegible] paid in full. The total assessme[illegible] $100,000, just what it has been for [illegible] eral years past, and the total mem[illegible] ship is 1 305,715. The per capita a[illegible] for is 7 6-10 cents, or less than the [illegible] of a saucer of ice cream from each m[illegible] ber. Is it extravagant to expect [illegible] church to raise that amount upon [illegible] regular collections before the fall C[illegible] ferences convene? That is what we [illegible] and when it is remembered that, with [illegible] special stress, the average payme[illegible] 60 per centum of the assessment, or [illegible] 4 6-10 cents per member, we are [illegible] year insisting upon an advance of [illegible] three cents for each member, su[illegible] the "financial distress" should no[illegible] considered an insuperable obstacle.

Will not every pastor in the Meth[illegible] ist Episcopal Church, South, tak[illegible] upon himself to bring up his chu[illegible] extension collection in full for the [illegible] rent year? If this is done, it will b[illegible] into our treasury $40 000 more tha[illegible] usually collected, and will enable u[illegible] give to 200 churches sorely in need [illegible] aid in the average amount of $200 e[illegible] Can we not, will we not, do this?

Not Self, But Christ.

There is more pulp than pluck [illegible] great deal of what passes for piety. [illegible] is an audacious attempt to get a [illegible] ride to heaven in a drawing-room [illegible] with plenty of select company a[illegible] good fare on the road.

"Will Dr. A. be in the pulpit to-[illegible] Will the music be up to the mark? [illegible] it likely to clear off? Then I'll tr[illegible] go to church to-day." With suc[illegible] soliloquy on Sabbath morning, [illegible] much grace is there likely to be [illegible] for the wear and tear of the week?

The piety that Christ smiles upo[illegible] a piety that will stand a plouh and [illegible] a storm; that would rather eat so[illegible] eat crust than fare sumptuously on [illegible] holy gains; that gladly gives up [illegible] couch of ease to sally on its mi[illegible] among the outcasts; that sets its f[illegible] tan face like a flint against fashion[illegible] sins. We talk glibly about "taking [illegible] a cross;" but a cross is intended [illegible] somebody's crucifixion. On Calv[illegible] cross we know full well who bled [illegible] his precious life. On our cross [illegible] to be the victim. Paul, the heroic, [illegible] emphasizing this fact when he c[illegible] manded Christians to mortify [illegible] members which are upon the e[illegible] The American revision of the [illegible] Testament hits the sense of this [illegible] sage more accurately, "Put to d[illegible] your own members," etc. Loyalty [illegible] Christ often demands the plucking [illegible] of the right eye and the amputation [illegible] the right arm. The sublime glory [illegible] Abraham's offering really was that [illegible] was willing to thrust the knife thro[illegible] the very heart of self. Oh, it is [illegible] the taking up, it is the giving up, [illegible] makes a strong, athletic, heroic Ch[illegible] tian.—Dr. Theodore L. Cuyler.

Reading.

If young people only knew the v[illegible] of their youth! A half-hour each [illegible] steadily given to the vanquishing [illegible] some real books in history, science, [illegible] erature, is three hours a week, is [illegible] than twelve hours a month, is [illegible] than twelve solid days, of twenty-[illegible] hours each, a year. What can not [illegible] busiest man accomplish by such [illegible] ure of the fragments of his time? [illegible] if the young people only knew [illegible] culture possible for them by such [illegible] ple means! And forevermore it is [illegible] man who knows who gets to be [illegible] man who does, and to whom [illegible] chance for doing comes. Merely [illegible] tering newspaper and novel reading [illegible] a youth-hood devoted only to [illegible] how pitiably sad! No ship drifts [illegible] harbor. No young person drifts [illegible] an achieving manhood or woman[illegible] —The Evangel.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL LESSON.—Aug. 20, 1893.

PREPARED BY REV. A. F. WATKINS.

Paul before Felix.

(Acts xxiv, 10-25.)

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong." (I. Cor. xvi, 13.)

TOPICAL OUTLINE.—I. Paul's Defense (verses 10-21). II. Judgment Postponed (vs. 22 and 23). III. The Judge Arraigned (vs. 24 and 25).

CENTRAL THOUGHT.—The Power of Truth.

HOME READINGS.

Sunday (Aug. 13)—Paul on the Castle Stairs. (Acts xxii, 1-21.)

Monday—Imprisoned in the Tower. (Acts xxii, 22-30.)

Tuesday—Paul before the Council. (Acts xxiii, 1-11.)

Wednesday—The Conspiracy. (Acts xxiii, 12-22.)

Thursday—Sent to Cæsarea. (Acts xxiii, 23-35.)

Friday—Arraigned before Felix. (Acts xxiv, 1-9.)

Saturday—Paul's Defense. (Acts xxiv, 10-27.)

INTRODUCTORY.

TIME.—The time is generally thought to be A. D. 59 or 60. Pelouhet says May 30, A. D. 58.

PLACE.—The governor's palace in Cæsarea, this city was on the Mediterranean Sea, about sixty-seven miles from Jerusalem; built by Herod the Great, and named in honor of Augustus Cæsar. It was here that Cornelius, the centurion, was converted, and here that Philip, the evangelist, lived.

PERSONS.—1. Paul, 2. Felix, the Roman governor; 3. Drusilla, a daughter of Herod Agrippa, and the wife of Felix; 4. Claudius Lysias, the chief captain of the Roman guard at Jerusalem.

CONNECTING LINES.—After Paul's address to the people, and his imprisonment in the tower, he was brought by the Roman authorities into the presence of the Jewish Council. Here his skillful defense saved him from condemnation, and caused such a division among the members of the Sanhedrim, and raised such a tumult, that the chief captain, to save him from violence, conveyed him again into the castle. Despairing of convicting him, the Jews formed a conspiracy to put him to death by assassination. But their plot was discovered, and the chief captain, in order to remove him from the danger that threatened, sent him under guard to Cæsarea, where he might be tried by the Roman governor, Felix, at the same time commanding the Jewish authorities to bring their charges before the tribunal. Accordingly, after five days the high priest and elders, accompanied by Tertullus, a Roman advocate, proceeded to Cæsarea and instituted proceedings against Paul. The speech of Tertullus is shrewdly and skillfully framed, but is marked by flattery to the governor, gross injustice to the prisoner, misrepresentation of the facts relating to the arrest, trial and rescue of Paul at Jerusalem. At this point our lesson begins.

EXPLANATORY.

I.—PAUL'S DEFENSE.

Ver. 10. Paul's quiet dignity forms a striking contrast with the fulsome flattery of Tertullus. He simply expresses his satisfaction at being able to make his defense before one who by long residence among the Jews had become well acquainted with their customs and laws, and could judge intelligently the charge and the defense. Felix had been for six or seven years governor of Judea, and was, therefore, able to judge the case. The fact that Paul mentions the only complimentary thing that could have truthfully been said of Felix, shows the simply courteousness that is equally removed from servile flattery on the one hand and boorish rudeness on the other. Paul was a manly man and a gentle man.

Ver. 11. Another consideration that would tend to a more perfect understanding of the case is the fact that it was now only twelve days since he went up to Jerusalem. That this was so could be easily proved, and that the purpose of his visit was to worship could be made evident by inquiry as to the manner of life during this interval. Tertullus had better look well to his case; for this logician is making a strong defense.

Vers. 12 and 13. Upon his accusers rested the burden of proof, and accordingly Paul simply denied the first charge, but confessed the second. He was a believer in the "way" which they considered heresy, but it was a way which inculcated faith in all that the law required or the prophets taught. His defense was that the Jews were divided into sects, all of which taught the worship of the God of their fathers, and were alike under the protection of the Roman authority. Hence, though a disciple of the Nazarene, he was not an apostle of a new and alien faith.

Ver. 15. And not only in the forms of worship, and in the faith inculcated by the law and the prophets, was he in harmony with his accusers, but also in the great hope and expectation which they cherished of the resurrection of the just and the unjust. This "way" in which he worshiped the God of their fathers was then no heresy, but simply the development of the faith which dwelt as a germ in the doctrines held in common by the accusers and the accused.

Ver. 16. And not only did this doctrine find theoretical acceptance with him, but it also directed his life, for under its influence he exercised himself to live that he might have always a clear conscious sense of having exemplified his faith and done his duty to God and his fellow-men.

Ver. 17. The first and second charges have now been answered, and Paul turned to the third charge—that of profaning the temple. After an absence of several years (It had been many years since Paul last visited the Holy City) he had come bringing contributions which, with great zeal and pains, he had collected among the churches of Macedonia and Achaia. He doubtless hoped that by thus ministering to the necessities of his people he might refute the slanderous charges that had been made against him. The "offerings" that he brought were the ceremonial offerings made at Pentecost, according to the law.

Ver. 18. The purposes of his coming, he has shown, were devotional and charitable, and his conduct while attending the feast was equally free from blame. They had found him in the temple purified according to the law and engaged in making the offerings for which he had come. Nor was there multitude or tumult; for with the four Nazarites he was quietly taking part in the temple worship.

Vers. 19 and 21. Those who had raised the tumult did not appear as witnesses against him, and their failure to do so was evidence that they had no proof of their charges against him. Those who were present to prosecute him could testify only as to what occurred while he was before the council, and them he challenged to show that for the disturbance raised in their presence he was at all responsible. The only thing that could be construed as "evil doing" was his explicit declaration of faith in the resurrection of the dead, and this they dared not call a crime. Never was a defense more ably made, never was vindication more complete. That Felix should have hesitated to discharge his prisoner is surprising. The accusers were silenced and could only acquiesce in the deferred judgment.

II.—JUDGMENT POSTPONED.

Ver. 22. Felix had been too long the governor of Judea and a resident of Cæsarea to be ignorant of the teachings and lives of the disciples of Christ, or of the hostility of the Jewish authorities toward the "way." He could not convict Paul upon the evidence presented; he was unwilling to offend the Jews by acquitting him. He decided to defer his verdict. Lysias never came down; was probably not expected. Felix had simply made up his mind to continue the case.

Ver. 23. Felix seems to have been kindly disposed toward his prisoner. He ordered a centurion to keep him safely, but to give him the greatest possible liberty. He was not chained nor kept in close confinement, but simply guarded, and his friends were allowed freely to visit him and minister to his wants.

III.—THE JUDGE ARRAIGNED.

Ver. 24. Whether Paul was sent for to gratify the desire of Drusilla to see and hear him, or because Felix himself wished to hear him again, can not be determined. Whatever the motive, an opportunity was given this ambassador in bonds to preach an unbound word, and the opportunity was improved.

Ver. 25. If Felix expected Paul to discuss the theory of Christianity, or to give an account of the wonderful life and miracles of his Lord, he was mistaken. The practical duties taught by the gospel was the preacher's theme, and his listener made the application and was troubled. The necessity of righteousness toward God and man and of self-control, enforced by the sanctions of a judgment to come, was a truth sufficiently terrible to cause the despotic and licentious Felix to tremble. He dismissed the preacher and again postponed his decision. Felix was a time-server; he lacked decision of character; he forgot that the present is the time for action and that a more convenient time will never come.

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

1. The true Christian is courteous as well as courageous. (Verse 10.)

2. The reputation of Christianity has been committed to the keeping of every Christian. All manner of evil may be said of us. Let us see to it that it be said falsely. (Verse 13.)

3. Innocence is sometimes as completely vindicated by confession as by denial. (Verse 14.)

4. The resurrection of the dead is the pivotal point of the world's hope. (Verse 16.)

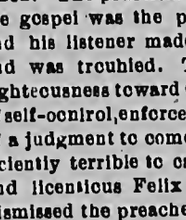
5. The enlightened Christian conscience has reference to man as well as God. (Verse 16.)

6. The marks of true discipleship are two—works and worship, aims and offerings. (Verse 17.)

7. The spirit that says, "Go thy way for this time," has in it the elements of final impenitence. (Verse 25.)

That Tired Feeling

The great benefit which people overcome by That Tired Feeling derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla proves that this medicine "makes the weak strong." J. B. Emerton, a well known merchant of Auburn, Me., says: "About 5 years ago I began to suffer with very severe pain in my Stomach, gradually growing worse. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, being convinced that I was troubled with Dyspepsia and Liver and Kidney troubles. I improved at once and am very much better and feel more like working.



Mr. J. B. Emerton.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

always gives relief and great comfort. It is a God-send to any one suffering as I did."

HOOD'S PILLS are the best family cathartic, gentle and effective. Try a box. Price 25c.

LOOK!

WILKINSON'S

Matchless Sulphuric Acid and Iron Tonic

WELL WATER.

The Most Wonderful Tonic in America.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY OF THE UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA.

Analysis of W. W. Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water, by E. A. Smith, Professor Chemistry and Geology, and J. B. Little.

The amount of water taken was one gallon, wine measure, and was found to contain:

Grains.		Grains.
Sulphuric Acid	814.094	Potassic Oxide	1.115
Ferric Oxide	86.532	Alumnio	3.640
Ferrous Oxide	81.381	Silica	5.036
Calcic Oxide	24.527	Sodium Oxide	4.091
Magnetic Oxide	22.711	Chlorine	2.472
Carbonic Acid	Not yet determined.

The specific gravity of the water is 1.0070.

From Prof. Henry Leffmann, M. D., Analytical Chemist and Expert, Hygienist and Food Inspector to the Pennsylvania State Board of Agriculture, and Professor of Chemistry in the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania:

W. W. Wilkinson—I have examined a sample of your Matchless Mineral Water, and find it possesses the properties specified in the above statement of analysis by Profs. Smith and Little; but the water you are now furnishing is much stronger in the active mineral ingredients.

HENRY LEFFMAN.

Cures Dyspepsia in its worst form, Chronic Diarrhœa, Diabetes, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Sores, Bilious Colic, Tetter, Ring Worm, Chronic Sores, Ulceration of the Womb, Throat, Catarrh, Debility. Best Natural Tonic in the World.

As a Tonic and Alterative.—A teaspoonful to a tablespoonful in one-half glass of water three times a day, directly after eating; but if stomach is soured, take before eating.

As a Cathartic.—Three to five tablespoonsful in same amount of water.

For External Application.—Use as a wash without diluting (warm if possible).

For Injection.—If water is too strong, slightly dilute and use twice a day.

For Cholera Morbus and Cramp Colic.—Two tablespoonsful every hour or two until relieved (in a little water).

Will keep full strength for any length of time in any climate. Never dilute except as used.

Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Iron Tonic.

I am seeking to protect all against many diseases and cure all who are sick by such diseases as may be cured by this, nature's wonderful remedy,

WILKINSON'S MATCHLESS MINERAL IRON TONIC.

It cures Dyspepsia in its worst form, Chronic Diarrhœa, and Acute; cures Flux, all Diseases of the Bowels and Stomach, Skin Diseases, Piles, Sore or Granulated Eyelids, Ulcerated Sore Throat, Blood Diseases, Rheumatism; Debility, Physical and Mental; Liver Complaint, Female Complaints, Cholera Morbus, Cholera, Biliousness, Bruises, Cuts and Scald-head, Eczema, Sick-headache, Colic.

1. W. D. Rogers says: "Your Mineral Water has cured me of dyspepsia, and my wife of womb disease, when all else failed."

2. John H. McCullough says: "This water cured me of dyspepsia after suffering four years and trying medicine, doctors, etc."

3. W. D. Newman says: "I was afflicted for twelve years with tetter. Matchless Mineral Water cured me when all doctors and treatment failed."

4. Rev. Chas. R. Lamar was cured of dyspepsia of more than two years' standing by use of two gallons of Matchless Mineral Water.

5. J. H. Gilbert says: "Matchless Mineral Water is, beyond doubt, the best remedy known to me for sore eyes."

6. Jesse B. Basser says: "I have suffered long from chronic ulcerated sore leg. Offered $100 to doctors to cure. This water cured me."

7. Rev. J. M. Whitehead: "It cures every species of indigestion; can eat anything I want, and a good appetizer."

8. James J. Ingle says: "I have suffered five years with kidneys and liver. Have used one bottle. Most wonderful medicine I ever used."

9. J. G. Lightfoot says: "My son down five years. General debility and impure blood. Doctors failed. Two bottles Mineral Water cured him."

10. John Brannan says: "I was down three years with bilious colic. Spent $150 for medical treatment; grew worse; one and a half gallons. This water cured me."

11. Martin Eady says: "My eye was about out from gun cap in it. The two bottles of Mineral Water made a complete cure of my eyes."

12. George Green says: "I have been suffering fifteen or twenty years with chronic diarrhœa. The Matchless Mineral Water cured me."

13. W. J. Gardner says: "For seven or eight years I was victim of nervous dyspepsia and all its horrors. One quart Mineral Water cured me. Spent thousands of dollars for medical treatment. Would not go back for $10,000."

14. J. B. Brown says: "My only child, three years old, sick two years. Spent much for medical treatment. Child given up to die. Mineral Water cured him. I would not take $1,000 for benefits of that bottle of Mineral Water."

16. Mrs. Eliza Austin, Caddo parish, La., says: "The water is curing everything it is used for. Deaf, blind, lame, bald. I believe it will cure anything curable. One says, 'It's worth to me $500;' another: 'It is worth to me one thousand dollars.' 'It is worth its weight in gold.' I wish I could tell half the good it has done."

16. Mr. J. A. Davis, Benham, Texas, says: 'My horse was as sick with colic as any 'horse I ever saw. One pint of water cured him in five minutes."

Price: Per bottle, 25c, 50c, and $1.

Address

C. M. FUSH,

106 Camp Street,

NEW ORLEANS, - - - LA.

Send stamp for circular.

ANGELL'S

HOMŒOPATHIC PHARMACY,

153 and 155 JULIA ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Richard Angell, M. D., Proprietor.

DEALER IN

Homœopathic Medicines, Books and All Other Articles used in Homœopathic Practice.

Try Angell's Celebrated Whooping Cough Syrup.

North Mississippi Conference Colportage and Sunday-School Agency

KOSCIUSKO, MISS.

Any Good Book Furnished at Publisher's Prices.

A specialty is made of the Books, Periodicals and Sunday-school Supplies of our church, which are furnished at Publishing House prices exactly.

Bibles and Testaments, All Styles and Sizes, Are a Particular Feature of the Work.

Our House requests that all the business of this Conference be transacted through this office.

All orders for books or papers promptly filled, and all pertinent questions concerning good literature and our Sunday-school interests will be readily answered.

G. W. BACHMAN,

Colporter and Sunday-school Agent.

WALL PAPER.

The Spring patterns of Wall Paper are handsomer than ever before, and we are able to offer them to you at prices which are within the reach of all. We believe that anyone buying cheap paper will do better to invest 10, 12½ or 15 cents and buy a gilt paper or a fine blank for the small difference than to invest 5 cents in a cheap blank; but if you want the 5-cents paper, we have it and will be glad to sell it.

MATTINGS,

In novel and dainty designs, which can not be had elsewhere, as we control our own private patterns. Prices from $5 per roll of 40 yrds, and up

LACE CURTAINS,

Rugs, Screens, Easels, Oil Cloth, Window Shades and Upholstering Goods.

ESTIMATES

Given for papering in the country under the direction of our foreman and with our own experienced corps of men.

Heath, Schwartz & Co., Lim.,

116 Camp Street, New Orleans.

FAT PEOPLE

To reduce your weight SURELY use Willard's Obesity Pills and lose 15 pounds a month. No injury to the health. No interference with business or pleasure. NO STARVING. They build up and improve the general health, beautify the complexion and leave NO WRINKLES. Lucy Anderson, 54 Auburn St., Cambridge, Mass., writes: Three bottles of your Obesity Pills reduced my weight from 185 pounds to 130 and I never felt better in all my life. I am much pleased with the result, and shall do all I can to help you. Our patrons include Physicians, Bankers, Lawyers, and leaders of Society. Our goods are not sold in drug stores; all orders are supplied direct from our office. Price per package $2.00 or three packages for $5.00 by mail prepaid. Particulars (sealed) 4cts. ALL CORRESPONDENCE CONFIDENTIAL.

WILLARD REMEDY CO., BOSTON, MASS.

DO YOU

Want a teacher for a Summer school? A bookkeeper for a few months while your regular man takes in the World's Fair? A fine young man for any kind of honorable work? If you do, write to DR. W. B. MURRAH, President, or J. W. CHAMBERS, Agent, of Millsaps College, and they will supply the man.

WANTED.

An A. M. graduate, having twenty years' successful experience in managing large institutions of learning, wants to lease desirable school or college property. Parties interested please address

"COLLEGE PRESIDENT,"

Care of ADVOCATE.

Advertising in England, European Continent, Etc.

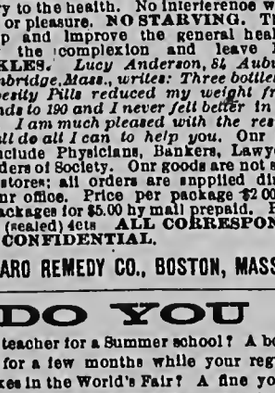
SELL'S

ADVERTISING AGENCY, Limited.

Capital, $250,000. Henry Sell, Manager (editor and founder of "Sell's World's Press").

Full particulars regarding British or European Advertising, sample papers, rates, etc., at the London Office, 167-168 Fleet street, or at New York Office, 21 Park Row, Ground Floor.

Kursheedt's Marble Works



120 and 122 Camp St., New Orleans

No Tobacco. NO OPIUM.

The only practicable way to reach

CATARRH

thoroughly and pleasantly. A positive cure even if all else has failed. Sample FREE by mail

DR. J. W. GLOSSER & CO., DALTON GA.

$525 Agent's profits per month. Will prove it or pay forfeit. New Articles just out. A $1.50 sample and terms free. Try us. Chidester & Son, 2 Bond St., New York City.

When answering advertisements please mention the Advocate

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

GREAT FAST MAIL ROUTE.

Four Daily Trains between NEW ORLEANS and CHICAGO.

The Only Line running Pullman Buffet Sleepers and Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes.

FREE RECLINING CHAIR CARS TO CHICAGO.

St. Louis Without Change.

The Only Line running a Double Daily Train Service to

ST. LOUIS.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York

The great Steel Bridge, spanning the Ohio River at Cairo, completed, and all trains (freight and passenger) now running regularly over it, thus avoiding the delays and annoyances incident to transfer by ferry boat.

TICKET OFFICE: Corner St. Charles and Common Streets.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

T. AND P.

TO

Southern California.

DOUBLE DAILY TRAIN SERVICE

—TO—

Dallas, Fort Worth, and Points in North Texas.

SHORT LINE TO

Hot Springs, Little Rock and Denver.

TIME CARD.

	Leaves.	Arrives.
Den. and Cal. Express	8:15 a. m.	7:00 p. m.
Tex. and Ark. Express	8:20 p. m.	6:50 a. m.
Local	8:50 p. m.	10:05 a. m.

8:15 a. m. train has through Pullman Buffet Sleepers to Denver and connects at Fort Worth with Pullman Sleepers to California.

8:20 p. m. train has through Pullman Buffet Sleepers to Shreveport, Dallas and Fort Worth; connects with Cannon Ball train for Hot Springs. Also through Sleeper to Little Rock via Alexandria.

For tickets and other information apply at 47 St. Charles street, corner Gravier, or Texas and Pacific Depot, foot of Terpsichore street.

A. S. GRAHAM, Passenger and Ticket Agent.
GASTON MESLIER, Gen'l Pass. and T'k't. Agt.
L. S. THORNE, Third Vice President and General Superintendent.

Yazoo and Mississippi Valley RAILROAD COMPANY.

All trains arrive and depart from new Passenger Station, cor. Howard Ave. and Rampart St.

	Leaves.	Arrives
Kansas City and Memphis Fast Train	5:00 p. m	6:35 a. m
Vicksburg & Natchez Ex.	7:55 a. m	5:35 p. m
Bat. Rouge "Coast Train."	3:40 p. m	10:00 a. m

The Only Line running Solid Trains between New Orleans, Memphis and Vicksburg, with Modern Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars through to Memphis and Kansas City.

The direct and favorite route to Kansas City, Denver, and All Points West.

The short line to Hot Springs and points in Arkansas and North Louisiana.

Commutation Tickets, Mileage Books, Party Rates and Week End Excursions.

Summer Excursion Tickets on Sale in season.

Ticket Office: St. Charles St., cor. Common.

JAMES DINKINS, Div. Pass. Agt.
J. W. COLEMAN, A. G. P. A.
A. H. HANSON G. P. A.

CLARK & MEADER,

16 and 18 CARONDELET ST.

BRANCH STORE:

Cor. ST. CHARLES and NAPOLEON Avenues,

NEW ORLEANS.

Stuffed Olives in Oil; Boneless Anchovies in Oil; Boneless Anchovies in Salt; French Crescent Olives; Mammoth Queen Olives; Capes au Natural; Mushroom Powder; Bijou Cans of Allumettes; Thon a huile; Pure of Fois Gras; Sardines, Truffle; Pure of Sardines; Truffled Sardines; New Maple Syrup in Quart bottles, 1 Gallon and ½ Gallon Cans; Maple Sugar in 1-pound cakes; Franco-American Game Pates, such as Wild Duck, Grouse, Partridge, Pheasant, Chicken, Chicken Liver, Woodcock; Entrees—Chicken Curry a la Indienne, Chicken Saute a la Marengo; Calves' Tongues with Tomato Sauce; Veal and Green Peas; Calves' Tongue, sauce Piquant; Braised Beef a la Jardeniere; Ross' Belfast Ginger Ale, Sarsaparilla, Club Soda, and Raspberry Vinegar; Potomac Roe Herring; Clysmic Water; Smoked Beef; Small Whole Boneless Cooked Hams in cans; Whole Boiled Beef Tongues in cans; Wheatena; Pettijohn's California Breakfast Food; Schumacher's Rolled Wheat and Avena; Cerealine Flakes; Mott's Pure Sparkling Sweet and Crab Apple Cider; Large Smoked Beef Tongue.

J. C. MORRIS CO., Limited.

40, 42 and 44 Tchoupitoulas Street.

E. F. DYER, Pres. E. P. MACKIE, Treas

WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

Refrigerators, Freezers, Water Coolers, Fishing Tackle, Seines, Oars, Hammocks, Croquet, Baseballs, Baskets, Brooms, Brushes, Fruit Jars, Bottles, Flasks, Demijohns, Rope, Twine, Axle Grease, Wrapping Paper, Bags, Stationery, Cheese Safes, Cages, Scales, Tacks, Chimneys, Lamps, Tinware, Blacking, Woodenware, Cutlery, Clocks, etc.

W. W. CARRE.

LUMBER MERCHANT

AND MANUFACTURER OF

PLANTATION CABINS, STORES, Etc.

Nos. 343, 344, 346 and 348 Howard Ave.,

NEW BASIN. NEW ORLEANS

GUARANTEED CURE OR NO PAY.

Nothing Fairer Than This.

When we say cure, we do not mean simply to stop it for the time being, but a

PERMANENT AND POSITIVE CURE

For Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Impure Blood, and all diseases arising from a disordered Liver. Write for Treatise, Testimonials, and Free Sample bottle of

DR. ROC'S LIVER, RHEUMATIC and NEURALGIA CURE to

CULLEN & NEWMAN,

182 GAY ST., Knoxville, Tenn.

POSITIONS GUARANTEED (Guaranteed in Writing.)

Send for free catalogue of DRAUGHON'S Consolidated Practical Business College, Nashville, Tenn. Cheap Board. No vacation. MENTION THIS PAPER.

Shorthand in the Vest Pocket.

DR. LAFFERTY, the Stenographer to the Virginia Senate, has given the CONGRESSIONAL SYSTEM OF SHORTHAND in a series of simple, witty, chatty talks; each illustrated. You learn it while you laugh. 65 pages. Price 50 cents. Address him, Richmond, Va.

TO MINISTERS.

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN YOUR CHOIR to the extent of desiring to have each Sunday, new and bright ANTHEMS, thoroughly devotional in character?

If You Are -: :-

and will take the time to send us the name and address of your Choir leader, or better still, of all your choir singers, we shall take pleasure in sending you and them something that will satisfactorily solve the question of how to obtain new and good music at an exceedingly moderate outlay. If you cannot attend to the matter personally, please ask some one in your congregation who can.

ADDRESS

THE JOHN CHURCH CO.,

S. E. Cor. 4th and Elm Sts., Cincinnati, O.

$1.50 AMERICAN WATCH

$1.50 will now buy a reliable AMERICAN WATCH in strong GOLD PLATED Dust Proof Case. Will not vary a minute in 30 days; is as durable as any watch made. FULLY GUARANTEED. (Publishers of this paper will tell you we are reliable.) It has AMERICAN patent lever MOVEMENT, Patent Escapement and Regulator, Lantern Pinion, 240 beats to minute. No key required to wind and set; weighs 4 oz.; exactly like cut. Post-paid for $1.50, 3 for $4.00, 12 for $15.00 by express. Mention this paper and we will include handsome gold plated CHAIN & CHARM, AGENTS' Sterling Silver Specialties sent for TRIAL. Catalogue of 1000 n. FREE.

HERBERT H. INGERSOLL & BRO.

Room 2, 65 Cortlandt St., New York City.

FENCING

WIRE ROPE SELVAGE.

RAILROAD, Farm, Garden, CEMETERY, LAWN, POULTRY and RABBIT FENCING. Thousands of miles in use. Catalogue FREE. Freight Paid. McMULLEN WOVEN WIRE FENCE CO., CHICAGO, ILL.

A NEW UNIQUE and VALUABLE Historical Chart of Christianity from the Apostolic Period through the Reformation has been prepared by REV. M. LOUCKS, D.D. of Dayton, Ohio. For particulars address postage to him and receive circulars free,

REV. M. LOUCKS, D.D, Dayton, Ohio.

CHURCH SCHOOL FURNITURE

Before purchasing any PEWS, PULPITS or any other Furniture, write Wm. H. Morrow, No. 8 Noel Ill'k, Nashville, Tenn., for Catalogue.

Established 1857.

The Great CHURCH LIGHT

Frink's Patent Reflectors for Gas, Oil, or Electric, give the most powerful, softest, cheapest, and best light known for Churches, Stores, Banks, Theatres, Depots, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room. Get circular & estimate. A liberal discount to churches & the trade. Don't be deceived by cheap imitations.

I. P. FRINK, 551 Pearl St., N. Y.

WHY PAY DEALER'S PROFIT?

$2.75 buys a $20 White Reed Baby Carriage, freight prepaid, shipped on 10 days' trial. Latest design and style. Perfect, reliable and finely finished. Nothing but the best material used and warranted for 5 YEARS. We have been in the manufacturing business many years, and are reliable and responsible; make and sell nothing but what we can guarantee as represented, quote lowest factory prices. Write today for our large free catalogue, which is one of the most complete ever published.

OXFORD MFG. CO., 340 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WE WANT AT ONCE

RELIABLE MEN everywhere (local or traveling) to advertise and keep our Show Cards tacked up in towns on trees and fences along public roads. Steady work in your own county. $70 A MONTH SALARY AND $3 A DAY EXPENSES ADVANCED every 15 days when started. FRANCO-GERMAN ELECTRIC CO., CINCINNATI, O.

SKIN DISEASES Tetter, Eczema, Chapped Skin, Burns, Piles, Chilblains and all skin troubles cured by GREVE'S OINTMENT. 50c. Druggists. HISCOX & CO., N.Y.

ARE YOU CONSUMPTIVE

Use PARKER'S GINGER TONIC without delay. A rare medicinal compound that cures when all else fails. Has cured the worst cases of Cough, Weak Lungs, Asthma, Indigestion, Inward Pains, Exhaustion. Invaluable for Rheumatism, Female Weakness, and all pains and disorders of the stomach and bowels. 50c. & $1 at Druggists.

HINDERCORNS. The only sure cure for Corns. Stops all pain. 15c. at Druggists. HISCOX & Co., N. Y.

CMONEY. $20 for 1; $50 for 2; $100 for 3; $200 for 5; $500 for 10; $1,200 for $20. Address P. O. Box D, Huntington, L. I.

BELLS

Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. Send for Catalogue. C. S. BELL & CO., Hillsboro, O.

THE LARGEST ESTABLISHMENT MANUFACTURING CHURCH BELLS CHIMES & PEALS in the World.

PUREST BELL METAL (COPPER AND TIN.)

Send for Price and Catalogue.

McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY, BALTIMORE, MD.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY

THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO., Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A. Best Lake Copper and E. India Tin. CHURCH BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES. Price & Terms Free.

Christian Advocate.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased Preachers, $1

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorised Agents, to whom payments may be made.

All correspondence with the ADVOCATE, literary or business, and all money due or to become due should be addressed to Rev. J. M. Beard, CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans, La

Capt. G. A. R. Lawrence is an accredited agent of the ADVOCATE in the city and country, and he is authorized to take subscribers, contract for advertisements, and receipt for money due on subscription or otherwise.

Rev. J. M. BEARD, D. D., Editor and Publisher.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. J. M. BEARD, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. J. B. A. AHRENS, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. J. W. CHAMBERS.
REV. W. B. LEWIS.
REV. R. J. JONES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER.

Thursday, August 17, 1893.

Extraordinary Offer.

We offer the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE to new subscribers until Jan. 1, 1894, for fifty cents when sent in clubs of ten, and accompanied by the cash.

Questions Answered.

Rev. T. W. Lewis, of Holly Springs, asks us whether our anguage in a late article might be construed to mean that regenerated persons did not grow in grace. By no means. What we intended to say was that regenerated persons did not grow in grace without becoming sanctified. The one grace represents the conferring of life, the other its disciplining into perfection. The one is life merely, or the beginning of an era; the other is the life of love, or the culmination of divinity in the soul of the believer. The common notion of growth in regeneration, leaving scriptural terms out of the discussion, is that of latent development, or growth in size or age without reference to character. The term "grace," in the phrase "grow in grace," refers, of course, to the grace of sanctification; otherwise we should be compelled to view life as growing by a development of its own inner being into a higher state or sphere, which is inconceivable. But the phrase, "grow in grace," as the sanctifying process in Christianity, signifies less of growth and more of grace. It is not growth abounding, but grace abounding. Regeneration is the plant, and sanctification is sunshine and showers and dews and winds assimilated by it. Sanctification is not the bugaboo that many of our brethren conceive it to be; it is but the nature of the supernatural, and a beautiful garment, which the new creature puts on, to fit it for better society than that of earth. In the seventh of I. John, which we are asked to construe in harmony with our view, the phrase "doeth righteousness," does not mean "doeth righteousness" in the sense of keeping all the commandments, like the vain young man who came to Christ; but "liveth righteousness," which includes thoughts and words as well as actions, or the whole deportment of a sanctified person. And the ninth verse of the same chapter, which reads, "He that is born of God doth not commit sin," means that he has not a predelection for sin, as one who had never been born. The noun in the clause represents the thing; the verb, the tendency of the thing. Or in other words, there is a propensity for God, but not a character of God. Sin remains in him, but he does not remain in sin—that is, if he enters upon the sanctified life. Thus Burkitt and the best commentators explain it.

To the question, Is not a saved man sanctified? we reply, not necessarily, but that a sanctified man is saved. To that, Is all sin forgiven in regeneration? we answer that nothing is forgiven in regeneration, but that something is given. Pardon stands for justification; life for regeneration, and cleansing, as represented by the intermediary symbols of blood, and fire, for sanctification. To the question, Where is the Scripture that says, We must have a second cleansing? we cite our interlocutor to a few passages that occur to us at the moment: Zech. xiii, 1; Mal. iii, 2, 3; Matt. iii, 11; John xvii, 17; Id., xiv, 16, 17; Id. xv, 2; Eph. i, 13; Heb. ix, 13, 14; Titus iii, 5; Acts ii, 18; I. John i, 7-9. Figurative teaching—second cleansing of the temple—Matt. xxi, 12.

The Age of Witness.

The Lord has desired in all ages a witnessing church. Hence he sent the disciples into all the world to tell the good news of salvation to all men. In harmony with this purpose, he exhorted them in the most expressive phrase, "Ye are my witnesses." To them he said, as vessels not only brimmed, but running over, "Freely ye have received, freely give." When the age of the Holy Ghost came it was seen to be, above all things, an age of witness. He, the Spirit, witnessed himself, all the time and everywhere. To make known the secrets of redemption by a heart process to man he came at Pentecost. To make them witnesses he crowned the disciples' ministries as well as their heads with tongues of fire. They were to go everywhere and tell the rapture of that union with Christ which proclaims "the fulness of him that filleth all in all."

First, the Spirit itself witnesses with our spirits. If a man has anything to relate he must know it very distinctly himself. An old college professor said to his class, "Young gentlemen, if you should ever, by a mental process, come into full and hearty possession of a fact you will have no difficulty in telling it to others; but half truths and dim generalizations will require first to be laboriously written down in ink and then read with as much care as a Sanscrit MS.;" and after many years not one of them has ever ceased to thank him for the good advice. We first get a fact or an experience of it, and then we get a language. Truth does not wait upon expression, but expression upon truth. Words are but the clothing of ideas, and if the best words do not come, substitutes will, for nakedness of any kind will not long endure the critic's stare. When the disciples suffered that overflow of divinity in the upper chamber they had all the tongues they could use, and more than Hillel or Gamaliel could understand. Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty of expression. But the tongues were a prophecy of the coming age as well as a sign to the apostles. The age of miracles was to be substituted by the age of parables, and that of wonderful works by that of wonderful words. Material ministries were to fall more and more into shadow, and the gospel was to win its widening way through hearts and tongues. The good news was no longer to be expressed in ceremonies or voiced in object lessons; it was to become univocal in human lives. The idealized gospel should give way to the realized gospel, and the world be saved by the overflow of hearts into each other. Every truth of the gospel was to take fire in human hearts and blaze in human speech. Like the "mariner's tale," the subject, was to hold people by glance and tone and inflection. Paul told his experience, and a great awe fell upon the Jerusalem mob. He told it, and Agrippa, the legalist, was "almost persuaded." He told it from Jerusalem to Antioch, and from Antioch "to Illyricum and round about," and the heathen world fairly shook with divine tremors. The apostles all, went about every whither, relating the story of redemption as it was set to music in their own lives, and the gospel dawn on wings of light soared to meridian in less than half a century. That glory that shone around when the angels told it, was just as manifest when the apostles told it. Their faces shone as the faces of angels, and the people—yea, the rulers—"could not resist the spirit and the wisdom with which they spoke." A servant of tables became a servant of altars; a minister of shekinahs. Paul heard Stephen relate the experience that came to him under the shower of stones, and when he obtained one like it, he gave it rapturous voice. He was so lost himself, in the radiance of that brilliant horizon, that he could do nothing but shine; or let the supernal shine. Dull medium though he was, the luminiferous rays played through him, till heathen continents saw, and infidel ages were enlightened. The gospel we may infer from much, if not all we know concerning it, is composed of three things: 1, a subject or gift; 2, an experience; 3, a witness. It is as superior to mere doctrine as the Spirit that giveth life to the dry bones that proclaim death. It is but "a voice crying in the wilderness;" but potential as the Giver of life, and melodious as the harps of heaven.

There is no miracle like that of the breaking up of an ordinary human life into fragments that shall feed multitudes; the one miracle of the Holy Ghost, and greater than any the Savior wrought when in the flesh.

A Summer Trip.

On Friday evening last, at six o'clock, the editor boarded the Illinois Central train, and sped away northward; his objective being a point in Northern Louisiana, about fifteen miles northwest of Monroe, whither he had been called to dedicate a church. Being detained at Jackson for a few hours, we saw Bro. Chambers, glimpsed Bishop Galloway; and was off again the following morning to travel all day, and pass the night near our destination, with the delightful family of Rev. R. A. Davis. Time deals gently with our brother and his fair helpmeet, and though grey hairs are here and there upon them, the effect in part of a great family bereavement, the signs of household felicity and good cheer were on every hand. The following morning, with a pleasant companion for guide and driver, we came on to Wilheites Church, and found a little multitude in waiting. The church, though large, was not able to accommodate more than one-half the throng, and we have rarely seen more patience under greater discouragements, than was exhibited by the wedged and standing and perspiring crowds, while for a period of three hours and a half the preacher, from a distance, harangued and exhorted them. The sum of one hundred and seventy dollars was needed to complete the payment on the beautiful church edifice, and to obtain that sum in the month of August and in a season of crisis, from a community not particularly noted for wealth, and absolutely undisciplined in the art of Christian beneficence; and while already the people assembled had given as largely as their means would allow to this object, was a task not to be despised truly; and one in which it seemed that the collector was to have only that kind of support from the audience assembled represented by the unbankable commodity known as sympathy. Yet the Lord helped his servant, and the Spirit of grace was benignly present with the people, and after much waiting and many appeals the shower of shekels began; heralded at first by a few large drops, and gradually increasing until there was a refreshing downpour, filling the pools and even overflowing them; the amount realized for the collection being considerably more than two hundred dollars. A good providence or providences undoubtedly turned the anticipated water haul into a water fall, and while as a result all nature seemed refreshed and smiling; perhaps, tired preachers and people never enjoyed a feast more than did those returning from the spoil—that country dinner of chicken pie, country ham and luscious melons, under the shade of the oaks by the great spring. In the afternoon, at five, we preached again for the good and generous people, and took our leave with most sweet remembrances of the day, and a consciousness almost, if not quite divine, that the Lord Jehovah, in answer to the prayers of his people and in this solemn dedicatory service, had, indeed, arisen into the ark of his strength and become thenceforth the guide and companion of these pilgrim worshipers.

Journeying back, from Monroe eastward we observed to ourselves that the country was "stale and flat," if not "unprofitable;" being destitute of scenery unless it can be found in swamps, and sickly, overflowed crops, whose feeble and withered ranks seemed to be a standing, when it was not a lying, protest against "great expectations." A stingy government and no levees has turned this land of multiflora and cornucopiæ into a frog pond and alligator reach. Verily, the great war for the rights of the colored man, whose issues of independence in other respects we have no wish to dissent from, has resulted in apportioning to him the traditional forty acres; but where only the mosquitoes and the tax collector can reach him; while it has turned the revenues of the nation into the pockets of his thrifty rescuers. Vicksburg is left, to use a provincialism, the great Mississippi having shown a decided fondness for Louisiana soil, and detoured a few miles above. But she sits like a queen on her throne of red hills nevertheless, and from her majestic remove seems to look down with more of pity than resentment upon her inconstant spouse, so manifestly drawn away and enticed by delta charms. On the train from Vicksburg to Jackson we fell into the company of Dr. C. G. Andrews, traveling with his accomplished daughter, Miss Mary, and, therefore, when we reached the latter place had an experienced guide to direct us to the parsonage of the First Church, and the genial company who have converted it into a model itinerant's home. As it turned out, Dr. Andrews was visiting Jackson upon a tender mission to this same home circle, and with Bro. Burton, of McComb City, who was dropped on the scene by a similar providence, we were of a most pleasant company who witnessed the christening of the beautiful babe of the host and hostess. James Gunning Watkins is superb, and in addition to an air of intelligence and command, that, no doubt, fortokens true greatness, was one of the best-behaved members of the company. A happy mother and wife is Sister Watkins, and of domestic felicity on this rare evening her liege lord and devoted servant seemed to want nothing. In the afternoon Bro. Watkins took us in his snug turnout for a drive through the city, showing us its beautiful residences, costly buildings, and splendid natural environment. Of course, our attention was turned chiefly to Millsaps College, which, above all the places that we saw in Jackson, is beautiful for situation. It is worth a visit to the place to view the landscapes; some of the most beautiful vistas, composing more than an hundred acres, being the property of the college. The main college building, costing twenty-five thousand dollars, is a gem even in the midst of such costly and splendid settings as the public buildings of the State located here must be admitted to be. The other buildings, including spacious halls, dormitories, president's residence, etc., are quite up to the present requirements; some of them being elegant, and all of them comfortable, with the prospect of large additions in the near future. With Dr. Murrah as president, and a fine corps of instructors, it will take rank among our famous institutions of a similar grade at once. There were one hundred and forty-nine students in attendance at the opening session last year, and this number will, perhaps, be far exceeded by that of the coming term. The noble generosity of Major Millsaps in building and endowing this college, and his rare foresight in controlling its affairs, and making provision for its future, should provoke not only the Methodists, but all the people of the State, and particularly the citizens of Jackson, to a larger measure of zeal and good works in helping the infant college.

The Silver Question.

We intended to write on the silver question, that it would be best to have the silver retired and the gold recouped, or the silver sent West where it has more friends, and committed to the creation of a new monetary status in that desert region; and that the gold reserve should be turned into a preserve, along with as large a slice of the saffron revenue of Europe, as could be conveniently cornered and covered into the Treasury vaults at Washington. A dearth of silver would, no doubt, create an abundance of gold, and even if it did not promptly relieve the situation by changing the color of our finances, it would certainly put a stop to the present distressing outflow of bank presidents and other capitalists interested in the specie situation, and promote a corresponding inflow of the white metal; while everywhere, economic habits would be stimulated in the nation, and the crop of misers correspondingly diminished. All this is the result of our deeper thinking; but we have sometimes in pensive reverie associated these two subjects, gold and silver, which are so perpetually at war, and which were so evidently created for matrimony and harmonious oneness, with the other question of capital and labor, so correspondingly bent on each other's destruction, and that of the world, which they were designed to bless; and have thought of gold as having real identity with capital, and of silver as representing horny-handed labor going upon myriad lines of industry to work out the problem of our great industrial nation. And we fondly imagined to ourselves that when gold and silver had wrought their work in unison; gold capital backing with its latest reserve, silver enterprise doing its best; that in that gold-silver era of our finances capital and labor would be no more, both having found a mutual resting-place in the tainted soil from from which they were dug. But, perhaps, we are looking too far ahead; or it may be that in our "mental process" we passed from thoughts of the rich man's heaven to meditation on the poor man's state of rewards, without pausing long enough to make the necessary distinctions.

In conclusion, let us say again that our American metal is the silvern mean between European gold and Oriental copper, and that that is a providential fact that we can not afford to forsake in a time of crisis, or, indeed, in any time. We have written these few observations not to prove that we understood the silver question (?), but to demonstrate how little the bimetalists understand it.

Since writing and rejecting this article, as being in too light a vein for so ponderous a theme, we have read the President's message, and conclude to publish it both for the sake of contrast, and to restore the equilibrium of debate.

NOTES.

Each thought of Thine, how deep it is!

***

A proud man is prondest of his religion.

***

The early candidate is the most jostled.

***

The late candidate is the darkest complexioned.

***

Every man should have a monopoly of religion? Why not.

***

Too much dignity is as fatal to "the truth as it is in Jesus," as any other sort of pride.

***

Paul's monopoly was phrased by himself, as "the fulness of him that filleth all in all."

***

There is a difference with a broad distinction between coming to Christ and coming into him.

***

What makes heavenward marching slow and difficult is that it must be accomplished "in knee strides."

***

The Breton fisherman's prayer: "Lord, have mercy upon me. My boat is so little and thy sea is so great."

***

"Mary," asked Charles, "what animal dropped from the clouds?" "The rain, dear," was the whispered reply.

***

If Christians understood their Lord better, we are persuaded that they would less often fall out with each other.

***

A Church Extension Jubilee in the South during the present year will cause a greater jubilee among the immortals.

***

The candidate is most adroit in having nothing to say for himself, and everything to allege against his "honorable competitor."

***

Paul must have thought that he had a monopoly of religion, and of some other things beside, when he said, "I have all and abound."

***

By a well-established standard of values in the realm of infinity, what I have (even though I should possess all) does not affect the stock of my neighbor.

***

The people who write correctly write insipidly. A surfeit of rhetorical cream is as sickening as ohm from Carlyle, or samples of chaos from Hugo.

***

When a loaded man and a loaded pistol juxtapose, there is apt to be an explosion. The country should unload both and diminish its record of horrors.

***

The writer who says it with punctuation marks can not have much to say and he who explodes his meaning in pert periods is likely to be as instructive if not as impressive, as a bunch of firecrackers set off at a celebration.

***

It will not do to judge a man by his doctrine, or a doctrine by a man. The man may be better than his doctrine and a doctrine may be better than the man. Average them, and then give the sinner the benefit of the doubt.

***

Envy slew the first man from ambush in Eden, pounded the second to death as he stood by an altar of sacrifice, and through sacred precincts, as well as elsewhere, is carrying a club for all their successors who are worthy of menace.

***

Bishop Haygood's new book, "Jack knife and Brambles," has been received by the ADVOCATE. We have not yet had time to read it, though eager as the public. It can be had of Barbee & Smith, or J. F. Yarbrough, Oxford, Ga. Price, $1.

***

Let no man deceive you. The ADVOCATE is gaining hundreds of subscribers, and for the past two months there is not a well-accredited case of the loss of a subscriber on account of dissatisfaction with either the business management or editorial policy of the paper.

***

Let us preachers not get away from the people by affecting too much scholarship, or refinement in manner or utterance either. Idiom and slang are not far removed from each other, and they are the mow and rake with which Sam Jones has done more harvesting than all the men who part their hair and words in the middle, in the fields where he has labored.

***

Did you ever know: A church that died because it paid too much? A revival of religion that spoiled the missionary collection? A missionary pastor who did not build up all sides of his church? A man who paid liberally to missions and then felt mean about it? A Christian that amounted to much who did not believe in missions? A man that does not believe in foreign missions who takes much stock in home affairs?—Exchange.

PERSONAL AND OTHERWISE.

Dr. J. W. Pieroe's leoture before the Biblioal Institute, on the English Bible, was, as we predioted, a suooess.

Rev. Herman Knickerbocker left for his work at Bastrop last week. He was looking much improved from his trip.

Rev. H. W. Rickey, of Morgan City, looked in on us last week en route from the Biblical Institute. He preached well on a recent Sunday during the session of that body.

A scholarship in Washington and Lee University, one of the best schools in the country, is offered at a bargain by a widow lady who is a subscriber to the ADVOCATE, and needs the money.

Rev. F. G. Hoontt, from Plaquemine and Donaldsonville, gave us a pleasant call recently. Bro. Hoontt is of the church building guild in our ministerial ranks, and future generations will call him blessed.

Bishop Galloway honored the ADVOCATE office with a call both going and returning from Seashore Camp Ground, where he went to address the Biblical Institute. His lecture is said to have been characteristically luminous and strong.

It seems that Bros. Hoffpauir and Denson were not self-appointed to the Alexandria district, but only appointed subsequently to the session of the Annual Conference. Our mistake was an innocent one, but we hasten to correct any false impression which might result from it.

Rev. J. R. Roy, of Grand Prairie, Lower Coast Mission, and Rev. J. W. Lee, of his work, and who will come up for admission to the Annual Conference this Winter, paid us a pleasant call on Wednesday last. Bro. Roy represents his work as being in good shape, with a handsome new church and parsonage, and wholly out of debt.

Rev. S. S. Keener, of Baton Rouge, paid us a much appreciated visit last Wednesday. He has lately had repairs put on the beautiful church at the Capital City amounting to $325, and will commence the building of a mission church, Aug. 15. That sounds like material advance; and besides we have heard from various sources the best reports concerning this pastor and his work during the year.

Before going to press we received the following sad note. But the preacher son will know where to find the preacher sire.

Sharon, Miss., Aug. 8, 1893.

We hurled to-day Rev. J. W. Adams, father of Rev. T. W. Adams, of the Mississippi Conference. Bro. Adams was at one time a member of the Mississippi Conference, but at the time of his death was a local preacher. A more extended notice will appear later.

V. D. SKIPPER.

One of our good brethren of the Alexandria District Conference, writing to us in explanation of his vote on the celebrated resolutions, says that he understood that the doctrine advocated by us in the paper "condemned the many good people who long years ago went to the glory land without ever having heard of it." Which God forbid! Neither the doctrine or its advocates can be charged with anything of the sort.

To our brethren who send us pressing invitations to attend many camp meetings in Louisiana and Mississippi, we must take this opportunity of expressing our heartfelt regrets that it will not, in the nature of things, be possible for us to attend any of them, but that our prayers will go up in their behalf unceasingly that the tide of revival, already begun in our Southwest, may reach every one of them with apostolic power and pentecostal ingatherings.

The ADVOCATE had a pleasant call from Prof. Fitzhugh, the president of that popular institution, the Brookhaven Female College, a few days ago. He was looking what he is, the successful college president, and had many hopeful things to say about the school. This institution of learning is one of high prestige, because of scholarship, splendid location, buildings, etc. Its alumnæ are all over the Southwest, and it offers special advantages for first-class training in all departments. Persons having daughters to be sent to school should by all means canvass the claims of Brookhaven College, one of the best.

Recent mails come in loaded down with commendations of the ADVOCATE and its editorial management. We can not publish a tithe of what is sent, and, therefore, publish none. Two preachers of the Alexandria District Conference, who were not present, write us hearty condemnation of the resolutions. Several articles severely arraign the signers of the aforesaid; and of all that we have received nothing is from "second blessing" sources. On the other side, we have letters in reply from the president of the Conference, and one of the signers, which found our columns too crowded for further attention at present.

For Sleeplessness

Use Horsford's Acid Phosphate,

and you will exchange a night of restless tossing for one of dreamless sleep.

A Little Common Sense.

ABOUT MALARIA—WHAT OLD CASES OF AGUE SHOULD KNOW.

You have had fever and ague; or, perhaps, have had dumb ague, in which there are no distinct chills. At any rate, you have malaria in your system, which makes you miserable during the later Summer months and Fall. You have doctored much. Quinine, you have taken till your ears ring, arsenic till your nerves quiver, and strychnia till your jaws are stiff. Still the malaria hangs about. You don't feel good a little bit. Miserable! that's the only word that describes it. Chilly feelings, hot flashes, cold feet and legs, coated tongue, bad taste, offensive breath, poor digestion and appetite—all these and more. Tonics fail, nervines are useless, and liver medicines a waste of time and money.

But Pe-ru-na will cure you—cure you completely—make you feel as good as new. And you will stay cured, too. Pe-ru-na contains no quinine to injure the brain, no arsenic to destroy the stomach, no strychnia to impair the nerves. It is a natural, wholesome, never-failing nerve tonic, blood purifier and invigorator of the whole system.

Send for a free copy of "Aurora," a treatise on malarial diseases and other affections of Summer. Sent postpaid by The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio.

The advertisement of Prof. T. W. Dyer's University Preparatory School appears in this issue of the ADVOCATE. The principal, long popular as a teacher of merit and conscientious instructor of youth, has lately purchased the splendid property on St. Andrew and Coliseum street, for many years the residence of Col. Bush, and is, therefore, so situated that he will not be compelled to turn away pupils, and that he can also accommodate a limited number of boarders. The school, now eligibly situated in the best residence portion of the city, and with increased facilities of many kinds, will at once enter upon a new and wider career of usefulness. We wish it success.

200 Agents Wanted.

One to every community in State of Mississippi to sell Bishop Fitzgerald's Epworth Book. Prospectus, 50 cents. Holman Self-Pronouncing Sunday-school Teacher's Bible. Prospectus, $1. Imitation of Christ, beautifully illustrated by Thomas a Kempis. Prospectus, 75 cents. Full supply of International Bibles in stock. Send for catalogue. Order your Sunday-school supplies for the year, and remit quarterly, if you can not send cash with order. Apply at once.

LAIRD & DOMINICK,
Jackson, Miss.

Do You Know?

That when your bowels are disordered, and irregularities caused by change of diet or location exist,

Brodie's Astringent Cordial

Will correct all the troubles, and never fails, but

CURES

DIARRHŒA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, CRAMPS, BLOODY FLUX, and Such Symptoms.

TESTIMONIAL.

July 28, 1889.

Dear Sirs:—I have used Brodie's Astringent Cordial in my family, and am using the third bottle. It always acts like a charm upon my children, correcting ailments of the bowels better than any medicine I ever tried. * * *

Yours, most respectfully,
MRS. A. W. MOORE.

Price: 50 cts. and $1 a Bottle.

I. L. LYONS & CO., New Orleans, La.

Sold by All Druggists.

Mansfield Female College

AND

Conservatory of Music and Art.

The forty-first session opens Sept. 13, 1893, with a full faculty of experienced teachers in all departments.

Prof. G. D. Pickles takes the chair of Mathematics and Pedagogy. This institution is celebrated for thorough and honest work, for a locality remarkable for health, for every comfort provided, for the care and attention given to students, and for the great economy secured to parents. The great aim is to afford as good facilities for education as can be found outside the State. A new era is opening for the college that will make the next session peculiarly advantageous to those who attend. It is demonstrated that this is the best place for Southern girls.

A. D. McVOY, A. M.,
President.

Opelousas Female Institute,

Opelousas, St. Landry Ph., La.

A practical, non-sectarian Institution, founded in 1871. Discipline firm, but kind, and based on sound principles. Honor and self-respect promoted. Thorough training and culture. Curriculum revised, and prepares for university or practical life. Diplomas are conferred. Buildings are comfortable and commodious. Unrivalled health record.

Twenty-third session begins Sept. 11, 1893.

For Catalogue and further particulars apply to the Principal or Vice-Principal.

J. F. ARMENTROUT, B.A. (Univ. of Va.), Principal.
MRS. M. M. HAYES, Vice-Principal.
MISS LEOLA B. WHITE, First Assistant.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT

Tulane University of Louisiana.

Its advantages for practical instruction, both in ample laboratories and abundant hospital materials, are unequaled. Free access is given to the great Charity Hospital with 700 beds and 20,000 patients annually. Special instruction is given daily AT THE BEDSIDE OF THE SICK. The next session begins October 19th, 1893. For catalogue and information address

PROF. S. E. CHAILLE, M. D., DEAN,
P. O. Drawer 261. NEW ORLEANS, LA.

READ THIS.

Board and Lodging by Day, Week or Month.

Regular meals, 25 cents. Lodging, 25 to 50 cents.

I endeavor to make my place home-like and comfortable. Give me a call.

MRS. BRAKEL,
No. 535 Chartres St., near Northeastern Depot.

VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Next Session opens September 20th.

Full graduate as well as under graduate courses. Ten Fellowships for college graduates. Seven Departments—Academic, Engineering, Biblical, Law, Pharmaceutical, Dental, Medical. Fully equipped laboratories and museums.

WILS WILLIAMS, Secretary.

Educate for Business.

AT THE

BOWLING GREEN BUSINESS COLLEGE AND LITERARY INSTITUTE.

Railroad Fare Paid.

A School of Business, Shorthand, English, Typewriting, Telegraphy, Penmanship, Teacher's Training. Catalogues free.

CHERRY BROTHERS,
Bowling Green, Ky.

Tulane University Scholarships.

TULANE UNIVERSITY, New Orleans, for the purpose of encouraging post-graduate studies, offers fifteen scholarships to the graduates of its own and other colleges. The appointments are made for merit, and entitle the holder to free tuition and an honorarium of one hundred and fifty dollars.

For further particulars address the Secretary of Tulane University, New Orleans, Louisiana.

Cincinnati Conservatory of Music,

MISS CLARA BAUR, Directress.

Thorough musical education after the methods of foremost European conservatories. The Conservatory will as usual be open during the entire Summer, and students can, as during the school year, enter at any time.

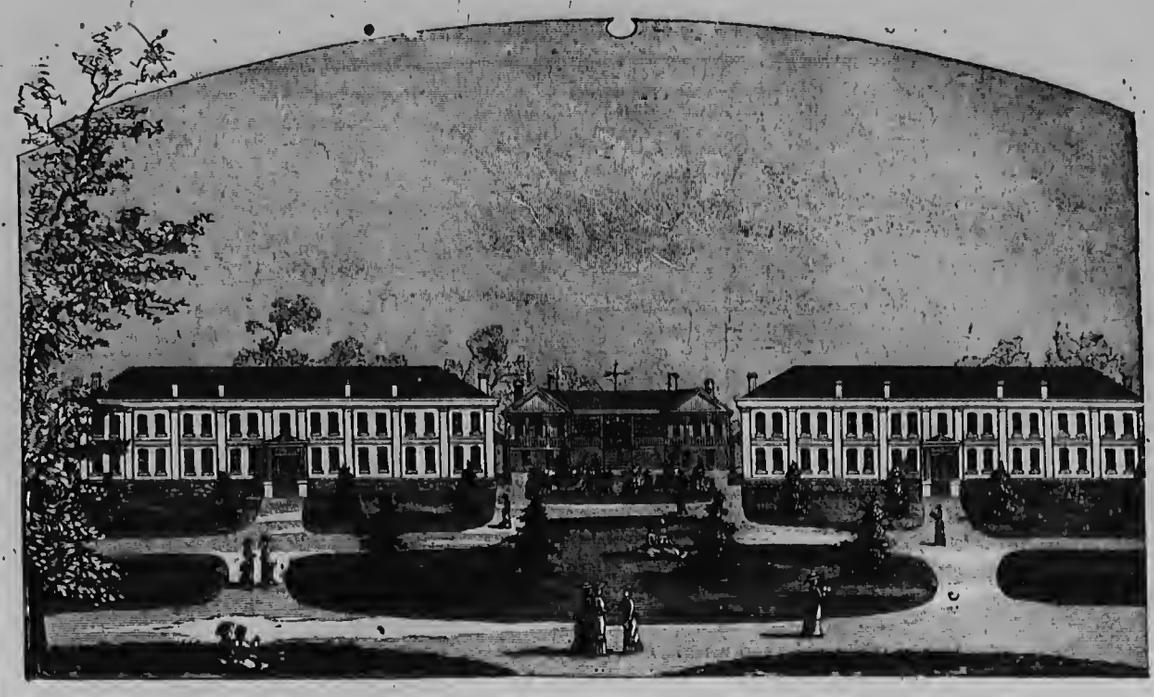
Branches taught: Vocal culture, the Pianoforte, Organ, Harp, Violin, and all other Orchestral instruments; also Guitar, Mandolin and Banjo; Elocution, Delsarte, Modern Languages, English Literature and Art.

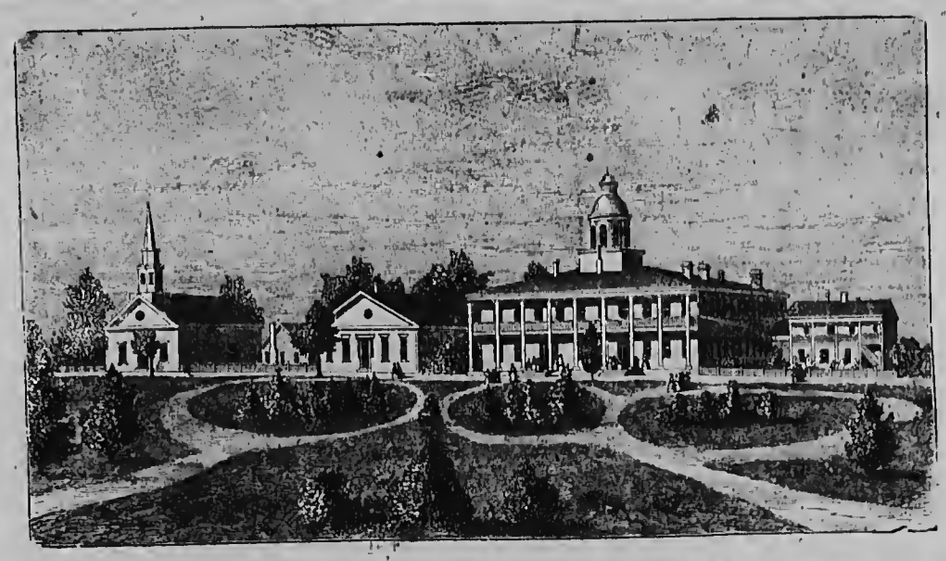
Young ladies from a distance can board in the Conservatory building, where they pursue their studies under the supervision of the Directress. For Catalogue address in full.

MISS CLARA BAUR,
Conservatory of Music, 4th and Lawrence, Cincinnati, O.

Whitworth Female College and Conservatory of Music and Art,

BROOKHAVEN, MISS.





Next to the highest point on the I. C. R. R. from Cairo to New Orleans. This in part accounts for our wonderful health record. No Female College in the South has a higher standard. The best Conservatory of Music to be found this side of Cincinnati or Boston. No College of SIMILAR GRADE furnishes such splendid facilities on such reasonable terms. For further particulars and for catalogues, address

L. T. FITZHUGH, A. M., President.

SCIENCE HILL,

— SHELBYVILLE, KY.

AN ENGLISH AND CLASSICAL SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

Our Certificates admit to Wellesley without examination.

W. T. POYNTER.

WALL & MOONEY'S SCHOOL,

FRANKLIN, TENNESSEE.

S. V. WALL. W. D. MOONEY, A. M.

Fits Boys for College or Business.

Our Students Enter Vanderbilt on Certificate, Without Examination.
Positive Engagement Necessary to Secure Admission.
Fall term will open August 29, 1893.

Address W. D. MOONEY, Secretary.

Waynesboro Collegiate Institute,

WAYNESBORO, MISS.

On M. and O. R. R., 53 Miles South of Meridian.

Will begin its second session Sept. 11th, 1893. Enrollment last session over 200. It prepares boys and girls for college, or fits them for the practical business pursuits of life. Our curriculum is not extensive. We aim at thoroughness. Board and tuition reasonable. Send for catalogue.

REV. W. W. MOORE, A. M., Principal.

MALONE COLLEGE

For Young Ladies.

HOLLY SPRINGS, MISSISSIPPI.

The Third Annual Session will begin Monday, Sept. 20, 1893.
Location, highest point in the State. Elevation, 613 feet.
Health unsurpassed in the Southwest.
Course thorough and comprehensive.
Each department under the charge of specialists.
Special advantages offered in music, art and elocution.
A HOME SCHOOL for pupils under Christian influences.
Terms moderate. For catalogues or further particulars address

Rev. J. W. HONNOLL, President.

GRENADA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

Is Devoted to the Education of Girls and Young Ladies.

FALL TERM OPENS SEPTEMBER 5TH, 1893.

The Institute affords the very best advantages for culture in Vocal and Instrumental Music; in Art, Drawing, Painting, etc.; and in all the branches of collegiate study—English, Latin, French and German. The teachers are experienced and competent. The Boarding Department is home-like and comfortable. The health is fine. The expenses are moderate. For catalogue address Rev. Thos. J. Newell, A. M., Pres., Grenada, Miss.

Clinton Female Academy,

(Chartered in 1832).

WILL OPEN MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1893.

Course thorough. Charges lower than offered by any school of its grade in the South.

CHARGES PER MONTH.

Tuition per month	$2 00 to $3 00
Music " "	3 00
Use of Piano per Month	1 00
Painting in Oil " "	3 00
Drawing " "	1 00
Latin, French and Book-keeping, each per month	1 00
Incidental Expenses per Session	50

Board, Tuition, Washing, Fuel and Lights, $12 per Month. $120 per the Session of Ten Months. For particulars address the Principal,

Mrs. S. E. MUNDAY, Clinton, La.

Memphis Conference Female Institute

—AND—

Conservatory of Music,

Jackson, Tenn.

A HIGH GRADE COLLEGE FOR GIRLS AND YOUNG LADIES.

A METHODIST SCHOOL FOR METHODIST GIRLS.

Faculty Large and Course of Study Extensive.
Teacher of Elocution Trained in the Emerson School of Oratory.
Thoroughly Equipped Gymnasium.
Conservatory of Music and Art.
Water throughout Buildings.
Lighted with Gas and Electricity.
Library of Over 6,000 Volumes.
Twenty-three Pianos.

The city of Jackson is noted for its culture and healthfulness. Thirty bored wells furnish a water supply which chemical experts pronounce as pure as that from the famous Eureka Springs in Arkansas.

A fine opportunity is here provided to secure health while acquiring an education.

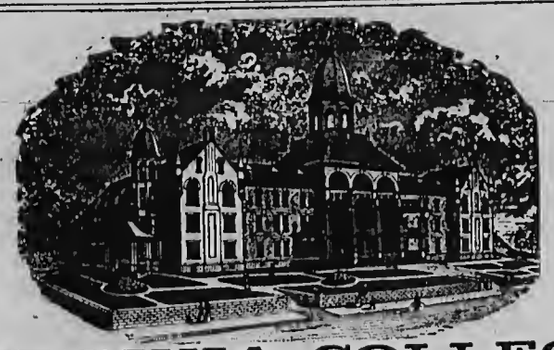
For catalogue and other information write the president,

Rev. Howard W. Key, A.M., Ph.D.



VIRGINIA COLLEGE

FOR YOUNG LADIES. ROANOKE, VIRGINIA.

Opens Sept. 14th, 1893. New buildings with all modern improvements, among the finest in the South. Now Pianos and furniture. Campus of ten acres; magnificent mountain scenery; in the Valley of Virginia, for famed for health. European and American teachers. Degrees of B.S., B. A., and M. A. conferred. Unsurpassed advantages in Music and Art. One of the most attractive and beautiful College homes for Young Ladies in the South. For Catalogue, address W. A. HARRIS, D.D., President, Roanoke, Virginia.

Nashville College for Young Ladies.

Privilege of Lectures, Museum, Apparatus, in Vanderbilt University. Three large Buildings. Faculty of 40, pupils average over 400 for four years past. Music, Art, Calisthenics, Health, Accessibility. Fully Equipped Gymnasium. Address Rev. Geo. W. F. Price, D.D., Prest., Nashville, —Tenn.

EMORY COLLEGE

OXFORD, GA. Forty Miles East of Atlanta. —Location Proverbially Healthy; No Saloons.—

57th Session opens Sept. 20th, 1893, closes June 13, 1894. Endowment recently increased $100,000 and equipment greatly improved. Total expenses within $225. For full information, address

W. A. CANDLER, D. D., PRESIDENT.

McTyeire Institute,

MCKENZIE, TENN.

Prepares students for Vanderbilt and such institutions.

Expenses for five months, $72.50 to $82.50.

Students completing our course enter Vanderbilt without examination.

Next session begins August 31.

For circulars or information address

J. H. HARRISON, Prin.,
McKenzie, Tenn.

WASHINGTON & LEE UNIVERSITY, Lexington, Virginia. Academic; Law; Engineering. Opens Sept. 14. For catalogue address

G. W. C. LEE, President.

—A—

Washington and Lee College SCHOLARSHIP

FOR SALE CHEAP.

Apply at

Werlein's Music Store,
135 Canal Street.

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY. Location, in the healthful Shenandoah Valley, near Staunton, Virginia. English, Classical and Business courses with Military Training. For catalogue apply to Chas. B. Roller, Prin., Fort Defiance, Va.

A WOMAN'S HEAL is level and her judgment good when she puts her faith in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. There is no beauty without good health. Nobody expects to become really beautiful from the use of complexion beautifiers. Bright eyes, clear skin and rosy cheeks, follow moderate exercise, fresh air, good food, and the judicious use of the "Prescription."

All women require a tonic and nervine at some period of their lives. Whether suffering from nervousness, dizziness, faintness, displacement, catarrhal inflammation of the lining membranes, bearing-down sensations, or general debility, the "Prescription" reaches the origin of the trouble and corrects it. Guaranteed to benefit, or the money is refunded.

The way to cure Catarrh—there is but one way—take Dr. Sage's Remedy. There's $500 reward offered for an incurable case.

HENRY P. DART,

Attorney-at-Law,

49 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

FREE by return mail, full descriptive circulars of MOODY'S NEW and MOODY'S IMPROVED TAILOR SYSTEMS OF DRESS CUTTING. Revised to date. These, only, are the genuine TAILOR SYSTEMS invented and copyrighted by PROF. D. W. MOODY. Beware of imitations. Any lady of ordinary intelligence can easily and quickly learn to cut and make any garment, in any style, to any measure, for ladies, men and children. Garments guaranteed to fit perfectly without trying on. Address MOODY & CO. CINCINNATI, O.

NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

Founded by Dr. Eben Tourjee. CARL FAELTEN, Director.

The Leading Conservatory of America.

In addition to its unequalled musical advantages, exceptional opportunities are also provided for the study of Elocution, the Fine Arts, and Modern Languages. The admirably equipped Home affords a safe and inviting residence for lady students. Calendar Free.

FRANK W. HALE, General Manager, Franklin Square, Boston, Mass.

Huntsville Female -:- College.

HUNTSVILLE, ALABAMA.

Forty-fourth Session begins Wednesday, September 6, 1893. Healthy, well-furnished; twenty Officers and Teachers. All departments of Female Education thoroughly taught; Music, Art, Languages, Sciences, Literature and Commercial Course. A Christian home for pupils. Charges reasonable. For Catalogues, etc., apply to

Rev. A. B. JONES, President.

Mississippi Industrial Institute and College.

BUREAU OF EDUCATION.

Persons desiring to employ competent teachers, or young women qualified to do good work as dress makers, telegraphers, type writers and book keepers, are invited to correspond with this Bureau. No charge for services.

Apply to MISS S. C. McLAURIN, I. I. and C., Columbus, Miss.

WESLEYAN FEMALE COLLEGE. MACON, GA.

Annual Session begins September 20th, 1893. Best advantages in Literature, Music and Art. For safety, health and domestic comfort, there is no better home for girls. Apply for Catalogue to

REV. W. C. BASS, PRES.

CARPETS!

Don't have your carpets half cleaned; all know how impossible it is to clean carpets by hand.

All dust thoroughly taken out by steam.

Feathers purged of all impurities.

44 St. Peter Street.

$21 PAID WEEKLY

To active, faithful men and women, boys and girls, working for us taking orders for THE ILLUSTRATED WORLD'S FAIR, edited by John McGovern, the Prince of the Literary West. 25c. a month, or $2.50 a year. Entire Series, from July, 1891, to January, 1894, 30 monthly issues, only $6.00. Sells at sight. Most beautiful, interesting and popular, and the only publication receiving official recognition. THE ORGAN OF THE FAIR. Chicago Inter Ocean says: "It is a handsomely prepared and valuable publication, to which many celebrities are contributors." Send 15c. (stamps) for full particulars and sample copy containing fifty large rich engravings of the PRINCIPAL ATTRACTIONS of the World's Fair. Address.

THE NATIONAL BOOK CONCERN, 194 VAN BUREN ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

AGENTS WANTED ON SALARY or commission, to handle the new Patent Chemical Ink Erasing Pencil. The quickest and greatest selling novelty ever produced. Erases ink thoroughly in two seconds. No abrasion of paper. Works like magic. 200 to 500 per cent. profit. One Agent's sales amounted to $630 in six days. Another $23 in two hours. Previous experience not necessary. For terms and full particulars, address, The Monroe Eraser Mf'g Co., La Crosse, Wis. X 878.

HOPKINS' PRINTING OFFICE,

20 Commercial Place,

John P. Hopkins. New Orleans

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

HOME CIRCLE.

HOLY LAND.

BY RICHARD WATSON GILDER.

This is the earth he walked on; not alone
That Asian country keeps the sacred stain;
'Tis not alone the far Judean plain,
Mountain, and river! Lo! the sun that shone
On him shines now on us; when day is gone
The moon of Galilee comes forth again
And lights our path as his; an endless chain
Of years and sorrows makes the round world one.
The air we breathe he breathed, the very air
That took the mold and music of his high
And godlike speech. Since then shall mortal dare
With base thought front the ever-sacred sky,
Soil with foul deed the ground whereon he laid
In holy death his pale, immortal head!

A Rare Steed.

"Persian horses," says Mrs. Bishop, in "Journeys in Persia and Kurdistan," "are to be admired and liked. Their beauty is a source of constant enjoyment, and they are almost invariably gentle and docile. It is in vain to form any resolution against making a pet of one of them. My new acquisition, 'Boy,' insists on being petted, and his enticing ways are irresistible. He is always tethered in front of my tent, with a rope long enough to give him considerable liberty, and he took advantage of it the very first day to come into the tent and make it apparent that he wanted me to divide a lemon with him. Grapes were his preference, then came cucumber, bread and biscuits. Finally, he drank milk out of a soup plate. He comes up to me and puts down his head to have his ears rubbed, and if I do not attend to him at once, or if I cease attending to him, he gives me a gentle but admonitory thump. I dine outside the tent and he is tied to my chair, and waits with wonderful patience for the odds and ends, only occasionally rubbing his soft nose against my face to remind me he is there. A friendly snuffle is the only sound he makes. He does not know how to fight, or that teeth and heels are for any other uses than eating and drinking. He is really the gentlest and most docile of his race. The point at which he draws the line is being led; then he draws back, and a mulish look comes into his sweet eyes. But he follows like a dog, and when I walk he is always with me. He comes when I call him, stops when I do, accompanies when I leave the road in search of flowers, and usually puts his head either on my shoulder or under my arm. To him I am an embodiment of melons, cucumbers, grapes, peaches, biscuits, and sugar, with a good deal of petting and ear rubbing thrown in."

A Reflection for the Times.

Failures in business are often reported. Many so-called successes are humiliating failures. In order to understand what success in business is we must know what is its proper end. The highest product of trade is not money, but manhood. If methods are pursued which destroy or degrade manhood it is a failure, whatever financial returns may be realized. Hundreds of men who amass fortunes waste their better and nobler qualities and sacrifice the highest principles of manhood. Their losses are more than their gains. On the other hand, the business man who observes such methods and is guided by such principles as tend to develop manly virtues must succeed, however great his losses. "He shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of waters that bringeth forth his fruit in his season; his leaf also shall not wither; and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper." Such men will not make disastrous failures, dragging down their neighbors into poverty and sweeping away the hard-earned substance of widows and the support of helpless orphans. They will not transact business in such a way as to make these things possible. The divine law of trade, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," forbids such transactions. The highest product of all secular pursuits is manhood. Let men abandon fortune-making and place-hunting and engage in the nobler calling of character-building, and failures will cease.
—N. Y. Christian Advocate.

A LIVING FAITH.

BY REV. FRANK L. OSBORNE.

I live, and yet not I alone,
For he
Who is the Christ doth find his throne
In me.
And I shall live because he lives;
No end
Shall come to all the joys he gives
His friend.
And here and there it matters not,
I say;
Joys here, bliss there; a glorious lot
For aye.
So then with patience let me run
Till I
Shall hear the welcome words, "Well done,"
Oh high.

—N. Y. Advocate.

Enter into Thy Closet.

"Use sometimes to be alone." What beautiful words from dear George Herbert! Distrust a man who does not love retirement in season. Amusement courts society, but religion loves solitude. From of old, the worshiper, like Abraham, seeks the heights. You may place a shrine by the wayside, but the altar in the market-place has but few worshipers. The first rule of worship is, "Enter into thy closet." Even in the house of public prayer we can not pray with open eyes. The soul must make for itself isolation where it has sought companionship. The ancient Roman, when he found the city of Jerusalem at his feet, was awed by the awful loneliness of the holy of holies. The hermit fled from the agora to the mountain cell, never vice versa. Spirituality is impossible in a crowd, and the city pastor labors under a disadvantage which the country brother little realizes. The "first temples" are still the best.—Interior.

One of the industries in connection with the tea trade, is the collection of the lead with which tea-chests are lined. China has been noted for many centuries for the purity of its lead, and this tea-chest lead, as it is called, is regarded as the finest in existence. They are many uses for it; it is found very valuable in making the best kind of solder. No machinery is employed in the production of this sheet lead; every sheet is made by hand in the most primitive fashion. A large brick is provided of the size of the sheet of lead to be made, and is covered with two or three sheets of paper. On these the molten lead is poured, and another brick is placed on the top, which flattens the lead out to the required size and thickness. The sheets are then soldered to the size of the interior of the tea-chest, the tea is packed in, and the top sheet is fastened in place. The workmen are very expert, and they turn out an immense number of sheets in the course of a day, and, where labor is so cheap, at a price much less than if the articles were produced by machinery.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder

Is swiftly taking the place of the cheap adulterated Baking Powders. The reasons for this are plain. It is the only Pure Cream of Tartar Baking Powder having any considerable sale.

Price's Cream Baking Powder

Works more quickly, and does finer work than other brands.

Makes Hot Bread wholesome,
" Biscuit white and flaky,
" Pastry of finest flavor,
" Cake that remains moist and sweet,
" Griddle cakes that delight the palate.

OUR YOUNG PEOPLE.

IN HAYING TIME.

BY ANNA BOYNTON AVERY.

I go to Grandfather's when school is done
In June, and the haying is just begun;
For then clover is red and the timothy tall,
And purple and silky it has to fall.
When the wind blows over the grasses, they go
In waves and billows that seem to flow
Like the sea; and then the great shadows will run
On the fields, and I watch them and lie in the sun.
In the walls there are woodchucks that squeak at Tray
When he goes to digging the stones away;
And the birds fly over, and everything sings,
And the grass is all buzzing and whirring with wings.
As soon as 'tis sunrise the mowing machine
Is clicking away, and the grass that is green
In the early morning, at noon is dry.
And then Grandfather and Tray and I
Go into the fields. There are windrows as wide
As the widest field is from side to side;
And out of these there are tumbles to make.
Grandfather says one kind is made with a rake
And a fork, and another is made by me
And Tray—but that is his fun, you see.
For I like the smell of the new-mown hay,
And we tumble and roll in it, I and Tray.
And I ride on the heaped-up loads, and leap
On the mows and soafolds, and go to sleep
Sometimes in the heat, with my head on Tray,
Behind a tumble of sweet new hay;
And at sunset we go for the cows. 'Tis fun
To see Tray gather them one by one,
And march them along in single file,
Wagging his tail at me the while,
As if he would say, "I can't romp now,
I'm so full of business;" and every cow
Will march before him and mind him well,
The leader ahead with her tinkling bell.
When the men are milking I sit on the bars
And watch the fireflies and count the stars,
And smell the clover, and wish that I
Could live in the country till I die.

A Long-Headed Bird.

Joaquin Miller, in The Independent, relates the following instance of a bird's sagacity, which is truly marvelous:

"We have a little woodpecker here (in California) which shows even more than human foresight and knowledge in preparing his Winter's food. This bird runs a spiral line of holes up and around a pine or oak tree—dozens and dozens of spiral lines, in fact—each hole large enough to receive the tip end of an acorn; and here the busy little fellow and his co-operative society drive in bushels and bushels of acorns, point first. And they drive them in so tight and fast that it is hard work to dig one out, even with the point of a knife. Nothing remarkable or superior in this to other woodpeckers, you say? But hold on a moment. The marvel is they do not eat these acorns. They simply drive them in, point first, leaving the large and soft end exposed to the sun and rain, and then sit by and wait for months the results. Meantime the large end of the acorn so exposed sours and ferments, and then a moth lays an egg there; this egg finally becomes a worm or grub, and grows to almost fill the shell, feeding upon the decaying acorn; and finally, when plump and fat as a pig, the woodpecker kills and eats him, throwing down the empty acorn shell at the foot of the tree and leaving the hole empty, which has cost him many a hard knock, to be used again and again for many generations. And why does he make these lines of holes spiral? Because his hard little head is level, and he knows that if he bores in a straight line he will weaken the bark; and he knows too, that if he does not distribute his board evenly the bark is liable to break and fall from excess of weight. But this is not quite so wonderful as is his cool-blooded calculation in getting the moth to help him prepare his dinner; for here he calculates not only on the moth, but the very elements to help him; and it is probable that he never calculates in vain or makes a single mistake."

Backbone.

There are certain animals that have no backbone. They can not stand upright. The backbone enables an animal to stand upright, and the better backbone it has the better it stands. There is very little use in standing upright even so strongly if not of use to help others in bearing some burden outside of their own bodies. When a burden comes on an animal that has no backbone it crushes it. When it has a good backbone it strengthens it. We need not be anxious about burdens coming on those of good, strong principle, for the very burden will make them stronger, especially if they carry the whole matter in prayer to God. Paul did this with his burden and had God's grace given him until he could carry it. If you have a backbone, do not be afraid of a burden.—Selected.

Only a Boy.

"Only a boy," is a very common phrase, and it generally means that a youngster can not be expected to settle down to the serious business of life and achieve a marked degree of success.

This is a mistake. Frank Hagan, of Ingersoll, Texas, is sixteen years old. He has just quit school after winning several prizes. During his school days he cultivated three acres of land at odd times, producting cabbages weighing thirty pounds and onions averaging a pound each. The crop netted him enough to pay for forty-eight head of range cattle.

This year young Hagan has rented fifteen acres from his father, furnishing all the vegetables the family can consume as rental. He will have four acres of oats that will yield seventy-five bushels per acre, six acres of Irish potatoes yielding about twenty barrels to the acre, three acres of cabbages that have 9,000 plants to the acre, expected to average eight pounds to the head, and the remainder of the land is devoted to onions that will yield 600 bushels to the acre. He is also raising a large number of turkeys.

The boy works only one hand, and will clear at least $1,000 for his year's work. He is now offered $1.50 per barrel for onions, 3 cents per pound for cabbage, and $2 per barrel for potatoes. He takes several agricultural journals and is quite an authority on all matters pertaining to farming.

There is plenty of room in the South for such boys. They are needed to help the old folks and to advertise the fact to the world that farming in this region is a money-making business when it is rightly managed.

That Texas boy deserves a medal.—Exchange.

Laughter and Tears.

Laughter and Tears met one day in a shady lane. The sunshine and shade mingled pleasantly there, the breath of the woods was strong in the air, as was also the fragrance of the clover field near by. But the lane was all too narrow to allow both to pass, for Laughter was boisterous, and romped about so much that he took up a deal of room; while Tears seemed to be half-blind and could scarcely see her way.

She said in a voice like the song of a night bird:

"Why don't you let me pass? This is my path."

"No," replied Laughter, "this lane is mine, and I am in a hurry, so you'd better climb the fence into the dark woods and walk through the dead leaves."

"Why don't you climb the other fence," said Tears, softly, "and run along through the clover, in the sunshine? I'm sure you'd like it better."

"Well," rejoined Laughter, pleasantly, "I'm sure I don't want to quarrel with so gentle a maiden, and so, as we don't seem able to agree about the path, suppose I turn about and go with you?"

"That would be very pleasant indeed," said Tears, "for I am lonely."

So they went on together, through the twinkling shine and shadow, and each felt better for the company of the other.

And that is why it is that when you meet Laughter you are almost sure to find Tears not far away.—Detroit Free Press.

Among the passengers on an Indiana train the other day were a newly married couple who made themselves known to such an extent that the occupants of the car began passing sarcastic remarks about them. The bride and groom stood the remarks for some time, but finally the latter, who was a man of tremendous size, broke out in the following language at his tormentors: "Yes, we're just married! We are going 160 miles further on this train, and going to 'spoon' all the way. If you don't like it you can get out and walk. She's my violet and I'm her sheltering oak." During the remainder of their journey they were left in peace.—Philadelphia Evening Telegram.

The peo-ple who live up in A-las-ka do not have a-ny lamps or gas. The nights there are ver-y long, and the peo-ple must have some sort of light to see by, so they take a can-dle-fish and set it on fire. The can-dle-fish is a-bout ten inch-es long, and ver-y fat and oil-y. It is fas-tened to a rough, wood-en can-dle-stick and then set on fire, and it burns a-way for a-bout an hour; then they have to light an-oth-er.—Se-lect-ed.

You would like the lamp-chimneys that do not amuse themselves by popping at inconvenient times, wouldn't you?

A chimney ought not to break any more than a tumbler. A tumbler breaks when it tumbles.

Macbeth's "pearl top" and "pearl glass"—they don't break from heat, not one in a hundred; a chimney lasts for years sometimes.

Pittsburgh. GEO. A. MACBETH CO.

SPIC-AN'-SPAN New-looking soft-feeling leather is brought up on Vacuum Leather Oil; 25c, and your money back if you want it.

Patent lambskin-with-wool-on swob and book—How to Take Care of Leather—both free at the store.

Vacuum Oil Company, Rochester, N. Y.

Dr. King's Royal Germetuer

is a unique, peerless preparation, which embodies the best and latest fruits of medical research, and differs radically from ordinary medicines in a number of particulars. Here are three of them:

1. It is as pleasant to take as lemonade.
2. It is harmless always—may be safely given to a babe one day old.
3. IT CURES WHEN ALL ELSE FAILS.

REV. SAM P. JONES SAYS:

"My wife, who was an invalid from nervous sick headache, has been entirely cured by six weeks' use of Dr. King's Royal Germetuer. Her health is perfect. In three weeks two of my children were cured completely of nasal catarrh. IT IS TRULY A GREAT REMEDY."

GENERAL LONGSTREET SAYS:

"I have suffered for months past from insomnia and indigestion, and failing of relief, was induced by a friend to try Dr. King's Royal Germetuer. I am now relieved, and I hope permanently so."

TESTED AND PROVED FOR YEARS.

TARBT, MISS., April 21, 1893.

We have been using Dr. King's Royal Germetuer for several years in our family, and have recommended it to many others. It has always done what is claimed for it, as far as tried, and I regard it as the best medicine we have ever had in our family.

MRS. J. J. HALBERT.

This great remedy presents an array of testimonials absolutely without a parallel in the history of medicines either as to character or number. These statements show that it cures Nervous Disorder, Stomach Troubles, Bowel Derangement in old or young, whether recent or chronic, Kidney and Bladder Troubles, Debility.

Give it a fair trial, and you will be convinced. $1 per bottle, 6 for $5.

Said the Owl

to himself, "If the moon I could get, whenever I'm dry my throat I could wet; The moon is a quarter—with a quarter I hear; you can purchase five gallons of

Hires' Root Beer."

A Delicious, Temperance, Thirst-quenching, Health-Giving Drink. Good for any time of year.

A 25c. package makes 5 gallons. Be sure and get Hires'.

INTERNATIONAL BIBLES.

Largest Type Teacher's Bible in the World.

We have for years been trying to get a large type Teacher's Bible which was not too large and heavy. We have it in this series. Besides this feature, the helps are entirely new, and were written by the greatest scholars of both America and Europe, which guarantees their superiority over all others. Everyone who is familiar with the Oxford and Bagster Teacher's Bibles knows that the book printed in Minion type makes the most desirable sized volume, but the Minion type is too small for any but the best eyes; and while their books in Bourgeois type suit the eyes, they are entirely too large and heavy for convenient handling. This International Series overcomes both these faults by having the Bourgeois type book no larger or heavier than the much smaller type (Minion) Oxford and Bagster books, while the prices are much less than for books of corresponding type in any other series, and the bindings are not only similar in design, but equal in every particular to the older Teacher's Bibles; and some of these bindings are finer than those of any other Teacher's Bibles we have ever seen.

We are specially glad to be able to say that the prices of these Bibles are in many cases much cheaper than the Oxford or Bagster Books, while they are altogether equally well made and have the newest and best helps and Maps. We claim for these new Teacher's Bibles that they give

The Largest Type in the Smallest Book.
The Newest and Best Helps.
The Newest Maps, Which Were Made Especially for This Series.
Bindings Unsurpassed.
Smaller Prices Than Any Other Series.

We confidently assure our patrons that in the INTERNATIONAL TEACHER'S BIBLE SERIES we have the very BEST line of Teacher's Bibles ever offered.

Write us for a Descriptive Catalogue showing size of type, size of books, etc.

Address

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp Street, - New Orleans, La.

8% GUARANTEED by a leading Trust Company is offered at par. Suitable for large and small investments. Full information furnished by W. E. Lown Mills Building, New York.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.

CATARRH

Sold by Druggists or sent by mail. 50c. E. T. Hazeltine, Warren Pa.

MARRIAGES.

OSWALD—SCARBROUGH.—At Escatawpa, Miss., June 30, 1893, by Rev. G. R. Ellis, Mr. Solomon Oswald and Mrs. Elizabeth Scarbrough.

IRWIN—CAMPFIELD.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. James Campfield, Escatawpa, Miss., July 5, 1893, by Rev. G. R. Ellis, Mr. Wm. H. Irwin and Miss Kittie Campfield.

LESTER—STEPHENS.—In the Methodist Church, Escatawpa, Miss., July 27, 1893, by Rev. G. R. Ellis, Mr. Bryant W. Lester and Miss Idella Stephens.

HUFF-HOKE.—At the home of the bride's mother, Magnolia, Miss., July 25, 1893, by Rev. V. V. Boone, Mr. D. M. Huff, editor Magnolia Gazette, to Miss Ella Hoke.

KING-ROBINSON.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. John Robinson, Aug. 8, 1893, by Rev. Isaac L. Peebles, Mr. Green King to Miss Nancy H. Robinson, all of Clarke county, Miss., near Enterprise.

STAFFORD—DETRESS.—In the Methodist Church, Manrepas, La., Aug. 8, 1893, by Rev. W. T. Woodward, Mr. H. R. Stafford and Mrs. Permalia Detress.

O Christian song supernal,
Words sweetest Love eternal
Ever said!
Peace at your call comes flying,
And they who clasp you dying,
Are not dead.
—Theron Brown.

OBITUARIES.

We publish obituaries of 200 words free of charge; for all over this, one cent per word must be sent. If you want the notice to appear in its order, comply with this rule. Count the words, and send one cent for each word over 200.

WATKINS—Mrs. Bessie Boanen was born at Moss Point, Miss., Jan. 12, 1868; gave her heart to God when ten years of age; was married Oct. 12, 1887; entered into rest June 28, 1893, in her twenty-sixth year. Such is a brief summing up of the leading events in the earthly existence of one of the purest and most lovely Christian characters it has ever been the privilege of the writer to know.

By this death we have been brought suddenly to confront a dispensation of Providence which our limited, human philosophy will not solve, and faith only can respond to the heart's sad inquiry, "Why is it so?" We must connect this life with another, and faith must eliminate the irony of fate and discover God and the immortal life beyond, or we should rebel against the doings of death and the desolation he scatters in his track. But God knows better than we when a life is complete, or a sheaf ready to be garnered. And, after all, this life has little significance except as we view it as the training-ground for a higher and nobler existence. What is the church but the school in which souls are nurtured and ripened for eternity? And if God's perfect work he accomplished in one earlier than in another, and Christ's perfect image be reflected there, ought we to repine when he takes that one to himself to shine in his royal diadem?

The subject of this sketch was born in a Christian household, and under the purifying influences of a devoted Christian mother, to whom she was companion, daughter and friend (her father having died in her early childhood), she grew up into the Christian life, scarcely knowing when first she loved the Savior. All hearts were won by her charms of person, manner and spirit, and when it was known she was gone it was felt as a personal bereavement by all who knew her. She scattered sunshine wherever she went, was tender and kind, cheerful and generous; her hands were trained to do kindly deeds, and her heart overflowed with good-will and affection for all.

To her broken-hearted mother, kneeling by her bedside a short time before her death, and praying in her tears, "Lord Jesus, be with my darling child," she replied, trustingly, "Dear mother, he is with me;" and she asked her mother to sing, "Jesus, lover of my soul."

Looking successively at her husband, mother and aunt, as they stood near, she murmured: "Best husband." "Best mother." "Best auntie." A little while after, committing her little babe, a few months old, to her mother's care, and sweetly trusting in her Redeemer, she breathed her life away.

To her sorrowing husband, mother and brothers she leaves all the fullness and memories of her fragrant, beautiful, trusting and happy life as an inspiration and an inheritance. Let us remember that as God takes our treasures from us, they become as so many beacon lights kindled along the nether shore to guide our wandering feet and draw us toward our Father's house. D. O. BYERS.

REYNOLDS—Little JIMMIE, son of Thomas H. and Lizzie Reynolds, was born Dec. 1, 1891, and died May 3, 1893, near Lisbon, La. He leaves a kind, loving mother, three brothers and a host of friends and relatives to mourn his death. He was kind to all, and, above all, was loving and affectionate to his mother. Through all of his long illness he was ever patient and submissive; therefore, when death came at last to his relief, he welcomed it as a sweet messenger of rest from pain and long suffering.

Farewell, sweet child, thou art gone from us, but thy pure soul was wafted above, forever to rest in that eternal home. We miss thee much; but God has taken thee for his own, and it only makes one more little angel in heaven to welcome us on the other shore, where papa and little sister have welcomed thee. Rest in peace, thou art free from care, and may the bereaved ones say, "Thy will be done, and not ours."

Sleep on in thy beauty,
Thou sweet angel child;
Like the dove from the ark,
Thou hast flown to thy rest.
KATIE WILLIAMS.

CALHOUN—EULA JANE, daughter of John G. and Susan Calhoun, was born in Covington county, Miss., October 12, 1888, and departed this life, August 3, 1893, aged four years nine months and twenty-one days.

Eula was a sweet and brilliant child; a tender, clinging vine, interwoven in sweet memories; a gentle spirit of light that flitted in and out like a sunbeam. No one can fill the vacant chair, no one will take her place in your hearts, and you would not have them do so, even if they could, for sweet will be the thought, through the years to come, that she shed radiance in the home as long as she did. It will be a blessed recollection that she grew up to love and to be loved by those who will ever so tenderly cherish her sweet and pure memory.
E. H. BARR, P. C.

HELMER—CAROLINE NETTERVILLE, infant babe of Mr. George and Mrs. C. B. Helmer, died June 3, 1893, with typhoid flux, aged one year and twenty-seven days.

Little Nettie was a sweet little child. Her father idolized her. Grieve not, dear uncle and aunt, for little Nettie is at rest; and if you will only be faithful a little while longer, you will meet little Nettie where parting is no more, and she will seem more beautiful. Though she can not come back to them, yet, glorious thought, they can go to her, for angels have borne little Nettie in triumph to heaven.
COUSIN EDNA.

JOHNSON—Respecting the death of Miss KATE B. JOHNSON, secretary of the Missionary Society of the Hernando M. E. Church, the following resolutions were adopted at a called meeting of said society, held this day, July 30, 1893:

Resolved, That in the death of our esteemed sister our society has suffered an irreparable loss, and the cause of missionary work a valued and useful friend; and while we bow our heads and hearts to this seemingly bitter dispensation we see, through the Christian faith, the wisdom of him who directs all things well, and our confidence in the unerring goodness and mercy of our heavenly Father enables us to look beyond the temporal pain and anguish of our bereavement, and see our dear sister already reaping the rich reward of a sweet young life consecrated to Christ and devoted to his service.

Resolved, That in the death of our sister the community has lost one of its brightest and sweetest gems, the church one of its most valued members, and the cause of Christ one of its most consistent and active votaries.

In conclusion, we beseech the God of all mercies to so direct this dispensation of his providence as that all may be spiritually benefited whose pleasure it was to enjoy the friendship and acquaintance of our departed sister, and especially to so temper and suit it to the hearts of her sorrowing family that they may each recognize the chastening as one designed to fit them all for the blissful reunion beyond the dark river where parting and pain are no more.

MIRAGE.

Treasure the shadow. Somewhere, firmly based,
Arise those turrets that in cloud-land shine;
Somewhere, to thirsty toilers of the waste,
Yon phantom well-spring is a living sign.

Treasure the shadow. Somewhere, past thy sight,
Past all men's sight, waits the true heaven at last:
Tell them whose fear would put thy hope to flight,
There are no shadows save from substance cast.
—Lippincott's.

Asthma can't be cured? Oh! yes it can. Dr Davis' Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar will do it. I know it because it gave me relief. Every winter I was troubled with asthma, especially if the weather was damp, suffering severely. I took about six bottles of Davis' Wild Cherry and Tar, and am completely cured. It is the remedy for asthma. CHAS. HEINAS, 560½ Chippewa Street, New Orleans, La.

Dr. Davis' Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar is a sure and speedy cure for coughs, colds, catarrh, bronchitis and consumption, and gives immediate relief in cases of croup and whooping-cough. Try it. One dollar bottles hold two and a half times as much as a 50c. bottle.

As the Twig is Bent.

"Well, I declare! I don't see where that child gets his disposition from," I heard a mother exclaim not long since.

Oh, how easily any impartial observer could have told her; but she could not see, and she would not have believed had she been told.

An incident, comical in some respects, but yet seriously suggestive, came under my observation within that mother's door-yard, the relation of which will help to solve her moral problem.

"Jack!" screamed a bright-eyed, golden-haired, fair-faced little girl of not more than six summers, to her younger brother who had dumped himself under the wall, where he was digging sand with a strip of shingle. "Jack, you good-for-nothing little scamp, you are the torment of my life! Come right into the house this minute, or I'll take the very hide off'n you. Come in, I say."

"Why, Totty," exclaimed her father, who chanced to come up at that moment, "what in the world are you saying? Is that the way you talk to your little brother?"

"Oh, no, papa," answered the child promptly, and with an innocent smile. "We were playing keep house, and I am Jack's mama, and I was talking to him just as mama talked to me this morning. I never really spank him as mama does me."

An Only Daughter Cured of Consumption

When death was hourly expected from Consumption, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H James was experimenting, he accidentally made a preparation of Indian Hemp, which cured his only child, and now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. Hemp also cures night sweats, nausea at the stomach, and will break a fresh cold in twenty-four hours. Address Craddock & Co., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa., naming this paper.

National Greetings.

"How can you?" That's Swedish.
"How do you are?" That's Dutch.
"How do you stand?" That's Italian.
"Go with God, senor?" That's Spanish.
"How do you live on?" That's Russian.
"How do you perspire?" That's Egyptian.
"How do you have yourself?" That's Polish.
"Thank God, how are you?" That's Arabian.
"How do you carry yourself?" That's French.
"May thy shadow never grow less!" That's Persian.
"How do you do?" That's English and American.
"Be under the guard of God." That's the Ottoman's.
"How is your stomach? Have you eaten your rice?" That's Chinese.

Sympathy for the Distressed.

Our lives are all music if we but touch the chords rightly, so says one of our poets, and we all know there is a golden thread entering into the warp and woof of every-day life that is touched by sympathy for the distressed and suffering. At such a time what a boon to have on hand Dicks' Mul-en-ol to offer as a relief for cuts, burns, bruises, sprains and colic. It is soothing and cooling. Large bottles 50 cents.

O shapes and hues, dim beckoning, through
Yon mountain gaps, my longing view
Beyond the purple and the blue,
To sillier sea and greener land,
And softer lights and airs more bland,
And skies—the hollow of God's hand.
—Whittier.

I want an active agent in every parish in the bounds of the Louisiana Conference to handle that wonderful new book by Bishop Fitzgerald, The Epworth League Book. Don't miss this opportunity of a lifetime. First come first served! Prospectus, 75 cents.
F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp St., - - - - - - - - New Orleans.

Notice.

I have the best thing in the way of a Teacher's Bible for an agent to handle ever published. Write for full descriptive circulars at once.
F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp St., - - - - - - - - New Orleans.

No mineral water will produce the beneficial results that follow taking ONE or more of "BEECHAM'S PILLS" with a glass of water immediately upon arising in the morning.

Painless. Effectual. Covered with a tasteless, soluble coating.
"Worth a guinea a box."—Price only 25 cents.
Of all druggists, or a box will be mailed on receipt of 25cts. in stamps by D. F. Allen Co., 365 Canal St., New York. 17

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR
The Celebrated
CHOCOLAT MENIER
Annual Sales Exceed 33 MILLION Lbs.
Write for Samples. Sent Free. Menier, Union Sq., N. Y.

Marble, Slate and Hardwood Mantels.
TILES for Fire-places and Floors. GRATES of all kinds.
SLATE HEARTHS. BUILDING MATERIAL.
GEO. M. LEAHY,
No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Designs and prices furnished on application.

Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.
Losses Paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3 236 091.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429,729.
All Losses Paid in Cash without Discount, as Soon as Adjusted.
Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office, the same as with local companies.
DIRECTORS IN NEW ORLEANS.
GUSTAF R. WESTFELDT, Chairman. L. C. FALLON, LUCAS E. MOORE, C. M. SORIA.
CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Resident Sec'y. H. V. OGDEN, Resident Secretary.

Home Insurance Co., of New Orleans
No. 78 CAMP STREET.

CASH ASSETS,	December 31st, 1886,	$400,479.08
CASH ASSETS,	December 31st, 1887,	$413,860.76
CASH ASSETS,	December 31st, 1888,	$459,369.50
CASH ASSETS,	December 31st, 1889,	$510,584.54
CASH ASSETS,	December 31st, 1890,	$551,897.82
CASH ASSETS,	December 31st, 1891,	$600,414.81

Steadily Increasing in Strength and Popularity.
Solicits Fire and River Business
Liberal Settlements and Prompt Payments.
Thos. Sefton, Pres't. Capt. J. B. Woods, Vice-Pres't. Jno. G. Byrd, Sec'y
J. B. WOODS, JOS. BAYLE, JNO. BARKLEY, JNO. J. BARR, ANDREW STEWART, CHAS. CHAFFE, J. B. LEVERT, E. BORLAND, P. B. RICE, W. B. BLOOMFIELD, W. T. HARDIE, THOS. SEFTON.

W. B. LYMAN, President. JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-President. JOHN E. WHITING, Secretary
Crescent Insurance Com'y
Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.
Cash Capital, - - - - - - - $300,000.
Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849. ANNUAL and TERM POLICIES Issued on Desirable Fire Business.
See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

Millsaps College,
Jackson, Miss.
The Second Session Begins Sept. 20th, 1893.
College Fees, Only $30 for the Entire Session.
Board in Students' Homes and in Private Families, $12 per month.
Provision has been made for the payment of the College Fees in the case of young preachers and the sons of preachers.
For Catalogue and other information address
W. B. MURRAH, PRESIDENT.

—THE—
Great Southern Music House of
Philip Werlein
Is Prepared to Suit All Comers.
Elegant and Durable Pianos from $250 up.
Good Second-hand and Slightly Used Pianos from $50 up.
Send for Catalogues and Prices.
135 Canal St., New Orleans.

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.,
SUCCESSORS TO
STERN'S
Fert. and Chem.
Manufacturing Com'y
14 UNION STREET,
New Orleans, La.

STERN'S PURE BONE
STANDARD AMMONIATED SOLUBLE GUANO
STERN'S AMMONIATED SUPER PHOSPHATE
SULPHURIC ACID.
MANF'D BY STANDARD C. & C. M'F'G CO.

MANUFACTURERS OF
High Grade
Bone Fertilizers,
PURE
GROUND BONE
ACID PHOSPHATE,
KAINIT,
Etc.
Write for Agricultural Hand-Book.
Buyers of Cotton Seed.

ROSE TOBACCO CURE A quick, cheap, pleasant and absolute cure for the Tobacco Habit
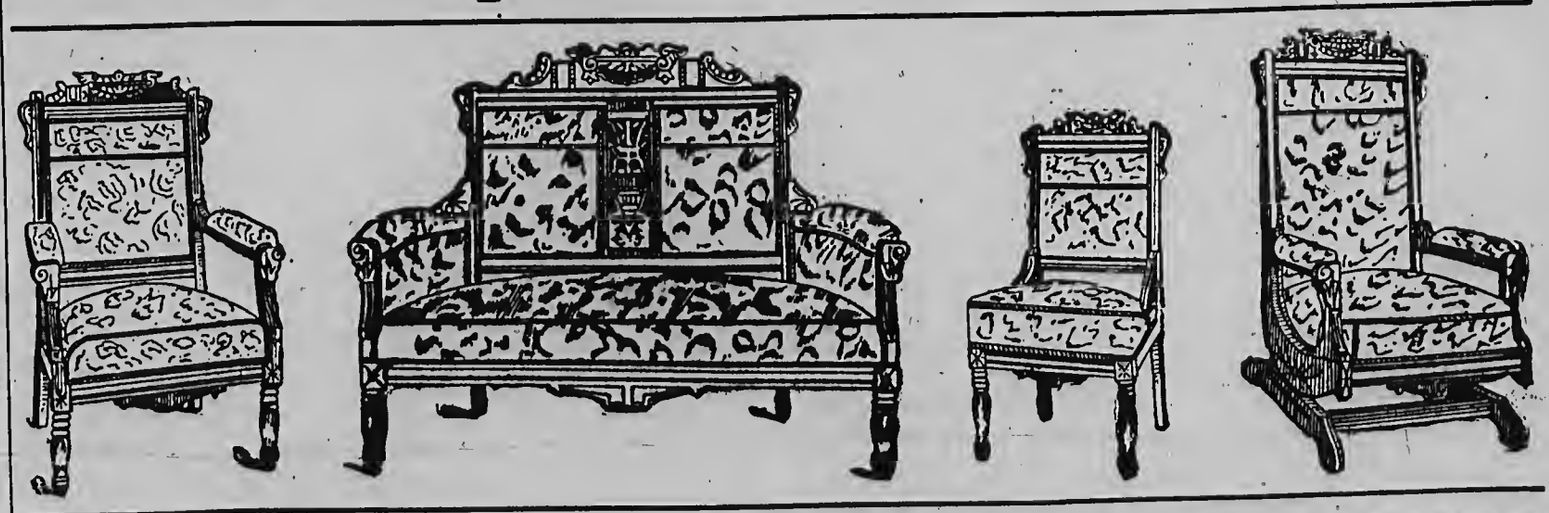
In all its Forms. For proof write the ROSE DRUG CO., Birmingham, Ala.

Office Telephone, 52. Yard Telephone, 261.
Pennsylvania Coal Company,
Office, 67 Carondelet Street.
PITTSBURGH COAL.
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.
L. S. WIDNEY, Manager.
Cotton Presses, Factories, and the Family trade supplied at Lowest Market Rates.
CITY YARDS: Foot of Robin Street, Foot of Desire Street, Corner Short and St. Charles Avenue.

AS A GARMENT OF MERIT
THE GENUINE JACKSON CORSET WAIST
STANDS AT THE FRONT.
It is Rapidly Replacing Old-Style, Uncomfortable and Unhealthful Corsets.

Easy-fitting, yet giving complete support to the form. It is well made, of good material and fast colors. We ask you to try it.
For sale by leading merchants everywhere. Take no substitute. If your dealer will not get it for you, write to the factory.
Made Only by the JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.

SOUTHERN FEMALE COLLEGE PETERSBURG, VA.
Historic Home School in perfect Climate. Unsurpassed course in Literature, Language, Science, Conservatory advantages in Music and Art. All modern improvements. 31st session. Terms low. Send for catalogue to ARTHUR K. DAVIS, A. M., Pres't, Petersburg, Va.

Latest Styles -- Lowest Prices!


This handsome Parlor Suit is upholstered on solid walnut frames with Imported Marbleized Silk Plush and the seats are all Spring Edge. Colors are Red, Red and Old Gold, Blue and Old Gold or each piece of a different color. For $45 I will sell seven pieces of this suit:—one Sofa, one Divan, one Patent Rocker, one Arm Chair and three Reception Chairs. $65 buys the complete suit of ten pieces consisting of two Sofas, one Divan, one Patent Rocker, one Arm Chair, and five Reception Chairs. Same suit covered with Hair Cloth, seven pieces $35 or ten pieces $55. Every other article in my store at proportionately low prices. Bedroom suits, twelve pieces, from $40 up to $1000. Dining room suits, eight pieces, from $17 upwards. Complete Kitchen outfits from $20 upwards. Quality at top—prices at bottom. I have an immense variety of strictly reliable goods and purchasers can depend upon getting the very latest styles. Everything guaranteed to be exactly as represented or money will be promptly refunded.

CHEAPEST FURNITURE HOUSE in New Orleans, 28 CAMP STREET 30 | J. G. GRANT, | CHEAPEST FURNITURE HOUSE in New Orleans, 28 CAMP STREET 30

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

Two fires, presumably the work of incendiaries, destroyed over $1,000,000 worth of property in Minneapolis on Aug. 13.

Two deaths from yellow fever occurred at Pensacola, Fla., last week. After the lapse of four days from the deaths reported not another case of yellow fever has been announced.

The United States gunboat Bennington, under the command of C. M. Thomas, sailed from New York for the Mediterranean a few days ago. It is said to be her mission to impress on the minds of the Turks the idea that they had better not meddle with American missionaries, who attend to their own business.

A survey for a cable from the shores of California to the Sandwich Islands has resulted in a route being chosen from Monterey Bay to Honolulu. The route selected will require the smallest length of wire, and it passes over an even bottom, favorable for the protection and preservation of a cable, submarine mountains being avoided.

Since the meeting of Congress Mr. Cleveland has disposed of a large amount of work, and feels that there is nothing to keep him at Washington. Congress is not expected to do anything for some time, and matters for congressional consideration can be prepared by the President at Gray Gables as well, if not better, than in Washington.

A California philanthropist, who has a keen eye for business, proposes to furnish the city of San Francisco 190,000,000 gallons of pure fresh water daily absolutely free of cost. He intends to bring the water 120 miles from the Yuba river in a canal, and all that he asks for himself is the right to lease the water power furnished by the canal before the waters reaches the city reservoirs.

The great fight on the silver question was begun in the National House, on Aug. 11. Mr. Bland, the silver champion, opened the financial contest with a significant utterance: "We do not intend that any political party shall survive that will lay its confiscating hand upon America in the interests of England and of Europe, and demonetize silver in this country, and, my friends of the Eastern Democracy, we bid you farewell when you do it." Mr. Wilson introduced a bill repealing the purchasing clause. Mr. Bland followed with a resolution providing for its immediate consideration, and the debate began.

An article from Bradstreet's, a New York journal, stating that great financial distress existed in the South, and that it would be practically impossible to move the cotton crop, caused much unfavorable comment in cotton circles in this city. Members of the Cotton Exchange, when seen with reference to the Bradstreet publication, remarked that it was a mistake to say that there was any great financial distress here. The banks are guarding their cash reserves to prevent the money from being hoarded by frightened people at a time when it would be needed for moving the cotton crop. The percentage of cash reserve in bank, in proportion to liabilities, is greater than usual at this season. The official figures on Friday, when the last statement was published, showed a fraction over 28 per cent. more than 3 per cent. above the legal reserve.

FOREIGN.

At the International Socialist Congress held in Zurich, Switzerland, Aug. 11, the sectional committee reported in favor of a universal cessation of work on May day and demonstrations in favor of an eight-hour day and universal peace.

That the government is to obtain no concession whatever from the Unionists has been evinced during the past week, and whatever success attends Mr. Gladstone's policy will be due entirely to his own skill as a parliamentarian and not to any yielding on the part of his political enemies.

Owing to the general depression in business in Mexico, the belt railroad around the City of Mexico will not be constructed at present. The terms under which the concession was granted gives the company ample time for the completion of the work, and there is no danger of the concession being forfeited.

One hundred and thirty-two thousand pounds in gold was withdrawn from the Bank of England, on Aug. 12, for shipment to the United States. One hundred thousand pounds in gold was also withdrawn from the bank for shipment to Canada. The Cunard Line steamer Etruria which sailed, Aug. 12, from Liverpool for New York, took consignments of gold amounting in value to £750,000.

The return of the Khedive of Egypt from his visit to the Sultan at Constantinople has been marked by a further tension in the political situation, and a cabinet crisis is now on. The Khedive has had a quarrel with his prime minister, Riaz Pasha, who owes his position to English influence, and wants a minister in accord with his own policy, which is well known to be a pro-French one.

Summer Weakness, that tired feeling, loss of appetite and nervous prostration are driven away by Hood's Sarsaparilla, like mist before the morning sun. To realize the great benefit of this great medicine, give it a trial.

Sure, efficient, easy—Hood's Pills.

Camp Meeting Calendar.

Camp Meet'g.	Begins.
Victoria	Aug. 17
Orville-Whittington	Aug. 18
Sam Jones	Aug. 18
Rapides	Aug. 19
Henington	Aug. 24
Longtown	Aug. 25
Lake	Aug. 25
Water Valley	Aug. 25
Leaf River	Aug. 30
Mt. Zion	Sept. 21
St. Tammany	Sept. 22
Palmer	Sept. 30

If you desire a luxuriant growth of healthy hair of a natural color, nature's crowning ornament of both sexes, use only Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer.

Free! Free!

AN ELEGANT LITHOGRAPH PICTURE OF MILLSAP'S COLLEGE.

We need $1,500 to pay for furniture already bought to finish furnishing the college and to make necessary improvements.

To everyone sending us $1 we will send the picture unframed, and to everyone sending us $5 we will send the picture neatly framed ready for hanging. Let us hear from you.

JOHN W. CHAMBERS, Agt.

Jackson, Miss.

The ADVOCATE in clubs of ten from now until Jan. 1, 1894, at fifty cents. Cash must accompany names.

To Whom It May Concern.

Macon, Ga., March 13, 1893.

About three years ago I received a sample bottle of MULENOL. I had never heard of it before. I began using it, however, as occasion required, and soon found that it was all that is claimed for it, and more. For cuts, burns, bruises, scalds and all kinds of sores it is superior to any remedy I have ever used. Is is also exceedingly efficacious in colic and diarrhœa. For sore throat it is incomparably better than anything I know of. I heartily recommend it as a medicine worthy of a place in every household.

W. C. BLACK,
Pastor Mulberry St. Methodist Church.
Manufactured by F. A. Dicks, Natchez, Miss.

It Is Worth $10,000 to Me.

For the past seven or eight years I have been a victim of Nervous Dyspepsia in its worst form. I have spent thousands of dollars, and have kept poor paying for medicine and doctors' bills. Up to the time I began the use of Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water, every kind of food caused me untold misery that none but God and myself knew. After having tried everything that I read or heard of, I must confess that I had no faith or hope whatever that the water would do me any good. But "like a drowning man grasping at a straw," I bought from Mr. Wilkinson one quart of his mineral water and began to take one dessertspoonful after each meal and at bedtime. Contrary to my expectations and to my very great joy and surprise, in three or four days I began to improve, continued to do so steadily until I was entirely well. It cured me in spite of myself. I could hardly realize the truth. Now I can and do eat anything I want, at any time, without it disagreeing with me in the least. My digestion is perfect, my heart trouble is all gone, I sleep well, and my general health is all I could wish. All of which, I am happy to say, was brought about by one quart of Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water in the space of six weeks. Will say in addition that I have every reason to know that as a constitutional nerve tonic and restorative it is unsurpassed. For $10,000 I would not be put back where I was when I began the use of the water and not be able to get any more of it.

Anyone suffering as I did can, if they choose, write to me and I will cheerfully answer.

W. J. GARDNER.
P. O. Box 73, Montgomery, Ala.

For sale at 106 Camp street.

Illinois Central Railroad.

REDUCED RATES TO CHICAGO AND THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Tickets now on sale from New Orleans to Chicago and return at $36.75 for the round trip; sale to continue daily until Oct. 15, 1893, inclusive; good to return until Nov. 15, 1893. Remember that the Central Route is the only railroad from the South whose trains enter Chicago without transfer or detour in full view of the Exposition Buildings, and make regular stops at the World's Fair gates. (World's Fair Station—Midway Plaisance.)

For further particulars, tickets, etc., call on or address your local or nearest I. C. R. R. ticket agent.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Philip Warlain,

New Orleans, wants you to write to him if you want to get a good Piano cheap, or an Organ, Music or Musical Instruments. His is the old reliable music store of New Orleans.

Camp Meetings.

To the Methodist People of New Orleans:

If you would like to spy out the St. Tammany Camp Grounds and spend a few hours in the country, you can come out on the East Louisiana excursion, on Wednesday, to Abita Springs; thence by hack to camp ground, taking dinner at the Rausch Hotel, and return in the evening, the entire trip costing only about $2. Anyone desiring to spend a week or longer will be well cared for at the above-named hotel, which is near the camp grounds. Come and see our beautiful shades, our laughing streams, our enchanted grounds, and you will fall in love with our country and people, and come back to our camp meeting, Sept. 22. For further information address D. C. RAWLS, P. C.

The twenty-second annual camp meeting under the management of the Henington Camp Meeting Association will commence Thursday, Aug. 24, 1893.

That distinguished minister, Rev. H. C. Morrison, of Louisville, Ky., and that great singer, Mr. S. J. Evans, of Texas, will be in attendance.

Ministers of the gospel are earnestly invited to attend and will be provided for during the meeting.

A great gathering of the people is expected, and ample arrangements will be made for the accommodation of all who may come.

The restaurant will be carried on under the direct management of the association. Board will be furnished at very moderate rates.

The I. C. R. R. will give the usual reduction of fare from all points.

To meet the expenses of the meeting and to avoid the necessity of a public collection, the usual entrance fee of twenty-five cents will be required to be paid only once during the meeting. Tickets not transferable.

J. W. MCNEIL, Sec.

Unlike the Dutch Process

No Alkalies
—OR—
Other Chemicals
are used in the preparation of
W. BAKER & CO.'S
Breakfast Cocoa
which is absolutely pure and soluble.

It has more than three times the strength of Cocoa mixed with Starch, Arrowroot or Sugar, and is far more economical, costing less than one cent a cup. It is delicious, nourishing, and EASILY DIGESTED.

Sold by Grocers everywhere.

W. BAKER & CO., Dorchester, Mass.

WIDOW HOOD'S LODGING HOUSE,

No. 19 ST. CHARLES ST.

I wish to announce to the public that I have renovated and refitted my house, and solicit the patronage of the traveling public. Open all night. Beds can be had for 25 and 50 cents. I especially solicit the patronage of Christian people visiting the city.

WIDOW A. A. HOOD

UNIVERSITY PREPARATORY SCHOOL,

73 COLISEUM STREET.

T. W. DYER, - - - Principal.

The Eleventh Session begins Oct. 2 with a full corps of teachers. The location is perfect. The surroundings are attractive. The grounds are large (quarter of a square), with separate yard and accommodations for smaller boys. A few boarding pupils can be accommodated. References: The clergy of New Orleans and the faculty of Tulane University.

Tuskaloosa Female College,

TUSKALOOSA, ALA.

Thirty-fourth Session begins Sept. 26, 1893. Terms reduced to suit the times. For Catalogues apply to

ALONZO HILL, President.

State Normal School,

NATCHITOCHES, LA.

Reopens Oct. 2, 1893. Both sexes admitted. Attendance last session, 293. Faculty of twelve instructors. Unsurpassed in beauty and healthfulness of location, thoroughness of instruction, and perfection of discipline. Diploma entitles holder to first-grade teacher's certificate without examination.

Tuition free. Total expense need not exceed $110 per annum.

For catalogue address

THOS. D. BOYD, A. M.,
President.

MILLWOOD
Female Institute.

This Institute is located near Jackson, La., and is as remarkable for its delightful environments as its healthy location.

Special teachers in each Department.

Charges lower than any school which offers the same advantages.

Session opens Sept. 4, 1893.

Send for Catalogue.

MISS M. MCCALMONT,
Principal.

Louisiana State University
AND
Agricultural and Mechanical College.

J. W. NICHOLSON, A.M., LL.D., President.

The next session (1893-'94) will open on the fifth of October, 1893, with a full and able corps of Professors and Instructors. Five Courses of Study, healthy locality, excellent discipline, splendid equipments. Tuition free. Cost for maintenance, per session of nine months, $131. Number of students last session, 186. For catalogue giving full information

Address ALVAN C. READ, Secretary,
Baton Rouge, La.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SEASHORE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Williamsburg circuit, at Oakohays	Aug. 19, 20
Ellisville circuit, at Sandersville	20, 27
Eastabuchie circuit, at L. River C. G.	30, Sept. 6
Heidelberg circuit, at Pauiding	9, 10
Augusta cir., at Boone's Ch'l. (Th., Fri.)	14, 15
Vancleave circuit, at Mt. Zion	16, 17
Ocean Springs, at O. Springs (Wed.)	20
Tallsheek circuit, at St. Tammany C. G.	22-20
Covington cir., at St. Tam'y C. G. (Mon.)	25
Bay St. Louis, at Handsborough	29, 30
Whittington c. (4th round), Palmer C. G.	30 to Oct. 8
E. Pearl Miss., at Pine Grove. (Tues.)	10

Let special prayer be made by all our people for the camp meetings. Observe the quarterly fast. Have General Rules read, and registers on hand for examination. Preachers will please try to "clear the decks" of the collections during this quarter, at least in good subscriptions to push the interests of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

HENRY E. PARTRIDGE, P. E.

Hattiesburg, Miss.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Bowerton, at Pleasant Valley	Aug. 19, 20
Pleasant Grove, at Pleasant Grove	Sept. 2, 3
China Grove, at Waterholes	5
Brookhaven circuit, at New Hope	9, 10
Terry circuit, at Byram	15
Gallman, at Mt. Pleasant	10, 17
Hazlehurst	22
Providence, at Georgetown	23, 24

B. S. WOODWARD, P. E.

MERIDIAN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

DeKalb circuit, at Marvin	Aug. 19, 20
North Kemper, at Blair	20, 27
Chunkey circuit, at Spring Hill	Sept. 2, 3
Marion circuit, at Pleasant Hill	9, 10
Why Not circuit, at Why Not	16, 17
Meridian—Central (Wed. night)	20
Landerdale cir., at Mt. Hebron (Thur.)	21
Binnsville circuit, at Chapel Hill	23, 24

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Madison, at Madisonville	Aug. 19, 20
Silver Creek, at B. Lake (Wed.)	23
Lake City, at Lodi	20, 27
Yazoo circuit, at Anding (Tues.)	29
Camden, at Thomastown	Sept. 2, 6
Bolton, at Clinton	9, 10
Pocahontas, at Liberty Grove (Tues.)	12
Tranquil, at Locust Grove	16, 17
Canton	21, 24

E. H. MOUNGER, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Brandon station	Aug. 20, 21
Marvin, at Richland Academy	Sept. 1
Fannin, at Drake's	2, 3
Raleigh, at Trinity	7
Westville	9, 10
Homewood	13
Trenton, at Gasque	10, 17
Montrose, at Mt. Zion	23, 24

C. MCDONALD, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Sunflower, at Bethel (Sat.)	Aug. 19
Rolling Fork, at Cary (Sun.)	20
Fayette, at Ebeneser	26, 27
Meadville, at New Providence (Tues.)	29
Warren, at Wesley Chapel	Sept. 2, 3
Port Gibson	9, 10
Rocky Springs	16, 17
Mayersville, at Mayersville	23, 24
Hermanville (Thur.)	28

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SARDIS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Senatobia	Aug. 20, 27
Batesville	Sept. 3, 3
Sardis, at Davis Chapel	9, 10
Hernando	10, 17
Como	23, 24
Pleasant Grove, at Lee's Chapel	30 Oct. 1
Courtland, at Center Hill	7, 8
Nesbits	14, 15
Mt. Vernon, at Free Springs	21, 22
Pleasant Hill, at Lewisburg	28, 29
Arkabutla (Tues.)	31
Morgansville mission	Nov. 4, 5
Cockrum, at Green Leaf	11, 12
Wall Hill	18, 19
Panola	25, 26

If stewards and pastors will address themselves faithfully and constantly to their respective duties, salaries and connectional collections will be paid in full. Brethren, the Lord and the church expects everyone to do their duty.

H. C. MORRHEAD, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Joneston	Aug. 20
Lula	27
Arcola	Sept. 3
Duncan	10
Clarksdale	24
Gunnison	Oct. 1
Rosedale	8
Cleveland	15
Bolivar	22
Shaw	29
Lyon	Nov. 5
Winterville	12
Friar's Point	19
Greenville	26

J. A. RANDOLPH, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Pontotoc	Aug. 17
Houston and Wesley	19, 20
Athens	26
Okolona	20, 27
Tremont	Sept. 2, 3
Buena Vista	9, 10

J. B. STONE, P. E.

KOSCIUSKO DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Wier circuit, at Liberty Hill	Aug. 19, 20
Chester circuit, at South Union	21
Louisville circuit, at Rocky Hill	20, 27
Eupora circuit, at Sapa	Sept. 2, 3
Rural Hill circuit, at Plattsburg	9, 10

Will the preacher in charge please see that the general rules are read, and that church register and the records of Church Conferences are presented for examination?

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, P. E.

GRENADA DISTRICT—THIRD ROUND.

Atlanta	Aug. 19, 20
Abberville	26, 27
Banner	Sept. 2, 3
Grenada circuit	9, 10
Water Valley circuit	16, 17

R. A. BURROUGHS, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Carondelet (morn.)	Aug. 20
Morean (eve.)	20
Gross Tete, at Rosedale	27
Dryades (morn.)	Sept. 3
Craps (eve.)	3
Plaq. and Donaldson, at Vacherie	10
Lower Coast, at Port Eads	17

C. W. CARTER, P. E.

ARCADIA DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Haynesville, at Flat Lick	Aug. 19, 20
Valley, at Blockers Chapel	22, 28
Vernon, at Wesley Chapel	20, 27
Gansville	Sept. 2, 3
Vienna, at Pine Grove	9
Ruston station	10, 11

J. L. P. SHEPPARD, P. E.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Victoria mission, at Oak Grove	Aug. 19
Cane River, at Ragans Chapel	20
Natchitoches station. (Sun. night, Mon.)	20, 21
Many, at Negreet	25, 26
Fort Jessup, at Rocky Mount	27, 28

ROBT. J. HARP, P. E.

Address: 629 Hope St., Shreveport.

DELHI DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Harrisonburg, at Harrisonburg	Aug. 19, 20
Oakley	22
Floyd, at Oak Grove	26, 27
Lake Providence	Sept. 2, 3
Waterproof	9, 10

H. O. WHITE, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Colfax and Spring C., at Rapides C. G.	Aug. 19, 20
Vidalia, at Vidalia	19, 20
Chicot, at Elm Bayou	26, 27
Melville, at Big Cane	Sept. 2, 3
Simsport	9, 10

S. J. DAVIES, P. E.

What folly! To be without BRECHAM'S PILLS.

ITCHING HUMORS

Torturing, disfiguring eczemas, and every species of itching, burning, scaly, crusted, and pimply skin and scalp diseases, with dry, thin, and falling hair, are relieved in most cases by a single application, and speedily and economically cured by the

CUTICURA

Remedies, consisting of CUTICURA, the great skin cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite skin purifier and beautifier, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, greatest of humor remedies, when the best physicians fail. CUTICURA REMEDIES cure every humor, eruption, and disease from pimples to scrofula. Sold everywhere. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Boston.

"How to Cure Skin Diseases" mailed free.

PIMPLES, blackheads, red, rough, and oily skin prevented and cured by CUTICURA SOAP.

FREE FROM RHEUMATISM.

In one minute the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster relieves rheumatic, sciatic, hip, kidney, chest, and muscular pains and weaknesses. The first and only pain-killing strengthening plaster.

B. & S. BUSINESS COLLEGE, LOUISVILLE, KY.
Superior advantages. Send postal for circular.

VIRGINIA MILITARY INSTITUTE,
LEXINGTON, VA.

55th Year. State Military, Scientific and Technical School. Thorough Courses in general and applied Chemistry, and in Engineering. Confers degree of graduate in Academic Course, also degrees of Bachelor of Science and Civil Engineer in Technical Courses. All expenses, including clothing and incidentals, provided at rate of $36.50 per month, an average for the four years, exclusive of outfit.

New Cadets report Sept. 1st.

GEN. SCOTT SHIPP, Superintendent.

LAGRANGE FEMALE COLLEGE

LaGRANGE, GEORGIA.

Course—Literature, Music, Art, Normal course in each. Music and art first-class.

Location—Elevated, healthful, retired.

Advantages—Uniform, gymnasium, baths, electric lights. Pupils board with faculty. Industries, harmony, Sight-singing taught.

49 Session will begin Sept. 20, 1893.

EULER B. SMITH, SEC. RUFUS W. SMITH, PRES.

LAW SCHOOL
WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY,
LEXINGTON, VIRGINIA.

Opens Sept. 14. For catalogue address
JOHN RANDOLPH TUCKER, Dean.

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA
CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA.

Session begins 15th Sept. Full equipment and corps of instructors in Academical, Engineering, Law, and Medical Departments. Excellent Climate. New Gymnasium, with baths free to all students. For catalogues address

WM. M. THORNTON, LL.D., Chairman.

UNIVERSITY SCHOOL,
Petersburg, Va.

The twenty-ninth annual session of this school for boys begins MONDAY, October 2nd. Thorough preparation for University of Virginia, Yale, Harvard, United States military and naval academies, and all the best technical schools. Full staff. For catalogue, address W. Gordon McCabe, Head Master.

FIVE DOLLAR REDUCTION
IN
WORLD'S FAIR RATES
BY THE Queen & Crescent ROUTE

Beginning July 23rd, in addition to the regular World's Fair Excursion rates, the Queen & Crescent will sell first class excursion tickets, good fifteen days from date of sale for return, at $5.00 less than the regular World's Fair rate. These tickets are via either Cincinnati or via Louisville, going and returning same route.

Through Cars to Chicago. Quick Time. Finest Trains in the South. Be sure to take the Queen & Crescent Route.

For rates, schedules, sleeping car reservations, etc., call on any agent of the E. T. V. & G. Ry, Queen & Crescent Route or Louisville Southern R. R., or D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. A., - Cincinnati, O.

Do You Crochet ?

or knit, or do fancy work of any sort? If so you can fully appreciate the merits of Glasgo Twilled Lace Thread.

It has a twilly texture peculiar to itself that imparts the richest appearance and effect to lace and all other fancy work. It is more economical and far superior to linen thread in every way and for every purpose. One spool will convince you. Ask your dealer for it, or send 10 cents for sample spool.

12 illustrated tidy patterns, 12 illustrated lace spread patterns, 5 cents each, by mail. Illustrated Crochet Books, 1, 2, 3, 10 cents each.

GLASGO LACE THREAD CO., Glasgo, Conn.

WESLEYAN FEMALE INSTITUTE Opens Sept. 6th, 1893.
STAUNTON, VIRGINIA.

Climate and surroundings exceptional. Handsome buildings, now being remodeled, thoroughly renovated, repainted inside and outside, and refurnished with new pianos, carpets, &c. Steam heat, gas light, bath rooms on every floor. New Laboratory thoroughly equipped. Excellent Faculty of Experienced Teachers. Advanced courses in English, Latin, German, French, &c. Special advantages in Art. Conservatory Course in Music. One hundred and forty-one boarding pupils from eighteen States. Terms moderate. For Catalogues of this celebrated old Virginia school, address

W. W. ROBERTSON, President, Staunton, Virginia.

Alabama Conference Female College.

Organized in 1856. Average annual patronage for four years past, over 200. Twenty-two professional Officers, Teachers and Lecturers. Fine Literary Curriculum extending through four years. Music taught on Conservatory methods by three able and brilliant Musicians. Art taught by a celebrated teacher of four years' European study. Scientific and Literary lectures by the Professors of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Location high; health record phenomenal; not a case of serious sickness during the past year.

For catalogue containing full statement address JOHN MASSEY, President, Tuskegee, Ala.

Classical and Commercial Institute,
7 PRYTANIA STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Regular session begins Sept. 4th. Students admitted at any time. Full Classical and Literary Courses. Commercial Sciences taught practically. Normal Penmanship. Shorthand and Type-writing, standard systems. Day and night classes. Ladies admitted to Commercial Department. Boarding Department under supervision of Principal. Write for circular.

Endorsed by the editor of the ADVOCATE and W. H. LaPrade, D. D., pastor of Carondelet Street Church.

H. S. CHENEY, A. M., Principal.
G. W. HARMAN, Prtn. Com. Dep't. LYMAN C. REED, A. M., Assistant.

Spencerian Penmanship

With BOOK-KEEPING, COMMERCIAL LAW, SHORTHAND and TYPE-WRITING Thoroughly Taught in the

Commercial Department, Classical and Commercial Institute, 7 PRYTANIA ST., NEW ORLEANS.

G. W. HARMAN, Principal.

Entire expenses for three months: Course, $60, including board, tuition, etc. Ladies received in this department.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 40.—NO. 34. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, AUGUST 24, 1893. WHOLE NO. 1931.

Rev. J. M. BEARD, D. D., Editor and Publisher. } PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA CONFERENCE, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH. { ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER

EVENING HYMN.

BY ARTHUR E. SMITH.

Abide with us, Lord Jesus, through ev'ry changing tilt
Now that the day is dying,
And darker shades are lying
Along the eastern hill,
Abide with us, Lord Jesus! Be thou our Helper still.

Abide with us, Lord Jesus! Abide with us, we pray!
We bow the knee in meekness,
And own to thee our weakness!
Be thou our strength and stay!
Abide with us, Lord Jesus, and guide us lest we stray!

Abide with us, Lord Jesus, now that the sun has set!
Be thou our Shepherd tender!
Shine o'er us in thy splendor,
And all our sins forget!
Abide with us, Lord Jesus! Be thou our Olivet!

Abide with us, Lord Jesus, till morning light breaks clear!—
Till through the night of sorrow
We hail the glad to-morrow
And the safe harbor near!
Abide with us, Lord Jesus, till heav'nly lands appear!

—Christian Intelligencer.

Power of Personality.

BY JOSEPH B. COTTRELL, D. D.

The tribute of Bro. T. W. Dye to Rev. J. H. Brooks, in the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, of Aug. 10, just received, stringa itself, perforce of its evident heartiness and its perfect justness, upon the charm of personal reminiscence, which constitutes with me a capital ministry in that which may be termed soul-nurture and discipline. There is of personality a power generative of the highest attainable in the cultus of the kingdom. Personality, as it is apprehended, blending qualities of character, and, through inspiration of regard and esteem, operating the determining of the worth of those considered, even as if they were weighed in the scales of our mental and moral manhood, is a somewhat beyond and above which it is not possible for us to imagine in the economy of spiritual growth and ripening. Of this personality everyone has the ideal. It is ultimate. It is, in precisely the same sense, predicated of the human and of the divine. The reason we have the ideal is that through personality there has come to us revelation thereof. Conscious of our own individual personality, and cognizant of that of others as they are phenomenal before us, there comes, through media of these factors, character-engendering force, so that we may be said to be products of those who have operated, through their worth or wickedness, according to the law of personal relation and interdependence. Perhaps it were better for it to have been written, that it is through power of persons, rather than through power of personality, there come effects in production of character. Personality is abstraction, and as merely an ideal somewhat differencing sovereigns and agents from things that come not into the category of the moral and spiritual, it is not potent; but persons are factors when in concrete, phenomenal expression of that mind apprehends as excellent, they stimulate—they nurture—even as they themselves were appropriated through a process of mental mastication and affectional digestion on the spiritual assimilation. Was it not in analogy with this Christ said, "Unless ye eat my flesh and drink my blood, ye have no part with me?" Æsthetically there is a potency in the phenomena of nature; and as we contemplate, in self-gentleness, these forms and colors that are, objectively, our counterpart, they seem to blend whatever is soft and gentle without us with our own subjective being, so that all is quickened by the life of us, vivified and born out of the mere actual into the real, as we, reciprocally, through their ministration, are elevated and refined. But poetized as we may become through the process of this commerce with the beautiful, and as delicately touched as may be the silken straws of our sensitive nature by the genius of the sensuous, in ranges above the sensual, the history is not a spiritualizing one. It is not of the nature of that we term worship. Personality is the sine qua non for engaging the soul in highest exercise of its powers. "God hath shoed in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of his glory in the face of" a person; and it was, as reflecting that light, in ministry of the truth, enravishingly, Paul became a model, in his personality, to others, what prompted them to so honor him that the apostle declared, "And they glorified God in me!" It is the power of the whom, rather than of the what, that lifts us. "Ye are the salt of the earth! Ye are the lights of the world!" "I am the vine; ye are the branches!" It is by a personal incorporation with him after a sublime method of contemplating him, and realizing the sufficiency of such organic union with the divine, that it comes natural to say: "For me to live is Christ." How texts are rescued from a vulgar signification of modal imitation in ceremonial performance, as they are apprehended aright in connection with a veritable identification of life and spirit with him who enables us to live as "members one of another!"—"compacted by that which every joint supplies, according to the effectual working in the measure of every part unto . . . edification in love!"

It has been in memory of the courtesy, deference and brotherliness manifested by Dr. Brooks, as occasion caused such to be most grateful to a brother itinerant, when, for three years, we were associated in the "North Mississippi Conference," I have been sprung to these reflections, as touching personal ministrations; and in offering criticism of the true philosophy of our spiritual obitus, it has greatly gratified me to produce from the inspired word of Revelation such perpendicular proof-texts as the ones I have quoted. This whole life of religion is a reciprocal, communicative, interdepending one; so that in it we have a commonwealth. The penitence, humility, fidelity, courage, devotedness and generousness of anyone of the brotherhood belong to all, as they are suitably appreciative thereof, and thankful for what in others attests the power of the common faith.

Cinverport, Ky., Aug. 11, 1893.

Ministerial Selfishness.

Last year a preacher of many years' experience persuaded a young preacher of much zeal and no little ability to conduct all his protracted meetings on a large circuit. Results: Revivals and many accessions on the old preacher's circuit, but the young preacher's own circuit sadly neglected.

This year an experienced preacher gets a young preacher to go from one protracted meeting to another, labor day and night for several weeks during intensely hot weather, until the young preacher breaks down, completely exhausted, and threatened with paralysis. There were glorious revivals at all of the old preacher's appointments, but the young preacher's usefulness may be permanently impaired, even if his life do not pay the penalty for a zeal not according to knowledge.

An earnest, zealous, consecrated preacher, once robust, but whose health became impaired and whose mind became clouded, was in a fair way to become perfectly restored, but brethren more concerned about increasing the numbers of their church members than they were about the health of their brother had him to lead one protracted meeting after another, preaching day and night for weeks during the severest heat of this Summer, until the old trouble has returned and a cloud of denser darkness has settled down on the mind of the good man, and the light of reason has gone out. And this awful work has been wrought by the selfish thoughtlessness or thoughtless selfishness of ministerial brethren! Is it any wonder that some physicians object to preachers visiting persons who are very sick?

A preacher was sick, and a faithful doctor visited him once or twice every day, and prescribed with care and skill for the patient through days and weeks until the preacher was able to go about his usual work. He never said to the doctor, "How much do I owe you?" nor even, "I thank you for your kindness," but repaid the doctor by complaining and charging the doctor with having directed more time in attendance upon another patient in the same village!

A preacher's baby was sick. He sent ten miles for a physician, and just as his messenger reached the office another messenger came from a place ten miles in the opposite direction for the doctor to go and see a sick man who was able to pay him $10 for the visit. The good doctor declined to go to the pay patient, and rode ten miles to see the preacher's sick baby, prescribed, and, I think, furnished the medicine. The young father never asked, "How much do I owe you for your great kindness?" and, although more than a year has gone by, has never intimated any desire to pay, nor given any expression of gratitude to the man whose skill, under the blessing of God, restored the baby to health.

Need anyone be surprised that physicians are becoming restive under the custom of gratuitously treating preachers and preachers' families, when so many preachers are so thoughtless and ungrateful? May the time soon come when preachers will be looked upon as men and not as mendicants! Until that time does come every preacher should ask the doctor for his account, and give the physician the privilege of saying, "I make no charge, and am always glad to render you any service." Then let the preacher be polite enough to thank the doctor for his kindness, and if he be able, make a substantial present also. It will not lower him any in the physician's opinion, and would comply with the scriptural injunction, "Be courteous."

T. L. MELLEN.

Prohibition Still Reigant in Meridian, Miss.

The ever-restless saloon has had our people again in motion to resist a petition for license. Only seven months ago, after quite an exciting campaign, the voice of the people declared that the saloon must "go," and on the expiration of their licenses every saloon was closed. As one after another the "blind tigers" essayed to thwart the prohibition mandate, they were promptly detected, closed, and punished. Wearied of a clandestine life, and emboldened by past successes, the promises not to register of a few half-hearted church members, and the treachery of some others who, for reasons best known to themselves, were induced to sign their petitions, they resolved to force on us another "whisky campaign." By a feat of political legerdemain the saloonists were granted a new registration, and by the grace of the registrar were allowed at his office door a table, where a petition for a "gallon license" was submitted to everyone who applied for registration. In this way, without much inconvenience, they were permitted to solicit every voter, and readily obtained quite a large petition—i. e., large in length. It will not do very critically to scan the social or religious quality of these petitioners, albeit the names of some church members and some men of financial strength were upon it. They boasted very confidently that this time they would save the town from the "dry rot," emancipate "the priest-ridden church members," deliver the sovereigns from the domination of fanatics, and again ride into power and wealth. It did look a little stormy when six out of ten of the council—to whom the petition was addressed—were among the petitioners. They worked with unflagging industry, inducing many negroes to register and many idle men. A miscellaneous list, ignorant of their rights, or defiant of the rights of others—some with promises of reward and others with the protection of the "gang"—were thus marshalled in the last ditch to contend for the right of publicly imbruting themselves and their families. They were greatly surprised at the contents of the "counter petition." There were sharp eyes and quick ears constantly on their track, and every violation of the "dram-shop chapter" was detected. The very impersonation of lawlessness is the saloon, and this last petition seems to have studiously mastered the art of evasion and the bolder purpose of defiance to the legislative wisdom which would obstruct the pathway of the liquor traffic.

This petition has taught us the various reaches of the law, and, if anyone doubted it before, that no law, however benign or wisely articulated, inspires the feeblest sentiment of obedience in the breast of the saloon. And yet there are reasonably good citizens, and some "goody-goody" church members, who are simple enough to believe in the loyalty to law of "this one saloon," and are willing to tolerate one or two "gallon-houses" in such a city. Æsop tells of one philanthropist who cherished a frozen snake at his fireside. He was infinitely wise in comparison with the unsophisticated who sign a whisky petition.

In the one thousand white Methodists of Meridian, less than a dozen could be found weak enough to sign this petition; about the same number of white Baptists, one negro of the M. E. Church, and two of the colored Baptists. Let it go abroad among the churches that the Christians of Meridian stand in unbroken battle line against the invasion of the saloon. Under the leadership of Bro. L. P. Brown these hosts, which constitute sixty-five per cent. of the voters of this city, have, by the blessing of God, fought and won in this last battle, and are ready for the next assault whenever they are ready to advance.

CHAS. F. EVANS.

Around the Circle.

For several weeks I have been holding and helping in protracted meetings. First on Lebanon circuit, helping Rev. B. W. Lewis. Rain, sickness and grass hindered us somewhat; yet we trust good was done. We had one bright conversion, if no more. Next at Brandywine, Claiborne county, Rev. W. W. Hurst, pastor. Here we had a good time generally. Bro. Hurst is in favor with his people. From Brandywine I went to Bethesda, in Franklin county, my own charge. Here we had Bro. R. S. Woodward, our good presiding elder, and Rev. B. W. Lewis, and several good workers among the laymen. Our meeting here was one of the best that has been here for many years. We had some opposition to contend with the first few days, but on Tuesday (fourth day) the enemy was completely routed, driven from the field, and the victory won. The good Lord helped us wonderfully. During the meeting we buried little Homer Cupit, son of Eli and Elizabeth Cupit. He was a bright boy six years old, the pet of the household. God bless, comfort and sustain the family in their moments of sorrow and sadness. Our next was at Galatia, where I was assisted by Bro. P. H. Howse, of Meadville circuit. Bro. Howse done some faithful, earnest work, which has done good. We had a good meeting among the members. I am now (Aug. 14) helping Bro. Crossley at New Hope, on Brookhaven circuit. Bro. Crossley is a promising young preacher, and is in favor with his people. In all our meetings the Holy Spirit has been manifestly present. The outlook on my work is encouraging.

Uncle Dave McRee is still quite feeble. He appreciates the kindly remembrance of his pleasant home and hospitalities on the part of Bros. Huonicutt, Mellen, and others. Some touching resolutions were adopted by our third Quarterly Conference, to the effect that his valuable life may, if it be our Father's will, be long spared to the church.

I have recently procured and forwarded, with the cash, ten new subscribers to our dear old ADVOCATE. Our prayer is that God may abundantly bless, strengthen and encourage our new editor in his difficult work in doing his duty and trying to please the brethren. I have read the Alexandria District Conference resolutions. I want to say that everyone I have seen or heard from in this section is highly pleased with the editorial management of our paper. May you survive under the immense load heaped upon you, and in the end come forth as gold!

H. P. LEWIS.

Caseyville, Miss.

Drowned.

Last Saturday we were sadly bereft. A young man eighteen years old, Mr. Josie Williams, who was a student of the A. and M. College, who would have graduated in one more year, and Mr. Eugene Majures' little boy, ten or twelve years old, were at Watkins' Mill pond, Williams trying to learn little Majures to swim, having him on his back. He swam across the pond three or four times, and finally let down, and little Majures began to strangle, caught Williams around the neck, and in that condition they went to the bottom to rise no more. When raised to the top of the water, in one hour or more, the little boy still had Williams around the neck. They were buried in the same grave yesterday at Carolina Cemetery.

J. C. ELLIS.

Laurel Hill, Miss., Aug. 15 1893.

Notice.

Rev. Dr. B. Carradine will begin a meeting with me at West End, Meridian, Miss., on Oct. 15. The object of the meeting will be the conversion of sinners, and the entire sanctification of believers according to "Wesley's Plain Account of Christian Perfection." Preachers and other workers are urged to attend. Let all who will come to work notify me, and we will provide entertainment for them.

W. W. HOPPER, Pastor.

Meridian, Miss.

E. Kirby Smith Memorial Resolutions.

Prof. George W. Harman, the well-known and talented penman, has presented The Times-Democrat with a copy of his latest, and perhaps finest, piece of artistic work, a highly ornate and beautifully engrossed copy of the resolutions adopted by the United Confederate Veterans of this city at the E. Kirby Smith memorial meeting on the fourth of last May.

From the lower left-hand corner of the souvenir rises a staff, from the top of which floats a Confederate streamer. In the centre of the folds of stars and stripes is a fine likeness of the dead leader, and on the white area is an inscription telling what the souvenir is. Beneath are the resolutions, as beautiful in the execution of presentation as in the sentiment that they express, and the name Gen. Edmund Kirby Smith partly covers a misty battle flag of the Lost Cause. The borders of the sheet are engrossed with symbols of his life and character, and in the lower corner is a sketch of the battle with the Comanche Indians, in which the deceased won not a little of his fame as a fighter.

The local veterans did not feel able to order the souvenir in such an elaborate form for themselves, but gave Prof. Harman permission to issue the memorial souvenir. One-half of the proceeds of the sale of the copies will be devoted to the worthy cause of the assistance of the family of Gen. Smith, who were left in poor worldly circumstances, although rich in the inheritance of his fame.—Times-Democrat.

The memorial resolutions on the death of Gen. Beauregard have also been engrossed by Prof. Harman, and, if possible, is a still more artistic piece of work. The ADVOCATE has received copies of both, for which it returns thanks to the author. Let every Southern man and woman possess themselves of copies of each. The price of the former is $1, the latter 50 cents.

The ADVOCATE to single subscribers from this date to Jan. 1, 1894, for 50 cents.

FROM THE WORK.

Rev. E. H. McNabb, Lebrton mission, Winona district, North Mississippi Conference, Aug. 3: "Baptism of the Holy Spirit, strong men and women shouted, backsliders reclaimed, many sinners asked for prayers. Glory to God for his wonderful mercy to men! Twelve added to the church."

A note from Rev. H. P. Gibbs, Pleasant Grove, Miss., says: "Have just closed our second meeting. God is with us in great power. Eighty souls converted and sanctified. The two works go on together hand in hand at every service. Convictions are pungent, conversions are clear, and sanctifications after the order of Paul's prayer to the Thessalonians (I., v, 23)."

Rev. C. R. Seward, Indian Bayou, La., Aug. 4: "We have just closed a thirteen days' meeting at this place. The Rev. C. R. Montgomery, preacher in charge of the Washington work, came to my assistance the fourth day of the meeting, and remained till its close. He hit sin with the two-edged sword till some of the hardest sinners here yielded and sought the Savior's love. He made many friends while here. Results: 67 conversions, 51 accessions. We have had 89 conversions and 79 accessions this year. Pray for us."

Rev. H. C. Morehead, Sardis, Miss., Aug. 10: "As I send you the fourth round of quarterly meetings of Sardis district for publication, I also send some encouraging words. Revival fires are glowing in many charges in the district. Thank God the power of the Lord is present to heal the people. The old-time power is upon us. Conviction for sin, repentance and salvation is the order. Reports of pastors on Sunday-schools in several charges twenty-five per cent. better than ever before. Will give you details later. The Lord be praised."

Rev. M. L. White, Mt. Carmel, Miss., Aug. 10: "I send you some more good news from Mt. Carmel circuit. Just closed meeting at Mt. Zion; lasted six days; ten accessions to church, two children baptized, membership revived greatly, men and women laid an altar for life. Wish I could describe the depth of this revival. Mt. Zion and community is stirred. God only knows what has been done. Bro. Backus did some excellent and powerful preaching. Bro. Barr came Tuesday; added much to the meeting by his forcible preaching. Praise God."

Rev. W. W. Hopper: "On Sabbath, Aug. 13, closed a meeting of one week at Poplar Springs, near Meridian, Miss. Power of God rested on the people. Accessions, six; conversions, several, and one received the blessing of entire sanctification. This sister was convicted for the experience under the faithful ministry of Rev. N. B. Harmon, my predecessor."

Rev. B. B. Sullivan, P. C., Okolona, Miss., Aug. 10: "We closed, Aug. 6, a successful meeting at New Hope Church, on the Okolona circuit. The church was greatly revived, many backsliders reclaimed, twenty-three bright conversions in the altar, or at the 'mourners' bench,' and thirteen additions to our church. I was assisted by Bro. Henry E. Parrott, who did most of the preaching with power and acceptability. Sister Parrott was also to the meeting, and did much and efficient work for the Lord. Bro. and Sister Parrott, though they have been away for some years, still live in the hearts of the people."

Rev. J. M. Massey, P. C., Toccopola circuit, North Mississippi Conference, Aug. 3: "Allow me to say through the columns of our paper (the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE) to all whom it may concern, that our third Quarterly Conference was held July 22 and 23. Our efficient presiding elder, Rev. R. A. Burroughs, was at his post of duty; stayed with us one week—an unusual thing for a presiding elder; at least, it was a new thing here. The people say it was the first time a presiding elder ever held a protracted meeting here. His preaching was plain and practical, with power and demonstration of the Spirit, so much so that the cold, indifferent members, and others, were stirred up to a sense of their duty, and resolutions and promises were made by nearly all to live better lives. There were two accessions. I have held my second protracted meeting for this season, and have four more to hold yet. Finances are far behind up to date; but if there is an average crop made, I hope to make a good report at Conference. The drouth has already injured the corn crop considerably, but the cotton is not hurt yet. May the good Lord bless the people with means sufficient to support the interests of the church; and, above all, may we have a baptism of the Holy Ghost all over this country!"

Rev. W. T. Browning, P. C., Lauderdale, Miss., Aug. 11: "We have recently closed two very successful meetings at Mt. Hebron and Borton's Chapel, respectively. The Holy Spirit was with us in great power at each place. The two meetings lasted through the greater part of two weeks. Great good was accomplished in the Master's name. There were some five or six family altars erected, about the same number of persons began leading in prayer meeting, quite a number of both the men and women began leading in public prayer, a number of old family quarrels were settled and peace now rules where hatred and strife once reigned, some eighteen or twenty lukewarm Christians were revived, one new prayer meeting and one new Sabbath-school will be organized, some forty-five or fifty conversions occurred, twenty joined our church, and two united with other churches. God, in his mercy, is doing great things for us. Bros. Chas. W. Huff and J. W. Burton, local preachers of Sumpter county, Ala., were with us, and rendered faithful services. God's great name be praised that he hath again visited and blessed his people. On next Sabbath we start on another campaign against the powers of darkness of four or five weeks' duration. We trust in the Captain of our salvation for victory. Brethren, pray for us."

REVIVAL NOTES FROM THE MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

Linwood circuit, Bethel Church, H. W. Van Hook, P. C., assisted by W. J. Ferguson: Twelve accessions and a number of conversions, and much good otherwise done. The "come-outers" will not be likely to disturb public worship by their discourteous rudeness again very soon.

North Kemper circuit, Spring Hill Church, W. J. Ferguson, P. C., assisted by D. G. W. Ellis: No accessions, but the church edified and strengthened in the faith. T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

JUST WHEN THOU WILT.

BY FRANCES RIDLEY HAVERGAL.

Just when thou wilt, O Master, call,
Or at the noon or evening fall,
Or in the dark, or in the light,
Just when thou wilt, it must be right.

Just when thou wilt, O Savior, come.
Take me to dwell in thy bright home!
Or when the snows have crowned my head,
Or ere it hath one silver thread.

Just when thou wilt, O Bridegroom, say,
"Rise up, my love, and come away:"
Open to me thy golden gate,
Just when thou wilt, or soon or late.

Just when thou will—thy time is best—
Thou shalt appoint my hour of rest,
Marked by the Sun of perfect love,
Shining unchangeably above.

Just when thou wilt—no choice for me!
Life is a gift to use for thee;
Death is a hushed and glorious tryst,
With thee, my King, my Savior, Christ.

Summer Wanderings.

Seeking rest, strength and wisdom, I left Jackson, La., after commencement and preached twice the next Sunday in Yazoo City for Bro. Jones, that he might have a little respite from his labors. Yazoo City has grown much in recent years, as is strikingly exhibited in the fact that its church property has increased tenfold in value in the last decade. The people have lost none of their old-time hospitality, and their hearts and homes are open to God's ministers, and the best they have is for the service of the Lord.

After spending a few days at the home of my wife's mother near Canton, and taking in Durant, preaching twice for a brother whose sister's illness required his attention, wife and I started to Georgia. This journey a few years ago required two days and three nights, afterwards a day and two nights. Now we take supper in Winona, breakfast in Birmingham, spend the day in Atlanta and take supper in Athens, Ga. Atlanta represents the fulness of Georgia's recent growth and stands before the world a noble exhibition of the results of modern Christian civilization. Here I visited an aged man of God who has given one thousand dollars for the endowment of Centenary College of Louisiana, and has consecrated the remainder of his property to the promotion of Christian education in Centenary and one other college.

The District Conference at Greensboro was enjoyable and edifying. Bro. Parks, the presiding elder, directed matters with his usual grace and wisdom. Bishop Haygood came from another Conference, of which there were thirteen in Georgia embracing that fifth Sunday, and preached to edification of all on Saturday and Sunday.

By the way, the Bishop's new book, "Jack-knife and Brambles," is just out. His "Man of Galilee" is certainly a powerful faith tonic, and this book seems intended to clear away the brambles of the higher criticism that every ax-man who will may strike unobstructed blows at the huge green tree of universal sin. He certainly does not "walk delicately" before Agag.

Athens is quiet, classical and cultured as heretofore. The State Normal College holds a summer session here during the vacation of the university. More than a hundred teachers study advanced methods of teaching here and return to their places to practice what they have learned. Athens curbs whisky in a well-ordered dispensary, which everybody agrees is not so bad as either open saloons or blind tigers. The State Pomological Society met here last week. The display of fruits and flowers by the Athens Garden Club and from other places was very fine. One nursery sent seventy-nine different kinds of grapes. All such associations are powerfully educative in effect. The State Agricultural Convention has just held its annual session at Stone Mountain. Deeper plowing and more thorough preparation of soil is now the idea. Plowing five inches deep—three to one plow and two to another to follow in the same furrow, four inches to the mule, is said to be the plan of the most successful. Crops in general are good and promise well. Peaches are scarce, and good ones rare. Apples are not plentiful. Melons are abundant, though the crop is not equal to last year's. The grape yields, perhaps, the most unfailing of crops. Frost never hurts them, as they form on the Spring growth of the vine. Grasshoppers have appeared in great numbers and are quite destructive to growing crops, especially of corn, in some sections. They are many-colored as the rainbow and gay as a troop of strippling soldiers, till they all put on their sober suit of greyish brown with wings that everybody wishes would take them forever away. If they were as numerous and greedy in all places as they are in some, they would breed a farm at once. People go miles to see them.

It is matter of gratitude that the great financial earthquake that is shaking the nations affects our Southern people less than almost any others. Hard times had already prepared them for harder. They have bread enough and to spare at home, and while banks are breaking and their cashiers and presidents crazing and committing suicide, the farmer drinks water from his own fountain and feasts under his own vine and fig tree. None but those who have kept out of debt can have peace and security during the present distress. If a man is out of debt, and has his corn crib full, he can not be distressed for lack of credit. He and God are partners in production, and such a firm has never been known to fail.

The present financial distresses seem to grow chiefly out of a want of confidence, whether in the silver dollar or one another it is hard to tell. No money has been burned, but it has been locked up, and that has about the same effect on trade. Labor began to strike a few years ago, and capital is striking now, but neither can strike without injuring itself about as much as it does the other. If Congress will give us a bimetallic currency, putting enough silver in a dollar to make it equal to gold, a whole ounce if necessary, and the banks will lend less of other peoples's money and more of their own, the present financial crisis will soon pass away. How would it do to make all debts payable, one-half in silver and the other in gold?

W. L. C. HUNNICUTT.

The Alexandria Resolutions.

In this paper I proceed on the basis that the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE is the official organ of our church, and its editor, though he differs from a man, loves fair play. I do not wish to enter into a controversy with him, for the knight of the tripod and pen always has the advantage, and in this case, at least, uses it unscrupulously.

I wish to correct some most glaring misstatements made in his criticisms and comments in the last issue of the ADVOCATE. He states that the appointments of Bros. Hoffpauir and Denson were "irregular," or intimates very plainly that they were guilty of wire-pulling in the post-prandial arrangement of the same. I simply say that Bro. Hoffpauir's appointment was made at Lake Charles, and afterwards changed by Bishop Galloway, all done "decently and in good order," "open and above board." Bro. Denson was appointed to his present work by the well understood and concerted action of Bro. Miller and myself. In neither of these appointments is there anything new to Methodism, and it seems to me that strictures thereupon come with bad grace from one who has no episcopal or Conference endorsement of his present position as editor. I will allow the brethren the privilege of bearing the praise of being the editor's disciples, as best they can, only assuring the constituency of the ADVOCATE that neither "affect cloudland."

Now to the resolutions and—and—call them what you choose thereon. I will attend to that part which pertains more personally to the "talented young presiding elder" first. I invited Bro. Beard to our District Conference out of the fulness of my heart, as he states; but that was before the paper had become a "released menagerie," where strange doctrines ran riot in the howling wilderness of second blessedness. I wish he had been there. He would have heard something drop—outside his sanctum.

Now for some few facts: We had a gracious time at the District Conference. On the Sunday night it closed the altar was filled with penitents and there were three conversions. The last I heard from the meeting, which continued, some twenty and more had joined the church. [The pastor reports twelve, and as three of them were his own children, he is, perhaps, better informed—ED.] Why, it was a Vale of Cashmere, spiritually! No Sahara there! We have some "sand" up our way, it is true, mixed with a little "sense," which inclines us very much to stand up for the gospel as we believe and teach it.

Again, every charge on the district, with three or four exceptions, have had revivals. We are building two churches, and another is fairly in view. The only "simoon" we have had was quite recent. It blew from the South. Moreover, beloved, let me say, the editor of "our official organ" sent me a communication asking for the "strong" and earnest support of our Conference, since some Mississippi brethren were animadverting adversely you know. Some level-headed men in Mississippi I showed this to one of the brethren, and the "strong" resolution, which I thought only a mild demurrer, was the consequence. It was discussed and almost unanimously adopted, only three delegates voting against it, and does, undoubtedly, represent the animus of this district on the subject. Nor was this Conference "slimly attended." It was above the average attendance at these gatherings. Youth and old age met together. Two of the chief debaters, visitors to whom the freedom of the house was given, were men of advanced years.

We do not wish to "throw stones" or "pass hemlock." Invective and sarcasm don't win souls for the kingdom of our Lord. Possibly there may be some talent in us for such; but may the grace of God in Christ and the sanctifying influence of the blessed Spirit keep it subdued. But to tell the truth is a man's first duty. This is what I have done.

If the present genius, thought and expression of the ADVOCATE does not suit us, I claim the liberty of saying so plainly, and do not see the use of raising a howl from Dan to Beer-sheba about it. If commendatory resolutions would have given her prosperity, surely she has had enough. If this paper is the organ of our church, it can stand a full, free and fair discussion of this subject without getting mad.

S. J. DAVIES.

The Revival in Jackson, Miss.

The recent meeting conducted by Rev. J. B. Culpepper, in Jackson, Miss., deserves mention in the ADVOCATE. The services, held at first in the church, and later in a tent erected on the Capitol grounds, were well attended from the beginning; and though there were many hinderances, including heavy and frequent rains, the meeting grew in power to the last. It is probable that never in her history has a more profound religious impression been made upon this city. The Sam Jones' meeting, of several years ago, was more largely attended, and the accessions to the churches were possibly greater, but these were, many of them, visitors from other sections of the county and State, and the gains to the local churches were not so great. Probably not less than 175 persons have applied for membership in the different churches in this city as the direct result of this meeting. Of this number one hundred have been received into membership in the First Church, and thirty, I think, into the Capitol Street Church. Most of the others joined the Baptist and the Presbyterian Churches. The work done was definite and personal, and the greater part of those who were received were, I think, truly converted. Certainly their subsequent walk and conversation indicate a changed heart.

Bro. Culpepper did most of the preaching during the meeting, though he was relieved from time to time by Rev. J. W. Blosser, of Dalton, Ga., and Rev. Frank Kilgore, of Pensacola, Fla., both of whom did efficient and valuable work.

Bro. Culpepper is a clear, strong, scriptural preacher, and a man of intense earnestness and strong faith. He is bold, faithful, always fluent, sometimes eloquent, and of unusual power in describing a scene or presenting an illustration. In his sermons the fundamental principles of Christianity were presented, and the necessity of a thorough work of grace emphasized.

Since the meeting we have organized four prayer meetings, so that we now have five well-supported prayer meetings, and many family altars have been erected. Every good cause in Jackson has felt the influence of the meeting. The temperance sentiment has received a new impulse, and a W. C. T. U. has been organized with nearly one hundred members. The only petition for license to sell whisky that has come up for action since the meeting has been defeated, and a similar fate, doubtless, awaits two more that are now on file. There are but three open saloons in this city at this time, and we confidently expect to see the last one closed within less than twelve months. That our church here is sound upon the saloon question is indicated by the fact that in a membership of 750, in the two Methodist Churches, only one man signed the last petition for license presented, and he was induced to withdraw his name from the petition.

A. F. WATKINS.

The Kind of Minister for Protracted Meetings.

It is customary nowadays to have a protracted meeting at each church in each charge, and also to have other minister, or ministers, than the preacher in charge, and as respects the minister, or ministers, desired for such meetings, our people are becoming quite partizan. As to whether or not ministers are censurable for this state of things, we shall not stop now to consider; but the necessity is on us for certain kinds of ministers during protracted meetings, or the cause is damaged. This is plain speech, we know; but, nevertheless, it is true. The kind of minister needed:

1. He should be in sympathy with the preacher in charge, and in order to this, it is necessary that he himself should be a preacher in charge, too.

2. He should be a man far from seeking his own glory, for if he is seeking his own glory, he will find fault with the preacher in charge, and pander to the fault-finders of that charge. In this respect we have known much evil done. He will also preach sermons that will most likely secure the end desired—his own glory. We want a man that is willing and exceedingly anxious for God to have all the glory, and if any man is to have any, he wants his brother, the preacher in charge, to have it. Nothing is more humiliating and contemptible than for a minister to go into the charge of another and seek to exalt himself above his brother. We have known such brethren to take full charge of everything, and act as if there was no minister present but themselves, and even become so impudent as to tell the preacher in charge what he ought to do in a dictatorial sort of a way, setting themselves up as gods over the preacher in charge, and as worthy of the worship of the people.

3. He should be far from being a clown in the pulpit and among the people. Nothing to me is more disgusting than for a minister to turn clown in the pulpit in order to entertain the people—to secure the attendance of the masses. Such a style I know is popular, and it is popular because it is unlike God, and suits unsanctified human nature. It is like a circus or theater. It is sad that a minister can so far forget the responsibilities on him and the dignity of his office as to turn clown and become a mouthpiece for slang, fun and vulgarity, and while among the people to laugh loud guffaws and crack jokes that are as wicked and silly as if no gravity belongs to the religion of Christ. We need ministers in our protracted meetings that are so full of the Holy Ghost that their whole aim shall be to encourage the preacher in charge and the faithful brethren, to reclaim the backsliders, to save sinners, to seek God's glory, and to pray and to work to leave everything more like God than he found it.

ISAAC L. PEEBLES.

Plan for Preparing the Sunday-School Lesson.

MR. EDITOR: By request of the DeKalb Sunday-school Convention, I send you for publication the following plan for preparing the Sunday-school lessons. The plan is not original with me, as I copied it some months ago from a periodical.

"HOW TO STUDY THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL LESSON.

"The plan: P. P., P., P., D., D., D., D.

"P. P.—Parallel Passages. Find with your reference Bible or Concordance all of the Scriptures that will throw light on the subject.

"P.—Where was the lesson spoken? At what place did the incident occur? Where situated, size, distance and direction from Jerusalem?

"P., Persons—Who wrote the lesson? To whom was it written? What persons are mentioned, and what do you know about them?

"D., Dates—In what year of the world and of Christ did these things occur? Age of the persons mentioned? If in the lesson, what day and season?

"D., Doings—What is the subject of the lesson? What is mentioned as the principal thing? What did each person do in the lesson? Why? Who had the most to do?

"D., Doctrines—What truths about God, man, character, conduct, the future and the present, are here taught?

"D., Duties—What duties to God, man, self, to church, nation, neighbor, enemy, friend, world, old, young, good and bad, are here taught?

"Let all who wish to try this plan take pencil and paper, and put one under the other the eight letters, thus:

P. P.....
P.....
P.....
D.....
D.....
D.....
D.....

"Then read over your lesson, and as you come to places mentioned, put them down opposite the third P., and in the same way put down opposite the fourth P. all persons mentioned in the lesson. If the date is mentioned in the lesson, put it down; if not, it will remain open until you look your parallel passages, when you will discover it with other information which will surprise and delight the student.

"After using the pencil and paper a few times the mind will become accustomed to this plan of analysis, and with a single reading the mind will locate each place, person, date, doing, doctrine and duty when it meets it."

Yours in Jesus,

W. T. BROWNING.

A Neglected Call.

Dear Brother: I am very desirous to erect a new church-building at Why Not this year, but the people among whom I labor are generally poor people, and I decided to call on each pastor in the Mississippi Conference for a contribution of $1 from each of their churches. One dollar is the amount we desire from each church, but, of course, will accept more if any should feel disposed to contribute. Any amount from $1 up will be thankfully received and duly acknowledged. Remit to me at my address as below.

Your brother,

F. B. ORMOND, P. C.,
Why Not, Miss.

[The signer sent this by mail to 140 pastors of the Mississippi Annual Conference, April 18, and has had only seven replies. He would be glad to have yes or no from all.—EDITOR.]

Mansfield College.

This popular institution will again open its doors on Sept. 13. Prof. G. D. Pickles, a gentleman of superior scholarship, will occupy the chair of mathematics. Every department is in the hands of experienced teachers, and thorough honest work will be done, and the most approved methods of teaching will be adopted. Here is a school where the best care and attention is given to girls, where the health record can not be excelled; situated as it is, in the best latitude for Southern girls, where the purest influences prevail and where proper economy can be maintained. The institution will meet every reasonable demand made upon it.

Certainly the Methodists ought to sustain this Conference college in preference to all others, for it will do more for their daughters than those outside of the State. So much injury is done to girls, in some instances, by sending them away from home to school, that a thorough inquiry ought to be made into the character and operations of the school, and into the kind of teachers employed. It can be demonstrated to the satisfaction of all interested that this is the best and safest place for girls, and that if they can not learn here they can not learn anywhere. It is a suicidal policy to ignore your own institution, to consider for a moment that it is inferior to others. If the Methodists of this State send elsewhere they weaken thereby their own school and leave it to struggle alone. If every Methodist of the State would patronize this college as well as Centenary, as duty and loyalty to their own church demand, they would advance the cause they hold dear, and strengthen and encourage the efforts to advance the cause of Christian education in this State, where it is so greatly needed. If you love your church, you will love her institutions. The 20,000 Methodists of this State, strongly united as they ought to be, can make the institutions of the Conference what they want them to be—the pride and boast of the church, the great center of Christian learning, the great factors of Christian progress. A Methodist college ought not to languish. Let the idea go out this year that the Methodists are to rally to their own schools and stand to their own colors.

In regard to this college send your daughters here, and let every Methodist contribute generously to build the new auditorium and enlarge the equipment. Who will start the great movement with $10,000? This institution has had a grand history. The good it has done can not be calculated. Let everybody put shoulder to the college wheel and roll it up to still greater achievement. Your daughter or your money for Mansfield.

A. D. MCVOY, President.

Abingdon, Va.

We are sojourning for a few weeks in this delightful mountain region. Our little family are with our dear son and family (Francis F. Parker) in Abingdon, where we have enjoyed a happy reunion of almost our entire family connections for several weeks, which makes one of the greenest spots in our mortal and spiritual life this side the grave. Our loved ones were from Baltimore, Eastern Virginia and New Orleans. Our son and family in California were unable to join us. I suppose we shall never be happier this side of our permanent home in heaven.

Abingdon and its surroundings I don't think can be surpassed in this part of the South for healthfulness, grandeur of scenery, church and school privileges; and as for the moral character of the country, it is without exception. The people are temperate. I have not seen a drunken person nor a drop of whisky nor any other alcoholic liquor since I came to this city. I can say this is a church-going people.

We certainly have much to be thankful for in being invited to this pleasant section of the country to spend our time. Our trip from New Orleans was pleasant on the Queen and Crescent railroad. There have been great improvements in railroad enterprises within a few years past.

We expect to be home in a few weeks, and trust with improved health. We pray for your prosperity.

J. D. PARKER.

In Memoriam.

It was my privilege to know Rev. George E. Greene intimately. Our acquaintance was not confined merely to the District and Annual Conferences, but we held meetings together, attended Sunday-school conventions together, and in 1891 we visited each other, and the knowledge of him thus acquired led this writer to love him most dearly. I believe that I can say that he was the most modest and unassuming educated gentlemen that I have ever known. He was, I am told, thoroughly educated, and yet as his Master was in regard to his superhuman power, he wished it kept a profound secret. We dined during one of his meetings in Morehouse parish with a highly cultivated lady of his charge, and during our stay the l introduced the subject of Greek lit ature, and asked Bro. Greene point ly if he understood Greek. His re was characteristic of the man. said: "I have studied Greek." could have replied truthfully that was regarded very proficient in Gre and was professor of Greek and La after graduation at Centenary Colle hut, "I have studied Greek," was he said.

He was a most excellent preach No big words. Nothing florid or s sational, but simple, thoroughly thodox, pointed and carrying c viction to every heart. I heard h one day at eleven o'clock at a protra ed meeting at the Bayou Bartholom Church. Text: "Love not the wor neither the things of the world," the sermon was one of the most sca ing denunciations of worldly amo ment that I have ever heard, and the night service following th were over twenty professions of fa

We had arranged to work toget this year again, but his work has e ed, and the frail little servant is ever at rest. I feel to-day that I a better man by having known Greene. H. ARMSTRONG

Lafayette, La.

Oxford Camp Meeting—Great Revival.

The Oxford Camp Meeting co menced on Saturday night, Aug. 5, closed Wednesday at the three o'cl service. Just four days, but days such power and success. Eighty-f persons professed conversion and for one joined the Methodist Chur Churches of other denominations ceived valuable additions. On Sund at eleven o'clock, fifty penitents w kneeling at the altar. There w twenty conversions on Sunday. Tw ty-one were converted at one serv on Tuesday. I have never seen greater manifestation of the Sp All of the preaching, except four mons, was done by Rev. W. M. Mc tosh, of Athens, Ala. Rev. W. Wilson, of the North Alabama C ference, was with us, and led singing. Rev. R. A. Burroughs, presiding elder, was with us two d preaching with great power.

Bro. McIntosh is a man of mira lous power. He aims at the heart conscience and hits them every t He places the standard high, keeps it there. His preaching is that kind that does not offend wound, but is such that power convicts men of sin. God is him.

I have a special request to mak all who read this article. I want to pray for us at Oxford. I will co mence a meeting here on the first S day in October (D. V.), and will assisted by Bro. McIntosh. I ask prayers of all Christians, and e cially of Mississippians, for a great vival that shall revolutionize the t and university. J. E. THOMA

Monkey Carries Off a Baby.

There lived in a family a once, go humored and good-sized mon Love and charity this monkey decid ly possessed, and it was dotingly f of the baby of the house. So fond the monkey become of the child they were wheeled about together maid servant in a little chair. child would cry if the monkey w taken away, and the mookey wo grin, shake her cage and chatter if permitted to "take the air." One when the nurse had slipped off to ner the monkey got out of its cage, finding the baby awake in its cradle sucking its thumb, the monkey deem that it wished for air and exercise.

So, taking the child out of the c the poor, dear monkey carried child to the leads on the top of house and there sat with it on the e of a gutter representing the head satyr, which on rainy days discha water immediately over the hard sto of the paved court below. The c was soon missed from its bed and t the monkey from its cage, and a g eral search commenced, ending lo before-mentioned disclosure on gutter.

The father of the infant was a te ble as well as an affectionate man— two things really went together— he did his best to prevent the serv from screaming; but, try to hush th as he might, the child, having beco ed by the decidedly fresh air, thou it heard its nurse's voice, and, be hungry, cried for food. The mon knew by "reason" what the baby c for; "instinct" then suggested that, mouth being open, something sho be put in it.

So the monkey carefully scraped the moss, soot and snapdragon gro that was on the roof of the house in wad and most kindly and assidcou stuffed it into the baby's mouth, tas it herself first to see that it was go What the monkey thought of the t of this food no one was near enoug tell, but she gave it to the child. H was a dilemma—to be choked with w and soot, or to be dashed to pieces fall.

Horror held the entire household suspense, when a little boy, the coa man's son, who knew the effect of pies on himself, was seen to cr along the gutter, at the end of wh were the monkey and the child, w the monkey, being a friend of the b tucked the baby under her arm, h downward, and hobbled off to meet h The monkey and the boy had often ohanged civilities, the boy giving half-rotten piece of an apple—best uppermost—for a good nut kept for ture enjoyment in the monkey's pou

And while they were again mak their exchange, and the mookey thumping her cheek to get out the the boy got hold of the child, and trio, in full confidence with each oth threaded the chimneys, slid the t and delivered themselves up to anxious family. The boy was ov whelmed with thanks, and the p monkey, which had erred from no of affection, but from the confusion intellect, reason and instinct, was gi away to a street musician.—Lond Million.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL LESSON.—Aug. 27, 1893.

PREPARED BY REV. A. F. WATKINS.

Paul before Agrippa.

(Acts xxvi, 19-32.)

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Christ the power of God, and the wisdom of God." (I. Cor. i, 24.)

TOPICAL OUTLINE.—I. Paul's Defense (verses 19-23). II. The Result (vs. 24-32).

INTRODUCTORY.

TIME.—Probably A. D. 60, though some authorities fix it at A. D. 62. It was two years after the occurrences of the last lesson.

PLACE.—Cesarea. The public hearing took place probably in the palace of the Roman governor.

PERSONS.—1. Paul, 2. Porcius Festus, the Roman governor of Judea, a just and able ruler; 3. Herod Agrippa II., the King of Calcis; 4. Bernice, the sister of Agrippa, a woman noted for her beauty and immorality; 5. The attendants of Festus and Agrippa, and the principal men of Cesarea.

CONNECTING LINKS.—That two years should have been taken out of the busiest and most valuable time of Paul's life, and spent in confinement at Cesarea, is a mysterious providence; but the experience may have taught him two valuable lessons: 1. That the Word of God was not bound, even though its most active apostle was in enforced inactivity; and, 2. The man of God must sometimes stand and wait—the lesson of patience. Porcius Festus succeeded Felix as procurator of Judea in the year 60. Festus seems to have been a just and faithful governor, very unlike his cruel and licentious predecessor. His coming was the signal for the undying hatred of the Jews against Paul to blaze out again, and upon his first official visit to the holy city they asked, as a favor, that judgment should be rendered against the apostle. When this was refused they asked that the prisoner be brought to Jerusalem for trial, intending to murder him at some point on the road over which he had been guarded two years before. The sense of justice of this Roman governor caused him to refuse this request also, and to order them to appear at Cesarea, and there present their charges against the prisoner. At the trial, held upon the governor's return to Cæsarea, the Jews presented their charges against Paul, who replied by simply denying them; and when the governor suggested that he should go up to Jerusalem and there be tried, he entered a manly refusal, and availing himself of one of the privileges of Roman citizenship, appealed to the Imperial court at Rome. The coming of Agrippa gave Festus an opportunity to formulate more distinctly the charges on which his prisoner was to be sent to the Imperial court, and gave Agrippa himself an opportunity of hearing the famous apostle. After some days Paul was brought before these august personages, and in the midst of a brilliant assembly he delivered the address a part of which forms our lesson.

EXPLANATORY.

I.—PAUL'S DEFENSE.

Vers. 19, 20. It is a great mistake to suppose that Paul's conversion was different in its essential characteristics from the conversion of other men. Different indeed it was in its attendant circumstances, in its incidentals, but not in its essentials. There was no irresistible pressure brought to bear upon him to enforce obedience. He was miraculously and irresistibly convinced of the divinity of him whom he persecuted; but he was free to obey or disobey the heavenly vision. His vision seen in his obedience and in his preaching the faith that he had formerly persecuted. The concentric circles widening from Jerusalem to the Gentiles show the broadness of his commission and the universal need of the gospel. In this world-wide work Paul was another John the Baptist preaching repentance and a changed life.

Vers. 21-23. "For these causes." Paul, thus obeying the heavenly vision, and not for violating the Mosaic law, the Jews caught him in the temple and attempted to kill him. His deliverance from the fury of the mob, his protection from the plots of the Jews, and his preservation up to that time was clearly by the help of God, and this assurance gave him courage to witness to the high and low the fulfillment of the words of Moses and the prophets, that the Messiah should suffer, and he, first—by his resurrection from the dead—should preach liberty to the captives and show light to both Jews and Gentiles. The prisoner is the light of in the preacher. We almost forget that this is a defense; it is a plea for Christ, and not for Paul. Paul is no prisoner; his judges are the prisoners, and he an ambassador proclaiming the opening of the prison doors to them that are captive.

II.—THE RESULT.

Ver. 24. Throughout his speech Paul had addressed himself to Agrippa, but the argument was such as this well-informed Jew could comprehend. To the ignorant Roman this declaration of one having risen from the dead, and by his resurrection showed light unto the all-conquering Roman, as well as the Jew, and this reference to unknown books, were best the indications of an unbalanced mind. We do not suppose the interruption to be shown intentional disrespect to Paul. It was simply the effect of Paul's vehement manner and remarkable words upon his uninformed and rudely heathen listener.

Vers. 25. and 26. This reply of Paul to Festus "is a model of Christian courtesy and self-command." It is as if he had said: "I am not a mad man, most excellent Festus. My words are not even those of an enthusiast; they are words of truth and of soundness of mind. Strange they may sound to you; but the king is acquainted with these things. They were done in Jerusalem, our holy city, and I am sure the king is not unacquainted with them."

Agrippa, as a Jew, was acquainted with Scripture, and, as a ruler in Palestine, was familiar with the facts of gospel history." (Hurlbut.)

Ver. 27. Turning again to Agrippa, he adopted the form of direct address. A confession of faith in the prophetic utterances would have enabled him to demonstrate the Messiahship of Jesus. Agrippa's faith in the prophets would have been sufficient answer to the question of Paul's sanity. This faith Agrippa did not deny.

Ver. 28. The appeal had been made to Agrippa's faith in the prophets, as if that were sufficient to lead to the belief that Jesus was the Christ. Agrippa's sneer has reference to this when he says, "With very little persuasion, thou wouldst fain make me a Christian." How much impression Paul's sermon made upon this weak and sensual man we can not tell.

Ver. 29. To Festus' interruption and to Agrippa's sneer the noble prisoner makes serious, courteous reply: "I would to God that with little or much persuasion or labor I could induce not you only, but all these who are present to become such as I am, except these bonds." As he spoke, he doubtless held up his manacled hand. He wished them all the good that blessed him, and none of the ills from which he suffered. The mind of Christ was in his servant.

Vers. 30-32. Possibly Agrippa remembered the interview that took place between his grandfather and John the Baptist, and he dreaded to prolong the interview with this other fearless preacher of repentance. At any rate he abruptly terminated the public hearing by arising, and (followed by those who were with him) leaving the judgment hall. They all seem to have expressed themselves and all agreed in their verdict of innocence. He might have been set at liberty but for his appeal, which removed the case from the jurisdiction of the governor and left that official as powerless to acquit as to condemn. In view of his afflictions and long imprisonment, did Paul make a mistake in insisting upon going up to Jerusalem to attend the Passover? In view of favorable verdict here expressed by his judges, did Paul make a mistake in appealing to Cæsar?

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

1. To convict of sin is the work of the Holy Spirit; to yield to conviction and obey the heavenly vision is the duty of man. (Verse 19.)

2. Paul was in the line of the apostolical succession when the Jews caught him and attempted to kill him. (Verse 21.)

3. How prone men are to characterize zeal in religion as madness! The same zeal in business is enterprise, and in politics, commendable ambition. (Verse 24.)

4. Who is the madman, the careless sinner, or the zealous Christian? (Verse 25.)

5. By Paul's appeal the wings of Roman eagles were made to bear the gospel to the world's capital.

Hall' Hair Renewer enjoys the confidence and patronage of people all over the civilized world who use it to restore and keep the hair a natural color.

Louisiana Institution for the Education of the Blind, Baton Rouge, La.

COURSE OF STUDY.

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT.

Reading, in point and line. Spelling, oral and written. Point writing. Geography—Louisiana, United States and the Americas. Language Lessons. Mental Arithmetic. Form Studies. United States History. First Steps in the Science of Knowledge.

SENIOR DEPARTMENT.

History, English and Universal. American and English Literature. Arithmetic, Algebra and Geometry. Grammar, Rhetoric and Composition. Natural Science, Physiology. Political Economy and Science of Government. Mental and Moral Science. Type-writing.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT.

Vocal, Piano, Violin, Cornet and Flute. Harmony, Counterpoint, Notation including Staff and Point, Form and Instrumentation. Musical History. Orchestral and Chorus Classes and Calisthenics.

INDUSTRIAL DEPARTMENT.

Mattress-making, Broom-making, Caning, Sewing by hand and machine, and Fancy Work, with Instruction in the Household Work.

Board, tuition, books, etc., free. Send for circular.

W. H. N. MAGRUDER, Principal.

Large as a Dollar

Were the scrofula sores on my poor little boy. They were especially severe on his legs, back of his ears and on his head. His hair was so matted that combing was sometimes impossible. His legs were so bad that sometimes he could not sit down, and when he tried to walk his legs would crack open and the blood start. Physicians did not cure. I decided to give him Hood's Sarsaparilla. In two weeks the sores began to heal up; the scales came off and all over his body new and healthy flesh and skin formed. When he had taken two bottles of Jos. Ruby.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

he was entirely free from sores." HARRY K. RUBY, Box 356, Columbia, Penn.

HOOD'S PILLS cure liver ills, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, sick headache. 25c.

McTyeire -:- Institute,

McKENZIE, TENN.

Prepares students for Vanderbilt and such institutions.

Expenses for five months, $72.50 to $82.50.

Students completing our course enter Vanderbilt without examination.

Next session begins August 31.

For circulars or information address

J. H. HARRISON, Prin., McKenzie, Tenn.

Clinton Female Academy,

(Chartered in 1832)

WILL OPEN MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1893.

Course thorough. Charges lower than offered by any school of its grade in the South.

CHARGES PER MONTH.

Tuition per month	$2 00 to $3 00
Music " "	3 00
Use of Piano per Month	1 00
Painting in Oil " "	3 00
Drawing " "	1 00
Latin, French and Book-keeping, each per month	1 00
Incidental Expenses per Session	50

Board, Tuition, Washing, Fuel and Lights, $12 per Month. $120 per the Session of Ten Months. For particulars address the Principal,

MRS. S. E. MUNDAY, Clinton, La.

GRENADA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

Is Devoted to the Education of Girls and Young Ladies.

FALL TERM OPENS SEPTEMBER 5TH, 1893.

The Institute affords the very best advantages for culture in Vocal and Instrumental Music; in Art, Drawing, Painting, etc.; and in all the branches of collegiate study—English, Latin, French and German. The teachers are experienced and competent. The Boarding Department is home-like and comfortable. The health is fine. The expenses are moderate. For catalogue address Rev. Thos. J. Newell, A. M., Pres., Grenada, Miss.

Tulane -:- University Scholarships.

TULANE UNIVERSITY, New Orleans, for the purpose of encouraging post-graduate studies, offers fifteen scholarships to the graduates of its own and other colleges. The appointments are made for merit, and entitle the holder to free tuition and an honorarium of one hundred and fifty dollars.

For further particulars address the Secretary of Tulane University, New Orleans, Louisiana.

State Normal School,

NATCHITOCHES, LA.

Reopens Oct. 2, 1893. Both sexes admitted. Attendance last session, 293. Faculty of twelve instructors. Unsurpassed in beauty and healthfulness of location, thoroughness of instruction, and perfection of discipline. Diploma entitles holder to first-grade teacher's certificate without examination.

Tuition free. Total expense need not exceed $110 per annum.

For catalogue address

THOS. D. BOYD, A. M., President.

MILLWOOD

Female Institute.

This Institute is located near Jackson, La., and is as remarkable for its delightful environments as its healthy location.

Special teachers in each Department.

Charges lower than any school which offers the same advantages.

Session opens Sept. 4, 1893.

Send for Catalogue.

MISS M. McCALMONT, Principal.

Louisiana State University AND Agricultural and Mechanical College.

J. W. NICHOLSON, A.M., LL.D., President.

The next session (1893-'94) will open on the fifth of October, 1893, with a full and able corps of Professors and Instructors. Five Courses of Study, healthy locality, excellent discipline, splendid equipments. Tuition free. Cost for maintenance, per session of nine months, $131. Number of students last session, 186. For catalogue giving full information

Address ALVAN C. REAN, Secretary, Baton Rouge, La.

Educate for Business.

AT THE

BOWLING GREEN BUSINESS COLLEGE AND LITERARY INSTITUTE.

Railroad Fare Paid.

A School of Business, Shorthand, English, Typewriting, Telegraphy, Penmanship, Teacher's Training. Catalogues free.

CHERRY BROTHERS, Bowling Green, Ky.

Tuskaloosa Female College,

TUSKALOOSA, ALA.

Thirty-fourth Session begins Sept. 26, 1893. Terms reduced to suit the times. For Catalogues apply to

ALONZO HILL, President.

READ THIS.

Board and Lodging by Day, Week or Month.

Regular meals, 25 cents. Lodging, 25 to 50 cents.

I endeavor to make my place home-like and comfortable. Give me a call.

MRS. BRAKEL,

No. 535 Chartres St., near Northeastern Depot.

ANGELL'S

HOMŒOPATHIC PHARMACY,

153 and 155 JULIA ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Richard Angell, M. D., Proprietor.

DEALER IN

Homœopathic Medicines, Book and All Other Articles used in Homœopathic Practice.

Try Angell's Celebrated Whooping Cough Syrup.

North Mississippi Conference Colportage and Sunday-School Agency

KOSCIUSKO, MISS.

Any Good Book Furnished at Publisher's Prices.

A specialty is made of the Books, Periodicals and Sunday-school Supplies of our church, which are furnished at Publishing House prices exactly.

Bibles and Testaments, All Styles and Sizes, Are a Particular Feature of the Work.

Our House requests that all the business of this Conference be transacted through this office.

All orders for books or papers promptly filled, and all pertinent questions concerning good literature and our Sunday-school interests will be readily answered.

G. W. BACHMAN, Colporter and Sunday-school Agent.

WALL PAPER.

The Spring patterns of Wall Paper are handsomer than ever before, and we are able to offer them to you at prices which are within the reach of all. We believe that anyone buying cheap paper will do better to invest 10, 12½ or 15 cents and buy a gilt paper or a fine blank for the small difference than to invest 5 cents in a cheap blank; but if you want the 5-cents paper, we have it and will be glad to sell it.

MATTINGS,

In novel and dainty designs, which can not be had elsewhere, as we control our own private patterns. Prices from $5 per roll of 40 yrds, and up

LACE CURTAINS,

Rugs, Screens, Easels, Oil Cloth, Window Shades and Upholstering Goods.

ESTIMATES

Given for papering in the country under the direction of our foreman and with our own experienced corps of men.

Heath, Schwartz & Co., Lim.,

116 Camp Street, New Orleans.

FAT PEOPLE

To reduce your weight SURELY use Willard's Obesity Pills and lose 15 pounds a month. No injury to the health. No interference with business or pleasure. NO STARVING. They build up and improve the general health, beautify the complexion and leave NO WRINKLES. Lucy Anderson, 84 Auburn St., Cambridge, Mass., writes: Three bottles of your Obesity Pills reduced my weight from 185 pounds to 190 and I never felt better in all my life. I am much pleased with the result, and shall do all I can to help you. Our patrons include Physicians, Bankers, Lawyers, and leaders of Society. Our goods are not sold in drug stores; all orders are supplied direct from our office. Price per package $2.00 or three packages for $5.00 by mail prepaid. Particulars (sealed) 4cts. ALL CORRESPONDENCE CONFIDENTIAL.

WILLARD REMEDY CO., BOSTON, MASS.

DO YOU

Want a teacher for a Summer school? A bookkeeper for a few months while your regular man takes in the World's Fair? A fine young man for any kind of honorable work? If you do, write to DR. W. B. MURRAH, President, or J. W. CHAMBERS, Agent, of Millsaps College, and they will supply the man.

WANTED.

An A. M. graduate, having twenty years' successful experience in managing large institutions of learning, wants to lease desirable school or college property. Parties interested please address

"COLLEGE PRESIDENT," Care of ADVOCATE.

Advertising in England, European Continent, Etc.

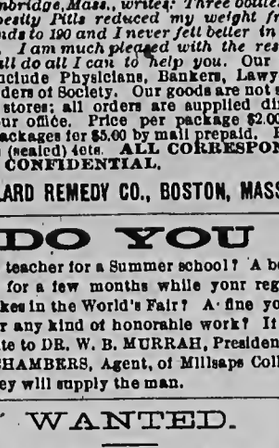
SELL'S

ADVERTISING AGENCY, Limited.

Capital, $250,000. Henry Sell, Manager (editor and founder of "Sell's World's Press").

Full particulars regarding British or European Advertising, sample papers, rates, etc., at the London Office, 167-168 Fleet street, or at New York Office, 21 Park Row, Ground Floor.

Kursheedt's Marble Works



120 and 122 Camp St., New Orleans

$525 Agent's profits per month. will prove it or pay forfeit. New Articles just out. A $1.50 sample and terms free. Try us. Chidester & Son, 27 Bond St., New York City.

When answering advertisements please mention the Advocate

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

GREAT FAST MAIL ROUTE.

Four Daily Trains between NEW ORLEANS and CHICAGO.

The Only Line running Pullman Buffet Sleepers and Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes.

FREE RECLINING CHAIR CARS TO CHICAGO.

St. Louis Without Change.

The Only Line running a Double Daily Train Service to

ST. LOUIS.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS FROM NEW ORLEANS TO Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York

The great Steel Bridge, spanning the Ohio River at Cairo, completed, and all trains (freight and passenger) now running regularly over it, thus avoiding the delays and annoyances incident to transfer by ferry boat.

TICKET OFFICE: Corner St. Charles and Common Streets.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

Speed and Comfort Combined When Traveling

VIA THE

T. AND P.

THE SHORT LINE TO

NEW ORLEANS, MEMPHIS,

AND POINTS IN THE

SOUTHEAST

THE DIRECT LINE TO

North and West Texas, Arizona, Old and New Mexico, Oregon, Colorado and California.

THE FASTEST TIME TO

Hot Springs, Little Rock and St. Louis

PULLMAN'S FINEST BUFFET SLEEPING CARS

On all Through Trains between

NEW ORLEANS AND DENVER,
NEW ORLEANS AND ST. LOUIS,
NEW ORLEANS and SAN FRANCISCO,
NEW ORLEANS, FT. WORTH and DALLAS.

Lowest ticket rates, time tables, and all desired information will be furnished by any of the ticket agents of the Texas & Pacific R'y or W. A. DASHIELL, Trav. Pass. Agent.
GASTON MESLIER, Gen'l Pass. and Tkt Agt.
L. S. THORNE, Third Vice President and General Superintendent, Dallas, Texas.

Yazoo and Mississippi Valley RAILROAD COMPANY.

All trains arrive and depart from new Passenger Station, cor. Howard Ave. and Rampart St.

	Leaves.	Arrives
Kansas City and Memphis Fast Train	5:00 p. m	8:35 a. m
Vicksburg & Natchez Ex.	7:55 a. m	5:35 p. m
Bat. Rouge "Coast Train."	3:40 p. m	10:00 a. m

The Only Line running Solid Trains between New Orleans, Memphis and Vicksburg, with Modern Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars through to Memphis and Kansas City.

The direct and favorite route to Kansas City, Denver, and All Points West.

The short line to Hot Springs and points in Arkansas and North Louisiana.

Commutation Tickets, Mileage Books, Party Rates and Week End Excursions.

Summer Excursion Tickets on Sale in season.

Ticket Office: St. Charles St., cor. Common.

JAMES DINKINS, Div. Pass. Agt.
J. W. COLEMAN, A. G. P. A.
A. H. HANSON G. P. A.

CLARK & MEADER,

16 and 18 CARONDELET ST.

BRANCH STORE:

Cor. ST. CHARLES and NAPOLEON Avenues;

NEW ORLEANS.

Stuffed Olives in Oil; Boneless Anchovies in Oil; Boneless Anchovies in Salt; French Crescent Olives; Mammoth Queen Olives; Cepes au Naturel; Mushroom Powder; Bijou Caus of Allieties; Thon a huille; Pure of Fois Gras; Sauciss Truffe; Pure of Sardines; Truffled Sardines; New Maple Syrup in Quart bottles, 1 Gallon and ½ Gallon Cans; Maple Sugar in 1-pound cakes; Franco-American Game Pates, such as Wild Duck, Grouse, Partridge, Pheasant, Chicken, Chicken Liver, Woodcock; Entrees—Chicken Curry a la Indienne. Chicken Saute a la Marengo; Calves' Tongues with Tomato Sauce; Veal and Green Peas; Calves' Tongue, sauce Piquant; Braised Beef a la Jardeniere; Ross' Bellast Ginger Ale, Sarsaparilla, Club Soda, and Raspberry Vinegar; Potoma's Roe Herring; Clysmic Water; Smoked Beef; Small Whole Boneless Cooked Hams in cans; Wheatena; Petti-John's California Breakfast Food; Schumacher's Rolled Wheat and Avena; Cerealine Flakes; Mott's Pure Sparkling Sweet and Crab Apple Cider; Large Smoked Beef Tongue.

J. C. MORRIS CO., Limited.

40, 42 and 44 Tchoupitoulas Street.

E. F. DYER, Pres. E. P. MACKIE, Treas.

WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

Refrigerators, Freezers, Water Coolers, Fishing Tackle, Seines, Oars, Hammocks, Croquet, Baseballs, Baskets, Brooms, Brushes, Fruit Jars, Bottles, Flasks, Demijohns, Rope, Twine, Axle Grease, Wrapping Paper, Bags, Stationery, Cheese Safes, Cages, Scales, Tanks, Chimneys, Lamps, Tinware, Blacking, Woodenware, Cutlery, Clocks, etc.

W. W. CARRE.

LUMBER MERCHANT

AND MANUFACTURER OF

PLANTATION CABINS, STORES, Etc.

Nos. 342, 344, 346 and 348 Howard Ave.,

NEW BASIN, NEW ORLEANS

GUARANTEED CURE OR NO PAY.

Nothing Fairer Than This.

When we say cure, we do not mean simply to stop it for the time being, but a

PERMANENT AND POSITIVE CURE

For Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Impure Blood, and all diseases arising from a disordered Liver. Write for Treatise, Testimonials, and Free Sample Bottle of

DR. ROC'S LIVER, RHEUMATIC and NEURALGIA CURE to

CULLEN & NEWMAN,

182 GAY ST., Knoxville, Tenn.

POSITIONS GUARANTEED Guarantee in Writing. Send for free catalogue of DRAUGHON'S Consolidated Practical Business College, Nashville, Tenn. Cheap Board. No vacation. MENTION THIS PAPER.

Shorthand in a Vest Pocket.

DR. LAFFERTY, the Stenographer to the Virginia Senate, has given the CONGRESSIONAL SYSTEM OF SHORTHAND in a series of simple, witty, chatty talks; each illustrated. You learn it while you laugh. 45 pages. Price 50 cents. Address him, Richmond, Va.

TO MINISTERS.

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN YOUR CHOIR

to the extent of desiring to have each Sunday, new and bright ANTHEMS, thoroughly devotional in character?

If You Are -: :-

and will take the time to send us the name and address of your Choir leader, or better still, of all your choir singers, we shall take pleasure in sending you and them something that will satisfactorily solve the question of how to obtain new and good music at an exceedingly moderate outlay. If you cannot attend to the matter personally, please ask some one in your congregation who can.

ADDRESS -:-

THE JOHN CHURCH CO.,

S. E. Cor. 4th and Elm Sts., Cincinnati, O.

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY. Location, in the healthful Shenandoah Valley, near Staunton, Virginia. English, Classical and Business courses with Military Training. For catalogue apply to Chas. S. Roller, Prin., Fort Defiance, Va.

Thousands of miles in use. Catalogue FREE. Prices low. McMULLEN WOVEN WIRE FENCE CO., CHICAGO, ILL.

A NEW UNIQUE and VALUABLE Historical Chart of Christianity from the Apostolic Period through the Reformation has been prepared by REV. M. LOUCKS, D.D., of Dayton, Ohio. For particulars address postal to him and receive circulars free.

REV. M. LOUCKS, D. D. Dayton, Ohio.

CHURCH SCHOOL FURNITURE

Before purchasing any PEWS, PULPITS or any other Furniture, write Wm. H. Morrow, No. 8 Noel Bl'k, Nashville, Tenn., for Catalogue.

THE GREAT CHURCH LIGHT REFLECTORS FOR GAS OR OIL, ELECTRIC LIGHT

I. P. FRINK, 551 PEARL ST. N.Y.

WHY PAY DEALER'S PROFIT?

$2.75 buys a $9 White Reed Baby Carriage, freight prepaid, shipped on 10 days' trial. Latest design and style. Perfect, reliable and finely finished. Nothing but the best material used and warranted for 2 YEARS. We have been in the manufacturing business many years, and are reliable and responsible; make and sell nothing but what we can guarantee as represented, quote lowest factory prices. Write today for our large free catalogue, which is one of the most complete ever published.

OXFORD MFG. CO., 340 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WE WANT AT ONCE

RELIABLE MEN everywhere (local or traveling) to advertise and keep our Show Cards tacked up in towns on trees and fences along public roads. Steady work in your own county. $70 A MONTH SALARY AND $3 A DAY EXPENSES ADVANCED every 15 days when started. FRANCO-GERMAN ELECTRIC CO., CINCINNATI, O.

No Tobacco. NO OPIUM. The only practicable way to reach CATARRH thoroughly and pleasantly. A positive cure even if all else has failed. Sample FREE by mail

DR. J. W. BLOSSER & CO., DALTON GA.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c and $1 at Druggists.

CHURCH MONEY, $20 for 1: $50 for 2: $100 for 3: $200 for 5: $500 for 10: $1,200 for $20. Address P. O. Box D, Huntington, N. Y.

THE CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO. SOLE MAKERS OF THE BLYMYER BELLS FOR CHURCH SCHOOL FIRE ALARM &c. Catalogue with 2500 testimonials. Prices and terms FREE.

THE LARGEST ESTABLISHMENT MANUFACTURING CHURCH BELLS CHIMES & PEALS in the World. PUREST BELL METAL (COPPER AND TIN). Send for Price and Catalogue. McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY, BALTIMORE, MD.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO., Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A. Best Bells and Chimes. Price & Catalogue Free.

Christian Advocate.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased Preachers, $1

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

All correspondence with the ADVOCATE, literary or business, and all money due or to become due should be addressed to Rev. J. M. Beard, CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans, La

Capt. G. A. R Lawrence is an accredited agent of the ADVOCATE in the city and country, and he is authorized to take subscribers, contract for advertisements, and receipt for money due on subscription or otherwise.

Rev. J. M. BEARD, D. D., Editor and Publisher.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. J. M. BEARD, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. J. B. A. AHRENS, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. J. W. CHAMBERS.
REV. W. B. LEWIS.
REV. B. J. JONES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER.

Thursday, August 24, 1893.

Extraordinary Offer.

We offer the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE to new subscribers until Jan. 1, 1894, for fifty cents when sent in clubs of ten, and accompanied by the cash.

The sad news of the death of Rev. Arthur D. McVoy, pastor of the church at Texarkana, but a member of the Louisiana Conference until recently, reaches us. It occurred at Mansfield, La., at the residence of his father, whither he had gone a few weeks ago in a last effort to regain strength and health. Bro. McVoy was twenty-eight years of age, and had no superiors in educational training and preaching ability, among the young men of his rank. His wife is the amiable and accomplished daughter of Dr. C. W. Carter, of this city. This is a mysterious providence, indeed, but a gracious ministry of the hand that opens no fountains of grief in human lives when it does not likewise cause the heavens to part. A multitude who can not approach the grave where his sacred remains are bestowed, weep with the afflicted ones.

Bros. Hoffpauir and Denson have written us long reviews of the editor of the ADVOCATE, which cover the same ground of reply as that occupied by Bro. Davies, and in view of which fact and the additional controlling reason that the casus belli has been removed, we presume that we are privileged to withhold. The public by this time will certainly have had a surfeit of this much-overdone repast, and to put an unconditional end to the affair, we sacrifice whole quires of highly seasoned correspondence on the other side. That which only we meant to charge upon these brethren was an offense common enough in our time, of reviewing the labors of the Bishop and cabinet after the session of the Annual Conference, and selecting a field more in harmony with the candidate's view of his wants and circumstances. We could not know the peculiar status of these brethren, and in all probability, though certainly writing more in haste than heat, have misrepresented them. We crave pardon, and will endeavor to be more cautious in the future.

Several brethren wrote to our "experiment station," one day last week, that they were charmed with the editorial matter in the ADVOCATE, and from the same mail we secured a note from a brother who says that he does not understand the editorial on "Serpent and Dove," after carefully reading it. Well, well; the man who eats a turnip of the finest flavor does not understand it. He is not expected to; his duty is to eat and assimilate, and nature makes it a pleasant task for him. Others, he continues, read that article, which, by the way, was two columns long, and were in the fog. No doubt. They could say the same thing of the shortest and brightest chapter in St. John's gospel, without suggesting comparison. Indeed, it is said that the average Mississippian, from which State this letter comes, seizes the ADVOCATE as soon as it alights on his threshold, and, escaping from clamorous children and neighbors to lawn or orchard shade, is heard from no more until the last of its musty mysteries has been conveyed to his mental grip-sack! To be understood is to invite scorn and neglect. Happy are we if we shall find readers with good appetites and, at least, tolerable digestion.

An Epworth League Union.

[At an Union Meeting of the Epworth Leagues of the city, held at Louisiana Avenue Church, the first week in August, a resolution was passed requesting the editor of the ADVOCATE to write an editorial on the subject of the necessity of League Unions, and without time to elaborate, or to do more than furnish a crude expression of his own views on this interesting, if not exciting topic, he offers the following response.]

The Epworth League is with us to stay. It is well. A good providence sent it, but did not send it too soon. It was needed to save the young people of the church, not so much to the church as to Christ. They were drifting not only worldward, but hellward, and the League came to weld them into a strong chain that will not only arrest leeward progress, but will hold until the black tides of sin have gone out to sea moaning their disappointment. It was needed to break down caste, and strangle it as it ascended the back stairs of the Christian community, of which we are a part, to invade the only kingdom of earth where it must be treated as both intruder and usurper. Making Romeos and Juliets of the church's offspring, it will give to the church in the years to come a healthy individuality, and an esprit de corps of all her interests and assemblies that will make her manifoldly more efficient in every sphere which she occupies. It was needed to train the young soldiers of the cross to all those emergencies of the bivouac, the march and the conflict, to which they are rapidly hastening in an era of the church, where great events of reform and clashing rivalries of temporal and spiritual bodies, contending for the mastery, will demand skill as well as courage, and knowledge as well as devotion. The battles of Europe are fought on the drill ground years before the issue of war is joined, and it is to be in the thorough discipline of guilds and leagues that the church of the future shall triumph over opposing enemies. The battles when fought will be sharp and decisive as English regulars triumphing in a wild charge over Zulus and Egyptians, because the forces that whirl to the onset with song and shout will have been bred to the charge in barrack retreats and schooled to victory in gospel armories.

If we were asked what was the leading element in league efficiency, we should reply its quality of union; its phalanxed rank and serried files of gleaming shields interlocked, and impregnable. What strength there is in union we may learn by simple mental exercise in all stages of comparison, from a collection of brittle threads into ocean cables that defy storms, and bind the commerce of the world to its ports, to an union of petty states, that represent division and weakness, into a Germanic league that rules the world. It is union that wins its way against the mightiest odds of the universe, swaying commerce, the councils of State, and, above all, the spiritual destinies of mankind. When God said to the first inhabitants of the Christian age, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," he authorized a league, that he designed should be as strong as his omnipotence, to support finite weakness, and as everlasting as his throne, to supply an infinite rule of obedience. The precept here enjoined is mandatory first; "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," because God requires it; and disciplinary second, because thus the vocabulary of love is to be mastered, and its mystery to be solved. If we must keep the commandment, "it were well if it were done quickly;" and if we can both learn love's language and acquire its confidences, youth is the learning age, as well as the training stage. It is much to be able to reinforce omnipotence with a human league, and to give efficacy to Divine commandments with a device so simple as an union of believing hearts; but when at the same time we subserve great personal ends, and contribute an infinite store to the world's riches, surely we can not hesitate both to act and to employ dispatch, if not celerity, in our movements.

We do not hesitate to say to our young people in this wise age of rings, and monopolies and trusts, that it is the part of wisdom to avail ourselves of all the means which the God of Providence has so graciously placed within our reach, by promptly organizing all our forces that are ready to go forth to war, not only into leagues, but also into legions and armies. Let there be due attention to the churchly by all means; but for the sake of mere conservatism, do not omit the Christly. Organize! organize! in every church, congregation, hamlet and city. There are great elections to carry and great battles to win, and to be successful there must be much of drum-beat and enthusiasm. 'I want a league, offensive and defensive, with every soldier of the cross,' said John Wesley, because while one would chase a thousand, two could be trusted to put ten thousand to flight; and as fast as he organized leagues he correlated them with other leagues and banded together the parts of Methodism scattered through many lands and castes of earth with chains of adamant. Other bodies, both political and ecclesiastical, fell to pieces when the storms of friction ran high, but Wesley's classes and bands held together with more tenacity than the fanatic leagues of Mohammed fighting for temporal sovereignity.

Youth is not only a formative stage of being, but by an unexplained mystery it is also the season of courage and devotion. No soldiers fought like the half-grown lads of Johnston and Lee, and there were no veterans like those who passed from youth to manhood under the seasoning storms and fervors of the most active and bloody campaign.

Let the present generation of dudes stand out of the way, and let a race of warriors come on, and let them advance in serried ranks. When a Christian Endeavor army met in Montreal, a few days ago, the Continent shook 'neath their tread. They are a disciplined union, and are growing towards world conquest. Let the Epworthers organize until they, too, have a bannered host and a prestige of victory as great. Let not the church unity be disturbed by extra legislation, but wherever there is a call for service let the leagues form on each other, and let the beacon fires burn for those more remote. Though no victories may be gained before that time, and no empires subjugated, it will be much to cross the line of the twentieth century keeping step to the gospel drum-beat, and presenting to the craven foe, along with the gage of battle, a menace of advancing and cheering columns, "terrible as an army with banners."

The Joy of the Lord.

Christ's joy was an ocean full. Once he sighed barely, and twice he wept, and with far less of effusiveness than is understood by gospel pessimists. His prevailing mood was one of joyfulness. Beneath the Gethsemane surface current there were bright waters and a placid sea which nothing could disturb. Always we note a ring of playfulness and of joyful sympathy with men and nature in his ordinary speech and deportment, that contrasts strangely with the rage and excitement of the foes who are seeking his life, and with the sadness and unrest of the melancholy group who share his wanderings. Tempered with a dignity that never condescended to jest or indulge mere "fool's laughter," he was ever complacent and soulful as both the embodiment of nature in her loftiest manifestations, and as a reflection of heaven's brightness upon the darkness of our world in eclipse. Having "the Spirit without measure," he had this, its principal fruit, in perfection. The world, perhaps, knew more about his sorrow because by temperament sad itself, and as having a larger prescience of contrasts than states, and of the matter-of-fact world that weeps and laughs than of that pure realm where joy is an impulse, and ecstasy is a mood. It is said that "he rejoiced in spirit" on a certain occasion, indeed, but we must by no means take that to mean that he did not rejoice in spirit at his baptism, or on the Mount of Transfiguration, or when confessed by the disciples, or on Palm Sunday, rapt through the vale of Kedron by cheering multitudes, or when Mary greeted him as the risen Lord, or when greeted by star-cloud and choiring host on the Mount of Ascension. He but exulted then in the first fruits of his redemptional work, and the certain pledge of Satan's overthrow; and that joy was as much an episode in the life that triumphed over sorrow by a temperament of divinity, as the others, of weeping. The apostles who had gone with him through the prolonged "wine press experience," from which, indeed, none of his most favored ones can hope to be exempt, well understood his meaning when he spoke of this higher experience under the expressive phraseology, "My peace." Right well they knew its quality of sweetness and placidity, though possibly they may not have understood the mystery of the accompanying statement, "that the world could not confer it, or take it away." It was just before Gethsemane that he spoke to them of his "joy that might remain in them," and though they witnessed a brief occultation of his sun in that "hour and power of darkness," they saw the old light again upon brow and lip when Judas and the mob flashed their lamps upon the form once more erect, and subduing its captors with a glance. It was as a joyful sacrifice that he went to Calvary, though scourged like a quarry slave to make a Jewish holiday; and afterward the disciples well understood that that agony of the brief hour of crucifixion was but the birth-throe of redemption immediately forgotten for a jubilee greater than any that the angels have known. "The joy that was set before him" was infinite indeed, and only excelled by that which abode in him as a habit of his divine nature, for in the true sense he never hungered, having "bread to eat that the world knew not of," and never thirsted, being himself the perennial fountain to which all the inhabitants of earth may come and quench their thirst.

And that joy of the Lord is, perhaps, the most communicable of all his gifts. To the disciples he said when about to bestow great blessings and put them into possession of the earnest of the inheritance, "My peace I give unto you." This time is epochal, he said; "Hitherto ye have asked nothing; ask and receive that your joy may be full." Indeed, Christ hath but gone away for a little season to send another Comforter to his disciple who shall remain with him always. That most divine experience hath he lived before thee, and these most heavenly words hath he spoken to thee, oh! Christian, that "his joy might remain in you and that your joy might be full." Rejoice evermore, for all that the rejoiceful heavens contain is thine; thy loving Lord having possessed it for thee, as the receiver of gifts for men. Rejoice always; for the Lord of life enjoins thee, and the Spirit of life empowers thee. Rejoice everywhere; for the gospel is glad tidings of great joy and all its sunshine is for thy darkness. Thou, poor worm of the dust, hast Christ's example; and his gift, and dost share his triumph of ascent as the King of Glory to those blest seats where no note of sorrow has ever come, and where there is fulness of joy. Blest, indeed, art thou, child of death and companion of tribulation; for the glory of God hath risen upon thee, and that of which the prophets wrote and spoke hath happened unto thee, for by realizing faith in the risen Lord and by constraining love of the indwelling Lord, thou mayst "rejoice with joy unspeakable and full of glory."

From Our Standpoint.

Speaking of the "second-blessing" theory of sanctification, the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE says:

> It electrifies rather than transmogrifies. It is the great minister of that Being the first law of whose being is motion. It brings to man tidings of that swift moving universe where the motion of the flying spheres of our lower firmament would be mere snail-creeping, and the pace of a sun-ray through our heavy atmospheres would represent dynamics on the lowest scale.

Just so; but if there is any echo of Jesus Christ or of St. Paul in all of this, we confess our utter inability to detect it. We shall not be swift to accept a theory that can not be stated in "words which the Holy Ghost teacheth."—Nashville Christian Advocate.

When we speak of one view of a subject, of course we do not mix things by urging in the same breath another view of it. But Dr. Hoss will surely hear us out in the statement that what is true to nature is true to Scripture. And as to the proof from the latter, which he demands, what does he think of the Holy Ghost's demonstration of the undemonstrable in the second chapter of Acts; or of the evangelist's words prophetic of that occasion, "He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and fire, not many days hence;" or of St. Paul's description of a man caught away to the third heaven; or of the Samaritan Pentecost, or the Ephesian; or the words of our Lord to the disciples, into whom he had already breathed the Holy Ghost, "Ye shall receive power not many days hence;" or his prayer for the disciples culminating in the sublime sentiment as he turned himself towards the beckoning cross, "Sanctify them, even as I sanctify myself;" and much more, equally expressive both from the Old and New Testaments, and from Jesus Christ, and St. Paul. But, perhaps, we ought not to be specific when the author of Revelation has not been; or to quote mere passages or paragraphs for that for which a whole system of truth stands; as represented in doctrine and symbol, as well as incident and episode.

A Correction.

MR. EDITOR: I have a letter from Rev. J. I. Hoffpauir, asking me to explain his appointment to Lecompte after the session of the Annual Conference, feeling that injustice was done him by you in the ADVOCATE, of Aug. 10. You say he "had themselves (himself) appointed to Lecompte station." I am sure you would not knowingly injure a brother, and will be glad to correct a misapprehension. He did not request the appointment, and expressed perfect willingness to go to Arcadia. All the part he took in the matter was to present me, without recommendation, the petition from the church requesting to be made a station and asking his appointment. I am sure he neither evidenced nor entertained any spirit of self-seeking. Indeed, his cheerful readiness to accept any work assigned him commanded my highest respect.

Truly and fraternally,

CHAS. B. GALLOWAY.

NOTES.

Fruit is the test of discipleship.

***

A little religion is a great woe, as well as a dangerous thing.

***

Good fruit is not insisted upon, but much fruit is indispensible.

***

The ADVOCATE to everybody from this date to Jan. 1 for 50 cents.

***

The ADVOCATE to single subscribers from this date to Jan. 1, 1894, for 50 cents.

***

The Christian enters heaven by prayer, but only at the close of a praying pilgrimage.

***

The only time that the Lord of life ever seemed to betray impatience was when he espied a barren fruit tree.

***

The original sinner to the preaching of sanctification: "What have I to do with thee, thou holy one of Israel."

***

My brother, remember the feste of old, and he not overhasty to eat the trembling, or even tumbling, Ark of God.

***

The five virgins were not wicked but foolish; they only "neglected to take oil in their vessels with their lamps."

***

The preacher who circulates the ADVOCATE "lengthens his stakes and strengthens his cords," as little as he may think it.

***

Sanctification does not concern itself about the branches of the tree of sin, but addresses itself all the time to the root of the matter.

***

The itinerancy is a providential feature of the modern church. Moreover, it is one of the lost doctrines of Christianity restored.

***

Let every preacher push the circulation of the ADVOCATE during the [illegible] months of the continuance of the extraordinary offer which occurs in another column.

***

There are a great many people who in their own conceit are so much wiser than Providence, that they would slay it if they could, and possess themselves of all its treasures.

***

The Lord of the harvest expects not only a bountiful, but also a forward crop. When he searched with disappointed glance the boughs of the barren tree by the wayside, "the time of figs was not yet."

***

A third or fourth reading of an abstruse treatise upon a subject profound or much controverted, will sometimes let us into its "true inwardness," and in such case we shall be amply repaid for the time and exertion.

***

The Rescue Mission holds the rail and glides along the shifting gradient with as much speed and grace as the Baronne street electric car. We hear of showers of blessing and many conversions there last week. Here is an opportunity for many Christian people to do and get good in the primitive gospel fashion.

***

Let us beware lest we have covered up a few shining essentials under the heaps of dull-tinted non-essentials. The one thing needful in the Saviour's time was tacked on as a sort of supernumerary, or kite tail, to a body of ceremonial rubbish, truly contemptible, as anything occupying that sphere could be so designated; and tithe of mint and anise and cummin, was scrupulously looked after, while the weightier matters of the law received no attention whatever.

***

What makes it certain that Jesus the Christ of God is the fact that he came to deal with all the hard problems; as sin, poverty, grief, pain, despair, death. There is nothing so practical as to its uses as his doctrine, and nothing so universal in its adaptiveness as his exemplification of the doctrine. A myth or a false Messiah, either, could never have been burdened with the mighty realism of that life and that death. How should it have found strength for such burdens, even if we admit that it could have been born to a temper so divine.

***

Bro. Boswell, of the Memphis Christian Advocate, objects to a little [illegible] with which we pointed not a moral, but a meaning the other day. Very well, we ask pardon and will perhaps learn better as we advance farther into the great tripodial unknown. Yet we fear that much of the most convention[al] phrasing of the choicest writers and speakers of our time will be rejected as slang by the coming generation. At it is certain that the so-called pulpit oratory of our times, with a metaphor astride every sentence, and a period like a nail head driven in at short intervals to hold it down to the comprehension of the commoner sorts of hearers, would be offensive to angelic ears.

PERSONAL AND OTHERWISE.

Mr. Otis Collins, of Lecompte, La., paid us a pleasant call on last Thursday.

The ADVOCATE to single subscribers from this date to Jan. 1, 1894, for 50 cents.

Cassell's Family Magazine is one of the best and cheapest that comes to this office. Price, 15 cents.

Rev. J. T. Sawyer is attending Cypress and Rapides Camp Meetings, and Rev. J. R. Roy and Capt. G. A. Lawrence, the Whittington in East Feliciana.

The Lord condillions all his blessings upon two very commonplace and sometimes despised exercises of the religious life, viz: praying and paying.

In a private note from Rev. John A. Miller, presiding elder of the Opelousas district, he says: "My district is progressing finely. Spiritually, there is an upward move all along the line."

Rev. Maroy Lyons, one of the editors of the Prohibitionist, of Morgan City, and pastor there and at Pattersonville, looked in on the ADVOCATE last week. Bro. Lyons informs us that all the interests he represents are prosperous.

We do not so much want either Christ or Christianity as the cross. The apostle did not boast of Christ, that honorable person, as does the modern formalist, but of the cross, that shameful thing, that is a fair cancel mark for all earthly glorying.

Rev. Hubert Knickerbocker, who has been stationed at Santa Barbara, on the Pacific Coast, for the past year, has been in the city, and is now at the Seashore Camp Ground. Bro. Knickerbocker will be remembered for a talented letter or letters that he wrote to the ADVOCATE soon after his arrival in California. He will transfer to Texas at the close of the Conference year.

In a note to the editor Dr. Cottrell says:

So the guardians of the integrity of our Zion, for doctrine are chalking off the ADVOCATE. It will be occasion, I doubt not, for a rebuke to those so pert and presumptuous, by a quiet forwarding to you of lists of new subscribers. I feel a sense of humiliation after reading the Alexandria resolutions. The brethren have done themselves an injury they'll feel for years; and they will regret, greatly, when they properly consider what they have done.

Dr. W. H. N. Magruder, one of the old guard of Methodism in the Southwest, and distinguished in its educational annals, now superintendent of the State Institute for the Blind, gave the ADVOCATE an appreciated call last week. Dr. Magruder does not condnot an asylum for the blind, but a school where they are educated free of charge, absolutely. If you have blind relatives or children to be educated, send to him at Baton Rouge, La., for a circular. See Course of Study in another column.

The seventh International Sunday-school Convention of the United States, the Dominion of Canada, and Newfoundland, will be held in Exposition Music Hall, St. Louis, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Aug. 31, Sept. 1 and 2. Second World's Sunday-school Convention, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of the following week at the same place. Mr. E. P. Mackie, of New Orleans, long prominent in Sunday-school circles, is a delegate to both, and will ably represent our State and Church.

An education is a good thing, and may occur to some to be indispensable to the highest usefulness, and yet ordinarily the most educated men are not the most useful men. This arises partly from the fact that a superior education will induce the average man to trust to it more, and to the customary means of doing good less; and also to the fact that he is made to inhabit a fictitious world, where ordinary flesh and blood can not come, by the possession of lofty ideals that have reached him through wholly artificial channels. Hence the paradoxical descriptive phrase, "a wise fool."

The seventh International and second World's Sunday-school Convention, St. Louis, will be held, Aug. 31, continuing until Sept. 6. The following railroad rates are published: One and one-third fare for the round trip to St. Louis has been made by the Trunk Line Association, embracing most of the railroads in the Eastern States leading West; Central Traffic Association, embracing nearly all the railroads of the Middle States; Southern Traffic Association, embracing nearly all the railroads in the South and Southwest. No concession has been made, as yet, by the Western Traffic Association, which embraces most of the roads west of the Mississippi river. It is confidently believed by those competent to know, that before the date of the Convention all roads in the Western Traffic Association will have made one fare for the round trip. Delegates can secure definite information now by applying to railroad officials in their respective cities.

Have BEECHAM'S PILLS ready in the household.

A Pen Picture.

AN EXACT DESCRIPTION OF A TYPICAL CASE OF CHRONIC MALARIA.

A yellow skin, a sallow complexion, dark circles about the eyes, a furred tongue with bad breath, a bitter taste and bad digestion, are sure signs of malaria. Not exactly sick, but wretched; not quite delirious, but got the blues badly; not confined to the bed, but not fit for business; losing flesh, losing business, losing all interest in everything; dizzy after stooping, short of breath on slight exertion, weak and trembly, easily fatigued, restless, nervous, sleepless. Nothing but malaria can so completely undo a person without putting him to bed, nothing else can so irresistibly demoralize mind and body.

There is only one cure. Everybody who has had experience with malaria knows what the cure is. Pe-ru-na exactly hits the case. It not only cleanses the blood of all malarial poison, but it promptly mitigates the bad symptoms and leaves the brain clear and nerves steady. It cures without delay, without exception, and without any ill effect whatever.

A complete treatise on malarial and other summer diseases, entitled "Aurora," sent free to any address by The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio.

200 Agents Wanted.

One in every community in State of Mississippi to sell Bishop Fitzgerald's Epworth Book. Prospectus, 50 cents. Holman Self-Pronouncing Sunday-school Teacher's Bible. Prospectus, $1. Imitation of Christ, beautifully illustrated by Thomas a Kempis. Prospectus, 75 cents. Full supply of International Bibles in stock. Send for catalogue. Order your Sunday-school supplies for the year, and remit quarterly, if you can not send cash with order. Apply at once.

LAIRD & DOMINICK,
Jackson, Miss.

Do You Know?

That when your bowels are disordered, and irregularities caused by change of diet or location exist,

Brodie's Astringent Cordial

Will correct all the troubles, and never fails, but

CURES

DIARRHŒA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, CRAMPS, BLOODY FLUX, and Such Symptoms.

TESTIMONIAL.

July 28, 1889.

Dear Sirs:—I have used Brodie's Astringent Cordial in my family, and am using the third bottle. It always acts like a charm upon my children, correcting ailments of the bowels better than any medicine I ever tried. * * *
Yours, most respectfully,
MRS. A. W. MOORE.

Price: 50 cts. and $1 a Bottle.

I. L. LYONS & CO., New Orleans, La.

Sold by All Druggists.

East Mississippi Female College.

The 24th Session begins September 6, 1893.

Situated in the City of Meridian, is easy of access from all points.

The health record is unsurpassed.

The buildings are commodious and comfortable.

The faculty has been chosen with reference to EXPERIENCE, THOROUGHNESS and EXCELLENCY of CHARACTER.

Our terms are to suit the times.

For catalogue or further information apply to REV. T. S. HOLLOMAN, A. M., Pres., 1101 23rd Avenue, Meridian, Miss.

UNIVERSITY PREPARATORY SCHOOL,

73 COLISEUM STREET.

T. W. DYER, - - - Principal.

The Eleventh Session begins Oct. 2 with a full corps of teachers. The location is perfect. The surroundings are attractive. The grounds are large (quarter of a square), with separate yard and accommodations for smaller boys. A few boarding pupils can be accommodated. References: The clergy of New Orleans and the faculty of Tulane University.

PATENTS THOMAS P. SIMPSON, Washington, D. C. No atty's fee until Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide

Cincinnati Conservatory of Music,

MISS CLARA BAUR, Directress.

Thorough musical education after the methods of foremost European conservatories. The Conservatory will as usual be open during the entire Summer, and students can, as during the school year, enter at any time.

Branches taught: Vocal culture, the Pianoforte, Organ, Harp, Violin, and all other Orchestral Instruments; also Guitar, Mandolin and Banjo; Elocution, Delsarte, Modern Languages, English Literature and Art.

Young ladies from a distance can board in the Conservatory building, where they pursue their studies under the supervision of the Directress. For Catalogue address in full.

MISS CLARA BAUR,
Conservatory of Music, 4th and Lawrence, Cincinnati, O.

WASHINGTON & LEE UNIVERSITY, Lexington, Virginia.

Academic; Law; Engineering. Opens Sept. 14. For catalogue address
G. W. C. LEE, President.

—A—

Washington and Lee College SCHOLARSHIP

FOR SALE CHEAP.

Apply at
Werlein's Music Store,
136 Canal Street.

LOOK!

WILKINSON'S

Matchless Sulphuric Acid and Iron Tonic

WELL WATER.

The Most Wonderful Tonic in America.

BOARD OF HEALTH, STATE OF LOUISIANA,
New Orleans, Aug. 9, 1893.

Mr. W. W. WILKINSON—

Dear Sir: Below please find the results of analysis of the sample of water marked "Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water" submitted to me for examination, accompanied by the following affidavit:

The State of Alabama—Butler County.

Before me, F. M. Black, a Notary Public in and for said County and State personally appeared J. F. Bergamer, Sheriff of Butler County, who being duly sworn on oath, saith that he went to the well of Mr. W. W. Wilkinson on this day and seen the Matchless Mineral Water drawn from the well and put in a five gallon demijohn and labeled to A. L. Metz, M. D., Chemist of Board of Health, No 63 Carondelet Street, New Orleans, La.

(Signed) J. F. BERGAMER,
Sheriff Butler County.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, July 20th, 1893.

(Signed) F. M. BLACK, Notary Public.

Color	Yellowish red and clear
Odor	(when heated to 140° F.) Terebinthinous
Taste	Very Astringent
Phosphates	Heavy Traces
Chlorine as Chlorides	3.102 grains
Per U. S. gallon of 231 cub. inches
Equivalent to Sodium Chloride	5.083 grains
Sulphuric Acid	785.108
Iron (Ferric) Oxide	334.480
Iron (Ferrous) Oxide	101.940
Aluminum Oxide	7.681
Calcium Oxide (Lime)	3.476
Magnesia	26.872
Potash	2.822
Soda	6.045
Silica	6.049

These constituents are probably combined as follows:

Grains per U. S. gallon of 231 cub. inches
Iron (Ferric) Sulphate	836.00
Iron (Ferrous) Sulphate	213.775
Aluminum and Potassic Sulphate (Alum)	29.900
Calcium (Lime) Sulphate	74.013
Magnesium Sulphate	80.616
Sodium Sulphate	7.725
Sodium Phosphate	Heavy Traces
Sodium Chloride	5.083
Silica	6.049

The residue, after evaporation, crystallized, and the total weight, including water of crystallization, at 212° F., was 1.564 grains per gallon.

A. L. METZ, M. D.,
Chemist of the Board of Health of the State of Louisiana and of the City of New Orleans.

Cures Dyspepsia in its worst form, Chronic Diarrhœa, Diabetes, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Sores, Bilious Colic, Tetter, Ring Worm, Chronic Sores, Ulceration of the Womb, Throat, Catarrh, Debility. Best Natural Tonic in the World.

As a Tonic and Alterative.—A teaspoonful to a tablespoonful in one-half glass of water three times a day, directly after eating; but if stomach is soured, take before eating.

As a Cathartic.—Three to five tablespoonsful in same amount of water.

For External Application.—Use as a wash without diluting (warm if possible).

For Injection.—If water is too strong, slightly dilute and use twice a day.

For Cholera Morbus and Cramp Colic.—Two tablespoonsful every hour or two until relieved (in a little water).

Will keep full strength for any length of time in any climate. Never dilute except as used.

1. W. D. Rogers says: "Your Mineral Water has cured me of dyspepsia, and my wife of womb disease, when all else failed."

2. John H. McCullough says: "This water cured me of dyspepsia after suffering four years and trying medicine, doctors, etc."

3. W. D. Newman says: "I was afflicted for twelve years with tetter. Matchless Mineral Water cured me when all doctors and treatment failed."

4. Rev. Chas R. Lamar was cured of dyspepsia of more than two years' standing by use of two gallons of Matchless Mineral Water.

5. J. H. Gilbert says: "Matchless Mineral Water is, beyond doubt, the best remedy known to me for sore eyes."

6. Jesse B. Basser says: "I have suffered long from chronic ulcerated sore leg. Offered $100 to doctors to cure. This water cured me."

7. Rev. J. M. Whitehead: "It cures every species of indigestion; can eat anything I want, and a good appetizer."

8. James J. Ingle says: "I have suffered five years with kidneys and liver. Have used one bottle. Most wonderful medicine I ever used."

9. J. G. Lightfoot says: "My son down five years. General debility and impure blood. Doctors failed. Two bottles Mineral Water cured him."

10. John Brannan says: "I was down three years with bilious colic. Spent $150 for medical treatment; grew worse; one and a half gallons. This water cured me."

11. Martin Eady says: "My eye was about out from gun cap in it. The two bottles of Mineral Water made a complete cure of my eyes."

12 George Green says: "I have been suffering fifteen or twenty years with chronic diarrhœa. The Matchless Mineral Water cured me."

13. W. J. Gardner says: "For seven or eight years I was victim of nervous dyspepsia and all its horrors. One quart Mineral Water cured me. Spent thousands of dollars for medical treatment. Would not go back for $10,000."

14. J. B. Brown says: "My only child, three years old, sick two years. Spent much for medical treatment. Child given up to die. Mineral Water cured him. I would not take $1.000 for benefit of that bottle of Mineral Water."

15. Mr. J. A. Davis, Bonham, Texas, says: 'My horse was as sick with colic as any horse I ever saw. One pint of water cured him in five minutes."

Price: Per bottle, 25c, 50c, and $1.

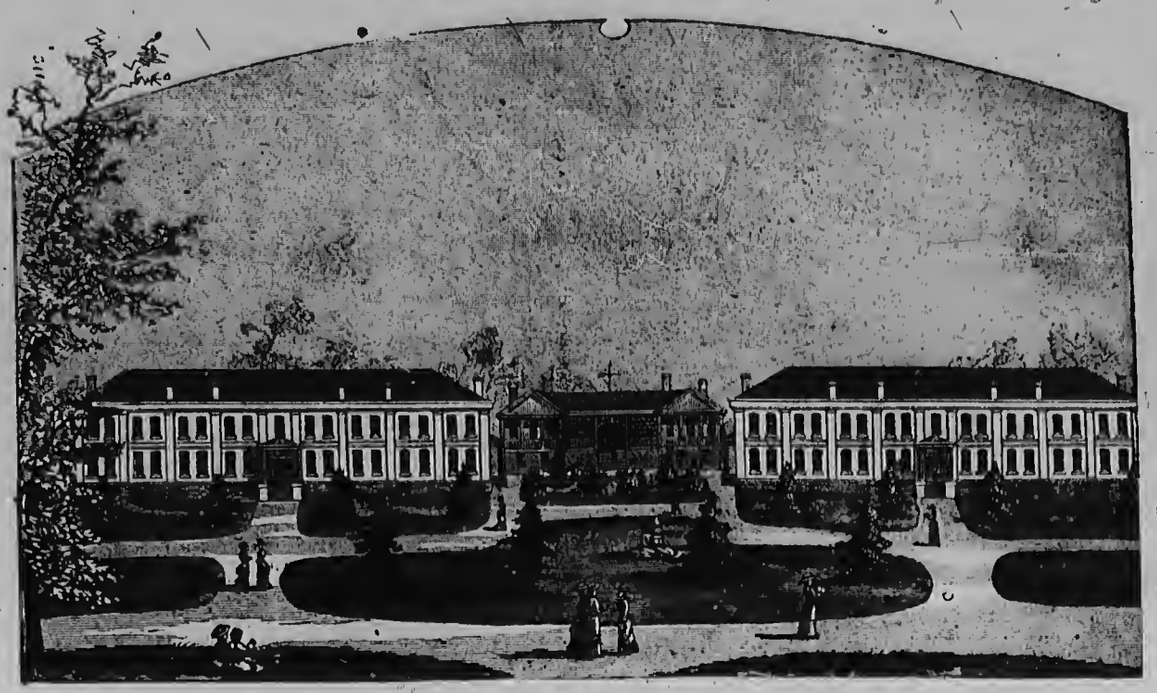
Address

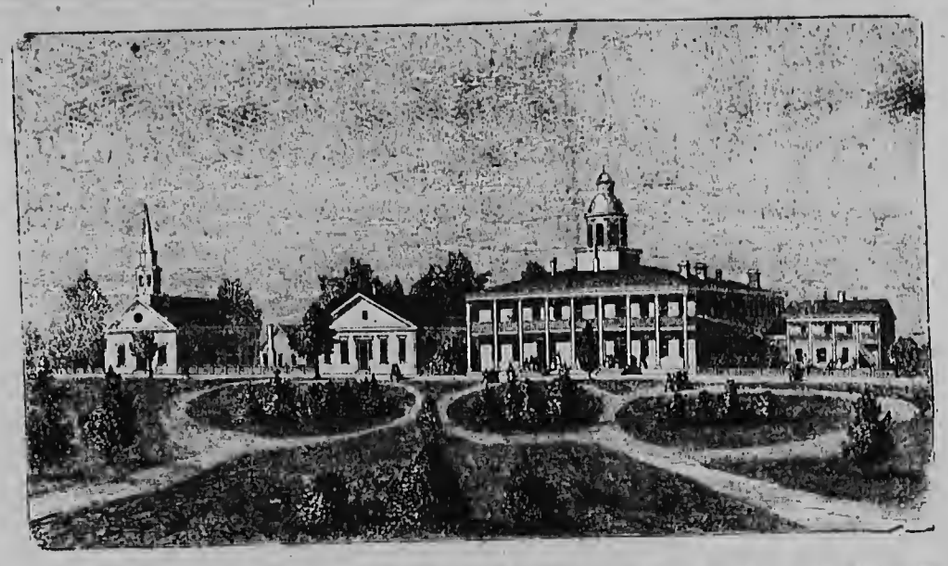
C. M. FUSH,
106 Camp Street,
NEW ORLEANS, - - - LA.

Send stamp for circular.

Whitworth Female College and Conservatory of Music and Art,

BROOKHAVEN, MISS.





Next to the highest point on the I. C. R. R. from Cairo to New Orleans. This in part accounts for our wonderful health record. No Female College in the South has a higher standard. The best Conservatory of Music to be found this side of Cincinnati or Boston. No College of SIMILAR GRADE furnishes such splendid facilities on such reasonable terms. For further particulars and for catalogues, address

L. T. FITZHUGH, A. M., President.

Mansfield Female College and Conservatory of Music and Art.

The forty-first session opens Sept. 13, 1893, with a full faculty of experienced teachers in all departments. Prof. G. D. Pickles takes the chair of Mathematics and Pedagogy. This institution is celebrated for thorough and honest work, for a locality remarkable for health, for every comfort provided, for the care and attention given to students, and for the great economy secured to parents. The great aim is to afford as good facilities for education as can be found outside the State. A new era is opening for the college that will make the next session peculiarly advantageous to those who attend. It is demonstrated that this is the best place for Southern girls.

A. D. McVOY, A. M., PRESIDENT.

CENTENARY COLLEGE, JACKSON, LA.

Jackson, La., is near Ethel, on the Valley R. R., 113 miles north of New Orleans. The location is beautiful, and healthful, the buildings are elegant and ample, and the faculty is complete and able. The sale of intoxicating drinks is forbidden by law within five miles of the College. Its endowment fund is being rapidly increased, and the college has entered upon a new career of prosperity.

Special attention will be given to the health, morals and biblical instruction of the students.

For terms, Catalogue, or other information apply to Prof. G. H. Wiley, Jackson, La., or to

W. L. C. HUNNICUTT, PRESIDENT.

VIRGINIA MILITARY INSTITUTE, LEXINGTON, VA.

55th Year. State Military, Scientific and Technical School. Thorough Courses in general and applied Chemistry, and in Engineering. Courses degree of graduate in Academic Course, also degrees of Bachelor of Science and Civil Engineer in Technical Courses. All expenses, including clothing and instruction, provided at rate of $36.50 per month, as an average for the four years, exclusive of outfit.

New Cadets report Sept. 1st.

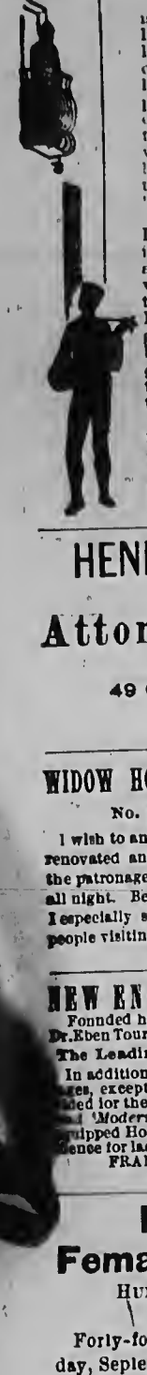
GEN. SCOTT SHIPP, Superintendent.

SCIENCE HILL, SHELBYVILLE, KY.

AN ENGLISH AND CLASSICAL SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

Our Certificates admit to Wellesley without examination.

W. T. POYNTER.



A PLEASANT SURPRISE is in store for you when you buy Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. If you ever took the ordinary liver pill, big and bulky, nasty too, you'd appreciate a good thing, especially when it is sugar coated, tiny as a mustard seed but very effective. Other things being equal, the smallest is the best in liver pills—hence, "Pleasant Pellets."

If you are troubled with Indigestion, Constipation, Biliousness, Bilious Headaches, and a hundred and one ills which depend upon an inactive liver,—use Dr. Pierce's Pellets. With these pills you get not only temporary relief but a positive cure; they're guaranteed to give satisfaction or your money is returned.

For fat people who suffer from indigestion, for hearty eaters and high livers—those whose livers are sluggish, this pill is what is most needed. Take a Pill after dinner.

HENRY P. DART,

Attorney-at-Law,

49 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

WIDOW HOOD'S LODGING HOUSE,

No. 19 ST. CHARLES ST.

I wish to announce to the public that I have renovated and refitted my house, and solicit the patronage of the traveling public. Open all night. Beds can be had for 25 and 50 cents. I especially solicit the patronage of Christian people visiting the city.

WIDOW A. A. HOOD.

NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

Founded by Dr. Eben Tourjee. CARL FAELTEN, Director.

The Leading Conservatory of America.

In addition to its unequalled musical advantages, exceptional opportunities are also provided for the study of Elocution, the Fine Arts, and Modern Languages. The admirably equipped Home affords a safe and inviting residence for lady students. Calendar Free.

FRANK W. HALE, General Manager, Franklin Square, Boston, Mass.

Huntsville Female -:- College.

HUNTSVILLE, ALABAMA.

Forty-fourth Session begins Wednesday, September 6, 1893. Healthy, well-furnished; twenty Officers and Teachers. All departments of Female Education thoroughly taught; Music, Art, Languages, Sciences, Literature and Commercial Course. A Christian home for pupils. Charges reasonable. For Catalogues, etc., apply to

Rev. A. B. JONES, President.

Mississippi Industrial Institute and College.

BUREAU OF EDUCATION.

Persons desiring to employ competent teachers, or young women qualified to do good work as dress makers, telegraphers, type writers and book keepers, are invited to correspond with this Bureau. No charge for services.

Apply to MISS S. C. McLAURIN, I. I. and C., Columbus, Miss.

WESLEYAN FEMALE COLLEGE, MACON, GA.

Annual Session begins September 20th, 1893. Best advantages in Literature, Music and Art. For safety, health and domestic comfort, there is no better home for girls. Apply for Catalogue to

REV. W. C. BASS, PRES.

CARPETS!

Don't have your carpets half cleaned; all know how impossible it is to clean carpets by hand

All dust thoroughly taken out by steam.

Feathers purged of all impurities.

44 St. Peter Street.

$21 PAID WEEKLY

To active, faithful men and women, boys and girls, working for us taking orders for THE ILLUSTRATED WORLD'S FAIR, edited by John McGovern, the Prince of the Literary West. 25c. a month, or $2 50 a year. Entire Series, from July, 1891, to January, 1894, 30 monthly issues, only $6.00. Sells at sight. Most beautiful, interesting and popular, and the only publication receiving official recognition. THE ORGAN OF THE FAIR. Chicago Inter Ocean says: "It is a handsomely prepared and valuable publication, to which many celebrities are contributors." Send 15c. (stamps) for full particulars and sample copy containing fifty large rich engravings of the PRINCIPAL ATTRACTIONS of the World's Fair. Address.

THE NATIONAL BOOK CONCERN, 324 VAN BUREN ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

AGENTS WANTED ON SALARY or commission, to handle the new Patent Chemical Ink Erasing Pencil. The quickest and greatest selling novelty ever produced. Erases ink thoroughly in two seconds. No abrasion of paper. Works like magic. 200 to 500 per cent. profit. One Agent's sales amounted to $620 in six days. Another $32 in two hours. Previous experience not necessary. For terms and full particulars, address, The Monroe Eraser Mf'g Co., La Crosse, Wis. X 375.

HOPKINS' PRINTING OFFICE,

20 Commercial Place,

John P. Hopkins. New Orleans

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

HOME CIRCLE.

AFTER.

After the shower, the tranquil sun;
After the snow, the emerald leaves;
Silver stars when the day is done;
After the harvest, golden sheaves.

After the clouds, the violet sky;
After the tempest, the lull of waves;
Quiet woods when the winds go by;
After the battle, peaceful graves.

After the knell, the wedding bells;
After the bud, the radiant rose;
Joyful greetings from sad farewells;
After our weeping, sweet repose.

After the burden, the blissful meed;
After the flight, the downy nest;
After the furrow, the waking seed;
After the shadowy river—rest!

—Selected.

What Makes a Methodist?

The Methodist finds something higher, deeper, and more convincing than any inference drawn from the existence of fruits, however mature they may be. It is "the witness of the Spirit;" a definite testimony to the fact that God for Christ's sake has forgiven his sins, a testimony so strong as to supersede the necessity of reasoning, and make the man as confident as if he dwelt in the visible presence of God.

The Methodist believes that what he calls justification is an incomplete work relatively to the perfection of the heart; that the mind of the new convert is chiefly occupied with securing a sense of pardon and of peace with God. That further illumination is vouchsafed to all who grow in grace, and that by a further exercise of faith in the new revelations of truth he may be made perfect in love; but he does not hold that in this life he becomes free from infirmity, is no longer tempted, or is without fault. This perfection in love he calls "entire sanctification," "Christian perfection," the "higher life," and by various names signifying the same thing.

He believes that this life is a probation, and the only probation given to man; that the rewards and punishments to be pronounced at the Day of Judgment are irreversible. He also believes that men may sin away their day of grace before death, and is deeply impressed with the solemn injunctions, "Quench not the Spirit," "Seek ye the Lord while he may be found," "To-day if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts." He believes that it is possible for a true convert to fall away; hence he stirs up his soul to "give all diligence to make his calling and election sure." The doctrine of election which he holds is not irrespective of conditions in the human being. He believes that there are no reprobates but those who, in the exercise of unstinted freedom, reject the spirit and law of God; and that the predestination taught in the Bible is not a predestination to belief, but a predestination that those who believe shall be conformed to the image of God's Son. Therefore he is an Arminian, and not a Calvinist in the respects in which the two systems differ.—Dr. J. M. Buckley, in The Chautauquan.

Hints to Church Members.

Religious life needs culture. Nourish it by the study of the Bible, by prayer, and by the faithful performance of Christian duty.

Make it a rule to attend at least one devotional meeting a week, besides the Sabbath services.

Connect yourself actively with some department of church work.

Consecrate to Christ's service some definite proportion of your income (as the minimum of your gifts).

Keep yourself informed as to the progress of Christ's kingdom throughout the world.

Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy.

Cultivate, so far as you can, the acquaintance of your fellow-members in this household of faith.

In your business and your recreations let your light shine. While in the world, be not of it.—Anon.

BABY'S DEAD.

Fold the little garments,
Lay them softly by,
Put away the playthings,
Check the choking sigh.

Turn thee to thy duties,
Take up life again,
Newly consecrated
By this precious pain.

Work; thy face full heavenward,
Give thy life to God—
His sweet peace shall keep thee,
If thou kiss the rod.

—Selected.

Housekeepers Should Know

That cane-seated chair bottoms that have sagged may be made as tight as ever by washing them with hot soap suds and leaving them to dry in the open air.

That embroidery should always be ironed on the wrong side, on a soft surface such as heavy flannel or felting, with a clean white cloth over it, and should be ironed until thoroughly dry. In this way the design will be beautifully brought out.

That flies do not like the odor of clover, and a bunch of these blossoms left drying in a room will effectually expel them.

That traces of mud may be removed from black dresses by rubbing the stains with raw potato.

That the covers of lard pails may be utilized by placing them under pots and saucepans when the stove is too hot.

That pine tar burned in a sick-room is an excellent disinfectant; it also induces sleep.

That soaking canned goods in iced water for an hour before heating them will remove any tinny taste that may be noticed in them.

That a thin piece of salt pork bound onto a wound caused by stepping on a nail or carpet tack will remove the inflammation almost immediately and prevent serious consequences.

That a cup of hot beef tea or of hot milk, flavored with orange, is most excellent for an invalid just before retiring.

That russet shoes may be kept clean and shining by rubbing them with a slice of banana and polishing with a cloth.

The Harp of Character.

It is often in sorrow that our lives are taught their sweetest songs, says Dr. J. R. Miller. There is a story of a German baron who stretched wires from tower to tower of his castle, to make a great æolian harp. Then he waited and listened for the music from it. For a time the air was still and no sound was heard. The wires hung silent in the air. After awhile came gentle breezes, and the harp sang softly. At length came the stern Winter winds, strong and storm-like in their forces. Then the wires gave forth majestic music which was heard near and far. There are human lives that never, in the calm of quiet days, yield the music that is in them. When the breezes of common care sweep over them they give out soft murmurings of song. But it is only when the storms of adversity blow upon them that they answer in notes of noble victoriousness. It takes sore trouble to bring out the best that is in them.—Exchange.

The Grammar of Salvation.

A Christian is an active, passive and neuter verb, or rather a combination of these three kinds of verbs.

Neuter, because he does nothing by way of atonement and satisfaction for his sins.

Passive, because he lies so passively in the hands of God as to say continually whatever comes to pass, "Thy will be done."

Active, because he works out his "own salvation with fear and trembling while God works in him to will and do of his good pleasure." (Phil. ii, 12, 13.)
—Divine Life.

There is a great difference between dignity and boorishness. Some people seem to think that in order to be dignified one must be a stubborn and prosy old ass.
—Texas Christian Advocate.

OUR YOUNG PEOPLE.

DROPS OF WATER.

Some little drops of water,
Whose home was in the sea,
To go upon a journey,
Once happened to agree.

They had a cloud for carriage,
They drove a playful breeze,
And over town and country
They rode along at ease.

But oh, there were so many,
That soon the carriage broke,
And to the ground came tumbling,
These frightened little folk.

And through the moss and grasses
They were compelled to roam,
Until a brooklet found them
And carried them all home.

—Selected.

A Fable for Boys and Girls.

A little boy and girl were once sitting on a flowery bank, and talking proudly about their dress.

"See," said the boy, "what a beautiful new hat I have got. What a fine new jacket and trousers, and what a nice pair of shoes; it's not everybody that's dressed so finely as I am."

"Indeed," said the girl, "I think I am dressed finer than you, for I have on a silk cape and a handsome feather in my bonnet. I know that my dress cost a great deal of money."

"Not so much as mine," said the boy, "I am sure."

"Hold your peace," said a caterpillar crawling on the hedge, "you have neither of you any reason to be proud of your clothes, for they are only second-hand, and have all been worn by some creature or other, of which you think meanly, before they came into your possession. Why, that silk first wrapped up such a worm as I am."

"There, miss, what do you say to that?" said the boy.

"And that feather," exclaimed a bird, perched upon a tree, "was stolen from or cast off by some of my race."

"What do you say to that, miss?" repeated the boy. "Well, my clothes were neither worn by birds or worms."

"True," said a sheep that was grazing near by, "but they were worn on the back of some of my family before they were on yours; and as for your hat, I know that the beavers supplied the materials for making that article, and my friends, the calves, and oxen, were killed, not only to furnish meat for your table, but also leather to make your shoes with."

Three Followers.

The wise old Hassan sat in his door, when three young men pressed eagerly by.

"Are ye following after anyone, my sons?" he said.

"I follow after Pleasure," said the oldest.

"And I after Riches," said the second. "Pleasure is only to be found with Riches."

"And you, my little one?" he asked of the third.

"I follow after Duty," he modestly said.

And each went his way.

The aged Hassan in his journey came upon three men.

"My son," he said to the eldest, "methinks thou wert the youth who was following after Pleasure. Did'st thou overtake her?"

"No, father," answered the man. "Pleasure is but a phantom that flies as one approaches."

"Thou did'st not follow the right way, my son."

"How did'st thou fare?" he asked of the second.

"Pleasure is not with Riches," he answered.

"And thou?" continued Hassan, addressing the youngest.

"As I walked with Duty," he replied, "Pleasure walked ever by my side."

"It is always thus," said the old man. "Pleasure pursued is not overtaken. Only her shadow is caught by him who pursues. She herself goes hand in hand with Duty, and they who make Duty their companion have also the companionship of Pleasure.
—Exchange.

The Boston Transcript says: "One hundred years ago gloves were unknown in the country towns. Mittens were knitted and worn in all families. If a young man going home from singing-school with the young girl of his choice was holding her mittened hand to keep it from getting cold, and took that opportunity to urge his suit, if the offer proved acceptable the hand would remain. If taken by surprise, an effort to withdraw the hand would leave the mitten. So the suitor would 'get the mitten,' but not the hand."

An Antediluvian Frog.

A miner recently discovered a large and well-formed frog alive in a mass of anthracite coal blasted from a chamber 300 feet below the surface, in Simpson & Watkins' Mount Lookout Colliery, at Wyoming, near Wilkesbarre, Pa.

The discoverer of the curiosity is Joseph Johns. He had barred down a large lump of coal when the light from his lamp fell upon something strange in it. He stepped down, touched the object and was surprised to find it soft and yielding. He very carefully chipped of the coal around it and found it to be a frog. Seventeen years ago, while working in the mines, Johns had made a similar discovery, and had then the frog in his hand, shown it to his brother miners and taken it home. But while it was alive and warm when he found it, it died before it had been exposed to the air half an hour.

When he made his second discovery he put the frog in an air-tight jar in which he had brought tea for his lunch, and the jar has not since been opened.

The frog at first showed no signs of life, although it was warm, but after being in the jar about six hours it began to move, and when it had been exposed to the light ten hours it was quite lively. Since then it has continued to be fully wide awake, and stares at all who look at it.

In appearance it is not very much different from an ordinary frog, except that its back is nearly black and there are two rows of little protuberances down each side of its spine. Its legs are also peculiarly long and its feet very delicate.

Praying for More Faith.

"I hear men praying everywhere for more faith; but when I listen to them carefully and get at the real heart of their prayer, very often it is not more faith at all they are wanting, but a change from faith to sight.

"'What shall I do with this sorrow that God hath sent me?'

"'Take it up and bear it, and get strength and blessing out of it.'

"'Ah, if I only knew what blessing there was in it; if I saw how it would help me, then I could bear it.'

"'What shall I do with this hard, hateful duty, which Christ has laid right in my way?'

"'Do it, and grow by doing it.'

"'Ah, yes; if I could only see that it would make me grow.'

"In both of those cases do you not see that what you are begging for is not more faith, although you think it is, but sight. You want to see for yourself the blessing in the sorrow, the strength in the hard and hateful task.

"Faith says not, 'I see that it is good for me, and so God must have sent it,' but 'God sent it, and so it must be good for me.' Faith, walking in the dark with God, only prays him to clasp its hand more closely—does not even ask him for the lighting of the darkness, so that the man may find the way himself."—Phillips Brooks.

"What have we here?" asked the Czar as his private chamberlain wheeled into the room a barrow load of documents. "Your imperial majesty," replied the chamberlain, "these are petitions from America protesting against the expulsion of the Jews from your dominions." "Indeed? Are they written on one side or on both?" "On one side, sire." "Good! We can utilize the other side by getting up Russian petitions against the deportation of the Chinese from America."—Harper's Bazar.

Riding along our country highways one sees many signs placed in conspicuous places forbidding trespassing. Some of the signs are in the strongest language, while others are hard to understand. On one northwest of the city of Beverly, Mass., is found the following: "Any person ketched on these grounds, or cows, or wimin will be liabul two fine itself in a skrape."

In Australia, it is said, telephonic messages have been successfully transmitted over wire fences. The man who thought of this device utilized the top wire of the fence and carried the wire across the road on poles.

Mrs. Byers: "All the big berries are at the top of this box, I suppose?" Tom Carter: "Oh, no mum; some uv 'em are on top uv the other boxes."

The continual breaking of lamp-chimneys costs a good deal in the course of a year.

Get Macbeth's "pearl top" or "pearl glass." You will have no more trouble with breaking from heat. You will have clear glass instead of misty; fine instead of rough; right shape instead of wrong; and uniform, one the same as another.

Pittsburgh. GEO. A. MACBETH CO.

BETTER Keep your leather new with Vacuum Leather Oil; 25c, and your money back if you want it.

Patent lambskin-with-wool-on swob and book—How to Take Care of Leather—both free at the store.

Vacuum Oil Company, Rochester, N. Y.

Dr. King's Royal Germetuer

Is a unique, peerless preparation, which embodies the best and latest fruits of medical research, and differs radically from ordinary medicines in a number of particulars. Here are three of them:

1. It is as pleasant to take as lemonade.
2. It is harmless always—may be safely given to a babe one day old.
3. IT CURES WHEN ALL ELSE FAILS.

REV. SAM P. JONES SAYS:

"My wife, who was an invalid from nervous sick headache, has been entirely cured by six weeks' use of Dr. King's Royal Germetuer. Her health is perfect. In three weeks two of my children were cured completely of nasal catarrh. IT IS TRULY A GREAT REMEDY."

GENERAL LONGSTREET SAYS:

"I have suffered for months past from insomnia and indigestion, and failing of relief, was induced by a friend to try Dr. King's Royal Germetuer. I am now relieved, and I hope permanently so."

TESTED AND PROVED FOR YEARS.

TERRY, Miss., April 21, 1893.

We have been using Dr. King's Royal Germetuer for several years in our family, and have recommended it to many others. It has always done what is claimed for it, as far as tried, and I regard it as the best medicine we have ever had in our family.

Mrs. J. J. HALBERT.

This great remedy presents an array of testimonials absolutely without a parallel in the history of medicines either as to character or number. These statements show that it cures Nervous Disorder, Stomach Troubles, Bowel Derangement in old or young, whether recent or chronic, Kidney and Bladder Troubles, Debility.

Give it a fair trial, and you will be convinced. $1 per bottle, 6 for $5.

Any Time is the right time for everybody to drink Hires' Root Beer

A temperance drink.
A home-made drink.
A health-giving drink.
A thirst-quenching drink.
A drink that is popular everywhere.
Delicious, Sparkling, Effervescent.

A 25 cent package makes 5 gallons of this delicious beverage. Don't be deceived if a dealer for the sake of larger profit, tells you some other kind is "just as good"—'tis false. No imitation is as good as the genuine HIRES'.

INTERNATIONAL BIBLES.

Largest Type Teacher's Bible in the World.

We have for years been trying to get a large type Teacher's Bible which was not too large and heavy. We have it in this series. Besides this feature, the helps are entirely new, and were written by the greatest scholars of both America and Europe, which guarantees their supertority over all others. Everyone who is familiar with the Oxford and Bagster Teacher's Bibles knows that the book printed in Minion type makes the most desirable sized volume, but the Minion type is too small for any but the best eyes; and while their books in Bourgeois type suit the eyes, they are entirely too large and heavy for convenient handling. This International Series overcomes both these faults by having the Bourgeois type book no larger or heavier than the much smaller type (Minion) Oxford and Bagster books, while the prices are much less than for books of corresponding type in any other series, and the bindings are not only similar in design, but equal in every particular to the older Teacher's Bibles; and some of these bindings are finer than those of any other Teacher's Bibles we have ever seen.

We are specially glad to be able to say that the prices of these Bibles are in many cases much cheaper than the Oxford or Bagster Books, while they are altogether equally well made and have the newest and best helps and Maps. We claim for these new Teacher's Bibles that they give

The Largest Type in the Smallest Book.
The Newest and Best Helps.
The Newest Maps, Which Were Made Especially for This Series.
Bindings Unsurpassed.
Smaller Prices Than Any Other Series.

We confidently assure our patrons that in the INTERNATIONAL TEACHER'S BIBLE SERIES we have the very BEST line of Teacher's Bibles ever offered.

Write us for a Descriptive Catalogue showing size of type, size of books, etc.

Address

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,

106 Camp Street, - New Orleans, La.

8% GUARANTEED by a leading Trust Company is offered at par. Suitable for large and small investments. Full information furnished by W. E. LOWN Mills Building, New York.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS 25 CTS

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder.

The only Pure Cream of Tartar Powder.—No Ammonia; No Alum.
in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard.

MARRIAGES.

SMITH—ERWIN.—At the residence of the bride's father, Omega, Madison parish, La., July 27, 1893, by Rev. R. S. Isbell, Mr. Walter Smith and Miss Lottie Erwin.

SEALS—WEST.—At the Edwards' House, Jackson, Miss., Aug. 2, 1893, by Rev. A. F. Watkins, Mr. Claud Seals, of Duncan, Miss., and Miss Nona West, of Terry, Miss.

'Tis sweet as year by year we lose
Friends out of sight, in faith to muse
How grows in paradise our store.
—Keble.

OBITUARIES.

We publish obituaries of 200 words free of charge; for all over this, one cent per word must be sent. If you want the notice to appear in its order, comply with this rule. Count the words, and send one cent for each word over 200.

FLETCHER—Jackson Methodism lost its oldest member and the city of Jackson its oldest citizen when on March 26, 1893, Bro. FRANK FLETCHER was removed by death from the walks of men.

His life had been comparatively an uneventful one; few dates stand out in his history as marking strange events or unusual experiences. Quietly he pursued the even tenor of his way in the peaceful enjoyment of his little home and in the midst of his happy family, mindful only of his duty to God and his fellowman, and when at last death silently entered the home and laid its arresting hand upon him, the community realized that a Christian gentleman and a patriarch of the city and the church had been taken from among them.

Frank F. Fletcher, the fifth of a family of ten children, was the son of George and Patsey Fletcher, who emigrated from North Carolina, and settled in the early years of the century upon the gulf coast of Mississippi. After living here a while they removed to Jackson, La., where in 1818 Frank was born. In 1828 the family came to Jackson, Miss., and here, without considerable interval, the subject of this sketch spent the last sixty-five years of his life. In early manhood he was happily married to Miss Margaret McGill, a native of Ireland, but at that time a resident of Jackson. The wife, two sons and a daughter are left to mourn the loss of husband and father and to rejoice in the memory of his amiable character and blameless life.

Bro. Fletcher joined the church in his childhood, and for more than sixty years was a consistent Christian. He was faithful to every trust, regular in his attendance upon the public worship in the sanctuary, and always ready to meet the obligations imposed upon him. One of the pleasant recollections held by this writer of men and scenes in Jackson, fifteen years ago, is of seeing this venerable man in his place at prayer meeting, and of hearing his simple, earnest and beautiful prayer for his church, his neighbors and himself.

In the long illness that ended with his death the meek and gentle spirit of his Lord always possessed him, and when the messenger came he was ready to go.

A faithful friend, an affectionate husband and father, an upright citizen, and a devoted Christian, he had quietly won his way into the affections of a large circle of friends, and many a heart felt a pang of personal bereavement when he was taken from us. The life of such a man is a blessing to a community, and his death a public loss. A. F. WATKINS.

HUDSON—Bro. HUDSON was born in Lumbardy Grove, Va., Dec. 19, 1841, and died at Summit, Miss., May 9, 1893. He moved to Alabama in 1845, and in 1856 went to Monticello, N. C., and in 1858 joined the M. E. Church, South, at Greensboro, N. C., being sixteen years old. Bro. Hudson remained in North Carolina until the war between the States, when he enlisted in the Southern Army at Selma, Ala., under Capt. Daniels—Co. G, Forty-fourth Regiment. Was in the campaign in Virginia, Maryland, Georgia and Tennessee. In all the many battles that he was in he was never wounded or taken prisoner, although he had his clothes and blankets cut with bullets many times. He surrendered with Gen. R. E. Lee at Appomattox, and came back to North Carolina, and in 1870 was married to Miss Mattie Young, and in 1876 was married again to Mrs. Ann J. Moore. He removed to Durant, Miss., in 1887, and thence to Summit, Miss., 1888.

Bro. Hudson was one of the best men and consecrated Christians I ever saw. He was always at his place in all church work, and he never missed a service when it was possible for him to be there. He was always a leading man in his community and church. He was always a member of Quarterly Conference; several times a delegate to the District Conference, and one or more times a member of the Annual Conference.

The last two or three years of his life he was a great bodily sufferer. I never saw anyone suffer more than he did, and yet I never heard a murmur escape his lips. Just one month before he died it was his privilege to attend a gracious meeting at this place, and though suffering near unto death, for three weeks he was at nearly every service, and many times during the meeting, and many other times, he told me that he was only waiting the will of the Lord; if the Lord spared his life, it was all for him. During his illness he read his Bible through as many as eight times, and all the blank leaves of all his books are filled with sermon texts of different preachers that he had heard preach, and his Bible is marked through and through. He lived every moment, ready to answer the summons of the Master, which came suddenly, but found him at his post, where he received the welcome applause: "Well done, good and faithful servant." "It is enough; come up higher."

J. G. CAMMACK.

APPLEWHITE—Died, at his home, in Carroll county, Miss., June 8, 1893, Dr. J. A. APPLEWHITE, in the seventieth year of his age. Few similar announcements have saddened more hearts and cast a gloom over so many homes as the above.

He was born in Marion county, Miss., Jan. 15, 1824. His father, Rev. James Applewhite, one of the pioneers of Methodism in Mississippi, moved to Carroll county and settled near the present town of Vaiden in 1834, where the subject of this sketch grew from boyhood to man's estate, subject to all the hardships and privations incident to a new settled country. In 1846 his native State called for volunteers for the Mexican War. He was one of the first to respond and bore an honorable part in that campaign.

Returning from Mexico, he engaged in the practice of medicine, and for a short season moved to Helena, Ark. While there he was married to Miss Sarah F. Watson, near the close of 1847.

Returning to Mississippi in 1848, he resumed his practice among his kindred and friends, which was discontinued only by his failing health. Eight sons and two daughters were born to him, four of whom (three sons and one daughter) died in infancy. All the others he lived to see settled in life and useful members in society. Though a regular attendant at the house of God and a liberal supporter of all that was good from his youth, he did not make a public profession of religion till about twenty or twenty-five years ago, when he joined the Methodist Church, at Columbiana, of which until the day of his death he was one of its main supporters. Dr. Applewhite was a man of almost boundless charity, and his hand was always open to the cry of the needy. Perhaps no man in the State did so large a practice as he, knowing at the time that his only compensation would be the smiles of heaven and the approbation of his own conscience. Like all others, he had his failings and faults. While he alone suffered for these, the world was blest and made better by his many virtues.

To know Dr. Applewhite one must be permitted (as was the writer) to enter the sacred precincts of home, and see him as son, as husband and father. His care for his aged parents, his love and devotion for his wife and children were such that he knew no sacrifice too great to make for their well-being. With them he spent his happiest hours. The writer was with him in his last sickness, and he ever expressed strong confidence in God through the merit of the Savior.

On July 9 the largest concourse we ever saw on such an occasion gathered at his home to pay the last tribute of love and respect to one whose presence had cheered and consoled them in affliction's sad hour for these years past. After a beautiful and touching tribute to his memory by his pastor, Bro. R. A. Meek, the writer read our impressive ritual, and the Rev. T. L. Hamau, of the Presbyterian Church, offered an appropriate prayer, after which the Masons and Odd Fellows (both of which orders he was an honored member) took charge and bore his remains to the family graveyard, and, with appropriate ceremonies, laid him beside father, mother and other loved ones, there to await the resurrection of the just. To the sorrowing wife and children we would say: He is not dead, but sleepeth. W. H. HOLMES.

Winona, Miss.

FRIZZELL—MRS. CLARA E. FRIZZELL was born April 13, 1834, and died Aug. 2, 1893; joined the M. E. Church, South, about 1846, and ever after lived a consistent Christian life. Was twice married: first, to Garrison Clark, October, 1851. She was bereaved by his death, which took place in Shreveport, La., in 1863. Married Jas. E. Frizzell in 1868 or 1869.

She leaves a disconsolate husband, aged eighty-one years, and numerous friends to mourn her loss. She was buried near West, Miss.; burial services conducted by Rev. R. M. Davis. Was a great sufferer for seven years, and through the great suffering toward the last caused her mind to be unsettled about other things, she told her sister she died at her post. Almost helpless, she was perfectly resigned, willing to suffer if it was God's will. Told her husband they would not be separated long. May God help all her friends to live so as to meet her around God's throne in heaven.

F. A. HOWELL.

We, the undersigned, do testify that we have used Dr. Davis' Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar for years, for all throat and lung troubles, with the greatest benefit. For coughs and colds it never fails. When taken according to directions, it cures our children of croup and whooping-cough, and for serious lung troubles it always gives relief.

NEW ORLEANS, March 1, 1889.

C. A. Pfeffer, 201 Miro street; Emile A. Mertin, 186 Johnson street; John Capdeville, Jr., 320 St. Phillip street; L. Y. Petit, Bayou St. John; William Noonan, Carrollton; A. M. Ruh, 205 Miro street. One dollar bottles hold two and a half times as much as a 50c. bottle.

UP IN THE TREE.

BY GEORGE MACDONALD.

What would you see if I took you up
My little aerie stair?
You would see the sky, like a clear blue cup,
Turned upside down in the air.

What would you do up my aerie stair,
In my little nest on the tree?
My child with cries would trouble the air,
To get what she could but see.

What would you get in the top of the tree,
For all your crying and grief?
Not a star would you clutch of all you see,
You could only gather a leaf.

But when you had lost your greedy grief,
Content to see from afar,
You would find in your hand a withering leaf,
In your heart a shining star.

An Only Daughter Cured of Consumption

When death was hourly expected from Consumption, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H James was experimenting, he accidentally made a preparation of Indian Hemp, which cured his only child, and now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. Hemp also cures night sweats, nausea at the stomach, and will break a fresh cold in twenty-four hours. Address Craddock & Co., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa., naming this paper.

The Summer says: "Scorning thy straitened home,
Come out into the wide rooms made for thee
Twixt the green hills, or by the glorious sea,
In the sweet silence of pine forests roam;
Dream underneath the green, bird-haunted dome
Of a vast maple till thy thoughts are free
From clogging cares, and, like the honey bee,
Fly wheresoever sweets abound. Yea, come
Where sun-kissed rivers wind the valleys through.
Give to the wave thy keel, the wind thy sail;
Sleep underneath thy roof of starry blue;
Climb mountain stairs, and wrestle with the gale.
Heir of fair Nature's riches, claim thy right,
And in thy vast possessions take delight."

—Mary Frances Butts, in S. S. Times.

Sympathy for the Distressed.

Our lives are all music if we but touch the chords rightly, so says one of our poets, and we all know there is a golden thread entering into the warp and woof of every-day life that is touched by sympathy for the distressed and suffering. At such a time what a boon to have on hand Dicks' Mul-en-ol to offer as a relief for cuts, burns, bruises, sprains and colic. It is soothing and cooling. Large bottles 50 cents.

I want an active agent in every parish in the bounds of the Louisiana Conference to handle that wonderful new book by Bishop Fitzgerald, The Epworth League Book. Don't miss this opportunity of a lifetime. First come first served! Prospectus, 75 cents.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp St., - - - - - - - New Orleans.

Notice.

I have the best thing in the way of a Teacher's Bible for an agent to handle ever published. Write for full descriptive circulars at once.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp St., - - - - - - - New Orleans.

No mineral water will produce the beneficial results that follow taking ONE or more of "BEECHAM'S PILLS" with a glass of water immediately upon arising in the morning.

Palulose. Effectual. Covered with a tasteless, soluble coating.
"Worth a guinea a box."—Price only 25 cents.
Of all druggists, or a box will be mailed on receipt of 25cts. in stamps by B. F. Allen Co., 365 Canal St., New York. 31

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR
The Celebrated
CHOCOLAT MENIER
Annual Sales Exceed 33 MILLION Lbs.
Write for Samples. Sent Free. Menier, Union Sq., N. Y.

—THE—
Great Southern Music House of
Philip Werlein
Is Prepared to Suit All Comers.
Elegant and Durable Pianos from $250 up.
Good Second-hand and Slightly Used Pianos from $50 up.
Send for Catalogues and Prices.
135 Canal St., New Orleans.

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.

SUCCESSORS TO
STERN'S
Fert. and Chem.
Manufacturing Com'y
14 UNION STREET,
New Orleans, La.
Write for Agricultural Hand-Book.

MANUFACTURERS OF
HIGH GRADE
Bone Fertilizers,
PURE
GROUND BONE
ACID PHOSPHATE,
KAINIT,
Etc.
Buyers of Cotton Seed.

Office Telephone, 52. Yard Telephone, 331.
Pennsylvania Coal Company,
Office, 67 Carondelet Street.
PITTSBURGH COAL.
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.
L. S. WIDNEY, Manager.
Cotton Presses, Factories, and the Family trade supplied at Lowest Market Rates.
CITY YARDS: Foot of Robin Street, Foot of Desire Street, Corner Short and St. Charles Avenue.

Marble, Slate and Hardwood Mantels.
TILES for Fire-places and Floors. GRATES of all kinds.
SLATE HEARTHS. BUILDING MATERIAL.
GEO. M. LEAHY,
No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Designs and prices furnished on application.

Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.
Losses Paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3 236 091.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429 729.
All Losses Paid in Cash without Discount, as Soon as Adjusted.
Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office, the same as with local companies.
DIRECTORS IN NEW ORLEANS.
GUSTAV R. WESTFELDT, Chairman. L. C. FALLON, LUCAS E. MOORE, C. M. SORIA.
CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Resident Sec'y. H. V. OGDEN, Resident Secretary.

Home Insurance Co., of New Orleans
No. 78 CAMP STREET.

CASH ASSETS,	December 31st, 1886,	$400,479.08
CASH ASSETS,	December 31st, 1887,	$413,860.76
CASH ASSETS,	December 31st, 1888,	$459,369.50
CASH ASSETS,	December 31st, 1889,	$510,584.54
CASH ASSETS,	December 31st, 1890,	$551,897.82
CASH ASSETS,	December 31st, 1891,	$600,414.81

Steadily Increasing in Strength and Popularity.
Solicits Fire and River Business
Liberal Settlements and Prompt Payments.
Thos. Sefton, Pres't. Capt. J. B. Woods, Vice-Pres't. Jno. G. Byrd, Sec'y
J. B. WOODS, JNO. J. BARR, J. B. LEVERT, W. B. BLOOMFIELD,
JOS. BAYLE, ANDREW STEWART, E. BORLAND, W. T. HARDIE,
JNO. BARKLEY, CHAS. CHAFFE. P. R. RICE, THOS. SEFTON.

W. R. LYMAN, President. JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-President. JOHN E. WHITING, Secretary
Crescent Insurance Com'y
Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.
Cash Capital, - - - - - - $300,000.
Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849. ANNUAL and TERM POLICIES Issued on Desirable Fire Business.
See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

Millsaps College,
Jackson, Miss.
The Second Session Begins Sept. 20th, 1893.
College Fees, Only $30 for the Entire Session.
Board in Students' Homes and in Private Families, $12 per month.
Provision has been made for the payment of the College Fees in the case of young preachers and the sons of preachers.
For Catalogue and other information address
W. B. MURRAH, PRESIDENT.

MALONE COLLEGE
For Young Ladies.
HOLLY SPRINGS, MISSISSIPPI.
The Third Annual Session will begin Monday, Sept. 20, 1893.
Location, highest point in the State. Elevation, 613 feet.
Health unsurpassed in the Southwest.
Course thorough and comprehensive.
Each department under the charge of specialists.
Special advantages offered in music, art and elocution.
A HOME SCHOOL for pupils under Christian influences.
Terms moderate. For catalogues or further particulars address
Rev. J. W. HONNOLL, President.

Memphis Conference Female Institute
—AND—
Conservatory of Music,
Jackson, Tenn.
A HIGH GRADE COLLEGE FOR GIRLS AND YOUNG LADIES.
A METHODIST SCHOOL FOR METHODIST GIRLS.
Faculty Large and Course of Study Extensive.
Teacher of Elocution Trained in the Emerson School of Oratory.
Thoroughly Equipped Gymnasium.
Conservatory of Music and Art.
Water throughout Buildings.
Lighted with Gas and Electricity.
Library of Over 6,000 Volumes.
Twenty-three Pianos.
The city of Jackson is noted for its culture and healthfulness. Thirty bored wells furnish a water supply which chemical experts pronounce as pure as that from the famous Eureka Springs in Arkansas.
A fine opportunity is here provided to secure health while acquiring an education.
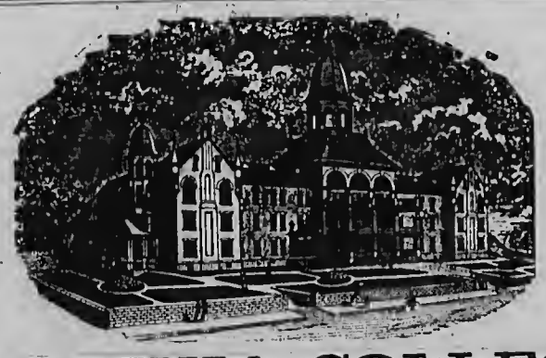
For catalogue and other information write the president,
Rev. Howard W. Key, A.M., Ph.D.



VIRGINIA COLLEGE
FOR YOUNG LADIES. ROANOKE, VIRGINIA.
Opens Sept. 14th, 1893. New buildings with all modern improvements, among the finest in the South. New Pianos and furniture. Campus of ten acres; magnificent mountain scenery; in the Valley of Virginia, far famed for health. European and American teachers. Degrees of B. S., B. A., and M. A. conferred. Unsurpassed advantages in Music and Art. One of the most attractive and beautiful College homes for Young Ladies in the South. For Catalogue, address W. A. HARRIS, D.D., President, Roanoke, Virginia.

Nashville College for Young Ladies.
Privilege of Lectures, Museum, Apparatus, in Vanderbilt University. Three large Buildings. Faculty of 40, pupils average over 400 for four years past. Music, Art, Calisthenics, Health, Accessibility. Fully Equipped Gymnasium. Address Rev. Geo. W. F. Price, D.D., Prest., Nashville, Tenn.

EMORY COLLEGE
OXFORD, GA. Forty Miles East of Atlanta. Location Proverbially Healthy! No Saloons.
57th Session opens Sept. 20th, 1893, closes June 13, 1894. Endowment recently increased $100,000 and equipment greatly improved. Total expenses within $225. For full information, address
W. A. CANDLER, D. D., PRESIDENT.

SOUTHERN FEMALE COLLEGE PETERSBURG, VA.
Historic Home School in perfect Climate. Unsurpassed courses in Literature, Language, Science, Conservatory advantages in Music and Art. All modern improvements. 31st session. Terms low. Send for catalogue to ARTHUR K. DAVIS, A. M., Pres't, Petersburg, Va.

AS A GARMENT OF MERIT
THE GENUINE JACKSON CORSET WAIST
STANDS AT THE FRONT.
It is Rapidly Replacing Old-Style, Uncomfortable and Unhealthful Corsets.

Easy-fitting, yet giving complete support to the form. It is well made, of good material and fast colors. We ask you to try it.
For sale by leading merchants everywhere. Take no substitute. If your dealer will not get it for you, write to the factory.
Made Only by the JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.

ROSE TOBACCO CURE A quick, cheap, pleasant and absolute cure for the Tobacco Habit
In all its Forms. For proof write the ROSE DRUG CO., Birmingham, Ala.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

The Louisiana State Fair will be held at Alexandria, Oct. 11-14.

Major W. M. Robinson, for thirteen years city editor of the New Orleans Picayune, was buried to this city on Aug. 19.

There is a split in the Congregational Church in Georgia. The question on which the difficulty hinges is briefly this: Shall the white and colored members of the Congregational Church in Georgia meet on terms of equality or remain separate and distinct?

The yellow fever in Pensacola, Fla., came to an end on Aug. 18, with the issuance of an official bulletin by State Health Officer Porter announcing that "all restrictions and surveillance on travel in the State against Pensacola, being now unwarranted by any facts, are consequently unnecessary. The further continuance of them will be illegal."

Senator Washburn, of Minnesota, expressing the sentiment of the anti-free silver Republicans of the Senate, has said that the Voorhees bill, with its declarations in favor of bimetallism whenever the two metals can be kept on a parity, will receive the unqualified support of nearly all the Republicans, except the representatives of the silver States.

Of the many financial schemes proposed to speedily relieve the stringency in money the one regarded by the treasury officials as the most practicable is the one to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to issue currency against the seigniorage or profit upon the coinage of the silver bullion in the Treasury. There are now 130,000,000 ounces of silver bought under the act of 1890, and notes issued against the seigniorage on that amount would add nearly $50,000,000 to the circulating medium.

The American Agriculturalist, in the annual review of the crop situation, says: "The crop of 1893 in America is in many respects similar to that of three years ago, but with every prospect that home consumption and an increased foreign demand will so increase values as to yield as large net returns to the farmers as the average of recent years. Indeed, the review makes a distinctly encouraging exhibit in spite of the prevalent drouth, though admitting that the financial stringency may interfere with the early movement of crops and have a temporarily restrictive influence on prices."

The legislative aspect of the silver purchasing repeal bill is better at present than at any time since the opening of the special session of Congress. The question is now at issue in both Houses, since the report of the bill by the finance committee puts it directly before the Senate. The administration men are hopeful. They count on a decided majority in the House, and think it possible to carry the measure in the Senate. They have the advantage of position. The silver men are divided on the ratio question; they have several propositions before the House, while their opponents have only one proposition—that is, the repeal of the objectionable legislation.

FOREIGN.

The continuation of gold shipments to the United States is expected to cause shortly a rise of the Bank of England's rate to 5, or even 6 per cent.

A pilgrimage of a large number of Mexicans to the Holy Land has been organized in the City of Mexico by two priests. The excursion will go by way of Chicago, Niagara Falls, New York, London, Rome and Naples.

Few English prime ministers have encountered such difficulties among their political friends as Gladstone has encountered and overcome since the Home Rule bill went into the committee stage. Almost every paragraph was made the subject of domestic quarrels by the government majority.

The President of Venezuela has the right to say how much salary he shall receive. A few days ago he issued a decree raising his salary from $18 000 to $24 000 a year. He also raised the salaries of his Cabinet ministers to $6,000, and to make things even, reduced the salaries of members of the federal council and judges of the supreme and superior courts.

There is much comment and indignation expressed on account of the many church robberies committed in different parts of Mexico during the past few days. The latest acts of sacrilegious vandalism are reported from the city of Iro Puato, State of Guanajuato, where two Catholic cathedrals were entered the same night by robbers and several thousand dollars' worth of gold and silver ornaments stolen.

The general parliamentary election in France was unexpectedly free from disorder, even excitement. Except slight disturbances in the Var, where M. Clemenceau, the radical leader, has had a hot fight with his enemies, no trouble has been reported. In Paris the poll, although much larger than usual, was quite featureless. All of the Cabinet ministers have been re-elected, none meeting with serious opposition.

A Battle for Blood

Is what Hood's Sarsaparilla vigorously fights and it is always victorious in expelling all the foul taints and giving the vital fluid the quality and quantity of perfect health.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills. 25 cents.

Stop-Overs on World's Fair Tickets.

All persons buying tickets to the "World's Columbian Exposition," via the popular Queen and Crescent Route, will be allowed stop-over privileges on all tickets, including those limited to fifteen days, at Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis and Chattanooga, within final limit on both going and returning trips.

For further information as to stop-overs, rates, etc., call on or address agents of connecting lines and Q. and C. Route.

D. G. EDWARDS,
General Passenger Agent.
Cincinnati, Ohio.

To Whom It May Concern.

Macon, Ga., March 13, 1893.

About three years ago I received a sample bottle of MULENOL. I had never heard of it before. I began using it, however, as occasion required, and soon found that it was all that is claimed for it, and more. For cuts, burns, bruises, scalds and all kinds of sores it is superior to any remedy I have ever used. It is also exceedingly efficacious in colic and diarrhœa. For sore throat it is incomparably better than anything I know of. I heartily recommend it as a medicine worthy of a place in every household.

W. C. BLACK,
Pastor Mulberry St. Methodist Church.
Manufactured by F. A. Dicks, Natchez, Miss.

It is Worth $10,000 to Me.

For the past seven or eight years I have been a victim of Nervous Dyspepsia in its worst form. I have spent thousands of dollars, and have kept poor paying for medicine and doctors' bills. Up to the time I began the use of Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water, every kind of food caused me untold misery that none but God and myself knew. After having tried everything that I read or heard of, I must confess that I had no faith or hope whatever that the water would do me any good. But "like a drowning man grasping at a straw," I bought from Mr. Wilkinson one quart of his mineral water and began to take one dessertspoonful after each meal and at bedtime. Contrary to my expectations and to my very great joy and surprise, in three or four days I began to improve, continued to do so steadily until I was entirely well. It cured me in spite of myself. I could hardly realize the truth. Now I can and do eat anything I want, at any time, without it disagreeing with me in the least. My digestion is perfect, my heart trouble is all gone, I sleep well, and my general health is all I could wish. All of which, I am happy to say, was brought about by one quart of Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water in the space of six weeks. Will say in addition that I have every reason to know that as a constitutional nerve tonic and restorative it is unsurpassed. For $10,000 I would not be put back where I was when I began the use of the water and not be able to get any more of it.

Anyone suffering as I did can, if they choose, write to me and I will cheerfully answer.

W. J. GARDNER.
P. O. Box 78, Montgomery, Ala.
For sale at 106 Camp street.

Illinois Central Railroad.

REDUCED RATES TO CHICAGO AND THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Tickets now on sale from New Orleans to Chicago and return at $36 75 for the round trip; sale to continue daily until Oct. 15, 1893, inclusive; good to return until Nov. 15, 1893. Remember that the Central Route is the only railroad from the South whose trains enter Chicago without transfer or detour in full view of the Exposition Buildings, and make regular stops at the World's Fair gates (World's Fair Station—Midway Plaisance.)

For further particulars, tickets, etc., call on or address your local or nearest I. C. R. R. ticket agent.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

University School of Petersburg, Virginia.

We beg to call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of this famous Virginia School, which, for its methods, the high tone of honor existing among its pupils, and their success at the University of Virginia, Princeton, Harvard, West Point, Annapolis, and the great engineering schools of the country, has achieved such an enviable reputation. The 29th annual session begins October 2nd.

Free! Free!

AN ELEGANT LITHOGRAPH PICTURE OF MILLSAPS COLLEGE.

We need $1,500 to pay for furniture already bought to finish furnishing the college and to make necessary improvements.

To everyone sending us $1 we will send the picture unframed, and to everyone sending us $5 we will send the picture neatly framed ready for hanging. Let us hear from you.

JOHN W. CHAMBERS, Agt.
Jackson, Miss.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Philip Werlein,

New Orleans, wants you to write to him if you want to get a good Piano cheap, or an Organ, Music or Musical Instruments. His is the old reliable music store of New Orleans.

Camp Meetings.

To the Methodist People of New Orleans:

If you would like to spy out the St. Tammany Camp Grounds and spend a few hours in the country, you can come out on the East Louisiana excursion on Wednesday, to Ahlts Springs; thence by hack to camp ground, taking dinner at the Rausch Hotel, and return in the evening, the entire trip costing only about $2. Anyone desiring to spend a week or longer will be well cared for at the above named hotel, which is near the camp grounds. Come and see our beautiful shades, our laughing streams, our enchanted grounds, and you will fall in love with our country and people, and come back to our camp meeting, Sept. 22. For further information address

D. C. RAWLS, P. C.

There will be a camp meeting at old Salem Camp Ground, Americus circuit, Seashore district, Mississippi Conference, beginning on Thursday night before the second Sunday in October. Preachers are invited and urged to come.

J. H HOLLAND, P. C.

The Best Nerve Tonic.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

Dr. A. MONTEIRO, Richmond, Va., says: "I have used it in many cases of nerve depression and have always found it beneficial. The exhaustion of debility, so prevalent in chronic alcoholism, has been benefited in every case. I consider it one of the best tonics we have, where nerve tone is needed."

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SEASHORE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Ellisville circuit, at Sandersville	Aug. 26, 27
Eastabuchie circuit, at L. River C. G.	30, Sept. 6
Heidelberg circuit, at Paulding	9, 10
Augusta cir., at Boone's Ch'l (Th., Fri.)	14, 15
Vancleave circuit, at Mt. Zion	16, 17
Ocean Springs, at O. Springs (Wed.)	20
Tallsheek circuit, at St. Tammany C. G.	22-28
Covington cir., at St. Tam'y C. G. (Mon.)	25
Bay St. Louis, at Handsborough	29, 30
Whittington c. (4th round), Palmer C. G.	30 to Oct. 6
E. Pearl circuit, at Pine Grove (Tues.)	10

Let special prayer be made by all our people for the camp meetings. Observe the quarterly fast. Have General Rules read, and registers on hand for examination. Preachers will please try to "clear the decks" of the collections during this quarter, at least in good subscriptions. Push the interests of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

HENRY E. PARTRIDGE, P. E.
Hattiesburg, Miss.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Pleasant Grove, at Pleasant Grove	Sept. 2, 3
China Grove, at Waterholes	5
Brookhaven circuit, at New Hope	9, 10
Terry circuit, at Byram	16
Gallman, at Mt. Pleasant	16, 17
Hazlehurst	23
Providence, at Georgetown	23, 24

R. S. WOODWARD, P. E.

MERIDIAN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

North Kemper, at Blair	Aug. 26, 27
Chunkey circuit, at Spring Hill	Sept. 2, 3
Marion circuit, at Pleasant Hill	9, 10
Why Not circuit, at Why Not	16, 17
Meridian—Central (Wed. night)	20
Lauderdale cir., at Mt. Hebron (Thur.)	21
Binnsville circuit, at Chapel Hill	23, 24

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Lake City, at Lodi	Aug. 26, 27
Yazoo circuit, at Anding (Tues.)	29
Camden, at Thomastown	Sept. 2, 3
Bolton, at Clinton	9, 10
Pocahontas, at Liberty Grove (Tues.)	13
Tranquil, at Locust Grove	16, 17
Canton	23, 24

E. H. MOUNGER, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Marvin, at Richland Academy	Sept. 1
Fanoin, at Drake's	2, 3
Raleigh, at Trinity	7
Westville, at Oak Vale	9, 10
Homewood, at Mutual Union	15
Trenton, at Gasque	16, 17
Montrose, at Mt. Zion	23, 24

C. MCDONALD, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Fayette, at Ebenezer	Aug. 26, 27
Meadville, at New Providence (Tues.)	29
Warren, at Wesley Chapel	Sept. 2, 3
Port Gibson	9, 10
Rocky Springs	16, 17
Mayersville, at Mayersville	23, 24
Hermanville (Thur.)	28

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

GRENADA DISTRICT—FOURTH ROUND.

Grenada station	Sept. 23, 24
Tillatoba (Sat.)	30
Minter City and Strathmore	Oct. 1
Charleston	6
Coffeeville	7, 8
Oxford station	14, 15
Toccopola	21, 22
Cherry Hill (Tues.)	24
Atlanta	28, 29
Banner (Tues.)	31
Chapel Hill	Nov. 4, 5
Pittsboro (Tues.)	7
Abbeville	11, 12
Grenada circuit	18, 19
Water Valley circuit (Sat.)	25
Water Valley station	26, 27

Local preachers, please be ready with written report as Discipline directs. Also trustees of church property will please have written reports as they are required to do by law.

R. A. BURROUGHS, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Senatobia	Aug. 26, 27
Batesville	Sept. 2, 3
Sardis, at Davis Chapel	9, 10
Hernando	16, 17
Como	23, 24
Pleasant Grove, at Lee's Chapel	30 Oct. 1
Courtland, at Center Hill	7, 8
Nesbit	14, 15
Mt. Vernon, at Free Springs	21, 22
Pleasant Hill, at Lewisburg	28, 29
Arkabutla (Tues.)	31
Morgansville mission	Nov. 4, 5
Cockrum, at Green Leaf	11, 12
Wall Hill	18, 19
Panola	25, 26

If stewards and pastors will address themselves faithfully and constantly to their respective duties, salaries and connectional collections will be paid in full. Brethren, the Lord and the church expects everyone to do their duty

H. C. MOREHEAD, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Lula	Aug. 27
Arcola	Sept. 3
Duncan	10
Clarksdale	24
Gunnison	Oct. 1
Rosedale	8
Cleveland	15
Bolivar	22
Shaw	29
Lyon	Nov. 5
Winterville	12
Friar's Point	19
Greenville	26

J. A. RANDOLPH, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Okolona	Aug. 26, 27
Tremont	Sept. 2, 3
Buena Vista	9, 10

J. B. STONE, P. E.

KOSCIUSKO DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Louisville circuit, at Rocky Hill	Aug. 26, 27
Eupora circuit, at Sapa	Sept. 2, 3
Rural Hill circuit, at Plattsburg	9, 10

Will the preacher in charge please see that the general rules are read, and that church register and the records of Church Conferences are presented for examination?

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, P. E.

WINONA DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Winona circuit	Aug. 26, 27
Vaiden circuit	Sept. 2, 3
Leherton	9, 10

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

COLUMBUS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Mashulaville	Aug. 26, 27
Shuqualak (Wed.)	30
Macon	Sept. 2, 3

T. C. WIER, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Crowley	Sept. 2, 3
Lafayette and Rayne, at R.	9, 10
Opelousas, at O.	16, 17
Washington, at W.	17, 18
New Iberia	30, Oct. 1
Abbeville, at P. G.	7, 8
Franklin and Jeanerette	14, 15
Indian Bayou	21, 22
Plaquemine Brule	28, 29
Patterson and Morgan City	Nov. 4, 5
Lake Charles—B. Street	11, 12
Jackson Street and W. Lake	12, 13
Grand Chenier	18, 19
Sulphur Mine	25, 26
Lake Arthur	Dec. 2, 3

JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Gross Tete, at Rosedale	Aug. 27
Dryades (morn.)	Sept. 3
Crapo (eve.)	3
Plaq. and Donaldson, at Vacherie	10
Lower Coast, at Port Eads	17

O. W. CARTER, P. E.

ARCADIA DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Vernon at Wesley Chapel	Aug. 26, 27
Gainsville	Sept. 2, 3
Vienna, at Pine Grove	9
Ruston station	10, 11

J. L. P. SHEPPARD, P. E.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Many, at Negreet	Aug. 25, 26
Fort Jessup, at Rocky Mount	27, 28

ROBT. J. HARP, P. E.
Address: 829 Hope St., Shreveport.

DELHI DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Floyd, at Oak Grove	Aug. 26, 27
Lake Providence	Sept. 2, 3
Waterproof	9, 10

H. O. WHITE, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Chicot, at Elm Bayou	Aug. 26, 27
Wellville, at Big Cane	Sept. 2, 3
Simsport	9, 10

S. J. DAVIES, P. E.

To Money-Making Clergymen

We offer profitable employment and outdoor life.

THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL commands the best work of the most eminent living writers—Howells, Stockton, Burnett, and presents the most costly and elegant periodical ever issued for ladies and the family. Circulation 700,000 copies. It ought to be a million, and to get it we will pay you well to help us. Write for full particulars.

THE CURTIS PUBLISHING CO.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Opelousas Female Institute.

Opelousas, St. Landry Ph., La.

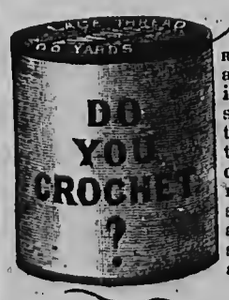
A practical, non-sectarian institution, founded in 1871. Discipline firm, but kind, and based on sound principles. Honor and self-respect promoted. Thorough training and culture. Curriculum revised, and prepares for university or practical life. Diplomas are conferred. Buildings are comfortable and commodious. Unrivalled health record.

Twenty-third session begins Sept. 11, 1893.

For Catalogue and further particulars apply to the Principal or Vice-Principal.

J. F. ARMENTROUT, B.A. (Univ. of Va.), Principal.
MRS. M. M. HAYES Vice-Principal.
MISS LEOLA B WHITE, First Assistant

GLASGO TWILLED LACE THREAD



A thread which all lovers of fancy work—FOR—appreciate at once. The twilly appearance, which is peculiar to itself, makes it superior to any other thread for every soft of fancy work, from bed spreads to tatting and point lace. It is also equal to the very best threads made in the country for all sewing purposes, whether by hand or machine. Ask your dealer for it, or send 10c. for sample spool, 500 yards. Illustrated Crochet Books, Nos. 1, 2, and 3, 10c. each. 12 nice tidy patterns, 5c. each. 12 bed spread patterns, 5c. each. All postpaid. Either of above books sent free with an order for 12 patterns.

Crocheting, Knitting, Tatting.

GLASGO LACE THREAD CO., Glasgo, Conn.

WALL & MOONEY'S SCHOOL,

FRANKLIN, TENNESSEE.

S. V. WALL. W. D. MOONEY, A. M.

Fits Boys for College or Business.

Our Students Enter Vanderbilt on Certificate, Without Examination. Positive Engagement Necessary to Secure Admission.

Fall term will open August 29, 1893.

Address W. D. MOONEY, Secretary.

Camp Meeting Calendar.

Camp Meet'g.	Begins.
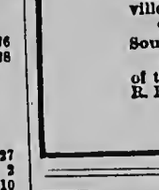
Henington	Aug. 24
Longtown	Aug. 25
Lake	Aug. 25
Water Valley	Aug. 25
Leaf River	Aug. 30
Mt. Zion	Sept. 21
St. Tammany	Sept. 22
Palmer	Sept. 30
Salem	Oct. 5

HOW BABIES SUFFER

When their tender Skins are literally ON FIRE with Itching and Burning Eczemas and other Itching, Scaly, and Blotchy Skin and Scalp Diseases, with Loss of Hair, none but mothers realize. To know that a single application of the

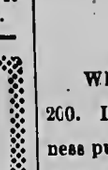


CUTICURA

Remedies will afford immediate relief, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy and economical cure, and not to use them, is to fail in your duty. Parents, save your children years of needless suffering from torturing and disfiguring eruptions. CUTICURA REMEDIES are the greatest skin cures, blood purifiers, and humor remedies of modern times. Sold everywhere. POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CORPORATION, Boston.

"How to Cure Skin Diseases" mailed free.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp purified and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP. Absolutely pure.



PAINS AND WEAKNESSES Relieved in one minute by that new, elegant, and infallible Antidote to Pain, Inflammation, and Weakness, the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. 25 cents.

LAGRANGE FEMALE COLLEGE

LAGRANGE, GEORGIA.

Course—Literature, Music, Art, Normal course in each. Music and art first-class.

Location—Elevated, healthful, retired.

Advantages—Uniform, gymnasium, baths, electric lights. Pupils board with faculty. Industries, harmony, Sight-singing taught.

49 Session will begin Sept. 20, 1893.

EDLER B. SMITH, SEC. RUFUS W. SMITH, PRES.

UNIVERSITY SCHOOL,

Petersburg, Va.

The twenty-ninth annual session of this school for boys begins MONDAY, October 2nd. Thorough preparation for University of Virginia, Yale, Harvard, United States military and naval academies, and all the best technical schools. Full staff. For catalogue, address W. Gordon McCabe, Head Master.

LAW SCHOOL

WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY,
LEXINGTON, VIRGINIA.

Opens Sept. 14. For catalogue address
JOHN RANDOLPH TUCKER, Dean.

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA.

Session begins 15th Sept. Full equipment of corps of instructors in Academical, Engineering, Law and Medical Departments. Excellent Climate, New Gymnasium, with baths free to all students. For catalogues address

WM. M. THORNTON, LL.D., Chairman.

FIVE DOLLAR REDUCTION IN WORLD'S FAIR RATES

BY THE Queen & Crescent ROUTE

Beginning July 23rd, in addition to the regular World's Fair Excursion rates, the Queen & Crescent will sell first class excursion tickets, good fifteen days from date of sale for return, at $5.00 less than the regular World's Fair rate. These tickets are via either Cincinnati or via Louisville, going and returning same route.

Through Cars to Chicago. Quick Time. Finest Trains in the South. Be sure to take the Queen & Crescent Route.

For rates, schedules, sleeping car reservations, etc., call on any agent of the E. T. V. & G. R'y, Queen & Crescent Route or Louisville Southern R. R., or D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. A., - Cincinnati, O.

Waynesboro Collegiate Institute,

WAYNESBORO, MISS.

On M. and O. R. R., 53 Miles South of Meridian,

Will begin its second session Sept. 11th, 1893. Enrollment last session over 200. It prepares boys and girls for college, or fits them for the practical business pursuits of life. Our curriculum is not extensive. We aim at thoroughness. Board and tuition reasonable. Send for catalogue.

REV. W. W. MOORE, A. M., Principal.

WESLEYAN FEMALE INSTITUTE

Opens Sept. 6th, 1893.

STAUNTON, VIRGINIA. Climate and surroundings exceptional. Handsome buildings, now being remodeled, thoroughly renovated, repainted inside and outside, and refurnished with new pianos, carpets, &c. Steam heat, gas lights, bath rooms on every floor. New Laboratory thoroughly equipped. Excellent Faculty of Experienced Teachers. Advanced courses in English, Latin, German, French, &c. Special advantages in Art. Conservatory Course in Music. One hundred and forty-one boarding pupils from eighteen States. Terms moderate. For Catalogues of this celebrated old Virginia school, address

W. W. ROBERTSON, President, Staunton, Virginia.

Alabama Conference Female College.

Organized in 1856. Average annual patronage for four years past, over 200. Twenty-two professional Officers, Teachers and Lecturers. Fine Literary Curriculum extending through four years. Music taught on Conservatory methods by three able and brilliant Musicians. Art taught by a celebrated teacher of four years' European study. Scientific and Literary lectures by the Professors of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Location high; health record phenomenal; not a case of serious sickness during the past year.

For catalogue containing full statement address JOHN MASSEY, President, Tuskegee, Ala.

Classical and Commercial Institute,

7 PRYTANIA STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Regular session begins Sept. 4th. Students admitted at any time. Full Classical and Literary Courses. Commercial Sciences taught practically. Normal Penmanship. Shorthand and Type-writing, standard systems. Day and night classes. Ladies admitted to Commercial Department. Boarding Department under supervision of Principal. Write for circular.

Endorsed by the editor of the ADVOCATE and W. H. LaPrade, D. D., pastor of Carondelet Street Church.

G. W. HARMAN, Prin. Com. Dep't.
H. S. CHENET, A. M., Principal.
LYMAN C. REED, A. M., Assistant.

Spencerian Penmanship

With BOOK-KEEPING, COMMERCIAL LAW, SHORTHAND and TYPE-WRITING Thoroughly Taught in the

Commercial Department, Classical and Commercial Institute, 7 PRYTANIA ST., NEW ORLEANS.

G. W. HARMAN, Principal.

Entire expenses for three months' Course, $90, including board, tuition, etc. Ladies received in this department.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 40.—NO. 35. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, AUGUST 31, 1893. WHOLE NO. 1932.

Rev. J. M. BEARD, D. D., Editor and Publisher. } PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA CONFERENCE, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH. { ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

THE YEARS.

They are slipping away, these sweet, swift years,
Like a leaf on the current cast;
With never a break in the rapid flow,
We watch them, as one by one they go
In the beautiful past.

One after another we see them pass
Down the dim-lighted stair;
We hear the sound of their heavy tread
In the steps of the centuries long since dead,
As beautiful and fair.

There are only a few years left to love;
Shall we waste them in idle strife?
Shall we trample under our ruthless feet
Those beautiful blossoms, rare and sweet,
By the dusky way of life?

There are only a few swift years—ah! let
No envious taunts be heard;
Make life's fair pattern of rare design,
And fill up the measure with love's sweet wine,
But never an angry word.

—Exchange.

Why Not Silver!

BY BISHOP KEENER.

Before the flood silver seems not to have been used. It is more than probable that metal-bearing rocks had to be subjected to the action of those world-changing currents of electricity which, at the flood, brought all metals into veins, before silver could be successfully mined. But directly after we find silver current as money, in the scales of the merchant, being weighed as the price and standard of values. The first transaction recorded was that in the twenty-third chapter of Genesis, in which is detailed minutely the purchase of "the possession of a burying-place," bought by Abraham of the sons of Heth. The Cave of Machpelah, "the field and the cave which was therein, and all the trees that were in the field, that were in all the borders round about, were made sure unto Abraham" for "four hundred shekels of silver, current money with the merchant." Joseph was sold for "twenty pieces of silver," and centuries after another memorable burial-place was bought with the "thirty pieces of silver" which Judas cast down in the temple—the "field of blood." Nor from the beginning of post-diluvian times has there been an hour until now in which this use of purchase and sale has not been the chief recognized quality of silver.

The supply of gold and silver has kept pace with the wants of society, increasing with the needs of the race as it multiplied, and in almost parallel lines of value. The wisdom which has established a law between the current of a river and the shape of its banks, so as to make it useful for navigation, evidently has ordered the bidings of these precious metals, so that they may be had only in proportion to man's economical demands. The director of the United States Mint has recently estimated the total amount of gold and silver coin in the world, taking the twenty-five chief nations as the basis. It sums up in value $3 632,935,000 of gold, and $3 968,700,000 of silver. In France there are 800 millions of gold and 700 millions of silver; in Spain 100 millions of gold and 125 millions of silver; in the United States 654 millions of gold and 575 millions of silver. In Great Britain, Germany, Portugal and Russia gold is current in much larger quantities than silver. It must be noticed that gold is eminently war material, being easily handled in times of disturbance, so that accumulation of gold in Europe is, doubtless, part of its bristling military footing.

The convenience of a standard of value, universally accepted, imperishable, easily estimated, not too precious, as that of diamonds would be, or too base, as that of copper or cowries, can not be overestimated. Without it there could be, and would be, little intercourse between nations. It was observed by Mr. Hume, of England, that prosperity always increased with the increase of money. The currency regulates business as well as increases it. The contraction of it is hazardous to all commercial life in the same degree.

It was estimated by a conference of French bankers, in 1883, that in the previous forty years, trade throughout the world had quadrupled. According to Mulhall, the increase has been six-fold. The rapid outburst and remarkable development of the world of industry, of science, of commerce, of discovery, and of every form of wealth-producing vigor since the arrival of the Great Western in New York, the first successful sea-steamer, must have impressed the minds of all who have lived long enough to compare the period before and after.

The steam engine, in its full power and perfection, whether placed on sea-going vessels or on the iron highways which lace the continents, or in deep mines, or in factories of intricate machinery, and variety of manufacture, has been a source of enormous wealth. It has forced the day laborer to quicken both hand and eye in keeping pace with its tireless sinews. It has driven sleep from the night-time, and sent the echoes of its impatient force into all the avenues of human toil. The telegraph leaves far behind the lagging movement of the earth, and brings the East and the West together as the single respiration of a world. The electric motor and light have opened boundless opportunities for appliance to all the wants of man, and already increased the wealth of human activity and intellect a hundredfold. Great continents have been pierced, and their secret sources of rivers, and vast populations, ready for sale or purchase of hitherto unknown material of wealth, or of useful fabric, have been opened to the enterprise of the civilized nations of Europe, Asia, and America. The canalizing the Isthmus of Suez has opened India to the Mediterranean. The railway mileage has increased myriad-fold—in fact, has only existed within the limit of fifty years. "The cost of land carriage," says Mulhall, "was $15 a ton per 100 miles; but now it has been reduced to $2.50—a saving upon every ton of $17.50." The capital expended upon the construction and equipment of the world's railways amounts to a fabulous sum.

There are many other fields of active employment which have been opened to human genius and labor, too many to mention in this article, within the memory of most readers; all which demand a corresponding increase in facility of exchange—that is, an enlarged volume of currency. To narrow the amount of money with this increased activity and demand for its use, would be legislative madness, and nothing short of it. In India there are current twenty-two hundred millions of silver rupees (say of half a dollar value). "If the value of this Indian rupee rise or fall to the extent of a penny, it would vitiate the calculations of merchants to about six per cent."

The exact relation between the volume of currency and the values of commerce can scarcely be estimated. The sensitiveness of the currency when disturbed affects all values as an electric shock. There are many values, but one standard—that is, gold and silver. Notes at sight issued by the banks, or bonds by the government, are reckoned by the metal that they are believed to represent, dollar for dollar. So long as the gold and silver are in sight, or just out of sight, many bills of exchange, checks, certified or other, are used as money, and in some respects are more convenient than money. Upon this confidence vast sums are daily exchanged, though not the ring of a dollar may be heard.

All "national banks" are trusted to the extent they are believed to be secured by values in the hands of the government, which guarantee their solvency, so that all uneasiness and want of confidence runs directly back from the banks to the treasury of the United States. If it exists at all, it exists there. There is the true source and strength of all money current throughout the country.

In the House of Commons, Mr. Chaplin, in speaking of the recent closing of the mints to free coinage by the government of India, said: "It was full of danger to the commercial interests of the world. The government of India had escaped a deficit by tampering with the currency and artificially raising the value of the rupee. The effect of this action has been to lower the pro tanto value of everything else. The closing the Indian mints to the free coinage of silver had led to such a fall in the value of that metal as the world had never known before. By a single stroke the government had depreciated by fifteen per cent. the value of the silver held by the population of India. A more flagrant act of public plunder had never been perpetrated by a civilized government. The result had been a convulsed financial situation from China to Peru." Mr. Balfour added, "that the indifference of the government as to what happened to silver appeared to him to be something approaching lunacy."

We quote these passages to enforce the truth that a disturbance of the volume of money in a country is, of all disasters, the most far-reaching in its mischief. The coining, or the annual purchase, of forty-five millions of silver is no more than the expenditure of forty millions for rivers and harbors, or thirty millions for ships of war, or millions upon millions for general purposes, and can have nothing to do with the drawing of gold out of the country. As soon could the fish in the gulf stream change its course by swimming in its current. The Sherman act may do for a scapegoat to stand at the door of Congress; but the plain and continuous policy of the government which has come to light, when notes calling for "coin" are cashed only with gold, "at the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury," instead of with silver, though the treasury be depleted of gold, it looks as if there was a quasi-sympathy with the purpose to reduce all currency to gold. It is this that has so widely unsettled public credit. Whether a serious attempt to discourage one-half the currency of the country—that is, 700 millions of silver—and to employ only the 800 millions of gold—equal to the reducing 1500 millions of currency to 800 millions—is a just ground for alarm, can find its answer in the present revulsion of credit, in the stoppage of mills, in the thousands of laborers now out of employment in Ohio, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, California, Tennessee, Kentucky, Alabama, the New England States, and in the financial centres of our republic.

I venture to quote from the President's message to Congress these words: "At this stage gold and silver must part company, and the government must fall in its established policy to maintain the two metals on a parity with each other. Given once to the exclusive use of a currency greatly depreciated, according to the standard of the commercial world, we could no longer claim a place among nations of the first-class, nor could our government claim a performance of its obligation, so far as such an obligation has been imposed upon it, to provide for the use of the people the best and safest money."

This sentence looks certainly to the placing this country alongside of England in making gold, and gold alone, the standard of values, no matter what goes before the sentence, or what comes after. And I place alongside of it a quotation from one of the English reviews of 1886 (the Edinburgh), pages 35 and 36: "'Man hath sought out many inventions,' it was said of old; but surely a rasher act of deliberate legislation is hard to find than that by which some of the leading governments of the world have demonetized silver, which forms about one-half of the entire metallic circulation of the globe; . . . and in not a few thoughtful and philosophic minds the apprehension grimly arises as to whether, and how far, these contagious legislative mistakes are not hastening a crisis in which our modern, or European, system of civilization will have to pass through a supreme ordeal, the very thought of which is appalling." That this was written seven years ago does not lessen its force, now that the "ordeal" is upon us.

What is needed is the full and free coinage of silver, not the stamping of more paper, which is often but the ghost of silver. This will give confidence West, South, and Northwest. Why not, as in France, stamp every ounce of silver brought to the government mint, charging only the cost of coinage? Providence, as heretofore for four thousand years, will maintain the proper and equal proportion between these two precious metals; that too much shall not be yielded the miner, nor too little for commerce, save by the folly of human legislation.

This auri sacra fames of Eastern merchants may at last prove to be a cave larger than that of Machpelah, into which this Congress will descend, and be heard of no more.

Two Thousand Dollars.

Mrs. Peter James gives us $1,300, conditioned upon a speedy completion of the endowment fund.

A faithful revision of our books reveals the fact that it will take, in addition to this gift, just $2,000. It is exceedingly desirable that this amount be in our treasury by Oct. 1. Some generous souls might move to our relief. Here is your opportunity. We rely upon collecting the notes already due. Brother, pay up. Bro. Watkins, your agent, would have completed the endowment by Dec. 1, 1892, had not so many supposed that their richer neighbors would pay so much that their small offerings would not be missed. Remember this is a college largely endowed by the poor, and certainly endowed for the benefit of the poor. Without the payment of your $1, or $2.50, or $5, it is probable the endowment will remain incomplete for another year. A personal appeal is being sent to every debtor. Answer these appeals with the cash, and answer speedily.

Every mail carries a batch of catalogues to fathers, mothers, guardians, or the young men themselves. Never did a college have a brighter prospect. The one great trouble which confronts us is the completion of the endowment. A payment of $2,000 gives us an annual income on $100,000, instead of an income on $71,000. It will increase the income, at least, $1,800 yearly.

Now, let there be no dallying. It is our institution. Its success is our success. No man has yet been found who could offer serious objection to our faculty. Bright, vigorous, pious, it commends itself both to the trustees and the public. Give us your patronage; give us your money. Keep before you the needs of Millsaps College.

We would like to dispose of 500 pictures of the college at $1 each.

The friends of Dr. W. H. Watkins are making arrangements to complete the scholarship named in his honor. The same is true of the Clara Chrisman scholarship. Beginning Oct. 1, we will make an effort to complete the children's scholarship.

JOHN W. CHAMBERS, Agent.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 17, 1893.

Let Us Be Reasonable.

Be it known to all who may inquire, that there is not a minister of the Methodist Church, South, who does not believe in holiness and sanctification as taught in the Word of God. We differ as to the theory of sanctification, and as to the difference between entire regeneration and sanctification, or whether there is a difference that can be defined in Bible terms. Experience is not reliable when not in harmony with revealed truth. As John Wesley is quoted as authority, let us quote him rightly.

In a letter to Miss Cooke, Sept. 24, 1785, he writes: "And how soon may you be made a partaker of sanctification! And not only by a slow and insensible growth in grace, but by the power of the Highest overshadowing you—in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, so as utterly to abolish sin and to renew you in his whole image." (Vol. VII., page 199.)

Likewise in his letter to Lady Maxwell, July 5, 1765, he writes: "It may please Him to give you the consciousness of His favor, and a conviction that you are accepted through the Beloved, by almost insensible degrees, like the dawning of the day. And it is all one, how it began, so you do but walk in the light. Be this given in an instant, or by degrees, hold it fast." (Vol. VII., page 19.)

It is a great relief to know that John Wesley did not confine the process to one method. He admits that God has his own way with each individual. Some he carries quickly into the light; others he leads along through a steady, insensible growth in grace, to the higher life. Some of us who have grown in grace, upon whom the light has broken "like the dawning of the day," rejoice with those upon whom the light has suddenly burst. "It is all one," whether by a sudden leap we reach "the highest branch of the cedar," or steadily climb to the top. Let us "hold fast."

A. D. McVOY.

Mansfield, La., Aug. 21, 1893.

At Cypress.

On Friday, Aug. 11, we took the early morning train of the Texas and Pacific railroad, and reached Stonewall between nine and ten o'clock that night. Not being able to procure conveyance to the camp ground before morning, we procured a lodging-place, and were soon fast asleep. Awakened betimes, after breakfast we took our seats in a wagon bound for the camp, and had most delightful companionship on the trip in Rev. T. K. Faunt LeRoy and his charming young daughter, Miss Gussie. Arrived, we found that ever young and vigorous itinerant, Rev. Lewis A. Reed, preaching with his accustomed warmth and spiritual power. After service we were heartily received by the brethren and made to feel ourselves at home. Talk about kinship—why, there is no class of men that can get closer together than a lot of Methodist preachers at a camp meeting.

Morning prayers were held at six o'clock—an early hour for us; still we managed to get there. There were four services a day up to Wednesday night, when the meeting closed at full tide of spiritual power. There was an audience in attendance on Sunday that more than filled the spacious tabernacle; and though the eleven o'clock service, with a collection before and the communion after the sermon, lasted several hours and more, the people were patient and interested to the last. There were several pentecostal seasons, and especially on the last night did the divine power descend, and many and mighty were the works of the Spirit, and amid shoutings and hallelujahs, and close on to midnight, this glorious meeting ended with a genuine Methodist handshaking and the benediction. This scribe was glad to be for a season on the sacred ground where, eleven years before, he had enjoyed a gracious meeting, and to find our local preacher of that neighborhood, the Rev. John Nelson, still abundant in good works and full of the Spirit. We do not know how many were born again, nor how many were reclaimed from a backslidden state; and, indeed, we do not know that Bro. Randle, the pastor in charge, or anyone else, kept the count. However, much good was accomplished in that very many were made "new creatures in Christ Jesus," many quickened into higher and more consecrated living, and many were healed of their backslidings. The preachers we saw there were Revs. R. Randle, R. J. Harp, Lewis A. Reed, A. F. Jackson, W. F. Henderson, A. D. McVoy, T. K. Faunt LeRoy, J. B. Cassity, John Nelson, Wm. Schuhle, and B. T. Crews, the latter having come to us from the Arkansas Conference, and being in charge of Red River circuit. We trust Bro. Crews may make up his mind to stay in Louisiana, as there is room for such men as he. His preaching was in power and demonstration of the Spirit, which may be as truly said of all who preached at Cypress.

Thursday morning, accepting Bro. Randle's kind invitation, we went with him to Keithsville, and there boarded the early train of the Shreveport and Houston railroad, and, alighting at Keachi, we were presently in his hospitable home. We greatly enjoyed our stay and rest in that parsonage, and in the Christian companionship of Bro. and Sister Randle. They have been blessed in the regeneration at the camp meeting of their son Robert.

JOHN T. SAWYER.

August 21, 1893.

Missionary Debt—Mississippi Conference.

BRANDON DISTRICT.

Neshoba circuit, J. H. Foreman, P. C.....$3
(With more to follow later on.)

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

Pearl Hall (a little girl).....26 cents

God bless the precious little girl, and some day call her to go as a missionary to the heathen!

These items have been received since my appeal was written. I have also received a very cheerful letter from Bro. J. M. Morse, solicitor for the Brandon district, and the probabilities now are that that district will come out ahead of the Brookhaven district.

T. L. MELLEN,
Sol. for Miss. Conf.

Rev. Arthur D. McVoy.

My son, Rev. Arthur D. McVoy, died at five A. M., on fifteenth instant, after an illness of seven months. His death was so peaceful that he knew no death. God was with him all through his illness, and his communion with the Spirit was his comfort in suffering. His faith was strong and his peace was great. Our sorrow is deep, but our hope is bright. Though the loss is so great it can not be measured, God has given submissive grace to bear it.

A. D. McVOY.

Mansfield, La.

The ADVOCATE to single subscribers from this date to Jan. 1, 1894, for 50 cents.

FROM THE WORK.

Rev. Samuel S. Bugan, P. C., Cane River circuit, Louisiana Conference. Aug. 12: "We closed our meeting at Marvin's Chapel last night, after one week's preaching. The church was greatly revived, and five came in by letter. The congregations were good throughout, and there were a goodly number who testified that the Lord had greatly blessed them during the meeting. Bros. Gaskins and Murphy did most of the preaching. Our next meeting will be at Provencal, La. We are trying to get our new church ready for use by then, the fourth Sunday in this month. Brethren, pray for us. 'In God we trust,' and to him be all the praise, for he is able to bless our labors and crown them with success."

Rev. J. C. Ellis, P. C., Laurel Hill, Miss., Aug. 6: "Suppose we have something of note to report from the Walnut Grove charge. Our protracted meeting at Beech Springs was said by several to have been the best there in six years. The church here had been on the decline for several years, and the worst conduct in the whole country—indeed, uncommonly bad; but at this meeting to the reverse. All that did and could attend were, no doubt, greatly revived. Many shouts and hallelujahs went up to God, some of them being new-born souls; besides, a successful love-feast, being assisted there by Rev. John R. Hayes (L. P.), and Bro. John A. Vance preached one sermon. At White Plains, in connection with the Quarterly Conference, we protracted a few days. Our presiding elder preached us two satisfactory sermons. Assisted there by some of my local preachers, and Bro. Green, of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, preached once. Our meeting here was not what we desired; however, we had a very successful meeting. Several joined the church; besides, we baptized four children, and to-day we received two members from the North Mississippi Conference—Bro. Marble (L. P.) and wife—by letter. I believe this makes me eight local preachers and one supernumerary. Brethren, allow me to say that we have some good people; but, oh! the few that are loyal to our church. It is alarming to think of the 'isms, schisms,' and 'opinions' that have been used or practiced as theory or discipline. Such a thing of, at least, Quarterly Church Conferences can not be found on record. By patience have been able to hold our second Church Conferences, except at one church, of which we hope to get them on the grab soon."

REVIVAL NOTES FROM THE MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

DeKalb circuit, New Hope Church, R. A. Breland, P. C.: 9 accessions, and as many, or more, conversions; backsliders reclaimed, etc.

Binnsville circuit, Chapman Church, N. M. Clark, P. C.: 10 conversions and 2 accessions, and many sought and obtained the witness of the Spirit.

Daleville circuit, Soule Chapel, D. G. W. Ellis, P. C., assisted by the presiding elder: 2 accessions, a number of conversions, and a deep work of grace wrought in the church.

Linwood circuit, Linwood Church, H. W. Van Hook, P. C.: Many conversions, 13 accessions, and much good otherwise done. Bro. Van Hook was assisted by Bro. W. W. Cammack and the presiding elder.

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

GRENADA DISTRICT CONFERENCE.

The twenty-fourth session of the Grenada District Conference, North Mississippi Conference, M. E. Church, South, convened at Coffeeville, Miss., June 29, 1893; Rev. R. A. Burroughs, P. E., in the chair, who presided with dignity, ease and satisfaction to all concerned. The attendance at the beginning was small, but before the close there was a good representation of both clerical and lay members. Rev. J. W. Chambers, agent for Millsaps College, was there looking after its interest. Rev. G. W. Bachman, our Conference colporter, was with us in full force in his work for the church. The preaching, praying, singing and speeches were good. The reports given in by the preachers, and read by the committee before the Conference, set forth the fact that Methodism is marching on in the front of the battle for Christ and his kingdom. All the interests of our Zion are being looked after by the watchmen. The ship is out on the ocean bound for the happy shore. The Conference was kindly entertained by the good people of Coffeeville. The next session goes to Abbeville, Miss. R. W. Jones, L. Lake, J. L. Collins and J. J. Hemphill were elected delegates to the next Annual Conference. J. W. LUTER, Sec.

Minter City, Miss.

THE CAPTAIN'S DAUGHTER.

BY JAMES T. FIELDS.

We were crowded in the cabin,
Not a soul would dare to sleep;
It was midnight on the waters,
And a storm was on the deep.

'Tis a fearful thing in Winter
To be shattered by the blast,
And to hear the rattling trumpet
Thunder, "Cut away the mast!"

So we shuddered there in silence;
For the stoutest held his breath,
While the hungry sea was roaring,
And the breakers talked with death.

As thus we sat in darkness,
Each one busy with his prayers,
"We are lost!" the captain shouted,
As he staggered down the stairs.

But his little daughter whispered,
As she took his icy hand,
"Isn't God upon the ocean
Just the same as on the land?"

Then we kissed the little maiden,
And we spoke in better cheer,
And we anchored safe in harbor
When the morn was shining clear.

In Memoriam.

Benjamin Jones was born in Campbell county, Va., Dec. 15 1809, and died at Long Beach, Miss., June 20, 1893. Of his parentage and early life very little is known except that his father's name was John and his mother's Magdalen, and that they were both Christians and members of the Methodist Church. In his seventh year the family moved to Kentucky, and in in his twenty-first Benjamin came to Mississippi, locating at Natchez, where he engaged in business as a builder.

The circumstances of his conversion and call to the ministry are not before the writer. That both were clear, distinct and satisfactory no one who knew the man could doubt. It was characteristic of him to settle matters of duty deliberately, prayerfully, but once for all. Thus, doubtless, he dealt with those grave questions whose determination led to his choice of a life-work. In 1835, in the class with Elijah Steele and William H. Watkins, he was received on trial into the Mississippi Conference, which then embraced also the territory of the State of Louisiana. His first pastoral charge was Alexandria. In the following year the General Conference transferred all of Louisiana, except the Florida parishes, to the Arkansas Conference, and thus the name of Benjamin Jones, who was returned to the same charge, does not appear in the Mississippi Conference Minutes until the re-cession of the territory mentioned by act of the General Conference of 1840. In the meantime he had been ordained deacon at Little Rock, in 1837, and admitted to elder's orders and ordained at Opelousas, La., in 1839. His service in Louisiana, though a hard one, operated only to prove his loyalty to the Master and to confirm that rare combination of self-reliance and faith in God which was one of his most prominent characteristics. In that ungrateful soil it was his privilege, while sowing with his own hand the seed of the kingdom, to water also that which had been planted in the then recent heroic days by Winans, Drake and Clinton.

If every reader of this sketch were well acquainted with the movement of Methodism in Mississippi and Louisiana during the last half-century, the ADVOCATE might well spare the space for a complete list of Bro. Jones' appointments in the fifty-six years over which his active ministerial life extended. A few only need be mentioned to show the variety and extent of the service which he rendered to the church.

At the Conference of 1849 he was appointed to Woodville station, in 1841 to Wilkinson circuit, and in 1842 and '43 to Centenary College and Brandon. To this latter work and its associations was due, in some measure, his ardent interest in education and his prominent connection with the work of the church in that field. During his pastorate here a wonderful revival swept the college, and made upon the community an impression which abides to this day. In a letter to the presiding elder, Bro. Drake, at the end of his first year, Prof. W. H. N. Magruder, of the college faculty, writes as follows: "The subject that fills my mind most at this time is the return of Bro. Jones to this place. His talents command the respect, and his deportment as a minister and friend is such as to secure the affection of the young men. They are all anxious to have him returned."

Among the Mississippi delegates to the eventful General Conference of 1844 the name of B. Jones appears as alternate. While in attendance upon this great convention he was married, on June 11, to Miss R. A. W., daughter of Rev. Herman Bangs, pastor of Forsythe Street Church, in New York City. To this union were born two sons—Steven and Nathaniel—both successful and pious men, the former a merchant in Baton Rouge and the other a lawyer in Chicago.

Upon the removal of Centenary College to Jackson, La., Bro. Jones was made its agent, having spent the two previous years in charge of Natchez station. His work in 1847 and '48 was Feliciana circuit, in former of which years he established in Jackson the Feliciana Female Seminary, an institution which, under his prudent management and the tutelage of his gifted wife, had a large success, having among its graduates some of the first women of Mississippi and Louisiana. Yielding to a conviction that it was not in accordance with the spirit of the Discipline for itinerant preachers to engage in private business of any kind, he located in 1851, but continued to preach regularly in the churches about Jackson, Clinton and Bayou Sara.

In 1856 he took charge of Port Gibson Collegiate Academy, and, being re-admitted into the Conference, was appointed to Port Gibson, Grand Gulf and Colored Mission. Subsequently, while connected with the Academy, he served various charges in the surrounding country. From 1861 to '65, the school having suspended on account of the war, he was presiding elder of Fayette district; the latter year, while on the Brookhaven district, he was elected to the General Conference of 1866. While he was pastor of Wesson and Beauregard charge in 1868, Mrs. Jones died after a long illness, leaving upon her many former pupils and a large circle of acquaintances the impress of a rarely cultured and consecrated life.

In 1869 he was again called to the presidency of Port Gibson Collegiate Academy, and in February of the following year was married to Mrs. M. A. Redding, whose daughter, Alice, is the wife of Rev. Q. A. Oates, of the Los Angeles Conference. With her he lived happily until her death at Woodville, Miss., in 1880. In 1871 he resigned his position in the Academy and returned to the pastorate, being appointed to Summit and Magnolia. From this time, though indirectly connected for a year or two with Woodville Female Seminary, he gave himself to pastoral work.

In 1881 he was married to Mrs. Rebecca Wylie, daughter of E. H. Walles, Esq., of Woodville, who survives him. Bro. Jones' last pastoral charge was Clinton, La., from which at the end of his second year he came to the Conference of 1891 and was superannuated at his own request. With characteristic forethought, he had arranged to open a school for boys and girls at Long Beach, on the Gulf coast, and to this work he devoted himself for the next eighteen months with all the energy of his entire manhood. Being unable to attend the Conference session of 1892, he wrote to his brethren an affectionate letter, full of gratitude to God for his abiding grace, and closing in his own quaint way, "Permit me to say, brethren, Glory to God."

The last days of Bro. Jones' life were calm and peaceful. The Sunday before his last on earth, though quite unwell, he went as usual to the house of God. A large congregation was present expecting service by the pastor; but, as he was unable to preach, Bro. Jones, at his request, went into the pulpit and for half an hour spoke out of a full heart in his clear, practical way on the Golden Text of the morning's Sunday-school lesson: "Not slothful in business, fervent in spirit, serving the Lord." It was a congenial topic, and the words spoken were with the power and unction of the Spirit. The congregation were gravely attentive, softened and subdued in the presence of one who had daily lived before them the higher Christian life he was portraying. For several days following he worked in the garden, as was his custom, and helped about the house, but toward the end of the week his illness assumed a form which made necessary a painful and dangerous operation. From this, owing to his unwonted vigor and strictly temperate habit, he rallied, but fever setting in, he gradually grew worse, and died at mid-day of June 20.

When told by the physician that the end was near, he said calmly, "I do not feel like a dying man; I am not afraid to die, but can not believe my work is done." He had long prayed that he might have a quiet death, and those who gathered about his bedside felt that the prayer was answered. To die was all he had to do. To his wife, and to his son, Steven, who had come in answer to a telegram, he gave a few directions as to his burial, dictated a letter to his younger son in Chicago, and one to Dr. Thornton concerning his superannuate's portion, and tried to send a message to his brethren, but his strength failing, he straitened himself in bed and waited for the summons.

In the evening of the last day a neighbor sang for him a favorite hymn, "Amazing grace, how sweet the sound." At the last verse he raised his hands and feebly tried to shout. A little while after as he lay looking upward, the gates of heaven seemed to be thrown wide open,

> . . . "And from a happy place
> God's glory smote him on the face."

When one of the watchers in awed tones exclaimed, "How beautiful!" he answered faintly, "Shining, shining." Again they sang a song of Christian triumph,

> "Thy saints in all this glorious war > Shall conquer, though they die."

and again the light flooded his countenance, and God's presence filled the room. Thus conscious to the last, with heaven all about him, he fell asleep in Jesus, and was laid to rest at the cemetery at Woodville.

The barest outline of a life so long and so eminently useful as that of Bro. Jones touches the limit of the ordinary obituary; but a few words may be added as showing more particularly his character and the estimation in which he was held by more than one generation of good men.

Writing of him in his earlier life, Prof. Magruder says: "I first met Bro. Jones at my brother-in-law's, Dr. Drake's, in 1836, and was greatly impressed with the earnestness of his convictions and the courage of his purpose to master the assigned course of study and to make of himself what he became, a true, faithful and efficient worker in the Lord's vineyard. . . . You ask my estimate of the man and the minister. I have never risen spiritually to the measure of Bro. Jones' Christian life, and could not adequately express my own estimate of his character. I never knew a purer man, nor a character more equable nor better poised. He possessed, and in all the relations of life exhibited, all the qualities of a true man. As husband, father, friend, he lacked not one. I always classed him among the very best preachers of our church. As a sermonizer, he was logical, spiritual, with an unaffected earnestness that was impressive without the slightest approach to fanaticism. He was remarkable for the purity of his English, and his delivery, though unpretentious, was in what I have always considered the highest style of oratory."

From an acquaintance which began nearly forty years afterward, Bishop Galloway writes:

"He had clear conceptions. What he claimed to know, he knew well. His range of thought was not as wide as that of some others, but I have known no man more accurate in knowledge, or more perspicuous in statement. His distinct, deliberate enunciation indicated the clearness of his conceptions and the firmness of his convictions of truth. On these convictions he would stand to martyrdom. He was a model of manly and ministerial dignity, agreeable as a companion, prudent as a pastor, and in every relation of life above suspicion or complaint. He was scrupulously careful as to his financial credit. He avoided debt, as he would flee from the wrath to come. There will be no claims against the estate of Benjamin Jones. Bro. Jones was a theologian. He had mastered the 'standards,' and made them his own. Though an independent thinker, he never aped originality nor posed as a reformer. Subscribing to the doctrines of Methodism, he stated them luminously, and illustrated them in his own modest, consistent, consecrated life."

Bro. Jones was a model superannuate. In this difficult relation he bore himself with sweetness and dignity. He was helpful to his pastors, visited the sick, and worked for the Master without compensation, giving no sign of weariness or complaint. In addition to teaching through the week, he preached regularly once, and often twice a day, on three Sundays in the month. Honoring the past, loyal to the "old paths," he yet trusted the church and looked with steady faith to the future.

Of his life-work, that which seems most rare and instructive is what he did for education. With but few advantages in early life, he was an honored agent in the school work of the church: he helped to lay the foundation of Centenary college; built up two flourishing schools for young women, and was largely instrumental in securing the conveyance of the original Whitworth College property to the Mississippi Conference. He was the contemporary in more than years of three generations of great and godly men, and through a long life stood abreast with every advance movement of the church.

As a man, he was eminent for personal integrity and love of truth. During the Conference of 1891 he said to Bro. Perry Drake and this writer: "If either of you should be called on to write my obituary, I want you to be sure to avoid the common error of giving undue praise. I want the truth and nothing but the truth told of me."

As a Christian, he was characterized by the satisfying fullness of his faith in God. As early as 1839, writing to his friend, B. M. Drake, he thanks him for counsel which had settled his views of the doctrine and experience of sanctification. Whatever may be thought of this higher spiritual attainment, there is no doubt that when God called Benjamin Jones into his service he called all of him, and the whole man answered, "Here am I." For more than three-score years he walked with God, as friend with friend, and then, like Enoch, "he was not, for God took him." "Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright, for the end of that man is peace."

B. S. RICKETTS.

What Must Be Done for the Advocate?

Let the universal answer be, "It must be sustained." And then let the purpose be put in action forthwith to enlarge its sphere of usefulness. As I was among the early subscribers to Doctor, afterwards Bishop, McTyeire, I feel a deep interest in the paper, and I beg leave to suggest a plan to make it a grand success.

We are reliably informed that comparatively few of the members and friends of our church take the paper! Why? Because they want a paper that gives them the news generally, not only of religious matters, but secular also, and more particularly, be it confessed. For no man need pretend that he can't pay for his church paper—that is all bosh; and it is a more dangerous thing than most people think it is, to deceive themselves while trying to deceive others, for it can hardly be that a man ever gets within $2 of starvation, and saves his body by denying his soul his church paper! If he really thinks so, he suffers under a grievous mistake. But it is a fact well known to everybody, that the whole world, with precious few exceptions, reverses the Savior's advice to "Seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness," notwithstanding he assures them that then, and therefore, "all these things shall be added unto them," such as may be needed for their well-being and happiness. And so most of the people reverse, among other things, their papers, and take a secular one first, and omit the religious, just like they seek the world first and neglect their souls. And the people within the three Conferences patronizing the NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE are not sinners above all others in that respect. But it is a fact that the paper don't receive a hundredth part of the patronage that it ought to have. But be the cause as stated above, or as it may, the question of vital importance is, What can be done? In reply, I would suggest that the church supply both needs—the spiritual and secular news. If a religious paper be one thing needful, the next thing (if not equally needful) is a first-class secular newspaper in New Orleans. That is a great desideratum for our Southland. Then let us have the two combined in one. There would be no more incompatibility in that than in a Christian man being a farmer, doctor, or lawyer, or merchant. Why not have the religious and secular news combined in one good paper? If thus combined, and properly conducted, its patronage would, doubtless, soon become widespread and immense, and its clean, healthy influence would largely counteract the filthy and demoralizing influences the present secular papers there have long been wielding upon the people. How disgusting and heart-sickening has the reading matter of most of the secular newspapers become! The most of them are absolutely unfit to be admitted into any decent family. We do need badly a chaste, well-informed, well-meaning and ably edited secular newspaper in New Orleans. Then let the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE be enlarged by the addition of a secular news' department, containing all and just such as the people at large really need, but nothing else. Such a paper could be made a powerful and successful agent in the accomplishment of much widespread good, both religious and secular. As long as we are in the world we need both. And there is plenty of talent and capital among the friends of our own church to make such an enterprise a grand success. But all good people of all churches, and the best people of the world even, would hail such a paper with delight, and gladly patronize it, instead of the vulgar and corrupting sheets which now flood the country, and afflict society and the church. As it is now, even well-meaning people in the church, and out of it, say they don't approve of the indecent and demoralizing matters that go largely to make up the reading in the secular papers; but they want the news, and they have to take the much bad to get the little good that there may be in them. And then they say further they haven't time to read another paper, and so they don't take a religious paper at all. In fact, the mammoth seculars have so much stuff in them, and, although it is worse than worthless, so much time is wasted in reading them, but little, if any, is left to read a religious paper. But that is not all, nor the worst of it. Those wicked and filthy seculars corrupt the minds and vitiate the tastes of their readers, and lessen their relish for better matter. And thus the people are demoralized and ruined, and the religious papers starve trying to reach and save them, while those huge monsters of evil, that have fattened upon corruption, still hold them in their fatal coils, and, boa-constrictor-like, crush to death all the finest feelings of their natures. Better papers ought to be furnished for the people to read. Who will do it if the church don't?

Now, these are facts so obvious and well understood that they need but be stated to be appreciated by all good and intelligent people. And let us hope that they will be acted upon without further delay, and the grandest paper in the United States be speedily built up on the foundation of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, to supply our Southern people just what they need, and ought to have, in both religious and secular news, but nothing else.

D. W. FOSTER.

Plaisance, La.

God's Agency and Man's Agency.

That the two exist, and that they work conjointly in the interest, and even the protection of those of intelligent faith in God, no one can question who admits the history and the promises of the Bible. When God gave to man the summary of all his woes in the words: "Cursed is the ground for thy sake; in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life," he no more withdrew his presence and oversight of man in his afflictive state than he eliminated the agency of man when he taught him to pray: "Give us day by day our daily bread." The two agencies are so perfectly co-operative that in the individual experience they seem so blended, it is difficult to tell where that of man ends and God's begins. But the reader of the Bible will learn from its history and its promises that God's agency is manifested at the end of that of man. If these are conclusive of a single point, it is that man is not to expect God's help, except in those conditions when he can not do for himself; and not even then if he has refused to make the effort, or manifested a willingness to do so even where his efforts would be of no avail.

And great caution is to be had if we avoid the dangers that environ every step of living and believing along this line of life; the man who supinely neglects to do for himself and to use his best sense and efforts to provide against emergency, is as certainly out of touch with the methods of God's government, as is the man who attempts to do everything for himself. But when we have done all we can to help ourselves, and to protect ourselves, and yet find the demand for deliverance is beyond us, we attain the highest point of Christian intelligence and trust in God, when we are able to "stand still and see the salvation of the Lord." For the pastor to be able to direct his people in intelligent effort, and at the same time inspire perfect confidence and trust in the Son of God, in trying emergency, is to reveal his close acquaintance and inspiration of the same spirit that led St. Paul and enabled him to save all on board the ship that was in the "tempestuous wind, called Euroclydon."

J. M. WEEMS.

Brookhaven, Miss.

Lady Jane Grey.

Nearly all the readers of our beloved ADVOCATE are conversant with the history of Lady Jane Grey. Her exalted piety, her noble heroism, her Christ-like submission to her terrible fate, has long been the admiration of the world, and the theme of the essayist, the poet, and the orator. Yet it loses none of its interest by being "an oft-told tale," for hers was "one of the few immortal names that were not born to die."

One of my child and girlhood's dreams was a girl whose name was Jane Grey. Ours was a love like that of David and Jonathan. We both loved the three b's—bonnets, books, and boys. We were both religious. We never differed—only on one subject, and that was sanctification. Our respective families were on both sides of that question, and we were not "on the fence." Whenever we touched on that, the fence was betwixt us. Childhood and girlhood passed away, and, as we approached the wonderland of womanhood, our paths diverged, never to meet again in this life, for long ago, after living a beautiful life of Christian woman, wife, and motherhood, she sweetly "fell on sleep." When my summons come, in some of the "many mansions" I will see and know my girlhood's dream, Jane Grey.

When I first read the history of Lady Jane Grey, I would always think of my old loving dream, and would try to imagine that our lives might have been fateful if we had lived in those "times that tried women's souls as well as men's." So the name had always a double charm for me, and often I find myself poring over some particular point of interest in the short, but strangely eventful, life of Lady Jane Grey. To-day I was thinking of her wonderful linguistic accomplishments, she being well versed in eight languages, besides being a very good artist, and had also fine musical talent. With all that, she was mild and modest, and only sixteen years old when she laid her beautiful head on the block. How at this tender age she had been able to shelve all this deep lore in her wise little head is very astonishing. Could a maiden be found in this day of colleges and sweet girl graduates, many that could equal the scholarship of Lady Jane Grey? But her wise old tutor, Ascham, had crammed her with a love of books, and she loved them better than pleasure; and while the rest of her household were out on pleasure excursions she was reading Plato in the original Greek, and said that "her good folk never knew what true pleasure meant." At the age of fourteen she corresponded with some of the greatest scholars in Europe in Greek. One of her letters is still preserved in the library at Zurich. At fifteen she studied Hebrew, and read her Bible in Hebrew and Greek, and loved it better than all other books or sciences. Its holy teachings molded and beautified her character, and herein lies the secret of her greatness.

The last night she spent on earth she read the New Testament in Greek. After she had finished she wrote on the fly leaves a letter to her sister Catherine, beginning thus: "Good sister Catherine, I have here sent you a Book which, though not outwardly trimmed with gold, yet inwardly is worth more than precious stones. It is the Book, dear sister, of the law of the Lord; his testament, his last will, which he bequeathed to us, which will lead you into the path of eternal joy."

Sir John Gage, the lieutenant of the tower where she was confined, requested some little memento, for he had learned to love her with a reverential love. She gave him a little book, to which she had just written three sentences, in Latin, Greek and English—one line in each language—which have been translated thus:

> "While God assists us, Envy bites in vain;
> If God forsake us, fruitless all our pain.
> I hope for light after darkness."

MRS. L. CRARY SADLER.

The Presiding Elder.

It is not at all difficult for most anyone to see something of the importance and responsibility of the office of a presiding elder. He fills an office next to that of a Bishop. He is a sub-Bishop. He has oversight of all the spiritual and temporal interests of the church in the district to which he has been assigned, and is obligated "to take care that every part of the Discipline be enforced in his district." (Dis., page 79, ¶ 112.) This being true, the presiding eldership is not the office for the brother who has been a failure as a pastor, or for whom no other place can be found. It is not the office for him who is lax in his religious living, or is in sympathy with that lawless spirit that is opposed to discipline, and more especially to its righteous enforcement. Neither is it the office for him who advocates ease, or in any respect countenances favoritism. The presiding elder should be a man of unquestionable piety, energy, intelligence, and familiarity with the doctrines and usages of our church. He should be conservative, aggressive, and a lover of discipline and its enforcement. He should be a Bible student of the most perfect order, depending on it and the Holy Spirit for light and guidance in the great work with which he has been honored. He should be a man whose family does not need his special attention all the time; a hater of dishonesty in not paying debts, and a hater of that loose kind of liveliness that likens its lodgers to the inmates of a whisky den. He should be a rigid observer of the Sabbath. He should be holy in all manner of conversation. "Be ye holy in all manner of conversation." (1. Pet. 1, 15.)

ISAAC L. PEEBLES.

Rev. J. W. Medlock.

MR. EDITOR: Please allow me space in the ADVOCATE to appeal to the friends of the late Rev. J. W. Medlock for assistance in obtaining a home for his bereaved family. Bro. Medlock left a wife and seven children homeless, and without means. Immediately after his death we started a subscription in Minden and other places on the district for this purpose, and the people have responded liberally, indeed; but we still lack the means to build and furnish even a modest cottage. Will the friends of our Medlock lend a helping hand in this noble work? I trust they will speedily.

Money sent to Rev. J. M. Davies, Minden, La., or to me at Arcadia, La., will be receipted for through the ADVOCATE.

J. L. P. SHEPPARD.

The History of Methodism in Alabama.

The History of Methodism in Alabama, by the Rev. Anson West, D. D., will be out of the press and ready for delivery by the time this paragraph concerning it is read in type. The book is an octavo volume of 755 pages, long primer type, and bound in good cloth. It has in it a few engravings. The price is $2.50 per copy. Orders will be filled at the Publishing House of the M. E. Church, South, Nashville, Tenn., Barbee & Smith, agents. It is hoped this book will be purchased and read by many thousands, and that profit and pleasure will accrue to all who read it. It is the only history yet written of Methodism in the State, and in it everyone should feel a profound interest. The author has striven to make it reliable in all its details, and altogether worthy of public favor. Let preachers and people send forward their orders and money for it to Barbee & Smith, agents, Nashville, Tenn.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL LESSON.—Sept. 3, 1893.

PREPARED BY REV. A. F. WATKINS.

Paul Shipwrecked.

(Acts xxvii, 30-44.)

GOLDEN TEXT.—"God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble." (Psa. xlvi, 1.)

TOPICAL OUTLINE.—I. Words of Warning (vs. 30-32). II. Words of Cheer (vs. 33-38). III. The Shipwreck and Escape (vs. 39-44).

CENTRAL THOUGHT.—Deliverance from Peril.

INTRODUCTORY.

TIME.—A. D. 60; a few months after the last lesson.

PLACE.—1. The Adriatic Sea. 2. St. Paul's Bay, in the northeastern part of the island of Malta. Malta is an island in the Mediterranean Sea, south of Italy.

PERSONS.—Paul and other prisoners, Luke, the centurion and soldiers, and the ship's officers and crew—two hundred and seventy-six persons in all.

CONNECTING LINKS.—The appeal to Cæsar having been admitted by Festus, immediate preparation was made for the conveying of the prisoner to Rome. After a short delay Paul, with some other prisoners, was placed in charge of Julius, a centurion of Augustus' band, and going on board a coasting vessel of Adramyttium, they sailed to Myra, a city of Lycia, passing Cyprus to the left on account of the unfavorable winds. At Myra they changed to a corn-ship on her way to Italy from Alexandria. Proceeding to the west under adverse winds, they at length reached the southwest promontory of Asia Minor, from which they would ordinarily have proceeded west across the Adriatic Sea to their destination. At this point, however, the violence of the wind forced them south toward the Island of Crete, around the eastern part of which they turned, and with difficulty came to Fair Havens, a harbor on the southern coast of Crete, where Paul advised them to spend the Winter. But the harbor was not commodious, and thinking that they could reach Phenix (Phenice), a harbor on the southern coast of the island and further to the west, the officers disregarded Paul's counsel and set sail again. The harbor was never reached, for a furious tempest from the northeast soon struck the vessel, and she was driven toward the southwest, passing near the little island of Clauda, and then fearful of being cast upon the quicksands of the African coast, they turned toward the northwest, and were driven helplessly toward the Italian coast. At length, after fourteen days, the hoarse roar of the breakers was heard above the fury of the wind, and fearing lest they should be cast upon the rocks, they cast out the anchors and waited for the day.

EXPLANATORY.

I.—WORDS OF WARNING.

Ver. 30. The ship was held by four anchors from the stern, and it was not without seeming propriety that the sailors should propose to carry additional anchors well out from the bow, and thus check the motion of the vessel. Under cover of this plan, they were about to take to the life-boat and leave all on board to perish.

Ver. 31. The watchful eye of Paul was upon them and detected their treacherous purpose, and he reported the state of the case to the centurion under whose control he was, and showed the fatal result that would follow the accomplishment of the purpose of the seamen. How Paul's declaration reconciled with God's promise that all should be saved will be seen when we consider that it was by the exercise of Paul's watchfulness and judgment that the means were employed by which the promised deliverance was to be accomplished.

Ver. 32. The prompt action of the soldiers put an end to the proposed desertion, and while it resulted in the loss of the life-boat, it very effectually secured the presence and service of those who alone understood the management of the ship. The loss of the boat was the salvation of all on board.

II.—WORDS OF CHEER.

Ver. 33. Mere position of authority does well enough under ordinary circumstances; but in crises the man comes to the front. No one would think in reading this paragraph that Paul was a prisoner on the way to his trial. Paul, the prisoner, has become Paul, the leader. In Paul practical wisdom is as evident as heroic faith. He who said, "I believe in God," could say also, "You are weakened by your long abstinence and your continued toil, and unless you eat you will not be able to do the work necessary for our deliverance."

Ver. 34. The food was necessary for the maintenance of their strength, and coupled with the words of practical wisdom is found the expression of unbroken faith that their efforts would prove successful. The words of counsel and the words of trust are alike intended to encourage. The expression, "Not a hair shall fall from the head of any of you," is a proverbial one, and gives promise of their certain and complete salvation.

Vers. 35, 36. As a pious Jew, Paul may have given thanks for himself in the taking of food; in his position of natural leadership he may, after the manner of the Jewish fatherhood, have given thanks for them all. Encouraged by his words of cheer and his example, they all partook of food, and, now strengthened in mind and body, they were the better prepared for peril and hardships that awaited them.

Ver. 37. Some manuscripts read in giving the number of persons on board "three-score and sixteen;" while others have it two hundred three-score and sixteen. The latter is probably correct. As seen in the life of Josephus (Sec. 3.) the large Egyptian corn-ships sometimes carried as many as six hundred persons.

Ver. 38. After they had eaten they went to work with united effort and with renewed hope to lighten the ship, casting out the wheat into the sea. This may mean that they cast overboard the remainder of their food supply or the wheat which formed their cargo. The latter is probably the correct view.

III.—THE SHIPWRECK AND ESCAPE.

Ver. 39. When the wished-for day had dawned at last the sailors could see the outlines of the coast that stretched before them, but could not recognize it so as to tell where they were. But they saw a narrow inlet and a sloping beach, and their wisest course was to steer their ship between the projecting headlands into the more placid waters of the bay and beach here on the shore.

Ver. 40. The graphic description found in this verse of the steps taken to effect their purpose could have been written only by an eye-witness. They cut away the anchors and let the cables falls into the sea, while at the same time they loosed the bands that held stationary the oar-like rudders, and, hoisting the spare sail to the wind, they steered toward the shore.

Ver. 41. Across the middle of the open bay a bar had been formed by the action of two currents. Into this bar the vessel, hurled by the fury of the wind, was driven with such force that the bow sunk deep into the sand or mud and remained immovable, while the stern, still afloat, was soon broken by the violence of the waves.

Ver. 42. The sailors had failed in their purpose to run the ship aground on the beach, but they were probably now well within the bay, in comparative quiet water and not very far from shore. Danger from drowning was now almost removed. It is not surprising that another danger should have suggested itself to the soldiers—a danger that their prisoners might some of them swim ashore and escape. For this reason they suggested that the prisoners should be put to death. The cruelty of the soldiers is equaled in wickedness only by the treachery of the sailors. Both stand in striking contrast to the noble-mindedness of Paul.

Ver. 43. The rigid military law that held each soldier responsible with his life for the safety of his prisoner would, doubtless, exact as severe a penalty in the case of the officer that had in charge the whole number of the prisoners, and it is no slight indication of the influence that Paul had acquired over the mind of the noble Julius that he was willing to hazard his future and his life to save Paul. He wisely commanded those who could swim to first cast themselves overboard and make for the shore so that they could assist the others to land.

Ver. 44. And then the others tearing up the planks from the vessel now rapidly going to pieces, or upon anything that could help them to float, were borne by incoming waves to the shore. Thus it came to pass, as Paul had promised, that all escaped safe to land. What gratitude to God and what reverence for this wonderful man, who had been their leader and their savior, must have filled many hearts, and the two hundred and seventy-six persons assembled, without the loss of one, upon the unknown and barbarous shore that morning!

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

1. Many a profession of friendship has covered the dagger of the traitor since Judas betrayed his Lord with a kiss, and these cowardly sailors planned desertion under the pretense of an act of service. (Verse 30.)

2. God's promise of a future good does not relieve us from the necessity of the faithful use of the means of its accomplishment. (Verse 31.)

3. It is some time a future gain to surrender a present good. (Verse 32.)

4. Practical wisdom and implicit faith make "sanctified common sense." Paul had it, and every Christian should have it. (Verses 33 and 34.)

5. The man who has power with God has power also with men. The spirit that gives self-control gives control of others. (Verses 35 and 36.)

6. The connection between a man's achievements and what he has had for dinner may not be very poetical, but it is practical. (Verse 38.)

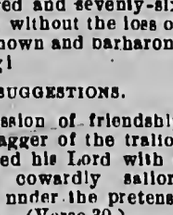
7. For Paul's sake all the persons were saved. In how many ways the influence of a good man is helpful to those about him! (Verse 43.)

8. It may be through many perils and by unexpected and unusual means, but when the final count is made God's promises will be found to have been fulfilled. (Verse 44.)

WHENEVER I see Hood's Sarsaparilla now I want to bow and say

'Thank You'

I was badly affected with Eczema and Scrofula Sores, almost covering one side of my face, nearly to the top of my head.



Mrs. Paisley.

Running sores discharged from both ears. My eyes were very bad, the eyelids so sore it was painful opening or closing them. For nearly a year I was deaf. I went to the hospital and had an operation performed for the removal of a cataract from one eye. One day my sister brought me which I took, and gradually began to feel better and stronger, and slowly the sores on my eyes and in my ears healed. I can now hear and see as well as ever." MRS. AMANDA PAISLEY, 176 Lander St., Newburgh, N. Y.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

HOOD'S PILLS are the best after-dinner Pills, assist digestion, cure headache. Try a box

McTyeire -:- Institute,

McKENZIE, TENN.

Prepares students for Vanderbilt and such institutions.

Expenses for five months, $72.50 to $82.50.

Students completing our course enter Vanderbilt without examination.

Next session begins August 31.

For circulars or information address

J. H. HARRISON, Prin.,
McKenzie, Tenn.

Clinton Female Academy,

(Chartered in 1832)

WILL OPEN MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1893.

Course thorough. Charges lower than offered by any school of its grade in the South.

CHARGES PER MONTH.

Tuition per month	$2 00 to $3 00
Music " "	3 00
Use of Piano per Month	1 00
Painting in Oil " "	3 00
Drawing " "	1 00
Latin, French and Book-keeping, each per month	1 00
Incidental Expenses per Session	50

Board, Tuition, Washing, Fuel and Lights, $12 per Month. $120 per the Session of Ten Months. For particulars address the Principal,

Mrs. S. E. MUNDAY, Clinton, La.

GRENADA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

Is Devoted to the Education of Girls and Young Ladies.

FALL TERM OPENS SEPTEMBER 5TH, 1893.

The Institute affords the very best advantages for culture in Vocal and Instrumental Music; in Art, Drawing, Painting, etc.; and in all the branches of collegiate study—English, Latin, French and German. The teachers are experienced and competent. The Boarding Department is home-like and comfortable. The health is fine. The expenses are moderate. For catalogue address Rev. Thos. J. Newell, A. M., Pres., Grenada, Miss.

Tulane -:- University Scholarships.

TULANE UNIVERSITY, New Orleans, for the purpose of encouraging post-graduate studies, offers fifteen scholarships to the graduates of its own and other colleges. The appointments are made for merit, and entitle the holder to free tuition and an honorarium of one hundred and fifty dollars.

For further particulars address the Secretary of Tulane University, New Orleans, Louisiana.

State Normal School,

NATCHITOCHES, LA.

Reopens Oct. 2, 1893. Both sexes admitted. Attendance last session, 293. Faculty of twelve instructors. Unsurpassed in beauty and healthfulness of location, thoroughness of instruction, and perfection of discipline. Diploma entitles holder to first-grade teacher's certificate without examination.

Tuition free. Total expense need not exceed $110 per annum.

For catalogue address

THOS. D. BOYD, A. M.,
President.

MILLWOOD
Female Institute.

This Institute is located near Jackson, La., and is as remarkable for its delightful environments as its healthy location.

Special teachers in each Department.

Charges lower than any school which offers the same advantages.

Session opens Sept. 4, 1893.

Send for Catalogue.

MISS M. McCALMONT,
Principal.

Louisiana State University AND Agricultural and Mechanical College.

J. W. NICHOLSON, A.M., LL.D., President.

The next session (1893-'94) will open on the fifth of October, 1893, with a full and able corps of Professors and Instructors. Five Courses of Study, healthy locality, excellent discipline, splendid equipments. Tuition free. Cost for maintenance, per session of nine months, $161. Number of students last session, 186. For catalogue giving full information

Address ALVAN C. READ, Secretary,
Baton Rouge, La.

Educate for Business.

AT THE

BOWLING GREEN BUSINESS COLLEGE AND LITERARY INSTITUTE.

Railroad Fare Paid.

A School of Business, Shorthand, English, Typewriting, Telegraphy, Penmanship, Teacher's Training. Catalogues free.

CHERRY BROTHERS,
Bowling Green, Ky.

Tuskaloosa Female College,

TUSKALOOSA, ALA.

Thirty-fourth Session begins Sept. 26, 1893. Terms reduced to suit the times. For Catalogues apply to

ALONZO HILL, President.

READ THIS.

Board and Lodging by Day, Week or Month.

Regular meals, 25 cents. Lodging, 25 to 50 cents.

I endeavor to make my place home-like and comfortable. Give me a call.

MRS. BRAKEL,
No. 535 Chartres St., near Northeastern Depot.

ANGELL'S
HOMŒOPATHIC PHARMACY,

153 and 155 JULIA ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Richard Angell, M. D., Proprietor.

DEALER IN

Homœopathic Medicines, Book and All Other Articles used in Homœopathic Practice.

Try Angell's Celebrated Whooping Cough Syrup.

North Mississippi Conference Colportage and Sunday-School Agency

KOSCIUSKO, MISS.

Any Good Book Furnished at Publisher's Prices.

A specialty is made of the Books, Periodicals and Sunday-school Supplies of our church, which are furnished at Publishing House prices exactly.

Bibles and Testaments, All Styles and Sizes, Are a Particular Feature of the Work.

Our House requests that all the business of this Conference be transacted through this office.

All orders for books or papers promptly filled, and all pertinent questions concerning good literature and our Sunday-school interests will be readily answered.

G. W. BACHMAN,
Colporter and Sunday-school Agent.

WALL PAPER.

The Spring patterns of Wall Paper are handsomer than ever before, and we are able to offer them to you at prices which are within the reach of all. We believe that anyone buying cheap paper will do better to invest 10, 12½ or 15 cents and buy a gilt paper or a fine blank for the small difference than to invest 5 cents in a cheap blank; but if you want the 5-cents paper, we have it and will be glad to sell it.

MATTINGS.

In novel and dainty designs, which can not be had elsewhere, as we control our own private patterns. Prices from $5 per roll of 40 yrds, and up

LACE CURTAINS,

Rugs, Screens, Easels, Oil Cloth, Window Shades and Upholstering Goods.

ESTIMATES

Given for papering in the country under the direction of our foreman and with our own experienced corps of men.

Heath, Schwartz & Co., Lim.,

116 Camp Street, New Orleans.

$21 PAID WEEKLY

To active, faithful men and women, boys and girls, working for us taking orders for THE ILLUSTRATED WORLD'S FAIR, edited by John McGovern, the Prince of the Literary West. 25c. a month, or $2.50 a year. Entire Series, from July, 1891, to January, 1894, 30 monthly issues, only $6.00. Sells at sight. Most beautiful, interesting and popular, and the only publication receiving official recognition. THE ORGAN OF THE FAIR. Chicago Inter Ocean says: "It is a handsomely prepared and valuable publication, to which many celebrities are contributors." Send 15c. (stamps) for full particulars and sample copy containing fifty large rich engravings of the PRINCIPAL ATTRACTIONS of the World's Fair. Address,

THE NATIONAL BOOK CONCERN,
134 VAN BUREN ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

DO YOU

Want a teacher for a Summer school? A bookkeeper for a few months while your regular man takes in the World's Fair? A fine young man for any kind of honorable work? If you do, write to DR. W. B. MURRAH, President, or J. W. CHAMBERS, Agent, of Millsaps College, and they will supply the man.

WANTED.

An A. M. graduate, having twenty years' successful experience in managing large institutions of learning, wants to lease desirable school or college property. Parties interested please address

"COLLEGE PRESIDENT,"
Care of ADVOCATE.

Advertising in England, European Continent, Etc.

SELL'S
ADVERTISING AGENCY, Limited.

Capital, $250,000. Henry Sell, Manager (editor and founder of "Sell's World's Press").

Full particulars regarding British or European Advertising, sample papers, rates, etc., at the London Office, 167-168 Fleet street, or at New York Office, 21 Park Row, Ground Floor.

Kursheedt's Marble Works

120 and 122 Camp St., New Orleans

$525 Agent's profits per month. Will prove it or pay forfeit. New Articles just out. A $1.50 sample and terms free. Try us. Chidester & Son, 2 Bond St., New York City.

When answering advertisements please mention the Advocate

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

GREAT FAST MAIL ROUTE.

Four Daily Trains between NEW ORLEANS and CHICAGO.

The Only Line running Pullman Buffet Sleepers and Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes.

FREE RECLINING CHAIR CARS TO CHICAGO.

St. Louis Without Change.

The Only Line running a Double Daily Train Service to

ST. LOUIS.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York

The great Steel Bridge, spanning the Ohio River at Cairo, completed, and all trains (freight and passenger) now running regularly over it, thus avoiding the delays and annoyances incident to transfer by ferry boat.

TICKET OFFICES: Corner St. Charles and Common Streets.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.
A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

Speed and Comfort Combined When Traveling

VIA THE

T. AND P.

THE SHORT LINE TO

NEW ORLEANS, MEMPHIS,

AND POINTS IN THE

SOUTHEAST.

THE DIRECT LINE TO

North and West Texas, Arizona, Old and New Mexico, Oregon, Colorado and California.

THE FASTEST TIME TO

Hot Springs, Little Rock and St. Louis

PULLMAN'S FINEST BUFFET SLEEPING CARS

On all Through Trains between

NEW ORLEANS AND DENVER,
NEW ORLEANS AND ST. LOUIS,
NEW ORLEANS and SAN FRANCISCO,
NEW ORLEANS, FT. WORTH and DALLAS

Lowest ticket rates, time tables, and all desired information will be furnished by any of the ticket agents of the Texas & Pacific R'y or W. A. DASHIELL, Trav. Pass. Agent.
GASTON MESLIER, Gen'l Pass. and Tkt Agt.
L. S. THORNE, Third Vice President and General Superintendent, Dallas, Texas.

Yazoo and Mississippi Valley RAILROAD COMPANY.

All trains arrive and depart from new Passenger Station, cor. Howard Ave. and Rampart St.

	Leaves.	Arrives
Kansas City and Memphis Fast Train	5:00 p. m	8:35 a. m
Vicksburg & Natchez Ex.	7:55 a. m	5:55 p. m
Bat. Rouge "Coast Train."	3:40 p. m	10:00 a. m

The Only Line running Solid Trains between New Orleans, Memphis and Vicksburg, with Modern Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars through to Memphis and Kansas City.

The direct and favorite route to Kansas City, Denver, and All Points West.

The short line to Hot Springs and points in Arkansas and North Louisiana.

Commutation Tickets, Mileage Books, Party Rates and Week End Excursions.

Summer Excursion Tickets on Sale in season.

Ticket Office: St. Charles St., cor. Common.

JAMES DINKINS, Div. Pass. Agt.
J. W. COLEMAN, A. G. P. A.
A. H. HANSON G. P. A.

CLARK & MEADER,

16 and 18 CARONDELET ST.

BRANCH STORE:

Cor. ST. CHARLES and NAPOLEON Avenues,

NEW ORLEANS.

Stuffed Olives in Oil; Boneless Anchovies in Oil; Boneless Anchovies in Salt; French Crescent Olives; Mammoth Queen Olives; Cepes au Naturel; Mushroom Powder; Bijou Cans of Aiguettes; Thon a huile; Pure of Foie Gras; Saucisses Truffe; Pure of Sardines; Truffled Sardines; New Maple Syrup in Quart bottles, 1 Gallon and ½ Gallon Cans; Maple Sugar in 1-pound cakes; Franco-American Game Pates, such as Wild Duck, Grouse, Partridge, Pheasant, Chicken, Chicken Liver, Woodcock; Entrees—Chicken Curry a la Indienne. Chicken Saute a la Marengo; Calves' Tongues with Tomato Sauce; Veal and Green Peas; Calves' Tongue, sauce Piquant; Braised Beef a la Jardeniere; Ross' Belfast Ginger Ale, Sarsaparilla, Club Soda, and Raspberry Vinegar; Potoma's Roe Herring; Clysmic Water; Smoked Beef; Small Whole Boneless Cooked Hams in cans; Whole Boiled Beef Tongues in cans; Wheatena; Pettijohn's California Breakfast Food; Schumacher's Rolled Wheat and Avena; Cerealine Flakes; Mott's Pure Sparkling Sweet and Crab Apple Cider; Large Smoked Beef Tongue.

J. C. MORRIS CO., Limited.

40, 42 and 44 Tchoupitoulas Street.

E. F. DYER, Pres. E. P. MACKIE, Treas.

WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

Refrigerators, Freezers, Water Coolers, Fishing Tackle, Seines, Oars, Hammocks, Croquet, Baseballs, Baskets, Brooms, Brushes, Fruit Jars, Bottles, Flasks, Demijohns, Rope, Twine, Axle Grease, Wrapping Paper, Bags, Stationery, Cheese Safes, Cages, Scales, Tacks, Chimneys, Lamps, Tinware, Blacking, Woodenware, Cutlery, Clocks, etc.

W. W. CARRE.
LUMBER MERCHANT

AND MANUFACTURER OF

PLANTATION CABINS, STORES, Etc

Nos. 343, 344, 346 and 348 Howard Ave.,

NEW BASIN. NEW ORLEANS

GUARANTEED CURE
OR NO PAY.

Nothing Fairer Than This.

When we say cure, we do not mean simply to stop it for the time being, but a

PERMANENT AND POSITIVE CURE

For Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Impure Blood, and all diseases arising from a disordered Liver. Write for Treatise, Testimonials, and Free Sample Bottle of

DR. ROC'S LIVER, RHEUMATIC and NEURALGIA CURE to

CULLEN & NEWMAN,
182 GAY ST., Knoxville, Tenn.

POSITIONS GUARANTEED Guarantee in Writing. Send for free catalogue of DRAUGHON'S Consolidated Practical Business College, Nashville, Tenn. Cheap Board. No vacation. MENTION THIS PAPER.

Shorthand in the Vest Pocket.

DR. LAFFERTY, the Stenographer to the Virginia Senate, has given the CONGRESSIONAL SYSTEM OF SHORTHAND in a series of simple, witty, chatty talks; each illustrated. You learn it while you laugh. 65 pages. Price 50 cents. Address him, Richmond, Va.

TO MINISTERS.

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN YOUR CHOIR to the extent of desiring to have each Sunday, new and bright ANTHEMS, thoroughly devotional in character?

If You Are -: :-

and will take the time to send us the name and address of your Choir leader, or better still, of all your choir singers, we shall take pleasure in sending you and them something that will satisfactorily solve the question of how to obtain new and good music at an exceedingly moderate outlay. If you cannot attend to the matter personally, please ask some one in your congregation who can.

ADDRESS -:-

THE JOHN CHURCH CO.,
S. E. Cor. 4th and Elm Sts., Cincinnati, O.

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY. Location, in the healthful Shenandoah Valley, near Staunton, Virginia. English, Classical and Business courses with Military Training. For catalogue apply to Chas. S. Roller, Prin., Fort Defiance, Va.

B.&S. BUSINESS COLLEGE, LOUISVILLE, KY. Superior advantages. Send postal for circular.

FENCING

WIRE ROPE SELVAGE.

RAILROAD, Farm, Garden, CEMETERY, LAWN, POULTRY and RABBIT FENCING. Thousands of miles in use. Catalogue FREE. Freight Paid. McMULLEN WOVEN WIRE FENCE CO., CHICAGO, ILL.

$150 AMERICAN WATCH.

$1.50 will now buy a reliable AMERICAN WATCH in our GOLD PLATED Dust Proof Case. Will not vary a minute in 30 days. Is warranted in any watch made. FULLY GUARANTEED. (Publishers of this paper will tell you we are reliable.) It has AMERICAN patent lever MOVEMENT, Patent Escapement and Regulator, Lantern Pinion, and is an ACCURATE TIMEKEEPER. Only required to wind and set; weighs 4 oz.; neatly like cut. Post-paid for $1.50, after $1.00, $2.75 C.O.D. by express. Mention paper and we will include handsome gold plated CHAIN & CHARM, AGENTS WANTED everywhere. Send for TERMS. Catalogue of Watches, FREE.

ROBERT H. INGERSOLL & BRO.,
Room 2, 65 Cortlandt St., New York City.

A NEW UNIQUE and VALUABLE Historical Chart of Christianity from the Apostolic Period through the Reformation has been prepared by REV. M. LOUCKS, D.D. of Dayton, Ohio. For particulars address postal to him and receive circulars free,

REV. M. LOUCKS, D.D, Dayton, Ohio.

CHURCH SCHOOL FURNITURE

Before purchasing any PEWS, PULPITS or any other Furniture, write Wm. H. Morrow, Bl'k, Nashville, Tenn. for Catalogue.

WHY PAY DEALER'S PROFIT?

FREE TRIAL.

$2.75 buys a $20 White Reed Baby Carriage, freight prepaid, shipped on 10 days' trial. Latest design and style. Perfect, reliable and finely finished. Nothing but the best material used and warranted for 3 YEARS. We have been in the manufacturing business many years, and are reliable and responsible; make and sell nothing but what we can guarantee as represented, quote lowest factory prices. Write to-day for our large free catalogue, which is one of the most complete ever published.

OXFORD MFG. CO., 340 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WE WANT AT ONCE

RELIABLE MEN everywhere (local or traveling) to advertise and keep our Show Cards tacked up in towns on trees and fences along public roads. Steady work in your own county. $70 A MONTH SALARY AND $3 A DAY EXPENSES ADVANCED every 15 days when started. FRANCO-GERMAN ELECTRIC CO., CINCINNATI, O.

SKIN DISEASES Tetter, Eczema, Chapped Skin, Burns, Piles, Chilblains and all skin troubles cured by GREVE'S OINTMENT. 50c. druggists. HISCOX & CO., N. Y.

ARE YOU CONSUMPTIVE

Use PARKER'S GINGER TONIC without delay. A rare medicinal compound that cures when all else fails. Has cured the worst cases of Cough, Weak Lungs, Asthma, Indigestion, Inward Pains, Exhaustion. Invaluable for Rheumatism, Female Weakness, and all pains and disorders of the stomach and bowels. 50c. & $1 at Druggists.

HINDERCORNS. The only sure cure for Corns. Stops all pain. 15c. at Druggists. HISCOX & Co., N. Y.

CONEY. $20 for 1: $50 for 2½ 5: $500 for 10: $1,200 for $20. Address P. O. Box D, Huntington, N. Y.

BELLS

Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. Send for Catalogue. C. S. BELL & CO., Hillsboro, O.

THE LARGEST ESTABLISHMENT MANUFACTURING CHURCH BELLS & CHIMES & PEALS in the World. PUREST BELL METAL, (COPPER AND TIN.) Send for Price and Catalogue. McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY, BALTIMORE, MD.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY

THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO., Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A. Best Known Grades CHURCH BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES. Price & Terms Free. Catalogue

Christian Advocate.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and widows of deceased Preachers, $1

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

All correspondence with the ADVOCATE, literary or business and all money due or to become due should be addressed to Rev. J. M. Beard, CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans, La.

Capt. G. A. R. Lawrence is an accredited agent of the ADVOCATE in the city and country, and he is authorized to take subscribers, contract for advertisements, and receipt for money due on subscription or otherwise.

Rev. J. M. BEARD, D. D., Editor and Publisher.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. J. M. BEARD, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. J. B. A. AHRENS, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. J. W. CHAMBERS.
REV. W. B. LEWIS.
REV. B. J. JONES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER.

Thursday, August 31, 1893.

Midway Plaisance will be the tune to which all the "World's Parliament of Roligions" addresses will be sot. Tho wheels of compromise freshly oiled with sacred rhetoric will once more be set rolling in the broad way, and with an impetus that will easily carry them into the twontieth century. Popo and Presbyterian will hobnob togethor over a false poaco, and Buddhist and Mohammodan get happy over their irroconcilable differences, and while the truth is crucified to mako a splendid holiday, hor boautiful garmonts will fall a prey to tho howling dervishos who havo come from far to mako a reputation for themselves and their party at the cost of ovorything that is inestimable and divine. Compromises oven in business matters and politics have a flavor of disrepute, but what must be thought of that sublime body that bears the name of religion when consonting to wear such a figure-head? This time it will be a "hump" parliament. Star and crescent, indeed! But our star is a sun.

One of the worst little boys that we ever knew grew up to gentleness in young manhood, and developed even amiability in later life. It may have been that in the process of years the "atavism" triumphed over the natural disposition, but we should rather suspect that such old fogyism as good home training and Christian association and instruction were moro immediately responsible for the miracle. There is nothing in nature which is so plastic as the child-mind, and the parent or guardian who does not know this and act upon the information is doing something much worse than perpetuating duncehood in his genealogical line. A tone or a color is often quite sufficient to give a definite moulding to a child-temper, or trust, or moral conviction, and how important then that it should be the right tone and the desired color. Under such circumstances what must the smallest advantage gained or lost be worth. Strangely, too, the impression gained in early life is most enduring. Many an error is drank into the young heart from the nurse's bottle never to be effaced. And worse still, dread superstitions coil themselves about the child-form in Laocoon folds which nothing can undo until the strangling process is complete. It takes a whole generation to plant Christianity on a heathen soil, because it takes that long to produce a harvest of Christian mothers.

And while the one extreme is to be avoided, the other is to be as diligently cultivated, for it is discipline of the plant or tree in early life that produces the brightest tinted flower, and the sweetest flavored fruit. A good impression or habit implanted in the soul, or ingrafted on the deportment of a young learner, will be just as productive of that which is "true, good and beautiful," as an evil one of the opposite states.

The State University, Col. J. W. Nicholson, president, begins its Fall session Oct. 5. Its president is a distinguished scholar, in certain branches having no superior, and he is assisted by an able corps of professors. Tuition free.

To Victoria and Back.

By a modern miracle we went to sleep in the vicinity of New Orleans on last Friday evening, and awoke the following morning in the neighborhood of Momphis, Tenn., the distance between the two points being nearly four hundred miles. The Thunderer that took us, though flying faster than the wind, did not grow weary, and though screaming at the top of its bent at almost every bound, did not become hoarse from the exertion. Indeed, this great grim engine and train of cars, whirling through the darkness, with roar and shriek and occasional flashes of lightning, was but a practical illustration of the triumph of force over matter, furnished to the sons of men, and which we not only witnessed, but felt through every tingling nerve as we were hurried through space at a speed almost electrical. The occasion for this journey was a camp meeting at a point near to a spot dearer to us than all others; that where we first saw the light, and where our years of boyhood were passed in communion with nature and her best-loved children, and in the midst of a community where as a boy preacher we first proclaimod to our fellowmen the "glad tidings of great joy." It was an unspeakablo happiness to visit these sacred haunts once more at the urgent invitation of friends, and in pursuance of long cherished and oft-defeated plans.

Victoria, the place indicated, is about thirty miles east of Memphis, Tenn., and twelve miles west of Holly Springs, Miss., and is Latin and Holy Ghost for victory. We found the meeting under way upon our arrival Saturday morning, with Dr. W. B. Godby, the evangelist, holding the boards with that marvelous power of learned analysis and illustration, so peculiarly his. We had heard a great deal of the man and his methods, not to say of his excesses and successes, and upon this occasion saw much to corroborate previous impressions, and to give us a profound sense of his learning in Scripture, and great earnestness as a herald of the gospel. With a personality thoroughly unique, he has great courage to rebuke sin, and could be suspected of compromising with sin or sinners about as reasonably as the forerunner of Christ. He woke up the slumbering embers of revival with gospel dynamite once or twice, and seemed to have about as much mercy on sleepy saints as on sleeping sinners.

A far different personality from Dr. Godby is that of Rev. B. A. Cundiff, a noted evangelist of the Louisville Conference, who was also present, and who is both argumentative and hortatory, and might be termed a typical Methodist preacher of the olden time. He quotes Scripture with great tact and fluency, and his sermons are perfect torrents of unstudied eloquence, that seem to well up from a vast underdeep of Revelation partially or entirely hidden from view. The effects wrought by two of his discourses which we were privileged to hear, and which were delivered to large audiences, were quite phenomenal. Rev. J. J. Smith, the successful evangelist, was also present, and Dr. T. L. Boswell, the venerable patriarch of the Memphis Conference, and many others prominent in the holiness movement. The music consisted of a band composed of organ, cornet, violin and guitar, and a large choir carefully selected from the congregation; piety as well as skill being not only expected, but exacted of every performer, as well as chorister. The singing, therefore, was quite above the ordinary, and at times thrilling as well as inspiring. The testimony meetings were marvels even to the writer, who could boast of having seen great things in this way; the witnessers to economize time following each other with sentences as quickly alternated as if they had been spoken hurriedly by one speaker, and five or six persons often standing to speak at the same moment. The preacher rising to begin his theme under that kind of inspiration, of course, had wings, and accomplished a seraphic, if not an apocalyptic flight. And it was the preaching after all, and even now and here, that seemed to accomplish the work, and not either the singing or testifying or both. We forgot to say that the blind evangelist, R. G. Shepherd, lives near the camp meeting, conducting in the old Dr. Antony Scruggs mansion the Beulah Theological and Industrial Seminary. He was long engaged in evangelistic work, and his occupation now is the training of consecrated young men for the same labor. His school is said to be an excellent one, and with cheap terms he ought to secure many pupils. He was quite a figure on the platform, being a skilful musician as well as teacher and preacher. On Sunday the people flocked in from the adjacent country, and the writer saw hosts of acquaintances, and friends, mixed with relatives; and for all that day roaming about among the throngs of people, the greater part, of whom, perhaps, he had seen or known as children, and even preaching to them, as those upon whom in that rare prophetic age he had practiced his pulpiteering bent; he was a grown-up little boy again, substituting the child hug for the adult handshake, and surprised to tears or laughter by a mere show of color in the landscape, or a suggestive strain of melody in a song or voice. A child again just for a day; bnt with childhood's rapture there were mingled voices and radiance from the far-off heavenly hills, and as we stood at that dividing line between two worlds and two ages, we could appreciate as never before the apostle's quandary "as" one "in a strait betwixt two." On Sunday night there were twenty-five conversions and sanctifications, and on the day following at Holly Springs we heard enthusiastic reports of the meeting.

Monday morning we took the train for Holly Springs to meet and greet that rare community of choice spirits among whom it pleased the Lord of all, by a favoring providence, both to give us an introduction into the world, and to connect us with sacred ties of kinship. In the palatial home of Judge J. T. Fant, who, in spite of our eyes and his youth, has by common suffrage of the people become patriarch both in Church and State, we found a double feast, in royal entertainment and a family gathering of many near relatives, some of whom have grown into that estate long before it was onr privilege to know them. After dinner we were bestowed in a sumptuous turnout, and along with its owner, with whom we had ridden wooden horses, and chatted in merry monosyllables in the auld lang syne, were whirled through the broad and handsome streets, and from house to house to gaze upon heart-treasnres long lost to view, and to renew dear acquaintanceships, some of which we had almost made up our mind that we should be compelled to defer until the great assembly. But, alas! the angel reaper had been before us, as it was. One and another, and another, from the aged patriarch, whose race had been run in well-doing, to the young man and maiden full of vigor and hope, bounding along the glowing curriculum and seizing with eager hand life's first prizes, have alike yielded to his stroke, and passed away, both from sunshine and harvest, and heat and mirage. In almost every home that we visited, we were painfully conscious of that lack, so feelingly expressed by the poet, as the "touch of a vanished hand and the sound of a voice that is still." Saddest of all, the shadow of a great affliction had just fallen not only upon all these homes, but upon the church and entire community, in the sudden death of that noble character, and raro Christian worker, Mrs. Nannie E. Fant, whose praises we found to be upon everybody's lips, both in town and country, and among preachers and people. In all this region she was accounted foremost in missionary labors, uniting energy and rare good sense, to conspicuous zeal and fervent piety. A notice of her death appears in another column, and we suppose that in due time a finished memoir will appear. She leaves three sons and one daughter, two of the former being booked for Vanderbilt University in the Fall.

It was a positive grief to us that we could not visit the old homestead, a little way in the country, all whose dust we cherish, and that yet greener and brighter slope that holds the sacred dust of her whom we had "loved and lost awhile," almost before we had grown up into appreciation of a character, which those best qualified to judge, unite in describing as one of the rarest and most saint-like of earth. But in spite of its flavor of sadness, and the necessitated haste of our movements by the relinquished double duty of our ADVOCATE post, that idyllic mid-summer tour of the red hills and warm hearts of old Marshall will long be cherished as one of the greenest spots in memory. How we did enjoy the preaching and communing, and long love-feast of those three August days in camp and home circle, and town and country, growing young and ardent again under the effect of the rare breezes blowing both from the celestial highlands, and the radiant past; to say nothing of the business advantages of the trip, and the hnndred or more readers that were won to the ADVOCATE during a brief and embarrassed canvass! All in all, the Lord's host had gained a great victory over the powers of evil, even before we left, on the consecrated battlefield of Victoria, and since that time we learn from the secnlar press that the victory was a complete rout. Now, let the conquering host march upon other strongholds, and victory be the watchword.

The Sunday-School.

The Sunday-school is of the first importance among the factors of our church economy. As the Sunday-school is, so is the church; not because the Sunday-school is superior to the church, or even its equal, but because they act and react upon each other, and while the Sunday-school contributes life to the church, the church as constantly enriches the Sunday-school with her divine communion. With the rise of Protestantism by a favoring providence came the Sunday-school and all the advantages that it would give to the former, in conflict with a religion that makes the education and early training of her children a test of loyalty to her doctrine. Rome had been laying up this wisdom during the ages; and her profit was immeasureable; it was well that her younger rival was not left to herself in the choice of means to offset such an advantage. It came as a God-send, we repeat; and it is to the efficiency of this branch of her machinery that she is to trust for expansion and solid growth, almost more than to the proclamation of the gospel to the heathen. The Sunday-school has one principal advantage over the merely secular training that obtains in convent and parish school, and that is, that it has but one text-book, the best that the world contains, and contemplates only spiritual results. In the one system this book is totally excluded, in the other it is totally embodied, and made the sine qua non of educational progress. The Bible is not only the constitution and by-laws of Christ's kingdom, but it is surcharged with divinity as a means of blessing to the fallen race; and to be versed in its mysteries, is not only to make one loyal and wise, but it is to make that one "faithful unto death," and "wise unto salvation." There is nothing so simple and true and loving and sublime as childhood but the Word of God, and between these two is an affinity stronger than can be found elsewhere. Let the child into the mysteries of this Holy Book, and there will come with it a longing for divinity well-nigh irresistible. The charm of its sublime narrative, and facile commandment, and mellifluous song, will impress the child-mind with an effect of enchantment from which it will rarely ever escape until it has become imbued with its spirit, and made strong in its strength. In another column we have spoken of the impressionable character of the child-intellect, which is a thing to ponder, and will furnish the key to many future triumphs of our Zion; but the child-heart is yet more susceptive, and it is in this realm of the emotional that religious impressions will begin. What an advantage this will be to the Sunday-school evangelist who comes into it bearing God's love letter to the race, which can only be read through magnifying teardrops, and understood by the mighty intuitions of Spirit communing with spirit. But the theme is quite too extended for a newspaper article, and we desist with this bare introduction.

"The Morning Star and Catholic Messenger" and the Sunday Law.

The Morning Star, the Catholic organ in this city, takes the Picayune somewhat sharply to task for its advocacy of the execution of the Sunday law, and in doing so, says: "The law was passed against the wishes of nine-tenths of the voters of our State; and a large majority of the Legislature that passed the Sunday law were opposed to it." This is a most astonishing, if not a self-contradictory statement. So far as we know, it is a case without precedont or parallel.

But the Star attempts to account for this phenomenal legislative action by asserting that "the Legislature was coerced into its support (of the law) by a crusade of Methodist preachers, which they were afraid to resist." This extraordinary statement would seem to indicate that the Star was hard pressed for something offensive to say about Methodist preachers, and the accompanying one that in a country of universal suffrage "a law was passed against the will of nine-tenths of the voters, and a large majority of their representatives," will require more faith than the ordinary citizen in this land of popular rights and free institutions is endowed with.

We know, indeed, that many of the Catholics esteem the day of rest as one of the best gifts of God to the working and weary world, and that they desiro to maintain both the existence and execution of the Sunday law. The Star has clearly put itself on record on the Sunday law, and in any future conflict we shall know where to find it.

NOTES.

Renew your subscription.

Examine your ownselves.

Enterprise is born, not manufactured.

Sanctification is perfect, but it is not perfection.

Sanctification does not make a man less a man.

Our Lord thundered invective as did no man.

An extraordinary man is not better than his ordinary wife.

When a man runs short of argument he flies to the dictionary.

The preachers who have revivals to report are sending us subscribers.

A sanctification meeting is a "foregone" success. Let them multiply.

Sanctification does not rob a man of his gifts, nor divest him of his rights or opinions.

Where the ADVOCATE has friends who talk for it, it has subscribers who pay for it.

Pull out the beam out of thine eye, or the sunbeam in thy brother's eye will appear a mote.

Our patrons should be advised that fifty-cent subscriptions do not extend beyond Jan. 1, 1894.

We may be a little fresh on the meaning of words, but should never think of defining sanctification with monopoly.

The people who seem to be most interested for the future of the ADVOCATE just now, are contributing least money and work to it.

St. Paul was sanctified, but he was not soft, and his words of indignant protest or open denunciation, smote the enemies of the cross with the force of a catapult.

The Southern Presbyterian Church has 188,546 communicants as against 161,742 in 1889. It contributed to foreign missions $120,954 this year, and in 1889 it contributed $82,785.

Take a day from your business, your busy pastorate, and spend it alone with your Master in some quiet place, and both you and your business will be inestimable gainers by the loss.

How the religious newspapers of our time would have denounced our Lord for denouncing the Pharisees, or sanctified Paul and Peter for the sharp altercation which a good providence sent in their way!

The condemnation of many multitudes is that they avoid the great salvation altogether, as David the vengeful stroke of Saul's spear; and of many others that they neglect it only, as Saul the many warnings of God's prophet.

Dr. Hoss, as the chief editor of our connectional organ, is a fine writer and is doing capital work in the position to which the church has called him; but his theology is not as "we refined upon the lees" as we should like to see it.

The present editor of the ADVOCATE had no more to do with his selection to that office than the man in the moon with creating the spots on the sun. It was a desperate case of Hobson's choice from which there was no retreat for poor Hobson.

A word for the presiding elder: The hardest worked, and most gifted, and least compensated, of all the church's faithful itinerant workers should not be neglected on pay day. He not only preaches his sermons, but travels big distances, and fights and wins big battles, and ought to have bigger pay than big dinners and big compliments.

Unfortunately the people who write and talk much about discipline are not disciplinarians. Like the king of France, they go up the hill and down again with a great flourish of trumpets and banners, to win battles. Pity it could not be done that way.

But in any event the remedy for both immorality and worldliness in the church is not more discipline, but more religion.

Since we have been trying to publish the ADVOCATE during the eventful dog days, we have found much heated opposition to glory in, and a small amount of ardent support, in influential quarters, we mean, to insist upon; but of all the practical information that we have gained, nothing appears to our thought more vividly at this moment, than our Lord's statement of comparison between lukewarmness and an emetic.

PERSONAL AND OTHERWISE.

There seems to be some revival interest at Keller's Market. The next thing to do is to erect a chapel.

Renew, and gain for yourself the credit at home and abroad of having stood by the paper in its season of peril.

Rev. S. S. Keener gave us an appreciated call, returning from a brief sojourn at Ocean Springs to his work at Baton Rouge.

The Lord of the harvest must be pleased with the ADVOCATE, as he is pouring out unusual blessings upon the fields through which it circulates.

Rev. F. S. Parker, of New Iberia, after a most refreshing trip to the Seashore Camp Ground, and returning to his work via this city, gave us an interesting call on Wednesday last.

We regret to see that Rev. C. W. Trawick, the popular pastor of the Canal Street Presbyterian Church, has been forced by ill health to sever his connection with that congregation.

Bishop Keener, on an errand, from Ocean Springs to the city, brought good cheer into the ADVOCATE office one day last week. He seemed in the best of health and spirits, and hopeful even of the financial situation.

Bro. Whitehead, a Baptist minister whom they churched and unchurched for being a second-blessing sanctificationist, was at Victoria, and as full of religion as a star of shine. As a Methodist-Baptist, he is a great success.

It was our good fortune to renew former acquaintanceship with Rev. J. W. Poston, who had charge of the meeting, and Rev. J. W. Honnoll, presiding elder of the Holly Springs district and president of Malone College, at Victoria Camp Meeting.

Rev. P. A. Johnston, presiding elder of Woodville district, paid the ADVOCATE a much-appreciated call on Friday last. He brought cheering news from his district and the two camp meetings being held simultaneously in its bounds. Bro. Johnston enjoys the rare reputation of being "revivalist," as well as divine.

Miss S. G. Kilbourne will take charge of pupils who wish to attend Wesleyan Female Institute, Staunton, Va., which opens Sept. 6. Miss Kilbourne's address is Jackson, La., and as she will leave about Sept. 1, pupils from the city or vicinity might, perhaps, communicate with her by calling at the ADVOCATE office.

Subscribers continue to advance upon us in single and double file, by fours and platoons, and that, too, in the dullest season of the year, and the most stringent period of the age, which leaves us no room to doubt that the ADVOCATE is growing in popularity, and that it will soon become one of the most read, if not most readable, papers in the whole country.

Rev. P. A. Johnston, presiding elder of Woodville district, writes: "It having been reported to me that Rev. N. J. Roberts, one of the preachers of the Woodville district, had been charged before the Grand Jury of Hinds county with adultery, I have carefully investigated the case and consulted with Bro. Roberts in person, and am firmly of the opinion that there is not the slightest foundation for such a charge."

With our next issue an Epworth League Department will appear in the columns of the ADVOCATE. This is both by request of the Epworth Leagues in the city, and in pursuance of a somewhat-deferred feature of the editorial policy of the paper. Rev. R. H. Wynne, pastor of the Parker's Chapel congregation, has been suggested to us by the Leagues as a proper person to have charge of this column, and to this also we give our hearty endorsement. The ADVOCATE extends a cordial welcome to Bro. Wynne and the young people.

During our late trip to North Mississippi it was our good pleasure to see and converse with that Nestor of Itinerant Methodism in the Southwest, Dr. T. L. Bowell. Above almost all the men in our knowledge, and during a period of at least half a century, he has been renowned for eloquence, love for the church, fine powers of analysis, in Scripture and doctrine, and abundant success as a revivalist. He and his faithful helpmeet, both professors of the "second blessing," were in attendance upon the Victoria Camp Meeting exercises, and their presence was a benediction.

Rev. N. J. Roberts Vindicated.

Special to The Times-Democrat.

Raymond, Aug. 24.—Rev. N. J. Roberts, of Greensburg, La., who was mentioned in a dispatch to The Times-Democrat, sent from this place on the twentieth, as being indicted for adultery, has been completely vindicated by the girl herself, who in a certificate over her own signature testifies to the moral and Christian character of Mr. Roberts, and who further says he never acted improperly toward her. The girl's father stated the same thing as his belief to the court, whereupon the case was nolle prosequied. The testimony on which the indictment was found was purely hearsay.

A Sure Thing.

OLD CASES OF MALARIA NEED NO LONGER BE INVALIDS.

There is no trying to dodge the fact that quinine will not always cure malaria. While it is doubtless true that large doses of quinine or some other derivative of Calisaya bark will cure more cases of chills and fever than any other drug, it is equally certain that in chronic malaria it is, in a majority of cases, a flat failure. In every malarious district there are thousands of people who continually take quinine and yet continually have more or less frequent attacks of malaria. These facts need no argument. Every person who lives in a malarious locality knows them to be true.

A remedy capable of curing these cases of chronic malaria that quinine will not relieve would be a great blessing to humanity and produce a genuine sensation in medical circles. This is exactly what the remedy—Pe-ru-na—will do. It cures all those old and stubborn cases of chronic malaria that have taken quinine, perhaps, for years without result. A thorough course of Pe-ru-na is sure to remove the malarial poison from the system.

A publication containing the latest information concerning the nature and origin of malarial poison and the cure of malaria in all its forms is being sent to malarial sufferers in all parts of the civilized world by The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company of Columbus, Ohio. It will be sent free to any address for a limited time.

Rev. A. D. McVoy, Jr.

The following resolutions were adopted by the Methodist Church at Robeline, Aug. 20, 1893:

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God in his providence to remove from our midst our beloved ex-pastor, A. D. McVoy, Jr., who so faithfully labored among us during the years 1889, '90 and '91; therefore, be it

Resolved, That while we deeply deplore his death, we know that he has conquered the last enemy, and is now wearing the crown of jewels laid up for him on account of the many good deeds done during his short life.

Resolved, That our heartfelt sympathies be extended to his bereaved wife, parents, brothers and sisters, and we point them to that angel kind who gently whispers, "Be resigned, bear up, bear on, the end shall tell the dear Lord ordereth all things well."

Resolved, That the church be draped in mourning, that a copy be sent to Sister Lizzie McVoy, Jr., one to his parents, and one to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE for publication.

F. C. BLACKSHEAR,
R. W. FREEMAN,
F. CROCKETT.
Committee.

Weak Stomach strengthened by BEECHAM'S PILLS.

Do You Know?

That when your bowels are disordered, and irregularities caused by change of diet or location exist,

Brodie's Astringent Cordial

Will correct all the troubles, and never fails, but

CURES

DIARRHŒA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, CRAMPS, BLOODY FLUX, and Such Symptoms.

TESTIMONIAL.

July 28, 1889.

Dear Sirs:—I have used Brodie's Astringent Cordial in my family, and am using the third bottle. It always acts like a charm upon my children, correcting ailments of the bowels better than any medicine I ever tried. * * *
Yours, most respectfully,
MRS. A. W. MOORE.

Price: 50 cts. and $1 a Bottle.

I. L. LYONS & CO., New Orleans, La.

Sold by All Druggists.

VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Next Session opens September 20th.

Full graduate as well as under graduate courses. Ten Fellowships for college graduates. Seven Departments—Academic, Engineering, Biblical, Law, Pharmaceutical, Dental, Medical. Fully equipped laboratories and museums.

WILS WILLIAMS, Secretary.

FAT PEOPLE

To reduce your weight SURELY use Willard's Obesity Pills and lose 15 pounds a month. No injury to the health. No interference with business or pleasure. NO STARVING. They build up and improve the general health, beautify the complexion and leave NO WRINKLES. Lucy Anderson, 84 Auburn St., Cambridge, Mass., writes: Three bottles of your Obesity Pills reduced my weight from 235 pounds to 190 and I never felt better in all my life. I am much pleased with the result, and shall do all I can to help you. Our patrons include Physicians, Bankers, Lawyers, and leaders of Society. Our goods are not sold in drug stores; all orders are supplied direct from our office. Price per package $2.00 or three packages for $5.00 by mail prepaid. Particulars (sealed) 4cts. ALL CORRESPONDENCE CONFIDENTIAL.

WILLARD REMEDY CO., BOSTON, MASS.

WIDOW HOOD'S LODGING HOUSE,

No. 19 ST. CHARLES ST.

I wish to announce to the public that I have renovated and refitted my house, and solicit the patronage of the traveling public. Open all night. Beds can be had for 25 and 50 cents. I especially solicit the patronage of Christian people visiting the city.

WIDOW A. A. HOOD.

LOOK!

WILKINSON'S

Matchless Sulphuric Acid and Iron Tonic

WELL WATER.

The Most Wonderful Tonic in America.

BOARD OF HEALTH, STATE OF LOUISIANA, New Orleans, Aug. 9, 1893.

Mr. W. W. WILKINSON—

Dear Sir: Below please find the results of analysis of the sample of water marked "Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water," submitted to me for examination, accompanied by the following affidavit:

The State of Alabama—Butler County.

Before me, F. M. Black, a Notary Public in and for said County and State, personally appeared J. F. Bergamer, Sheriff of Butler County, who being duly sworn on oath, saith that he went to the well of Mr. W. W. Wilkinson on this day and seen the Matchless Mineral Water drawn from the well and put in a five gallon demijohn and labeled to A. L. Metz, M. D., Chemist of Board of Health, No. 63 Carondelet Street, New Orleans, La.

(Signed) J. F. BERGAMER, Sheriff Butler County.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, July 20th, 1893.

(Signed) F. M. BLACK, Notary Public.

Color	Yellowish red and clear
Odor...(when heated to 140° F.)	Terebinthinous
Taste	Very Astringent
Phosphates	Heavy Traces
Chlorine as Chlorides	3.102 grains
Per U. S. gallon of 231 cub. inches
Equivalent to Sodium Chloride	5.083 grains
Sulphuric Acid	735.108
Iron (Ferric) Oxide	334.480
Iron (Ferrous) Oxide	101.920
Aluminum Oxide	7.681
Calcium Oxide (Lime)	30.476
Magnesia	26.572
Potash	2.322
Soda	6.045
Silica	6.049

These constituents are probably combined as follows:

Grains per U. S. gallon of 231 cub. inches
Iron (Ferric) Sulphate	836.200
Iron (Ferrous) Sulphate	218.775
Aluminum and Potassic Sulphate (Alum)	29.900
Calcium (Lime) Sulphate	74.013
Magnesium Sulphate	80.616
Sodium Sulphate	7.725
Sodium Phosphate	Heavy Traces
Sodium Chloride	5.033
Silica	6.049

The residue, after evaporation, crystallized, and the total weight, including water of crystallization, at 212° F., was 1.564 grains per gallon.

A. L. METZ, M. D.,
Chemist of the Board of Health of the State of Louisiana and of the City of New Orleans.

Cures Dyspepsia in its worst form, Chronic Diarrhœa, Diabetes, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Sores, Bilious Colic, Tetter, Ring Worm, Chronic Sores, Ulceration of the Womb, Throat, Catarrh, Debility. Best Natural Tonic in the World.

As a Tonic and Alterative.—A teaspoonful to a tablespoonful in one-half glass of water three times a day, directly after eating; but if stomach is soured, take before eating.

As a Cathartic.—Three to five tablespoonsful in same amount of water.

For External Application.—Use as a wash without diluting (warm if possible).

For Injection.—If water is too strong, slightly dilute and use twice a day.

For Cholera Morbus and Cramp Colic.—Two tablespoonsful every hour or two until relieved (in a little water).

Will keep full strength for any length of time in any climate. Never dilute except as used.

1. W. D. Rogers says: "Your Mineral Water has cured me of dyspepsia, and my wife of womb disease, when all else failed."

2. John H. McCullough says: "This water cured me of dyspepsia after suffering four years and trying medicine, doctors, etc."

3. W. D. Newman says: "I was afflicted for twelve years with tetter. Matchless Mineral Water cured me when all doctors and treatment failed."

4. Rev. Chas. R. Lamar was cured of dyspepsia of more than two years' standing by use of two gallons of Matchless Mineral Water.

5. J. H. Gilbert says: "Matchless Mineral Water is, beyond doubt, the best remedy known to me for sore eyes."

6. Jesse B. Basser says: "I have suffered long from chronic ulcerated sore leg. Offered $100 to doctors to cure. This water cured me."

7. Rev. J. M. Whitehead: "It cures every species of indigestion; can eat anything I want, and a good appetizer."

8. James J. Ingle says: "I have suffered five years with kidneys and liver. Have used one bottle. Most wonderful medicine I ever used."

9. J. G. Lightfoot says: "My son down five years. General debility and impure blood. Doctors failed. Two bottles Mineral Water cured him."

10. John Brannan says: "I was down three years with bilious colic. Spent $150 for medical treatment; grew worse; one and a half gallons. This water cured me."

11. Martin Eady says: "My eye was about out from gun cap in it. The two bottles of Mineral Water made a complete cure of my eyes."

12. George Green says: "I have been suffering fifteen or twenty years with chronic diarrhœa. The Matchless Mineral Water cured me."

13. W. J. Gardner says: "For seven or eight years I was victim of nervous dyspepsia and all its horrors. One quart Mineral Water cured me. Spent thousands of dollars for medical treatment. Would not go back for $10,000."

14. J. B. Brown says: "My only child, three years old, sick two years. Spent much for medical treatment. Child given up to die. Mineral Water cured him. I would not take $1,000 for benefits of that bottle of Mineral Water."

15. Mr. J. A. Davis, Bonham, Texas, says: 'My horse was as sick with colic as any horse I ever saw. One pint of water cured him in five minutes."

Price: Per bottle, 25c, 50c, and $1.

Address

C. M. FUSH,

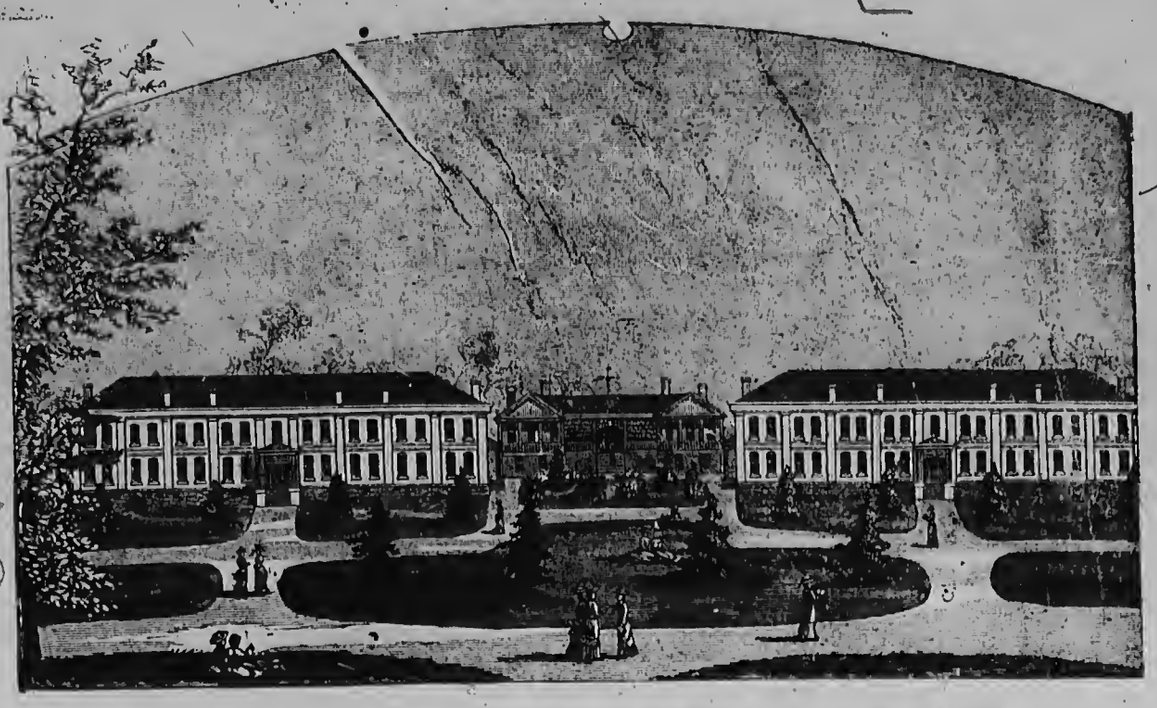
106 Camp Street,

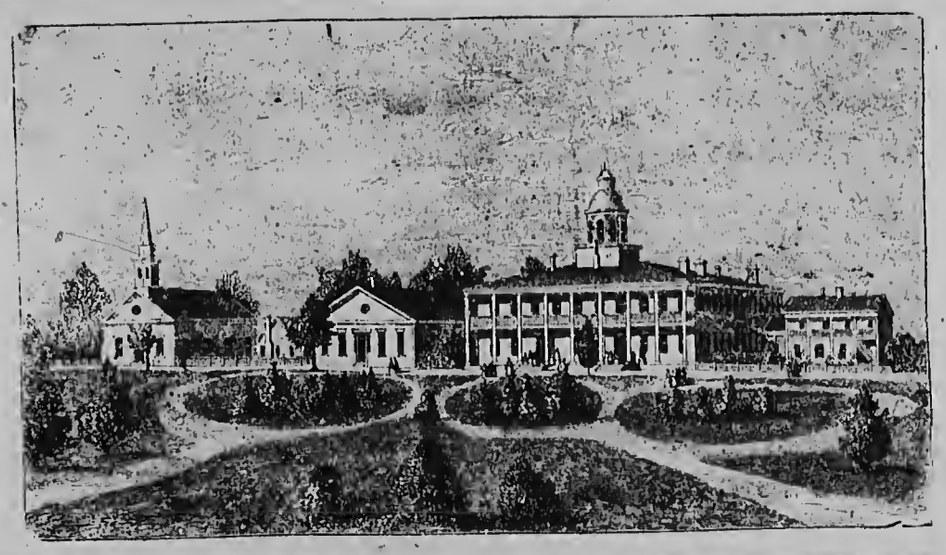
NEW ORLEANS, - - - LA.

Send stamp for circular.

Whitworth Female College and Conservatory of Music and Art,

BROOKHAVEN, MISS.





Next to the highest point on the I. C. R. R. from Cairo to New Orleans. This in part accounts for our wonderful health record. No Female College in the South has a higher standard. The best Conservatory of Music to be found this side of Cincinnati or Boston. No College of SIMILAR GRADE furnishes such splendid facilities on such reasonable terms. For further particulars and for catalogues, address

L. T. FITZHUGH, A. M., President.

East Mississippi Female College.

The 24th Session begins September 6, 1893.

Situated in the City of Meridian, is easy of access from all points.

The health record is unsurpassed.

The buildings are commodious and comfortable.

The faculty has been chosen with reference to EXPERIENCE, THOROUGHNESS and EXCELLENCY of CHARACTER.

Our terms are to suit the times.

For catalogue or further information apply to REV. T. B. HOLLOMAN, A. M., Pres., 1101 23rd Avenue, Meridian, Miss.

UNIVERSITY PREPARATORY SCHOOL,

73 COLISEUM STREET.

T. W. DYER, - - - Principal.

The Eleventh Session begins Oct. 2 with a full corps of teachers. The location is perfect. The surroundings are attractive. The grounds are large (quarter of a square), with separate yard and accommodations for smaller boys. A few boarding pupils can be accommodated. References: The clergy of New Orleans and the faculty of Tulane University.

Cincinnati Conservatory of Music,

MISS CLARA BAUR, Directress.

Thorough musical education after the methods of foremost European conservatories. The Conservatory will as usual be open during the entire Summer, and students can, as during the school year, enter at any time.

Branches taught: Vocal culture, the Pianoforte, Organ, Harp, Violin, and all other Orchestral Instruments; also Guitar, Mandolin and Banjo; Elocution, Delsarte, Modern Languages, English Literature and Art.

Young ladies from a distance can board in the Conservatory building, where they pursue their studies under the supervision of the Directress. For Catalogue address in full,

MISS CLARA BAUR,
Conservatory of Music, 4th and Lawrence,
Cincinnati, O.

Opelousas Female Institute,

Opelousas, St. Landry Ph., La.

A practical, non-sectarian Institution, founded in 1871. Discipline firm, but kind, and based on sound principles. Honor and self-respect promoted. Thorough training and culture. Curriculum revised, and prepares for university or practical life. Diplomas are conferred. Buildings are comfortable and commodious. Unrivalled health record.

Twenty-third session begins Sept. 11, 1893.

For Catalogue and further particulars apply to the Principal or Vice-Principal.

J. F. ARMENTROUT, B.A. (Univ. of Va.), Principal.

MRS. M. M. HAYES, Vice-Principal.
MISS LEOLA B. WHITE, First Assistant.

No Tobacco. NO OPIUM. The only practicable way to reach CATARRH thoroughly and pleasantly. A positive cure even if all else has failed. Sample FREE by mail Co. J. W. BLOSSER & CO., DALTON GA.

VIRGINIA MILITARY INSTITUTE,

LEXINGTON, VA.

55th Year. State Military, Scientific and Technical School. Thorough Courses in general and applied Chemistry, and in Engineering. Confers degree of graduate in Academic Course, also degrees of Bachelor of Science and Civil Engineer in Technical Courses. All expenses, including clothing and instruction, provided at rate of $36.50 per month, as an average for the four years, exclusive of outfit.

New Cadets report Sept. 1st.

GEN. SCOTT SHIPP, Superintendent.

MALONE COLLEGE

For Young Ladies.

HOLLY SPRINGS, MISSISSIPPI.

The Third Annual Session will begin Monday, Sept. 20, 1893.
Location, highest point in the State. Elevation, 613 feet.
Health unsurpassed in the Southwest.
Course thorough and comprehensive.
Each department under the charge of specialists.
Special advantages offered in music, art and elocution.
A HOME SCHOOL for pupils under Christian influences.
Terms moderate. For catalogues or further particulars address

Rev. J. W. HONNOLL, President.

Memphis Conference Female Institute

—AND—

Conservatory of Music,

Jackson, Tenn.

A HIGH GRADE COLLEGE FOR GIRLS AND YOUNG LADIES.
A METHODIST SCHOOL FOR METHODIST GIRLS.

Faculty Large and Course of Study Extensive.
Teacher of Elocution Trained in the Emerson School of Oratory.
Thoroughly Equipped Gymnasium.
Conservatory of Music and Art.
Water throughout Buildings.
Lighted with Gas and Electricity.
Library of Over 6,000 Volumes.
Twenty-three Pianos.

The city of Jackson is noted for its culture and healthfulness. Thirty bored wells furnish a water supply which chemical experts pronounce as pure as that from the famous Eureka Springs in Arkansas.

A fine opportunity is here provided to secure health while acquiring an education.

For catalogue and other information write the president,

Rev. Howard W. Key, A.M., Ph.D.

WALL & MOONEY'S SCHOOL,

FRANKLIN, TENNESSEE.

S. V. WALL. W. D. MOONEY, A. M.

Fits Boys for College or Business.

Our Students Enter Vanderbilt on Certificate, Without Examination. Positive Engagement Necessary to Secure Admission.

Fall term will open August 29, 1893.

Address W. D. MOONEY, Secretary.

EMORY COLLEGE

OXFORD, GA. Forty Miles East of Atlanta. Location Proverbially Healthy; No Saloons.

57th Session opens Sept. 20th, 1893, closes June 13, 1894. Endowment recently increased $100,000 and equipment greatly improved. Total expenses within $225. For full information, address

W. A. CANDLER, D. D., PRESIDENT.

SOUTHERN FEMALE COLLEGE

PETERSBURG, VA.

Historic Home School in perfect Climate. Unsurpassed course in Literature, Language, Science, Conservatory advantages in Music and Art. All modern improvements. 31st session. Terms low. Send for catalogue to ARTHUR K. DAVIS, A. M., Pres't, Petersburg, Va.

IT'S A SIGN OF DANGER,

when pimples, blotches and eruptions appear on the skin, no matter how slight. It warns you that your blood isn't pure. Heed the warning while there is yet time; clear up your system and purify the blood by taking Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It rouses every organ into natural action, purifies and enriches the blood and through it cleanses and invigorates the whole system. It attacks all scrofulous, skin and scalp diseases in the right way—by purifying the blood.

The diseases that it cures come from a torpid liver, or from impure blood. For everything of this nature, it is the only guaranteed remedy.

In Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Biliousness; all Bronchial, Throat, and Lung Affections, even Consumption (or Lung-scrofula) in its earlier stages—if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

The worse your Catarrh, the more you need Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

HENRY P. DART,

Attorney-at-Law,

49 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

FREE by return mail, full descriptive circulars of MOODY'S NEW and MOODY'S IMPROVED TAILOR SYSTEMS OF DRESS CUTTING. Revised to date. These, only, are the genuine TAILOR SYSTEMS invented and copyrighted by PROF. D. W. MOODY. Beware of imitations. Any lady of ordinary intelligence can easily and quickly learn to cut and make any garment, in any style, to any measure, for ladies, men and children. Garments guaranteed to fit perfectly without trying on. Address MOODY & CO. CINCINNATI, O.

WASHINGTON & LEE
UNIVERSITY, Lexington, Virginia.
Academic; Law; Engineering. Opens Sept. 14. For catalogue address
G. W. C. LEE, President.

—A—
Washington and Lee College
SCHOLARSHIP
FOR SALE CHEAP.
Apply at
Werlein's Music Store,
135 Canal Street.

NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY
Founded by Dr. Eben Tourjee. OF MUSIC. CARL FAELTEN, Director.
The Leading Conservatory of America.
In addition to its unequalled musical advantages, exceptional opportunities are also provided for the study of Elocution, the Fine Arts, and Modern Languages. The admirably equipped Home affords a safe and inviting residence for lady students. Calendar Free.
FRANK W. HALE, General Manager,
Franklin Square, Boston, Mass.

Huntsville
Female -:- College.
HUNTSVILLE, ALABAMA.

Forty-fourth Session begins Wednesday, September 6, 1893. Healthy, well-furnished; twenty Officers and Teachers. All departments of Female Education thoroughly taught; Music, Art, Languages, Sciences, Literature and Commercial Course. A Christian home for pupils. Charges reasonable. For Catalognes, etc., apply to
Rev. A. B. JONES, President.

Mississippi
Industrial Institute and College.
BUREAU OF EDUCATION.
Persons desiring to employ competent teachers, or young women qualified to do good work as dress makers, telegraphers, type writers and book keepers, are invited to correspond with this Bureau. No charge for services.
Apply to MISS S. C. McLAURIN,
I. I. and C., Columbus, Miss.

WESLEYAN FEMALE COLLEGE, MACON, GA.
Annual Session begins September 20th, 1893. Best advantages in Literature, Music and Art. For safety, health and domestic comfort, there is no better home for girls. Apply for Catalogue to
REV. W. C. BASS, PRES.

CARPETS!
Don't have your carpets half cleaned; all know how impossible it is to clean carpets by hand.
All dust thoroughly taken out by steam.
Feathers purged of all impurities.
44 St. Peter Street.

AGENTS WANTED ON SALARY or commission, to handle the new Patent Chemical Ink Erasing Pencil. The quickest and greatest selling novelty ever produced. Erases ink thoroughly in two seconds. No abrasion of paper. Works like magic. 200 to 500 per cent. profit. One Agent's sales amounted to $630 in six days. Another $33 in two hours. Previous experience not necessary. For terms and full particulars, address, The Monroe Eraser Mf'g Co., La Crosse, Wis. X 378.

HOPKINS'
PRINTING OFFICE,
20 Commercial Place,
John P. Hopkins. New Orleans

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

HOME CIRCLE.

LITTLE THINGS.

A good-by kiss is a little thing,
With your hand on the door to go,
But it takes the venom out of the sting
Of a thoughtless word or a cruel fling
That you made an hour ago.

A kiss of greeting is sweet and rare
After the toil of the day,
But it smooths the furrows out of the care,
And lines on the forehead you once called fair,
In the years that have flown away.

'Tis a little thing to say, 'You are kind,"
"I love you, my dear," each night,
But it sends a thrill through the heart, I find;
For love is tender, as love is blind,
As we climb life's rugged height.

We starve each other for love's caress,
We take, but do not give;
It seems so easy some soul to bless,
But we dole love grudgingly, less and less,
Till 'tis bitter and hard to live.

—Union Signal.

Spiritual Nourishment.

The first source of spiritual life is good food for the soul. The more nourishing the food and the better the digestion the stronger do we become. Some Christians die of starvation. They surfeit the inner man with secular stimulants of all sorts—with spiced books of fiction, with "light reading" that is mere syllabub. Many swallow little else than their daily newspaper. The moral faculties become debilitated on this flimsy diet. Now all the athletic Christians—all those who can carry heavy loads, do thorough work and stand a long pull—are hungry feeders on God's Book. Nothing will impart sinew and muscle to your piety like the thorough study and digestion of your Bible. A good sermon must be digested or it will be of little use to you, and your daily bread of the Bible must go through the same process in order that it may be assimilated and taken into your spiritual fibre. "Thy words were found and I did eat them and they were the joy of mine heart," said the old-time saint. One strong Bible text lodged in the memory and turned over and over and well digested will be a breakfast for your soul, and in the strength of it you may go through the whole day. A soldier is never in so good trim for battle as after a sound sleep and a square morning meal; it is not easy to fight or to march on an empty stomach. In like manner every servant of Jesus Christ must recruit his or her spiritual strength by reading Christ's words and thinking about them by meditation, by prayer and soul converse with God. I have always observed that the light readers and light thinkers made light Christians, and those who neglect their Bibles and their closets soon dwindle into dwarfs. Having no depth of root, their religion withers away.—Dr. Cuyler.

Seek the Indwelling Spirit.

It is universally admitted that the Holy Spirit has not in the teaching of the church or the faith of believers that place of honor and power which becomes him as the Revealer of the Father and the Son. Seek a deep conviction that without the Holy Spirit the clearest teaching on holiness, the most fervent desires, the most blessed experiences even, will only be temporary, will produce no permanent result, will bring no abiding rest.

The Holy Spirit dwells within and works within in the hidden deep of your nature. Seek, above everything, the clear and habitual assurance that he is within you doing his work. To this end deny self and its work in serving God. Your own power to think and pray and believe and strive, lay it all down expressly and distinctly in God's presence; claim, accept and believe in the hidden workings of his indwelling Spirit.

As the Son ever spake of the Father, so the Spirit ever points to Christ. The soul that yields itself to the Spirit will of him learn how Christ is our holiness, how we can always abide in Christ, our sanctification. What a vain effort it has often been without the Spirit! "As the anointing taught you, ye abide in him."

In the temple of thy heart, beloved believer, there is a secret place within the veil where dwells often all unknown the Spirit of God. Do bow in deep reverence before the Father, and ask that he may work mightily. Expect the Spirit to do his work; he will make thy inner man a fit home, thy heart a throne for Jesus, and reveal him there.—Andrew Murray.

Natural Bridge of Chalcedony.

A mining expert sent to investigate some Arizona properties for Denver capitalists has recently returned and reports the finding of a most remarkable natural bridge formed by a tree of agatized wood spanning a canon forty-five feet in width. The tree has at some remote time fallen, when it became embedded in the slit of some great inland sea or mighty water overflow. The slit became in time sandstone, and the wood gradually passed through the stages of mineralization, until it is now a wonderful tree of solid agate.

In after years water washed and ate away the sandstone until the canon forty-five feet in width has been formed, the flinty-like substance of the agatized wood having resisted the erosion of the water-flow. Fully fifty feet of the tree rests on one side and can be traced, but how far its other end lies buried in the sandstone can not be determined without blasting away the rock.

The trunk visible above the canon varies in size from four feet to three feet in diameter. Where the bark has been broken and torn away, the characteristic colors of jasper and agate are seen. To the naked eye the wood is beautiful. Under a microscope or miner's magnifying glass the brilliancy of the colorings is clearly brought out in all their wondrous beauty.—Jewelers' Circular.

A Bad Crop.

Two English countrymen recently met in a lane. "Hello!" said one, "there's been a Conference?"

"A Conference! What's Conference?" was the astonished reply.

"Don't you know what a Conference is?" retorted the speaker. "Why, it's a place where parsons meet and swap sermons."

"Swap sermons, do they? Well, then, our parson must be an unlucky man, for he allers get a crop of bad uns."

Some one has well said: "The dearest things in the world are neighbors' eyes." They do indeed cost immense sums, because few people have independence enough to regulate their expenditure by their own ability or needs. Most are in such mortal terror of what others will say, or have such a foolish ambition to outshine somebody else, and are so consumed with vanity and pride, that they are scarcely more masters of their own purse-strings than of the Czar of the Russias. We should not offend our neighbors' eyes by needless dirt or ugliness, but when they lay upon us a tax of expenditure beyond our means they go outside their rightful province.—Exchange.

A Baking Powder of Known Purity and Surpassing Excellence

Dr. Price's
Cream Baking Powder.

Many marvel at its rapid strides in popularity. The cause is its marked superiority over every other leavening agent.

It is a pure Cream of Tartar Powder.
Works quickly.
Makes the finest flavored, most delicious and wholesome food,
Whitest flaky biscuit,
Lightest and finest griddle cakes and
Pastry and cake that remain moist and sweet.

OUR YOUNG PEOPLE.

THE POOR LITTLE TOE.

BY ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

"I am all tired out," said the mouth with a pout,
"I am all tired out with talk."
"Just wait," said the knee, "till you're as lame as you can be
And then have to walk—walk—walk."
"My work," said the hand, "is the hardest in the land."
"Nay, mine is harder yet," said the brain.
"When you toil," said the eye, "as steadily as I,
Why, then you'll have reason to complain."

Then a voice faint and low of the poor little toe
Spoke out in the dark with a wail.
"It is seldom I complain, but you all will bear your pain
With more patience if you hearken to my tale.
I'm the youngest of five, and the others live and thrive,
They are cared for and considered and admired.
I am overlooked and snubbed, I am pushed and rubbed,
I am always sick and ailing, sore and tired.

"Yet I carry all the weight of the body, small and great,
But no one ever praises what I do.
I am always in the way, and 'tis I who have to pay
For the folly and the pride of all of you."
Then the mouth and the brain and the hand said, "'Tis plain
Tho' troubled he our lives with woe,
The hardest lot of all does certainly befall
The poor little humble little toe—
The rubbed little, snubbed little toe."

How Will Was Cured.

"I don't know what to do with my little boy," said Willie's mother. "He hasn't been well, and the doctor told me to take him to the seashore, and let him play all day in the sand. But how am I going to make him play, when he does not feel like it? He hides from the merry children, and sits and mopes by himself."

"I know a prescription much better than your doctor's," said a strange lady sitting by.

"What is it?" asked Will's mother.

"Call him, and let me try it," said the stranger.

"Will! O, Will! come here a minute, my son," called his mother.

Will got up slowly, leaving his bucket and spade in the sand. "They are just going to tease me about not playing," he grumbled to himself. "I wish everybody would let me alone."

But they didn't say a word to him about playing.

"Will," said the strange lady, brightly, "If you are not too busy I wish you would help me a little."

Will pricked up his ears. It had been a long time since he had been allowed to help anybody but himself.

"You see that little yellow cottage way off there?" asked the lady. "It is about a mile up the beach. There is a lame boy in that cottage, and I want to send him an orange; will you take it?"

"Yes, ma'am, certainly," said the small boy. "And, Will," she continued, "if you do anything to amuse or cheer him, it would be a good thing, you know; he can't get out of the house by himself, but he might with you to help him."

Will was done moping now, forever and a day. He forgot all about himself, in doing things for lame Lucien. That strange lady's prescription worked wonders. If you ever feel dull, little readers, I advise you to try it.—The Sunbeam.

English Pessimism and American Optimism.

Why is it that English authors sit in the ashes filled with pessimism, while American authors flourish in the sunshine, full of hope and aspiration? We must ask the Westminster Review, which, let us remark, ought to know that England does not produce all the literature of the century.

The English climate, the English constitution, the English temperament, English society, English history, English newspapers, English provender and liquors, the Houses of Parliament, the national debt, and the Irish question are responsible for many things in England that might be altered for greater general happiness.—New York Sun.

Doubts are lost, dissolved in the light of his shining. Christ is no more one of whom we have but vacant memories and vague thoughts; we know him as real and present. We claim him as our own. There bursts from the heart the triumphant assurance, and exultant possession, which cries, My Lord and my God! We put a bold constraint upon our King, and compel him, by our importunity, to abide with us.—Mark Guy Pearse.

ONLY ONE MOTHER.

Hundreds of stars in the lovely sky,
Hundreds of shells on the shore together,
Hundreds of birds that go singing by,
Hundreds of flowers in the sunny weather,
Hundreds of dewdrops to greet the dawn,
Hundreds of bees in the purple clover,
Hundreds of butterflies on the lawn,
But only one mother the whole world over.

An Idle Day.

"If I could only have one whole day to do nothing but play in, how happy I should be!" said Rosie to her mother at breakfast time.

"Try it," said her mother. "Play as much as you like. Try it to-day."

How the children going to school envied Rosie, as she swung on the gate and watched them passing by. No hard, long lesson for her. When they were gone, she ran into the garden, picked some gooseberries for pudding, and stood them into the kitchen.

"No, Rosie! That is work. Take them away."

Rosie looked serious. She got her doll and played with it, but soon tired; her shuttlecock, but did not care for it; her ball, it bounced into the kitchen window. Rosie peeped in after it. Mother was shelling peas.

"May I help you, mother?"

"No, Rosie, this isn't play."

Rosie strolled away with slow, lagging footsteps to the garden again. She leaned against the fence and watched the chickens. Soon she heard her mother setting the table for dinner, and longed to help. After dinner Rosie took her little patchwork and stole away to the barn with it, for she could stand idleness no longer.

"Mother," she said, as she gave her a good-night kiss, "I understand now what the teacher meant when she said, "He has hard work who has nothing to do."—Presbyterian.

Trying to Help God.

Here is a charming little incident which illustrates the thoughtfulness of childhood—a quality we are apt very much to undervalue. A little girl seeing the servant throw the crumbs into the fire, said:

"Don't you know that God takes care of the sparrows?"

"If God takes care of them," was the careless reply, "we need not trouble ourselves about them."

"But," said the little girl, "I had rather be like God, and help him take care of the little birds, than to scatter or waste the food he gives us."

She carefully collected what was left of the crumbs and threw them out of the window. In a short time several little birds flew eagerly to the spot, and picked up the crumbs she had scattered. After this, she every day collected the crumbs that fell around the tables and threw them out of the window for the little birds; and during all the Winter these little creatures came regularly after each meal to partake of the food thus provided for their support. This was her idea of "helping God."—Selected.

Manhood's Foundation.

Truth, my boy, is the only foundation on which manhood can be erected; for otherwise, no matter how beautiful the upper stories may be and no matter of how good material they may be built, the edifice, the character, the manhood, will be but a sham which offers no sure refuge and protection to those who seek it, for it will tumble down when the trial comes. Alas! my boy, the world is very full of such shams of manhood in every profession and occupation. Now I want you to be a man, and that you may be that, I want you to be first thoroughly true. I hope you would scorn to tell a lie, but that is only the beginning of truthfulness. I want you to despise all sham, all pretence, all effort to seem to be otherwise than you are.—Bishop Dudley.

Faithful in Little Things.

(Luke xvi, 10.)

A young bugler in the French army lay on his narrow bed in the camp hospital mortally wounded. The commander, passing from bed to bed, to speak a kind word to each occupant, paused by the little bugler, and laid a cool hand on his fevered brow. "Oh, General," said the little fellow, "if only I were a man, I might have helped to win the battle yesterday." "Win the battle!" he replied, "why, without your aid we should never have won the day; though your duty seemed so simple and so insignificant, I could not have done without you."

We buy lamp-chimneys by the dozen; they go on snapping and popping and flying in pieces; and we go on buying the very same chimneys year after year.

Our dealer is willing to sell us a chimney a week for every lamp we burn.

Macbeth's "pearl top" and "pearl glass" do not break from heat; they are made of tough glass. Try them.

Pittsburgh. GEO. A. MACBETH CO.

VACUUM Leather Oil keeps leather new and restores it to newness when hard and brittle, unless it is cracked—it won't mend cracks—25c, and your money back if you want it.

Patent lambskin-with-wool-on swob and book—How to Take Care of Leather—both free at the store.

Vacuum Oil Company, Rochester, N. Y.

Dr. King's Royal Germetuer

Is a unique, peerless preparation, which embodies the best and latest fruits of medical research, and differs radically from ordinary medicines in a number of particulars. Here are three of them:

1. It is as pleasant to take as lemonade.
2. It is harmless always—may be safely given to a babe one day old.
3. IT CURES WHEN ALL ELSE FAILS.

REV. SAM P. JONES SAYS:

"My wife, who was an invalid from nervous sick headache, has been entirely cured by six weeks' use of Dr. King's Royal Germetuer. Her health is perfect. In three weeks two of my children were cured completely of nasal catarrh. IT IS TRULY A GREAT REMEDY."

GENERAL LONGSTREET SAYS:

"I have suffered for months past from insomnia and indigestion, and failing of relief, was induced by a friend to try Dr. King's Royal Germetuer. I am now relieved, and I hope permanently so."

TESTED AND PROVED FOR YEARS.

TERRY, MISS., April 21, 1893.

We have been using Dr. King's Royal Germetuer for several years in our family, and have recommended it to many others. It has always done what is claimed for it, as far as tried, and I regard it as the best medicine we have ever had in our family.

MRS. J. J. HALBERT.

This great remedy presents an array of testimonials absolutely without a parallel in the history of medicines either as to character or number. These statements show that it cures Nervous Disorder, Stomach Troubles, Bowel Derangement in old or young, whether recent or chronic, Kidney and Bladder Troubles, Debility.

Give it a fair trial, and you will be convinced. $1 per bottle, 6 for $5.

ALL THE COMFORTS
OF HOME
includes the great temperance drink
Hires' Root Beer
It gives New Life to the Old Folks,
Pleasure to the Parents,
Health to the Children.
Good for All—Good All the Time.
A 25 cent package makes Five gallons. Be sure and get Hires.'

INTERNATIONAL BIBLES.

Largest Type Teacher's Bible in the World.

We have for years been trying to get a large type Teacher's Bible which was not too large and heavy. We have it in this series. Besides this feature, the helps are entirely new, and were written by the greatest scholars of both America and Europe, which guarantees their superiority over all others. Everyone who is familiar with the Oxford and Bagster Teacher's Bibles knows that the book printed in Minion type makes the most desirable sized volume, but the Minion type is too small for any but the best eyes; and while their books in Bourgeois type suit the eyes, they are entirely too large and heavy for convenient handling. This International Series overcomes both these faults by having the Bourgeois type book no larger or heavier than the much smaller type (Minion) Oxford and Bagster books, while the prices are much less than for books of corresponding type in any other series, and the bindings are not only similar in design, but equal in every particular to the older Teacher's Bibles; and some of these bindings are finer than those of any other Teacher's Bibles we have ever seen.

We are specially glad to be able to say that the prices of these Bibles are in many cases much cheaper than the Oxford or Bagster Books, while they are altogether equally well made and have the newest and best helps and Maps. We claim for these new Teacher's Bibles that they give

The Largest Type in the Smallest Book.
The Newest and Best Helps.
The Newest Maps, Which Were Made Especially for This Series.
Bindings Unsurpassed.
Smaller Prices Than Any Other Series.

We confidently assure our patrons that in the INTERNATIONAL TEACHER'S BIBLE SERIES we have the very BEST line of Teacher's Bibles ever offered.

Write us for a Descriptive Catalogue showing size of type, size of books, etc.

Address
F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp Street, - New Orleans, La.

8% GUARANTEED by a leading Trust Company is offered at par. Suitable for large and small investments. Full information furnished by W. E. LOWE, Mills Building, New York.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.
CATARRH
Sold by Druggists or sent by mail. 50c. E. T. Hazeltine, Warren Pa.

There's a sparkle in the cup,
But beware!
There's a brightness flashing up,
But beware!
In its depths a spell was spoken,
Which, once felt, is never broken,
So beware!
—Pilgrim Teacher.

OBITUARIES.

We publish obituaries of 200 words free of charge; for all over this, one cent per word must be sent. If you want the notice to appear in its order, comply with this rule. Count the words, and send one cent for each word over 200.

FANT—Mrs. NANNIE B. FANT, president of W. M. S., North Mississippi Conference, died in Holly Springs, Aug. 18. This news will bring deepest sorrow to the hearts of nnmbers of onr sisters, for "Sister Nannie" was widely known and teederly loved. A great gap has been made in our ranks, a mighty worker has been called from labor to reward, and this old world is poorer and we are each personally hereaved, now that our dear sister has gone home.

MARY L. HARGROVE,
Conference Cor. Sec.

DECELL—Mrs. REBECCA DECELL died July 8, 1893, in her seventy-sixth year. She was the daughter of John and Grace Wheat, Copiah county, Miss., and was brought up by these godly people in the good ways of the Lord. She became religious in her early life, and walked in the power and demonstration of the Spirit all her life. Her religion was demonstrative and heartfelt. She was converted to a conscious acceptance and to the witness of the Spirit, and the joy of the Lord was a part of her religious life to the end.

She was a member of the Pleasant Valley Church, where there prevailed for years a continual revival of religion, and a Christian experience and life superior to anything I have ever known. Large numbers of conversions occurred during all those years, and many most remarkable. The prayer meetings at church and from house to house, in the sick-chamber, and in the woods near the church were full of power. Mrs. Decell was in all these, singing, shouting and praying in public and talking with God. Noisy and emotional as the church life was, and extravagant as some might think, they were fruitful in every good work, and abounded in love towards one another more and more, and kept the ordinances and commandments of God. From this one church there went into the Methodist ministry nine preachers, and most of them itinerant.

In the prime of life her devout and godly husband, James J. Decell, was removed by death, and she was left a widow with a large number of small children and slender means. Trusting in God, whom she served, she addressed herself to the task of caring for her fatherless children, and raised them up to be honorable and useful men and women, and to adorn the doctrine of the grace of God. She had long been an invalid, and realized that it was far better to depart and be with the Lord.

On Saturday evening, at the home of her son, John S. Decell (where she had so long lived), at five o'clock, she closed her eyes and folded her hands, and with a smile upon her face she passed away. The next afternoon, a beautiful Sabbath, in the presence of a large concourse of kindred and friends, we laid her by the side of her husband, whom she loved so well and whose spirit hers was so glad to rejoin in our Father's house above.

J. J. WHEAT.

JORDAN—ELLA EMMONS JORDAN was born in Davenport, Delaware county, New York, Jan. 21, 1840; graduated in 1857, coming South the same year. She professed religion and joined the M. E. Church, South, in the eighteenth year of her age. She was married to Dr. J. B. Jordae in 1859, and died April 8, 1893, in the full assurance of eternal life.

The writer of this brief biography was Sister Jordae's pastor for four years (Black Hawk circuit, North Mississippi Conference), and often enjoyed the refined hospitality of her Christian home. She was of a cheerful disposition, and while qualified by natural endowments and cultivated talents to adorn any circle, she preferred the sweet and sacred ministries of home. She was a model of neatness and order. She never ate the bread of idleness. She looked well to the ways of her household, and her children arise up and call her blessed.

Sister Jordan's life was marked by generous self-forgetfulness, sweetness of temper and tenderness of affection. She was devoted to God and zealous in his service.

Our departed sister's last sickness was prolonged and painful, but her sufferings were borne without a murmur. A few hours before she breathed her last, she expressed perfect resignation to the divine will, and after speaking words of consolation and admonition to her children she quietly and peacefully sank to rest. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord."

J. S. OAKLEY.

Arkansas Methodist please copy.

OSTEEN—ABSAM C. OSTEEN, the subject of this notice, was born in Middle Tennessee, May 17, 1817, and died at home, in Coldwater, Miss., June 18, 1893.

Bro. Osteen gave his heart to God in early life and joined the Methodist Church, and remained a worthy, zealous and consistent member till he was removed to the church above. He loved the church and its institutions, and was liberal in their support. He loved to work in and for the church; was at various times and places class leader, steward and Sunday-school superintendent; was at his place in the house of God as long as health and strength permitted, and when old and deaf he was found at his place in the church, worshiping God and deriving spiritual benefit from the services.

He came to Mississippi about 1850, and by great tedestry and economy acquired a good property, but the war coming on swept away the accumulations of a lifetime with every male member of his family, and left him bereaved of his children, old and poor. But though cast down, he was not destroyed, and with commendable energy he was soon again prosperous, and in his age and feebleness he had the comforts of life about him. A good man has gone home to rest from his labors, but his works do follow him. May we all follow him as he followed Christ!

A. P. SAGE.

TRAWICK—Died, Dec. 23, 1892, ERMA OWEN TRAWICK, daughter of H. P. and Ella Trawick. Little Erma's feet grew weary and she sweetly fell asleep in Jesus. On Friday morning, at the stroke of six, her beautiful brown eyes closed in death. Her stay with us was brief, not quite four happy years here on earth. "Forever happy in heaven!" To us this little life taken so suddenly seems strange and mysterious, and had she been spared only a little longer we might better have borne the parting; but "he who doeth all things well" knoweth best. We know it is well with her up there. "Our Father" will give back to us all our lost treasures. The little hands are waiting to open the pearly gates for us and the dear ones who will welcome us in the "city of God."

AUNT CANNIE.

BUBENZER—WILLIE FLOYD BUBENZER, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Bubenser, was born April 2, 1887, and died Aug. 1, 1893, in our home near Bunkie, La.

The angel of death came suddenly in our midst and carried with him the pure and spotless soul of our brother ere the stain of imperfection had polluted it. Kind friends laid the little white-robed, inanimate form in the white coffin, and we carried it to the Evergreen Cemetery, where it will rest until the resurrection morn under the magnolia trees.

He was an affectionate and intelligent child, and bore his suffering patiently. But sickness nor pain, nor sorrow, nor death shall ever more disturb the sweet composure of his happy spirit. Our hearts are sad and our home is lonely without him. But thou, O Father, who knoweth and doeth all things well, "thy will be done." And He who said, "Unless ye come as a little child ye can not enter the kingdom of heaven," make us such as he, that we may all meet around thy throne. The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord!

SISTER MAGOIE.

MILLER—Miss ELIZA A. MILLER departed this life in full triumphs of a living faith, in the home of her brother, in Gallman, Miss., Aug. 11, 1893, in the sixtieth year of her age. She joined the Baptist Church in 1854, in which she lived a consistent member and a devoted Christian life. Of her it may be said, "She hath done what she could" for the poor and needy, for the sick and sorrowing.

"Aunt Liza," as she was familiarly called, was indeed a benediction to the whole community in which she lived. Her life was an exemplification of the "Golden Rule," one that is worthy of imitation. Her highest ambition was that she might copy the life of her blessed Savior. As might have been expected, the gloomy shadow of death when it came was fraught with no terror; it was not death, but sleep; and when at last the shadow settled down, like a brooding silence, the darkness was only on this side the vail; and could we shrinking mortals but penetrate through the misty pall, our eyes would be dazzled by the glimpses of the morning burst in rapturous vision upon the departed loved one.

W. W. MOREN.

DOTEY—Mrs. MARY ELIZABETH DOTEY (nee McCall) passed suddenly, but quietly away at her home on Grand Chenier, La., Aug. 1, 1893, aged sixty-seven years.

She had long been a consistent member of the Baptist Church, and was greatly beloved by all who knew her. In her death Grand Chenier has sustained an irreparable loss, and the church is bereft of one of its most earnest and consecrated workers. By "the church" is meant the Methodist, for there was no organization of her faith in the immediate vicinity, and her love for the Master and his cause was such that she knew no denominational distinctions when the salvation of souls was at stake. We expect to meet her again, and would say to the aged mother, the heart-broken husband and children: Seek after and obtain the religion she enjoyed and lived, and the now broken family circle shall soon be united again.

JNO. B. KENT.

COULTER—It is my painful and sad duty to offer a short tribute to the memory of our dear little RUBIE, infant daughter of J. S. and Nannie Coulter. She was born March 2, 1892, and after suffering for sixteen days she fell on sleep in the arms of Jesus about two o'clock, June 12, 1893. Little Rubie was the pet of all who knew her, but she was the pet of the preacher and family as well as the father and mother and home circle. She was so sweet, so loving, so gentle in disposition to all that approached her. She was too sweet, too bright and too pure for this sinful world, and God has taken her to himself. May God help the father and mother to live in the faith of the Savior, and walk in the path of duty to the God of heaven, and when they depart this life to meet dear little Rubie in heaven!

J. H. EVANS.

WILSON—Transplanted from earth to heaven, HARRY WARD WILSON, only son of Charley and Mody Wilson, born July 4, 1892; died July 25, 1893.

Mourn not, father and mother and loved ones, for little Harry is at rest from the trials of this life. He will be waiting to welcome you home when your time comes.

E. H. MCNABB.

Enieville, Miss.

We will mail free, on receipt of two cents in stamps, a sample box of Dr. Davis' Liver Pills. They will cure costiveness, biliousness, dyspepsia, indigestion, piles, and all disorders that arise from a diseased liver and impure blood.

JOHN H. COLLINS & CO.,
208 Market St., Phila., Pa.

For sale by all druggists at 25c. per box.

Mr. Spurgeon's direction about preaching is worth many books on homiletics. "Preach the gospel, and then preach it with the three adverbs—earnestly, interestingly, fully. This done, the clamor for short sermons, and the lament over empty pews, will be hushed."

An Only Daughter Cured of Consumption

When death was hourly expected from Consumption, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H James was experimenting, he accidentally made a preparation of Indian Hemp, which cured his only child, and now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. Hemp also cures night sweats, nausea at the stomach, and will break a fresh cold in twenty-four hours. Address Craddock & Co., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa., naming this paper.

Every local option election held in the State of Mississippi during the past twelve months has resulted in a no-license victory. Forty-eight of the seventy-five counties of the State are now dry.

Sympathy for the Distressed.

Our lives are all music if we but touch the chords rightly, so says one of our poets, and we all know there is a golden thread entering into the warp and woof of every-day life that is touched by sympathy for the distressed and suffering. At such a time what a boon to have on hand Dicke' Mul-en-ol to offer as a relief for cuts, burns, bruises, sprains and colic. It is soothing and cooling. Large bottles 50 cents.

A "prise boy" in India is one who repeats without mistake every Sunday-school golden text and verse for the year. In one Sunday-school procession in Lucknow there have been five elephants and one camel loaded with such prise boys.

I want an active agent in every parish in the bounds of the Louisiana Conference to handle that wonderful new book by Bishop Fitzgerald, The Epworth League Book. Don't miss this opportunity of a lifetime. First come first served! Prospectus, 75 cents.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp St., - - - - - - - New Orleans.

Notice.

I have the best thing in the way of a Teacher's Bible for an agent to handle ever published. Write for full descriptive circulars at once.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp St., - - - - - - - New Orleans.

No mineral water will produce the beneficial results that follow taking ONE or more of "BEECHAM'S PILLS" with a glass of water immediately upon arising in the morning.

Painless. Effectual. Covered with a tasteless, soluble coating.
"Worth a guinea a box."—Price only 25 cents.
Of all druggists, or a box will be mailed on receipt of 25cts, in stamps by
B. F. Allen Co., 365 Canal St., New York.

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR
The Celebrated
CHOCOLAT MENIER
Annual Sales Exceed 33 MILLION Lbs.
Write for Samples. Sent Free. Menier, Union Sq., N. Y.

Marble, Slate and Hardwood Mantels.

TILES for Fire-places and Floors. GRATES of all kinds. SLATE HEARTHS. BUILDING MATERIAL.

GEO. M. LEAHY,
No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Designs and prices furnished on application.

Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.

Losses Paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3,239,091.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429,729.

All Losses Paid in Cash without Discount, as Soon as Adjusted.

Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office, the same as with local companies.

DIRECTORS IN NEW ORLEANS.

GUSTAF R. WESTFELDT, Chairman. L. O. FALLON, LUCAS E. MOORE, O. M. SORIA.
CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Resident Sec'y. H. V. OGDEN, Resident Secretary.

Home Insurance Co., of New Orleans
No. 78 CAMP STREET.

CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1886, - - - - -	$400,479.08
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1887, - - - - -	$413,860.76
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1888, - - - - -	$459,369.50
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1889, - - - - -	$510,584.54
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1890, - - - - -	$551,897.82
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1891, - - - - -	$600,414.81

Steadily Increasing in Strength and Popularity.
Solicits Fire and River Business

Liberal Settlements and Prompt Payments.

Thos. Sefton, Pres't. Capt. J. B. Woods, Vice-Pres't. Jno. G. Byrd, Sec'y

J. B. WOODS, JOS. BAYLE, JNO. BARKLEY. JNO. J. BARR, ANDREW STEWART, CHAS. CHAFFE. J. B. LEVERT, E. BORLAND, P. B. RICE. W. B. BLOOMFIELD, W. T. HARDIE, THOS. SEFTON.

W. R. LYMAN, President. JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-President. JOHN E. WHITING, Secretary

Crescent Insurance Com'y

Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.

Cash Capital, - - - - - - - $300,000.

Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849. ANNUAL and TERM POLICIES Issued on Desirable Fire Business.

See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

Millsaps College,
Jackson, Miss.

The Second Session Begins Sept. 20th, 1893.

College Fees, Only $30, for the Entire Session.

Board in Students' Homes and in Private Families, $12 per month.

Provision has been made for the payment of the College Fees in the case of young preachers and the sons of preachers.

For Catalogue and other information address
W. B. MURRAH, PRESIDENT.

Nashville College for Young Ladies

Privilege of Lectures, Museum, Apparatus, in Vanderbilt University. Three large Buildings. Faculty of 40, pupils average over 400 for four years past. Music, Art, Calisthenics, Health, Accessibility. Fully Equipped Gymnasium. Address Rev. Geo. W. F. Price, D.D., Prest., Nashville, Tenn.

—THE—
Great Southern Music House of
Philip Werlein
Is Prepared to Suit All Comers.

Elegant and Durable Pianos from $250 up.
Good Second-hand and Slightly Used Pianos from $50 up.
Send for Catalogues and Prices.

135 Canal St., New Orleans.

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.,

SUCCESSORS TO
STERN'S
Fert. and Chem.
Manufacturing Com'y

14 UNION STREET,
New Orleans, La.

STANDARD AMMONIATED SOLUBLE GUANO
STERN'S PURE
STERN'S AMMO SUPER PHOSPHATE
ACID PHOSPHORIC
MANF'D BY STANDARD C. & C. M'F'G. CO.

MANUFACTURERS OF
HIGH GRADE
Bone Fertilizers,
PURE
GROUND BONE
ACID PHOSPHATE,
KAINIT,
Etc.

Write for Agricultural Hand-Book.

Buyers of Cotton Seed.

Office Telephone, 52. Yard Telephone, 371.

Pennsylvania Coal Company,
Office, 67 Carondelet Street.
PITTSBURGH COAL.
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.
L. S. WIDNEY, Manager.

Cotton Presses, Factories, and the Family trade supplied at Lowest Market Rates.
CITY YARDS: Foot of Robin Street, Foot of Desire Street, Corner Short and St. Charles Avenue.

AS A GARMENT OF MERIT
THE GENUINE JACKSON CORSET WAIST
STANDS AT THE FRONT.
It is Rapidly Replacing Old-Style, Uncomfortable and Unhealthful Corsets.

Easy-fitting, yet giving complete support to the form. It is well made, of good material and fast colors. We ask you to try it.

For sale by leading merchants everywhere. Take no substitute. If your dealer will not get it for you, write to the factory.

Made Only by the JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.

FURNITURE!

Largest Stock,
Lowest Prices,
Greatest Variety,
Most Reliable Goods.

J. G. Grant, 28 & 30 Camp St., New Orleans, La.

Write for Illustrated Catalogue.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Camp Meeting Calendar.

Camp Meet'g.	Begins.
Mt. Zion	Sept. 21
St. Tammany	Sept. 22
Palmer	Sept. 30
Salem	Oct. 5

Hall's Hair Renewer is pronounced the best preparation made for thickening the growth of the hair, and restoring that which is gray to its original color.

Free! Free!

AN ELEGANT LITHOGRAPH PICTURE OF MILLSAPS COLLEGE.

We need $1,500 to pay for furniture already bought to finish furnishing the college and to make necessary improvements.

To everyone sending us $1 we will send the picture unframed, and to everyone sending us $5 we will send the picture neatly framed ready for hanging. Let us hear from you.

JOHN W. CHAMBERS, Agt.

Jackson, Miss.

It is Worth $10,000 to Me.

For the past seven or eight years I have been a victim of Nervous Dyspepsia in its worst form. I have spent thousands of dollars, and have kept poor paying for medicine and doctors' bills. Up to the time I began the use of Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water, every kind of food caused me untold misery that none but God and myself knew. After having tried everything that I read or heard of, I must confess that I had no faith or hope whatever that the water would do me any good. But "like a drowning man grasping at a straw," I bought from Mr. Wilkinson one quart of his mineral water and began to take one dessertspoonful after each meal and at bedtime. Contrary to my expectations and to my very great joy and surprise, in three or four days I began to improve, continued to do so steadily until I was entirely well. It cured me in spite of myself. I could hardly realize the truth. Now I can and do eat anything I want, at any time, without it disagreeing with me in the least. My digestion is perfect, my heart trouble is all gone, I sleep well, and my general health is all I could wish. All of which, I am happy to say, was brought about by one quart of Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water in the space of six weeks. Will say in addition that I have every reason to know that as a constitutional nerve tonic and restorative it is unsurpassed. For $10,000 I would not be put back where I was when I began the use of the water and not be able to get any more of it.

Anyone suffering as I did can, if they choose, write to me and I will cheerfully answer.

W. J. GARDNER.
P. O. Box 73, Montgomery, Ala.

For sale at 106 Camp street.

Illinois Central Railroad.

REDUCED RATES TO CHICAGO AND THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Tickets now on sale from New Orleans to Chicago and return at $36 75 for the round trip; sale to continue daily until Oct. 15, 1893, inclusive; good to return until Nov. 15, 1893. Remember that the Central Route is the only railroad from the South whose trains enter Chicago without transfer or detour in full view of the Exposition Buildings, and make regular stops at the World's Fair gates. (World's Fair Station—Midway Plaisance.)

For further particulars, tickets, etc., call on or address your local or nearest I. C. R. R. ticket agent.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

The advertisement of the Tuskegee Female College occurs in this issue of the ADVOCATE. It has had during its existence of thirty-eight years a phenomenal health record, and during last year there was not one case of serious illness in the college family of 100 persons. It has regular courses of lectures on scientific and literary subjects by professors of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute; it has a splendid music faculty of gifted and thoroughly trained artists, and the art department is conducted by an eminent teacher who has spent four years in Europe studying art. The boarding department is noted for the care that it takes of the girls, and the generous table it furnishes. Several members of Bishop Keener's household have been educated at this deservedly popular school.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Philip Werlein,

New Orleans, wants you to write to him if you want to get a good Piano cheap, or an Organ, Music or Musical Instruments. His is the old reliable music store of New Orleans.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

A large fire occurred in Chicago on Aug. 24. The loss is estimated at $500,000.

A street railway of Indianapolis is testing a car run by ordinary illuminating gas. The car is constructed wholly of gas pipes, and has a gas motor beneath the floor.

The Wilson bill, repealing the purchasing clause of the Sherman act, was voted on by the House of Representatives on Aug. 28, and carried by a majority of 100. The action of the House being reported to the Senate, the Wilson bill was referred to the Finance Committee.

A frightful accident occurred, on Aug. 26, at Bushwhack Junction, on the Long Island road. A Rockaway train ran into the rear end of the Manhattan Beach train about 11:35 o'clock at night, telescoping several of the cars. Twenty people are reported to have been killed outright, and about twenty others, more or less, injured.

The development of the beet sugar industry of California is one of the most interesting and important of the agricultural advances made in this country during the past few years. The advance estimates of the Federal inspectors, made for the purpose of furnishing a basis for appropriations for the bounty for the coming season by Congress, places the probable production of beet sugar in California at 42,000,000 pounds.

The South Carolina liquor monopoly has received a setback by a late decision of Judge Simonton, of the United States Circuit Court. The judge pronounced the section of the dispensary act, which makes it a misdemeanor for any railroad employee to deliver any liquor from his train, to be contrary to the interstate commerce law and to the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States. It is said that the State will carry the question to the Supreme Court.

President Cleveland is said to have expressed privately to leading members of the Senate and House certain views of the financial legislation, the adoption of which he thought should follow a repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act. The principal points in the plan were that all the silver bullion now in the treasury, amounting to 133,161,375 fine ounces, should be coined. That the Sherman notes should, as they were presented at the treasury, be withdrawn from circulation, and silver certificates issued in their place. That a currency commission should be appointed to devise by a study of the financial systems of this and other countries, such a sound and stable currency of gold, silver, and paper money as would be sufficient in volume and effect for the proper transaction of the business of the country, and that the silver men should have strong representation on this commission. It is said these propositions will be made should the repeal bill be passed.

FOREIGN.

The Home Rule bill passed to its third reading in the English House of Commons on Aug. 25. The government's majority was thirty-eight.

The cholera returns for the past week shows that in twenty-one provinces of Russia 4,325 new cases were reported and 1,692 deaths occurred.

A cyclone passed over eastern Silesia Thursday last. One hundred houses at Neustadt, Kossel and Oberglogau were unroofed, crops were destroyed and several persons were killed.

A contract has been signed by the minister of communication and Luis Mendez for the construction of a railroad from the City of Mexico to the port of Tecoanapa, on the Pacific coast.

The action of the Bank of England in raising the rate of discount to 5 per cent. is commended generally as necessary in view of the probability that most of the further demands of the United States for gold coin will be made upon England.

The government employees of the State of Mexico have contributed $800 during the present month toward paying the interest on the national debt. The amount has been forwarded to the Secretary of the Treasury. The employees of the other States are also sending in liberal contributions.

The succession of the Duke of Edinburgh to the rulership of the duchies of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha dominates public interest in Germany and widely divergent rumors in regard to the matter are everywhere circulated. Putting all this aside, there is no doubt that the succession of an English duke has surprised and dissatisfied the nation, though the fact is quietly accepted by the duchies concerned.

The last stage of the Home Rule debate in the House of Commons began on last Wednesday. This beginning of the end will be made probably by another great speech from Gladstone, who will make the motion for the third reading. In this supreme and perhaps his final effort for the Irish cause the premier is likely to touch on a question or two which the government has ignored so far in the exhausting and exhaustive discussion of the bill.

What Do You Take

Medicine for? Because you are sick and want to get well, or because you wish to prevent illness. Then remember that Hood's Sarsaparilla CURES all diseases caused by impure blood.

Purely vegetable—Hood's Pills—25c.

Notice.

Rev. Dr. B. Carradine will begin a meeting with me at West End, Meridian, Miss., on Oct. 15: The object of the meeting will be the conversion of sinners, and the entire sanctification of believers according to "Wesley's Plain Account of Christian Perfection." Preachers and other workers are urged to attend. Let all who will come to work notify me, and we will provide entertainment for them.

W. W. HOPPER, Pastor.

Meridian, Miss.

When Weary and Languid

Use Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

When you are weary and languid with the heat of Summer, and strive in vain to keep cool, and your temper also, the use of Horsford's Acid Phosphate will materially aid you.

Pan-American Medical Congress, Washington, D. C., Sept. 5-8, 1893.

REDUCED RATES, VIA QUEEN AND CRESCENT ROUTE.

Agents of Queen and Crescent Route will sell tickets, Sept. 2 to 7, at rate of one and one-third fare, for round trip. Through cars to Washington, via Chattanooga. Solid vestibuled trains, Lexington and Cincinnati. For rates, etc., call on or address agents.

D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. A.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SEASHORE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Eastabuchie circuit, at L River C. G.	30, Sept. 6
Heidelberg circuit, at Paulding	9, 10
Augusta cir., at Boone's Ch'l (Th., Fri.)	14, 15
Vancleave circuit, at Mt. Zion	16, 17
Ocean Springs, at O. Springs (Wed.)	20
Tallabeek circuit, at St. Tammany C. G.	23-26
Covington cir., at St. Tam'y C. G. (Mon.)	25
Bay St. Louis, at Handsborough	29, 30
Whitlington c. (4th round), Palmer C. G.	30 to Oct. 8
E. Pearl mission, at Pine Grove (Tues.)	10

Let special prayer be made by all our people for the camp meetings. Observe the quarterly fast. Have General Rules read, and registers on hand for examination. Preachers will please try to "clear the decks" of the collections during this quarter, at least in good subscriptions. Push the interests of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

HENRY E. PARTRIDGE, P. E.

Hattiesburg, Miss.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Pleasant Grove, at Pleasant Grove	Sept. 2, 3
China Grove, at Waterholes	5
Brookhaven circuit, at New Hope	9, 10
Terry circuit, at Byram	16
Gailman, at Mt. Pleasant	16, 17
Hazlehurst	23
Providence, at Georgetown	23, 24

H. S. WOODWARD, P. E.

MERIDIAN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Chunkey circuit, at Spring Hill	Sept. 2, 3
Marion circuit, at Pleasant Hill	9, 10
Why Not circuit, at Why Not	16, 17
Meridian—Central (Wed. night)	20
Lauderdale cir., at Mt. Hebron (Thur.)	21
Blanaville circuit, at Chapel Hill	23, 24

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Camden, at Thomastown	Sept. 2, 3
Bolton, at Clinton	9, 10
Pocahontas, at Liberty Grove (Tues.)	12
Tranquil, at Locust Grove	16, 17
Canton	23, 24

E. H. MOUNGER, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Marvin, at Richland Academy	Sept. 1
Fannin, at Drake's	2, 3
Raleigh, at Trinity	7
Westville, at Oak Vale	9, 10
Homewood, at Mutual Union	15
Trenton, at Gasque	16, 17
Montrose, at Mt. Zion	23, 24

C. MCDONALD, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Warren, at Wesley Chapel	Sept. 2, 3
Port Gibson	9, 10
Rocky Springs	16, 17
Mayersville, at Mayersville	23, 24
Hermanville (Thur.)	25

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

Unlike the Dutch Process

No Alkalies —OR— Other Chemicals

are used in the preparation of

W. BAKER & CO.'S Breakfast Cocoa

which is absolutely pure and soluble.

It has more than three times the strength of Cocoa mixed with Starch, Arrowroot or Sugar, and is far more economical, costing less than one cent a cup. It is delicious, nourishing, and EASILY DIGESTED.

Sold by Grocers everywhere.

W. BAKER & CO., Dorchester, Mass.

30,000 WORDS!

CLOTH, 25c. PAPER, 10c.

Sent postpaid on receipt of price.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp St., New Orleans.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin," postpaid, 15 cents.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

GRENADA DISTRICT—FOURTH ROUND.

Grenada station	Sept. 23, 24
Tillatoba (Sat.)	30
Minter City and Strathmore	Oct. 1
Charleston	8
Coffeeville	7, 8
Oxford station	14, 15
Toccopola	21, 22
Cherry Hill (Tues.)	24
Atlanta	28, 29
Banner (Tues.)
Chapel Hill	Nov. 4
Pittsboro (Tues.)	5
Abbeville	7
Grenada circuit	11, 12
Water Valley circuit (Sat.)	18, 19
Water Valley station	25
	26, 27

Local preachers, please be ready with written report as Discipline directs. Also trustees of church property will please have written reports as they are required to do by law.

R. A. BURROUGHS, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Batesville	Sept. 2, 3
Sardis	9, 10
Hernando, at Davis Chapel	16, 17
Como	23, 24
Pleasant Grove, at Lee's Chapel	30 Oct. 1
Courtland, at Center Hill	7, 8
Nesbits	14, 15
Mt. Vernon, at Free Springs	21, 22
Pleasant Hill, at Lewisburg	28, 29
Arkabutla (Tues.)	31
Morgansville mission	Nov. 4, 5
Cockrum, at Green Leaf	11, 12
Wall Hill	18, 19
Panola	25, 26

If stewards and pastors will address themselves faithfully and constantly to their respective duties, salaries and connectional collections will be paid in full. Brethren, the Lord and the church expects everyone to do their duty.

H. C. MOREHEAD, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Okolona station	Sept. 16, 17
Tupelo station	23, 24
Verona and Nettleton station	27
Fulton and Nettleton circuit	30, Oct. 1
Prairie	7, 8
Shannon	11
Aberdeen station	14, 15
Saltillo	21, 22
Amory and Smithville	26
Pontotoc	28, 29
Tremont	Nov. 4, 5
Okolona circuit	8
Houston and Wesley	11, 12
Athens	18, 19
Buena Vista	25, 26

J. B. CRONE, P. E.

WINONA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Brooklyn and Dublin	Sept. 16, 17
Greenwood	23, 24
Winona	30, Oct. 1
Carrollton	7, 8
Monntt	14, 15
Indianola	21, 22
Leberton	24
Sidon	28, 29
Black Hawk	Nov. 4, 5
Valden	11, 12
West	16
Carrollton circuit	18, 19
Winona circuit	25, 26

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Arcola	Sept. 3
Duncan	10
Clarksdale	24
Gunnison	Oct. 1
Rosedale	8
Cleveland	15
Bolivar	22
Shaw	29
Lyon	Nov. 5
Winterville	12
Friar's Point	19
Greenville	26

J. A. RANDOLPH, P. E.

KOSCIUSKO DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Eupora circuit, at Sapa	Sept. 2, 3
Rural Hill circuit, at Plattsburg	9, 10

Will the preacher in charge please see that the general rules are read, and that church register and the records of Church Conferences are presented for examination?

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

DELHI DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

West Monroe, at W. Monroe	Sept. 23, 24
Monroe	24, 25
Bastrop, at Bastrop	30, Oct. 1
Lind Grove, at Bonito	7, 8
Winsboro, at Winsboro	14, 15
Oak Ridge, at Mer Rouge	21, 22
Rayville, at Union	28, 22
Oakley, at Jourdin Chapel	28, 29
Calhoun, at Mt. Ariel	Nov. 4, 5
Harrisonburg, at Island	11, 12
Lapine, at Frantoma C.	18, 19
Lake Providence	25, 26
Waterproof	Dec. 2, 3
Delhi	7
Floyd	9, 10

H. O. WHITE, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Crowley	Sept. 2, 3
Lafayette and Rayne, at R.	8, 10
Opelousas, at O.	16, 17
Washington, at W.	17, 18
New Iberia	30, Oct. 1
Abbeville at P. G.	7, 8
Franklin and Jeanerette	14, 15
Indian Bayou	21, 22
Plaquemine Brulee	28, 29
Paterson and Morgan City	Nov. 4, 5
Lake Charles—B. Street	11, 12
Jackson Street and W. Lake	17, 18
Grand Chenier	18, 19
Sulphur Mine	25, 26
Lake Arthur	Dec. 2, 3

JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Dryades (Imman. Sept.	3
Crapa (eve.)	3
Plaq. and Donaldson, at Vacherie	10
Lower Coast, at Port Eads	17

C. W. CARTER, P. E.

ARCADIA DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Gansville	Sept. 2, 3
Vienna, at Pine Grove	3
Huston station	10, 11

J. L. P. SHEPPARD, P. E.

Camp Meetings.

To the Methodist People of New Orleans:

If you would like to spy out the St. Tammany Camp Grounds and spend a few hours in the country, you can come out on the East Louisiana excursion on Wednesday, in Abita Springs; thence by hack in camp ground, taking dinner at the Rausch Hotel, and return in the evening, the entire trip costing only about $2. Anyone desiring to spend a week or longer will be well cared for at the above-named hotel, which is near the camp grounds. Come and see our beautiful shades, our laughing streams, our enchanted grounds, and you will fall in love with our country and people, and come back to our camp meeting, Sept. 22. For further information address

D. C. RAWLS, P. C.

There will be a camp meeting at old Salem Camp Ground, Amerious circuit, Seashore district, Mississippi Conference, beginning on Thursday night before the second Sunday in October. Preachers are invited and urged to come.

J. H HOLLAND, P. C.

Alabama Conference Female College.

Organized in 1856. Average annual patronage for four years past, over 200. Twenty-two professional Officers, Teachers and Lecturers. Fine Literary Curriculum extending through four years. Music taught on Conservatory methods by three able and brilliant Musicians. Art taught by a celebrated teacher of four years' European study. Scientific and Literary lectures by the Professors of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Location high; health record phenomenal; not a case of serious sickness during the past year.

For catalogue containing full statement address JOHN MABRY, President, Tuskegee, Ala.

SCIENCE HILL.

— SHELBYVILLE, KY.

AN ENGLISH AND CLASSICAL SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

☞ Our Certificates admit to Wellesley without examination.

W. T. POYNTER.

SKINS ON FIRE

With agonizing Eczemas and other Itching, Burning, Bleeding, Scaly, Blotchy, and Pimply Skin and Scalp Diseases are instantly relieved and speedily cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, consisting of CUTICURA, the great skin cure,

CUTICURA

SOAP, an exquisite skin purifier and beautifier, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, greatest of humor remedies. This is strong language, but every word is true, as proven by thousands of grateful testimonials. CUTICURA REMEDIES are, beyond all doubt, the greatest Skin Cures, Blood Purifiers, and Humor Remedies of modern times. Sold everywhere.

POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Boston.

☞ "How to Cure Skin Diseases" mailed free.

PIMPLES, blackheads, red, rough, chapped, and oily skin cured by CUTICURA SOAP.

WEAK, PAINFUL KIDNEYS,

With their weary, dull, aching, lifeless, all-gone sensation, relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain-killing strengthening plaster. 25 cents.

UNIVERSITY SCHOOL

Petersburg, Va.

The twenty-ninth annual session of this school for boys begins MONDAY, October 2nd. Thorough preparation for University of Virginia, Yale, Harvard, United States military and naval academies, and all the best technical schools. Full staff. For catalogue address W. Gordon McCabe, Head Master.

LAW SCHOOL

WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY,
LEXINGTON, VIRGINIA.

Opens Sept. 14. For catalogue address
JOHN RANDOLPH TUCKER, Dean.

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA.

Session begins 15th Sept. Full equipment of corps of instructors in Academical, Engineering, Law and Medical Departments. Excellent Climate, New Gymnasium, with baths free to all students. For catalogues address

WM. M. THORNTON, LL.D., Chairman.

Queen & Crescent Route

"Finest Trains in the South."

Through Cars to Chicago without change, from New Orleans, Meridian, Birmingham, Chattanooga, Jacksonville, Fla., Atlanta, Macon, Asheville, N. C., Knoxville, Tenn., Lexington and Georgetown, Ky. Choice of routes via Cincinnati or via Louisville. Stop-overs allowed on all World's Fair tickets, at Chattanooga, Louisville, Indianapolis or Cincinnati.

For further information as to Rates, Car Service, Sleeping Car Reservations, etc., call on or address any agent of the Queen & Crescent Route or E. T. V. & G. Ry.

D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. A., Cincinnati, O.

THROUGH CARS TO CHICAGO.

Do You Crochet?

or knit, or do fancy work of any sort? If so you can fully appreciate the merits of Glasgo Twilled Lace Thread.

It has a twilly texture peculiar to itself that imparts the richest appearance and effect to lace and all other fancy work. It is more economical and far superior to linen thread in every way and for every purpose. It is also equal to the very best threads made in the country for all sewing purposes, whether by hand or machine. One spool will convince you. Ask your dealer for it, or send 10 cents for sample spool, 500 yards.

12 illus. tidy patterns, 12 Illus. bed spread patterns, 5 cents each, 25 mailed. Illus. Crochet Books, 1, 2, 3, 10 cents each.

GLASGO LACE THREAD CO., Glasgo, Conn.

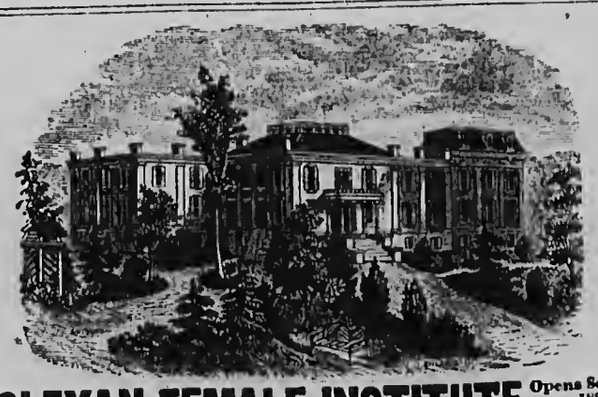
Waynesboro Collegiate Institute,

WAYNESBORO, MISS.

On M. and O. R. R., 53 Miles South of Meridian.

Will begin its second session Sept. 11th, 1893. Enrollment last session over 200. It prepares boys and girls for college, or fits them for the practical business pursuits of life. Our curriculum is not extensive. We aim at thoroughness. Board and tuition reasonable. Send for catalogue.

REV. W. W. MOORE, A. M., Principal.



WESLEYAN FEMALE INSTITUTE

Opens Sept. 6th, 1893.

STAUNTON, VIRGINIA. Climate and surroundings exceptional. Handsome buildings, now being remodeled, thoroughly renovated, refitted inside and outside, and refurnished with new pianos, carpets, &c. Steam heat, gas lights, bath rooms on every floor. Now Laboratory thoroughly equipped. Excellent Faculty of Experienced Teachers. Advanced courses in English, Latin, German, French, &c. Special advantages in Art. Conservatory Course in Music. One hundred and forty-one boarding pupils from eighteen States. Terms moderate. For Catalogues of this celebrated old Virginia school, address

W. W. ROBERTSON, President, Staunton, Virginia.

Classical and Commercial Institute

7 PRYTANIA STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Regular session begins Sept. 4th. Students admitted at any time. Full Classical and Literary Courses. Commercial Sciences taught practically. Normal Penmanship, Shorthand and Type-writing, standard systems. Day and night classes. Ladies admitted to Commercial Department. Boarding Department under supervision of Principal. Write for circular.

Endorsed by the editor of the ADVOCATE and W. H. LaPrade, D. D., pastor of Carondelet Street Church.

G. W. HARMAN, Prin. Com. Dep't. H. S. CHENEY, A. M., Principal. LYMAN C. REED, A. M., Assistant.

Spencerian Penmanship

With BOOK-KEEPING, COMMERCIAL LAW, SHORTHAND and TYPE-WRITING Thoroughly Taught in the

Commercial Department, Classical and Commercial Institute, 7 PRYTANIA ST. NEW ORLEANS

G. W. HARMAN, Principal.

Entire expenses for three months: Course, $90, including board, tuition, etc.

Ladies received in this department.

The Great Church LIGHT.

PRINK'S Patent Reflectors give the Most Powerful, the Softest, Cheapest and the Best Light known for Churches, Stores, Show Windows, Parlors, Banks, Offices, Picture Galleries, Theatres, Depots, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room. Get circular and estimate. A liberal discount to churches and the trade. L. P. PRINK, 551 Pearl Street, N. Y.

ROSE TOBACCO CURE

A quick, cheap, pleasant and absolute cure for the Tobacco Ha

In all its Forms. For proof write the ROSE DRUG CO., Birmingham, Ala.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 40.—NO. 36. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1893. WHOLE NO. 1933.

Rev. J. M. BEARD, D. D., Editor and Publisher. } PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA CONFERENCE, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH. { ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

A LAST PRAYER.

BY HELEN HUNT JACKSON.

[This poem was written four days before the author's death.]

Father, I scarcely dare to pray,
So clear I see, now it is done,
That I have wasted half my day,
And left my work but just begun.

So clear I see that things I thought
Were right or harmless were a sin;
So clear I see that I have sought,
Unconscious, selfish aims to win;

So clear I see that I have hurt
The souls I might have helped to save;
That I have slothful been, inert,
Deaf to the calls thy leaders gave.

In outskirts of thy kingdom vast,
Father, the humblest spot give me;
Set me the lowliest task thou hast,
Let me, repentant, work for thee!

North Mississippi Conference Notes.

After four weeks of incessant travel and toil this scribe is once more at home for a few days of rest.

I spent the fifth Sunday in July in Macon, preaching morning and evening, by invitation of Rev. J. H. Mitchell, P. C. The next day Bro. Mitchell and myself traveled, by conveyance provided for us, eighteen miles to Hebron, where we spent the week very pleasantly with Rev. D. W. Babb and his hospitable people in a protracted meeting. While there was but little special religious concern manifested, we hope good results will come of that week's earnest efforts.

Tuesday, Aug. 8, I went by railroads to Pontotoc, and preached at night to an appreciative audience. While there I was, with Bro. Parrott, P. C., the guest of Bro. John Rowzee and wife, in whose home the preacher always finds a cordial welcome.

On Wednesday I was conveyed eight miles to Palestine Church, where I preached at night, and twice the next day.

Saturday, Aug. 12, I was met and conveyed twelve miles to Hunter's Chapel, Banner circuit, where I remained a week and assisted Bro. Grisham in a meeting. On Sunday Rev. W. T. J. Sullivan preached a sermon in memory of Nathan Lamar, a veteran of the cross, who died this year, aged ninety-five. This was the church of my boyhood, in the locality of my rearing from earliest recollections to manhood, and in my pastoral charge three years, to wit: 1873, 1874, 1875. Therefore it was with mingled feelings of pleasure and sadness that I worshiped and associated with the people there. There were but few of the cotemporaries of my early life, and only about five who were members of the church when I joined in 1854. This is the oldest church of any denomination in southwest Pontotoc county. It was organized nearly fifty years ago with five members, one of whom still survives, though in another region. They first worshiped in a small log cabin, known as Robb's School-house, which was used for school and preaching purposes. My first remembrance of that house was my attending a Sunday-school in it, which was conducted by two good women, when the ground was the floor, and we sat on the sleepers, upon which a floor of puncheons was afterward laid. That building gave way in 1858 to a better one of square-hewn logs, which has recently been superseded by a neat and creditable frame structure, somewhat commensurate with the general improvements of the country. The church membership now is about one hundred, which, if thoroughly consecrated to church work in Christ's name, would be a great power for good in that part of the Lord's vineyard. We had a good meeting, resulting in eight accessions on profession of faith and four by letter. Some good books were sold, and a few subscriptions were taken for church papers.

On Saturday, Aug. 19, we held a Sunday-school mass meeting at Young's Chapel, Cherry Hill circuit, which was, doubtless, productive of good to the cause. The next day (Sunday) Bro. Craddock, P. C., began a protracted meeting at the same place. I preached morning and night, and left the meeting with a propitious outlook.

Monday morning I drove to Houston, and spent the day with friends, especially partaking of the Christian hospitalities of Bro. and Sister Morgan Shell.

Tuesday morning Prof. E. L. Sherwood drove me ten miles to Honika, where Bro. Tucker, aided by Bro. Park, was holding a meeting. After preaching one time, we went on our way the next day to Okolona, where I took the train for West Point; thence next morning to Starkville; thence in the evening home.

Thanks be unto the Lord for his journeying mercies in all this tortuous itinerary, and may his blessings of grace and providence abound unto all the people, and specially unto those who have been kind and helpful to his unworthy servant!

G. W. BACHMAN.

Kosciusko, Miss., Aug. 25, 1893.

"Ministerial Selfishness."

There appears in this week's issue of the ADVOCATE an article headed, "Ministerial Selfishness," in which the writer makes wholesale slaughter of the courtesies, discretions, etc., of his brethren. If the charges that he makes were true, the propriety of publishing them would be doubtful; but judging from the first, the only one with which I am acquainted, they are without foundation.

In the first he says: "Last year a preacher of many years' experience persuaded a young preacher of much zeal and no little ability to conduct all his protracted meetings on a large circuit. Results: Revivals and many accessions on the old preacher's circuit, but the young preacher's own circuit sadly neglected."

Let us see how much of this is true. There were six protracted meetings held in the charge in question—the longest a week only in duration. Of these the young preacher was present at the opening of but one. He arrived on the third day of one and on the fourth day of two. He was present at the close of two only, and remained through but one, and that only of four days' duration. In one of the number he did not help at all. Now, take these facts and apply them to the statement that the young preacher "conducted all" of these meetings, and say what part of it is correct.

Again he says the young preacher's own circuit was "sadly neglected." The young preacher during his pastorate on that circuit was absent from his work but two Sundays. One of these was a fifth Sunday, at which time, on account of misunderstanding, he had no appointment. The appointment missed by absence on the other Sunday had been filled on the preceding Sunday. To repay for these two Sundays, the older preacher helped the younger one two Sundays.

The young preacher, if I remember correctly, was absent from his charge during the whole of his pastorate there less than three weeks. Every year a large number of pastors are absent from their charges longer at one time than this brother was altogether, and yet nobody thinks of charging them with neglect. Then how about the statement that the young preacher's own circuit was "sadly neglected?"

The charge that the older preacher "persuaded" the younger one is equally without foundation.

Now, if you sift all of these charges, and they go to pieces like this one, what will there be left of them, and where is the ground for such gross misrepresentations of ministerial character?

I know one preacher whose glaring selfishness would overbalance everything in that article, and yet I have not thought it best to publish him to the world.

B. S. RAYNER.

Morton, Miss., Aug. 26, 1893.

Notice.

The preachers of the Kosciusko district, North Mississippi Conference, will meet in Durant, Sept. 27 and 28, next. The object of this meeting is the cultivation of a closer intimacy amongst ourselves and a stronger helpfulness in our work. Let all concerned reach Durant by Tuesday evening, Sept. 26, so that we can spend the whole of the next two days in the exercises of the meeting. Besides preaching at proper hours, I propose that our time shall be employed in discussing the following subjects in order, each subject to be introduced by a written paper from the brother designated, followed by his associates with a verbal address, and this by general discussion in very short speeches:

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 27.

9 A. M.—"Value and Methods of Pastoral Visiting." Paper by D. C. Foust; speeches by L. D. Worsham and W. A. Dollar.

10:15 A. M.—"Worldliness in the Church—the Remedy." Paper by W. C. Lester; speeches by T. G. Freeman and R. O. Brown.

2:30 P. M.—"The Relation of the Church to Education, and the Duty of Our People in Reference to Our Own Schools." Paper by President W. B. Murrah; speeches by J. F. Evans and W. D. Burroughs.

4 P. M.—"Parsonages and Church-houses in Relation to the Effectiveness of the Preacher's Service." Paper by W. D. McCullough; speeches by T. L. Foster and J. A. Poe.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 28.

9 A. M.—"How Can Our Ministry Be Made More Effective?" Paper by R. G. Porter; speeches by J. A. Leech and A. W. Langley.

10:15 A. M.—"Our Church Literature—Its Influence on Christian Growth and Enterprise." Paper by J. F. Evans; speeches by G. W. Bachman and S. B. Myers.

2:30 P. M.—"Our Sunday-schools—Their Value, Defects and Hindrances." Paper by G. W. Bachman; speeches by R. G. Porter and J. H. Rogers.

A brother may open his subject with a speech instead of a paper, if he prefer. A brother's speaking need not be confined to the subject to which he is assigned. Let each one study well the subject that he thinks of most importance, and speak to that. I pray that our meeting may be a spiritual benefit to ourselves and to the community.

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, P. E.

Orville-Whittington Camp Ground, Louisiana.

Whereas, We recognize the fact that Rev. Joe Jones' presence in our midst has been a benefit to us in many respects; that he has caused us to think, and taught us more of our duty as parents and citizens, and has counseled our sons and daughters in the way they should go, speaking the truth as it is in God's Holy Word; that he has bravely stood up for the right, for God, heaven, Christianity and purity, and we regard him as a messenger anointed and sent by God to warn and counsel, and in token of our appreciation of his efforts in our behalf, we express herein our gratitude; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we thank God that he saw fit in his wisdom to raise up, prepare and choose Bro. Jones to preach the gospel, and we believe he is faithfully discharging his duty in God's name by proclaiming the entire teachings of truth in its pure language of inspiration.

Resolved, That we extend to Bro. Jones our sincere thanks for his visit to our camp meeting, and we fully endorse his sentiments spoken for truth, and we ever ask the holy benediction of God upon him, and bid him God-speed in proclaiming his message to others, praying they, too, may hear and heed the counsels of wisdom, and be constrained to get nearer to God and live a purer life.

Resolved, That we send a copy of these resolutions to the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE for publication, and we cordially invite Bro. Jones to visit us again—our doors are always open to him.

Respectfully submitted.

I. M. HIGGINBOTHAM.

Aug. 27, 1893.

P. S.—The above resolutions were read to 2,000 people, and endorsed by a rising vote, which was unanimous.

Epworth League Union.

As determined, on Monday, Aug. 14, 1893, at 7:45 o'clock P. M., at the Louisiana Avenue M. E. Church, South, identical local League delegation, together with such other Leaguers as desired to be present, met to enter into permanent organization of a Union Epworth League.

Meeting opened with devotional exercises, with Bro. Geo. D. Parker, chairman pro tem, and Miss Addie S. McKnight at the desk.

Minutes of previous meeting read and approved.

Report from committee on resolutions was received, whereupon said committee was discharged in accordance with vote.

Motion to enter into permanent organization finding favor, convention proceeded to the election of officers. Unanimity named the vote by ballot to be the most satisfactory, when an informal ballot was taken (thereafter being declared formal) to elect officers for the positions of presidency and vice-presidency. This action resulted in the selection of Morris B. DePass as president; Jno. T. Orchlin, first vice-president; Col. David Zable, second vice-president, and Miss Hattie Halley, third vice-president.

Corresponding and recording secretaryship being embodied in one office, this and position of treasurer were determined by vote of acclamation, thus naming Miss Addie S. McKnight, secretary, and Mr. Geo. Brown, treasurer. It was also decided to select editor by acclamation, when Rev. Robert H. Wynn was appointed to this office.

In harmony with the convention's request, a committee of three, composed of Rev. Robert H. Wynn, Morris B. DePass, and Miss Addie S. McKnight, were selected to draw up the Constitution for the Union, and report at next meeting, to be held Thursday, Sept. 14, 1893, at 7:45 o'clock P. M., at Parker Chapel, corner Peters avenue and Magazine street.

It being a late hour, upon motion meeting closed with singing of Doxology, benediction being pronounced by Rev. Robert H. Wynn.

Respectfully submitted.

ADDIE SAWYER MCKNIGHT,
Secretary Union League.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 25, 1893.

Hiwassee College, Tennessee.

MR. EDITOR: This institution will open its forty-fourth session to-morrow. We that have been here longest think it grows a little better every year, and surely this year, when hard times are pressing everywhere, it is pleasant to be in a land filled with plenty of provisions. Young men can live here on the fat of the land at a minimum cost, and for the very least expense acquire a good wholesome training in body and mind. Our literary halls, Y. M. C. A. and other voluntary associations render the student life pleasant and profitable. Yours truly,

F. M. GRACE.

Aug. 29, 1893.

Jackson District Missionary Meeting.

At Capital Street Methodist Church, Jackson, Miss., on Sept. 20, there will be a missionary district meeting for the Jackson district. The secretaries and presidents of the several auxiliaries in the district will compose the body. Will the pastors in the Jackson district encourage the meeting by calling attention to it?

MRS. BLANCHE HOWELL,
Dist. Sec.

Canton, Miss.

Centenary College.

The next session of Centenary College will open Sept. 6. Students wishing to get full benefits of college instruction would do well to be present from the beginning of the term.

W. L. C. HUNNICUTT.

The ADVOCATE to single subscribers from this date to Jan. 1, 1894, for 50 cents.

FROM THE WORK.

Rev. B. H. Sheppard, P. C., Aug. 18: "August 19 is the time set apart for the third Quarterly Conference of the Spring Creek circuit, Louisiana Conference. The report will be 22 accessions during the quarter, 5 adults baptized, and 12 infants baptized, and, best of all, God is with us. To him be all the glory."

Rev. C. McDonald, Forest, Miss., Aug. 18: "The many protracted meetings held in the Brandon district are generally spiritual. There have been a goodly number of accessions, but the good done in the church is great. The preachers are consecrated to their work amid the financial pressure on them. I think I have never seen more heroic, faithful work done. The Lord is with us."

Rev. L. J. Jones, P. C., Pleasant Grove circuit, Aug. 18: "We have just closed a meeting at Pleasant Grove. Thirty-two accessions, many conversions, the church revived. Bro. P. H. Howse did the most of the preaching. His preaching was a success. We are working for our paper. Hope to get some new subscribers soon. If I can succeed in getting my members to read our paper, we will do better in our collections."

Rev. M. E. Tumlin, P. C., Shannon, Miss., Aug. 19: "I will say that we have had two good meetings on Shannon charge—at Palmetto and Pleasant Grove. Both were delightful and largely attended. The meeting at Pleasant Grove resulted in several conversions and five accessions. This is a good charge, and Sunday-schools and churches are doing well. I am glad to inform my brethren that my wife is improving, and is said by her physician to be almost well. Continue to pray for us."

Rev. W. A. Clarke, P. C., Sabine circuit, Louisiana Conference: "We have just closed a ten days' meeting at Bayou Sole. Results: Church greatly revived, backsliders reclaimed, fifty-six accessions to the church, and quite a number of very bright conversions. Baptized twenty-three adults and thirteen children. Bro. Boltz was with us, and his preaching was with power. Bro. Whatley was with us one day. To God be all the glory."

Rev. M. L. White, Mt. Carmel, Miss., Aug. 18: "Have just closed a meeting at Santee. Lasted seven days. Fifteen joined the church, thirty conversions. Shouting and praising God aloud was common among us. My circuit is stirred (religiously) from one side to the other. Oh, what God has wrought for us! Bro. H. D. Howell, the deep, forcible, pungent gospel preacher, did all the preaching. Many stars have been added to his crown. One more meeting to hold. Sixty accessions to date. To God be all the praise."

Rev. H. B. Vandenburg, Trenton, Miss., Aug. 16: "We held a five days' meeting in the Folkville Church, Trenton charge, closing Wednesday after the third Sunday in July. Rev. B. H. Rawls preached every sermon except one. The Holy Spirit accompanied the Word with great power. Eight accessions, and the membership of the church greatly revived. Bro. Rawls is sweet-spirited and earnest in presenting the truths of the gospel, and the Lord blesses his efforts. We are moving along quietly, but think there is cause for encouragement."

Rev. R. M. Blocker, Lisbon, La., Aug. 10: "Our meeting at Lisbon closed last night. We had 14 accessions to the church, and about 20 professed conversion. It was in all a right good meeting, but there was not that general awakening so much needed. Our church at this place has a large membership of good people—fine workers, but the power is lacking. I am praying, preaching and believing for a gracious baptism of fire. Brethren, please help me pray for it. It is that 'power from on high' that we so much need."

A. C. Flowers, Roxie, Aug. 18: "Our pastor, Rev. Jno. D. Ellis, is doing a good work on this charge. His good preaching and demeanor attract large congregations, and has gained for him the unfailing confidence of his hearers. We all love and esteem him very much. He has about secured his collections in cash and good subscriptions, and is sanguine of a full report at Conference. His preaching is pointed, logical and full of the Holy Spirit. Our 'Christian,' Bro. J. E. Dunn, from Tennessee, has created quite a sensation on the subject of 'baptism by immersion.' After holding a series of meetings he invited all, and especially Bro. Ellis, to hear him on the eleventh instant on baptism, and his exposition of the Methodist Church. Bro. Ellis was challenged to meet his arguments, which he did on the seventeenth instant to the satisfaction of all Methodists and outsiders, but to the disgust of most of the immersionists."

REVIVAL NOTES FROM THE MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

Why Not circuit, Why Not, B. F. Ormond, P. C., assisted by R. W. Harmon, L. P.: 10 accessions, a number of conversions, and membership greatly revived.

Lauderdale circuit, Bethel Church, W. T. Browning, L. P., supply: 19 accessions, 25 conversions, 30 lukewarm members revived and their backslidings healed, 12 family altars, 18 began leading in public prayer.

Chunkey circuit, L. P. Meador, P. C.: Concord, 7 accessions; Suqualena, 2 accessions; Chunkey, 7 accessions, and quite a revival otherwise.

DeKalb circuit, Marvin Church, R. A. Breland, P. C., assisted by D. G. W. Ellis and presiding elder: Several conversions, but no accessions. The sermons of Bro. Ellis were clear, logical, forcible, eloquent and helpful. There is no stronger preacher in the Mississippi Conference than he—few, if any, equal to him.

The new house of worship at Hopewell, Linwood circuit, H. W. Van Hook, P. C., is frame, and partly covered at this writing. John C. White and Will and Geo. Jenkins are the leading spirits, with Dees and Eakes to encourage and help.

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

ORVILLE-WHITTINGTON CAMP MEETING.

The camp meeting at Orville-Whittington Camp Grounds commenced, as advertised, Friday night, Aug. 18. Rev. Joe Jones arrived and preached Sunday at eleven o'clock. He preached in all twenty-three sermons, which were received with great enthusiasm by the immense audiences which gathered from time to time to hear him. There never has been in this country before such a mighty turning from Satan unto God. It is estimated that there were more than 200 reclamations and conversions. Sixty persons joined the church. Some men joined the church who had not been inside a church-building for years. Eternity alone will reveal the glorious results of this great meeting. The universal verdict concerning the great evangelist was, "Surely a man called and sent of God." His preaching was with tremendous power, dealing ponderous truths in a fearless manner. He takes up the human side of the gospel. His home-life preaching and illustrations gain the attention of his hearers immediately, and finds a ready access to their hearts. It is estimated that over 1,500 people gathered to hear him the last day of the meeting, which is an exceeding complimentary endorsement. At the close of the last service the great audience arose en masse and passed resolutions (which will be forwarded to the ADVOCATE for publication) commendatory of the man and his preaching, unanimously inviting him to visit and help in the meeting next year.

A wonderful meeting this! Our prayer is, God bless Bro. Jones in his labor of love, and may he ever be honored of God wherever he goes, as with us, as a herald of the cross.

G. D. ANDERS,
N. J. ROBERTS,
J. J. SMYLIE.

Aug. 28, 1893.

VICTORIA, MISS.

The second holiness camp meeting on "Victoria Camp Ground" closed last Sunday night, Aug. 27. It was one of great spiritual power and salvation. We were glad you were privileged to be with us; only regretted the shortness of your stay. At the time you left "mercy drops 'round us were falling;" but we plead for the "showers," and they came. All praise to Jesus! Until the close the unity of the Spirit prevailed, and God led the battle from victory to victory. At every altar service souls were marvelously delivered from sin and Satan's power. The conversions, reclamations and sanctifications were "sky-blue." Some say there were more than one hundred souls saved and sanctified. The recording angel knows. The Lord most wonderfully helped the leaders—Bros. W. B. Godbey, T. L. Boswell, J. J. Smith, B. A. Cundiff, and R. G. Shepherd. Praise God! I was privileged to sit under the teaching of such holy men, who are fearless to preach the Word of God in its purity. They had to leave before the close of the meeting to fill other engagements; but the dear Lord sent us other workers to fill their places—Rev. J. H. Collins and wife, and Sister Sue Murray, whom the Lord used in rescuing souls from sin and hell. The praise services were glorious. They ran with great power. Evidently these "second-blessing" people have the "can't-keep-still blessing." They want to honor God in declaring what great things he has done for them. "Whoso offereth praise glorifieth me." (Psa. l, 23.) Definite testimony is necessary to keeping any experience. Satan knows this, and tries to hinder; but we are to overcome him by the blood of the Lamb and by the word of our testimony. (Rev. xii, 11.)

One result of the meeting is that new workers have been added to the ranks. Several young men were called of God to preach this great salvation. They will enter Beulah Seminary to study theology, and where they will be trained for soul-saving work by Rev. R. G. Shepherd, an experienced holiness evangelist. Eternity alone can reveal the good done in this camp meeting. We give all the glory to God. Let everyone sing the Doxology and press on for the rescue of lost souls.

Your sister all for God and precious souls,

FANNIE MCDOWELL HUNTER.

Look at your label, and remember that our terms are cash in advance.

A WHIRR OF WINGS.

BY R. H. CHASE.

A breeze creeps down through the locust trees,
And stirs the perfume of clover red,
Whose tasseled blossoms blow and part,
And show a straw-framed feathery bed,
Where Bob O'Link sits, with nodding head,
And a tremble in his heart.

The sun falls hot on the clover field,
And the scythe of the mower is heard,
As it lays the honeyed blossoms low.
Unmindful hidden nest or bird,
Heedful only of Winter herd.
Bob and his brood must go.

There's a whirr of wings from the downy nest,
Robert has flown with his children three,
The plumy tassels blow and part,
But his home is the locust tree,
And a merry carol sings he,
That trills from his father heart.

Thus a word comes up from the clover field,
And a sermon falls down from the tree:
"Earth-born, for us is a higher part,
And a song for the world have we,
The song of the saved and the free,
That springs from a loving heart."

—The Housekeeper.

How Readest Thou?

BY REV. J. W. HARMON.

The distinctive doctrine of the Bible, and Watson's Institutes, in emphatic accord with its teachings, is: That regeneration, witness of the spirit, and adoption of sons, are all the results of justification by faith in Christ Jesus; and they are so dovetailed the one into the other, that you can not divorce them.

And then, after the justification, lifting the believer up out of sin and the lap of corruption, by growing in grace, and dying daily to sin, he approaches very near to entire sanctity; but not that sanctity or sanctification promised in the Scriptures. And why not? Because the Bible and our great standard of doctrine, Watson's Institutes, teach with marked emphasis that the doctrine of entire sanctification, or the perfected holiness of believers, is something in advance and of higher spiritual import than justification.

Two passages of Scripture prove this, where the apostle urges believers to the attainment of this great grace. I. Thess. v, 23: "And the very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ." II. Cor. vii, 1: "Having these promises, dearly beloved" (believers justified by faith), "let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God." The prayer of the first passage and the exhortation of the second passage cover the doctrine of the entire sanctification of "the soul" and "spirit" and the "body" from all sin, and in this present life; never referring it to the future or till death.

The doctrine of indwelling sin in the soul, and that sanctified Christians will sin more or less until death, places the seat of sin in the flesh, which is downright paganism; whereas, the Bible and the direct teachings of Christ fixes the seat of sin in the soul. "The soul that sinneth shall die," saith God. Entire sanctification, therefore, as the apostle expresses it is "the destruction of the body of sin" itself, thus making a distinct difference between the two states. And the denial of sanctification, because we are naturally infirm, is answered by the fact that defects in memory, mistakes in judgment, and the infirmities of the flesh, are not sins in the eye of God, but is consistent with entire sanctification as taught in Watson's Institutes.

The promise of the Savior that we shall receive "all things whatsoever we ask in prayer believing"—that is, "all things suited to our case and consistent with God's will"—covers the doctrine of entire sanctification, and in the very nature of the case supposes a distinct and instantaneous work of the Holy Spirit, that follows the unfaltering faith of justified believers; and is nowhere restricted to a long growth in grace or to the time of one's death.

The apostle expressly teaches, though the flesh triumphs over legal sanctification, that the flesh is dethroned and crucified, and trampled under the feet of sanctified believers. We are called to a perfect freedom from sin in this present life by an entire sanctification of soul, body and spirit.

How readest thou? Listen and believe: "For what the law could not do, in that it was weak, through the flesh, God, sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, and for sin, condemned sin the flesh; that the righteousness of the law might be fulfilled in us, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit." A distinction, then, does exist between regenerated Christians and those who are sanctified by the Spirit of truth; and hence the apostle prays for them, and exhorts the justified Christian to rise up to a superior degree of deliverance from sin.

There ought to be no controversy in the church and with the ministry about the sanctification of soul, body, and spirit, for "without holiness no man can see God in peace." The Christian must be "without spot and blameless." Is it not, therefore, a dangerous position for any preacher or layman to find fault with and object to this entire deliverance from sin in this present life. May we not attribute the low grade of piety and worldliness in the church to the fact that many preachers and many laymen object to this Bible doctrine of entire sanctification of soul, body and spirit to Christ?

Is it not sinful to split hairs over words when such a tremendous issue of the life or death of the soul is at stake?

The Residue Theory.

MR. EDITOR: I have been intensely interested of late in the discussion of the doctrine of holiness, both in the Advocates and elsewhere, and am confident that if conducted in the proper spirit, these discussions will result in great good. I regret, however, that in some instances a spirit has been manifested which, in my judgment, is not in harmony with the precious doctrine nor glorious experience that is being discussed. I think, too, that brethren go to great extremes on both sides. To illustrate: One brother says that the experience can be obtained only as a second blessing. Another says the second blessing is simply a restoration to what had been lost by backsliding. May not these brethren both be wrong? May not some obtain this sweet experience at the time of justification, and others subsequently? If so, ought there to be any contradictions among brethren? Is the Holy Spirit to have any particular mode or period of administration? Ought I to measure the blessings of the Spirit to others only in the measure by which his blessings were administered to me? Again: Some brethren aver that Mr. Wesley changed his views at least as early as 1784, and eliminated the residue theory from the seventh Article of Faith as prepared for the church in America. Others deny that any such change in his views ever occurred, and that the residue theory was ever eliminated from the article. It seems to me that brethren ought to be very careful in their statements on subjects so susceptible of proof as are the views entertained by Mr. Wesley on that particular subject. Mr. Wesley's writings still remain as the heritage of his successors, and are in the library of almost all Methodist preachers, and many others. Nobody claims inspiration for Mr. Wesley; therefore, his acceptance or rejection of any doctrine at any time does not necessarily make such doctrine true or false. But that he was consistent in his deliverances on the subject of holiness from 1725 to 1791 is to my mind without the shadow of doubt.

On Jan. 13, 1790, he says: "I have been uniform both in doctrine and discipline" (italics mine) "for above these fifty years, and it is a little too late for me to turn into a new path, now I am old and gray-headed."

This, the reader will bear in mind, was about six years after the Articles of Faith were prepared for the American church.

On Jan. 12, 1791, he refers to "Thoughts on Christian Perfection" in such a way as to show his hearty endorsement of the same. "Thoughts on Christian Perfection" set forth the "residue theory," and this reference was seven years after the preparation of the Articles of Faith for the American church. If, then, he taught the residue theory as early even as 1740, he believed and taught it when the articles were prepared in 1784, and on to 1790 and 1791 (within less than three months of his death). If, then, brethren find anything in his writings which they construe as being contradictory to said residue theory, or words that will admit of more than one construction, ought they not to allow Mr. Wesley to be his own interpreter? If, therefore, he believed and taught the "residue theory" before and after the preparation of the articles for the American church in 1784, is it unreasonable to suppose that he intended the retention thereof in our seventh Article, even though its language might possibly admit of another construction? I think it evident that Mr. Wesley intended the article to include and teach what he had believed and taught on that subject for nearly, or quite, fifty years. That teaching was certainly to my mind the residue theory.

Now, brethren, remember I am not arguing as to the truth or falsity of the residue theory, but am simply showing that Mr. Wesley believed and taught it for more than fifty years, and he never intended to eliminate it from our seventh Article.

In conclusion, dear brethren, allow me to entreat you not to say or write anything in your heated discussions that would tend to bring reproach on our beloved Methodism and discredit the honor and consistency of the man who, under God, was the founder of that branch of the church to which we belong and to which we claim to be loyal. If the residue theory, as taught by Mr. Wesley and others, be not in harmony with Scriptures, overturn it by fair scriptural and logical argument; but let me beg you to do it in the true spirit of our Master.

THOS. J. UPTON.

Alexandria, La.

In Reply.

REV. T. W. LEWIS.

MR. EDITOR: I write to correct your error in reference to the passages of Scripture referred to when I wrote those questions published in the last issue of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. You quote from I. John iii, 7, and iii, 9, whereas my note referred to I. John i, 7, and i, 9. You say that "nothing is forgiven in regeneration, but that something is given. Pardon stands for justification, life for regeneration, and," etc. Now, if justification, regeneration and sanctification are different from each other, does it require a separate act of faith to secure each of these blessings? You will observe in the second quotation which I made in my note (I. John i, 9) that forgiveness and cleansing are conditioned upon confession. They must go together, according to John. You must allow me to dissent from your view in making the Scriptures referred to at the close of your article support the second cleansing theory. My brother, I do not believe that a fair interpretation of those Scriptures can be made to support as important a doctrine as you claim the second cleansing to be. You say that the second cleansing of the temple teaches figuratively the same truth. You will observe that the temple had been decorated by the money changers and by those who bought and sold; hence the necessity of the cleansing. You say that sanctification is not the bugaboo that many of our brethren conceive it to be. Many of our brethren who hold to your theory of sanctification claim that all of us who do not hold to the same theory are, therefore, opposed to sanctification. Some of our brethren claim that nobody is trying to spread scriptural holiness over these lands but the few who profess the second cleansing theory. A greater mistake was never made. All our services are holiness services. To promote holiness we preach and hold prayer meetings and carry on our Sunday-schools. No man believes more strongly than I do in the doctrine of perfect love, for in this respect only are we to be made perfect in this life. He who loves God with all his heart, soul, mind and strength, and his neighbor as himself, has reached the highest point of Christian attainment of which he is capable at the time. By exercise his capacity enlarges so that he can love more next year than he loves to-day. If all sin is not removed when man is forgiven and regenerated, then man is still in a state of guilt, though regenerated, for sin implies guilt, and guilt implies punishment, either deserved or imposed. Then, if man is not in a state of condemnation when regenerated, because all sin has been removed, then it follows that he is without sin. "Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin." Neither is he in sin, nor is sin in him.

The Kumamoto Band.

Seventeen years ago, on a bright Sunday morning in the early Spring, a crowd of some thirty-five Japanese boys were seen ascending a hill called the Mt. Hanaoka, to the west of the castle of Kumamoto, Japan. Although they had Japanese clogs and sandals on like any other Japanese, and on that account seemed to have quite a difficulty with the frost just about to melt, everything about them showed that they were the sons of the literati of that clan. Some of them were as young as eleven, and none of them was older than seventeen.

On the top of the hill stood a lonely pine, underneath which they all sat in a circle, apparently well pleased with the fresh morning air and the fragrance of the plum blossom, the pride of Japan. About this time Kumamoto was the stronghold of anti-foreign spirit, and the year was only two years previous to the outbreaking of that anti-foreign movement known as the "God-wind band of Kumamoto." Had they, then, come for the purpose of making any such movement? For quite a different purpose.

About three years previous to this, upon the invitation of Hosokawa, the prince of Kumamoto, there went out to the city of Kumamoto an American gentleman by the name of Capt. L. L. Jones, to teach English and the sciences to such students as were selected for the purpose by the officers of the clan. Capt. Jones impressed his students with his refinement and culture, and, above all, with his Christian character. Some of his students came to him and requested him to teach them the Bible, with which request the Captain was more than glad to comply. Among his best students in school as well as in his Bible class were the thirty-five boys referred to above.

At the time we are speaking of, Capt. Jones was on the eve of leaving Kumamoto, and the boys thought they were going to be left like a flock of sheep without a shepherd. To encourage themselves one to another, to consolidate themselves against the attacks from without, were the purpose of their conference on this hill. As a result of the conference a document was drawn by one of the boys, who, then in his teens, showed his genius of pen, and is now known as the Rev. Jno. T. Yokoi, editor of The Christian, and was signed by all of them on the spot. In this document they declared their belief in Christianity, and pledged themselves to the work of evangelizing Japan.

At the hour they were doing this, little did they dream what persecutions they were to undergo, much less did they dream what difficulties they were to encounter in the work of evangelization. But God knew all that, and he was with them always. A few days later, when it was discovered that they had held a conference for the propagation of the "evil sect," some were put into their family prisons, while others were disinherited and even banished from the boundaries of the clan. But they had pledged themselves to care no more for their lives than for dirt and dust when truth was at stake. They would not renounce their faith for aught under the sun. At this juncture, Joseph Hardy Neeshima, who had received fifteen years' education in America at the liberality of one Hon. Joseph Hardy, returned to Japan, and most of the thirty-five boys found a refuge and teacher in him. Most of them were afterwards, and are being now, educated in America. Eleven of them are the most successful and prominent preachers in Japan, being pastors of congregations differing in membership from 300 to 1,000. Beside these, three have taken the degree of Ph.D. at Yale, one at Edinburgh, and another at Berlin, and all are engaged in the work of Christian education. The others have been and are more indirectly connected with the evangelization of Japan. Strike out these thirty-five boys, and there is no way to account for the existence of that strong body of Congregationalists in Japan, with more than thirty self-supporting churches, and a university whose course equals the very best in America.

Now, you will see what good a cultured American young man, full of the spirit of Christ, can do in Japan. Let the Southern Methodist Church send some more men of the type of J. W. Lambuth, in whom the Japanese saw a sound combination of culture and piety, and God will help us to conquer Japan before she surrenders to infidelity.

T. MASAO.

Rev. J. T. Nicholson.

We were inexpressibly saddened by a report of Bro. Nicholson's relapse about three or four weeks past. The report has gone abroad that he has relapsed, and, too, that his relapse is by far more severe than his first attack. Indeed, it is reported that there is no hope for him now whatever. No longer than last night, while waiting for a train at Meridian, we met with a brother who, as he thought, had been so correctly informed that this report was true that he could hardly be convinced of the contrary. A certain brother had informed him of the certainty of this matter. But we are thankful to announce to the public that the report is false. We know for ourselves that it is false, for no longer than last week we were associated with him in a protracted meeting at Concord, a church in Bro. Meador's charge, and heard him preach what we thought to be a good sermon. Others thought so, too. How the report found currency we are unable to decide, unless it grew out of the fact that while sick with a fever at Hazlehurst he became delirious. But we must not forget that some people are so constituted that the least fever will throw them into a delirium which leaves with the fever. Let this be as it will, for we know of a certainty that Bro. Nicholson was in a fine condition, physically, mentally and spiritually, apparently the last time we saw him, which is a short time, more than one week past. As we said at the first, so do we still say, that there is no reason why he should relapse as long as he is prudent in his diet and avoids overwork. It is best for him, we think, not to engage in regular preaching during a protracted meeting, although with impunity he might preach every Sunday.

We do thank our heavenly Father for what has occurred in his health for the better, and do most earnestly pray for him to have perfect health that he may come up all right at our next Conference for regular work.

ISAAC L. PEEBLES.

Enterprise, Miss., Aug. 28.

Debate.

On April 26, 1893, Revs. J. H. Taylor, Baptist, and M. H. Honnoll, Methodist, met in debate, at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, seven miles west of Rienzi, on the mode and subject of baptism. A report was carefully taken, and is now in pamphlet form. Anyone wishing a copy or a number of copies can be supplied by addressing J. H. Smith, Rienzi, Miss. Ten cents a copy. Don't send stamps, please.

J. H. SMITH.

What Is the Matter?

MR. EDITOR: What in the world is the matter with your fellows down there? Why all this fuss about holiness, or perfect love? I thought our church required all our preachers to go on to perfection. What do you mean by making the boys stand up and swear they expect to be made perfect in love in this life, that they are groaning after it; then if he says he has reached it, you say he is lying about it, or, at least, he has not got sense to know what he is talking about. You all claim to believe in holiness; but the trouble seems to be about that "second blessing." Well, what of that? If a brother has got the prize, what is the difference whether he got it in a second or a century? I have not reached that point; consequently I have got more sense than to question a fact that I confessedly know nothing about. Let us quit this foolishness and try to consecrate ourselves this day unto God. If we doubt as to the doctrine, just do his commandments, and you shall know whether it be of God. Let us remember that holiness becometh the house of the Lord forever, and that without holiness no man can see the Lord. Oh, quit sparring about how it is done; it don't amount to anything. Enoch had to scuffle on for three centuries before he attained the goal; Elijah had to have a chariot of fire before he reached it; Lazarus had to have a beggar's death and angel's wings to reach it, while the dying thief only fell from a felon's cross on his Lord's bosom and obtained the prize. So you see the flow cuts no figure in the case. I have never been at home till I got there. I never had a dollar till I got it, and I suppose no man ever had the second blessing, or perfect love, till he got it. Now, if one brother prefers to grow up into it, let him grow, so he gets it. If another prefers to take it per saltum, let him have it that way. All this wrangling about that which God commands sounds mighty strange coming from Methodists, especially from Methodist preachers who have pledged their lives to the attainment of this end. Take a lesson from this grand ode:

"The June bug lives on flossy wing,
The lightning bug has a flame,
The bed bug has no wings at all,
But gets there all the same."

Dear brethren, let us try to get there, but let us not be wrangling about the hour, for blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God. The one great question is, Are our hearts pure before God?

M. D. FLY.

Jonestown, Miss.

Memphis Conference Female College.

MR. EDITOR: Please allow me space for a few words about the Memphis Conference Female College. As you are, perhaps, aware, Rev. Howard W. Key, A. M., Ph.D., was recently elected president of this institution. It was a wise choice. Dr. Key has brought to his work the experience of nearly twenty years of active work in education—the greater part of it in charge of well-known and flourishing female colleges. Success has marked his course everywhere. He is a man of strong will, indomitable energy, fine culture, and unusual financial and executive ability. He has called to his aid one of the finest faculties in the South. His teachers in the literary department are from the best Northern and Southern schools. They are of Southern birth, however. In the ornamental departments his teachers have been chosen from our own and foreign countries, and have only been selected after the most careful investigation. The musical director is considered one of the finest on this continent—is a native of Germany, and ranks high with musicians in that country. He is a composer of no ordinary merit. The music department is supplied with over twenty good pianos and organs. Dr. Key has sold most of the old ones and put in many new and elegant ones.

Pardon my going thus into particulars, but I want the Methodists of the South to know what we have here in Tennessee. It gladdens the hearts of the brethren of the Memphis Conference to know that we have a school that ranks with the foremost in our beautiful Southland. The institute has been remodeled and modernized fully. Hot and cold water baths, etc., on every floor, carpeted rooms and elegant new furniture throughout. A large library and neatly furnished reading room and a magnificent gymnasium in the beautiful new dome affords mental and physical recreation. Money has been expended freely and judiciously in adding every modern convenience and comfort and making the institute an attractive home for girls. The grounds are ample, and the flower garden one of the largest and most beautiful I ever saw.

Now, as to Dr. Key's work with his pupils I can speak from personal experience. My daughter was a boarding pupil in his house for several months. I can assure parents that their daughters will receive the love, tenderness and careful oversight of a father and mother, and that Dr. Key's motto, "Thoroughness and good discipline," is no catch phrase, but does characterize his work fully. The influence of a refined Christian home prevails in this house as is rarely the case in a boarding school. Methodist parents having daughters to educate can not do better than send them to M. C. F. I. No Southern school offers better, and few as good advantages. Our town is a most delightful place, very progressive, with refined, elegant people. A fine moral and religious sentiment prevails. It is wonderfully healthy, the water being proven by analysis as pure as that of the famous Eureka Springs of Arkansas.

J. W. LOWRANCE.

Note from Seashore District.

MR. EDITOR: I have just returned from a delightful quarterly meeting at Paulding, on the Heidelberg circuit. The influences were gracious, and seemed to rest on all hearts. By all the signs the meeting should have been protracted, and would have been had I not been obliged to leave in order to meet an engagement Wednesday. It was my pleasure to meet for the first time my predecessor at Natchez, Rev. J. T. Nicholson, and his wife, and to hear the gospel from his lips in a clear, strong, and unctuous sermon. His brethren, I know, will rejoice to know of his good health and cheering prospects of taking work at Conference. I am in for a campaign among the "tenters," as our camp meetings are now beginning. We look for rich results. Some gracious meetings have been held, and others in prospect. I trust to be able to find time soon for a brief review of the work on the district. This district will give a bigger man than this presiding elder a heavy pull; but I have put all the available capital of muscle, brain and heart I had in the work. I have gotten much good out of it, if others have not.

Truly yours,

HENRY E. PARTRIDGE.

American Finances.

It is the logic of events that a single gold standard can not be maintained for any great length of time without causing depression of values and a financial crisis, for money is only valuable, whether dear or cheap, when it can be used in some form of enterprise. The borrowers of money are the men who do something, who build up and sustain the wealth of the world. They are the creators; and when money becomes too valuable to borrow, then commodities will be too cheap to create, because no margin of profit will be left to the producer, and dull times will be inevitable. It can not be denied that a change in the financial system of a country is dangerous, because any change affects the value of property, and, therefore, stability is more needed than improvement. No nation is great enough to impose its own monetary system on the rest of the world, unless it is to the interest of the rest of the world to adopt it. And a free people will not willingly adopt a monetary system which makes property less valuable and the masses of its people poorer. England has done this, for it is admitted by English statesmen that within twenty years all property in England has decreased in value fully thirty per cent., its agriculture is in decay, its laboring people are migrating in vast numbers to remote colonies or to the United States, its manufacturing interests are not prospering, and while its rich people have more gold, its poor people have none, and they can earn none. Indeed, there is no encouragement for prosperous America to swap financial systems with England.—Morris M. Estee, in September Californian.

Henrik Ibsen.

On Bredgade, in front of Santa Anna place, the writer saw, in a photographer's show-case, Ibsen's likeness, for the first time. By a strange coincidence the man himself appeared on the street dressed exactly as he was in the picture. He wore side whiskers, and his hair was jet black and carefully oiled. He wore a silk hat of the latest fashion, a black velveteen coat, a pair of tight-fitting fawn-colored trousers strapped under patent leather shoes, while his hands were encased in elegant gloves. The atmosphere about him was filled with an aroma of scented hair oil, and in his dress he looked the exquisite, his face bearing no traces of an emotional nature. One would have taken him for a prosperous merchant rather than one of the world's greatest poets and philosophers.

We met several times after this at Jerichan's house. He was always measured, exact, punctual. We used to say about him at the Academy that he never even put on a glove without first considering the effect of the various motions necessary to accomplish the act. He seemed to be exceedingly affected.—C. M. Waage, in September Californian.

The testimony of George Fox, the Quaker, is suggestive. It would be a vast improvement on the average Christian to have it. He says: "I knew Jesus, and he was very precious to my soul; but I found something within me that would not keep sweet, and patient and kind. I did what I could to keep it down, but it was there; I besought Jesus to do something for me, and, when I gave him my will, he came to my heart, and took out all that would not be sweet, all that would not be kind, all that would not be patient, and then he shut the door." Gentle-tempered Christians is a great and felt need. Fox got it this way. We may get it the same way.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL LESSON.—Sept. 10, 1893.

PREPARED BY REV. A. F. WATKINS.

Paul at Rome.

(Acts xxviii, 20-31.)

GOLDEN TEXT.—"I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ." (Romans i, 16.)

TOPICAL OUTLINE.—I. Paul's Last Appeal to the Jews (vs. 20-23). II. Their Final Rejection (vs. 24-29). III. Preaching the Kingdom (vs. 30 and 31).

CENTRAL THOUGHT.—The Hardness of Unbelief.

INTRODUCTORY.

TIME.—From A. D. 61 to A. D. 63.

PLACE.—Paul's "hired house" in Rome.

PERSONS.—1. Paul. 2. The chief men of the Jews in Rome. 3. The Gentiles—"all who came in unto him."

CONNECTING LINKS.—Paul's strange immunity from harm resulting from the viper's bite, and his healing of the father of Publius and others, secured for the shipwrecked strangers a continuance of the kindness and honor with which, from the first, they were treated. The curious experience with the viper, and the cures wrought by the hands of Paul, present a striking fulfillment of our Lord's promise, recorded in Mark xvi, 18. They remained three months on the island, and then set sail in another Egyptian grain-ship—one that had wintered in the island—for Rome. They first stopped at Syracuse, the capital of Sicily, where they remained three days, probably for the purpose of trading, and then proceeded to Rhegium, a city on the southern extremity of the Italian peninsula. Waiting one day for a favorable wind, they passed through the Straits of Messina to Puteoli, a port of great importance, and the usual landing-place of the Egyptian grain-ships. After tarrying seven days with the Christian brethren of that place, they set out by land for the Imperial City, the distance being about one hundred and forty miles. At the Forum of Appius, forty miles from the end of their journey, they were met by a delegation from the Christian Church at Rome, and ten miles farther on they met another company of Roman Christians, who, with the others, had heard of Paul's coming, and had come to meet him. The great apostle was keenly alive to the appreciation of his brethren, and his faith was strengthened and his heart made glad by this evidence of the love and confidence of his fellow-Christians in Rome. Arrived at Rome, the prisoners were delivered by the centurion to the captain of the Prætorian guard, who, influenced probably by the favorable letter of Festus, and the more favorable report of Julius, the centurion, treated Paul with great kindness, allowing him to live by himself, attended only by the soldier, to whose hand he was chained. Only three days were allowed to pass before the zealous Paul, anxious to be about his Master's work, and anxious, most of all, that Israel should be saved, sent for the chief men of the Jews, that they might learn of the truths for which he was a prisoner in bonds.

EXPLANATORY.

I.—PAUL'S LAST APPEAL TO THE JEWS.

Ver. 20. That Paul should have sent for these representatives of the Jews resident in Rome, and first of all made his appeal to them, is a striking proof of his intense and unbounded love for his countrymen. His most determined opponents and his most vindictive persecutors had been among his kinsmen according to the flesh, and yet in every place even to this, his last recorded appeal in Rome, he preached first of all to the Jews. "For this cause"—because of the fact that on account of my loyalty to the Messianic hopes of our people—I am bound with this chain. I have sent for you that I might see you and speak with you. His bonds were not a reproach in their eyes, but a badge of honor, if for their national and religious hope he was bound.

Ver. 21. They do not mean that they had not heard of Paul; they had probably heard unfavorable reports of him as a ring leader of the obnoxious Nazarines. Nor do they mean that they knew nothing of his doctrines; for the next verse shows that they had heard many things to the disadvantage of this sect. They simply mean that no official or private communication had been received from Jerusalem concerning his present imprisonment, and this was very probably true, as there would have been no reason for sending a statement concerning him before his appeal; and since he was sent to Rome without delay, no report of his case could have reached them by this time. They are polite and non-committal.

Ver. 22. It may be that they meant to show their contempt for Christianity by pretending to know but little about it, or it may be that the Christian community in Rome was so obscure that they really did not know much about it. In either case it seemed right that they should hear this able expounder of the doctrines of this new sect, that found no favor with Jew or Roman, but was everywhere spoken against. Whatever the motive that prompted them to wish to hear him, their willingness to hear gave Paul an opportunity to preach Jesus as the Messiah, and an opportunity was what Paul wanted.

Ver. 23. They appointed a day on which to hear him; whether at his suggestion or theirs we do not know. At their first interview only a few of their more prominent men had been present; but now a large number came to his lodging, to whom, all day long, he preached, showing the broadness and spirituality of the kingdom of heaven, and proving that in his life, character, words and works Jesus of Nazareth had met the requirements of the law and fulfilled the words of the prophets; taking, doubtless, the promises which they accepted as referring to the Messiah and showing their fulfillment in Jesus.

II.—THEIR FINAL REJECTION.

Ver. 24. The fact that some believed and others did not believe, while in the last verse it is stated that he persuaded them, shows that the convincing of the judgment and the silencing of all opposition are not always followed by an acceptance of the truth. A manly acceptance of the truth and its logical consequences involve the consent of the will as well as the assent of the intellect.

Ver. 25. While Paul was expounding the Word of God there had probably been uttered the expressions of assent and opposition, and now at the close of his discourse there followed a general expression of their views, which disclosed the diversity of opinion among them. It is probable that by far the greater number were among the unbelievers, and that their words of hostility caused the apostle to utter his final words of condemnation. The quotation (Isaiah vi, 9, 10) is that used by our Lord in Matt. xiii, 14, 15, and in his manner of referring to it the apostle brings out clearly the agency of the Holy Ghost and the mere instrumentality of the prophet in the giving of the word of God.

Vers. 26 and 27. The former of these verses contains the result, both as a judgment and a consequence, of the wilful and perverse neglect of opportunity and obligation described in the latter. An insensibility which incapacitates resulted from their wicked refusal to see and hear and feel and turn, that God might heal them. The deadening of the sensibilities resulting from the non-use or abuse of our faculties is one of the most perilous influences of sin.

Ver. 28. The benefits of the gospel were not given to the Gentiles because the Jews rejected them. If they had accepted Christ, the Gentiles would, through them, have had this universal gospel preached to them. But since those to whom first of all the good news was sent refused to hear it, the heralds of mercy turn at once to the Gentiles, for whom, in common with the Jews, its gracious benefits were intended, and by whom the message would be received.

Ver. 29. This verse, which is almost identical in sense with verse 24 and a part of verse 25, is omitted in the Revised Version as not being found in the best manuscripts.

III.—PREACHING THE KINGDOM.

Ver. 30. The Jews had departed, but many came, both Jews and Gentiles, and for two whole years, during which time his trial was in progress, he received all who came. The verse implies that at the expiration of this time Paul's condition was changed; he was either convicted and put to death or was acquitted and released. If the former, it is strange that Luke does not mention the fact. It is probable that he was liberated and resumed his missionary labors and was subsequently arrested again and put to death.

Ver. 31. If Luke had been writing a biography of Paul, he would not thus abruptly have closed his history. But a history of the extension and triumphs of the Christian Church can never end until the end of all things, and at whatever point any historian of the church may close his record, the closing sentence must tell of "preaching the kingdom of God, and teaching those things which concern the Lord Jesus Christ with all confidence."

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

1. It is no disgrace to be bound with a chain; the cause of the bonds making them the badge of honor or of shame. (Verse 20.)

2. That a cause is spoken against does not prove that it is evil. No great reform was ever accomplished that did not have to fight its way through calumny and reproach. (Verse 22.)

3. To have to plead for Christ with men who, from education and environment, ought to be willing to accept him, is a sad revelation of the wickedness of the human heart. (Verse 23.)

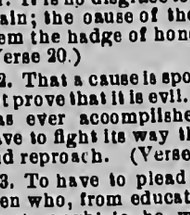
4. Some believed, others believed not. A faithful presentation of the truth always divides men. On the day of judgment, when Christ shall separate the righteous and the wicked, the separation will be along the line of the division already made, with our consent, by the preaching of the truth. (Verse 24.)

5. It is at once a gracious and a fearful truth that a man's final rejection of God and God's final rejection of man take place at the same moment. (Verses 26, 27.)

6. When Paul was free he was often hindered in his work; now, Paul in chains, preaches, and no man hinders him. (Verse 31.) A strange providence had made possible what Paul says in Philippians i, 12-14.

Scrofula in the Neck

The following is from Mrs. J. W. Tillbrook, wife of the Mayor of McKeesport, Penn.:



Willie Tillbrook.

"My little boy Willie, now 6 years old, two years ago had a bunch under one ear which the doctor said was Scrofula. He finally lanced it and it discharged for some time. We then began giving Willie Hood's Sarsaparilla and he improved very rapidly until the sore healed up. Last winter it broke out again, followed by Erysipelas. We again gave him Hood's Sarsaparilla with excellent results and he has had no more trouble. His cure is due to

Hood's Sarsaparilla

He has never been very robust, but now seems healthy and daily growing stronger."

HOOD'S PILLS do not purge, pain or gripe, but act promptly, easily and efficiently. 25c.

LOOK!

WILKINSON'S

Matchless Sulphuric Acid and Iron Tonic

WELL WATER.

The Most Wonderful Tonic in America.

BOARD OF HEALTH, STATE OF LOUISIANA, New Orleans, Aug. 9, 1893.

Mr. W. W. WILKINSON—

Dear Sir: Below please find the results of analysis of the sample of water marked "Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water," submitted to me for examination, accompanied by the following affidavit:

The State of Alabama—Butler County.

Before me, F. M. Black, a Notary Public in and for said County and State, personally appeared J. F. Bergamer, Sheriff of Butler County, who being duly sworn on oath, saith that he went to the well of Mr. W. W. Wilkinson on this day and seen the Matchless Mineral Water drawn from the well and put in a five gallon demijohn and labeled to A. L. Metz, M. D., Chemist of Board of Health, No. 63 Carondelet Street, New Orleans, La.

(Signed) J. F. BERGAMER, Sheriff Butler County.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, July 20th, 1893.

(Signed) F. M. BLACK, Notary Public.

Color	Yellowish red and clear
Odor	(when heated to 140° F.) Terebinthinous
Taste	Very Astringent
Phosphates	Heavy Traces
Chlorine as Chlorides	3.102 grains

Per U. S. gallon of 231 cub. inches

Equivalent to Sodium Chloride	5.083 grains
Sulphuric Acid	785.108
Iron (Ferric) Oxide	334.480
Iron (Ferrous) Oxide	101.920
Aluminum Oxide	7.681
Calcium Oxide (Lime)	80.476
Magnesia	26.872
Potash	2.322
Soda	6.045
Silica	6.049

These constituents are probably combined as follows:

Grains per U. S. gallon of 231 cub. inches

Iron (Ferric) Sulphate	836.200
Iron (Ferrous) Sulphate	213.775
Aluminum and Potassic Sulphate (Alum)	29.900
Calcium (Lime) Sulphate	74.018
Magnesium Sulphate	80.616
Sodium Sulphate	7.725
Sodium Phosphate	Heavy Traces
Sodium Chloride	5.083
Silica	6.049

The residue, after evaporation, crystallized, and the total weight, including water of crystallization, at 212° F., was 1.564 grains per gallon.

A. L. METZ, M. D., Chemist of the Board of Health of the State of Louisiana and of the City of New Orleans.

Cures Dyspepsia in its worst form, Chronic Diarrhœa, Diabetes, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Sores, Bilious Colic, Tetter, Ring Worm, Chronic Sores, Ulceration of the Womb, Throat, Catarrh, Debility. Best Natural Tonic in the World.

As a Tonic and Alterative.—A teaspoonful to a tablespoonful in one-half glass of water three times a day, directly after eating; but if stomach is soured, take before eating.

As a Cathartic.—Three to five tablespoonsful in same amount of water.

For External Application.—Use as a wash without diluting (warm if possible).

For Injection.—If water is too strong, slightly dilute and use twice a day.

For Cholera Morbus and Cramp Colic.—Two tablespoonsful every hour or two until relieved (in a little water).

Will keep full strength for any length of time in any climate. Never dilute except as used.

1. W. D. Rogers says: "Your Mineral Water has cured me of dyspepsia, and my wife of womb disease, when all else failed."

2. John H. McCullough says: "This water cured me of dyspepsia after suffering four years and trying medicine, doctors, etc."

3. W. D. Newman says: "I was afflicted for twelve years with fetter. Matchless Mineral Water cured me when all doctors and treatment failed."

4. Rev. Chas. R. Lamar was cured of dyspepsia of more than two years' standing by use of two gallons of Matchless Mineral Water.

5. J. H. Gilbert says: "Matchless Mineral Water is, beyond doubt, the best remedy known to me for sore eyes."

6. Jesse B. Basser says: "I have suffered long from chronic ulcerated sore leg. Offered $100 to doctors to cure. This water cured me."

7. Rev. J. M. Whitehead: "It cures every species of indigestion; can eat anything I want, and a good appetizer."

8. James J. Ingle says: "I have suffered five years with kidneys and liver. Have used one bottle. Most wonderful medicine I ever used."

9. J. G. Lightfoot says: "My son down five years. General debility and impure blood. Doctors failed. Two bottles Mineral Water cured him."

10. John Brannan says: "I was down three years with bilious colic. Spent $150 for medical treatment; grew worse; one and a half gallons. This water cured me."

11. Martin Eady says: "My eye was about out from gun cap in it. The two bottles of Mineral Water made a complete cure of my eyes."

12. George Green says: "I have been suffering fifteen or twenty years with chronic diarrhœa. The Matchless Mineral Water cured me."

13. W. J. Gardner says: "For seven or eight years I was victim of nervous dyspepsia and all its horrors. One quart Mineral Water cured me. Spent thousands of dollars for medical treatment. Would not go back for $10,000."

14. J. B. Brown says: "My only child, three years old, sick two years. Spent much for medical treatment. Child given up to die. Mineral Water cured him. I would not take $1,000 for benefits of that bottle of Mineral Water."

15. Mr. J. A. Davis, Bonham, Texas, says: "My horse was as sick with colic as any horse I ever saw. One pint of water cured him in five minutes."

Price: Per bottle, 25c, 50c, and $1.

Address

C. M. FUSH,

106 Camp Street

NEW ORLEANS, - - - LA.

Send stamp for circular.

READ THIS.

Board and Lodging by Day, Week or Month.

Regular meals, 25 cents. Lodging, 25 to 50 cents.

I endeavor to make my place home-like and comfortable. Give me a call.

MRS. BRAKEL,

No. 535 Chartres St., near Northeastern Depot.

ANGELL'S

HOMŒOPATHIC PHARMACY,

153 and 155 JULIA ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Richard Angell, M. D., Proprietor.

DEALER IN

Homœopathic Medicines, Book and All Other Articles used in Homœopathic Practice.

Try Angell's Celebrated Whooping Cough Syrup.

North Mississippi Conference Colportage and Sunday-School Agency

KOSCIUSKO, MISS.

Any Good Book Furnished at Publisher's Prices.

A specialty is made of the Books, Periodicals and Sunday-school Supplies of our church, which are furnished at Publishing House prices exactly.

Bibles and Testaments, All Styles and Sizes, Are a Particular Feature of the Work.

Our House requests that all the business of this Conference be transacted through this office.

All orders for books or papers promptly filled, and all pertinent questions concerning good literature and our Sunday-school interests will be readily answered.

G. W. BACHMAN,

Colporter and Sunday-school Agent.

WALL PAPER.

The Spring patterns of Wall Paper are handsomer than ever before, and we are able to offer them to you at prices which are within the reach of all. We believe that anyone buying cheap paper will do better to invest 10, 12½ or 15 cents and buy a gilt paper or a fine blank for the small difference than to invest 5 cents in a cheap blank; but if you want the 5-cents paper, we have it and will be glad to sell it.

MATTINGS,

In novel and dainty designs, which can not be had elsewhere, as we control our own private patterns. Prices from $5 per roll of 40 yrds, and up

LACE CURTAINS,

Rugs, Screens, Easels, Oil Cloth, Window Shades and Upholstering Goods.

ESTIMATES

Given for papering in the country under the direction of our foreman and with our own experienced corps of men.

Heath, Schwartz & Co., Lim.,

116 Camp Street, New Orleans.

$21 PAID WEEKLY

To active, faithful men and women, boys and girls, working for us taking orders for THE ILLUSTRATED WORLD'S FAIR, edited by John McGovern, the Prince of the Literary West. 25c. a month, or $2.50 a year. Entire Series, from July, 1891, to January, 1894, 30 monthly issues, only $6.00. Sells at sight. Most beautiful, interesting and popular, and the only publication receiving official recognition. THE ORGAN OF THE FAIR. Chicago Inter Ocean says: "It is a handsomely prepared and valuable publication, to which many celebrities are contributors." Send 15c. (stamps) for full particulars and sample copy containing fifty large rich engravings of the PRINCIPAL ATTRACTIONS of the World's Fair. Address.

THE NATIONAL BOOK CONCERN,

184 VAN BUREN ST., CHICAGO, ILL

DO YOU

Want a teacher for a Summer school? A bookkeeper for a few months while your regular man takes in the World's Fair? A fine young man for any kind of honorable work? If you do, write to DR. W. B. MURRAH, President, or J. W. CHAMBERS, Agent, of Millsaps College, and they will supply the man.

WANTED.

An A. M. graduate, having twenty years' successful experience in managing large institutions of learning, wants to lease desirable school or college property. Parties interested please address

"COLLEGE PRESIDENT,"

Care of ADVOCATE.

Advertising in England, European Continent, Etc.

SELL'S

ADVERTISING AGENCY, Limited.

Capital, $250,000. Henry Sell, Manager (editor and founder of "Sell's World's Press").

Full particulars regarding British or European Advertising, sample papers, rates, etc., at the London Office, 167-168 Fleet street, or at New York Office, 21 Park Row, Ground Floor.

Kursheedt's Marble Works

120 and 122 Camp St., New Orleans

$525 Agent's profits per month. Will prove it or pay forfeit. New Articles just out. A $1.50 sample and terms free. Try us. Chidester & Son, 2 Bond St., New York City.

When answering advertisements please mention the Advocate

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

GREAT FAST MAIL ROUTE.

Four Daily Trains between NEW ORLEANS and CHICAGO.

The Only Line running Pullman Buffet Sleepers and Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes.

FREE RECLINING CHAIR CARS TO CHICAGO.

St. Louis Without Change.

The Only Line running a Double Daily Train Service to

ST. LOUIS.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York

The great Steel Bridge, spanning the Ohio River at Cairo, completed, and all trains (freight and passenger) now running regularly over it, thus avoiding the delays and annoyances incident to transfer by ferry boat.

TICKET OFFICE: Corner St. Charles and Common Streets.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

Speed and Comfort Combined When Traveling

VIA THE

T. AND P.

THE SHORT LINE TO

NEW ORLEANS, MEMPHIS,

AND POINTS IN THE

SOUTHEAST

THE DIRECT LINE TO

North and West Texas, Arizona, Old and New Mexico, Oregon, Colorado and California.

THE FASTEST TIME TO

Hot Springs, Little Rock and St. Louis

PULLMAN'S FINEST BUFFET SLEEPING CARS

On all Through Trains between

NEW ORLEANS AND DENVER,
NEW ORLEANS AND ST. LOUIS,
NEW ORLEANS and SAN FRANCISCO,
NEW ORLEANS, FT. WORTH and DALLAS

Lowest ticket rates, time tables, and all desired information will be furnished by any of the ticket agents of the Texas & Pacific R'y or

W. A. DASHIELL, Trav. Pass. Agent.
GASTON MESLIER, Gen'l Pass. and T'kt Agt.
L. S. THORNE, Third Vice President and General Superintendent, Dallas, Texas.

Yazoo and Mississippi Valley RAILROAD COMPANY.

All trains arrive and depart from new Passenger Station, cor. Howard Ave. and Rampart St.

	Leaves.	Arrives
Kansas City and Memphis Fast Train	5:00 p. m	8:35 a. m
Vicksburg & Natchez Ex.	7:55 a. m	5:35 p. m
Bat. Rouge "Coast Train."	3:40 p. m	10:00 a. m

The Only Line running Solid Trains between New Orleans, Memphis and Vicksburg, with Modern Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars through to Memphis and Kansas City.

The direct and favorite route to Kansas City, Denver, and All Points West.

The short line to Hot Springs and points in Arkansas and North Louisiana.

Commutation Tickets, Mileage Books, Party Rates and Week End Excursions.

Summer Excursion Tickets on Sale in season.

Ticket Office: St. Charles St., cor. Common.

JAMES DINKINS, Div. Pass. Agt.
J. W. COLEMAN, A. G. P. A.
A. H. HANSON G. P. A.

CLARK & MEADER,

16 and 18 CARONDELET ST.

BRANCH STORE:

Cor. ST. CHARLES and NAPOLEON Avenues,

NEW ORLEANS.

Sinfied Olives in Oil; Boneless Anchovies in Oil; Boneless Anchovies in Salt; French Crescent Olives; Mammoth Queen Olives; Cepes au Naturel; Mushroom Powder; Bijou Cans of Aluettes; Thon a huile; Pure of Fois Gras; Sauces; Truffe; Pure of Sardines; Truffled Sardines; New Maple Syrup in Quart bottles, 1 Gallon and ½ Gallon Cans; Maple Sugar in 1-pound cakes; Franco-American Game Pates, such as Wild Duck, Grouse, Partridge, Pheasant, Chicken, Chicken Liver, Woodcock: Entrees—Chicken Curry a la Indienne, Chicken Saute a la Marengo; Calves' Tongues with Tomato Sauce; Veal and Green Peas; Calves' Tongue, sauce Piquant; Braised Beef a la Jardeniere; Ross' Bellast Ginger Ale, Sarsaparilla, Cinh Soda, and Raspberry Vinegar; Potoma's Roe Herring; Clysmic Water; Smoked Beef; Small Whole Boneless Cooked Hams in cans; Whole Boiled Beef Tongues in cans; Wheatena; Pettijohn's California Breakfast Food; Schumacher's Rolled Wheat and Avena; Cerealine Flakes; Molt's Pure Sparkling Sweet and Crab Apple Cider; Large Smoked Beef Tongue.

J. C. MORRIS CO., Limited.

40, 42 and 44 Tchoupitoulas Street.

E. F. DYER, Pres. E. P. MACKIE, Treas

WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

Refrigerators, Freezers, Water Coolers, Fishing Tackle, Seines, Oars, Hammocks, Croquet, Baseballs, Baskets, Brooms, Brushes, Fruit Jars, Bottles, Flasks, Demijohns, Rope, Twine, Axle Grease, Wrapping Paper, Bags, Stationery, Cheese Safes, Cages, Scales, Tacks, Chimneys, Lamps, Tinware, Blacking, Woodenware, Cutlery, Clocks, etc.

W. W. CARRE.

LUMBER MERCHANT

AND MANUFACTURER OF

PLANTATION CABINS, STORES, Etc

Nos. 342, 344, 346 and 348 Howard Ave.,

NEW BASIN, NEW ORLEANS

GUARANTEED CURE

OR NO PAY.

Nothing Fairer Than This.

When we say cure, we do not mean simply to stop it for the time being, but a

PERMANENT AND POSITIVE CURE

For Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Impure Blood, and all diseases arising from a disordered Liver. Write for Treatise, Testimonials, and Free Sample Bottle of

DR. ROC'S LIVER, RHEUMATIC and NEURALGIA CURE to

CULLEN & NEWMAN,

182 GAY ST., Knoxville, Tenn.

POSITIONS GUARANTEED

Guaranteed in Writing. Send for free catalogue of DRAUGHON'S Consolidated Practical Business College, Nashville, Tenn. Cheap Board. No vacation. MENTION THIS PAPER.

Shorthand in Vest Pocket.

DR. LAFFERTY, the Stenographer to the Virginia Senate, has given the CONGRESSIONAL SYSTEM OF SHORTHAND in a series of simple, witty, chatty talks; each illustrated. You learn it while you laugh. 65 pages. Price 50 cents. Address him, Richmond, Va.

TO MINISTERS.

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN YOUR CHOIR

to the extent of desiring to have each Sunday, new and bright ANTHEMS, thoroughly devotional in character?

If You Are

and will take the time to send us the name and address of your Choir leader, or better still, of all your choir singers, we shall take pleasure in sending you and them something that will satisfactorily solve the question of how to obtain new and good music at an exceedingly moderate outlay. If you cannot attend to the matter personally, please ask some one in your congregation who can.

ADDRESS

THE JOHN CHURCH CO.,

S. E. Cor. 4th and Elm Sts., Cincinnati, O.

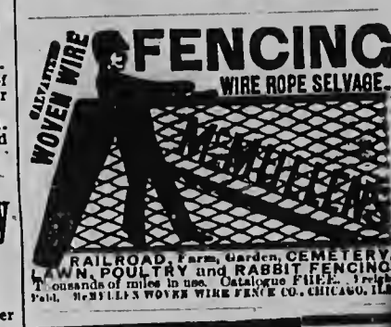
AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY. Location, in the healthful Shenandoah Valley, near Staunton, Virginia. English, Classical and Business courses with Military Training. For catalogue apply to Chas. S. Roller, Prin., Fort Defiance, Va.

B. & S. BUSINESS COLLEGE, LOUISVILLE, KY.

Superior advantages. Send postal for circular.

FENCING

ELEVATED WOVEN WIRE — WIRE ROPE SELVAGE



RAILROAD, Farm, Garden, CEMETERY, LAWN, POULTRY and RABBIT FENCING. Thousands of miles in use. Catalogue FREE. Prices Paid. HENDRICK'S WOVEN WIRE FENCE CO., CHICAGO, ILL.

A NEW

UNIQUE and VALUABLE Historical Chart of Christianity from the Apostolic Period through the Reformation has been prepared by REV. M. LOUCKS, of Dayton, Ohio. For particulars address him and receive circulars free.

REV. M. LOUCKS, D. D, Dayton, O.

Established 1857.

The Great CHURCH LIGHT

Frink's Patent Reflectors for Gas, Oil, or Electric, give the most powerful, softest, cheapest, and best light known for Churches, Stores, Banks, Theatres, Depots, etc. Now and elegant designs. Send size of room. Get circular & estimate. A liberal discount to churches & the trade. Don't be deceived by cheap imitations.

I. P. FRINK, 551 Pearl St., N.Y.

OPIUM and Whiskey Habits cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent FREE. B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D. Atlanta, Ga. Office 104½ Whitehall St.

CHURCH SCHOOL FURNITURE

Before purchasing any PEWS, PULPITS or any other Furniture, write Wm. H. Morrow, No. 8 Noel Bl'k, Nashville, Tenn., FOR Catalogue.

WHY PAY DEALER'S PROFIT?

$2.75 buys a $5 White Reed Baby Carriage, freight prepaid, shipped on 10 days' trial. Latest design and style. Perfect, reliable and finely finished. Nothing but the best material used and warranted for 5 YEARS. We have been in the manufacturing business many years, and are reliable and responsible; make and sell nothing but what we can guarantee as represented, quote lowest factory prices. Write today for our large, free and elegant, illustrated catalogue, which is one of the most complete ever published.

OXFORD MFG. CO., 340 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WE WANT AT ONCE

RELIABLE MEN every where (local or traveling) to advertise and keep our Show Cards tacked up in towns on trees and fences along public roads. Steady work in your own county. $70 A MONTH SALARY, AND $3 A DAY EXPENSES ADVANCED every 15 days when hosted. FRANCO-GERMAN ELECTRIC CO., CINCINNATI, O.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1 at Druggists.

C MONEY.

$20 for 11 $50 for 2 $100 for 31 $200 for 51 $500 for 101 $1,200 for $20. Address P. O. Box D, Huntington, N. Y.

THE CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY

CINCINNATI, OHIO.

SOLE MAKERS OF THE BLYMYER BELLS

FOR CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM &c.

Catalogue with 2500 testimonials. Prices and terms FREE.

THE LARGEST ESTABLISHMENT MANUFACTURING CHURCH BELLS CHIMES & PEALS

PUREST BELL METAL (COPPER AND TIN.)

Send for Price and Catalogue.

McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY, BALTIMORE, MD.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY

THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO., Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A.

Best Largest Copper and Tin Bells. ENDORSED BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.

Price & Testimonial Free.

Christian Advocate.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $1 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased Preachers, $1

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

All correspondence with the ADVOCATE, literary or business, and all money due or to become due should be addressed to Rev. J. M. Beard, CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans, La.

Capt. G. A. R. Lawrence is an accredited agent of the ADVOCATE in the city and country, and he is authorized to take subscribers, contract for advertisements, and receipt for money due on subscription or otherwise.

Rev. J. M. BEARD, D. D., Editor and Publisher.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. J. M. BEARD, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. J. B. A. AHRENS, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. J. W. CHAMBERS.
REV. W. B. LEWIS.
REV. R. J. JONES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER.

Thursday, September 7, 1893.

The following dispatch is received as we go to press:

Monroe county is redeemed from the liquor traffic. Praise God! J. A. BOWEN.

Paine Institute.

We wish to say a word for at great enterprise of the urch, the Paine Institute theological and training school), t Augusta, Ga. Organized under a resolution of our General Conference for the purpose of furnishing to the negro population correlated with the M. E. Church, South, educated preachers and teachers, it has been now for several years nobly meeting the object of its creation and very inadequate endowment. Nothing less than a good providence gave it to us, and to the colored people, and nothing less than an evil providence in the shape of an incomplete endowment, or tardy support from the church, will take it from us, and them, as a lost, and we may add also, last opportunity. The Institute has just closed its ninth session, and among visible results it has graduated eighteen ministers for the Colored M. E. Church in America, besides contributing to its ministry several who were able only to take a partial course of study. Two are teaching in the Institute. One is a professor in another institution of learning, and another is principal of Mayo High School, Darlington, S. C. One of the pupils now at work in the school, and thoroughly educated at home and abroad, was elected to the chair of Greek and Latin in a colored school in that State by the Missouri Legislature at a salary of $1,400, but chose to remain with his alma mater. Three of the faculty are masters of arts, and graduates of Wofford and Emory Colleges and Brown University. For lack of funds the work of the Institute is at present conducted in a stable, and in a note to the editor of the ADVOCATE the president, G. W. Walker, a man of quite superior scholarship and administrative ability, writes that the salaries for July are unpaid, and that there is no money in the treasury. In this emergency $15,000 is asked for, of the whole church, to provide suitable buildings, and to keep the school in operation. When Bishop Keener visited the locality, a few years ago, he declared that a building worth $30,000 was a necessity. Of the endowment of about $70,000, $25,000 of the amount having been contributed by Moses U. Payne, a former citizen of New Orleans, only about $40,000 are available as assets. Besides this, the Colored M. E. Church in America contributes $900 annually to the support of the Institute. No enterprise of the church was, perhaps, more needed when it came into existence, and none has proven a greater success in doing the work for which it was called into being, and, therefore, in failing to give the institution adequate support, the church not only proves unfaithful to the interest, but also untrue to herself. If the matter of responsibility stopped here, even, the subject would be far less serious; but it does not. A wise Providence gave the colored race into the keeping of the Southern people more than a century ago, and projected this horizon of duty for their descendants long before they were born. He who made of one blood all the races of man designed not only that the barbarous race should be nursed into civilization by the superior community, but that they should be educated and evangelized by the same fostering influence. A noble beginning the church made in broaching all these enterprises a half-century ago, but what kind of a mournful conclusion or sequel is she about to commit herself to! There be many in exalted station who are persuaded that the conversion of the African continent is closely related to this enterprise, and yet we dole out dollars to it as if they were clearing house receipts, and as if it were somebody else's beggar from beyond the sea. A society for the evangelization of Africa has been already organized within its walls, and two of its educated young men have volunteered to go as missionaries to Africa when the church volunteers to pay their expenses. But we fear those who have not more interest in Africa at home than the friends of Paine Institute have heretofore manifested both in words and works, will continue to weigh and count their shekels for long before sending them to sea on such a venture. It is a difficult problem for us, no doubt, as it was for Jewish evangelists to undertake Samaria; but has not that dark word "prejudice" gone out of our bright gospel lexicon? Are we not, like Paul, debtor to African barbarian as well as to Greek and Roman civilian? The curse of God may be on the descendants of Ham; but shall we not choose a greater one if we do not all in our power to cancel and remove it. Let another Moses be heard from as speedily as possible, and when he has been found let us not only accept him as our leader, but hold up his hands with our prayers and offerings.

Paine Institute must be sustained or the church will deserve the reprobation which has been heaped upon her by her active rivals for want of zeal in a cause both Christian and providential. The Southern Church has heart and enterprise enough for the work; it only remains to consider whether she has enough of that rare quality of sacrifice that counts not its own life dear to itself, if it may but prove faithful to a divine call.

Fun and Fantasy.

A MORNING REVERY.

Fun is not the chief end of man's being, nor is it an end at all; it is a mere accident. Those who go on a visit to this coy maiden find her enjoying an outing, and are forced to content themselves with such cheap amusement as ringing the door bell, or chaffering with the domestics. Those who seek her in the public thoroughfare are baffled by the crowd performing the same quest, or eluded by her as a veiled form exchanging no nod with acquaintances.

Fun and Fantasy, too, are so closely resembled to each other, that if we should draw near to the former in whispered confidences, it would be at the risk of mistaken identity, while at the same time we would be subjected to the imminent danger of being beguiled by the latter into long and fruitless interviews, or upon desert journeys, with only a shadow for companion. Fun, as though it were a commodity, and not a laughing personality, is sold for so much in the theatrical market; but those who pay the price rue the bargain, and go to their night's rest sad and moneyless. So much an hour it is rated at the fair and concert stands; but nothing kills time with so woful a visage, or so blunt an instrument. A celebrated actor in comic opera went to see a specialist for melancholia, and the sage donned his spectacles, and, in ignorance of his identity, advised him to hear himself, the prince of mirth-provoking buffoons in opera bouffe. Alas! Fun is twin sister to Sadness, and lives next door to Grief. Worse still, she is cousin-german to Folly and Fear, and paternal ancestor in no remote line to the bastard brood called little sins.

But we are going quite too fast, and did not intend to moralize where it is so pleasant and instructive to rhapsodize. Fun is frolicsome, we repeat, but from principle seems to eschew picnics, fishing excursions, lovers' trysts and Vanity Fair. She is a romping coquette, and will not be caught in a corner, and, while we are estimating her whereabouts with expanded visuals and outstretched arms, is dancing off into shadow with finger upon laughing lip. Dancers may have lots of fun, but it is counterfeit, and turns to grief before the morning light, and Fun's seat at the feast is darkly filled by Indigestion and her ill-natured granddaughter, Dyspepsia. Bacchus, the drunken little wretch, it is now well ascertained, is not a god at all, but a sad-visaged inebriate with snakes in his boots. Indeed, it is this quality of counterfeitness in the sprite that we call Fun that makes her society exceedingly dangerous, for from one disappointed interview to another we follow her with increased craving until, pressing close in the pursuit, we pass over a flower-bordered precipice and are dashed to pieces on the rocks below, to the music of her laughter. It ought to make us suspicious of Fun to reflect that she is always seen at church and other sacred places in a mood of suppressed laughter, and is never so much inclined to levity and jest as in houses of mourning.

Sorrow and Solace.

AN EVENING MEDITATION.

Sorrow is always at home to callers. Her latch-string, like undertaker's crape, is pendulous on the outside. She keeps open house, and her funeral-baked meats, and tears on draught, are free to all who flee to her from the world's inhospitality. Man is born to her as the sparks fly upward, and when he has grown past the age of tears, and into another of decrepitude, on her bosom is his true home. As in first infancy her lap cradles him for the storms of life, in the second infancy it cradles him for the great unknown of death. He begins with a sob minor and goes out with a sob major. The one is meant, perhaps, for prophecy, the other for history. The world is an old pessimist, and that is the reason that the people who live in it are pessimistic; or the people who live in it are pessimistically inclined, and that is the reason the world is a confirmed pessimist (?) is a question that we have not yet quite decided to our own satisfaction; but we shall hold on to our two premises until a conclusion comes to our aid. That the professed pessimists in the world about balance the real optimists does not prove that either or both are in the majority, and leaves us to conjecture that the doubt is one that affects profession and practice rather than sunshine and shadow. The best things in the world, it is said, cost nothing, as sunshine, water and the gospel; and if it comes to a mere question of financial rating, we fear that we shall have to write along with these the dark subject with which these lines are captioned. Indeed, the fewest number of people seem to understand that sorrow is a prize, and that, too, a priceless one. That, though a somewhat lugubrious companion, that all her thorns bear roses, and that all her bitterness, like sour, fermenting grapes, turns to sweet wine. While, perhaps, able to dispense with Sorrow, what should we do without her beautiful and amiable children, Meekness, Trust and Patience? While we might still do without her sad sister Grief, how should we manage to survive without the society of her near relations, Humility, Contrition and Weeping?

But Sorrow pays, if it does not require to be paid for. Contentment, which is great riches, is one of the rewards which she lays at our feet, and another is wisdom, whose price is above rubies. A crown of patience thickly bestud with stars she places in our hands. It is not often ranked as one of our Savior's gifts, but the same lips that said to the disciples, Peace is yours, said also, Tribulation is yours. The last beatitude was persecution and worldly abuse, and he intended it for the best, saying, "Rejoice and be exceeding glad," when your relation to the good things of this world is most wretched and hopeless. When the disciples spoke of crowns, he of crosses, and when they were grasping after spectral ministries of the perishing world, he was pointing to Calvary and leading the way. Sorrow may have a dark brow, but often she wears a sweet smile, and there are no rainbows like those which are seen through her tears.

One thing that should reconcile us to sorrow is that she has been a chief mourner at all the death-beds and funeral obsequies of the earth's princes and paupers, and of our loved ones; and another is, that she alone of all the hosts of necromancy who come to greet us from the unreturning bourne, has power to make heaven sweeter.

"Jack-Knife and Brambles."*

Many readers will recognize this as the title of Bishop Haygood's new book. It is, in the main, a good book, but evidently written in haste, and with a jack-knife brusqueness and abandon, boding destruction to other things besides brambles. The author proceeds to his nervous climax of slaying error even at the expense of a little blood letting to the sacred body of truth, and with a weapon that is decidedly a poor substitute for the "two-edged blade of heavenly temper keen." Once or twice he scents a bramble in the unoffending ivy and wounds it to the death, and more than once or twice his vengeful steel smites the fruit-bearing vine with paralyzing effect. But this is quite en passant, and in the way of consigning thorn-bearers to the flame.

The old Greek custom of giving a name to a thing, and then devoting it to limbo, he adopts to perfection. Sanctification, though he much prefers the word perfection, he calls a sham and fleshes his rude blade in it; anti-tobaccoist, and stickler for decency in ministerial deportment, he calls "specialist," and with vengeful stroke parts him in the middle. But these are mere foibles of greatness in the man and the book, and may well be despised by the informed student of human nature. No great man has ever lived who was not conspicuous for his littlenesses from Socrates, to whom he has with much reason been likened as a reasoner, to our author. His prejudices, therefore, are not hates, and sometimes do not rise higher than idiosyncracies.

The work, in the main, is that of an educated genius with a prescience for common things that brings Parnassus down to his level, and promotes the habitue of the Agora to a seat with philosophers. When he strikes error the wound is mortal, and when he undertakes the defense of truth, in admiration of the ingenious argument, we often find our attention wandering from the sublime culprit to him who performs so successfully the office of advocate and eulogist. Of course, in this resume, we have assumed that the reader has by the title of the book been made acquainted with the author's aim in the publication, which is to demolish error on the sacred soil of Revelation, and literally to purge our lower horizon of both learned and popular delusions concerning "the truth as it is in Jesus;" a noble object truly, and one which he nobly fulfils. The book is more ambitious in style than the "Man of Galilee," the author's last great success, but is not so well thought out. Logic was the prevailing quality in the former, rhetoric in the latter. The former was a treatise on a divine theme almost equal in dignity to its subject; the latter, on the other hand, deals with doubt, and is, therefore, sometimes as commonplace as the ordinary man's doubting, or a dialogue of Socrates. But this is one of the leading charms of the book, and, perhaps, the ultimate test of merit as pioneering success in an empire of failure. The jeu d'esprit and vein of jest differences the work from former publications by the same author, and in other particulars the broad seal of the author's intellect is upon this as none of his former volumes. All in all, we are persuaded that no other living author could do so well in the vein of theologico philosophy which Bishop Haygood has struck, and we risk little in saying also that Christian apologetics has received no such valuable contribution for many seasons, as it obtains in this book.

*Get the volume of Barbee & Smith. Price, $1.

Our senior Bishop writes about the silver question in a way both instructive and entertaining. If the called session of Congress could be induced to adopt it as a financial creed, it would be greatly to the profit of the country. A scarcity of money and a scarcity of food, as he contends, are totally unrelated. An inflation of market values and of food products will no more affect currency values than rains and sunshine would do it, or than a voluminous currency would produce bountiful harvests. A farmer, it is true, will sometimes hold his crop until finances are less constricted, just as the banker does his money, and a dearth of articles of consumption under such circumstances is, of course, purely fictitious and of short duration. We are persuaded with the author of this article that a bountiful metal currency will go further towards producing food, as well as water, from the rock than any other contingency.

It seems that we misquoted Bro. T. W. Lewis' Scriptures, I. John i, 7 and 9, substituting for them I. John iii, 7, 9. It may have been inadvertently, as we are forced to combine speed with safety in all our pen work on the ADVOCATE; but in all probability we were misled by the circumstance that the two texts last mentioned are universally regarded as sanctification texts. Certainly sanctification is bestowed upon the same condition as justification. Let the careful reader not neglect to read the 6th verse with the 7th, and the 8th with the 9th, in the clause referred to above. As to the Scriptures, which we quoted in reply to Bro. Lewis asking for but one, and with no time to consult references, he should be very candid in making his selection from the many, any one of which is utterly perverted if taken in a different sense. But take for instance Zech. xiii, 1, which is the least perspicuous of the number, and where there is a distinct reference both to two communities and to two cleansings, and as in the character of a special pleader he asked for a text to support "two cleansings," how can he evade confession without transferring his quarrel from the editor of the ADVOCATE to the Author of the Prophecy? We were not asked for texts to prove sanctification or the second blessing, but a "second cleansing," and, replying with a dozen or more that slipped from our pen as readily as these sentences, no more than broached a vocabulary almost as extended as Divine Revelation.

Bro. Lewis does not appreciate the second cleansing of the temple as a type; what will he say of the two elements, water and fire, as types or agents of two distinct cleansings, and so proclaimed in abundant testimonies of both the Old and New Testaments?

NOTES.

Christianity is both earnest and indefatigable.

***

The man who writes much writes exceeding thin.

***

Nothing in all martyrology poses so gracefully as a statue.

***

Please pay up and renew, as we are in sore need of the money.

***

More steam and less machinery for the New Jerusalem short line.

***

The Sunday law and the New Orleans courts both need reorganization.

***

The critic should not only be retained in private life, but kept under lock and key.

***

The ADVOCATE to single subscribers from this date to Jan. 1, 1894, for fifty cents.

***

Machine and Routine fall about as often as any other religious firm doing business.

***

In writing for a newspaper, after commencing, comes dispensing, and condensing.

***

Rev. C. W. Carter, D. D., requests that his mail be directed to 163 Delachaise street.

***

By sending your subscription money to the ADVOCATE, you save it a commission and yourself a dun.

***

Too much "pet" theology will spoil the best preacher that the Lord ever sent or the Holy Ghost empowered.

***

The man who has failed once or twice, or in one or two callings, can be trusted to keep it up until he is a dead failure.

***

Nobody seems to appreciate the fact that the ADVOCATE is passing through a crisis but the man who has to pay the bills.

***

Never mind about getting even with your brother, but begin right now the more important task of getting even with your Lord.

***

There are preachers who could send us a hundred subscribers under our 50-cents offer in a single week, who will not send us one in a quarter.

***

We divide the gospel with the heathen as Paddy the house with his helpmeet, Bridget; he to take the inside, and she the outside, or equally.

***

Mathematics has conferred greatness upon a few men, literature upon many, and a multitude which no man can number, are trusting to geography.

***

The Epworth League Department, from toadvertencies which are to be charged equally to the editor and Bro. Wynn, will not appear until next week.

***

The professed Christian who stands up for saloons and Sunday desecration is a long way ahead of the American age, and a long way behind the cosmopolitan gospel.

***

A brother in the ministry sent us twenty subscribers one day last week, and, to use his words, almost without effort. He but announced to his congregation that he wanted them, and they were forthcoming. That revival will continue.

***

If the brethren who send us correspondence—and we have by no means lost our appreciation of good literature—had written but one-half as much in relating the same story or in propounding the same theory, the public would have been much wiser, and the editor much happier.

***

Rev. W. D. Dominick, of Dominick & Laird, Book Depository, Jackson, Miss., gave us a pleasant call en route from Crystal Springs to Leaf River Camp Meeting. He reports a good meeting at Crystal Springs, and that the people were delighted with Bro. Morrison's preaching.

***

The many friends of Dr. T. S. West were delighted to see him again in Woodville, last Wednesday and Thursday. Dr. West was for four years pastor of the Methodist Church at this place and was universally beloved. A large number came out to prayer meeting Thursday afternoon and gave the Doctor a sort of informal reception. We hope to have him among us again at an early date, and for a much longer visit.—Woodville Exchange.

***

It is easy to criticise that which you can neither surpass nor imitate; but in your criticism you discover to others the nakedness of your own mind. Forty years ago the hacks and writers of shambling prose characterized as vapid and high-flown the first fruits of the pen of that grim old essayist who, afterwards, held the mace of judgment over the literature of two worlds. The detractive pen and the invidious tongue are the delusions of the weak.—Pacific Methodist.

PERSONAL AND OTHERWISE.

The ADVOCATE needs money. Pay up!

Rev. H. H. Ahrens is at Chicago, taking a peep at the great fair.

The Holston Methodist is both strong and newsy, a combination not often found.

Rev. F. D. Van Valkenburgh and Capt. G. A. Lawrence are in attendance on the Leaf River Camp Meeting.

Bishop Fitzgerald has been holding Conferences in the Rockies. He was accompanied by Dr. Bounds, one of the editors of the Nashville.

There is nothing that affords you so much pleasure and profit at a cost so cheap as the ADVOCATE, and there is nothing that you treat so meanly.

Capt. Lawrence, our traveling agent, will visit Meridian and points adjacent this week. We commend him to the brethren, and will be thankful for any favors extended to him.

The Century, Harper's, Scribner's and the California Magazine, all monthlies, have been received for September. They are worthy to lead the world in their department.

Mr. S. B. McCutchen, prominent layman of Shreveport, gave us a pleasant call last week. He reports that the effects of the financial stringency are severely felt in that community.

L. J. Norwood, Simsport, La., Aug. 31, writes: "Bro. R. C. Grace has been confined to his bed for the last three weeks. He is now improving, and he requests the prayers of the brethren."

Rev. Dr. J. B. A. Ahrens, of Familien Freund, has returned from a six weeks' furlough to the World's Fair, which he visited by way of St. Louis and the great river. He enjoyed the trip greatly, and is looking much improved.

Rev. H. S. Johns, of Algiers, is back from a few weeks summering in the highlands of St. Landry. He is looking well, and, as a result of his trip, can be depended on for a better quality of work and more of it.

Miss Minnie Cowan, of Oxford, graduated at Whitworth College and at the University of Mississippi, left Sept. 1, en route to Sherman, Texas, having become a member of the faculty of the North Texas Female College, at that place.

Rev. E. T. Denson, returning from Poplaw Camp Meeting and two protracted meetings, which he attended in Mississippi, spent Sunday in New Orleans, preaching for Bros. Sawyer and Clay. He made a pleasant call at the ADVOCATE office on Monday.

The crowded state of our columns left us only room for a portion of the proceedings of the Epworth League meeting, which were exceedingly well written by the young secretary pro tem. A column to be set apart for their exclusive use will obviate such contretemps in the future.

Rev. D. C. Rawls, of Tallsheek, Mississippi Conference, gave the ADVOCATE a call on Monday last. Bro. Rawls represents that his work is in good shape, and that he is quite hopeful as to the future. The St. Tammany Camp Meeting is held within the bounds of his work, Sept. 22. Persons from the city wishing to attend will be met by hacks at Covington, La., only a few miles distant.

Bro. H. N. Harrison, superintendent of the Tchoupitoulas Mission, paid us a pleasant call on Tuesday last. He represents that the mission is in an excellent and growing condition. There are fifty pupils in attendance on the Sunday-school, which meets at 2:30 P. M. Religious services are also held Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday nights with gratifying attendance. This is one of the most hopeful mission fields in the city, and should have the earnest support of all Christian people.

Centenary College begins its fall session early in September. At the last meeting of the Board of Trustees tuition fees were abolished, and with prices for board almost phenomenally low, an education ought to be in reach of almost every poor boy in the church. Dr. Hunnicutt, the president, is scholarly and painstaking, the professors are selected for piety and scholarship, and some of them are veteran educators. In addition to all this, the buildings for stateliness and splendor are quite up to the standard of the age, the society of the town of Jackson is exceptionally good, and its health record unsurpassed.

The Alexandria State Fair will be held Oct. 11, 12, 13 and 14. It will no doubt be largely attended, as have all the fairs held in this growing city during recent years. The buildings have been much improved and added to, and the grounds are splendidly located and laid out. But the mere fact that Rapides is one of the richest parishes in the State, and Alexandria the most promising among its younger cities, would alone ensure a great interest in, and large attendance upon the October meeting. Agriculture, mechanics and stock raising, the leading industries of the country, will receive a great impetus from the fair, and the whole country be benefited.

The Secretaries of our Mission Board at Nashville call for all money due. Let it be forthcoming, that the Board may meet its pressing obligations. The financial crisis at Nashville is unusually severe, and the credit of the church, both at home and abroad, may be endangered.

Bro. J. H. Evans, who has been serving his present work for four years, whose salary is not more than half paid, and who considers the outlook gloomy with cotton at six cents, and no money to buy it at that price, sends us two twelve month subscribers with the money. Where there is a will there is a way.

The September number of the Southern Companion has been laid on our desk, and is quite up to the standard of this excellent magazine. This number is the thirteenth of the series, and is, therefore, the first of the second volume, which the publisher informs us is a somewhat longer period of life than was accorded to his enterprise by the wise-acres when it was first launched. Indeed, the magazine, by its cheapness and literary merit, has fully demonstrated its right to live, and we hope to see it finish its score, with a score times its present number of subscribers. Mrs. Saxon and Mrs. Dr. Annie M. Hale are among its distinguished contributors. In another column will be seen an interesting offer of prize scholarships by the publisher, Rev. Charles H. Crawford.

Palmer Camp Meeting.

All preachers who expect to attend the Palmer Camp Meeting are requested to arrive at Mississippi City on the 11 o'clock A. M. east-bound or 4 o'clock P. M. west-bound train, Sept 30, at which time there will be arrangements to convey them to camp ground. If otherwise, please inform me at Stonewall, Harrison county, Miss.

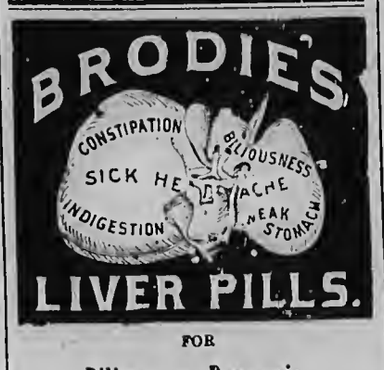
REV. G. W. FERRER.

200 Agents Wanted.

One in every community in State of Mississippi to sell Bishop Fitzgerald's Epworth Book. Prospectus, 50 cents. Holman Self-Pronouncing Sunday-school Teacher's Bible. Prospectus, $1. Imitation of Christ, beautifully illustrated by Thomas a Kempis. Prospectus, 75 cents. Full supply of International Bibles in stock. Send for catalogue. Order your Sunday-school supplies for the year, and remit quarterly, if you can not send cash with order. Apply at once.

We have a good supply of Bishop Haygood's Jack-knife and Brambles; also Josiah Strong's New Era, or Coming Kingdom. Jack-knife, $1. New Era, paper, 35 cents; cloth, 75 cents Many other new books.

LAIRD & DOMINICK, Jackson, Miss.



FOR

Biliousness, Dyspepsia, SICK HEADACHE, WEAK STOMACH,

—AND ALL—

Disorders of the Liver.

TESTIMONY.

I have used Brodie's Pills for many years in my family, and have found them invaluable in all cases, and, as a Liver Pill, do not think they have an equal. GEO. H. WILEY.

Sold By All Druggists.

Price, 25c. a Box.

I. L. LYONS & CO., Prop's, NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water.

W. W. Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water is still on sale at Gloster, Miss., by Wm. B. Hines, as heretofore, and as advertised in this NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. Now I wish sub-agents all over Louisiana and Mississippi, who can have circulars by writing to me for them. Will be glad to have the same patronage given heretofore by friends and sick ones. This water is making wonderful cures. WM. B. HINES.

Gloster, Amite Co., Miss., Sept. 2, 1893.

Evergreen -:- College,

EVERGREEN, LA.

FOR BOYS AND GIRLS.

Offers Board and Tuition for the entire session, payable quarterly, for $120.

For particulars address,

C. C. WIER, Pres.

AGENTS WANTED ON SALARY or commission, to handle the new Patent Chemical Ink Erasing Pencil. The quickest and greatest selling novelty ever produced. Erases ink thoroughly in two seconds. No abrasion of paper. Works like magic. 200 to 500 per cent. profit. One Agent's sales amounted to $630 in six days. Another $32 in two hours. Previous experience not necessary. For terms and full particulars, address, The Monroe Eraser Mf'g Co., La Crosse, Wis. X 876.

WIDOW HOOD'S LODGING HOUSE,

No. 19 ST. CHARLES ST.

I wish to announce to the public that I have renovated and refitted my house, and solicit the patronage of the traveling public. Open all night. Beds can be had for 25 and 50 cents. I especially solicit the patronage of Christian people visiting the city.

WIDOW A. A. HOOD

East Mississippi Female College.

The 24th Session begins September 6, 1893.

Situated in the City of Meridian, is easy of access from all points.

The health record is unsurpassed.

The buildings are commodious and comfortable.

The faculty has been chosen with reference to EXPERIENCE, THOROUGHNESS and EXCELLENCY of CHARACTER.

Our terms are to suit the times.

For catalogue or further information apply to REV. T. S. HOLLOMAN, A. M., Pres., 1101 23rd Avenue, Meridian, Miss.

UNIVERSITY PREPARATORY SCHOOL,

73 COLISEUM STREET.

T. W. DYER, - - - Principal.

The Eleventh Session begins Oct. 2 with a full corps of teachers. The location is perfect. The surroundings are attractive. The grounds are large (quarter of a square), with separate yard and accommodations for smaller boys. A few boarding pupils can be accommodated. References: The clergy of New Orleans and the faculty of Tulane University.

WESLEYAN FEMALE COLLEGE, MACON, GA.

Annual Session begins September 20th, 1893. Best advantages in Literature, Music and Art. For safety, health and domestic comfort, there is no better home for girls. Apply for Catalogue to

REV. W. C. BASS, PRES.

GRENADA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

Is Devoted to the Education of Girls and Young Ladies.

FALL TERM OPENS SEPTEMBER 5TH, 1893.

The Institute affords the very best advantages for culture in Vocal and Instrumental Music; in Art, Drawing, Painting, etc.; and in all the branches of collegiate study—English, Latin, French and German. The teachers are experienced and competent. The Boarding Department is home-like and comfortable. The health is fine. The expenses are moderate. For catalogue address Rev. Thos. J. Newell, A. M., Pres., Grenada, Miss.

Educate for Business.

AT THE

BOWLING GREEN BUSINESS COLLEGE AND LITERARY INSTITUTE.

Railroad Fare Paid.

A School of Business, Shorthand, English, Typewriting, Telegraphy, Penmanship, Teacher's Training. Catalogues free.

CHERRY BROTHERS, Bowling Green, Ky.

MILLWOOD Female Institute.

This Institute is located near Jackson, La., and is as remarkable for its delightful environments as its healthy location.

Special teachers in each Department.

Charges lower than any school which offers the same advantages.

Session opens Sept. 4, 1893.

Send for Catalogue.

MISS M. MCCALMONT, Principal.

Louisiana State University AND Agricultural and Mechanical College.

J. W. NICHOLSON, A.M., LL.D., President.

The next session (1893-'94) will open on the fifth of October, 1893, with a full and able corps of Professors and Instructors. Five Courses of Study, healthy locality, excellent discipline, splendid equipments. Tuition free. Cost for maintenance, per session of nine months, $181. Number of students last session, 186. For catalogue giving full information

Address ALVAN C. READ, Secretary, Baton Rouge, La.

Tuskaloosa Female College,

TUSKALOOSA, ALA.

Thirty-fourth Session begins Sept. 26, 1893. Terms reduced to suit the times. For Catalogues apply to

ALONZO HILL, President.

LAW SCHOOL

WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY, LEXINGTON, VIRGINIA.

Opens Sept. 14. For catalogue address JOHN RANDOLPH TUCKER, Dean.

FAT PEOPLE

To reduce your weight SURELY use Willard's Obesity Pills and lose 15 pounds a month. No injury to the health. No interference with business or pleasure. NO STARVING. They build up and improve the general health, beautify the complexion and leave NO WRINKLES. Lucy Andersen, 84 Auburn St., Cambridge, Mass., writes: Three bottles of your Obesity Pills reduced my weight from 235 pounds to 190 and I never felt better in all my life. I am much pleased with the result, and shall do all I can to help you. Our patrons include Physicians, Bankers, Lawyers and leaders of Society. Our goods are not sold in drug stores; all orders are supplied direct from our office. Price per package $2.00 or three packages for $5.00 by mail prepaid. Particulars (sealed) 4cts. ALL CORRESPONDENCE CONFIDENTIAL.

WILLARD REMEDY CO., BOSTON, MASS.

State Normal School,

NATCHITOCHES, LA.

Reopens Oct. 2, 1893. Both sexes admitted. Attendance last session, 293. Faculty of twelve instructors. Unsurpassed in beauty and healthfulness of location, thoroughness of instruction, and perfection of discipline. Diploma entitles holder to first-grade teacher's certificate without examination.

Tuition free. Total expense need not exceed $110 per annum.

For catalogue address

THOS. D. BOYD, A. M., President.

McTyeire -:- Institute,

MCKENZIE, TENN.

Prepares students for Vanderbilt and such institutions.

Expenses for five months, $72.50 to $82.50.

Students completing our course enter Vanderbilt without examination.

Next session begins August 31.

For circulars or information address

J. H. HARRISON, Prin., McKenzie, Tenn.

Tulane -:- University Scholarships.

TULANE UNIVERSITY, New Orleans, for the purpose of encouraging post-graduate studies, offers fifteen scholarships to the graduates of its own and other colleges. The appointments are made for merit, and entitle the holder to free tuition and an honorarium of one hundred and fifty dollars.

For further particulars address the Secretary of Tulane University, New Orleans, Louisiana.

Clinton Female Academy,

(Chartered in 1832)

WILL OPEN MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1893

Course thorough. Charges lower than offered by any school of its grade in the South.

CHARGES PER MONTH.

Tuition per month	$2 00 to $3 00
Music " "	3 00
Use of Piano per Month	1 00
Painting in Oil " "	3 00
Drawing " "	1 00
Latin, French and Book-keeping, each per month	1 00
Incidental Expenses per Session	50

Board, Tuition, Washing, Fuel and Lights, $12 per Month. $120 per the Session of Ten Months. For particulars address the Principal,

Mrs. S. E. MUNDAY, Clinton, La.

A Complete Musical Education Free!

The Most Remarkable Premium Offer Ever Made in the South.

TWO FULL COURSE (FOUR YEARS) SCHOLARSHIPS

One of them including Board, as well as Tuition and Other Expenses,

In PILCHER'S STUDIO OF MUSIC, New Orleans,

To Be Given to Ladies Securing Subscribers for

The Southern Home Companion.

The beautiful Magazine published in New Orleans, of which the Picayune says: "It does honor to the city of its birth."

A Magnificent Mathushek Piano,

Now on Exhibition at Werlein's.

A Beautiful Story and Clark Organ,

On Exhibition at Grunewald's.

And Other Valuable Gifts Are Also Included in the Premium List.

YOUNG LADIES, THIS IS THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME.

For full particulars of the competition call at our office, or write. Act in "the living present." This advertisement will not appear again.

THE COMPANION, 192 Common St., New Orleans.

MALONE COLLEGE

For Young Ladies.

HOLLY SPRINGS, MISSISSIPPI.

The Third Annual Session will begin Monday, Sept. 20, 1893.
Location, highest point in the State. Elevation, 613 feet.
Health unsurpassed in the Southwest.
Course thorough and comprehensive.
Each department under the charge of specialists.
Special advantages offered in music, art and elocution.
A HOME SCHOOL for pupils under Christian influences.
Terms moderate. For catalogues or further particulars address

Rev. J. W. HONNOLL, President.

SCIENCE HILL.

— SHELBYVILLE, KY

AN ENGLISH AND CLASSICAL SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

On Certificates admit to Wellesley without examination.

W. T. POYNTER.

ROSE TOBACCO CURE In all its Forms. For proof write the ROSE DRUG CO., Birmingham, Ala.

A quick, cheap, pleasant and absolute cure for the Tobacco Habit

Mansfield Female College and Conservatory of Music and Art.

The forty-first session opens Sept. 13, 1893, with a full faculty of experienced teachers in all departments. Prof. G. D. Pickles takes the chair of Mathematics and Pedagogy. This institution is celebrated for thorough and honest work, for a locality remarkable for health, for every comfort provided, for the care and attention given to students, and for the great economy secured to parents. The great aim is to afford as good facilities for education as can be found outside the State. A new era is opening for the college that will make the next session peculiarly advantageous to those who attend. It is demonstrated that this is the best place for Southern girls.

A. D. MCVOY A. M., PRESIDENT.

CENTENARY COLLEGE, JACKSON, LA.

Jackson, La., is near Ethel, on the Valley R. R., 113 miles north of New Orleans. The location is beautiful, and healthful, the buildings are elegant and ample, and the Faculty is complete and able. The sale of intoxicating drinks is forbidden by law within five miles of the College. Its endowment fund is being rapidly increased, and the college has entered upon a new career of prosperity.

Special attention will be given to the health, morals and biblical instruction of the students.

For terms, Catalogue, or other information apply to Prof. G. H. Wiley, Jackson, La., or to

W. L. C. HUNNICUTT, PRESIDENT.

A PRETTY FACE is the result of a healthy physical condition. "Beauty is but skin deep" yet it greatly depends on a clear complexion, free from wrinkles and hollow cheeks.

Health always brings wealth of beauty. A healthy state of the system comes with Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It's a medicine prepared for woman's ailments—it cures those derangements and weaknesses which make woman's life miserable.

A woman who neglects to take proper exercise is particularly prone to excessive constipation, debility and a sluggish circulation. This is the time we advise the "Prescription." In all derangements and displacements of the special organs which result in "signs of inflammation," in catarrhal discharges from the lining membranes, and in distressing irregularities—this medicine is guaranteed to benefit or cure, or the money is returned.

Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Sulphuric Acid and Iron Well Water has made me well. I feel young again and will recommend it to all my friends

IT WILL CURE
DYSPEPSIA.
MALARIA.
BLOOD OR LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES.

Best Female Well Water Tonic In the World.

Send for circular and read what professional men of the Board of Health, New Orleans, La., says what it is

Price: 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per Bottle.

CHAS M FUSH.
106 Camp Street. New Orleans, La.

HENRY P. DART,
Attorney-at-Law,
49 CAMP STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

WASHINGTON & LEE
UNIVERSITY, Lexington, Virginia.
Academic; Law; Engineering. Opens Sept. 14. For catalogue address
G. W. C. LEE, President.

—A—
Washington and Lee College
SCHOLARSHIP
FOR SALE CHEAP.
Apply at
Werlein's Music Store,
135 Canal Street.

NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.
Founded by Dr. Eben Tourjee. CARL FAELTEN, Director.
The Leading Conservatory of America.
In addition to its unequalled musical advantages, exceptional opportunities are also provided for the study of Elocution, the Fine Arts, and Modern Languages. The admirably equipped Home affords a safe and inviting residence for lady students. Calendar Free.
FRANK W. HALE, General Manager,
Franklin Square, Boston, Mass.

Huntsville
Female -:- College.
HUNTSVILLE, ALABAMA.

Forty-fourth Session begins Wednesday, September 6, 1893. Healthy, well-furnished; twenty Officers and Teachers. All departments of Female Education thoroughly taught; Music, Art, Languages, Sciences, Literature and Commercial Course. A Christian home for pupils. Charges reasonable. For Catalogues, etc., apply to
Rev. A. B. JONES, President.

Mississippi
Industrial Institute and College.
BUREAU OF EDUCATION.

Persons desiring to employ competent teachers, or young women qualified to do good work as dress makers, telegraphers, type writers and book keepers, are invited to correspond with this Bureau. No charge for services.
Apply to MISS S. C. McLAURIN,
I. I. and C., Columbus, Miss.

CARPETS!

Don't have your carpets half cleaned; all know how impossible it is to clean carpets by hand.

All dust thoroughly taken out by steam.

Feathers purged of all impurities.

44 St. Peter Street.

HOPKINS'
PRINTING OFFICE,
20 Commercial Place,
John P. Hopkins. New Orleans

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

PATENTS THOMAS P. SIMPSON, Washington, D. C. No atty's fee until Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide.

HOME CIRCLE.

AN UNBELIEVER.

BY JOHN KENDRICK BANGS.

Prate not to me of anything so vain,
As death eternal following on life.
Greet not my ears with sentences profane
To prove existence is but mundane strife.

The soul must be immortal, blessed fate!
Death but annihilates the earth's alloy.
What God hath deemed it wisdom to create,
No ill man-born can possibly destroy.

The Touchstone of Life.

A recent newspaper paragraph began with this sentence: "Low spirits are a common excuse for a great deal of selfishness." At once one wants to transpose this and make it read: "Selfishness is the cause of low spirits.' It is simply impossible for an unselfish nature to be troubled with melancholia unless it he caused hy a diseased liver. The man or woman who suffers from "low spirits" is diseased either in body or soul, and would hetter look to it that the disease does not become chronic.

The selfish person is self-centred. He is so interested in his own feelings, moods, personal affairs, that he can not see the mountains of his neighhor's woes for looking at his own molehills. No man can have a perspective who does not look heyond his own dooryard. And to fill his time so that he has the sense of usefulness he must have a dooryard so wide that it calls for the service of his neighhors to keep it in order, as his time as overseer of that service; when it reaches this proportion he is forced to become interested in taxes, tariff, and the condition and halance of trade. Low spirits, then, depend on how the decision of these public questions affects his private interest. Unselfishness is the key that unlocks the door of happiness, and puts one in possession of those riches which even death can not remove.

After all the secret of true living is not in possession, hut in dishursement. Whether the accumulations are of mind, purse, or other possessions, man lives as he shares. He exists in proportion as his possessions stand between him and his neighhor. Isolation, whether caused hy wealth or poverty, prevents the birth or expression of sympathy, and sympathy keeps man so in touch with his neighhor that there is no time, except in illness, for the inertia that causes low spirits. Sympathy is the safeguard of the human soul against selfishness.—The Christian Union.

Faith.

God is one; God's works and ways are one. The laws for earth are in the same statute book as those for heaven. The natural, as God made it, is not in conflict with the spiritual. The line hetween things secular and sacred is imaginary and mischievous. We believe God for a time as well as eternity, and earth as well as for heaven, for the hody as well as for the soul. Far he it from any honest man to confine his faith in God to certain mysterious and impalpahle concerns, and douht him when it comes to immediate business and the trials of every-day life. We are tanght hy our great Master to pray to the heavenly Father, "Thy kingdom come;" and the same prayer includes, "Give us this day our daily hread."

To confide to heaven the greater cares, and leave the less to unhelief, would he as unwise as to commit the door of the house to a watchman, but expressly to exempt an open window from his oversight. What is little? What is trifling? There exists no snch thing to a wise man anxious to he always right. No, we must have a present, home-seeking, shop-keeping, tahle-furnishing faith; for if onr mainstay he only available on great occasions, we may be utterly undone by the ills to which it is inapplicable. "The just shall live by faith." Faith is not a go-to-meeting coat for us, but an every-day suit. Comprehensive, universal, and constant in operation, it is a principle which those always require who are perpetually in danger, constantly in need. As the cherubic sword turned every way to keep the gate of Eden, so does faith guard the soul from the advance of enemies, let them come from what point of the compass they may.—Spurgeon.

Pitiable Mothers.

Of all classes of people to he pitied in this world it is the mother who has a wayward daughter. As a general rule, such a calamity falls to the lot of a meek little woman, a diffident creature who will suffer any amount of torture rather than face a scene with her unruly daughter, and thus the girl comes out victorious in every word scrimmage with the tired, patient mother. Mothers must meet unflinchingly the duties God has placed upon them, and remember that in their hands lies the future of their families for weal or woe. It is expected that they love their children dearly, but that should not he an impediment of their correcting them when they stand in need of it. In their infancy all they have to do is to cry for what they want, and the weak mother granting it will plant the first seeds of the evil which is to bear such hitter fruit. In girlhood the daughter soon learns that her mother's will is a matter of very little consequence; a little teasing, and the point is gained. And when she arrives at womanhood, ah! then your trials begin. You hegin to learn the truth of the old adage that "when your children are little they tread on your lap, hut when they grow older they tread on your heart."—Exchange.

How the Kitchen Can Be Made Beautiful.

There is a picture painted hy Murillo, which hangs in the Louvre. It is not the representation of a palace, or a garden, or a drawing room; it is only a common kitchen, with a kettle, and a pail of water, and a plate-rack. What makes it beautiful? Come with me and look at it. A white-winged angel, with a face of heavenly peace, is putting the kettle on the fire, and near her another angel is stooping gracefully over the pail to lift it up. Beyond, at the old deal dresser, with fair fluttering wings, an angel is reaching up to the rack for a plate; and dancing across the uneven floor is a laughing cheruh, trying to help everyone. Ah, you see now why the common kitchen is beautiful; it is made so hy the grace and peace and joy that is in it. It does not matter whether an angel lifts a pail or tunes a harp—it is an angel still; and it does not matter what coarse or rough work you have to do—if you do it as well and gently and perfectly as you can, you are doing God's will on earth as the angels do it in heaven.

Sanctification.

It is erroneous to assume that sanctification is the result of growth. It is an act, a work, a process, but not a growth. It accompanies regeneration, for the primal cleansing then occurs; it accompanies growth, for the continual cleansing is indispensable to growth; and it accompanies maturity, for the completed cleansing is necessary to the maturity of the fruit of the Spirit. As justification removes the natnral obstructions out of the way of the Spirit's indwelling, so sanctification removes the moral obstructions. The way was heing opened hy the concurrent acts of justification, regeneration and sanctification, issuing in new life. God himself, hy the Holy Ghost, takes up his abode in the heart and sheds ahroad his love; and the new creature thus endowed, though a habe in Christ, starts out in the career of Christian living, and, being led hy the Spirit, walks in all the will of God, growing up into Christ, the living head, and hringing forth fruit into perfection.—S. M. Merrill.

OUR YOUNG PEOPLE.

FOR THE CHILDREN.

WISHES.

"I wish I could scratch the freckles
All off my cheeks and nose,
I wish I could make dirt pancakes
Without minding my sash and clothes.

"I wish I could ride with papa
Way to the 'beaufer' sky,
To the 'beaufer' clouds and sunshine,
Where the smoke and the long birds fly.

"I wish I could be a flower,
A rosy in the jar,
And then I'd he picked hy mama,
And put in the vase with the star.

"My legs would hang in the water,
But oh! at last I'd he
A dry little seed. I'd rather,
I guess, he only me."

So chattered my little Lucy
To her doll, Jemima Lee,—
"And I guess," she said, "my mama
Had rather I'd just he me."

—Anon.

Martin's Revenge.

"Oh, mama!" screamed little Martin Goodwin, as he ran crying to his mother, "old Mr. Thorne has shot my dear Malty."

"What did he shoot her for?" asked his mother.

"He said she was after his doves, but I don't believe it. Oh, mama, I did love Kitty so!"

"And I am real sorry he shot her," said mama. "He was very unneighborly to do so!"

"Never mind," said Martin, angrily. "I'll get even with him. I'm going to hurt some of his pets."

"But, Martin, you must not do evil hecause he did," said his mother.

The next day Mr. Thorne's heautiful peacock flew into Mrs. Godwin's yard and went into the hen-house.

"Oh, oh!" exclaimed Martin, quickly shutting the door; "now I'll have my revenge. I'm going to pull out every feather in that peacock's tail."

He caught the hig hird and pulled out two of the long, hrilliant feathers. The poor peacock was so scared and fluttered so hadly that finally Martin said, "Poor birdie! I won't hurt you, even to spite old Mr. Thorne."

So, taking the bird in his arms, he was soon at Mr. Thorne's door.

"Mr. Thorne," said Martin, "I'm awful mad because you shot my cat. I don't think I'll ever like you again. I started to pull out the feathers in your peacock's tail so as to he even with you, but I thought I wouldn't he so mean. So here he is."

The next morning Martin was greatly surprised when Mr. Thorne came to his door with a beautiful Maltese kitten in his arms.

"Martin," he said, "sometimes little folks act hetter than those with gray hair. I can't call hack that cat I shot, hut I've brought this one to take its place."

The kitten was a beauty, and it was not long hefore Martin and Mr. Thorne were as good friends as ever.—Our Little Ones.

Counting the Stars.

I was walking along one Winter's night, hurrying towards home, with my little maiden at my side. Said she:

"Father, I am going to count the stars."

"Very well," I said, "go on."

By and by I heard her counting—"Two hundred and twenty-three, two hundred and twenty-five. Oh, dear," she said, "I had no idea there were so many."

Ah, dear friend, I sometimes say in my soul: "Now, Master, I am going to count the benefits."

Soon my heart sighs, not with sorrow, but burdened with such goodness; and I say to myself, "I had no idea that there were so many."—Mark Guy Pearse.

Dr. Adam Clarke, in advanced age, and after an active and powerful ministry of nearly half a century, wrote in the album of a friend as follows: "I have enjoyed the spring of life; I have enjoyed the toils of its summer; I have culled the fruits of its autumn; I am now passing through the rigors of its winter; and am neither forsaken of God, nor abandoned of men. I see at no great distance the dawn of a new day—the first of a spring that shall be eternal! It is advancing to me! I run to embrace it! Welcome! Welcome, eternal spring! Hallelujah!"

Teacher: "Andrew, what happened about that time to Captain John Smith?" Andrew (glibly): "One of his enemies poisoned him, but he swallowed an anecdote and recovered."

Christian Experience.

One of the most prominent characteristics of Methodism has heen religious experience. Other denominations could hoast of their church polity. Among other religious bodies the great doctrines of the Bible have heen proclaimed with clearness and force. But no denomination emphasized the privilege and importance of personal experience of salvation as Methodism did at the beginning. This was the secret of our power and success. The early Methodist preachers thought that every unconverted person knows hy an inward experience that the wrath of God rests on him, and that every truly converted soul should know that he has passed from death unto life. This fact he was exhorted to ascertain, not merely as an inference, bnt as a matter of experience. He could know it by reading the Bible and discovering that God has promised salvation to every heliever, hut he could know it also by the witness of the Spirit. His inward consciousness should confirm the testimony of the Word of God. If there is any point where we are in danger of making shipwreck, it is here. Methodism must continue to emphasize the doctrine of experimental religion, and insist on he members knowing that they are saved from sin. Revivals of religion in which unconverted persons are invited to hold up their hands in token of their desire to lead a new life and sign a card expressing their wish are sometimes shallow and transitory movements. Sinners are often led to suppose that they are to infer their salvation from the promises of the Bible and not to seek diligently for experimental knowledge of it. The revival which we need throughout the church is a revival of the doctrine and experience of assurance. We need men and women who can say: "We know that Christ hath power on earth to forgive sins, because he has forgiven us."—New York Advocate.

Can Trust Him.

A teacher said the other day: "Henry Stover is the only boy in school I can trust when my back is turned." Wasn't that a good word for Henry?

A mother once said: "I can leave any letter I write open on my desk, and if I am called away, no matter how long, I am certain Nelly will never try to read a word of it." These things couldn't be said of every boy and girl.

These children are honest. They do right not only when others are looking at them, but always, remembering that God's eye is upon them. They do right hecause it is right. This is what we should all and always do—live as in God's presence, and do what would please him.—Exchange.

Bob Burdette bids us remember that the good things in the world are always cheapest. Spring water costs less than whisky; a box of cigars will buy two or three Bibles; a State election costs more than a revival of religion; yon can sleep in church every Sabbath morning for nothing, but a nap in a Pullman car costs you $2 every time; the circus takes fifty cents, the theater $1, but the missionary hox is grateful for a penny; the race horse scoops in $2,000 the first day, while the church bazar lasts a week, works twenty-five or thirty of the best women in America nearly to death, and comes out $40 in debt.

Willie D. was given the word "gone," which he had missed in spelling, to write fifty times upon his slate. Before he had finished doing this, his mother was called away. When she returned, she found the slate awaiting her with fifty gones on one side, and on the other, "I have gorn over to Tom's."—Harper's Young People.

A missionary in London asked a woman recently if she had a Bible in the house. "Oh, yes!" was the reply, "we would not live without one." "Do you read it?" he asked. "No!" she answered. "Then what do you keep it for?" he inquired. "Oh, you see, sir, it' salways ready in case of sickness."

Tommy Jones: "Say, mister, I want to get a pair o' gloves." Furnisher: "Kid gloves?" Tommy: "Naw! naw! gloves for a grown pusson."

Charlie: "What makes the old cat howl so?" Walter: "I guess you'd make a noise if you was full of fiddle strings inside."

Get Macbeth's "pearl top" and "pearl glass" lamp chimneys; they are made of tough glass, tough against heat; they do not break in use; they do from accident. They are clear, transparent not misty. Look at your chimney. How much of the light is lost in the fog?

Be willing to pay a little more.

Pittsburgh. GEO. A. MACBETH CO.

SOFTNESS In leather, strength, and Vacuum Leather Oil puts it in in a jiffy. 25c, and your money back if you want it.

Patent lambskin-with-wool-swob and book—How to Take Care of Leather—both free at the store.

Vacuum Oil Company, Rochester, N. Y.

LOOK OUT

"In peace prepare for war, in health for sickness." This old adage is always wise and timely, especially so just now. Summer is on, with its debilitating influences. Nerves are flagging, appetites failing, energy and strength yielding, even now. Shortly will come decay of vegetation, when malaria will "ride on every passing breeze" and count its victims in every home. Now is the time. Repair the wastes. Restore the vitality.—Fortify the system. Ward off the perilous attacks of malaria and pass safely and happily through. You can do this by using DR. KING'S

ROYAL
GERMETUER

It is the best preventive, the best restorative, the most unfailing cure. Pleasant to take as lemonade, and harmless, unique, matchless, perfect. "The ultima thule of medicines." Try it now. For sale by druggists.

Rev. J. B Irwin, D. D., the popular pastor of the Tulip Street Methodist Church, Nashville, Tenn., says: 'Having tested the Germetuer for more than a year by repeated use, I take pleasure in saying I have found it a prompt relief and cure for dyspepsia and nervous debility. I keep it on hand and would not be without it. Besides being a valuable remedy, it is a pleasant and refreshing drink."

$1 A BOTTLE, SIX FOR $5.

Germetuer Pills are the best. Fifty in a bottle, 25c.

I KEEP COOL
inside, outside, and all the way through by drinking
HIRES' Root Beer

This great Temperance drink; is as healthful, as it is pleasant. Try it.

SHELBYVILLE, TENN.

For three years my wife's sister has been very low. Her son-in-law, a physician, took her to his home, but could do her no good. She was carried to Washington City where she could receive the best medical skill from the most eminent physcians. Stayed there several months, but gradually grew worse. I wrote her to come to my home if she was able, as I believed that your Matchless Mineral Water would cure her. She came here in April. To-day she is sound and well, as she expresses it, from head to foot. Her disease was complicated chronic diarrhœa, diabetes and dyspepsia. She could take no solid food without excruciating pain after eating. Now she is eating all kinds of vegetables, even cabbage, or anything she wants. The water saved her life, after all the other remedies failed. The water has made many marvelous cures in this county.

Wishing you and your Mineral Water much success, I am

YOUNG WILHOIT.

—FOR SALE BY—
Chas. M. Fush, 106 Camp St., New Orleans.

8% GUARANTEED by a long-standing Trust Company is offered at par. Suitable for large and small investments. Full information furnished by W. Lowe, Mills Building, New York.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

DR. PRICE'S
Cream Baking Powder.
The only Pure Cream of Tartar Powder.—No Ammonia; No Alum.
in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard.

MARRIAGES.

REVIERE—TALLEY.—At the residence of Mrs. Mary Talley, St. Tammany, La., Aug. —, 1893, by Rev. D. C. Rewis, Miss Beulah Talley to Mr. Robert Reviere.

FIRCH—LASSITER.—At the residence of Mrs. Mary McCrory, the bride's annt, Jnly 19, 1893, by Rev. J. J. Kelly, Mr. G. A. Firch to Miss Minnie Lassiter.

EVANS—McCAULEY.—At the residence of the bride's parents, Aug. 10, 1893, by Rev. J. J. Kelly, Mr. W. T. Evans to Miss Mary Ann McCauley.

SAWYER—KIMBROUGH.—At the residence of the bride, in Jones, Aug. 22, 1893, by Rev. J. J. Kelly, Mr. M. E. Sawyer to Mrs. Georgia Kimbrough.

CROSSING THE BAR.

Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar
When I put out to sea,

But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound and foam
When that which drew from out the boundless deep
Turns again home.

Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell
When I embark.

For tho' from out our bourne of time and place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have crossed the bar.

—Tennyson.

OBITUARIES.

We publish obituaries of 200 words free of charge; for all over this, one cent per word must be sent. If you want the notice to appear in its order, comply with this rule. Count the words, and send one cent for each word over 200.

GATLIN—ZEBULON BUTLER GATLIN, son of James Gatlin and Rosalvia Wells Gatlin, was born in Pike county, Miss., Aug. 20, 1832; married Martha Hoover, daughter of late Judge C. Hoover and Mrs. Mary Neyland Naller, by Rev. Peter Green, Sept. 16, 1852; died at his home in Pike county, Miss., June 16, 1893.

He united with the Methodist Church, years ago, under the ministry of Rev. Ephraim Flowers. He was the father of six sons and three daughters, who, with his wife, survive him, save one son who died suddenly in his presence three years since. The death of Willie, his favorite child, seemed to turn his thoughts from earth and fix them on things above. On the fifth Sunday in April he received the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, at St. Mary's Chapel, from Rev. Dr. Woodward, kneeling at the altar with his devoted wife, his son Henry, who is studying for the ministry, and his brother, N. W. Gatlin, and other friends and relatives. It was a precious occasion. His death, though sudden, was not unexpected in him. A few days before his death he said to his pastor, Rev. J. G. Cammack, that "he expected to be taken off suddenly, but he was ready."

He was a leader, loving husband and father, a kind-hearted, generous neighbor, a useful citizen, and will be greatly missed. His children are nearly all of them members of the church. His death was so sudden, his children, a son and a daughter in Texas, a daughter in Franklin county, all married, did not attend his funeral.

He was a Confederate soldier who, with five other brothers, served their country faithfully. Five brothers died in the army. His aged, dear father has walked up the hill of life until he can see almost on "the other shore." His bereaved wife is tenderly cared for by their eldest son, James Christian Gatlin, who is a comfort, indeed, to his mother.

Mr. Gatlin had a large circle of friends and acquaintances, and his death is deeply lamented by all who knew him. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. G. Cammack. He was laid to rest beside his son Willie in the Hoover Burial Ground. His funeral was largely attended. MRS. M. L. HOOVER.

PAINE.—MRS. MARY PAINE was born in London, England, Sept. 22, 1804, and died in the parish of West Feliciana, La., May 29, 1893.

Grandma Paine, as she was familiarly called by everyone, was a consistent Methodist and a fervent Christian. She was rigidly strict in the observance of the Sabbath, never permitting any work to be done in her household on that day, and she was much opposed to Sunday visiting. She loved her church, and so long as her strength permitted she never neglected the attendance of Sunday-school or the weekly prayer meetings and class meetings.

She resided for many years in the town of Jackson, La., until feebleness from old age forced her to break up housekeeping and move to the country to live with her daughter, Mrs. James Rogillio, where she remained till God called her to the mansions above. She was ready and anxious for the summons. During the last few years of her life she was extremely feeble and suffered intensely. She would say: "I can not understand why God keeps me here when there is nothing more that I can do. I feel that my mission on earth is accomplished. My strength is gone. I can not see that I am of any service here; nothing is left for me to do now but to suffer." And then she would pray: "O God, give me grace to bear my suffering, and patience to wait till thou art ready to take me home."

We bless God that there is a sweet home of rest for his suffering followers, where

"Sickness and sorrow, pain and death
Are felt and feared no more."

ONE WHO LOVED HER.

PIANE.—The spirit of JEROLINE WALL, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Delle Piane, of Jackson, La., was wafted to its Maker, Aug. 7, 1893.

How brief is life! Even as a shadow that appears for a time—a dream of short duration—the mist that vanishes before the rising sun—a flower that soon fades and dies. There are flowers too delicate to resist the sun's scorching rays, and flourish only while softly kissed by the cool, refreshing dew drops. Like these was the blossom taken from its home on the seventh. Only three months it lived to brighten this home, now isolated by its departure. Though here for a brief period, its tiny fingers twined securely around the hearts of those at home the golden cords of love. Sweet babe, thou art missed! But would they recall thee to mingle in the sins of life and encounter the trials and disappointments attending all on this tempestuous journey? We think thy heaven-ward flight would not be detained—that God will comfort those left with the hope of a joyful reunion beyond the sky, where parting is no more.

"No, angel! seek thy place
Amid yon cherub train."

ROSA E. TABOR.

TEAGUE—MARY H. TEAGUE, the subject of this notice, was born Sept. 12, 1852, in Woodville, Miss., and departed this life in the city of Shreveport, La., April 3, 1893. She was the daughter of Amanda W. and Thos. W. Dyer, both of whom, I am told, were Christians and preceded their daughter several years to the haven of rest. She was married, Feb. 16, 1871, to Abner G. Teague, and was the mother of five children—two of whom died when three years old; three remain to mourn the death of their kind and loving mother.

Sister Teague gave her life to God and joined the M. E. Church, South, in her young girlhood when about twelve years old. I was her pastor, and often visited her at her home near Benton, La., and often talked with her on the subject of religion. She loved to talk with me, and expressed herself very freely several times as being perfectly satisfied of her acceptance with God. She attended church her last time in this world in Shreveport, La., and there that day she renonsecrated her all to God, and in a few days afterward she was called to join her loved ones in heaven. Her preacher has lost a good friend, her children a loving mother, and her husband a faithful companion. May the good Lord help us to so live that this loss will not be eternal! J. B. WILLIAMS.

PEARSON—MABEL CHENETTE PEARSON, daughter of J. M. and E. C. Pearson, was born in Liverpool, La., Oct. 13, 1886, and departed this life Aug. 4, 1893.

Dear little Mabel has gone to join her mother in heaven. She has finished her work here on earth, and has pinned her little pinions and gone to him who said, "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not; for of such is the kingdom of heaven." She is greatly missed from the home circle, but heaven seems brighter since God has taken the precious one home. Mabel seemed to suffer intensely, but endured her suffering with great fortitude, being rational unto almost the last.

"Dear parents, do not weep,
Though chastening be the rod;
Thy child's but gone to sleep,
To wake in heaven with God.

"Exchanging sufferings here
For yonder blissful shore,
To mount a higher sphere—
Not lost, but gone before."

A. E. C.

DICKERSON—CLARENCE KANOAL, infant son of Thomas K. and Mary E. Dickerson, was born March 5, and died Aug. 9, 1893, near Shrock, Miss.

As the first flower upon a treasured plant is fondly watched with tender care, because of its rarity and beauty; so little Clarence, the first-born unto this devoted young couple, was to them a treasure indeed of rare grace and beauty. The earthly life of this little flower was brief; but, transplanted in heaven, it will never fade, never die. E. F. EDGAR.

Dr. Davis' Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar has made a name and record in the past fifty years that is enviable. Thousands of people having tried it for coughs, colds, catarrh, asthma, bronchitis and consumption know its value, and would not be without it. Why? Because it cures where other remedies fail. We recommend it for children subject to croup and whooping cough. It will give relief and cause speedy cure. The medical profession recognize it, and physicians frequently prescribe it for lung troubles. These facts have pushed Davis' Wild Cherry and Tar to the front rank. It is the best remedy for coughs, colds, all throat and lung affections, and no family should be without it. One dollar bottles hold two and a half times as much as a 50c. bottle.

"I Used My Two Knees."

A poor Chinaman had been the slave of opium smoking for thirty-nine years. Those familiar with this curse know that the opium appetite becomes a deeply-seated disease, and few who are once entangled in this snare of Satan ever escape. Opium smokers who profess faith in Christ are looked upon with great distrust, and dealt with with the utmost caution, for they are almost sure to relapse into their former evil ways. But this man was rescued from his opium smoking; he was cured and he stayed cured. One day some one asked him how he had broken off the terrible habit; he answered:

"I used my two knees!"

How many people there are to-day, who are caught in Satan's snares, who struggle to escape, and sink back despondent and despairing, who might find deliverance as this Chinaman found it. They use their tongue, they use their wills, they use their minds, they make vows, and promises, and resolutions, but they do not use their two knees.

No man was ever overcome by temptation while calling on the mighty God to help him; no man need despond, though billows and waves go over him; if a man will only pour out his heart to the Lord, he may go down like Jonah to the bottom of the mountains, and the earth with her bars may be about him; but if out of the belly of hell he will only cry to God, the Lord will hear and save him.

Tempted one, discouraged one, struggling one, fallen one, use your two knees; you will climb out of horrible pits and mire and clay on your knees sooner than in any other way.—The Christian.

An Only Daughter Cured of Consumption

When death was hourly expected from Consumption, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H James was experimenting, he accidentally made a preparation of Indian Hemp, which cured his only child, and now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. Hemp also cures night sweats, nausea at the stomach, and will break a fresh cold in twenty-four hours. Address Craddock & Co., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa., naming this paper.

How Monkeys Sleep.

"Do you know," said the monkey man at the Zoo, "that few people ever saw a monkey asleep? I suppose there are people who imagine they never do sleep, as they are usually alert in the presence of visitors." The drowsy, warm air had exerted its influence upon a sleepy moustached monkey, and the delegate had a good view of the sleeping beast. He lay upon his shell upon his back, with his arms thrown carelessly about, but the pretty feature was the position of his tail. It was curled about the body, and just under the head it made a double curl, and upon this soft roll rested the monkey's head—a pillow fit for a king. "When alone they always use their tails for pillows," said the keeper; "but if two or more sleep at the same time, they huddle close together, resting their heads upon one another."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

I want an active agent in every parish in the bounds of the Louisiana Conference to handle that wonderful new book by Bishop Fitzgerald, The Epworth League Book. Don't miss this opportunity of a lifetime. First come first served! Prospectus, 75 cents.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp St., - - - - - - - New Orleans.

Notice.

I have the best thing in the way of a Teacher's Bible for an agent to handle ever published. Write for full descriptive circulars at once.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp St., - - - - - - - New Orleans.

No mineral water will produce the beneficial results that follow taking ONE or more of "BEECHAM'S PILLS" with a glass of water immediately upon arising in the morning.

Painless. Effectual. Covered with a tasteless, soluble coating.
"Worth a guinea a box."—Price only 25 cents.
Of all druggists, or a box will be mailed on receipt of 25cts. in stamps by B. F. Allen Co., 365 Canal St., New York. 27

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR
The Celebrated
CHOCOLAT MENIER
Annual Sales Exceed 33 MILLION Lbs.
Write for Samples. Sent Free. Menier, Union Sq., N. Y.

Marble, Slate and Hardwood Mantels.
TILES for Fire-places and Floors. GRATES of all kinds.
SLATE HEARTHS. BUILDING MATERIAL.
GEO. M. LEAHY,
No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Designs and prices furnished on application.

Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.
Losses Paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3 239 091.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429,729.
All Losses Paid in Cash without Discount, as Soon as Adjusted.
Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office, the same as with local companies.
DIRECTORS IN NEW ORLEANS.
GUSTAF R. WESTFELDT, Chairman. L. O. FALLON, LUCAS E. MOORE, O. M. SORIA.
CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Resident Sec'y. H. V. OGDEN, Resident Secretary.

Home Insurance Co., of New Orleans
No. 78 CAMP STREET.

CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1886,	$400,479.08
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1887,	$413,860.76
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1888,	$459,369.50
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1889,	$510,584.54
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1890,	$551,897.82
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1891,	$600,414.81

Steadily Increasing in Strength and Popularity.
Solicits Fire and River Business
Liberal Settlements and Prompt Payments.
Thos. Sefton, Pres't. Capt. J. B. Woods, Vice-Pres't. Jno. G. Byrd, Sec'y
J. E. WOODS, JNO. J. BARR, J. B. LEVERT, W. B. BLOOMFIELD
JOS. BAYLE, ANDREW STEWART, E. BORLAND, W. T. HARDIE,
JNO. BARKLEY, CHAS. CHAFFE. P. E. RICE. THOS. SEFTON.

W. B. LYMAN, President. JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-President. JOHN E. WHITING, Secretary
Crescent Insurance Com'y
Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.
Cash Capital, - - - - - - - $300,000.
Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849. ANNUAL and TERM POLICIES Issued on Desirable Fire Business.
See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

Millsaps College,
Jackson, Miss.
The Second Session Begins Sept. 20th, 1893.
College Fees, Only $30 for the Entire Session.
Board in Students' Homes and in Private Families, $12 per month.
Provision has been made for the payment of the College Fees in the case of young preachers and the sons of preachers.
For Catalogue and other information address
W. B. MURRAH, PRESIDENT.

—THE—
Great Southern Music House of
Philip Werlein
Is Prepared to Suit All Comers.
Elegant and Durable Pianos from $250 up.
Good Second-hand and Slightly Used Pianos from $50 up.
Send for Catalogues and Prices.
135 Canal St., New Orleans.

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.,
SUCCESSORS TO
STERN'S
Fert. and Chem.
Manufacturing Com'y
14 UNION STREET,
New Orleans, La.
Write for Agricultural Hand-Book.

MANUFACTURERS OF
HIGH GRADE
Bone Fertilizers,
PURE
GROUND BONE
ACID PHOSPHATE,
KAINIT,
Etc.
Buyers of Cotton Seed.

Office Telephone, 82. Yard Telephone, 861.
Pennsylvania Coal Company,
Office, 67 Carondelet Street.
PITTSBURGH COAL.
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.
L. S. WIDNEY, Manager.
Cotton Presses, Factories, and the Family trade supplied at Lowest Market Rates.
CITY YARDS: Foot of Robin Street, Foot of Desire Street, Corner Short and St. Charles Avenue.

Alabama Conference Female College.
Organized in 1856. Average annual patronage for four years past, over 200. Twenty-two professional Officers, Teachers and Lecturers. Fine Literary Curriculum extending through four years. Music taught on Conservatory methods by three able and brilliant Musicians. Art taught by a celebrated teacher of four years' European study. Scientific and Literary lectures by the Professors of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Location high; health record phenomenal; not a case of serious sickness during the past year.
For catalogue containing full statement address JOHN MASSEY, President, Tuskegee, Ala.

Metal Tipped. EVER READY DRESS STAY Will Not Cut Through.
See Name "EVER READY" on Back of Each Stay.
Acknowledged the BEST DRESS STAY On the Market
Made with Gutta Percha on both sides of steel and warranted water-proof. All other stays are made differently and will rust. Beware of Imitations. Take none but the "Ever Ready."
Manufactured by the YPSILANTI DRESS STAY MFG. CO., Ypsilanti, Mich.
FOR SALE BY ALL JOBBERS AND RETAILERS.
SPECIAL DEPOTS. MODEL DRESS STEEL CO., 74 Grand St., New York.
BROWN & METZNER, 535 Market Street, San Francisco.

FURNITURE!
Largest Stock,
Lowest Prices,
Greatest Variety,
Most Reliable Goods.
J. G. Grant, 28 & 30 Camp St., New Orleans, La.
Write for Illustrated Catalogue.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Camp Meeting Calendar.

Camp Meet'g.	Begins.
Mt. Zion	Sept. 21
St. Tammany	Sept. 22
Palmer	Sept. 30
Salem	Oct. 5

A Tonic for Nervous Prostration,

Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

Dr. A. E. CAROTHERS, San Antonio, Texas, says: "It is the best tonic I know of in debility and nervous prostration, with sleeplessness, caused by mental overwork or prolonged lactation."

Free! Free!

AN ELEGANT LITHOGRAPH PICTURE OF MILLSAPS COLLEGE.

We need $1,500 to pay for furniture already bought to finish furnishing the college and to make necessary improvements.

To everyone sending us $1 we will send the picture unframed, and to everyone sending us $5 we will send the picture neatly framed ready for hanging. Let us hear from you.

JOHN W. CHAMBERS, Agt.

Jackson, Miss.

Impaired digestion repaired by BEECHAM'S PILLS.

Notice.

Rev. Dr. B. Carradine will begin a meeting with me at West End, Meridian, Miss., on Oct. 15. The object of the meeting will be the conversion of sinners, and the entire sanctification of believers according to "Wesley's Plain Account of Christian Perfection." Preachers and other workers are urged to attend. Let all who will come to work notify me, and we will provide entertainment for them.

W. W. HOPPER, Pastor.

Meridian, Miss.

C MONEY. $20 for 1: $50 for 2: $100 for 3: $200 for 5: $500 for 10: $1,200 for $20. Address P. O. Box D, Huntington, N. Y.

MR. EDITOR: The above advertisement in the NEW ORLEANS ADVOCATE needs explanation, which I hope you will supply. I can not believe that you, or any one else connected with the management of the ADVOCATE, has knowingly inserted an advertisement in the interest of fraudulent enterprises; and yet the above presents several marks of suspicion. Please explain and end suspense.

D. G. W. ELLIS.

[C money means Confederate money. This is the second explanation.—EDITOR.]

Secretary Hoke Smith has approved a lease of 5,000 acres of asphalt land in the Uintah Indian reservation in Utah, to the American Asphalt Company, of Colorado. Under the terms of the lease the 5,000 acres may be located in three different parts of the reservation. The lease further provided that whenever the lands were open to settlement the lease should immediately terminate.

The failure of the Equitable Mortgage Company, of New York, involves £1,000,000 invested by Englishmen. Most of this sum was secured by mortgages on farm property in the United States.

Illinois Central Railroad.

REDUCED RATES TO CHICAGO AND THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Tickets now on sale from New Orleans to Chicago and return at $36.75 for the round trip; sale to continue daily until Oct. 15, 1893, inclusive; good to return until Nov. 15, 1893. Remember that the Central Route is the only railroad from the South whose trains enter Chicago without transfer or detour in full view of the Exposition Buildings, and make regular stops at the World's Fair gates. (World's Fair Station—Midway Plaisance.)

For further particulars, tickets, etc., call on or address your local or nearest I. C. R. R. ticket agent.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Philip Werlein,

New Orleans, wants you to write to him if you want to get a good Piano cheap, or an Organ, Music or Musical Instruments. His is the old reliable music store of New Orleans.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

It is fast developing that the loss of life and destruction of all kinds of property on the sea islands that skirt the southeastern coast of South Carolina by the recent hurricane has never been paralleled in this country. The loss of life is now estimated at 1,500.

Hundreds of people are arriving every day on the borders of the Cherokee strip, which is to be opened in a fortnight, with the idea of acquiring valuable lands. Many of the newcomers are very much disappointed at finding that they will have to pay from $1.50 to $2.50 an acre for the land, besides living on it for five years, before they can acquire a title.

A tremendous hail storm occurred the other day at Rome, N. Y. The stones were shaped mostly like tomatoes and some of them weighed as much as a quarter of a pound. When they struck the pavement they popped like pistol shots. Plate glass half an inch thick was mashed, roofs were badly cut and broken, all the green houses in the city were destroyed and gardens and trees badly damaged. Several people were seriously hurt.

The outlook for the South Carolina crops since the hurricane swept over them is far from encouraging. The government weather observer stationed there says: "I think that I am perfectly safe in saying that from 25 to 30 per cent. of the entire growing crop in the fields at the time of the hurricane will be lost. I have received a good many terrible reports from every section of the State. There is not a county in South Carolina that has not been damaged by the storm."

The New York bank statement, the appearance of which has been so anxiously awaited all over the country, showed a remarkable improvement in the condition of the New York banks for the week. The reserve, which, two weeks ago, was over $16,000,000 below the 25 per cent. limit required by law, is now only $1,567,000 below the legal limit. This is a most gratifying fact, as it proves that the New York banks are rapidly recovering from the enormous drain made upon their resources during the panic.

The prospect of a large deficit in the revenues of the government for the fiscal year ending in June, 1894, is regarded as a good argument in favor of a revenue duty on sugar. The Treasury Department officials already foresee a deficit of $50,000,000. It is likely to be more, and Congress is confronted with the alternative of authorizing the issue of bonds or supplying the deficiency by an income tax or a revenue tariff. Sugar, coffee, etc., are considered by some members of the ways and means committee as the best subjects for customs duties.

The growth of the beet sugar industry in the Western States is a matter of vast importance to Louisiana, because it promises to bring to the assistance of our representatives in Congress a number of Western Congressmen, who, seeing a new and important industry springing up in their States, will be willing to assist in resisting all attacks upon sugar. The rapid growth of the beet industry in California within a few years places beyond all doubt the possibility of building up an American beet sugar industry that will eventually rival even that of Germany.

FOREIGN.

Ten thousand more miners in South Wales and Monmouthshire have gone back to the collieries. Some 70,000 men who struck for 20 per cent. advance in wages are now at work again, with the old scale in operation.

Mr. Gladstone's long Home Rule fight in the House of Commons is ended. The bill was passed at 1 o'clock, on Sept. 1, by 301 to 267. It was hurried to the House of Lords, which gave it the first reading and adjourned.

A party of disbanded troops in Nicaragua, on Sept. 2, captured the convoy of government funds destined to pay the regular troops. The escort pluckily maintained the unequal fight and a fierce battle resulted. The bandits killed all of the members of the escort and seized the money, amounting to $180,000. The robbers then fled to Honduras.

Mr. Gladstone has replied by letter to the demand made by the Welsh parliamentary party that the disestablishment of the church in Wales be the first item in the government programme for the year 1894. He wrote: "When the measures of the next session shall be considered, I would decide whether to renew the suspensory bill or introduce a complete measure. Meanwhile it will be hazardous to settle the business of the session by piecemeal anticipation."

The Marquis of Salisbury plans to make the decisive division on the Home Rule bill in the House of Lords the occasion of a great tory rally. Not content with the normal majority of the lords against the government, he will insist that every tory peer who can be reached by the whip shall be present to record his opposition to the Gladstonian policy. At this instance, the tory whips have sent exceptionally urgent notices to all the members of their party in the upper house.

After Breakfast

To purify, vitalize and enrich the blood, and give nerve, bodily and digestive strength, take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Continue the medicine after every meal for a month or two.

Hood's Pills cure constipation. 25 cents.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

SEASHORE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Ellisville circuit, at Sandersville	Sept. 9, 10
Augusta c., at Boone's Ch'l (Fr., Sa., Su.)*	14, 15, 16
Vancleave circuit, at Mt. Zion	16, 17
Tallahala circuit, at St. Tammany O. G.	22-23
Covington cir., at St. Tam'y O. G. (Mon.)	25
Ocean Springs, at O. S. (Wed. night)*	27, 28
Bay St. Louis, at Handsborough	29, 30
Whittington c. (4th round), Palmer O. G.	30 to Oct. 6
E. Pearl miss., at Pine Grove.. (Thes.)	10

The Conference for charges marked with * will be held on second day published.

Let special prayer be made by all our people for the camp meetings. Observe the quarterly fast. Have General Rules read, and registers on hand for examination. Preachers will please try to "clear the decks" of the collections during this quarter, at least in good subscriptions. Push the interests of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

HENRY E. PARTRIDGE, P. E.

Hattiesburg, Miss.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Brookhaven circuit, at New Hope	Sept. 9, 10
Terry circuit, at Byram	15
Gallman, at Mt. Pleasant	16, 17
Hazlehurst	23
Providence, at Georgetown	23, 24

R. S. WOODWARD, P. E.

MERIDIAN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Marion circuit, at Pleasant Hill	Sept. 8, 10
Why Not circuit, at Why Not	16, 17
Meridian—Central (Wed. night)	20
Lauderdale cir., at Mt. Hebron (Thur.)	21
Binnsville circuit, at Chapel Hill	23, 24

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Bolton, at Clinton	Sept. 9, 10
Pocahontas, at Liberty Grove. (Tues.)	12
Tranquil, at Locust Grove	16, 17
Canton	23, 24

E. H. MOUNGER, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Raleigh, at Trinity	Sept. 7
Westville, at Oak Vale	9, 10
Homewood, at Mutual Union	15
Trenton, at Gasque	16, 17
Montrose, at Mt. Zion	23, 24

C. McDONALD, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

HOLLY SPRINGS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Waterford circuit, at Lebanon	Sept. 9, 10
Holly Springs station	16, 17
Holly Springs cir., at Pleasant Grove	23, 24
Potts Camp	30, Oct. 1
Ashland circuit, at Wesley	7, 8
Connersville, at Bethlehem	14, 15
Olive Branch, at Miller	21, 22
Shelby Creek	28, 29
Red Banks circuit, at Wesley	Nov. 4, 5
Mt. Pleasant circuit, at New Salem	11, 12
Byhalia circuit, at Byhalia	18, 19
East Holly Springs, at Lamar	25, 26

J. W. HONNOLL, P. E.

GRENADA DISTRICT—FOURTH ROUND.

Grenada station	Sept. 23, 24
Tillatoba (Sat.)	30
Minter City and Strathmore	Oct. 1
Charleston	6
Coffeeville	7, 8
Oxford station	14, 15
Toccopola	21, 22
Cherry Hill (Tues.)	24
Atlanta	28, 29
Banner (Tues.)	31
Chapel Hill	Nov. 4, 5
Pittsboro (Tues.)	7
Abbeville	11, 12
Grenada circuit	18, 19
Water Valley circuit (Sat.)	25
Water Valley station	26, 27

Local preachers, please be ready with written report as Discipline directs. Also trustees of church property will please have written reports as they are required to do by law.

R. A. BURROUGHS, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Sardis, at Davis Chapel	Sept. 9, 10
Hernando	16, 17
Como	23, 24
Pleasant Grove, at Lee's Chapel	30 Oct. 1
Courtland, at Center Hill	7, 8
Nesbits	14, 15
Mt. Vernon, at Free Springs	21, 22
Pleasant Hill, at Lewisburg	28, 29
Arkabutla (Tues.)	31
Morganville mission	Nov. 4, 5
Cockrum, at Green Leaf	11, 12
Wall Hill	18, 19
Panola	25, 26

If stewards and pastors will address themselves faithfully and constantly to their respective duties, salaries and connectional collections will be paid in full. Brethren, the Lord and the church expects everyone to do their duty.

H. C. MOREHEAD, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Okolona station	Sept. 18, 17
Tupelo station	23, 24
Verona and Nettleton station	27
Fulton and Nettleton circuit	30, Oct. 1
Prairie	7, 8
Shannon	11
Aberdeen station	14, 15
Saltillo	21, 22
Amory and Smithville	25
Pontotoc	28, 29
Tremont	Nov. 4, 5
Okolona circuit	8
Houston and Wesley	11, 12
Athens	18, 19
Buena Vista	25, 26

J. B. STONE, P. E.

WINONA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Brookiyn and Duhlia	Sept. 16, 17
Greenwood	23, 24
Winona	30, Oct. 1
Carrollton	7, 8
McNutt	14, 15
Indianola	21, 22
Leherton	24
Sidon	28, 29
Black Hawk	Nov. 4, 5
Valden	11, 12
West	16
Carrollton circuit	18, 19
Winona circuit	25, 26

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Duncan	Sept. 10
Clarksdale	24
Gunnison	Oct. 1
Como	8
Cleveland	15
Bolivar	22
Shaw	29
Lyon	Nov. 5
Winterville	12
Friar's Point	19
Greenville	26

J. A. RANDOLPH, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

South Bossier, at Fillmore	Sept. 2, 3
Mooringsport, at Pine Hill	9, 10
Red River, at Campo Bello	16, 17
Sabine, at Mt. Pleasant	23, 24
DeSoto, at Pelican	Oct. 1, 2
Grand Cane, at Grand Cane	7, 8
Wesley, at Wesley Chapel	14, 15
Coushatta, at Coushatta	15, 16
North Bossier, at Huge's Spurr	21, 22
Pleasant Hill, at Marthaville	28, 29
Caddo, at Keachie	Nov. 4, 5
Shreveport station and mission	11, 12
Victoria mission, at Victoria	18, 19
Cane River, at Provencal	18, 20
West Natchitoches, at Shiloh	21, 22
Anacoco, at Holly Grove	23, 24
Many, at Many	25, 26
Fort Jessup, at Fort Jessup	26, 27
Natchitoches station	Dec. 2, 3
Mansfield station	9, 10

The official members of South Vernon mission are requested to meet at Holly Grove, Nov. 26. (I incinde those representing Petersburg, Pine Ridge, Hamans, Midkif, and Wood's Schoolhouse.)

Boards of Trustees are earnestly requested to be ready with carefully prepared reports of the condition and value of the property in their charge.

The District Sabbath-school Convention meets at Robeline, Oct 26, at 10 A. M. Arrangements will be made for entertaining the delegates.

The Board of Managers of Mansfield Female College will meet at 8 A. M., Dec. 1, at the college.

The trustees of Pierce and Paine College property are requested to meet at Marthaville, Oct. 28.

ROBT. J. HARP, P. E.

629 Hope St., Shreveport, La.

DELHI DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

West Monroe, at W. Monroe	Sept. 23, 24
Monroe	24, 25
Bastrop, at Bastrop	30, Oct. 1
Lind Grove, at Bonito	7, 8
Winsboro, at Winsboro	14, 15
Oak Ridge, at Mer Rouge	21, 22
Rayville, at Union	28, 29
Oakley, at Jonrdin Chapel	28, 29
Calhoun, at Mt. Ariel	Nov. 4, 5
Harrisonburg, at Island	11, 12
Lapins, at Frantoms C.	18, 19
Lake Providence	25, 26
Waterproof	Dec. 2, 3
Delhi	7
Floyd	9, 10

H. O. WHITE, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Lafayette and Rayne, at R.	Sept. 9, 10
Opelousas, at O.	16, 17
Washington, at W.	17, 18
New Iberia	30, Oct. 1
Abbeville, at P. G.	7, 8
Franklin and Jeanerette	14, 15
Indian Bayou	21, 22
Plaquemine Brulee	28, 29
Patterson and Morgan City	Nov. 4, 5
Lake Charles—R. Street	11, 12
Jackson Street and W. Lake	12, 13
Grand Chenier	18, 19
Sulphur Mine	25, 26
Lake Arthur	Dec. 2, 3

JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Plaq. and Donaldson, at Donald'ville.	Sept. 10
Lower Coast, at Port Eads	17

C. W. CARTER, P. E.

ARCADIA DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Vienna, at Pine Grove	Sept. 9
Ruston station	10, 11

J. L. P. SHEPPARD, P. E.

Buckingham's Dye for the Whiskers does its work thoroughly, coloring a uniform brown or black, which, when dry, will neither rub, wash off, nor soil linen.

DYSPEPSIA

Remarkable Cures by Spring No. 1

Buffalo Lithia Water

Charlotte Court House, Va.,

Dr. P. A. Flournoy, says:—"My nervous system was shattered, my digestion difficult and painful, the stomach often rejecting the highest possible articles of food. I was greatly depressed in spirit, and had but little hope of any improvement in my condition. Upon a diet of tea and crackers, I visited the Buffalo Springs, and put myself upon the water of Spring No. 1. I was soon conscious of an increase of appetite and digestive power, and at the same time of a gradual, decided increase of nervous vigor. This improvement continued through a protracted stay at the Springs, and to such an extent that before leaving I was able to eat with impunity any article of food found upon the hotel table. I left the Springs fully restored, and returned home to enter upon the arduous duties of my profession."

The Professor of Anatomy and Materia Medica, at University of Virginia, Dr. Wm. B. Towles, at the time Resident Physician at Buffalo Lithia Springs, reports the following case:—"Miss ——, aged sixteen, consulted me as to the use of the Buffalo Lithia Water; she was pale and emaciated, weighing but sixty-eight pounds. For several years she had suffered from a severe form of dyspepsia with want of appetite; acid eructation; Nausea and Vomiting after eating, Headache, Constipation, Hypochondriasis, etc. For twelve months she had not experienced the Menstrual Flow. She was put upon the Water of Spring No. 1, and directions given as to her diet. During a stay of two months at the Springs her digestion was restored, there was entire disappearance of other distressing symptoms and a return of the Menstrual Flow. She gained largely in flesh and left the Springs in good health and soon afterwards weighed one hundred and eight pounds."

Nervous Prostration.

A Powerful and Permanent Nerve Tonic Spring No. 2

Buffalo Lithia Water

Physician to Randolph Macon College, Ashland, Va.

Dr. M. H. Houston, [Extract from a Communication in the "Virginia Medical Monthly."] "Having had an opportunity of watching very closely the action of the Buffalo Lithia Water in numerous cases which have fallen under my observation, I am prepared to impute to it one quality at least to which, it strikes me, sufficient attention has not been heretofore directed. I allude especially to its power as a gentle excitant of the Nervous System and as a Powerful and Permanent Nerve Tonic. To this particular property I am disposed to attribute much of its efficacy in the relief of many chronic diseases. Other Mineral waters, with exhilarating properties, are sparkling in their appearance, and their exciting qualities are due to the gases which are disengaged, and which are consequently evanescent in effect. The Buffalo Lithia Water is without such impregnation of gases, and its effects are much more permanent."

Somerset, N. C., Member Medical Society of North Carolina, says:—Dr. Goodrich A. Wilson, "Hundreds of young females attain the age of puberty without realizing the healthful performance of their great function. They become nervous, hysterical, chlorotic. Hundreds of young men attain the same age without developing into manhood. They become pale, feeble, hypochondriacal, and perhaps the end is phthisis, or an insane asylum. In all such cases the best results may be anticipated from the use of Buffalo Lithia Water."

Water in Cases of One Dozen Half-Gallon Bottles, $5.00 F. O. B. Here.

Descriptive Pamphlets Sent Free.

THOMAS F. GOODE,

PROPRIETOR

Buffalo Lithia Springs, Va.

E. J. HART & CO., Agents.

What Can Cuticura Do

Everything that is cleansing, purifying, and beautifying for the Skin, Scalp, and Hair of infants and Children, the CUTICURA REMEDIES will do. They speedily cure itching and burning eczemas, and other painful and disfiguring skin and scalp diseases, cleanse the scalp of scaly humors, and restore the hair. Absolutely pure, agreeable, and unfailing, they appeal to mothers as the best skin purifiers and beautifiers in the world. Parents, think of this, save your children years of mental as well as physical suffering by reason of personal disfigurement added to bodily torture. Cures made in childhood are speedy, permanent, and economical. Sold everywhere. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Boston.

"All about Skin, Scalp, and Hair" free.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp purified and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP. Absolutely pure.

ACHING SIDES AND BACK,

Hip, Kidney, and Uterine Pains and Weaknesses relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster, the first and only pain-killing plaster.

Cincinnati Conservatory of Music,

MISS CLARA BAUR, Directress.

Thorough musical education after the methods of foremost European conservatories. The Conservatory will as usual be open during the entire Summer, and students can, as during the school year, enter at any time.

Branches taught: Vocal culture, the Pianoforte, Organ, Harp, Violin, and all other Orchestral Instruments; also Guitar, Mandolin and Banjo; Elocution, Delsarte, Modern Languages, English Literature and Art.

Young ladies from a distance can board in the Conservatory building, where they pursue their studies under the supervision of the Directress. For Catalogue address in full,

MISS CLARA BAUR,

Conservatory of Music, 4th and Lawrence, Cincinnati, O.

UNIVERSITY SCHO

Petersburg, Va.

The twenty-ninth annual session of this sch boys begins MONDAY, October 2nd. Thorough aration for University of Virginia, Yale, Ha United States military and naval academies, the best technical schools. Full staff. For cata address W. Gordon McCabe, Head M

Are You Unemploye

Will you work for $18 per week? Write to once. JOSEPH R. GAY, Pres. C. P. & L. Fifth Ave., CHICAGO, ILL.

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGI

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA.

Session begins 15th Sept. Full equipme corps of instructors in Academical, Engineering and Medical Departments. Excellent Climate Gymnasium, with baths free to all student catalogues address

WM. M. THORNTON, LL.D., Chair

VIRGINIA MILITARY INSTITUT

LEXINGTON, VA.

65th Year. State Military, Scientific and Tech al School. Thorough Courses in general and ied Chemistry, and in Engineering. Confers gree of graduate in Academic Course, also degree Bachelor of Science and Civil Engineer in Techni Courses. All expenses, including clothing and in dentals, provided at rate of $36.50 per month, as average for the four years, exclusive of outfit. New Cadets report Sept. 1st.

GEN. SCOTT SHIPP, Superintend

No Tobacco. OPI The only practicable way to reach CATARR thoroughly and pleasa A positive cure even if all has failed. Sample FREE by Dr. J. W. BLOSSER & C DALTON GA.

Queen & Crescent Route

"Finest Trains in the South."

Through Cars to Chicago without change, from New Orleans, Meridien, Birmingham, Chattanooga, Jacksonville, Fla., Atlanta, Macon, Asheville, N. C., Knoxville, Tenn., Lexington and Georgetown, Ky. Choice of routes via Cincinnati or via Louisville. Stop-overs allowed on all World's Fair tickets, at Chattanooga, Louisville, Indianapolis or Cincinnati.

For further information as to Rates, Car Service, Sleeping Car Reservations, etc., call on or address any agent of the Queen & Crescent Route or E. T. V. & G. Ry.

D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. A., Cincinnati, O.

THROUGH CARS TO CHICAGO

EMORY COLLEGE

OXFORD, GA. Forty Miles East of Atlanta. Location Proverbially Healthy; No Saloons.

57th Session opens Sept. 20th, 1893. June 13, 1894. Endowment recent creased $100,000 and equipment gr improved. Total expenses within For full information, address W. A. CANDLER, D. D., PRESI

Waynesboro Collegiate Institute

WAYNESBORO, MISS.

On M. and O. R. R., 53 Miles South of Meridian.

Will begin its second session Sept. 11th, 1893. Enrollment last session o 200. It prepares boys and girls for college, or fits them for the practical bu ness pursuits of life. Our curriculum is not extensive. We aim at thorou ness. Board and tuition reasonable. Send for catalogue.

REV. W. W. MOORE, A. M., Principal

WESLEYAN FEMALE INSTITUTE Opens Sept. 6 1893.

STAUNTON, VIRGINIA. Climate and surroundings exceptional. Handsome bui ings, now being remodeled, thoroughly renovated, painted inside and outside, and refurnished with new pianos, carpets, &c. Steam heat, gas lig bath rooms on every floor. New Laboratory thoroughly equipped. Excellent Faculty Experienced Teachers. Advanced courses in English, Latin, German, French, &c. Spec advantages in Art. Conservatory Course in Music. One hundred and forty-one boar ing pupils from eighteen States. Terms moderate. For Catalogues of this celebrated Virginia school, address

W. W. ROBERTSON, President, Staunton, Virginia.

Classical and Commercial Institute

7 PRYTANIA STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Regular session begins Sept. 4th. Students admitted at any time. Full Classical and L erary Courses. Commercial Sciences taught practically. Normal Penmanship, Shorthan and Type-writing, standard systems. Day and night classes. Ladies admitted to Commerc Department. Boarding Department under supervision of Principal. Write for circular.

Endorsed by the editor of the ADVOCATE and W. H. LaPrade, D. D., pastor of Carondel Street Church.

G. W. HARMAN, Prin. Com. Dep't. H. S. ORENET, A. M., Principal. LYMAN C. REED, A. M., Assistant

Spencerian Penmanship

With BOOK-KEEPING, COMMERCIAL LAW, SHORTHAND and TYPE-WRITING Thoroughly Taught in the

Commercial Department, Classical and Commercial Institute, 7 PRYTANIA ST., NEW ORLEANS

G. W. HARMAN, Principal.

Entire expenses for three months: Course, $90, including board, tuition, etc.] Ladies received in this department.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 40.—NO. 37. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1893. WHOLE NO. 1934.

Rev. J. M. BEARD, D. D., Editor and Publisher. } PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA CONFERENCE, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH. { ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

IT MUST BE SO.

BY SAMUEL W. DUFFIELD.

They tell me I must bruise
The rose's leaf
Ere I can keep and use
Its fragrance brief.

They tell me I must break
The skylark's heart
Ere her cage song will make
The silence start.

They tell me love must bleed
And friendship weep,
Ere in my deepest need
I touch that deep.

Must it be always so
With precious things?
Must they be bruised, and go
With beaten wings?

Ah, yes! By crushing days,
By caging nights, by scar
Of thorn and stony ways,
These blessings are!

The Third Quarter.

On Oct. 1 we will owe our Conference claimants $900. To pay this we have not a cent.

Brethren, stir up yourselves. Let every man review his list, and where there is a balance due send it forward.

Brethren beloved, I desire that this mild call shall be all that is necessary. Please respond at once. The Executive Committee would not like to descend to particulars. You, who have forgotten, or who have willfully ignored the claims of these saints of God, do not desire to drive us to any extreme. Our debt to these worthy people must be paid. Don't lay this paper aside until you have arranged your plans for paying what you owe. If you don't know what else to do, take your ADVOCATE around with you, and read this article to your people until they bring all the tithes into the storehouse.

Do you desire that any worn-out preacher, any widow, any orphan, should actually suffer for want of the common necessities of life? Do your people desire any such state of things? "No." Now, if you mean "no," take up your collection and forward the money at once to W. M. Thornton, Lake, Miss. Forward the money by postal order on Jackson, Miss.

Let no man think that the Joint Board of Finance is paying out a single dollar to any soul not actually needing and deserving the amount received. Our actions are all open to the people. We challenge the production of a single unworthy, undeserving recipient. Men of Israel, help us now.

JOHN W. CHAMBERS,
Chair'n Joint Board of Finance.

Missionary Debt and the Mississippi Conference.

To the District Solicitors and My Other Brethren in the Ministry of the Mississippi Conference:

More than a year has passed since we undertook to raise "our share" of the "missionary debt," and more than eight months since the Mississippi Conference, by a rising vote, approved the plan for raising the debt, and pledged cordial co-operation with the district and Conference solicitors in their efforts in this behalf. And yet we have, after "prayer and self-denial," much entreaty and urgent appeals, secured less than two-thirds of the needed amount. For weeks no remittances have come into my hands from any part of the Conference. Even the enthusiastic solicitor for the Meridian district has subsided, and the zealous solicitor for the Brandon district has yielded to despondency, after contributing as much money out of his own pocket to this cause as all the other traveling and local preachers, doctors, lawyers, judges, colonels, majors, sheriffs, merchants, farmers and school teachers in that district put together! The solicitor for the Seashore district has retired on his laurels, having raised the full amount apportioned to his district and several dollars more for good measure, and an expression of gratitude from the people of the Seashore district to God for all his benefits unto them. And silence reigns elsewhere, save an occasional wail of "hard times." From the Woodville district, however, and from the Jackson district, whose faithful presiding elders are in hearty sympathy with this movement, full collections will be reported later on.

Brethren, I beg of you all, do not let this matter drop out of your minds, your hearts, or your prayers. God is blessing the people of our Conference very wonderfully this year. The cotton crop was never better, and the crop of corn is magnificent. Oats and wheat have been cribbed in great abundance, and the prospect for potatoes and molasses in profusion was never brighter. Hogs are healthy and cattle are fat. And no widespread epidemic threatens death and sorrow. And to all these material blessings He adds gracious revivals of religion at many points, and baptizes His people with the Holy Ghost, and endues them with power from on high. Surely God is good to his people. Let our thank-offerings more than wipe out our portion of the debt.

And, brethren beloved in the Lord, let me call your attention to the fact that so few of you have made any remittances this year on account of the regular missionary assessments. This is not in our Conference alone, but in almost every other Conference; hence the Board of Missions is compelled to borrow money and increase the debt, or call the missionaries home. It is ruinous to borrow, but it would be death to recall the laborers, for God has no use for an anti-missionary church—a church with a name to live, but is dead; a ghastly mummy and miserable mockery of the bride of Christ. Full collections, brethren!

T. L. MELLEN,
Solicitor for Miss. Conf.

To the Pastors of the M. E. Church, South.

The following circular explains itself:

DEAR BRETHREN: Owing to the suspension of our banks, in Nashville, we have been brought face to face with a formidable and unlooked-for financial exigency. We had arranged to meet all demands upon us until returns from Annual Conferences came in. This is now impossible. We are instructed by the Board not to draw a draft until provision is made to meet it. We can not borrow money. It is not to be had in or out of Nashville.

Our heroic missionaries, especially those in the West, must suffer greatly if we do not get immediate relief. We make two specific requests:

First, Will you not immediately forward all the missionary money you have collected to date, even if not more than $5?

Second, We earnestly beg of you that, in view of the unparalleled financial stringency and its inevitable effects upon our work, you make the collections a matter of extraordinary effort, and our missionaries and this office a subject of daily prayer.

The Master stands at the helm, and the ship will weather the gale. In him we trust. Yours faithfully,

I. G. JOHN,
W. R. LAMBUTH.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 18, 1893.

FROM THE WORK.

Rev. C. R. Seward, Indian Bayou, La.: "We have recently closed a meeting at our Duson appointment. We failed to secure any ministerial help; but the Lord was with us. Results: Twenty-five conversions, thirty-one accessions. Brethren, pray for us."

Rev. N. B. Young: "Some time ago I organized a Woman's Missionary Society at Mt. Pleasant Church, with Miss Lizzie Ware, president; Miss Laura Roberts, secretary; Miss Lillian Roberts, treasurer; Miss Sipple Ware, corresponding secretary, and Miss Mira Roberts, vice-president. The society is doing well, and they have between forty and fifty members."

Rev. L. J. Jones, Aug. 25: "We have just closed a meeting at Tilton, which resulted in about fifty conversions and forty-two accessions. The church greatly revived. Nearly all agreed to hold family prayer. Our meeting excelled any camp meeting that I have ever attended. The meeting only lasted five days. We were assisted by Bro. M. L. White. His preaching was a success. May God bless the work!"

Rev. H. M. Banks, P. C., Dry Creek, La., Aug. 23: "We have just closed a ten days' meeting at this place, assisted by Bro. C. H. Ellis. Bro. Ellis did all the preaching, and made full proof of his ministry. The work that was done was principally within the church; yet we expect a future harvest as the result of the meeting. Profound conviction was left in the minds of a number. Others expressed themselves as determined to never give up the fight until Jesus gives them victory. Only one addition to church."

Rev. B. R. East, L. P., Mantachie, Miss., Aug. 25: "Perhaps some of my brethren of the North Mississippi Conference would like to know of my whereabouts. I am in the field with the armor on. I have held two glorious meetings in Alabama this Summer. I have just returned from helping Bro. Raper eight days on Tremont. We had glorious success. Thirty conversions and eleven accessions. Bro. Raper is a good man and a growing preacher. He has his work at heart and well in hand, and is greatly beloved by his people. My pastor, Bro. Davenport, is a fine preacher, and doing some good work. I will go to Kosanth to-morrow to help Bro. Burt a week, and then to Alabama again. Pray for me and mine. May God bless you and yours!"

Rev. W. T. Currie, P. C., Ponchatoula, La., Aug. 23: "I closed another meeting last Friday night at Independence, La. Results: six accessions. I can not tell how many converted. Some few obtained full salvation. Bros. Brown, Boyce and Hart helped, Bro. Brown doing most of the preaching. I have never heard any better preaching. He preached on the crowning doctrine of the Christian religion, which is sanctification. He proved to the people by the Word of God that without holiness no man can see the Lord. Old men came up and joined the church. The young were made to tremble. Glory be to God for such men! Pray for us."

Rev. G. W. Bachman, Kosciusko, Miss., Sept. 2: "We are happy. Attala county voted dry yesterday by 198 majority. Other counties have recently fallen into line. There are only three towns now in the hill country of Mississippi that tolerate dram-shops. Salvation is rolling on. May our entire State soon enjoy full redemption from this great curse! A meeting has just closed here with good results. Revs. J. A. Whitehurst and H. P. Crowe assisted the pastor, and preached faithfully and acceptably more than one week. Bros. Dollar, Brown and McCullough are holding meetings with good success. I am taking a few days of much needed rest at home."

Rev. Hesiep R. Tucker, Houston and Wesley, North Mississippi Conference, Aug. 26: "We closed on last Thursday night a meeting at Houlka, which was, we believe, far reaching in its results. The meeting began with two sermons of great power by Rev. J. B. Stone, P. E. The preaching during the meeting, with the exception of one sermon by Rev. G. W. Bachman, was done by Rev. Jno. C. Park, and was of a character to cause the people to think and to lead better lives. We look for permanent good from this meeting. Bro. Park is one of the promising young men of our Conference. During our administration here we have had 144 accessions to the church. Our people are more and more contented. We have given but one letter to go West this year. We will, in a few days, have the parsonage newly painted."

Rev. H. Armstrong, Lafayette, La.: "We began a meeting here on Saturday, Aug. 19, with a fair attendance. On Monday following, Rev. Charles R. Montgomery, of the Washington circuit, came to our assistance. The attendance increased from his first service. He is a young man with but little experience, but he is as bold as a lion; withholds nothing that he thinks ought to be said, and, as his style is unique, immense crowds hang upon his words. There are but few Protestants in this town and vicinity, but the Catholics and Jews flocked to the church at night, and filled the house, and stood in the door and at the windows to hear. There were a number of professions and seven accessions at the close. More to follow. Our membership has increased twenty-five per cent. during our pastorate here. Praise the Lord!"

C. B. Hardy, Victoria, Miss., Aug. 26: "The meeting still increases, and grows under the power of the Spirit of God. The devil has been routed by the Spirit of the living God, and the saints of God have been made to rejoice in the name of our Lord and Master, Jesus Christ. Many young men say they must preach the gospel; many are justified and sanctified at every service. More than one hundred have been made to sing praises unto the blood of the Lamb, that taketh away the sins of the world. Bless the Lord, oh my soul, and all that is within me, bless his holy name! We are so glad that we have a perfect Savior—one that can save and keep his people from their sins. Praise the Lord! Hallelujah to God for full salvation! At our last service the Spirit of God was manifest in great power upon all that was under the tabernacle. Lord, come down in mighty power, and save this people from their sins, is my prayer. May the Lord bless the ADVOCATE and family!"

Rev. W. H. Benton, P. C., Franklinton, La., Aug. 18: "We held a meeting at old Pleasant Valley Church, beginning the third Sunday in July. When I took this church in charge the people were very much discouraged, having to give up the preacher that was sent them for the year. We began the meeting under very embarrassing circumstances; but the good people of that community came to our assistance, the Lord blessed us, and we had a good meeting. The results were as follows: Fourteen accessions, and the church wonderfully revived. We also organized a Sunday-school. The preaching was done by Bros. Sullivan and Wallace, which was in power and demonstration of the Spirit. This, we believe, is to soon be one of the best churches in Washington parish. We are making preparations to repair the house. We have just closed a good meeting at McTyeire Chapel. It rained every day. We continued the work, which we think resulted in much good. We are praying for a revival over the entire work, and expect a full report at Conference."

Rev. Ben. P. Jaco, P. C., Panola circuit, Aug. 28: "We have held three protracted meetings on this work this year, and assisted in two meetings on other works. The Lord has abundantly blessed us, and has poured out greatly the Holy Spirit in the conviction of sinners and conversion of mourners. The work of the Spirit has been deep and pungent, quickening the church and lifting to higher life. Visible results appear in two-score additions, a score of infants baptized, and from six to a dozen family altars established in each community. Thank God for these altars. We look for grand victories under such proceedings. Two Epworth Leagues at work vigorously, with forty, or more, members each. Prayer meetings and Sunday-schools enlivened. We are under many obligations to Bros. J. A. Braswell, of Morganville mission, and C. W. Perkins, of Nesbit circuit, for their earnest and efficient labors with us. Long will the memory of these brethren linger with the people of this circuit. May God bless you, brethren!"

Rev. A. T. Buck, Shuqualak, Miss., Aug. 26: "Many hearts will, no doubt, be made glad on hearing what great things the Lord has done for us at Cooksville. Only those who are acquainted with its history can properly appreciate the precious tidings that come from this part of the 'field.' It has been called the 'seat of wickedness.' All manner of vice, including drunkenness, card-playing, dancing, strife, malice, etc., have been enthroned, while love, peace and 'joy in the Holy Ghost' have been unknown to all save a faithful few. But, blessed be God! his 'hand is not shortened that it can not save.' We began our meeting there Sunday, the twenty-fourth, with not more than thirty persons in the large church, and closed Thursday night with a packed house, and thirty-five converted souls in the altar. A number of these were members of the church, but claimed never to have been converted. There were twelve accessions to our church, and others will join. Twenty-one of the young people publicly vowed never to dance again, while thirteen heads of families said they would forever hereafter close their doors to this soul-destroying evil. Old and sore troubles between families and individuals were settled, and settled forever. Women who had not spoken to each other for years (though members of the church) met in the altar and embraced each other, while men stood up and publicly declared they were ready to 'bury the hatchet,' after which they shook hands. Glory to God for a religion that gets all over a man and makes him love his enemies. May the Lord bless Bro. N. M. Clark, of the Mississippi Conference, and my brother, J. E. Buck, of Guntown, for faithful and efficient work!"

Rev. T. B. White, Arcadia, La., Aug. 18: "Scotlsville Holiness Camp Meeting commenced promptly Aug. 8, and continued ten days. It was my privilege, blessed be God! to be there a week mingling with those lovely Christian people. About fifty ignorant preachers were present, and everyone seemed filled with the Holy Spirit, and crowds and crowds of people from several States attended the services, held five times a day under a spacious new tabernacle just erected at a cost of $1,200. What preaching! what praying! what testimonies (burning witnesses that the 'blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth from all sin')! What singing!—conducted by Rev. Dr. Rinehart, assisted by scores and hundreds. Can't tell how many were converted and sanctified, but many, many! Glory to God! The fervor and power was marvelous, like unto Pentecost. Rev. A. H. Sutherland, from Chihuahua, in old Mexico, was present, and preached sanctification as a distinct blessing with the fervor of an inspired apostle. The doctrines of sin (original and actual), with cognate doctrines of the atonement, repentance, regeneration and subsequent sanctification, were all emphasized, especially that of regeneration by the operation of the Holy Spirit, as I have rarely, if ever, heard. There were present and instantaneous manifestations of the work of the blessed Holy Spirit in answer to prayer, reminding one of the days of the Son of man on earth. The glow and fervor of that meeting lingers in my heart now as a divine benediction. Those glad and happy faces all aglow with salvation and love remain as a beautiful picture gallery, reminding me of the 'angels in heaven that rejoice over repentance of one sinner.' I praise God for Scottsville Camp Meeting, and that the doctrine of 'holiness of heart, without which no man shall see the Lord,' is coming to the front as an experience demonstrated by a practical, fruitful life of holiness. Amen!"

Rev. T. H. McClendon, Antioch, La., Aug. 24: "I began a meeting at Douglas, on the Vienna circuit, July 13, and continued it for eleven days. It was a time of refreshing from the presence of the Lord. There were in conversions and reclamations, from the best information I could get, some fifteen or twenty, and three accessions. A large proportion of the membership revived. The old-time Methodist shout was heard often. We were assisted for a few days by Rev. R. A. Davis, of Downsville circuit, and Rev. T. W. Pipes and Rev. Charlie Atkinson, local. This meeting did a deal of good, and, I trust, more to follow. After the close of this meeting I took a short rest, visiting my family, from whom I had been separated for a time by the floods. Leaving home on Aug. 4, I arrived at Arcadia at about 5 P. M., where I found in waiting a conveyance for me to Tullip, to assist Rev. C. T. Munholland, and at about 7 o'clock we drove up to Bro. William Moreland's, and found himself and Rev. C. T. Munholland (his much-beloved pastor) waiting my arrival. I found the meeting already in progress, with fair prospects for a good time. This meeting continued until the following Tuesday evening. It was a time of rejoicing on the part of many of the membership, resulting in nine accessions and about fifteen conversions. The devil made a bold stand, and showed determined resistance; but he was wounded, and retreated, barely escaping capture. Bro. Munholland is quite a favorite with many of the people, and regarded by all as a man of true courage, who is not afraid to declare the whole counsel of God without fear or favor. Being somewhat jaded, Bro. Munholland and I spent the next day with an old friend, whom I knew in my boyhood, and whom 'I esteemed highly for his work's sake,' enjoying the association of this excellent Christian family, and also the good music rendered by his esteemed daughters. After twenty-four hours we bid them adieu for Vienna, La., where I had a meeting to begin that night. This meeting continued a week. Had four accessions, and the church quickened, and the neighborhood moved as it has not been for years; and had this meeting been continued, and my help had remained, we could have taken the town in the name of the Lord; but another meeting beginning at Antioch forbade. At this place the church had been in a backslidden state for years. It was said by many, 'The church was dead.' Here Satan was strongly fortified, having several distilleries in the neighborhood, although a dry parish. And here you find envy and strife and division, and every evil work, with but few to help do the work. I began on Saturday, and was joined by Bro. Munholland Sunday evening, and the meeting is still in progress. Up to date we have three conversions and about thirty-five penitents, with the church slow to act their part."

Rev. W. W. Hurst, Bowerton charge, Brookhaven district, Mississippi Conference, Aug. 24: "We closed our third protracted meeting at Pleasant Valley on last Saturday, the nineteenth instant. Our first was held at Brandywine, embracing the fourth Sabbath in July. At this meeting there were four accessions to our membership, three conversions, with many pledges for better living in the future, and more thorough consecration to God and his church. Bros. H. P. Lewis, of Caseyville, and B. W. Lewis, of Lebanon, rendered us timely and acceptable service, for which we are under many obligations. May the benedictions of the Master abide upon them and their labors! At Rehoboth we began our meeting on the fifth Sabbath in July, and continued until the first Sabbath in August. Revs. J. T. Leggett, of Slaughter; D. F. Guice, of Hermanville, and Dr. C. W. Campbell, of Harriston, came to our aid in the Spirit of the Master, and signal exhibitions of the presence and power of God was manifest from beginning to end. May God reward these brethren for their earnest, faithful work at Rehoboth! Nine accessions, several conversions, vows made for renewed diligence, and pledges for the re-erection of family altars, are the visible fruits of said meeting. Our laymen and good women were untiring in their zeal and labor of love for the advancement and prosperity of our beloved Zion. At Pleasant Valley—assisted by Rev. I. W. Cooper, D. D., and Rev. Elisha Mullins, an itinerant of other days—we had a profitable meeting, and while there were neither accessions nor conversions, it was a feast of good things to the people of God. The welkin was frequently made to ring with shouts of praise to God from many of our old veterans who have borne the burden and heat of the day for many long years, and are now waiting for the command of their chief Captain, 'Come up higher.' Dr. Cooper gave us a number of his characteristic sermons—strong, logical, and in the demonstration of the Spirit. We were all edified and strengthened by his practical, forceful preaching. May his how long remain strong! Our third quarterly meeting was held on Saturday, the nineteenth instant, in the absence of our dear Bro. R. S. Woodward, P. E., who was sick at his home in Brookhaven. May God sustain our brother in his afflictions! The financial outlook is not at all encouraging. The times here are said to be hard enough to crack hickory nuts on. Permit me to say here that our Rehoboth High School will begin its Fall session early in September under the supervision of Prof. Ross, who comes to us highly recommended as a Christian gentleman, with superior ability as an instructor and trainer of young men for college life. The school will be a permanent one, and young men who desire to prepare themselves for college can not find a better nor a cheaper school in this section of the State. Our location is high and healthy, and the moral attitude of our community is strong and influential for good."

REVIVAL NOTES FROM THE MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

DeKalb circuit, Marvin Church, R. A. Breland, P. C.: 2 accessions after Bro. Ellis and the presiding elder left.

North Kemper circuit, Blair, W. J. Ferguson, P. C., assisted by the presiding elder: A number of conversions, 5 accessions to our church and 1 to the Baptist; several led in prayer.

Lauderdale circuit, Brogan Chapel, W. T. Browning, L. P., supply: Several conversions, church greatly revived, 6 accessions.

Chunkey circuit, Spring Hill Church, L. P. Meador, P. C.: 2 accessions, with more to follow.

Bro. J. V. Penn has just completed a new church four or five miles west of Waynesboro, worth $600.

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

Continued on Second Page.

OPTIMISM—PESSIMISM—FAITH.

BY THE REV. C. A. S DWIGHT

OPTIMISM.

The stars are bright
With God's own light,
All nature's blithe and cheery
None but the bad
Need e'er be sad
Or worn or weak or weary!

PESSIMISM.

The stars are sad;
There's nothing glad
But's mocked a'en while it's singing
By notes of wrong
With clamorous song
On woe the changes ringing!

FAITH.

The stars are bright—
But cloud-hung night
Obscures oftimes their glory
But any soul
May make the whole
Of life one grand, sweet story.

Depths and Heights.

BY JOSEPH B. COTTRELL, D. D.

It is in the economy of a government of Him who has creative, regenerating and sanctifying power, and whose essential nature is that of benevolence, to work the most gracious conditioning of each responsible moral agent that is possible. In respect of human beings, that are declared to have been created in the likeness of the Highest—yea, in His Image!—it is most probable that discussion (which, of course, should be in tone and temper of communion) will continue in the future as in the past. When the requisite modesty and self-distrust, leading to a tentative, rather than to a dogmatically assertive, bearing on the part of the brotherhood, obtain, there will ensue a pleasing, not to say a delightful, unification of mind all the more stimulating and inspiring because of the varieties of mental cast and coloring of individuals. A healthful reciprocity of intellectual endeavor, combining into symmetrical proportions that unit made up of multiplied originals, which may be denominated the world of mind, is requisite to progress in the way of conquest and possession along the line of spiritual enrichment.

The reconditioning of humanity, in virtue of the incorporation therewith of the Word, of the Logos—the Wisdom—brings each individual soul into normal relation with truth and virtue and holiness. A Christless soul has never had genesis. God is nearer to each than anyone else can get, and leaves no spring of the wonderful mechanism—no cord of the marvelous organism—untouched. Theology has for this conditioning of our being the definition of "prevenient grace." In virtue of such conditioning there is never an excuse for transgression of the law. This and correlative, cognate points it were agreeable to specify in precise statement, not only of their force, but with such qualification as comes of the great law everywhere pervading, that there is nothing so true but that there is else and other quite as true which seems in contradiction thereto; but such elaboration is waved in order to immediate approach of a phase of this doctrine of salvation which has not had the emphasis in our theologies that it so evidently has in the gospel as revealed by Christ and the apostles. When a soul, availing itself of the measure of ability which it has initially, through "the grace of God that bringeth salvation unto every man," has so come into measures of obedience, and is subservient according to the characterizations of religious pariance, to the degree of being justified, regenerated and sanctified—a state wherein there are the assurance (certitude) of faith and witness of the Spirit—what of the after experiences in which a sense of the turpitude of sin is cumulative, and in which there is a progressive minification of one's estimate of himself as touching righteousness and holiness? Paul seemed to have graduated beautifully, according to this rule of self-effsloughing: "Not a whit behind the chiefest of the apostles;" then "the least of all saints," and, finally, "chief of sinners!" Sin cancelled, soul cleansed, assurance and witness above doubt, and communion, with all its delectations, become the habit of the life, and yet—"what carefulness! . . . what clearing! . . . what indignation! what fear!" The solution of the matter is this: In coming into complete coalescence with Christ by commitment, unreserved, according to the law of sacrifice, there is generated an order of experience, as also of obedience, whereof the term vicarious is definition. The more perfectly the soul realizes the disciplining of "the law of the spirit of life," the keener is its experience of the sense of sin; but this experience is not one of guilt and condemnation; there is no apprehension of wrath and penalty impending; but it is identically of the nature of the experience of Him upon whom was "the chastisement of our peace;" to whom the bitter cup was passed; upon whom the baptism of ultimate anguish came. Did He not declare to His disciples that they should drink of that cup, and be baptized with that baptism? As branches of the vine whereof He is stock, fruit unto salvation of humanity is borne by us through sap and substance of the mystery whereof the cross is exponential. Hence Paul could declare, "I am crucified with Christ." It was of impulse responsive to revelation of this mystery of "the fellowship of his sufferings" he asked the Romans, "Know ye not that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death?" It was through cumulative realization of soul-travail he spoke of himself as bringing forth spiritually "little children," thus giving, at least, an inkling of this sublime law of atonement between the disciple and the Master, who "saw of the travail of his (own) soul, and was satisfied." Could it be according to any other affiliative, identifying, incorporating life-power than this that Paul would have been sprung to such utterance as that he "followed after to fill up what was behind of the afflictions of Christ?" His faith brought him into measures of vicarious experience, from impulse of which he says, 'For me to live is Christ." The continuity of the operation of this vicarious life-giving death principle, in effectuating the work of recovering to God what costs him the ultimate of sacrifice, as also the infinite reach of the law, is witnessed to by the fact declared in the twenty-sixth verse of the eighth chapter of Romans: "The Spirit itself (himself) maketh intercession for us with groanings which can not be uttered."

Thus is it that experience, poignant in proportion to the refinings of faith, is had by the regenerated, sanctified soul; bitter realization of that which the sinless One, divine, in ultimate degree endured. And it is as our nature and being are drawn into increasing depths of this gulf stream that our souls and spirits are potent through ever-increasing humbleness and maturing benevolence. Mysteries within and without are sequence of this "law of the spirit of life" wherethrough we come en rapport with the sublimities that cheapen all decorations and distinctions that are the insignia of those on a strut in the eye of the world. The lordship that brings one to ministries and services kindred to the footwashing that was not a performance or a ceremony, in the case of the Lord and his, is in royalty that identifies us with God and with the lowliest of his care. It effectually takes us out of attorneyship for sect and theory, cancels candidacy for aught but increment of knowledge, and for the wisdom that ripens us for commerce in highest and widest ranges of the kingdom.

The heights of delight come of experiences of their reverse. It was "for the joy that was set before him Christ endured the cross;" and as a background shading, giving vast perspective to the picture of experience in clear relief and definite expression of glory, does this vicariousness serve. Grief and anguish, sorrow and pain are not appointments of wrath, but of a love that sounded all the depths from out infinite heights.

Cloverport, Ky., Aug. 26, 1893.

The World in the Church.

Satan, the arch-enemy of souls, since he entered the Garden of Eden to mar the happiness of our first parents, has not ceased to labor for the furtherance of his kingdom. There is no institution on earth, of human or divine origin, that has not suffered more or less by his insidious attacks. The church of Christ seems to be a favorite resort of his, where he so often conceals himself with the cloak of religion, when we would hardly suspect his presence. The popular excuse of the day among outsiders is, the ungodly walk of church members. When you advise them to unite with the church, they will begin to point to certain members of the church and tell you that they think they are about as good as the individuals mentioned. The truth of such assertions are often undeniable; but what they claim as an excuse is really no excuse at all, so far as the justification of the complainer is concerned. The man or woman who have made up their minds to remain on the outside until they find a faultless church have made a vain resolve, as the object of their search will never be realized. Death will find them seeking for their ideal, and reveal the awful fact that heaven has been lost thereby. In the parable of the wheat and tares Christ takes this excuse out of their mouths. When the servants of the man who "sowed good seed in his field" came and told him that "his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat," asking, "Will thou then that we go and gather them up?" his answer was, "Let both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of harvest, I will say to the reapers, gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them; but gather the wheat into my barn." (Matt. xiii, 30.)

We are not saved by the good deeds of others, nor shut out of heaven by their evil deeds. Our individuality is complete, upon which we must stand or fall. Come into the church, and, perhaps, by your influence and example the disorderly will be constrained to emulate your life of piety.

D. K. HUNT.

Vidalia, La.

"Brethren, I Beseech You, Be as I Am; for I Am as Ye Are."

(Galatians iv, 12.)

The Galatians had been, by the ministry of Paul, called to the knowledge of "the truth as it in Jesus," and to the liberty of the sons of God. But they had permitted certain Judaizing teachers to turn them from the faith in the atoning merits of Christ to rely on the rites and ordinances of the Mosaic system.

The apostle exhorts them to return to the simplicity of the gospel salvation by grace, through faith, and to walk in newness of life. In the Scripture quoted at the head of this article, the apostle, with great tenderness and delicate consideration, and without the assumption of authority, or anything mandatory, beseeches them to "be as I am," have the same faith in Christ as the all-sufficient Savior, and have the same spiritual character.

To meet the objection likely to be urged—"You are an apostle, an extraordinary case, a wide departure, and exception from ordinary conditions"—he adds, "for I am as ye are." I am no exceptional case in all the great characteristics of humanity; I am conditioned as you are. Personally, I have inherited a depraved nature, carnal, and enmity against God. I was naturally dead in trespasses and sins, as any other man. I am a man of like passions and appetites which warred against the purity and spirituality of Christ. Like you, I am liable and susceptible to tempting influences. Like you, I have bodily pains and weaknesses and sufferings. Then in my lot and circumstances I have disappointments; men on whom I have relied have failed me. I have griefs and shed many tears. I have to bear reproach; I am often grossly misrepresented, and slandered. I have to bear the bitter pangs of heartless ingratitude from those for whom I have long toiled, and even risked my life. In all the conditions of my personal life I am prepared to sympathize with them that are in any trouble by the troubles through which I have passed; in all "I am as ye are."

But, further, Paul was living in the same unfriendly and dying world. Fighting the same battles with the same enemy on the same field. The world presented its allurements of ease and indulgence to Paul as to other men. Its enticements to gain and wealth as to others. And its incitements to what are called the honorable ambitions of life. And we all know too well it presented the same cruel persecution to Paul as it did to other believers in those dark and perilous days—stripes, stonings, prisons, hunger, nakedness and death.

Paul was buffetted by Satan's cruel messengers, "a thorn in the flesh," and "fiery darts" were hurled at him. It is clear there were no exceptionally favorable conditions in Paul's case. He might reasonably exhort men to "be as he was," a faithful follower of Christ, for the reason "he was as they were." Paul claimed to do nothing in his own name and strength; his sufficiency was of God. He was strong in the Lord, and could do all things through Christ who strengthened him. The Galatians, and all souls struggling after eternal life, could be as he was, if they trusted in the same Savior and used the same divinely appointed means.

J. B. WALKER.

Why Not, Miss.

We began our protracted meeting at this place on Wednesday evening, Aug. 9, with our regular prayer meeting. The first two nights, viz., Wednesday and Thursday, we only held prayer and experience meetings. Friday night, while the weather was very gloomy, and it seemed it was going to rain at any moment, we held service, the writer preaching to a very respectable congregation. Saturday morning dawned beautifully, and there was a very good congregation for Saturday. From Saturday, at the 11 o'clock service, the meeting continued with two services a day, till Friday night. During this time the attendance was good, and the Spirit of God was manifested in each service. We enjoyed a "time of refreshing from the presence of the Lord," indeed and in truth. Oh, what a gracious revival we had, especially Thursday night, when a penteoostal shower came down upon the congregation at Why Not! There were penitents at the altar for prayer, and daughter and wife were seen to come and kneel by the ungodly father and husband, who was under powerful convictions, and who won the victory over Satan that night, and who to-day is living in the blessed assurance of sins forgiven, instead of carrying a heavy burden which, in his own words to me, was "pressing him down day by day" only two weeks ago; but he says, "It is all gone now; I feel relieved of it." Glory to God for his forgiving power and converting power!

The pastor was assisted by Rev. R. W. Harmon, the junior preacher of East End and South Side, Meridian. Bro. Harmon preached one sermon for us, and rendered us very great benefits in the prayer and experience meetings.

We omitted services on Saturday, the nineteenth instant, to give the brethren a rest, and left the meeting in charge of our faithful exhorter, L. B. Moore, who, I neglected to state above, rendered us very valuable services all through the meeting. The pastor, having to leave Saturday afternoon to meet his 11 o'clock appointment for Sunday, as before stated, he left the meeting in charge of Bro. Moore, and I was very much gratified on my return, the following Thursday, to learn that there was a large congregation out at each service Saturday night and Sunday, at eleven, and the meeting closed with a good feeling.

This is the grandest revival I have had on my charge since I came here twelve months ago; but thank God I give him all the praise, for I know it was in and through him that I accomplished what I did. I never felt the presence of the Holy Spirit more in my efforts to preach than I felt it in the revival meeting at Why Not this year. I have been praising God more and ever since this meeting for his blessings upon me. Everything has had a brighter appearance to me; even the trees seemed to be fresher, and the sun shines brighter, and people with whom I come in contact seem nearer to God continually.

I close by giving you the following as a result of this gracious meeting: The church greatly revived; some connected themselves to the church whom we did not expect; a number of conversions—do not know the exact number; there were 10 accessions to the church, 9 on profession, and 1 from the Baptist Church. I have two other meetings to hold on my immediate charge, and have promised to help in three. I have only served as pastor for twelve months, taking charge of Why Not Church last year as a supply; but I rejoice to-day that God is with me and has blessed my labors, and while I am young, and yet inexperienced, I am determined to go on, and my watchword shall ever be, "Go forward." Pray for me and for my work, that we may have on Why Not circuit before this year closes even greater blessings than we have had.

F. B. ORMOND, P. C.

Rapides Camp Meeting.

In looking over the numbers of the Methodist Magazine, published nearly a century ago, I find the following account of a revival of religion at a camp meeting:

"On Monday night the power of the Lord was displayed in a most glorious manner. The people were crying for mercy in the altar, in every part of the congregation, and in many of the tents; and, before our exercise closed, it was estimated that at least forty professed to have experienced converting grace, while many old professors drank deeply from the stream which makes glad the city of God; and in the opinion of some, who had attended every camp meeting held on the ground, it was the greatest night ever witnessed there."

Some people contend that the Methodist Church has lost its old-time power. I want to say that, in my opinion, so long as we adhere to the old-time methods, and worship God with the child-like simplicity of our fathers, the same power will be felt today and the same results obtained as followed the preaching of the gospel three-quarters of a century ago. As a proof of this let me tell you what occurred at the Rapides Camp Meeting, which has just closed. The first sermon was preached on August 19. The very first night the altar was crowded with people confessing their sins and imploring forgiveness. The Lord's people continued to pray that their Master would manifest himself powerfully, manifest himself to everyone present. These prayers were answered, and so clearly answered, that everyone recognized the fact that God was indeed present in power and mercy. Christians forgot all about denominations and rejoiced together; scoffers forgot to curl the lip and went about the grounds wondering what was the matter with them, and astonished at finding themselves singing, "There is room in Paradise." There was a stillness, a feeling of awe experienced by every man and woman on the ground. Before the meeting closed forty-three professed to have been converted, "while many old professors drank deeply from the stream which makes glad the city of God."

I do not believe I exaggerate when I say that the Spirit of God was so powerfully manifested as to absolutely frighten some of those who had been praying for that very thing. Outside of one or two old-fashioned Methodist shouts, everything was very quiet. In my opinion the reason of this success can be found in the fact that the brethren were all of one mind.

We can truthfully close the account of this meeting by a quotation from the same old Methodist Magazine referred to at the start:

"We had no wild-fire, no extravagance, no strange bellowing, jumping or screaming. Now and then we had a strong and bitter cry for mercy from heart-broken mourners, and a hearty shout of glory from those whom God had graciously delivered into the liberty of his dear Son, with a responding amen from the people of God. I think I may say, with the utmost propriety, that the work is solid, rational and scriptural."

Thank God for the old-time religion, for the Methodist Church, and for such preachers as we had with us. They all live in the country and get very small salaries. Indeed, they are satisfied if at the end of the year they are even with the world and can pay their way to Conference. Our city preachers who promised to come did not come. No, not one of them. Of course, they have valid excuses, but these excuses have not been communicated to us. We had with us the following ministers: Bros. Davies, Upton, Cassity, T. Randle, Hoffpauir, Denson, Lyons, Riddle, and Sheppard. God bless every one of them, and may we all meet at the next camp meeting. Yours very truly,

E. G. H.

Lake Camp Meeting.

Lake Camp Meeting began Friday night, Aug. 25, and closed Wednesday night. As the result we had twenty-one applicants for membership in our church, and under the different calls for those who were converted at the meeting, there were eighty-one. It exceeded any camp meeting in spiritual power I ever attended. The attendance was large from first to last. There were fifty tents occupied, besides the hotel and restaurants. Some of the tents are of good size, and two stories high.

Rev. J. W. Chambers was with us, and preached with great power.

We had Revs. L. Carley, J. M. Morse, W. M. Williams and R. F. Witt (the preacher in charge), of the itinerancy, and Dr. Miller, R. W. Burton and J. S. Weems, of the local ranks. As Bro. Witt's wife had typhoid fever during the meeting, he was only with us a part of the time.

The preaching for the first two days and nights was done by three preachers. We baptized four infants and received eleven subscribers to the ADVOCATE.

A good part of the Brandon district was represented here.

The Carthage choir, thirteen in number, came forty miles through the country, and took a leading part in the music. We had an organ and two horns, with a large number of singers. We feel like specially mentioning Misses Eva Jones, of Carthage, and Ina Bailey, of Conehatta, who presided at the organ.

The meeting was a delightful one in all respects, and will give a relish for the next. Praise the Lord!

C. MCDONALD.

Christ's Sympathy.

Christ shows himself especially sympathetic with questions of domesticity, as when at the wedding in Cana he alleviated a housekeeper's predicament, as when tears rushed forth at the broken home of Mary and Martha and Lazarus. Men are sometimes ashamed to weep. There are men who, if the tears start, will conceal them. They think it is unmanly to cry. They do not seem to understand it is manliness and evidence of a great heart. I am afraid of the man who does not know how to cry. The Christ of the text was not ashamed to cry over human misfortune. Look at that deep lake of tears opened by the two words of the evangelist: "Jesus wept!" Behold Christ on the only day of his early triumph marching on Jerusalem, the glittering domes obliterated by the blinding rain of tears in his eyes and on his cheek; for when he beheld the city he wept over it. O man of the many trials, O woman of the heart-break, why do you not touch him?—Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, D. D.

The ADVOCATE to single subscribers from this date to Jan. 1, 1894, for 50 cents.

FROM THE WORK.

Continued from First Page.

Rev. W. T. Browning, Lauderdale, Miss., Aug. 19: "We closed on last night a six days' meeting at Bethel—one of the churches of this work. It was a grand victory to the Master's cause. The meeting resulted in the erection of some twelve family altars, some eighteen began to lead in public prayer, about twenty-five conversions, some thirty lukewarm members revived, and nineteen accessions to the church. God's great name be praised; salvation's mighty tide is rolling on. We go to-morrow to begin another meeting. Brethren, pray for us."

Rev. Thos. J. Martin, Ringgold circuit, Aug. 22: "We commenced a meeting at Andrew Chapel on Saturday, Aug. 12, and continued until the eighteenth, with good results. We received a class of nine into the church. Some of them spoke in the experience meeting before they were received into the church; others say they will join at the next appointment. The church was revived as it has not been for years. The people, or some of them, wanted to continue on; but other duties and a sore throat caused us to close. Congregations large and attentive."

Rev. C. H. Pittman, P. C., Corinth circuit, Aug. 24: "We have just closed the most wonderful meeting that has been had on this charge in some time. We began the second Sunday of this month, and closed Tuesday after the third Sunday. Rev. G. H. Hodge, of the Memphis Conference, was with us at first, and preached three days, after which time we were left to do all the preaching. The church was cold, and for several days we had to stem the current, it seemed, alone; but the Lord was with us. The visible results are: twenty-eight professions, twenty-three accessions to our church; every male member, except four or five, praying in public; young men's prayer meeting; Epworth League; family altars established, and old disputes settled. We have assisted Bros. Edge and Buck in meetings this Summer, and in these three meetings have seen between fifty and sixty added to our church. Glory be to God in the highest!"

Rev. R. S. Collier, Shiloh, La., Aug. 22: "I have just closed a fine meeting at Harmony Chapel, one of my appointments. It commenced with our third Quarterly Conference, Saturday, Aug. 12, and continued for nine days. Bro. Sheppard, P. E., was with us three days, but left us quite unwell Tuesday morning. He laid the foundation for the victory of the Lord's host in four strong, practical, pointed sermons. The meeting resulted in the addition of twenty-nine members, the reclamation of many backsliders, and general quickening of membership. Many of the brethren took up the cross of public and family prayers. We expect to build a thousand-dollar church at this place, beginning the work soon. We have over seven hundred dollars subscribed now for that purpose. At the close of the meeting I asked for a club of subscribers to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE on your fifty-cents proposition, and I received promptly twenty names with the accompanying cash, which you will please find enclosed. This is the right kind of endorsement. Pray for the prosperity of our beloved Zion in this part of our Lord's heritage. Rev. J. O. Bennett was with us throughout the meeting to the delight of all, though unable to preach but once, on account of his throat trouble."

Rev. W. W. Morse, Gallman, Miss., Aug. 19: "On the third Sunday in July I began my meeting at Mt. Pleasant, which continued five days, resulting in four accessions and quite a revival in the church, Rev. J. M. Morse doing the preaching. At Gallman we have had a gracious revival all the year. There have been but two or three appointments that did not result in accessions to the church. Assisted by Bro. J. M. Morse, I commenced a meeting here on July 23, continuing seven days. The congregation was large and appreciative at every service. I feel confident that much good will result from the preaching. There were only two accessions during the meeting, but last Sunday, my regular appointment, I received five on profession of faith in Christ, making in all this year, at this place, nineteen. We have also put a good heating stove and a $120 organ in the church. Methodism is no longer in the background at Gallman. To God be the glory! On the fifth Sunday, aided by Bros. F. M. Williams, J. G. Cammack, and Milton Ferrill, we began at Bethesda, one of the oldest and at one time the most prosperous churches in the Conference; but for the last ten or fifteen years "Ichabod" has been written across her threshold. The preacher came "full of the Holy Ghost and faith," so that from the first service to the last on Thursday, the Lord was with us in great power. There was scarcely a member of the large congregation who did not feel the presence and power of God. Nine were added to the church. At Pleasant Ridge, the first week in August, assisted by Rev. W. T. Griffin, we had a most glorious meeting. Here two joined and many were saved. Truly God is good to Zion. To his name be all glory!"

MADISON, MISS.

Our third Quarterly Conference and fourth protracted meeting have been held. Results to date: Nearly half the amount assessed for the support of the ministry raised, with a very small per cent. of the collections ordered by the Annual Conference; thirty-eight accessions to the church—twelve by certificate, the balance on profession of faith; ten adults and one infant have been baptized, and a number have professed conversion. We have had to our assistance Bros. D. C. Rawls, J. M. Weems, T. S. West, W. D. Dominick, G. B. Galloway, and W. W. Morse.

Aug. 23, 1893.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL LESSON.—Sept. 17, 1893.

PREPARED BY REV. A. F. WATKINS.

Personal Responsibility.

(Romans xiv, 12-23.)

GOLDEN TEXT.—"It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth." (Romans xiv, 21.)

TOPICAL OUTLINE.—I. The Principle Stated (vs. 12-18). II. The Application Made (vs. 19-23).

CENTRAL THOUGHT.—Christian Forbearance.

INTRODUCTORY.

The Epistle to the Romans was written by the great apostle at Corinth, probably about A. D. 58—three years before his visit to the Imperial City—and was sent to Rome by the hand of Phœbe, a deaconess of Cenchrea. It is the greatest of Paul's epistles, and the most profound and exhaustive exposition of the doctrines of Christianity—the plan of salvation—that the pen of inspiration has given to the world. Our lesson is taken from that section of the epistle beginning with the twelfth chapter, in which the apostle, in view of the important truths presented in the earlier chapters, urges upon his readers the necessity for practical godliness. The spirit and comprehensiveness of these practical injunctions are worthy of the grand doctrinal scheme which precedes them. Our chapter presents the duty of Christian forbearance, showing that whatever may be the differences of opinion, whatever the varying degrees of weakness or strength, whatever the scruples which one might entertain and another condemn, the supreme principle of consecration to a common Lord, whose we are, whether living or dying, ought to constrain to the exercise of Christian forbearance and brotherly love. Its primary application was to questions and issues that have ceased to vex the church; but the principles enunciated are applicable to the Christian life at all times, and their bearing upon some of the practical questions of our day is very obvious. It is a temperance lesson in the highest and broadest sense, and, at the same time, bears upon the temperance question, using that term in its usual sense as indicating abstinence from the use of alcoholic liquors as a beverage.

EXPLANATORY.

I.—THE PRINCIPLE STATED.

Ver. 12. This verse simply repeats what has been more fully stated in the preceding verse, where it is emphasized by a quotation from the Old Testament, in which the apostle clearly presents the Savior as Jehovah, who spoke by the prophet. The practical lesson of the paragraph is that, in view of the fact that each one of us shall give an account of himself to God, we should abstain from judging our brother.

Ver. 13. The emphasis in the last verse is upon the word "himself;" in this verse it is upon "one another." The word "judge" has not the same meaning in both places in which it is used in this verse; the former has the usual meaning of "condemn;" the latter, the sense of "decision" or "judgment." The word "brother" was not used by Paul because it was customary; for it has become customary only since its use in the Sacred Scriptures. It expresses here all the force that the specially selected word could express. It is intended to convey the idea of intimate relation—the brotherhood—existing between those who hold the common faith in Christ.

Ver. 14. He was profoundly convinced in the light of the knowledge of Jesus Christ, his Lord, that nothing in itself is unclean or defiled. In thus declaring, Paul does not hesitate to place himself among "the strong." His sympathy for his weak brother could never induce him to renounce the liberty wherewith Christ had made him free. The material, the external, has no moral character; it is indifferent morally. There is no evil inherent in matter, and the ceremonial distinction of meats as clean or unclean does not obtain in the kingdom of heaven. But while this is true, if any man esteem a thing to be unclean, to him it is unclean. To violate our conscientious scruples is to sin against God, even though the act itself be innocent.

Ver. 15. This appeal is to the brother "who has faith to eat all things," and shows that another conscience besides his own is involved in his actions, and that the morally indifferent may, under certain circumstances, become wrong even when his own conscience does not condemn. Now walkest thou not in the spirit of love. The eating is not wrong; the wrong is found in the failure to walk charitably. Christ to save him gave up his life; will not you give up your meat? The spirit that would reply, "But he ought not to be so weak, so foolish, and I do not see why my innocent pleasures should be given up because of his morbidly sensitive conscience," has in it the very essence of the sin that the apostle here condemns.

Ver. 16. Let not the excellence of your religious faith—the broadness of your Christian liberty—fall into disrepute by your selfish enjoyment of all your rights and pleasures without regard to the claims and interests of your weaker brethren.

Ver. 17. For the kingdom of heaven is within you, and consists not in outward rites and ceremonies. To eat or to eat not is external and non-essential; the essential part is the internal, the spiritual. How easily, then, may the non-essential be surrendered, since by its surrender my brother is saved, the good name of the church secured and the essential part of my own religious experience—the righteousness, peace and joy—increased.

Ver. 18. The man who in the service of his God exercises this righteousness of heart and life, this peace with God and his fellow-man, and this joy in pure and holy things, is acceptable to God and finds honor and approval from men. A consistent and consecrated life commands the approval of even irreligious men. It is the inconsistent and the insincere man whom the Lord rejects and men despise.

II.—THE APPLICATION MADE.

Ver. 19. This verse begins the practical application of the principles laid down above. Let us, in view of these things, turn away from uncharitable and hurtful judgments of our brethren, and give our time and care to those things that build up and establish Christian character. This edifying may be accomplished by showing that, though you may not agree in all things, there is unmistakable evidence of the possession of the essentials of the kingdom—righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Ghost—and by instruction in righteousness, which will correct the evils of ignorance and remove the weakness of the unenlightened conscience. It is a gracious provision of the divine government that the things by which we edify our brother minister to our own edification.

Ver. 20. The word "destroy" in this verse means rather "overthrow" or "pull down." The reference is to the last verse to which this verse forms an antithesis. We should edify or build up, rather than destroy, or overthrow or pull down one another. For the sake of indulgence in any, even an innocent, pleasure do not imperil that to save which Christ suffered. "All things indeed are pure," just as in verse 14, "nothing is unclean of itself;" but is evil when anyone in eating causes another to stumble. So then in this case it is sin to him whose weak conscience is wounded and sin to him who by example tempts the weak brother to fall.

Ver. 21. The verse contains a noble restatement of the general principle in its application to the case in hand. It is proper and right, it is worthy and good, to neither eat nor drink nor do anything that will be in any wise hurtful to our brother. The application of this principle to the manufacture, sale, or use of intoxicating beverages is very clear, and forms the noblest and most manly plea for total abstinence. Other considerations may be justly advanced, such as the hurtfulness of intemperance to the body, mind, and spirit, its injury to our national, social and individual life, and its hostility to the best interests of the race—considerations that would forever sink the vicious practice far below the level of things indifferent. But the noble principle laid down by the apostle in this verse is sufficient to settle the question for every Christian.

Ver. 22. But hast thou faith, and art thou strong? Hast thou been freed from the scruples that concern these external things, so that now to you there is nothing common nor unclean, and all may without sin be enjoyed? Have this faith to thyself before God, and "do not parade it before thy brother in such a way as to shock his weak prejudices and tempt him to sin." (Hovey.) Happy is the man whose consecrated life is in harmony with the dictates of his enlightened conscience.

Ver. 23. He who allows himself to do those things about which he has doubts, is condemned for wrong-doing; for whatever is done in doubt as to its lawfulness must be unlawful. His own heart condemns him, and God is greater than his heart. "To do what conscience allows is not always right, to do what it questions is always wrong."

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

1. To think more of our own weaknesses and less of those of our neighbors would be very helpful to ourselves and a great saving to our neighbors. (Verse 12.)

2. As defendant before a common tribunal, both brotherly love and self-interest would commend the course of mutual helpfulness. (Verse 13.)

3. The man who obeys his conscience may be sometimes silly, but he is always safe. (Verse 14.)

4. To walk uncharitably is as wicked as to violate the scruples of a weak conscience. (Verse 15.)

5. Esau's mess of pottage was a magnificent reward compared with the paltry pleasure for which some men forfeit heaven and destroy the purchase of Christ's blood. (Verse 16.)

6. Love is better than liberty, and the fair fame of the church than the enjoyment of my rights. (Verse 16.)

7. Character is the essential thing. This truth ought to be a corrective of the exclusiveness that is based upon forms and ceremonies. Forms are useful as means to an end; but to lose sight of the latter in the observance of the former is to spend our life in admiring the staff by which I ought to climb to the mountain's summit. (Verse 17.)

8. An ungodly world respects a godly man. (Verse 18.)

9. We must be builders or destroyers of ourselves and others. Which? (Verses 19, 20.)

10. There is no more deadly influence of the devil than that by which he induces men to deliberately and habitually violate their own convictions of right. (Verse 23.)

Mrs. Sutherland.

I Had Goitre

Or swellings in the neck since I was 10 years old; am now 52. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and the swelling has entirely disappeared. It has been very troublesome. When I began I was feeling so discouraged with the goitre and rheumatism, I would as soon be dead as alive. Whenever I caught cold I could not walk two blocks without fainting. Now I am free from it all and I recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla. I received a letter from Mrs. Jennie Bigelow, now of Fremont, Mich., asking if my testimonial in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla was true; I replied it was, and sent particulars. I have a letter thanking me for recommending and stating that she also has been cured." MRS. ANNA SUTHERLAND, Kalamazoo, Mich.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

HOOD'S PILLS act easily, yet promptly and efficiently on the liver and bowels. 25c.

LOOK!

WILKINSON'S

Matchless Sulphuric Acid and Iron Tonic

WELL WATER.

The Most Wonderful Tonic in America.

BOARD OF HEALTH, STATE OF LOUISIANA, New Orleans, Aug. 9, 1893.

MR. W. W. WILKINSON—

Dear Sir: Below please find the results of analysis of the sample of water marked "Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water," submitted to me for examination, accompanied by the following affidavit:

The State of Alabama—Butler County.

Before me, F. M. Black, a Notary Public in and for said County and State, personally appeared J. F. Bergamer, Sheriff of Butler County, who being duly sworn on oath, saith that he went to the well of Mr. W. W. Wilkinson on this day and seen the Matchless Mineral Water drawn from the well and put in a five-gallon demijohn and labeled to A. L. Metz, M. D., Chemist of Board of Health, No. 63 Carondelet Street, New Orleans, La.

(Signed) J. F. BERGAMER, Sheriff Butler County.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, July 20th, 1893.

(Signed) F. M. BLACK, Notary Public.

Color	Yellowish red and clear
Odor	(when heated to 140° F.) Tarebuthinous
Taste	Very Astringent
Phosphates	Heavy Traces
Chlorine as Chlorides	3 102 grains
Per U. S. gallon of 231 cub. inches
Equivalent to Sodium Chloride	5.083 grains
Sulphuric Acid	735.108
Iron (Ferric) Oxide	334.480
Iron (Ferrous) Oxide	101.920
Aluminum Oxide	7.681
Calcium Oxide (Lime)	30 476
Magnesia	26.872
Potash	2.322
Soda	6 045
Silica	6.049

These constituents are probably combined as follows:

Grains per U. S. gallon of 231 cub. inches
Iron (Ferric) Sulphate	836.200
Iron (Ferrous) Sulphate	213.775
Aluminum and Potassic Sulphate (Alum)	29.900
Calcium (Lime) Sulphate	74.013
Magnesium Sulphate	80 616
Sodium Sulphate	7.725
Sodium Phosphate	Heavy Traces
Sodium Chloride	5 083
Silica	6.049

The residue, after evaporation, crystallized, and the total weight, including water of crystallization, at 212° F., was 1 564 grains per gallon.

A. L. METZ, M. D., Chemist of the Board of Health of the State of Louisiana and of the City of New Orleans.

Cures Dyspepsia in its worst form, Chronic Diarrhœa, Diabetes, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Sores, Bilious Colic, Tetter, Ring Worm, Chronic Sores, Ulceration of the Womb, Throat, Catarrh, Debility. Best Natural Tonic in the World.

As a Tonic and Alterative.—A teaspoonful to a tablespoonful in one-half glass of water three times a day, directly after eating; but if stomach is soured, take before eating.

As a Cathartic.—Three to five tablespoonsful in same amount of water.

For External Application.—Use as a wash without diluting (warm if possible).

For Injection.—If water is too strong, slightly dilute and use twice a day.

For Cholera Morbus and Cramp Colic.—Two tablespoonsful every hour or two until relieved (in a little water).

Will keep full strength for any length of time in any climate. Never dilute except as used.

1. W. D. Rogers says: "Your Mineral Water has cured me of dyspepsia, and my wife of womb disease, when all else failed."

2. John H. McCullough says: "This water cured me of dyspepsia after suffering four years and trying medicine, doctors, etc."

3. W. D. Newman says: "I was afflicted for twelve years with goiter. Matchless Mineral Water cured me when all doctors and treatment failed."

4. Rev. Chas. R. Lamar was cured of dyspepsia of more than two years' standing by use of two gallons of Matchless Mineral Water.

5. J. H. Gilbert says: "Matchless Mineral Water is, beyond doubt, the best remedy known to me for sore eyes."

6. Jesse B. Basser says: "I have suffered long from chronic ulcerated sore leg. Offered $100 to doctors to cure. This water cured me."

7. Rev. J. M. Whitehead: "It cures every species of indigestion; can eat anything I want, and a good appetizer."

8. James J. Ingle says: "I have suffered five years with kidneys and liver. Have used one bottle. Most wonderful medicine I ever used."

9. J. G. Lightfoot says: "My son down five years. General debility and impure blood. Doctors failed. Two bottles Mineral Water cured him."

10. John Brannan says: "I was down three years with bilious colic. Spent $150 for medical treatment; grew worse; one and a half gallons. This water cured me."

11. Martin Eady says: "My eye was about out from gun cap in it. The two bottles of Mineral Water made a complete cure of my eyes."

12. George Green says: "I have been suffering fifteen or twenty years with chronic diarrhœa. The Matchless Mineral Water cured me."

13. W. J. Gardner says: "For seven or eight years I was victim of nervous dyspepsia and all its horrors. One quart Mineral Water cured me. Spent thousands of dollars for medical treatment. Would not go back for $10,000."

14. J. B. Brown says: "My only child, three years old, sick two years. Spent much for medical treatment. Child given up to die. Mineral Water cured him. I would not take $1,000 for benefits of that bottle of Mineral Water."

15. Mr. J. A. Davis, Bonham, Texas, says: "My horse was as sick with colic as any horse I ever saw. One pint of water cured him in five minutes."

Price: Per bottle, 25c, 50c, and $1.

Address

C. M. FUSH,

106 Camp Street,

NEW ORLEANS, - - - LA.

Send stamp for circular.

READ THIS.

Board and Lodging by Day, Week or Month.

Regular meals, 25 cents. Lodging, 25 to 50 cents.

I endeavor to make my place home-like and comfortable. Give me a call.

MRS. BRAKEL,

No. 535 Chartres St., near Northeastern Depot.

ANGELL'S

HOMŒOPATHIC PHARMACY,

153 and 155 JULIA ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Richard Angell, M. D., Proprietor.

DEALER IN

Homœopathic Medicines, Book and All Other Articles used in Homœopathic Practice.

Try Angell's Celebrated Whooping Cough Syrup.

North Mississippi Conference Colportage and Sunday-School Agency

KOSCIUSKO, MISS.

Any Good Book Furnished at Publisher's Prices.

A specialty is made of the Books, Periodicals and Sunday-school Supplies of our church, which are furnished at Publishing House prices exactly.

Bibles and Testaments, All Styles and Sizes, Are a Particular Feature of the Work.

Our House requests that all the business of this Conference be transacted through this office.

All orders for books or papers promptly filled, and all pertinent questions concerning good literature and our Sunday-school interests will be readily answered.

G. W. BACHMAN,

Colporter and Sunday-school Agent.

WALL PAPER.

The Spring patterns of Wall Paper are handsomer than ever before, and we are able to offer them to you at prices which are within the reach of all. We believe that anyone buying cheap paper will do better to invest 10, 12½ or 15 cents and buy a gilt paper or a fine blank for the small difference than to invest 5 cents in a cheap blank; but if you want the 5-cents paper, we have it and will be glad to sell it.

MATTINGS,

In novel and dainty designs, which can not be had elsewhere, as we control our own private patterns. Prices from $5 per roll of 40 yards, and up

LACE CURTAINS,

Rugs, Screens, Easels, Oil Cloth, Window Shades and Upholstering Goods.

ESTIMATES

Given for papering in the country under the direction of our foreman and with our own experienced corps of men.

Heath, Schwartz & Co., Lim.,

116 Camp Street, New Orleans.

$21 PAID WEEKLY

To active, faithful men and women, boys and girls, working for us taking orders for THE ILLUSTRATED WORLD'S FAIR, edited by John McGovern, the Prince of the Literary West. 25c. a month, or $2.50 a year. Entire Series, from July, 1891, to January, 1894, 30 monthly issues, only $6.00. Sells at sight. Most beautiful, interesting and popular, and the only publication receiving official recognition. THE ORGAN OF THE FAIR. Chicago Inter Ocean says: "It is a handsomely prepared and valuable publication, to which many celebrities are contributors." Send 15c. (stamps) for full particulars and sample copy containing fifty large rich engravings of the PRINCIPAL ATTRACTIONS of the World's Fair. Address.

THE NATIONAL BOOK CONCERN,

124 VAN BUREN ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

DO YOU

Want a teacher for a Summer school? A bookkeeper for a few months while your regular man takes in the World's Fair? A fine young man for any kind of honorable work? If you do, write to DR. W. B. MURRAH, President, or J. W. CHAMBERS, Agent, of Millsaps College, and they will supply the man.

WANTED.

An A. M. graduate, having twenty years' successful experience in managing large institutions of learning, wants to lease desirable school or college property. Parties interested please address

"COLLEGE PRESIDENT,"

Care of ADVOCATE.

Advertising in England, European Continent, Etc.

SELL'S

ADVERTISING AGENCY, Limited.

Capital, $250,000. Henry Sell, Manager (editor and founder of "Sell's World's Press").

Full particulars regarding British or European Advertising, sample papers, rates, etc., at the London Office, 167-168 Fleet street, or at New York Office, 21 Park Row, Ground Floor.

Kursheedt's Marble Works

120 and 122 Camp St., New Orleans

$525 Agent's profits per month. Will prove it or pay forfeit. New Articles just out. A $1.50 sample and terms free. Try us. Chidester & Son, 2 Bond St., New York City.

When answering advertisements please mention the Advocate

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

GREAT FAST MAIL ROUTE.

Four Daily Trains between NEW ORLEANS and CHICAGO.

The Only Line running Pullman Buffet Sleepers and Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes.

FREE RECLINING CHAIR CARS TO CHICAGO.

St. Louis Without Change.

The Only Line running a Double Daily Train Service to

ST. LOUIS.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York

The great Steel Bridge, spanning the Ohio River at Cairo, completed, and all trains (freight and passenger) now running regularly over it, thus avoiding the delays and annoyances incident to transfer by ferry boat.

TICKET OFFICE: Corner St. Charles and Common Streets.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.

A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

Speed and Comfort Combined When Traveling

VIA THE

T. AND P.

THE SHORT LINE TO

NEW ORLEANS, MEMPHIS,

AND POINTS IN THE

SOUTHEAST

THE DIRECT LINE TO

North and West Texas, Arizona, Old and New Mexico, Oregon, Colorado and California.

THE FASTEST TIME TO

Hot Springs, Little Rock and St. Louis

PULLMAN'S FINEST BUFFET SLEEPING CARS

On all Through Trains between

NEW ORLEANS AND DENVER,
NEW ORLEANS AND ST. LOUIS,
NEW ORLEANS and SAN FRANCISCO,
NEW ORLEANS, FT. WORTH and DALLAS.

Lowest ticket rates, time tables, and all desired information will be furnished by any of the ticket agents of the Texas & Pacific R'y or W. A. DASHIELL, Trav. Pass. Agent.
GASTON MESLIER, Gen'l Pass. and T'kt Agt.
L. S. THORNE, Third Vice President and General Superintendent, Dallas, Texas.

Yazoo and Mississippi Valley RAILROAD COMPANY.

All trains arrive and depart from new Passenger Station, cor. Howard Ave. and Rampart St.

	Leaves.	Arrives
Kansas City and Memphis Fast Train	5:00 p. m	8:35 a. m
Vicksburg & Natchez Ex.	7:55 a. m	5:25 p. m
Bat. Rouge "Coast Train."	3:40 p. m	10:00 a. m

The Only Line running Solid Trains between New Orleans, Memphis and Vicksburg, with Modern Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars through to Memphis and Kansas City.

The direct and favorite route to Kansas City, Denver, and All Points West.

The short line to Hot Springs and points in Arkansas and North Louisiana.

Commutation Tickets, Mileage Books, Party Rates and Week End Excursions.

Summer Excursion Tickets on Sale in season.

Ticket Office: St. Charles St., cor. Common.

JAMES DINKINS, Div. Pass. Agt.
J. W. COLEMAN, A. G. P. A.
A. H. HANSON G. P. A.

CLARK & MEADER,

16 and 18 CARONDELET ST.

BRANCH STORE:

Cor. ST. CHARLES and NAPOLEON Avenues,

NEW ORLEANS.

Stuffed Olives in Oil; Boneless Anchovies in Oil; Boneless Anchovies in Salt; French Crescent Olives; Mammoth Queen Olives; Cepes au Naturel; Mushroom Powder; Bijon Cans of Aluettes; Thon a builie; Pure of Fois Gras; Sausisses Truffe; Pure of Sardines; Truffled Sardines; New Maple Syrup in Quart bottles, ½ Gallon and ¼ Gallon Cans; Maple Sugar in 1-pound cakes; Franco-American Game Pates, such as Wild Duck, Grouse, Partridge, Pheasant, Chicken, Chicken Liver, Woodcock; Entrees—Chicken Curry a la Indienne, Chicken Saute a la Mareugo; Calves' Tongues with Tomato Sauce; Veal and Green Peas; Calves' Tongue, sance Piquant; Braised Beef a la Jardeniere; Ross' Bellast Ginger Ale, Sarsaparilla, Club Soda, and Raspberry Vinegar; Potoma's Roe Herring; Clysmic Water; Smoked Beef; Small Whole Boneless Cooked Hams in cans; Whole Boiled Beef Tongues in cans; Wheatena; Petitjohn's California Breakfast Food; Schumacher's Rolled Wheat and Avena; Cerealine Flakes; Mott's Pure Sparkling Sweet and Crab Apple Cider; Large Smoked Beef Tongue.

J. C. MORRIS CO., Limited.

40, 42 and 44 Tchoupitoulas Street.

E. F. DYER, Pres. E. P. MACKIE, Treas.

WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

Refrigerators, Freezers, Water Coolers, Fishing Tackle, Seines, Oars, Hammocks, Croquet, Baseballs, Baskets, Brooms, Brushes, Fruit Jars, Bottles, Flasks, Demijohns, Rope, Twine, Axle Grease, Wrapping Paper, Bags, Stationery, Cheese Safes, Cages, Scales, Tacks, Chimneys, Lamps, Tinware, Blacking, Woodenware, Cutlery, Clocks, etc.

W. W. CARRE.

LUMBER MERCHANT

AND MANUFACTURER OF

PLANTATION CABINS, STORES, Etc.

Nos. 342, 344, 346 and 348 Howard Ave.,

NEW BASIN. NEW ORLEANS

GUARANTEED CURE

OR NO PAY.

Nothing Fairer Than This.

When we say cure, we do not mean simply to stop it for the time being, but a

PERMANENT AND POSITIVE CURE

For Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Impure Blood, and all diseases arising from a disordered Liver. Write for Treatise, Testimonials, and Free Sample Bottle of

DR. ROC'S LIVER, RHEUMATIC and NEURALGIA CURE to

CULLEN & NEWMAN,

182 GAY ST., Knoxville, Tenn.

POSITIONS GUARANTEED Guarantee in Writing. Send for free catalogue of DRAUGHON'S Consolidated Practical Business College, Nashville, Tenn. Cheap Board. No vacation. MENTION THIS PAPER.

Shorthand in Vest Pocket.

DR. LAFFERTY, the Stenographer to the Virginia Senate, has given the CONGRESSIONAL SYSTEM OF SHORTHAND in a series of simple, witty, chatty talks, each illustrated. You learn it while you laugh. 65 pages. Price 50 cents. Address him, Richmond, Va.

TO MINISTERS.

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN YOUR CHOIR

to the extent of desiring to have each Sunday, new and bright ANTHEMS, thoroughly devotional in character?

If You Are

and will take the time to send us the name and address of your Choir leader, or better still, of all your choir singers, we shall take pleasure in sending you and them something that will satisfactorily solve the question of how to obtain new and good music at an exceedingly moderate outlay. If you cannot attend to the matter personally, please ask some one in your congregation who can.

ADDRESS

THE JOHN CHURCH CO.,

S. E. Cor. 4th and Elm Sts., Cincinnati, O.

$150 AMERICAN WATCH

$1.50 will now buy a reliable AMERICAN WATCH in strong GOLD PLATED Dust Proof Case. Will not vary a minute in 30 days; is as durable as any watch made. FULLY GUARANTEED. (Publishers of this paper will tell you we are reliable.) Has AMERICAN patent lever MOVEMENT, Patent Escapement and Regulator, Lantern Pinions, 240 beats to minute. No key required to wind and set; weighs 4 oz.; exactly like cut. Post-paid for $1.50, 3 for $4.00, 12 for $15.00, by express. Mention paper and we will include handsome gold plated CHAIN & CHARM. AGENTS wanted—keepers send for TERMS. Catalogue of Watches, FREE.

ROBERT H. INGERSOLL & BRO.

Room 2, 65 Cortlandt St., New York City.

AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY. Location, in the healthful Shenandoah Valley, near Staunton, Virginia. English, Classical and Business courses with Military Training. For catalogue apply to Chas. S. Roller, Prin., Fort Defiance, Va.

B. & S. BUSINESS COLLEGE, LOUISVILLE, KY. Superior advantages. Send postal for circulars.

A NEW UNIQUE and VALUABLE Historical Chart of Christianity from the Apostolic Period through the Reformation has been prepared by REV. M. LOUCKS, of Dayton, Ohio. For particulars address him and receive circulars free.

REV. M. LOUCKS, D. D. Dayton, O.

THE GREAT CHURCH LIGHT REFLECTORS FOR OIL, GAS OR ELECTRIC LIGHT

I. P. FRINK, 551 PEARL ST. N.Y.

CHURCH SCHOOL FURNITURE Before purchasing any PEWS, PULPITS or any other Furniture, write Wm. H. Morrow, No. 8 Noel Bl'k, Nashville, Tenn., for Catalogue.

WHY PAY DEALER'S PROFIT?

$2.75 buys a $9 White Reed Baby Carriage, freight prepaid, shipped on 10 days' trial. Latest design and style. Perfect, reliable and finely finished. Nothing but the best material used and warranted for 3 YEARS. We have been in the manufacturing business many years, and are reliable and responsible; make and sell nothing but what we can guarantee as represented, quote lowest factory prices. Write to-day for our large free catalogue, which is one of the most complete ever published.

OXFORD MFG. CO., 340 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WE WANT AT ONCE

RELIABLE MEN every where (local or traveling) to advertise and keep our Show Cards tacked up in towns on trees and fences along public roads. Steady work in your own county. $70 A MONTH SALARY AND $3 A DAY EXPENSES ADVANCED every 15 days when started. FRANCO-GERMAN ELECTRIC CO., CINCINNATI, O.

SKIN DISEASES Tetter, Eczema, Chapped Hands, Burns, Piles, Chilblains and all skin troubles cured by GREVE'S OINTMENT. 50c. Druggists. Hiscox & Co., N.Y.

ARE YOU CONSUMPTIVE

Use PARKER'S GINGER TONIC without delay. A rare medicinal compound that cures when all else fails. Has cured the worst cases of Cough, Weak Lungs, Asthma, Indigestion, Inward Pains, Exhaustion. Invaluable for Rheumatism, Female Weakness, and all pains and disorders of the stomach and bowels. 50c. & $1 at Druggists.

HINDERCORNS. The only sure cure for Corns. Stops all pain. 15c. at Druggists. Hiscox & Co., N.Y.

C MONEY. $20 for 1; $50 for 2; $100 for 3; $200 for 5; $500 for 10; $1,200 for $20. Address P. O. Box D, Huntington, W. Va.

THE LARGEST ESTABLISHMENT MANUFACTURING CHURCH BELLS CHIMES & PEALS In the World. PUREST BELL METAL (COPPER AND TIN.) Send for Price and Catalogue. McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY, BALTIMORE, MD.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO., Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S. A.

BELLS Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. Send for Catalogue. C. S. BELL & CO., Hillsboro, O.

Christian Advocate.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased Preachers, $1

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

All correspondence with the ADVOCATE, literary or business, and all money due or to become due should be addressed to Rev. J. M. Beard, CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans, La.

Capt. G. A. R. Lawrence is an accredited agent of the ADVOCATE in the city and country, and he is authorized to take subscribers, contract for advertisements, and receipt for money due on subscription or otherwise.

Rev. J. M. BEARD, D. D., Editor and Publisher.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. J. M. BEARD, D. D.
REV. S. S. KRENER.
REV. J. B. A. AHRENS, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. J. W. CHAMBERS.
REV. W. B. LEWIS.
REV. R. J. JONES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER.

Thursday, September 14, 1893.

Persons can not be soldiers of the cross if they have not followed Christ in the crucifixion, and they can not be toilers in his vineyard if they are yet idlers in the world's marketplace. If there is any worldly conceit left in a man, there is abundant room for the display of moral cowardice, and when the battle opens in good earnest such a raw recruit can always be tempted to withdraw to less exciting scenes; and if, as regards pay and rewards, a man is still on the pay-roll of the God of this world, he can not be expected to "seek first the kingdom of heaven" to any great extent, or to devote more than minutes to the great concerns of eternity.

The Roman Catholic Congress, which opened with a hurrah for Monseigneur Satolli, a few days ago, closed with enthusiastic resolutions commendatory of him and the other Pope on Sept. 9. It was a great triumph for the pontifical delegate and the conservative party of Romanism in this country. The resolutions, regarding education, labor, immoral literature, the saloon evil, and secularization of the Sabbath, in the nature of a church platform, were as neatly worded as if they had been framed by one of the great political parties. The Pope's encyclicals were endorsed, and the Lords and Home Rule bountifully hissed, and all Americans and Christians invited to co-operate with the church in her unselfish and magnanimous labors for the reformation of our national laws and customs, and the establishment of our national liberties. America is a great country; but she could not survive a century of the hierarchy any more than could Spain, Italy, Austria, France, Ireland, or Mexico and South America. Rome's aggression and the country's progression are two subjects that are in no wise related.

That which makes Christian work difficult is that it is unlike other work, and its tasks a great deal more in the nature of exercise or recreation, than manual labor; and that which makes Christian conflict to be exceedingly awkward to the raw recruit is that the fighting, albeit "hand to hand," and "no quarter," is in such utter contrast with modes that are seen, as to seem beating the air, or charging windmills; and that the motive that prompts to it is not hate or resentment, but love. The former as spiritual toil, is higher than intellectual, as intellectual than physical, and has infinitely fewer limitations; a man may win an empire by getting on his knees, or by putting his hand in his pocket, or he may save souls with a word or a look, or give life to despairing ones with a cup of cold water, and all this tends to throw him off his guard, and to induce him to put his trust more in ends than means; and the latter as spiritual conflict and involving wrestlings with Christ, more than with "dominions and principalities," confuses him to such an extent that he is often very much "perplexed" when not actually "in despair," and in view of the fact that the terms "victory" and "defeat" are transposed in the spiritual vocabulary which he begins to acquire, often "cast down" only when esteeming himself "destroyed." What the Christian needs to give him skill and adaptiveness in both, is a simple heart, and a faith as mighty as the words of him who enjoined it.

The Old Preacher.

The collection for superannuated preachers, and the widows and orphans of preachers, should be held sacred among the Methodists. Methodist preachers with their vow of poverty are objects of charity, not only while they are in the world, but long after they have gone out of it. The ministers of other leading denominations who labor for stipulated salaries that cover all exposes, and allow a margin for the savings bank, are on quite a different basis, being paid to pay their own way and that of their families to independence. But Methodists, on the other hand, are itinerants from the word "Go," if we may be allowed a weak pun, and take with them neither scrip nor purse, nor even so much as a contract for salary. A living is a very indefinite phrase, and often in practice stands for a very indefinite quantity.

How many preachers of our acquaintance get a living, a decent living, we mean; and how many are actually forbidden the luxury of self-denial by the tyrannical exactors whom they serve more in the role of bond servant, than that of temporal equal and brother beloved? We have known a few Methodist preachers who saved money, but they served liberal churches, and were both good collectors and strict economists, and in the comparison were as units to thousands. The church knows her duty in this respect so well that she will not tolerate a money-loving preacher, and does not suffer her own riches or poverty to interfere with her purpose of applying Spartan discipline to the Peter or the Apollos, who has forgotten that he is in the Pauline succession. Indeed, the richer the church, the more resolute her policy, seemingly, of applying starvation, if not crucifixion pains, to the poor wretch who ministers to it in spiritual things, and who to be consistent, ought to live on air. A poor miserling preacher who manages to subsist on short grazing, and is a beggar in the bargain—and we are sorry that there are a few such in the noblest brotherhood that the world contains—will overcome such resistance as a "hard-times" congregation, and amass a bank account; but we repeat that they are not in the poll assessment, and do very little to swell the census. The majority hunger and thirst, and are paupers in deed, as well as in creed. Yet they represent the best families in the land; are educated men with refined sensibilities; and, like most poor and honest people, are burdened with large families. In very rare instances do they complain of poverty, and in most cases seem quite content if they can have grace to bear it. Hard work they expect, poor pay they do not despise, like the apostle, they have "learned in every state to be therewith content;" and what more natural than for the people who have ridden them as gentle hacks during all the days of their prime, to turn them out on the great American common in old age, to eke out a short subsistence by industrious nibbling?

No occupation has the superannuated saint, now that he has laid his silver trumpet aside, but never had he greater need for one. No fortune has he, for for a quarter or a half-century he has gone his itinerant rounds with as much regularity, and as little surplusage, as the stars completing their firmamental courses; but the rainy day has come, and it is a long one, and there is no break in the shower or lifting of the incessant cloud. Now that he is old, there should be comfort for his feebleness, sometime luxuries for his table, and those many supports in sickness and decrepitude, which only money will buy. He can not preach now, it is true; but he should not be forbidden to live. His life estate of poverty should not be permitted to lapse into famine, because he was too honest to prostitute his calling, when opportunities were many, to selfish gains, and too self-denying to have coveted any man's silver or gold. His children now are ready for school; but what educational privileges can they hope for from the palsied arm, and the body that has grown so feeble in ministering, that it now requires to be "ministered unto?" He gets enough money from the parsimonious Zion he has served into old age, to buy his medicines and pay his funeral expenses, perhaps; but beyond that he can not hope, and the martyrdom, which he courted in his young days, has come to him as to the chief apostle in old age, and with another than the Lord Jesus to bind and lead him. And when he is no more, what asylum does the church rear for his widow, the sharer of all his itinerant toils and pains, and his children, who are as truly sons and daughters of the church, as the offspring of any family born in wedlock, of their parents? How tenderly will she fulfill her Lord's purpose and promise to be a husband to that widow, and a father to those orphans?

But we must close this hurried sketch which looks and reads so much like fiction, but which is so undeniably stern fact and mournful history to us. Let us multiply our gifts by 10 or 100, and allow a little pleasant food and raiment and a thornless bed, to the old age of him who is as truly our spiritual ancestor, as Christ was Paul's, or Abraham the twelve sons of Jacob.

School Days

Are epochal to the youth of our land as none others "under the sun." It is both the character-forming and mind-informing age. Passion and intellect are in the arena together, and seeking to exchange their winged feet for winged bodies. The springtide, with inviting warmth, calls to both to come forth into a brighter day and a more fervid season, where the green of leaf and branch turns to crimson, and the prophecy of bud and blossom are fulfilled in fruit and flower. When the bud is near to bursting nature's processes go on with lightning-like rapidity, and when the fruit has begun to change color it will ripen almost in a day.

There are worlds to be conquered between sixteen and twenty-one that can not be made the subject of seizin at any other period. One of these is the world of self, and another the world of self-discipline. The animal must be subdued, and bridled or caged, in this pasture land of the coming life estate, or it will ever after possess the ascendency, and dominate will and intellect instead of serving them in obedience to the divine purpose. Habits will now be formed, some of the least of which would alone make or mar the most splendid promise of young manhood or womanhood; and associations, whose influences will strike through the soul like rays of sun through a transparent sphere, to make all future life warm, or chill, or lukewarm and stagnant. A man is known quite as much by the company he has kept, as by the company he keeps, and every man's filthiness of the flesh and spirit began somewhere in the remote past. Self-command, however you may be disposed to construe it, is equivalent to world-command. Conviviality, or at least what is called by that name, is the basest coin, and has wrecked myriads upon the threshold of a great career. Fellowship is a divine-human quantity, not to be despised; but the excess of the virtue, like any other, makes unripeness and decay. Choosing habits for life and companions for life is the most sublime destiny. To have gentle and loving companionships is wise, but let not the ingenious youth forget that he is in himself a world complete. Discipline, like that of John the Baptist and Jesus the Christ, will sometimes carry a man far above the crowd, and convert his own thoughts and emotions into a quiet heaven where he may roam at will, and, like the latter's disciple of Tarsus, be content.

In the military school of St. Cyr, near to Paris, a quiet youth of reserved manners and very awkward deportment, vegetated through barracks, and dress parade, and math. drill into such splendid self-command, that he was wont to say that it was the highest luxury of earthly being to obey the dictates of an educated will. What wonder that this man should have risen to great estate, so that he levelled proud sovereignties with a blow of his steel, and on a great eminence of world empire could send a messenger to Rome, to bring the poor Pope to witness the infidel comedy of his self-coronation!

But while these employed self-restraint in one department of their beings to ensure success, they employed self-cultivation in another. It is peculiarly in this field that the intellect is exercised both in the qualities of fluency and capacity. Now is enthusiasm, flexibility, impressibility, and sublime memory at their best, and he who does not put them to the touch, is mean and covetous, and wraps immortality in a napkin for burial. Now is the time when a foundation is laid, and if it is not laid deep and strong, it can not support massiveness and grandeur. He who rears a superstructure can not be constantly returning to its supports, and for the building that is both top-heavy and erected on a sandy foundation there can be only the one result of catastrophe.

The advantages of a young man or woman of this generation at a good school, where Christian ethics go hand in hand with Christian science and literature, over the boyhood and girlhood of any other age of the world is almost incredible, and they who do not make the most of it can not figure in the heroics of the great coming age, when every farmer's son will be a Christian scientist, and every merchant's daughter an accomplished Hebraist, and expert in idioms of the dead past.

A Rejoinder.

The editor of the Pacific Methodist, objecting to our late sentiment, that etymology and literary merit have no affinity for each other, quotes our own excellence in both departments as the sufficient refutation of such a dogma. We can and do return the compliment, but must have stronger proof of the correctness of his proposition before admitting the fallacy of our own. He quotes some other names which, in the present agitated state of the controversial arena, we prefer not to discuss with him. But not to introduce startling comparisons, perhaps he will admit that among the great men of another era we have St. Paul and Juvenal on our side, and near our own time, Lord Bacon, the author of Ossian's poems, and the late Bishop Bascom. One who was privileged to hear the latter in the role of an art essayist at the closing of a young ladies' seminary, said that he was forcibly reminded of a bull frog masquerading in a toad's silk tights. His sentences, we learn from his sermons, were long, thick, angular and triangular, and knew not grammar, anymore than his descendants did Joseph's Pharoah. Emerson, Thoreau, and the New England coterie were transcendalists in this realm as others, and Kirkham, the father of that muddy science called English Grammar, barely wrote so as to be understood. Dr. Johnson's style, author of the first English dictionary, was not pedantic, to say the least, and so powerful was the influence of Victor Hugo and a few of his contemporaries, that the whole French school are now said to avoid pedagogy as though it were some kind of litary cholera. Not German, but Germans were so idiomatic and purely original in the construction of verbs, adverbs, etc., and so contemptuous of mere phrasing in dialect composition, that for many centuries Germany was the dark continent of literature, and it was only in the beginning of the present century, and when with that fine scent for the mythical and the misty, for which he was greatly distinguished, that that most German of all our English writers, Thomas Carlyle, opened the door and entered himself the great empire of grotesqueness and shadowy metaphor, where Goethe, Schiller, Heine and other inhabitants of this wonderland were wont to hide themselves, that German literature had acquaintances enough on English soil to get itself introduced at court. The Englishman had first to master German, then the German, though afterward he was abundantly repaid for his labor.

"The Origin of Methodist Bishops."

Church Bells, a paper published in New Orleans and other cities, in the interest of local parish work, quotes Mr. Wesley as saying to Bishop Asbury, "How can you, how dare you suffer yourself to be elected a Bishop?" He said no such thing, but "How dare you suffer yourself to be called a Bishop?" This to the man, too, whom he had appointed to be General Superintendent of the Societies in America, and who was as illustrious in the trans-Atlantic field as Mr. Wesley himself in the British. The writer of the little snoblet, from which we make this quotation, sneers at Bishop Asbury as a layman made Bishop by Dr. Coke, and yet this layman Bishop has done more for the evangelization of the great continent, whose least distinction is that it can grow such historians as the Church Bells man, than all the Bishops who have flourished on the same soil in a not unrenowned succession, from Seabury to Sessums.

Again he says, "In the matter of the ministry, the Methodists have the form without the power." This sounds a little strange as coming from an ecclesiasticism that may not be gilded, but which as certainly recruits its pulpit and its pew from the Methodist ranks as the clouds derive their abundance from the atmospheres, and which in this country, at least, and we believe in most others, follows wealth and aristocracy, as perseveringly as the shark the out-bound steamer. By pluralizing the word "form" and eliminating the word "power" from the sentence altogether, we have, as everybody knows, but the author of this article, a fair description of that great ecclesiasticism, in the interest of which he writes, and which, sans rubric and ritual, is without form and void. Where are the missions or even the churches among the poor, of "the Church?" In penning this interrogation we are forcibly reminded of the grim sentiment of Gen. Buford, of Blue Grass, when much importuned to enter the Establishment as something enjoying the sanction of both age and succession, "What is the use of a pedigree if the horse can't trot."

The Felicity Street Church will launch a new mission, this week, in a quarter of the city where there are no Protestants, or the old French town. In that dense settlement, perhaps, there are an hundred thousand people to whom the Bible is a closed book. Let this forlorn hope be sustained.

NOTES.

Bro. Bonnds seems to be on top at the present writing.

***

Faith is a great voyager, and, most of all, demands sea room.

***

Many, not content with robbing God, rob his poor servants.

***

In both nature and grace the little things are the great things.

***

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead
Who never to himself hath said,
This is my own, my native land!"

***

There are two sides to every question, thing, and person, and sometimes three.

***

Sanctification is not the whole of truth, but it is the whole essence of truth.

***

The melancholy days are come with but little green in the landscapes and less in the till.

***

The man who reasons on a low plane, must of necessity condnct his arguments in a circle.

***

A Christianity without God or Christ in it, is a little better then Chinese idol or African fetich.

***

Hard times make soft hearts and are, it is said, uniformly seasons of great religious awakening.

***

What makes hard times harder, is want of faith in God and man. Be not faithless, but believing.

***

To the great body of truth sanctification is as a flower blooming under a hedge, or it is as a pearl shining in dark unfathomed caves of ocean.

***

The firing of one shot from the Krupp gun on exhibition at Chicago costs as much as the support of two missionaries—man and wife—in Japan, for a whole year.

***

The Texas Christian Advocate is one of our liveliest contemporaries; but how she does brag on herself, and what a spread she ought to make with five rich Conferences and a Lone Star, all to her lone self!

***

There is such a thing as a writer passing his prime, and becoming as insipid as an overripe persimmon. Then he falls without the intervention of a pole, and spreads himself to make up for loss of juice and flavor.

***

The Lord of the harvest sometimes employs boll worm, caterpillar, drought, and strange providences, which depreciate stocks and currency and paralyze trade, to collect the back salaries of those who have reaped down fields without pay.

***

Such revivals as are sweeping over the ADVOCATE territory! We have revival notes enough to fill the paper. Don't write us a long letter, but just give statistics, and that will both add to our rejoicing and to your neighbor's opportunity of being heard.

***

There are some people who imagine they are overshadowed, when another makes a profession of what they are pleased to term sanctity, and resent it accordingly. Pity they are not as unsuspecting, as they seem to have persuaded themselves that they are unpretending.

***

Transcendalists in moral science, if converted, would be sanctificationists in Christian science. They are people who are thorough-going in belief as in profession; who push inductions to sequences, and who would not be satisfied with half a loaf, with a feast or heaven in sight.

***

Nineteen thousand microbes of diphtheria, scarlet fever, and tuberculosis have been found in a single bank note. And yet there are people who will embrace this much of death to get hold of a greenback dollar. But the discoverer; what has become of him? Can we not get up an American exhibition in his honor.

***

Dispatches, last week, reported that millions of dollars had been shipped from New York to the South for the purpose of moving the cotton; also that the circulation of money in New York abundantly meets the needs of trade and commerce. Many banks in the South which had suspended are resuming business, and there is much to restore confidence, in the financial outlook.

***

A red cross is the significant mark with which Dr. Morton indicates churches helped on his church extension map. That is mournful history and joyful prophecy blended in one, and signifies greater help than is represented by mere human bounty. Let this badge crimson every waste of our Southland, and, while we put down one on domestic soil, let us carry two to dot the great Saharas of heathendom.

PERSONAL AND OTHERWISE.

The ADVOCATE needs money; pay

...call from Rev. F. S. Parker, of ...w Iberia, brightened our sanctum ...day last week.

...ake the Church Extension Society ...r banker, and expect large divi... ...here and hereafter.

...hen we wrote a paragraph com... ...ding the Alexandria State Fair, it ...s in total ignorance of the horse... ...ng feature, which quite alters the ...

...v. S. H. Whatley writes from ...rmont that he is having a good ...ting. Ten children had been bap... ...nd two persons received into the ...rch.

...y person who will help to pay the ...l of the worthy and talented son ... poor Methodist preacher at Cen... ...y College, is requested to com... ...icate with the editor of the ADVO...

...ais and Monroe counties have re... ...ed themselves from the curse of ...liquor traffic. Now, let them sleep ...eir arms, when they sleep at all. ...rnal vigilance is the price of ...ty."

...v. J. L. P. Sheppard, P. E., of the ...ffa district, says, in a private ... to the editor: "Am having ...d times on the district; finances im... ...ing some. Hope to come up in ...nd all right."

...v. H. H. Ahrens has returned from ...icago and the great Fair, which he ...d to be veritable wonderland. His ...ort was so graphic and satisfactory ...any ways, that we feel half recon... ...d to styling away.

...e have received the Woman's Mis... Advocate, for September, with ... of stirring missionary narrative ...nnection with our women's work. ...excellent and cheap publication. ...scription, 50 cents.

...metimes we receive three or four ...rts of the same camp or revival ...ting from different persons, and ...o case can we publish more than ... the first having the preference, ...ther things being equal.

...e regret to see that the Rocky ...ain Methodist—Rev. George ...dham, editor and proprietor—will ...discontinued some time during the ...ent month. Bro. Needham is a ... of good mental equipment and ...d force of character, and the failure ...such a man in such a business even ... time of financial crisis is a notable ...t.

...e ADVOCATE returns thanks to ... George H. Lipscomb for a copy ...the Annual Minutes of the Woman's ...ionary Society of the North Mis... ...pi Conference. The officers of ...ciety for the ensuing year are ...Mrs. Nannie B. Fant, president; Mrs. ...L. Thomas, vice-president; Mrs. T. ...Hargrove, corresponding secretary; ...Carrie Gillespie, recording secre... ...Miss Mollie Clark, treasurer; ...J. F. Evans, auditor.

...v. H. T. Henry, of the Rescue ...sion, has, in response to faith and ..., been put in possession of a ...ing office complete, and is pre... ... to do all kinds of job work. ...is truly a God-send, and the first ... of it, he informs us, will be to ...ve the rental of the building which ...mission occupies by one-third, or ... per month. Let the Christian ...ple of the city patronize him by all ..., and, while they get as good ... as can be obtained elsewhere, ... the good cause.

...e Huntsville Female College, ... is advertised in another col..., besides being one of the best or... ...ed and equipped in the whole ..., has for its president that ster... ...educator and noble Christian gen..., Dr. A. B. Jones, who has no ...or as a governor and trainer of ...young mind. Men are born to ...ness in different fields of achieve..., Dr. Jones in this. Able, edu... ...and tactful, he is unsurpassed both ... school-room and boarding de...ent. Success follows some men ... than others, because, like a led ..., it has no choice in the matter. ... your daughters to Huntsville, ...the polishing will surely result.

Periodicals.

...arper's Bazar and Little People are ...come visitors to the ADVOCATE.

...e Review of Reviews, for Septem... ...is a fine number of a most excel... ...periodical. Price, $2.50 a year.

...e School Review, for September, ... excellent number of this sterling ...cation, invaluable to school men. ..., 30 cents; $1.50 yearly.

...mong the best publications for ... people, visitors to this office, are ...Nicholas, secular, and our own ...day-School Visitor, religious; and ...outhful, Youth's Companion and ...th's Journal.

...e Sunday-School Times and La... Home Journal, in different fields, ...h published in the same City of ...herly Love, are exceedingly valu... ...and cheap periodicals; the former ...1.50, the latter at $1.

The Magazine of Art, for September, sets the key-note away up in the scale for the Fall and Winter series. It deserves patronage for its remarkable enterprise and the merit of its art productions. Price, 35 cents; $3 yearly.

The Magazine of American History began with its July-August number the first numbers of its thirty-first volume. The leading article (illustrated) is Hondon's Statue of Washington, by N. B. Winston. Price, 35, cents, single number; $4 yearly.

The Chatauquan, $2, yearly (one of the best); The Southern States, $1 50; Godey's, $1.50; The Quiver, $1.50; the Missionary Review, $2, and the Missionary Treasurer, $1.50, come regularly to the ADVOCATE office, and are without exception cheap and meritorious publications.

The Cosmopolitan, for September, is a World's Fair number, containing descriptive articles by ex-President Harrison, Walter Besant, and others, and is an artistic creation as remarkable for its merit, as the magazine for its price, which is 12½ cents per single copy, and $1.50 yearly.

The Popular Science Monthly, for September, contains articles on Silver, Reformatory Prisons, Recent Science; The Pilgrim Path of Cholera, by Prof. Tanssig, Miss Zimmern, Prince Kropotkin, and Ernest Hart, F. R. C. S., etc., and is quite first-class as always, in its line. Price, single copy, 50 cents; yearly, $5.

The ADVOCATE has received No. 2 of the Book of the Fair, by H. H. Bancroft, from the Bancroft Publishing Company, Chicago and San Francisco. It is a sumptuous presentation in art and literature of the wonders of the great Chicago American Exhibition. It is to be published in 25 parts of 40 pages at the rate of two parts monthly. Price, $1 a part.

Millsaps College.

The second session of Millsaps College will open Wednesday morning, Sept. 20, at 9 o'clock. It is important that new students should be present on the eighteenth and nineteenth for examination and classification. After arriving in Jackson, students must report at once to the president and secure board in our Students' Homes or in private families approved by the college authorities.

W. B. MURRAH.

Jackson, Miss., Sept. 7, 1893.

Program.

The Theological and Pastoral Society of Sardis district, North Mississippi Conference, M. E. Church, South, will hold its Fall meeting at Sardis, Miss., on Oct. 17, 18 and 19, as indicated in the following program:

TOPICS FOR DISCUSSION.

1. Do Not the Times Demand Direct and Practical Preaching?—Rev. E. Johnston and Rev. A. J. Jones.

2. Class Meetings: The Necessity of Their Renewal—Rev. H. C. Morehead and Rev. C. W. Perkins.

3. Is Man in Such a State at Birth as to Need Regeneration?—Rev. D. M. Geddie and Rev. T. W. Dye.

4. The Proper Observance of the Sabbath—Rev. H. P. Gibbs and Rev. W. W. Williams.

5. Exposition of Romans viii, 6—Rev. J. D. Cameron and Rev. J. M. Huggin.

6. Are We Not Too Negligent in Enforcing Discipline? And Would Not Discipline Properly Administered Curtail Worldliness?—Rev. T. J. Newell, A. M., and Rev. J. A. Braswell.

7. How May a Preacher Develop Woman's Work, Such as Prayer Meetings, etc., in the Church?—Rev. T. B. Hargrove and Rev. W. H. Eckles.

8. The Epworth League: Its Importance and Its Development—Rev. J. M. Wyatt and Rev. P. A. Miller.

9. Is There Not Great Need of a Baptism of the Holy Ghost? And How Is This to be Obtained?—Rev. Ben. P. Jaco and Rev. R. P. Goar.

SERMONS.

Tuesday, Oct. 17, at 8 o'clock P. M., by Rev. D. M. Geddie. Subject: The Parable of the Talents. (Matt. xxv, 14, etc.)

Wednesday, Oct. 18, at 11 o'clock A. M., by Rev. T. W. Dye. Subject: The Witness of the Spirit. At 8 o'clock P. M., by Rev. E. Johnston. Subject: The Possibility of Apostasy.

Thursday, Oct. 19, at 11 o'clock A. M., by Rev. Thos. J. Newell, A. M. Subject: The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Administration of the Lord's Supper following the sermon. At 8 o'clock P. M., by Rev. C. W. Perkins. Subject: The Attitude of the Church of God toward Sin.

For the glory of God and the good of the church the committee would urge that all the brethren be prompt in attendance upon and diligent in preparation for the meeting.

H. C. MOREHEAD, Pres.,
E. JOHNSTON, Vice-Pres.,
BEN. P. JACO, Sec.

200 Agents Wanted.

One in every community in State of Mississippi to sell Bishop Fitzgerald's Epworth Book. Prospectus, 50 cents. Holman Self-Pronouncing Sunday-school Teacher's Bible. Prospectus, $1. Imitation of Christ, beautifully illustrated by Thomas a Kempis. Prospectus, 75 cents. Full supply of International Bibles in stock. Send for catalogue. Order your Sunday-school supplies for the year, and remit quarterly, if you can not send cash with order. Apply at once.

We have a good supply of Bishop Haygood's Jack-knife and Brambles; also Josiah Strong's New Era, or Coming Kingdom. Jack-knife, $1. New Era, paper, 35 cents; cloth, 75 cents. Many other new books.

LAIRD & DOMINICK,
Jackson, Miss.

Rev. Henry T. Lewis.

A sketch of the late Rev. Henry T. Lewis, of the M. E. Church, South, with some of his writings, will be furnished by Bishop Chas. B. Galloway for the Nashville Quarterly Review, commencing probably in the October number. Copies can be obtained from Southern Methodist Publishing House, Nashville, Tenn. The publication is not for any monetary or beneficent purpose. Simply for the benefit of Mr. Lewis' many old admirers through the South and Southwest.

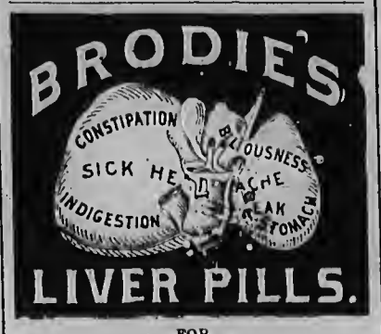
MRS. ANNIE L. ROBERTS.

Are You Nervous,

Are you all tired out, do you have that tired feeling, or sick headache? You can be relieved of all these symptoms by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla which gives nerve and bodily strength.

Hood's Pills are easy in action.

A great many bimetallists are silver men when it comes to paying the preacher.



FOR

Biliousness, Dyspepsia,
SICK HEADACHE, WEAK STOMACH,
—AND ALL—
Disorders of the Liver.

TESTIMONY.

I have used Brodie's Pills for many years in my family, and have found them invaluable in all cases, and, as a Liver Pill, do not think they have an equal. GEO. H. WILEY.

Sold By All Druggists.

Price, 25c. a Box.

I. L. LYONS & CO., Prop's,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

UNIVERSITY PREPARATORY SCHOOL,

73 COLISEUM STREET.

T. W. DYER, - - - Principal.

The Eleventh Session begins Oct. 2 with a full corps of teachers. The location is perfect. The surroundings are attractive. The grounds are large (quarter of a square), with separate yard and accommodations for smaller boys. A few boarding pupils can be accommodated. References: The clergy of New Orleans and the faculty of Tulane University.

WESLEYAN FEMALE COLLEGE, MACON, GA.

Annual Session begins September 20th, 1893. Best advantages in Literature, Music and Art. For safety, health and domestic comfort, there is no better home for girls. Apply for Catalogue to

REV. W. C. BASS, PRES.

GRENADA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

Is Devoted to the Education of Girls and Young Ladies.

FALL TERM OPENS SEPTEMBER 5TH, 1893.

The Institute affords the very best advantages for culture in Vocal and Instrumental Music; in Art, Drawing, Painting, etc.; and in all the branches of collegiate study—English, Latin, French and German. The teachers are experienced and competent. The Boarding Department is home-like and comfortable. The health is fine. The expenses are moderate. For catalogue address Rev. Thos. J. Newell, A. M., Pres., Grenada, Miss.

Educate for Business.

AT THE

BOWLING GREEN BUSINESS COLLEGE AND LITERARY INSTITUTE.

Railroad Fare Paid.

A School of Business, Shorthand, English, Typewriting, Telegraphy, Penmanship, Teacher's Training. Catalogues free.

CHERRY BROTHERS,
Bowling Green, Ky.

MILLWOOD Female Institute.

This Institute is located near Jackson, La., and is as remarkable for its delightful environments as its healthy location.

Special teachers in each Department.

Charges lower than any school which offers the same advantages.

Session opens Sept. 4, 1893.

Send for Catalogue.

MISS M. MCCALMONT,
Principal.

Louisiana State University AND Agricultural and Mechanical College.

J. W. NICHOLSON, A.M., LL.D., President.

The next session (1893-'94) will open on the fifth of October, 1893, with a full and able corps of Professors and Instructors. Five Courses of Study, healthy locality, excellent discipline, splendid equipments. Tuition free. Cost for maintenance, per session of nine months, $131. Number of students last session, 186. For catalogue giving full information

Address ALVAN C. REAN, Secretary,
Baton Rouge, La.

State Normal School,

NATCHITOCHES, LA.

Reopens Oct. 2, 1893. Both sexes admitted. Attendance last session, 293. Faculty of twelve instructors. Unsurpassed in beauty and healthfulness of location, thoroughness of instruction, and perfection of discipline. Diploma entitles holder to first-grade teacher's certificate without examination.

Tuition free. Total expense need not exceed $110 per annum.

For catalogue address
THOS. D. BOYD, A. M.,
President.

McTyeire -:- Institute,

MCKENZIE, TENN.

Prepares students for Vanderbilt and such institutions.

Expenses for five months, $72.50 to $82.50.

Students completing our course enter Vanderbilt without examination.

Next session begins August 31.

For circulars or information address
J. H. HARRISON, Prin.,
McKenzie, Tenn.

Tulane -:- University Scholarships.

TULANE UNIVERSITY, New Orleans, for the purpose of encouraging post-graduate studies, offers fifteen scholarships to the graduates of its own and other colleges. The appointments are made for merit, and entitle the holder to free tuition and an honorarium of one hundred and fifty dollars.

For further particulars address the Secretary of Tulane University, New Orleans, Louisiana.

Clinton Female Academy,

(Chartered in 1832)

WILL OPEN MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1893

Course thorough. Charges lower than offered by any school of its grade in the South.

CHARGES PER MONTH.

Tuition per month	$2 00 to $3 00
Music " "	8 00
Use of Piano per Month	1 00
Painting in Oil " "	8 00
Drawing " "	1 00
Latin, French and Book-keeping, each per month	1 00
Incidental Expenses per Session	50

Board, Tuition, Washing, Fuel and Lights, $12 per Month. $120 per the Session of Ten Months. For particulars address the Principal,

Mrs. S. E. MUNDAY, Clinton, La.

MALONE COLLEGE

For Young Ladies.

HOLLY SPRINGS, MISSISSIPPI.

The Third Annual Session will begin Monday, Sept. 20, 1893.
Location, highest point in the State. Elevation, 613 feet.
Health unsurpassed in the Southwest.
Course thorough and comprehensive.
Each department under the charge of specialists.
Special advantages offered in music, art and elocution.
A HOME SCHOOL for pupils under Christian influences.
Terms moderate. For catalogues or further particulars address

Rev. J. W. HONNOLL, President.

Classical and Commercial Institute,

7 PRYTANIA STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Regular session begins Sept. 4th. Students admitted at any time. Full Classical and Literary Course. Commercial Sciences taught practically. Normal Penmanship. Shorthand and Type-writing, standard systems. Day and night classes. Ladies admitted to Commercial Department. Boarding Department under supervision of Principal. Write for circular.

Endorsed by the editor of the ADVOCATE and W. H. LaPrade, D. D., pastor of Carondelet Street Church.

G. W. HARMAN, Prin. Com. Dep't. H. S. CHENET, A. M., Principal. LYMAN C. REED, A. M., Assistant.

Spencerian Penmanship

With BOOK-KEEPING, COMMERCIAL LAW, SHORTHAND and TYPE-WRITING Thoroughly Taught in the

Commercial Department, Classical and Commercial Institute, 7 PRYTANIA ST., NEW ORLEANS.

G. W. HARMAN, Principal.

Entire expenses for three months: Course, $90, including board, tuition, etc.

Ladies received in this department.

Alabama Conference Female College.

Organized in 1856. Average annual patronage for four years past, over 200. Twenty-two professional Officers, Teachers and Lecturers. Fine Literary Curriculum extending through four years. Music taught on Conservatory methods by three able and brilliant Musicians. Art taught by a celebrated teacher of four years' European study. Scientific and Literary lectures by the Professors of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Location high; health record phenomenal; not a case of serious sickness during the past year.

For catalogue containing full statement address JOHN MASSEY, President, Tuskegee, Ala.

Mansfield Female College and Conservatory of Music and Art.

The forty-first session opens Sept. 13, 1893, with a full faculty of experienced teachers in all departments. Prof. G. D. Pickles takes the chair of Mathematics and Pedagogy. This institution is celebrated for thorough and honest work, for a locality remarkable for health, for every comfort provided, for the care and attention given to students, and for the great economy secured to parents. The great aim is to afford as good facilities for education as can be found outside the State. A new era is opening for the college that will make the next session peculiarly advantageous to those who attend. It is demonstrated that this is the best place for Southern girls.

A. D. MCVOY, A. M., PRESIDENT.

CENTENARY COLLEGE, JACKSON, LA.

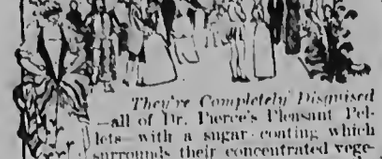
Jackson, La., is near Ethel, on the Valley R. R., 113 miles north of New Orleans. The location is beautiful, and healthful, the buildings are elegant and ample, and the Faculty is complete and able. The sale of intoxicating drinks is forbidden by law within five miles of the College. Its endowment fund is being rapidly increased, and the college has entered upon a new career of prosperity.

Special attention will be given to the health, morals and biblical instruction of the students.

For terms, Catalogue, or other information apply to Prof. G. H. Wiley, Jackson, La., or to

W. L. C. HUNNICUTT, PRESIDENT.



They're Completely Disguised —all of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets—with a sugar coating which surrounds their concentrated vegetable extracts. You do not get the taste. This means more than comfort. The offensive taste of oils, or of bitter pills is apt to upset digestion. These Pellets help digestion. They're tiny, hence easily swallowed. They're easy in action; and after using them you feel well instead of Bilious and Constipated, your Sick Headache, Dizziness and Indigestion are gone.

Good nature belongs to an active liver; irritability to a morbid liver. Take Pleasant Pellets that you may cultivate good nature, happiness, and health.

They're the cheapest pill you can buy, because guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned.

It's a permanent cure, that you get with Dr Sage's Catarrh Remedy. The makers offer $500 reward for an incurable case.

Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Sulphuric Acid and Iron Well Water has made me well. I feel young again and will recommend it to all my friends.

IT WILL CURE DYSPEPSIA, MALARIA, BLOOD OR LIVER AND KIDNEY TROUBLES.

Best Female Well Water Tonic In the World.

Send for circular and read what professional men of the Board of Health, New Orleans, La., says what it is.

Price: 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per Bottle.

CHAS. M. FUSH,
106 Camp Street, New Orleans, La.

HENRY P. DART,

Attorney-at-Law,

49 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

FREE by return mail, full descriptive circulars of MOODY'S NEW and MOODY'S IMPROVED TAILOR SYSTEMS OF DRESS CUTTING. Revised to date. These, only, are the genuine TAILOR SYSTEMS invented and copyrighted by PROF. H. W. MOODY. Beware of imitations. Any lady of ordinary intelligence can easily and quickly learn to cut and make any garment, in any style, to any measure, for ladies, men and children. Garments guaranteed to fit perfectly without trying on. Address MOODY & CO. CINCINNATI, O.

—A—

Washington and Lee College
SCHOLARSHIP
FOR SALE CHEAP.
Apply at
Werlein's Music Store,
135 Canal Street.

CARPETS!

Don't have your carpets half cleaned; all know how impossible it is to clean carpets by hand.

All dust thoroughly taken out by steam.

Feathers purged of all impurities.

44 St. Peter Street.

NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.
Founded by Dr. Eben Tourjee. CARL FAELTEN, Director.
The Leading Conservatory of America.
In addition to its unequalled musical advantages, exceptional opportunities are also provided for the study of Elocution, the Fine Arts, and Modern Languages. The admirably equipped Home affords a safe and inviting residence for lady students. Calendar Free.
FRANK W. HALE, General Manager,
Franklin Square, Boston, Mass.

Huntsville
Female -:- College.
HUNTSVILLE, ALABAMA.

Forty-fourth Session begins Wednesday, September 6, 1893. Healthy, well-furnished; twenty Officers and Teachers. All departments of Female Education thoroughly taught; Music, Art, Languages, Sciences, Literature and Commercial Course. A Christian home for pupils. Charges reasonable. For Catalogues, etc., apply to
Rev. A. B. JONES, President.

Mississippi
Industrial Institute and College.
BUREAU OF EDUCATION.

Persons desiring to employ competent teachers, or young women qualified to do good work as dress makers, telegraphers, type writers and book keepers, are invited to correspond with this Bureau. No charge for services.
Apply to MISS S. C. McLAURIN,
I. I. and C., Columbus, Miss.

HOME CIRCLE.

UNCONSCIOUS SERVICE.

BY MARGARET J. PRESTON.

"The bee"—she sighed—"that haunts the clover
Has nature's errands to fulfil;
The bird that skims the azure over,
Bears living seeds within his bill;

"Without a pause his flight pursuing,
He drops them on a barren strand;
And turns, unconscious of the doing,
The waste into a pasture-land.

"I, craving service—willing, choosing
To fling broadcast some golden grain—
Can only sit in silent musing,
And weave my lissles of pain."

I, making answer, softly kissed her;
"And Nature's realm of bees and birds—
What is such ministry, my dear sister,
Compared with your enchanted words?

"The seed your weakened hand is sowing,
May ripen to a harvest broad,
Which yet may help, without your knowing,
To fill the granaries of God."

—Lippincott's Magazine.

The Darkening Cloud.

The most usual cause of inward darkness is sin, of one kind or another. This it is which generally occasions what is often a complication of sin and misery. And, first, sin of commission. This may frequently be observed to darken the soul in a moment; especially if it be known a willful or presumptuous sin. If for instance, a person who is now walking in the clear light of God's countenance should be in any way prevailed on to commit a single act of drunkenness or uncleanness, it would be no wonder if, in that very hour, he fell into utter darkness. It is true there have been some very rare cases wherein God has prevented this, by an extraordinary display of his pardoning mercy, almost in the very instant. But, in general, such an abuse of the goodness of God, so gross an insult to his love, occasions an immediate estrangement from God, and a "darkness that may be felt."

But it may be hoped this case is not very frequent; that there are not many who so despise the riches of his goodness as, while they walk in his light, so grossly and presumptuously to rebel against him. That light is much more frequently lost by giving way to sins of omission. This, indeed, does not immediately quench the Spirit, but gradually and slowly. The former may be compared to pouring water upon a fire; the latter to withdrawing the fuel from it. And many times will that loving Spirit reprove our neglect before he departs from us. Many are the inward checks, the secret notices he gives, before his influences are withdrawn. So that only a train of omissions, willfully persisted in, can bring us into utter darkness.

Perhaps no sin of omission more frequently occasions this than the neglect of private prayer; the want whereof can not be supplied by any other ordinance whatever. Nothing can be more plain than that the life of God in the soul does not continue, much less increase, unless we use all opportunities of communion with God, and pour out our hearts before him. If, therefore, we are negligent of this, if we suffer business, company, or any avocation whatever, to prevent these secret exercises of the soul (or, which comes to the same thing, to make us hurry them over in a slight and careless manner), that life will surely decay. And if we long or frequently intermit them, it will gradually die away.—John Wesley.

Oh, how happy it is to be drawn by desires of a state of holiness!—Brainerd.

The Way They Squirmed.

The man who attempted to raise some money on a subscription paper on a necessary church out West relates his experience as follows:

"The first man I went to said he was very sorry, but the fact was he was so involved in his business that he couldn't give anything. Very sorry, but a man in debt as he was owed his first duty to his creditors.

"He was smoking an expensive cigar, and before I left his store he bought of a peddler who came in a pair of expensive Rocky Mountain cuff-buttons.

"The next man I went to was a young clerk in a banking establishment. He read the paper over, acknowledged that the church was needed, but said he was owing for his board, was badly in debt, and did not see how he could give anything.

"That afternoon, as I went by the base ball grounds, I saw this young man pay fifty cents at the entrance to go in, and saw him mount the grand stand where special seats were sold for a quarter of a dollar.

"The third man to whom I presented the paper was a farmer living near the town. He also was sorry, but times were hard, his crops had been a partial failure, the mortgage on his farm was a heavy load, the interest was coming due, and he really could not see his way clear to give to the church, although it was just what the town needed.

"A week from that time I saw that same farmer drive into town with his entire family, and go to the circus, afternoon and night, at an expense of at least four dollars.

"The Bible says: 'Judge not, that ye be not judged;' but it also says: 'By their fruits ye shall know them.' And I really could not help thinking that the devil could use that old excuse, 'In debt,' to splendid advantage, especially when he had a selfish man to help him."—Youth's Companion.

Science.

Cooking by electricity is now an assured fact. In several club-houses in the West and also in quite a number of private residences it has been introduced most successfully. The meats broiled by the process are so quickly cooked that there is little chance for them to lose their flavor, or their juice either, and they are for that reason almost perfectly cooked. All sorts of utensils and apparatus are now manufactured for convenience in electric cooking, as the visitor to the Electricity Building at the World's Fair will discover when he or she sees the teakettles, coffee-pots, sauce-pans, broilers, chafing-dishes, etc., which are there on exhibition. The electric oven is an admirable invention, fitted with a glass door, so that it is unnecessary to open it while the cooking is in progress, and a thermometer attached shows the exact degree of heat in use. The ovens do not heat the place where they are used, as they are of Russian iron lined with wood and ashes, thus preventing radiation. They are lighted by incandescent lamps. Electric flat irons that one may iron with all day are to be had. Surely nothing more complete or convenient than this could be desired. It is almost absolutely perfect in arrangement and operation.—The Age of Steel, St. Louis.

Perfect love is a kind of wandering out of ourselves, a voluntary death.—Scougal.

SWEET AND DAINTY DISHES
FOR THE
Dinner and Supper Tables can always be prepared quickly
BY USING

Dr. Price's
Cream Baking Powder.

It is distinguished as being the only Pure Cream of Tartar Baking Powder—free from Ammonia, Alum, Lime or any other adulteration. All other Baking Powders leave traces of Alkali or Acid in the food.

Dr. Price's Baking Powder

Is without a rival and is indispensable where the Finest and Most Wholesome Food is desired.

OUR YOUNG PEOPLE.

THE STORY OF EDDY, WHO NEVER WAS READY.

BY EMMA CLAYTER SEABURY.

Once on a time lived a dear little boy,
Moreover, a very queer little boy,
Who always was calling, "Please wait!"
He was never ready for morning prayers,
He was late to rise and the last upstairs,
At breakfast, dinner, and supper, his head
Popped into the room when the grace was said:
He was always a little too late;
And all the time it was, "Hurry up, Eddy,
You're sure to be late; you never are ready."

He went in undignified haste, pell-mell,
Into the school at the tardy bell,
Forgetting his books and his slate;
He walked to the church and the Sunday-school,
Because to ride it was always the rule
To be on time. It was mother's dread
He'd not get in till the lesson was read,
Because he was always too late;
And every Sabbath 'twas, "Hurry up, Eddy,
You're sure to be late; you never are ready."

Vacation time came, they were going abroad,
Harry and Susie and Nellie and Maud;
They went through the steamer's gate,
The plank was drawn in, to the grief of the flock,
When Eddy rushed breathlessly out on the dock.
His father said from the deck, "We roam.
But you must spend your vacation at home,
For the habit of being too late."
And the waves seemed to mock him with,
"Hurry up, Eddy,
You're always late, you never are ready."

He grew to a man; but habits are things
That boys must battle, they do not take wings,
He never was useful nor great.
They placed him at college; in business you'll find
He never succeeds who is always behind;
The girl that he loved had patience sublime,
But was won by the man who was always on time.
She said, "You're a little too late,
For Cupid don't wait for a laggard, Eddy."
The world that achieves is prompt and is steady,
The world moves ahead if a man isn't ready.

—Sunday-School Times.

The Prisoner's Ordeal.

The story is told that a king's son who was taken prisoner, was to be released on condition that he submit to being led at the hour of noon through the streets of the city.

"O," said the young man, "how can I bear to see the mockings of the people?"

"You do not yet know how you will be led," answered the king.

When the hour arrived, he gave him a vessel filled to the brim with milk to carry, saying that as soon as he spilled a drop he must die. Close behind him walked the executioner, dagger in hand, ready to carry out the terrible penalty.

From far and near the people had gathered to behold the prisoner upon his perilous journey. The streets were lined, and windows and even the roofs were crowded with spectators. When the young man had passed through the terrible ordeal, the king beckoned to him and said:

"Well, what kind of faces did the people make?"

"O king," said the youth, "I saw not one, I only saw my life in my hands, and death behind me."

"Thus," replied the king, "walk through life."

The lesson is a good one; we should not go through life all the while thinking, "What will folks say?" "How will it look?" and the like. Let us be like this youth. Let us not look around, but taking care to ourselves, see that we walk very carefully, ever heeding the divine voice that says, "This is the way, walk ye in it."

A Sliding Scale.

The boy was covered with mud to the top of his kilt shirt, there were mud patches on his face and hair, and he had lost his hat, but in his hand he grasped a chicken—a limp, wet, and muddy chicken. His sister had declared that she could not love such a cruel boy. Then he had disappeared, and had been found stuck in a swamp.

When he saw his mother his feelings overcame him, and he burst into a loud wail.

"My sister doesn't love me! my sister doesn't love me! I want to get losted in the woods, and let the bears eat me!"

"But," said his mother, "you cried when you pinched your finger with the clothes pin, and it would hurt you far more if the bears should eat you."

The boy was interested, and dried his tears. "I mean a kind, tame bear," he said, choking a sob.

"But a tame bear has sharp teeth."

The boy rubbed his eyes with his muddy hand, and was lost in thought for a while. Then he raised his head. His countenance was cheerful, there was not a trace of sorrow in his tone, and he cried, "I mean—I mean a nice little curly dog wifout any teef."

Six Grave Diggers.

Henry Mneller, a pious German, who lived two hundred years ago, used to say, "When I look upon the youth of our day I see six grave diggers. The first is called 'Drunkenness.' How many kill themselves with excessive drink! The seed must spoil when there is too much moisture. Therefore, young men, if you wish to live give up drinking. The second is called 'Lust.' How many have thereby hastened to death! Is it not true that all that is exposed to fire is ultimately consumed? The third is called 'Wrath.' Sirach says, 'Jealousy and anger shorten life;' and Paul, in Galatians, places next to each other wrath, strife and murder. Wrath brings on strife, strife is often the cause of murder. The fourth is called 'Disobedience to parents.' We know what a blessing the Fourth Commandment proclaims. He who does not keep it will feel its curse. Dry wood which can not bend must break. The fifth one is called 'Bad Company.' How many thereby have lost life and soul eternally. Tie a corpse to a living body, and although the living body can not bring the dead body back to life, yet the contaminating odor of the corpse will ultimately kill the living. The sixth and the last is called 'Idleness.' It kills a man, though he seems alive. Is an idle body of more use than a dead body? When a tree will not bear fruit, it is cut down and thrown into the fire. Ye who have a desire to live, consider this; and leave those grave diggers and pall-bearers alone."—Domestic Journal.

An Alligator's Nest.

Alligator's nests resemble haycocks more than anything else to which they can be compared. They average about four feet in height and about five feet in diameter and are constructed of grasses and herbage. First the mother 'gator deposits one layer of eggs on a mortar-like floor, and having covered this with a stratum of mud and herbage about eight inches thick, lays another set of eggs upon that, and so on to the top, there being commonly from one hundred to two hundred eggs in a nest. With their tails the parents then beat down the tall grass and weeds to prevent the approach of unseen enemies. The female watches her eggs until they are hatched by the heat of the sun and then takes her brood under her own care, defending them and providing for their subsistence.

Dr. Lutzemburg, of New Orleans, once packed one of these nests for shipment to St. Petersburg, but the young hatched out before they were started on the long voyage and were kept about the doctor's premises, running all over the house, up and down stairs, whining like young puppies.—Harrison's Monthly.

The Indians as a Specialist Knows Them.

When the Modoc War broke out in 1873, some one remarked in the presence of James Mooney, of Indians, that every little Indian war brought to light another tribe that no one had ever heard of before. He determined to find out the names and locations of all the Indian tribes, and the task thus taken up twenty years ago has been continued and has broadened ever since until it has become his life-work. He has made invaluable maps of the Indian country, locating some 3,000 tribes, with their towns, and giving the Indian names of the streams and mountains. "The Indians like me," he says, "because I come to them in sympathy, eager to preserve all that is sacred to them; while the missionary and the agent come to do away and destroy their traditions." On parting the last time with an old chief of the Kiowas and head of the family, with which Mr. Mooney was domiciled while with the tribe, the old man wept, and slashing his body with a knife, refused to be comforted.

A little boy came to his father and laid his hand upon his knee, looking up wistfully. "Do you want a penny, child?" The sweet face glowed and the answer came, "No, papa, only you." So it is with the child of God; he does not want the good things of the world one-millionth part so much as he wants to know his Father's love. This is a true test for each of us, and by it we may know whether we are really in the faith.—Frances E. Willard.

Macbeth's "pearl top" and "pearl glass" lamp-chimneys are carefully made of clear tough glass; they fit, and give the utmost light from the lamp, and they last until some accident breaks them. "Pearl top" and "pearl glass" are trade-marks. Look out for them and you need not be an expert.

Pittsburgh. GEO. A. MACBETH CO.

25c. And your money back if you want it—Vacuum Leather Oil that saves the life of leather.

Patent lambskin-with-wool on swob and book—How to Take Care of Leather—both free at the store.

Vacuum Oil Company, Rochester, N. Y.

LOOK OUT

"In peace prepare for war, in health for sickness." This old adage is always wise and timely, especially so just now. Summer is on, with its debilitating influences. Nerves are flagging, appetites failing, energy and stren[gth] yielding, even now. Shortly will come decay of vegetation, when malaria will "ride on every passing breeze" and count its victims in every home. Now is the time. Repair the wastes. Restore the vitality. Fortify the system. Ward off the perilous attacks of malaria and pass safely and happily through. You can do this by using DR. KING'S

ROYAL
GERMETUER

It is the best preventive, the best restorative, the most unfailing cure. Pleasant to take as lemonade, absolutely harmless, unique, matchless, perfect. "The ultima thule of medicines." Try it now. For sale by druggists.

Rev. J. B. Irwin, D. D., the popular pastor of the Tulip Street Methodist Church, Nashville, Tenn., says: "Having tested the Germetuer for more than a year by repeated use, I take pleasure in saying I have found it a prompt relief and cure for dyspepsia and nervous debility. I keep it on hand and would not be without it. Besides being a valuable remedy, it is a pleasant and refreshing drink."

$1 A BOTTLE, SIX FOR $5.

Germetuer Pills are the best. Fifty in a bottle, 25c.

Whether quaffed from a vessel of tin, glass or gold; There's nothing so good for the young or the old—as

Hires Root Beer

A delicious, health-giving, thirst-satisfying beverage. A temperance drink for temperance people.

A 25c. package makes 5 gallons.

Sold and Enjoyed Everywhere.

SHELBYVILLE, TENN.

For three years my wife's sister has been very low. Her son-in-law, a physician, took her to his house, but could do her no good. She was carried to Washington City, where she could receive the best medical skill from the most eminent physcians. Stayed there three months, but gradually grew worse. I wrote her to come to my house if she was able, as I believed that your Matchless Mineral Water would cure her. She came here in April. To-day she is sound and well, as she expresses it, from head to foot. Her disease was complicated chronic diarrhœa, diabetes and dyspepsia. She could take no solid food without excruciating pain after eating. Now she is eating all kinds of vegetables, even cabbage, or anything she wants. The water saved her life, after all the other remedies failed. The water has made many marvelous cures in this county.

Wishing you and your Mineral Water much success, I am

YOUNG WILHOIT.

—FOR SALE BY—

Chas. M. Fush, 106 Camp St., New Orleans.

8% GUARANTEED by a leading Trust Company is offered at par. Suitable for large and small investments. Full information furnished by W. H. LOWN, Mills Building, New York.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.

CATARRH

Sold by Druggists or sent by mail, 50c. E. T. Hazeltine, Warren Pa.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

BY REV. ROBERT H. WYNN.

The Epworth League and Missions.

Because of its organic connection with the church of Christ, the Epworth League, along with other organizations of its kind, can not afford to maintain an indifferent attitude toward the cause of missions. The fact that the League is not distinct from the church, but is a vital part of it, renders it important that whatever is upon the heart of the church should be upon the heart of the League. The one is the child of the other, bone of its bone, and flesh of its flesh, and the interest of the parent is the interest of the child, so that the church has a right to expect from the League filial devotion to all its interests. The heir is interested in all the business enterprises of the parent or guardian; the young people of the church are to inherit the burdens, the obligations, the interests of their spiritual guardians, and are, therefore, expected to interest themselves in the spiritual enterprises of the church. Nothing is so much upon the heart of the intelligent and consecrated portion of the church as the subject of missions. The visions of spiritual conquest, that are being realized during this generation, cause the heart to beat rapidly, and the pulse to quicken its motion, while the whole mind and spirit of the church are expanding to take in the prospect of still more glorious triumph in the future. The Epworth League, the child of the church, is expected to join the parent in offering the prayer, and in laboring for the answer to the prayer, "Thy kingdom come." It is expected that the next generation of leaders in the church shall attain unto a still higher standard of intelligent consecration to this cause, and the Methodist Church looks to the Epworth League to bring about this end. An Epworth League, then, that is anti-missionary, or even indifferent to missions, would, indeed, be an anomaly. Opposition to foreign missions must be left to the old croakers who do not represent the spirit of the Church of Christ.

The questions arise, How may the missionary spirit be stimulated among Leaguers, and what practical aid can the League furnish to the cause? I will answer that nothing will so infuse the missionary spirit as a rigid following out of the work outlined for the three departments of the League. The Department of Christian Effort serves to enlist the spiritual faculties of the individual members, and to engage them for Christ's service, and this is the chief requisite to the missionary spirit of Christ and the apostles. It is through this department that young Methodists may learn the lesson of dependence upon the power and guidance of the Holy Spirit in all missionary operations.

The Department of Charity and Help, by bringing the young people in contact with the needs and sufferings of men, serves to create a love for the souls of men, and is thus itself an important exercise in missionary work. The spirit both of giving and of inducing others to give is also encouraged by this work. The Department of Literary Work serves to diffuse that missionary intelligence that is also indispensable. A study of the Bible, the authority on the subject of missions; a study of church history, with its thrilling missionary biography, and its accounts of conquest, all serve both to instruct, and to fire the heart with fervor. This department is also expected "to extend the circulation of the books, tracts, and periodicals of the church." Scarcely any more practical work could be done in the interests of missions than would be effected by extending the circulation of such a pamphlet as The Methodist Review of Missions, and other publications, in book, pamphlet or tract form. Thus, it may be seen that the Epworth League is essentially missionary in all its features.

The duty of observing Missionary Day is one that ought in no case to be neglected. Let me here quote from a recent article in Review of Missions: "It is a timely suggestion that our Epworth Leagues set apart a missionary day, with a suitable program, to be observed each quarter in every charge. This is a prophetic forecast, demanding prompt, persistent, and patient adjustment and advancement. The Epworth League movement has 'come to the kingdom for such a time as this,' and if judiciously and aggressively organized and correlated with the institutions of the church, no ken of men can foretell the possible and proximate results to the church and world."

By all these means men and women may be raised up for the church, who will be willing either to labor in foreign fields for the Master, or advance the cause by self-denial and consecrated effort at home.

I want an active agent in every parish in the bounds of the Louisiana Conference to handle that wonderful new book by Bishop Fitzgerald, The Epworth League Book. Don't miss this opportunity of a lifetime. First come first served! Prospectus, 75 cents.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp St., - - - - - - - - New Orleans

MARRIAGES.

WRIGHT—CLEMENTS.—At the Methodist Church, Rolling Fork, Miss., Sept. 6, 1893, by Rev. W. H. Lewis, Mr. H. J. Wright and Miss Fannie Clements.

CHEEK-MAGRUDER.—At the residence of the bride's mother, near Canton, Miss., Sept. 4, 1893, by Rev. W. L. C. Hunnicutt, D. D., Mr. H. H. Cheek and Miss R. C. Magruder.

ROBERTS—SEWELL.—At the residence of the bride's father, Aug. 23, by Rev. B. W. Sewell, Prof. W. J. Roberts to Miss Sallie E. Sewell, both of Jackson, La.

OBITUARIES.

We publish obituaries of 200 words free of charge; for all over this, one cent per word must be sent. If you want the notice to appear in its order, comply with this rule. Count the words, and send one cent for each word over 200.

TILLERY—In St. Helena parish, near Greensville, La., Mrs. ELIZABETH TILLERY, daughter of Abraham Womack and Elizabeth Burton Womack. She was born near Greensburg, La., May 19, 1824; married to the late Wm. Tillery, by Rev. Mr. Venable, Dec. 18, 1845; died March 15, 1893. She gave her heart and life to God in early womanhood, and through all the years of her after life she walked with God, and his grace sustained her. She was a devout Methodist, loyal to God, to her church and to her womanhood. She was a quiet, faithful worker in the church and in her home, and her standard as a Christian was high, and her conduct and life pure. She was the mother of six children. Two sons and a daughter survive her. All are members of their mother's church; all are married, and walk in their mother's footsteps as she followed Christ.

Her death was like translation. She was dressed to go to church. Her only brother, J. B. Womack, and her nephew, J. W. Thompson, and wife, who made their home with her, waited for her, but on going to her room found her speechless. The saintly mother, sister and relative had received a tender message from a loving Father in heaven to come up to the great church above, where God is the father and Christ the teacher. Her children came home to see their faithful mother sink in death. In her smile and gentle hand-pressure was a wealth of love and hope to her sorrowing children, her faithful brother, and the good nephew she loved as a mother.

Her pastor, Rev. Nathan Roberts, assisted by Rev. D. Shilling (Baptist), conducted the funeral services. She was laid to rest by the side of her husband in the cemetery in Greensburg, La. Many were the tears shed and vows made on that occasion by her children to walk closer with God. Her aged brother mourns in loneliness of heart, but not without hope, as he realizes how near eternity we are, and that God's children are being gathered home.

Her bereft niece, MRS. M. L. HOOVER.
Summit, Miss.

KING-VERTNER J. KING (nee Germany), daughter of Dr. Willis Germany and his good wife, was born in Amite county, Miss., July 16, 1869. Vertner was an amiable and intellectual child, and grew up to womanhood in the care of such parentage as to make her womanhood of the same type. She was converted and joined the M. E. Church, South, at Johnson Station, Pike county, Miss., in 1885, under the ministry of Rev. J. A. B. Jones.

Sister King has left the impress upon the minds of her friends and relatives that she was ready for a better world and its pure society, where she has joined her sainted father and mother and many other loved ones who preceded her "to that land of the blessed and home of the good," and will doubtless be "waiting and watching at the beautiful gate" for the loved and left. "There friends shall meet again who have loved," in the conscious recognition that love carries for its objects. May the loved and left make sure of that glorious meeting! WM. B. HINES.

READ—Bro. H. A. READ was born, Nov. 25, 1851, in Jasper county, Miss., and departed this life, after four months' painful illness, Aug. 10, 1893. Bro. Read joined the church in the Fall of 1885, being a member about eight years prior to his death. He lived a consistent and devoted member. He loved God, his church and his neighbors. He was twice married. Three children by his first and seven by his second wife, with their mother, still survive him. Bro. Read was a good and true husband, a kind and indulgent father, and obliging neighbor. A friend to the poor, having once been poor himself, he well knew how to sympathize.

I was with Bro. Read a number of times during his illness, but never heard one word of murmur escape his lips. He bore his afflictions with Christian fortitude. He said to me and others, that while he hated to leave wife and loved ones, if it was his Lord's will, he was ready to depart and be with Christ.

Loved ones, live godly; it will not be long, and you will meet your dear husband and father in the sweet by-and-by. LANE.

MARKETT—WILLIE E. MARKETT was born Jan. 9, 1867; died at the home of his mother, on Sunflower river, Aug. 22, 1893; was married, Jan. 18, 1893, to Miss Claudia Josephine Barnard, who after a few short months of married life is called upon to drink the bitter cup of sorrow. The love and prayers of mother, wife, three sisters and a brother were not sufficient to withstand the power of the cruel monster, Death, who ever and anon cometh "up into our windows, and is entered into our palaces, to cut off the children from without, and the young men from the streets." (Jer. ix, 21.)

"Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth," and we know that "he doeth all things well." May he send "the Comforter," whom he has promised, with a message of sweet peace and love to those sad hearts, and may they so live that they may enter heaven, where partings never come!

MRS. J. C. H. MCKINNEY.

DEAR—LILLIAN DEAR, aged four years and ten months, daughter of George W. and B. L. Dear, died Aug. 17, at the home of her grandfather, Rev. W. M. Ross, near Sallis, Miss.

A fairer or sweeter bud of promise was never culled from earthly home to unfold and bloom in those rare gardens whose sweet aroma are ever shedding incense around the great white throne in the paradise of God. Little Lillian was only loaned her loving ones for a brief, happy season, and oh! how hard to say, "Thy will be done," when the icy seal of death had shut the dark lashes down over those sweet blue eyes. Yet not forever—blessed thought! Her two sainted grandmothers were waiting at the golden gate to greet their darling when Jesus called our guileless Lillian to come home.

AUNTIE.

An Only Daughter Cured of Consumption

When death was hourly expected from Consumption, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H James was experimenting, he accidentally made a preparation of Indian Hemp, which cured his only child, and now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. Hemp also cures night sweats, nausea at the stomach, and will break a fresh cold in twenty-four hours. Address Craddock & Co., 1038 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa., naming this paper.

No mineral water will produce the beneficial results that follow taking ONE or more of "BEECHAM'S PILLS" with a glass of water immediately upon arising in the morning.

Painless. Effectual. Covered with a tasteless, soluble coating.
"Worth a guinea a box."—Price only 25 cents.
Of all druggists, or a box will be mailed on receipt of 25cts. in stamps by D. F. Allen Co., 365 Canal St., New York. 37

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR
The Celebrated
CHOCOLAT MENIER
Annual Sales Exceed 33 MILLION Lbs.
Write for Samples. Sent Free. Menier, Union Sq., N. Y.

Marble, Slate and Hardwood Mantels.
TILES for Fire-places and Floors. GRATES of all kinds.
SLATE HEARTHS. BUILDING MATERIAL.
GEO. M. LEAHY,
No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Designs and prices furnished on application.

Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.

Losses Paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3 235 091.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429 729.

All Losses Paid in Cash without Discount, as Soon as Adjusted.
Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office, the same as with local companies.

DIRECTORS IN NEW ORLEANS.
GUSTAF R. WESTFELDT, Chairman. L. C. FALLON. LUCAS E. MOORE. C. M. SORIA.
CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Resident Sec'y. H. V. OGDEN, Resident Secretary.

Home Insurance Co., of New Orleans
No. 78 CAMP STREET.

CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1886,	$400,479 08
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1887,	$413,860 76
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1888,	$459,369 50
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1889,	$510,584 54
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1890,	$551,897 82
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1891,	$600,414 81

Steadily Increasing in Strength and Popularity.
Solicits Fire and River Business

Liberal Settlements and Prompt Payments.

Thos. Sefton, Pres't. Capt. J. B. Woods, Vice-Pres't. Jno. G. Byrd, Sec'y
J. B. WOODS, JOS. BAYLE, JNO. BARKLEY, JNO. J. BARE, ANDREW STEWART, CHAS. CHAFFE, J. B. LEVERT, E. BORLAND, P. E. RICE, W. B. BLOOMFIELD, W. T. HARDIE, THOS. SEFTON.

W. B. LYMAN, President. JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-President. JOHN E. WHITING, Secretary
Crescent Insurance Com'y
Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.
Cash Capital, - - - - - - $300,000.
Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849. ANNUAL and TERM POLICIES Issued on Desirable Fire Business.
See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

Millsaps College,
Jackson, Miss.

The Second Session Begins Sept. 20th, 1893.

College Fees, Only $30 for the Entire Session.

Board in Students' Homes and in Private Families, $12 per month.

Provision has been made for the payment of the College Fees in the case of young preachers and the sons of preachers.
For Catalogue and other information address
W. B. MURRAH, PRESIDENT.

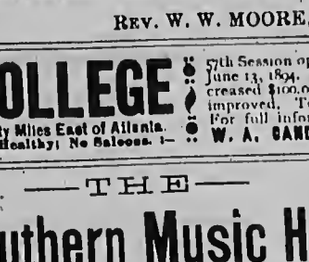
Waynesboro Collegiate Institute,
WAYNESBORO, MISS.
On M. and O. R. R., 53 Miles South of Meridian.

Will begin its second session Sept. 11th, 1893. Enrollment last session over 200. It prepares boys and girls for college, or fits them for the practical business pursuits of life. Our curriculum is not extensive. We aim at thoroughness. Board and tuition reasonable. Send for catalogue.
REV. W. W. MOORE, A. M., Principal.

EMORY COLLEGE
OXFORD, GA. Forty Miles East of Atlanta.
—Location Proverbially Healthy; No Saloons.—
57th Session opens Sept. 20th, 1893, closes June 13, 1894. Endowment recently increased $100,000 and equipment greatly improved. Total expenses within $225. For full information, address
W. A. CANDLER, D. D., PRESIDENT.

—THE—
Great Southern Music House of
Philip Werlein
Is Prepared to Suit All Comers.
Elegant and Durable Pianos from $250 up.
Good Second-hand and Slightly Used Pianos from $50 up.
Send for Catalogues and Prices.
135 Canal St., New Orleans.

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.,
SUCCESSORS TO
STERN'S
Fert. and Chem.
Manufacturing Com'y
14 UNION STREET,
New Orleans, La.
Write for Agricultural Hand-Book.



MANUFACTURERS OF
HIGH GRADE
Bone Fertilizers,
PURE
GROUND BONE
ACID PHOSPHATE,
KAINIT,
Etc.
Buyers of Cotton Seed.

Office Telephone, 82. Yard Telephone, 231.
Pennsylvania Coal Company,
Office, 67 Carondelet Street.
PITTSBURGH COAL.
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.
L. S. WIDNEY, Manager.
Cotton Presses, Factories, and the Family trade supplied at Lowest Market Rates.
CITY YARDS: Foot of Robin Street, Foot of Desire Street, Corner Short and St. Charles Avenue.

ROSE TOBACCO CURE A quick, cheap, pleasant and absolute cure for the Tobacco Habit
In all its Forms. For proof write the ROSE DRUG CO., Birmingham, Ala.

FURNITURE!
Largest Stock,
Lowest Prices,
Greatest Variety,
Most Reliable Goods.
J. G. Grant, 28 & 30 Camp St., New Orleans, La.
Write for Illustrated Catalogue.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

President Cleveland is the father of another girl. She was born on Sept. 9 at noon.

The attendance at the World's Fair, on last Sunday, was 229,036 paid admissions.

The Catholic Congress, which met in Chicago, adjourned on Sept. 9. Love of God, liberty and patriotism were imhued in the platform. The public school question was not discussed. Arbitration was strongly urged to settle labor troubles.

A cyclone struck Lockport, La., on Sept. 7, and left it a mass of destruction and desolation. Five persons were killed and eleven injured. Many residences and the Convent of Immaculate Conception were destroyed. The loss will foot up between $75,000 and $100,000.

The damage to the United States cruiser Atlanta through the culpable disregard of some officers of the navy for the regulations governing the care and preservation of their ships will cost the government $100,000 and deprive it of the services of that vessel for over seven months.

The Senate during the coming week will devote itself entirely to the discussion of the repeal hill. Possibly there may be an occasional break in the monotony caused by taking up some other subject during the morning hour, but the calendar affords very little scope for diversion in this respect.

Four hundred negroes, armed with Winchester rifles, passed through Little Rock, on Sept. 7, en route to Weir City, Kan., to take the place of the striking miners, and were prepared to do so at all hazards. They were plentifully supplied with ammunition and provisions. The negroes were brought from Arkansas and Texas.

In view of the practical determination of the government to enforce the Geary law, and the belief that the Chinese will not accept the action peaceably, arrangements have been made to strengthen the United States naval force in Chinese waters. Nearly the entire fleet will be replaced by steel vessels. The change is now in progress.

The storm which swept the coast of South Carolina recently has proven to be a great calamity. The dead is estimated to be one thousand, while absolute destitution extends to 20,000 persons, the majority of whom are negroes. Gov. Tillman has issued a proclamation to the people of the United States, appealing to them to make contributions to the cause.

According to Wm. Steinway, president of the Rapid Transit Commission, an offer to build an undergrouud railway for New York City has at last been made by capitalists, who ask no aid of the city and who are ready to make any deposit required as an evidence of good faith. The cost of this great undertaking will be $45,000,000, which is said to be ready as soou as formalities are settled.

FOREIGN.

An official decree has been issued announcing that an international exposition will be held in France in 1900.

As the result of the defeat of the Home Rnle hill in the House of Lords, the radical newspapers in London generally call for the abolition of the House of Lords.

A dispatch to the London Times from Alexandria says the cotton crop of Egypt for the year ending Sept. 1, 1893, amounted to 5,250,000 cantars, against 4,750,000 for the corresponding period of 1892.

Lady Henry Somerset has written a letter to the Associated Press, saying that Frances Willard is still ill, that she has been compelled to abandon all public work, and that she will take a year's rest by her doctor's orders.

There is no douht that cholera is spreading in Constantinople. The facts, however, have been withheld by the authorities, and newspapers have been given warning that any mention of the existence of the disease will be followed by the suppression of the papers.

It is said that the National Congress of Mexico, now in session, will not enact any tariff reform measure, as has been currently reported would be done by that hody. No legislation on the silver or financial question will he done until the United States Congress has acted npon these issues.

The Home Rnle hill was rejected in the House of the Lords on Sept. 8. The vote was 419 to 41. This act of the upper house of the British Parliament renders all the labor of the past six months in the House of Commons abortive, except when ganged by the effect produced on the electors. In order to finally pass the measure over the head of the lords it will be necessary again appeal to the electors.

What Do You Take Madiaine For?

Because you are sick, and want to get well, of conrse.

Then remember, that Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures.

All we ask is, that in taking Hood's Sarsaparilla you will do so with perseverance eqnalling or approaching the tenacity with which your complaint has clung to you. It takes time and care to eradicate old and deep-seated maladies, particularly when they have been so long hidden in the system that they have become chronic. Remember, that all permanent and positive cures are brought about with reasonable moderation. Hood's Sarsaparilla attacks disease vigorously and never leaves the field until it has conqnered.

Notice.

To the District Secretaries and Auxiliaries of the Mississippi Conference W. M. S.—

Dear Sisters: The time is near at hand when our prospective missionary, Miss Lella McNemar, must enter school. We are pledged to raise funds for her tuition and board in one of our colleges. Bro. Holloman will take her at E. M. F. College, and she goes to Meridian next week. Will not every strong auxiliary in the Conference pledge itself to raise five or ten dollars for this object, and will not every auxiliary be strong in this cause?

Dear sisters, the Lord's vineyard in foreign fields has need of workers. He calls these workers, and calls upon us to aid them in their preparation for the work as well as in its prosecution.

Now, do not lay the ADVOCATE aside and think no more of this matter, hnt let it have your immediate attention, and let every auxillary forward at once to Miss Mary Andrews, at Vicksburg, Miss., a contribution to this object, so that she may be able to make a payment in the beginning of the term. Remember we are pledged to it.

Hoping you will he able to respond at an early day with a generous contribution, I am. Yours faithfully,

ADDIE V. MARSHALL,
Pres. W. M. S., Miss. Conf.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate
A Healthful Tonic.

Used in place of lemons or lime juice it will harmonize with such stimulants as are necessary to take.

Notice to Millsaps Students.

Please allow me to say through your columns to my brethren in the ministry that I have moved from Grenada to Millsaps College for the purpose of educating my own sons, and, having secured a nice, comfortable cottage very near the college, will be glad to have a few pupils board with me. It shall be my endeavor to treat all who come to me thus as sons, and trust my house will he a home to them.

Yonr sister, ANNA P. BALL.

Jackson, Miss.

Colored Knights of Pythias Supreme Lodge Meeting, New Orleans, La.

Queen and Crescent Route, and Lonisville Southern Railroad, will make one and one-third fare rate for the round trip, to New Orleans, La., on account of the meeting of the Colored Knights of Pythias Supreme Lodge, New Orleans, La., Sept. 25-30, 1893, inclusive. Tickets on sale Sept. 22 to 27, on certificate plan, from all points on Q. and C. and L. S. R. R.

Solid vestibuled trains from Cincinnati to New Orleans. Ninety-four miles shortest line. Only 26¼ hours.

Call on agents for full information.

W. C. RINEARSON,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Cincinnati, O.

Camp Meeting.

The New Prospect Camp Meeting will begin on Friday night before the fourth Sunday in October (Oct. 20). Ministers of the gospel are invited to attend, and will be furnished with transportation from the railroad to camp ground. Get off at Ocean Springs, where you will get hacks, etc. N. B. YOUNG.

Vancleave, Miss.

Thin or gray hair and bald heads, so displeasing to many people as marks of age, may he averted for a long time hy using Hall's Hair Renewer.

Camp Meeting Calendar.

Camp Meet'g.	Begins.
Mt. Zion	Sept. 21
St. Tammany	Sept. 22
Palmer	Sept. 30
Salem	Oct. 5
Shiloh	Oct. 6
New Prospect	Oct. 20

Disordered Liver set right with BEECHAM'S PILLS.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Philip Werlein,

New Orleans, wants you to write to him if you want to get a good Piano cheap, or an Organ, Music or Musical Instruments. His is the old reliable music store of New Orleans.

Free! Free!

AN ELEGANT LITHOGRAPH PICTURE OF MILLSAPS COLLEGE.

We need $1,500 to pay for furniture already bought to finish furnishing the college and to make necessary improvements.

To everyone sending us $1 we will send the picture unframed, and to everyone sending us $5 we will send the picture neatly framed ready for hanging. Let us hear from you.

JOHN W. CHAMBERS, Agt.

Jackson, Miss.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Leakesville, at Avera	30, Oct. 1
Waynesboro and S., at State L. (Tues.)	3
W'boro circuit, at Winchester. (Wed.)	4
Shubuta circuit, at DeSoto. (Thurs.)	5
Clark circuit, at Manassah	7, 8
Vossburgh circuit, at Central	14, 15
Eucutta circuit, at Eucutta	21, 22
E. and Stonewall, at Enterprise. (Th.)	24
Meridian—East End (Wed.)	25
Daleville cir., at Daleville. (Thurs.)	26
Liowood circuit, at Hopewell	28, 29
North Kemper cir., at Mellen. (Wed.)	Nov. 1
DeKalb circuit, at Pt. Ridge	4, 5
Hinnsville, at Scooba (Tues.)	7
Landerdale (Thurs.)	9
Why Not circuit	11, 12
Chunky circuit (Thurs.)	18
Marion circuit	18, 19
Meridian—West End	25, 26
Meridian—Central, (Sun. and Mon.)	Dec. 3, 4

Church Registers and Records not presented at third Quarterly Conference will he called for. The attention of trustees and preachers is called to Ques 28. The preachers will please see that the written reports are presented. The attention of local preachers and exhorters is called to Ques. 18. Written reports will he looked for. Let preachers and stewards and all the members strive to bring up full collections as thank-offerings to God for his many mercies.

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Newton and Hickory, at Newton	30, Oct. 1
Decatur, at Mt. Hebron	2
Neshoba, at Mars Hill	5
Walnut Grove, at Rocky Point	14, 15
Carthage and W. Grove, at Carthage	12
Hillsboro, at Oak Grove	17
Lake, at Lawrence	21, 22
Rose Hill, at Missionary	28, 29
Trenton	Nov. 2
Clarksburg, at Liberty	4, 5
Morton and Forest, at Morton	6
Fannin, at Fannin	10
Brandon station	11, 12
Montrose	13
Raleigh	18, 19
Shiloh, at Cato	24
Marvin, at Wesleyana	25, 26
Westville	28
Homewood	Dec. 2, 3

C. MCDONALD, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Wilson, at Gayden	Sept. 16, 17
Zachrie, at Deer Ford	23, 24
Slaughter, at Slaughter	24, 25
Gloster and Cent., at Gloster	Oct. 1-3
Amite, at Woodland	1, 2
E. Baton Rouge	7, 8
Port Vincent, at Manrepas	14, 15
Live Oak, at Friendship	21, 22
North Wilkinson	28, 29
Wilkinson, at Bethel	Nov. 4, 5
Bayon Sara, at Star Hill	11, 12
St. Helena, at Canter	18, 19
E. Feliciana, at Gilead	25, 26
Springfield, at Wesley Chapel	31
Franklinton, at Fisher's	Dec. 2, 3
Amite City, at Amite City	3, 4

P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Angus'ac., at Boone's Ch'l (Fr., Sa., Sn.)	*Sep. 15, 16, 17
Vaucleave circuit, at Mt. Zion	16, 17
Tallisheek circuit, at St. Tammany C. G.	22-28
Covington cir., at St. Tam'y C. G. (Mon.)	25
Ocean Springs, at O. S. (Wed. night)*	27, 28
Bay St. Louis, at Handsborough	29, 30
Whitlington c. (4th round), Palmer C. G.	30 to Oct. 8
E. Pearl miss., at Pine Grove. (Tues.)	10

The Conference for charges marked with * will be held on second day published.

Let special prayer be made by all our people for the camp meetings. Observe the quarterly fast. Have General Rules read, and registers on hand for examination. Preachers will please try to "clear the decks" of the collections during this quarter, at least in good subscriptions. Push the interests of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

HENRY E. PARTRIDGE, P. E.

Hattiesburg, Miss.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Terry circuit, at Byram	Sept. 16
Gallman, at Mt. Pleasant	16, 17
Hazlehurst	22
Providence, at Georgetown	23, 24

R. S. WOODWARD, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Tranquil, at Locust Grove	Sept. 16, 17
Canton	23, 24

E. H. MOUNGER, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

KOSCIUSKO DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Pickens circuit, at Pickens	Sept. 16, 17
Kosciusko and Dorant, at Durant	23, 24
Poplar Creek circuit, at Shiloh	30, Oct. 1
Ebenezer circuit, at Bethany	7, 8
Lexington and Tchula, at Tchula	8, 9
Ethel circuit, at Tabernacle	14, 15
Belsona circuit, at Hickory Grove	21, 22
Stewart circuit, at Stewart	28, 29
Sallis circuit, at Sallis	21
Lonisville circuit, at Lonisville	Nov. 4, 5
Rural Hill circuit, at Rural Hill	8, 8
Wier circuit, at Pisgah	10
Chester circuit, at Ackerman	11, 12
Kosciusko circuit, at Salem	18, 19
Eupora circuit, at Walthall	25, 26

Let local preachers he present with written statements, and let trustees report what property, its title, and condition and value. Let stewards give diligent care to collect, and to urge our people to pay the allowances.

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, P. E.

COLUMBUS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Tibbee	Sept. 2, 10
West Point	19, 17
Starkville station	27, 24
Crawford	30, Oct. 1
Columbus circuit	7, 8
Columbus station	8, 9
Starkville circuit	14, 19
Brooksville	21, 22
Sturges	28, 29
Pheba	Nov. 4, 5
Sparta	11, 12
Masholaville	17
Shuqualak	18, 19
Macon	19, 20
Hebron	22

T. C. WIER, P. E.

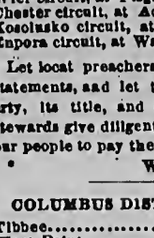
GRENADA DISTRICT—FOURTH ROUND.

Grenada station	Sept. 23, 24
Tillatoba (Sat.)	30
Minter City and Strathmore	Oct. 1
Charleston	9
Coffeeville	7, 8
Oxford station	14, 19
Tocoopola	21, 22
Cherry Hill (Tues.)	24
Atlanta	28, 29
Banner (Thes.)	31
Chapel Hill	Nov. 4, 5
Pittsboro (Thes.)	7
Abbeville	11, 12
Grenada circuit	18, 19
Water Valley circuit (Sat.)	25
Water Valley station	26, 27

Local preachers, please he ready with written report as Discipline directs. Also trustees of church property will please have written reports as they are required to do by law.

R. A. BURROUGHS, P. E.

Unlike the Dutch Process
No Alkalies
—OR—
Other Chemicals
are used in the preparation of
W. BAKER & CO.'S
Breakfast Cocoa



which is absolutely pure and soluble.

It has more than three times the strength of Cocoa mixed with Starch, Arrowroot or Sugar, and is far more economical, costing less than one cent a cup. It is delicious, nourishing, and EASILY DIGESTED.

Sold by Grocers everywhere.

W. BAKER & CO., Dorchester, Mass.

HOLLY SPRINGS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Holly Springs station	Sept 18, 17
Holly Springs cir., at Pleasant Grove	23, 24
Potts Camp	30, Oct. 1
Ashland circuit, at Wesley	7, 8
Connersville, at Bethlehem	14, 15
Olive Branch, at Miller	21, 22
Shelley Creek	28, 29
Ited Banks circuit, at Wesley	Nov. 4, 5
Mt Pleasant circuit, at New Salem	11, 12
Ryhalia circuit, at Ryhalia	18, 12
East Holly Springs, at Lamar	25, 26

J. W. HONNOLL, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Hernando	Sept. 16, 17
Como	26, 24
Pleasant Grove, at Lee's Chapel	30 Oct. 1
Courtland, at Center Hill	7, 8
Nesbits	14, 15
Mt. Vernon, at Free Springs	21, 22
Pleasant Hill, at Lewisburg	28, 29
Arkabutla (Tues.)	31
Morgansville mission	Nov. 4, 5
Cockrum, at Green Leaf	11, 12
Wall Hill	18, 19
Panola	25, 26

If stewards and pastors will address themselves faithfully and constantly to their respective duties, salaries and connectional collections will be paid in full. Brethren, the Lord and the church expects everyone to do their duty.

H. C. MOREHEAD, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Okolona station	Sept. 16, 17
Tupelo station	23, 24
Verona and Nettleton station	27
Fulton and Nettleton circuit	30, Oct. 1
Prairie	7, 8
Shannon	11
Aberdeen station	14, 15
Saltillo	21, 22
Amory and Smithville	25
Pontotoc	28, 29
Tremont	Nov. 4, 5
Okolona circuit	8
Honston and Wesley	11, 12
Athens	18, 19
Baena Vista	25, 22

J. B. STONE, P. E.

WINONA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Brooklyn and Duhlin	Sept. 16, 17
Greenwood	23, 24
Winona	30, Oct. 1
Carrollton	7, 8
McNutt	14, 15
Indianola	21, 22
Leherton	24
Sidon	28, 29
Black Hawk	Nov. 4, 5
Valden	11, 12
West	19
Carrollton circuit	18, 19
Winona circuit	25, 26

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Clarksdale	Sept. 24
Gunnison	Oct. 1
Rosedale	8
Cleveland	15
Bolivar	22
Shaw	29
Lyon	Nov. 5
Winterville	12
Friar's Point	19
Greenville	26

J. A. RANDOLPH, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Pineville, at Pineville	Sept. 16, 17
Ada, at Prospect	22, 24
Columbia, at Columbia	30, Oct. 1
Centerville, at Trout Creek	7, 8
Evergreen, at Bunkie	14, 15
Chicot, at Fairview	21, 22
Montgomery, at Montgomery	28, 29
Big Cane, at Melville	28, 29
Lecompte, at Lecompte	Nov. 4, 5
Dry Creek, at Dry Creek	11, 12
Spring Creek, at S. C. Camp Ground	18, 19
Boyce and Colfax, at Boyce	25, 26
Simsport, at Simsport	Dec. 2, 9
Alexandria	9, 10

N. B.—The local preachers and presidents of Boards of Trustees will please have their reports written in full; the preachers furnish full statistical reports. Let the stewards bestir themselves. They want a good preacher next year.

S. J. DAVIES, P. E.

ARCADIA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Tulip, at Foster's Chapel	Sept. 16, 17
Farmerville, at Farmerville	23, 24
Lisbon, at Lisbon	30, Oct. 1
Homer station	1, 2
Summerfield, at Alabama	7, 8
Gansville, at Rochester	14, 15
Sparta, at Bienville	21, 22
Downsville, at Downsville	28, 29
Ringgold, at Andrew Chapel	Nov. 4, 5
Vernon, at Oak Ridge	11, 12
Minden, at Minden	18, 19
Haynesville, at White Hall	25, 26
Valley, at Bapps	Dec. 2, 9
Vienna, at Antioch	9, 10
Ruston station	10, 11
Arcadia, at Arcadia	12

J. L. P. SHEPPARD, P. E.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

South Bossier, at Fillmore	Sept. 2, 3
Mooringsport, at Pine Hill	9, 10
Red River, at Campo Bello	12, 17
Sabine, at Mt. Pleasant	23, 24
DeSoto, at Pelican	Oct. 1, 2
Grand Cane, at Grand Cane	7, 8
Wesley, at Wesley Chapel	14, 15
Conshatta, at Conshatta	15, 16
North Bossier, at Huge's Spurr	21, 22
Pleasant Hill, at Marthaville	28, 29
Caddo, at Keachie	Nov. 4, 5
Shreveport station and mission	11, 12
Victoria mission, at Victoria	18, 19
Cane River, at Provencal	19, 20
West Natchitoches, at Shiloh	21, 22
Anacoco, at Holly Grove	27, 24
Many, at Many	25, 26
Fort Jessup, at Fort Jessup	26, 27
Natchitoches station	Dec. 2, 9
Mansfield station	9, 10

The official members of South Vernon mission are requested to meet at Holly Grove, Nov. 22. (I include those representing Petersburg, Pine Ridge, Hamans, Midkiff, and Wood's Schoolhouse.)

Boards of Trustees are earnestly requested to be ready with carefully prepared reports of the condition and value of the property in their charge.

The District Sabbath-school Convention meets at Robeline, Oct 28, at 10 A. M. Arrangements will be made for entertaining the delegates.

The Board of Managers of Mansfield Female College will meet at 9 A. M., Dec. 1, at the college.

The trustees of Pierce and Pauna College property are requested to meet at Marthaville, Oct. 28.

ROBT. J. HARP, P. E.

829 Hope St., Shreveport, La.

DELHI DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

West Monroe, at W. Monroe	Sept. 23, 24
Monroe	24, 25
Bastrop, at Bastrop	30, Oct. 1
Lind Grove, at Bonito	7, 8
Winsboro, at Winsboro	14, 15
Oak Ridge, at Mer Rouge	21, 22
Rayville, at Union	28, 29
Oakley, at Jourdin Chapel	28, 22
Calhoun, at Mt. Ariel	Nov. 4, 5
Harrisonburg, at Island	11, 12
Lapins, at Frantoms C	18, 19
Lake Providence	25, 29
Waterproof	Dec. 2, 3
Delhi	7
Floyd	9, 10

H. O. WHITE, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Opelousas, at O	Sept. 16, 17
Washington, at W	17, 18
New Iberia	30, Oct. 1
Abbeville, at P. G	7, 8
Franklin and Jeanerette	14, 15
Indian Bayou	21, 22
Plaquemine Brulee	28, 22
Patterson and Morgan City	Nov. 4, 5
Lake Charles—E. Street	11, 12
Jackson Street and W. Lake	12, 13
Grand Chenier	18, 19
Sulphur Mine	25, 26
Lake Arthur	Dec. 2, 9

JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Lower Coast, at Port Eads	Sept. 17

C. W. CARTER, P. E.

The ADVOCATE needs money; pay up!

MANLY PURITY

To cleanse the blood, skin, and scalp of every eruption, impurity, and disease, whether simple, scrofulous, hereditary, or ulcerative, no agency in the world is so speedy, economical, and unfailing as the

CUTICURA

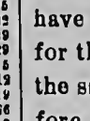
Remedies, consisting of CUTICURA, the great skin cure, CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite skin purifier and beautifier, and CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood purifier and greatest of humor remedies. In a word, they are the greatest skin cures, blood purifiers, and humor remedies of modern times, and may be used in the treatment of every humor and disease, from eczema to scrofula, with the most gratifying and unfailing success. Sold everywhere.

POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CORP., Boston.

"How to Cure Blood Humors" mailed free.

PIMPLES, blackheads, red, rough hands and falling hair cured by CUTICURA SOAP.

RHEUMATIC PAINS



In one minute the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster relieves rheumatic, sciatic, hip, kidney, chest, and muscular pains and weaknesses. Price, 25c.

WIDOW HOOD'S LODGING HOUSE,

No. 10 ST. CHARLES ST.

I wish to announce to the public that I have renovated and refitted my house, and solicit the patronage of the travelling public. Open all night. Beds can be had for 25 and 50 cents. I especially solicit the patronage of Christian people visiting the city.

WIDOW A. A. HOOD

East Mississippi Female College.

The 24th Session begins September 6, 1893.

Situated in the City of Meridian, is easy of access from all points.

The health record is unsurpassed.

The buildings are commodious and comfortable.

The faculty has been chosen with reference to EXPERIENCE, THOROUGHNESS and EXCELLENCY of CHARACTER.

Our terms are to suit the times.

For catalogue or further information apply to REV. T. B. HOLLOMAN, A. M., Pres., 1101 23rd Avenue, Meridian, Miss.

Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water.

W. W. Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water is still on sale at Gloster, Miss., by Wm. B. Hines, as heretofore, and as advertised in this NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. Now I wish sub-agents all over Louisiana and Mississippi, who can have circulars by writing to me for them. Will be glad to have the same patronage given heretofore by friends and sick ones. This water is making wonderful cures. WM. B. HINES.

Gloster, Amite Co., Miss., Sept. 2, 1893.

Evergreen -:- College,

EVERGREEN, LA.

FOR BOYS AND GIRLS.

Offers Board and Tuition for the entire session, payable quarterly, for $120.

For particulars address,

C. C. WIER, Pres.

Cincinnati Conservatory of Music,

MISS CLARA BAUR, Directress.

Thorough musical education after the methods of foremost European conservatories. The Conservatory will as usual be open during the entire Summer, and students can, as during the school year, enter at any time.

Branches taught: Vocal culture, the Pianoforte, Organ, Harp, Violin, and all other Orchestral Instruments; also Guitar, Mandolin and Banjo; Elocution, Delsarte, Modern Languages, English Literature and Art.

Young ladies from a distance can board in the Conservatory building, where they pursue their studies under the supervision of the Directress. For Catalogue address in full,

MISS CLARA BAUR,
Conservatory of Music, 4th and Lawrence, Cincinnati, O.

3 Love... Named Hyacinth

Different Co... for blooming pots, sent mail, post p...

For 10 Ce...

together with beautifully ... trated Catalo... of 64 pages, a... sample copy o...

Mayflower, ... pages, elegantly illustrated and containing magnificent, large colored plates of flowers. OUR FALL CATALOGUE for 1893. A sup... work of Art. We offer the finest stock of H... cinths, Tulips, Crocus, Narcissus, Lilies, F... sias, etc., and scores of rare new Bulbs and Pl... for fall planting and winter blooming, also ch... Shrubs, Trees and Fruits. It is like most beau... and complete Catalogue of the kind ever iss...

JOHN LEWIS CHILDS, Floral Park, N...

UNIVERSITY SCH... Petersburg, Va

The twenty-ninth annual session of this sc... boys begins MONDAY, October 2nd. Thoroug... aration for University of Virginia, Yale, H... United States military and naval academies, ... the best technical schools. Full staff. For cat... address W. Gordon McCabe, Head M...

Are You Unemploy...

Will you work for $18 per week? Write to once. JOSEPH R. GAY, Pres. C. P. & L. FIFTH AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGI...

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA.

Session begins 15th Sept. Full equipm... corps of instructors in Academical, Engineering and Medical Departments. Excellent Climat... Gymnasium, with baths free to all studen... catalogues address

WM. M. THORNTON, LL.D., Chai...

VIRGINIA MILITARY INSTITUT...

LEXINGTON, VA.

65th Year. State Military, Scientific and Tech... al School. Thorough Courses in general and ... ified Chemistry, and in Engineering. Confers ... ree of graduate in Academic Course, also degree... Bachelor of Science and Civil Engineer in Techni... Courses. All expenses, including clothing and i... contents, provided at rate of $36.50 per month, a... average for the four years, exclusive of outfit.

New Cadets report Sept. 1st.

GEN. SCOTT SHIPP, Superintend...

No Tobacco. NO OPI... The only practicabl... way to reach

CATARR... thoroughly and pleasa... A positive cure even if all ... has failed. Sample FREE by ... DR. J. W. BLOSSER & C... DALTON GA.

AGENTS WANTED ON SAL...

or commission, to handle the new Patent Ch... ical Ink Erasing Pencil. The quickest and ... est selling novelty ever produced. Erases ... thoroughly in two seconds. No abrasion of p... Works like magic. 200 to 500 per cent. p... One Agent's sales amounted to $520 to six ... Another $32 in two hours. Previous experi... not necessary. For terms and full particu... address, The Monroe Eraser Mf'g Co., La Cr... Wis.

FAT PEOPL...

To reduce your weight SURELY use Will... Obesity Pills and lose 15 pounds a mo... No injury to the health. No interference ... business or pleasure. NO STARVING. ... build up and improve the general he... beautify the complexion and leave ... WRINKLES. Lucy Anderson, 54 Aub... St., Cambridge, Mass., writes: Three bottl... your Obesity Pills reduced my weight f... 225 pounds to 190 and I never felt better in... my life. I am much pleased with the re... and shall do all I can to help you. Our ... trons include Physicians, Bankers, Law... and leaders of Society. Our goods are not ... in drug stores; all orders are supplied di... from our office. Price per package $2.00... three packages for $5.00 by mail prepaid. ... tienlars (sealed) 4cts. ALL CORRESPO... ENCE CONFIDENTIAL.

WILLARD REMEDY CO., BOSTON, MASS...

HOPKINS' PRINTING OFFIC...

20 Commercial Place,

John P. Hopkins. New Orle...

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

Queen & Crescent Route

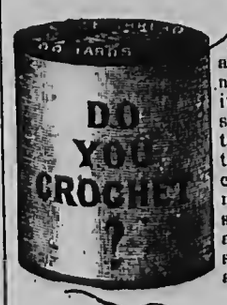
"Finest Trains in the South."

Through Cars to Chicago without change, from New Orleans, Meridian, Birmingham, Chattanooga, Jacksonville, Fla., Atlanta, Macon, Asheville, N. C., Knoxville, Tenn., Lexington and Georgetown, Ky. Choice of routes via Cincinnati or via Louisville. Stop-overs allowed on all World's Fair tickets, at Chattanooga, Louisville, Indianapolis or Cincinnati.

For further information as to Rates, Car Service, Sleeping Car Reservations, etc., call on or address any agent of the Queen & Crescent Route or E. T. V. & G. Ry.

D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. A., Cincinnati, O.

THROUGH CARS TO CHICAGO.



GLASGO TWILLED LACE THREAD

A thread which all lovers of fancy work —FOR— appreciate at once. The twilly appearance, which is peculiar to itself, makes Crocheting, it superior to any other thread for every sort of fancy work, from bed spreads to Knitting, tatting and point lace. It is also equal Tatting. to the very best threads made in the country for all sewing purposes, whether by hand or machine. Ask your dealer for it, or send 10c. for sample spool, 500 yards. Illustrated Crochet Books, Nos. 1, 2, and 3, 10c. each. 12 nice tidy patterns, 5c. each. 12 bed spread patterns, 5c. each. All postpaid. Either of above books sent free with an order for 12 patterns.

GLASGO LACE THREAD CO., Glasgo, Conn.

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 40.—NO. 38. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1893. WHOLE NO. 1935.

Rev. J. M. BEARD, D. D., Editor and Publisher. } PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA CONFERENCE, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH. { ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

HOMEWARD TO THEE.

Never so fathomless a sea
But through its depths there reached me
His still supporting hand.
Never so drear can desert be
But there his love grows green for me
Amid the scorching sand.

For he who over sea and land
Both homeward guide from farthereat strand
The bird's unerring way
Can surely safe my pathway steer.
Then let me never yield to fear,
Nor once in darkness stray.

Though I am weak and wayward still,
Lord, do for me thy chosen will;
But this my prayer shall be—
Wherever wings my wandering way,
Oh, steer it so at last it may
Safe homeward lead to thee!

—From the Swedish.

"Devotion to a Person."

The living pictures of devotion excel [illegible] artists' brush. A room prepared [illegible] the invalid daughter or son, where [illegible] is arranged to please their eye, satisfy their taste, humor their fancies. [illegible] room, as far as possible, turned into [illegible] hot-house of rare and exquisite flora. [illegible] personality absorbing a life is the [illegible]ight of love; their wishes anticipated, the spirit of their life kept in [illegible]ind, lest there may be a thoughtless, [illegible]ecessary wound inflicted. The [illegible]st heavenly pictures are those of [illegible] and refined devotion to some loved [illegible]—a husband to an invalid wife, a [illegible]ld to an aged parent, a parent to son [illegible] daughter, in whom they live and [illegible] constantly forecasting for their [illegible]ort or joy. The singleness of love [illegible]s of one purpose and aim, concentering all thought on the loved one, [illegible] a rare and glorious picture. All [illegible] pictures are to have their spiritual counterpart in devotion to a person. Savior. Christianity is well epitomized by an author who says its distinctive feature is, that it is summed up this, "It is devotion to a Person"—a Person the center of the system. [illegible] other religions are devotion to [illegible]ds, philosophies, systems of truth, [illegible] ours is devotion to a Person—a [illegible]on on whom we lean, to whom we [illegible]; an unchanging center as fixed as [illegible]tars in heaven; a Person ever the [illegible]e in all time, in all eternity. Man, [illegible] heart, the center of all this physical [illegible]oolverse, is to be attracted, drawn [illegible]ndrously to the center of the universe spiritual, the eternal Person; [illegible]ing to him, living for him, communing with him, in constant spiritual [illegible]wship with him. While a creed is [illegible]ssary, it is not to absorb the [illegible]ught and love to the exclusion of [illegible] who embodies all living truth. [illegible]le denominations must be differentiating Christians in their view of [illegible]th as it is in Jesus, that one is the [illegible]st acceptable to him which promotes the greatest number of intelligent followers and the deepest heartfelt devotion in each adherent. All [illegible]ems of Christian truth reach their [illegible]reat goal in presenting him so that [illegible] hosts shall be attracted to him as [illegible] fairest among ten thousand. Devotion to a creed, to a system of belief, [illegible] church, to a doctrine, are often [illegible] as decoys by the enemy of our [illegible], in order that devotion to him [illegible] be secondary, or may be chilled to [illegible]th. A churchman may be saved, [illegible]ardent exponent of Christian creed [illegible] be rewarded, a zealot for some [illegible]tline may attain eternal blessedness, but devotion to Christ shall certainly be crowned with him in his [illegible]rnal kingdom. The position of [illegible]ter and disciples was not only [illegible]pting the custom of the day to dis[illegible]ose in preparing these men for the [illegible]pagation of his kingdom, but it was [illegible] necessary for introducing this [illegible]test law of the kingdom of devotion to a single central Person. All [illegible]olve around him, all cluster about [illegible]; he is the center, the beginning, [illegible] end of the whole kingdom, and devotion to him the great law of the [illegible]gdom. This can take a thousand [illegible]pes; he manifested in more forms [illegible] the combinations seen in a kaleidoscope, produced by a few pieces [illegible] colored glass. This devotion to a [illegible]son may be evinced by a tone, a [illegible]ice. Devotion to the Lord is to be [illegible]ealed continuously throughout life; [illegible] the very tones when we speak of [illegible], by the simplest acts that regard [illegible], by the communion with him as [illegible] ceaseless as it is possible to be. [illegible]ession of this devotion is not so [illegible]olutely demanded as for it to be [illegible]o. Our religion must be scenic; it [illegible] to be read and known of all men. [illegible]s devotion to Jesus, the Savior, [illegible]st be seen, must impress our world, our coterie; then that world will hear our profession. Devotion to him will make us grow like him, approximate his character; and the longer the communion with him, the longer we have fellowship with him, the more devoted we will become. "Though unseen, I love the Savior." Oh, that this devotion may be ours, letting everything else be secondary to this, and our fellowship with him be more intimate every day!

S. S. K.

Henington Camp Meeting.

The twenty-second annual camp meeting of Henington Camp Ground began Aug. 24, and closed Aug. 31. It stands among one of the best camp meetings we have ever had upon the grounds. It is true there were not as many conversions (only about twenty known) as we have had on former occasions—accessions only eighteen; yet there was produced among the membership, to such an extent as we have never witnessed before, a very great desire for a higher and holier life. There were several who professed sanctification, and many others who are now striving to obtain it.

The preaching was all good. Among those who served us was Rev. W. B. Lewis, one of the clearest-headed, well-balanced, sweet-spirited and consecrated men we ever knew. His preaching was well said, well timed, and always to the point. His manners, conversation, and all he says and does, is a living epistle to all men how perfectly a man may live.

Dr. Murrah stands among our ablest men. His preaching was strong and clear in thought, evidencing a readiness for any and all occasions. His sermon had nothing stereotyped, or apparently cut and dried for the occasion; but was suited to the condition of the meeting. Something not all college professors always do.

Dr. Weems did some very fine preaching, but space forbids noticing the strong points made by him.

Bros. P. A. Johnston, Dominick, Griffin and Morse served us faithfully.

Our home pastors, Bros. Woodward and Norsworthy, were present in charge of the meeting.

The principal part of the preaching was done by Rev. H. C. Morrison, of Lexington, Ky., editor of the Kentucky Methodist. He bears the same name as our Missionary Secretary. I ask the privilege of reproducing what Dr. S. A. Steel, of Nashville, said of him in the St. Louis Advocate, of Dec. 21, 1892. He says: "Bro. Morrison, the evangelist, is a first-class man; a Christian of the highest type, a theologian, a rhetorician, an orator, an old-fashioned shouting Methodist preacher. I had a high opinion of him before he came; but, after hearing him preach twice a day for three weeks, I put him at the top of those preachers who have fed and strengthened me. His great theme is holiness, sanctification and perfect love. He explains this, proves this, enforces this in every sermon, turning it round and round, illustrating it, pleading for it until the dullest believer is stirred with the thought that religion is power, and that anything short of power is a delusion and snare of the devil. God enabled him to present this vital subject in such a manner that he won a hearing from many who were prejudiced against evangelists and the holiness movement."

Every word Dr. Steel says of him we heartily endorse. As Dr. Steel says of his preaching, it means "the revival power in the ministry and in the church; the expulsion of the worldliness that is spreading like leprosy among us."

We thank God for the doctrine of holiness as taught by the founders of Methodism. It is the fire of the Holy Ghost, and it should be taught more in our churches, and more plead for from our pulpits. If not, we fear the time is not far distant when we will have to get out of the way. It is Christianity "in earnest;" the grand "depositum of Methodism."

We are thankful Bro. Morrison has been among us. We feel he has been of great benefit to many of us. He preached fourteen times on the same theme, and made no repetition either of argument or illustration of one to another. He is a wonderful man of great versatility and seemingly unlimited resources. He made no failures, but grew on his congregation from beginning to end.

J. W. McNEIL,
Sec. Henington Camp Meeting Ass'n.

A Word of Caution.

In view of the prevailing financial distress the Board of Church Extension deems it prudent to issue a note of warning to the church, and particularly to those who contemplate building houses of worship in the near future.

It should be understood that the appropriations made at the annual and stated meetings of the Board are not of funds already collected and in hand, but (in case of donations) are based entirely upon collections yet to be taken. The appropriations are made in April, but, as all know, the collections are not generally taken and paid over until the end of the Conference year. The consequence is that it is seldom possible to pay these appropriations until the late Fall or Winter. This will explain what appears to many who do not understand the situation as "vexatious delay."

Again, it is a law of the Board that the aggregate donations granted in any given year shall not exceed the receipts of the year previous. At its meeting last April appropriations were made up to this limit.

Having recently received applications from and heard of congregations about to undertake church-building enterprises, we think it wise to give this timely notice that, under prevailing conditions, it is not at all probable that the Board of Church Extension will be able to furnish assistance, by way of donation or loan, beyond that already granted at the annual meeting.

We would also specially caution those to whom aid has been promised to refrain from making any engagements or contracts based upon the idea that such funds will be certainly forthcoming at any given dates in the future. When the money is collected and in the hands of the Board, those to whom it has been promised will be notified immediately, and then, and only then, can they depend with absolute certainty upon receiving it.

The above indicates the uniform practice of this Board, and we are not now promulgating any new rules; but we deem it our duty to call especial and emphatic attention to these matters at this time in order to prevent or check hasty and inconsiderate action that might, if pursued, result in disappointment and disaster to the church in many localities.

By order of the Board, Aug. 10, 1893.

PRESLEY MEGUIAR, Pres.,
DAVID MORTON, Cor. Sec.

Church Extension Jubilee.

Rev. Dr. David Morton, our Church Extension Secretary, as directed by the Board of Church Extension at their last annual meeting, has called upon our more than 1,300,000 members to raise this year $100,000 over the regular assessment for the grand cause he represents. In looking over his last report, we are simply amazed at the vast amount of practical and permanent good that must have been done since the inauguration of the church extension movement in our church. These are the figures, as we have them from Louisville:

Aid granted to churches from the beginning—
By General Board, donations	$206,561 22
By " " loans	152,450 00
By Conference Boards, donations (estimated)	248,172 34
Grand total	$617,183 56

From April 1, 1892, to March 31, 1893, 488 churches and parsonages were helped by loans and donations. It is supposed that, at least, 3,000 churches have been assisted since the start. According to the General Minutes, the Southern Methodists have 12,856 church-buildings and 3,015 parsonages. It will be seen, then, that the fraction of these that have been helped, and their existence and completion made possible by the General and Conference Boards, is a very creditable one. The wise expenditure of the money raised for church extension, and the vast good resulting therefrom, and which must go on in ever-increasing ratio through all the years of the future, gives Dr. Morton and his Board solid ground upon which to base their appeal for the really small sum of $100,000 additional.

We, of the Louisiana Conference, however it may be with others, have every reason to thank God for the timely and very liberal aid we have received along the line of church extension gifts and loans. We have received from the General and from our Conference Board almost, if not quite, as much as we have contributed during the decade to church extension. One of our finest New Orleans churches received from Dr. Morton's Board a donation of $1,500, and our church in a thriving interior town received from the Conference Board $500, and from the General Board $800, and also a loan of $1,000. Every section of the Conference has felt the invigoration of church extension gifts or loans, and the amounts received have ranged from $25 all along up to $500, and over. Verily, considering the facts in the case, no collection brought before our people in Louisiana should be more popular than this one, and the call for the extra $100,000 jubilee money should meet with favor among us, and receive a hearty and generous response. Times are hard; but when were they not so? And, hard as they are, have not very many of our members found the means for a trip to the great Chicago Exposition? Very many empty places in our churches indicate that few have been forced for lack of the wherewithal to omit their usual and expensive Summer trip. While we do not begrudge any the pleasure and advantage they obtain by their journey to Chicago or elsewhere, we can not do other than wish that they might have the conscience and heart to give, if not an equal amount, at least a large fraction of what they thus spend on themselves, to helping out Dr. Morton in his glorious work. This is a time for men, such as Bishop Haygood mentions in a late Nashville Advocate, to come to the front in Louisiana and all over our church. That man doubled his subscription because the times were hard, and others might be tempted to reduce theirs. Seeing all agree that the times are hard and the financial stress is very great, the remedy should be heroically applied, and a doubling up of contributions all along the line of church giving should become the order of the day.

In 1893, no less than in any other year, Southern Methodists can, if the will and conscience be in them, most easily raise $100,000 additional for church extension.

JOHN T. SAWYER.

Rev. A. D. McVoy, Jr.

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God, in his wise providence and fatherly love, to call from his post in the church militant to dwell with himself in the church triumphant the soul of our former pastor, Rev. A. D. McVoy, Jr., who so faithfully labored for our spiritual welfare and the upbuilding of the church at this point, we truly and most humbly bow ourselves before this manifestation of his providence, though incomprehensible to us, and seek in our hearts to say, "Thy will be done;" And, whereas, In the loss of Bro. McVoy we feel that we have lost a friend, one of whom it was and is always a pleasure to think, and realize that the church has lost one of its most faithful and useful servants, for he was one eminently fitted to do valiant service in and for the church, being of an earnest, prayerful nature, strictly tending to duty and keeping a loving oversight of the flock, and living on intimate terms with his Savior, was able to lead others to their Master; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we pray God that we may all seek to imitate and embody in our own lives the beauties and excellences which were so prominent in his, and thus follow him as he followed Christ; that his unswerving devotion to his Lord, his loving and love-inspiring nature be an incentive to us to seek first at all times "the kingdom of God and his righteousness," and thus may his influence still live and work out the salvation of souls.

Resolved, That we, the members and attendants of the Natchitoches M. E. Church, South, in memorial services assembled, extend to Mrs. A. D. McVoy, Jr., and the parents, sisters and brothers of our deceased friend and former pastor, our heartfelt sympathy and condolence in their bereavement; that while God, in his love for them, has taken from them a helpmeet, son and brother, yet in his mercy may he manifest himself unto them with comfort and love from on high; that we will drape the church in mourning for our brother, and leave it so draped for a period of thirty days; that all we can do is to extend to them, our bereaved friends, this assurance of our earnest regard and reverence for Bro. McVoy's memory, which shall ever be as a benediction to us, and that we now commit them to the care of their Creator and Father, until such a time as they meet again at the right hand of God.

Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be made and sent to Mrs. A. D. McVoy, Jr.; Rev. A. D. McVoy, and that copies be also made and sent to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE and Natchitoches Enterprise for publication.

(Signed) THE CONGREGATION.

Aug. 13, 1893.

"Ministerial Selfishness."

The late Hon. Hiram Cassedy, father of the Hon. Hiram and the Hon. W. P. Cassedy, used to relate, with no little enjoyment to himself and to others, an anecdote of a Dutch acquaintance to whom he once mentioned the name of a friend, John——. "Vat," said the Dutchman, "you know Shon? Shon is von shmart vellow! You no haf to vink at him mit a hickory shtick!"

The recent criticisms, public and private, both on myself and my article in the ADVOCATE, of Aug. 28, headed "Ministerial Selfishness," have reminded me of the anecdote above stated. For my article gave neither the names of persons nor of places, and no man had any right to construe my purely impersonal article into a personal attack. I simply gave facts without indulging in personalities. Yet one brother writes to me and charges me with doing him a gross injustice in "dragging in the public prints a private matter!" And another undertakes to controvert the facts of my article by stating the facts of a case apparently known to him! His name had not been used; neither had the name of circuit, district, or Annual Conference been given! and neither was the denominational name given—whether Methodist, Baptist, or Presbyterian. The facts remain as stated by me, some having come under my own observation, and others were related to me by credible witnesses. My motive was not to attack persons, but to expose an evil that militates against ministerial usefulness. They were simply sample cases, like incidents being too numerous to mention, but which observant laymen have long noticed and to which they have often called my attention.

T. L. MELLEN.

Missionary Debt—Mississippi Conference.

BRANDON DISTRICT.

Neshoba cir., J. H. Foreman, P. C...$5

Now, let us hear from Decatur, Shiloh, Homewood, Carthage and Walnut Grove, Walnut Grove circuit, Morton and Forest, Marvin, Lake, and all the others that are in arrears. Let the delinquent charges in the other districts begin to forward their contributions.

T. L. MELLEN,
Sol. for Miss. Conf.

FROM THE WORK.

Rev. J. F. Wynn: "Two more good meetings since my last report. The Lord is still with us in saving power."

Rev. J. F. Wynn, Pineville, La., Sept. 1: "Just closed a meeting at Pleasant Grove, assisted by Bro. R. M. Walker. Ten or twelve professed conversion, one entire sanctification, and many others earnestly seeking the experience of perfect love. Nine persons received into the church, including two by letter."

Rev. E. P. Craddock, Ellzey, Miss., Sept. 1: "Have just closed our fourth meeting. God is with us in great power. One hundred and fifteen conversions to date. Sixty-five have joined the M. E. Church, and a goodly number have joined the Baptist. Several promised to hold family prayer. A good many of the new converts praying in public. One young men's prayer meeting organized; one other prayer meeting organized. The spiritual state of this circuit is good."

Rev. I. T. Reames, Girard, La., Aug. 29: "We have just closed a ten days' meeting at Little Creek, where we were assisted by Rev. C. F. Staples, who rendered earnest and efficient service in the Master's cause. Results are as follows: About nine professed conversion, six were added unto the church, and the membership graciously revived. Truly 'it was good to be there.' We have other meetings to hold in the near future, and hope ere long to send in even better reports. Brethren, pray for us."

Rev. H. P. Lewis, P. C., Caseyville, Miss., Aug. 28: "Just closed a meeting of six days at old Sweet Water. Bros. Luster, of Holmesville circuit; Crossley, of Brookhaven circuit; Breland, of Wesson station, and B. W. Lewis, of Lebanon circuit, did good, faithful preaching. God bless those young men. No effort on the part of any of them to make a display; only in the way of trying to reach and save sinners. Congregations large and attentive. Altar crowded with penitents from the start. Results: Thirty conversions and reclamations, ten additions to the church, and the entire membership revived; a prayer meeting organized."

Rev. W. F. Sanders, Aug. 30: "The Lord God has been good to his people on Centerville circuit, Louisiana Conference. Held two good meetings to date; one at Centerville, assisted by that sainted father in Israel, Rev. J. M. Johnston, who, assisted by Rev. J. J. Arnold, did the preaching. Results: Nine accessions—six on profession of faith, three by letter. Baptized eight children. The church greatly revived. We just closed a meeting at Gray's School-house, which resulted in one accession on profession of faith, six conversions, and almost the whole church reclaimed. It was a time of refreshing that came from the presence of the Lord. The Christian rejoiced; sinners quaked and trembled; God's power was felt by almost everyone present. I was assisted in this meeting by Revs. W. R. Whatley and J. J. Arnold, L. P.'s. I did but little of the preaching; but the Lord blessed the work."

Rev. R. A. Sibley, P. C., Raleigh circuit, Mississippi Conference: "I am closing out my fourth year on this work. It bids very fair to be the most prosperous of the four. Held two protracted services, to-wit: Boykin Church and Raleigh Church. Results: At Boykin, twelve very substantial members, quite a number of conversions, church wonderfully revived and at work. At Raleigh Church, sixteen accessions, with many professions; church membership occupying higher plane of enjoyment now. Rev. J. G. Sibley did the preaching at Boykin, except one sermon. At Raleigh Revs. R. S. Gale, B. H. Rawls, and R. H. Barr did the preaching. Lasting good accomplished. To these brethren I return heartfelt thanks. To God be the glory! We have other protracted meetings yet to hold. Are looking for and expecting a further outpouring of God's Spirit. Finances very, very far behind in collections and preacher's salary."

Rev. W. J. Porter, Plaquemine Brulee, La., Aug. 31: "Have held three meetings. Plaquemine Brulee eleven days, assisted by Bros. Ellis and Seward; four conversions and five accessions. Church Point eight days, assisted by Bros. Tom Randle and son Ross, Rohadeaux and Miller. The latter dedicated for sacred use, on the last day of the meeting at that place, one of the neatest churches in all this country. It is a frame building of modern style, costing over fifteen hundred dollars, the existence of which is due mainly to the efforts of my predecessor, Rev. R. M. Blocker, and Bros. U. T. Blackshear and W. S. Evans. One conversion and nine children baptized. Long Point ten days, assisted by Bros. Drake, Mitchell, and R. R. Randle; fifty conversions and twenty accessions, and $34 50 in cash and subscription raised on Conference collections. More than one hundred have professed a desire for sanctification during these meetings, but only a few profess the experience."

Rev. J. N. Tucker, Learned, Miss., Aug. 30: "Since our last report we have held three protracted meetings. At Learned we continued two weeks; the church revived, three applications for church membership. Rev. V. D. Skipper assisted us. At Dry Grove we held services for five days; several regenerations, ten applications, nine of whom were received into full connection, making in all at this place this year fifteen by profession of faith and four by certificate and transfer. People belonging to other denominations say it was the best revival held there within the past twenty years, if no. in the history of the place. Men who were wicked, eight months ago, are now officers in the church, praying in their families and in public, and telling to sinners round what a dear Savior they have found.' Dry Grove presents a bright future for the kingdom of Christ under the Methodist banner. At Bear Creek we continued five days; four accessions, four consecrations to God's undivided service. Rev. C. W. Crisler assisted. Our brother, Rev. T. Masao, the Japanese preacher, was with us at Learned and Dry Grove greatly to the delight and edification of the church."

Continued on Third Page.

THE SONG-SPARROW'S NEST.

I stood beside a compass-plant which rose
Above the grass with flaming blossoms crowned;
When suddenly, as hurt, along the ground
A sparrow fluttered, seeming in death's throes.
Poor bird! I knew her love wiles, looked around,
There was the nest, beneath the leaf's broad tent.
And gaping, yellow mouths, one, two, three, four,
Crowded the curious, woven tenement.
What wonder that my presence grieved her sore!
Or that she strove to tempt my feet away
With simulated helplessness; such lore
Hath love. Who would prolong his stay
Near by her spouse kept watch on circling wing,
But as I went my way they both began to sing.

—Exchange

Christian Perfection.

BY REV. F. N. PARKER.

"Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father in heaven is perfect." (Matt. v, 48)

The aim of the gospel is the perfection of the moral nature of man. Therefore the central idea of Christianity is Christian perfection. This is readily seen by a few citations from the Word of God. Our text is a strong case in point.

"For the eyes of the Lord run to and fro throughout the whole earth, to show himself strong in the behalf of them whose heart is perfect towards him." "And this also we wish, even your perfection." The apostle declares this to be the aim of preaching: "Whom we preach, warning every man, and teaching every man in all wisdom; that we may present every man perfect in Christ Jesus: Whereunto I also labor, striving according to his working, which worketh in me mightily." Again: "Let us go on to perfection." Nothing could be clearer than these passages, and yet there are those who are offended if the doctrine of Christian perfection is preached or the experience is professed. There can be only two sources whence these objections arise: The first is a total misapprehension of the subject, due to a lack of information; and the second is a disease of the moral nature of man, located in the heart, the antipathy of the carnal mind to holiness. It is, therefore, the duty of the gospel minister to preach upon this subject fully and freely; and, in accordance with this truth, Wesley wrote: "Let all our preachers make a point of preaching perfection to believers, constantly, strongly, explicitly." Again this necessity is emphasized by the experience of Mr. Wesley in the conduct of the early Methodist societies. He says with reference to the societies in Cornwall: "The more I converse with the believers in Cornwall, the more I am convinced that they have suffered great loss for want of hearing the doctrine of Christian perfection clearly and strongly enforced. I see wherever this is not done the believers grow dead and cold. Nor can this be prevented but by keeping them in hourly expectation of being perfected in love. I say an hourly expectation, for to expect it at death or some other time is as much as not to expect it at all." Nor is Mr. Wesley alone in his testimony as to the importance of this doctrine in the church, for we find it possessing a prominent place in the early days of Christianity, to say nothing of the testimony of the canonical writings of the inspired apostles. Clemens Romanus, writing in the earliest days of the church, said: "Those who have been perfected in love through the grace of God, attain to the place of the godly in the fellowship of those who, in all ages, have served the glory of God in perfectness." And Irenæus said, "God is mighty to make that perfect which the willing spirit desires." In the writings of all the early fathers there is much of this testimony, and it only faded out when the church began to gather that mass of corrupt accretion which intimated in the heresies of the Romish Church. The New Testament is full of testimony, and the experiences of the early Christians all concur in assigning to the doctrine and experience of perfect love the most important place in the Christian system. Our Lord made love the test of genuine discipleship, and the apostle affirmed it to be the greatest of the Christian graces. This doctrine, though lost sight of for many years, even centuries, was revived to become the grand depositum of the people called Methodists. And in the words of our founder, under God, "And for the sake of propagating this chiefly, he appears to have raised us up." Fletcher, Bramwell, Carvosso, Ashury, McKendrie, and such men as Fisk, all left their testimony to this great truth. The biographies of men and women eminent for their piety and usefulness all bear the impress of this doctrine. It is, therefore, the duty of every minister to expound this truth for the edification of the people committed to his care.

I.—WHAT IS CHRISTIAN PERFECTION?

The term Christian limits the term perfection, showing that it is a perfection of the moral nature of man, and due to the influence of Christianity. It is not a perfection of the intellectual, temperamental or physical nature of man. It is not Adamic perfection or the perfection enjoyed by our first parents; it is not the perfection of the angels of God; it is not the absolute perfection of man as is the perfection of God. It is not a perfection which frees us from temptation or suffering, from working and praying, searching the Scriptures and fighting the good fight of faith. Neither does it spare us the pains of the death-hour. Nor is it a perfection which does not admit of continued growth in grace and the development of all the attributes of Christian character.

It is the complete restoration of the health of the soul of man. The eradication of abnormal appetencies and dispositions. It is the state of full compliance with the law of intelligent beings: viz, the law of love to God and man. A man is morally perfect when his nature fully responds to and conforms to this law of love; when he lives, works and suffers from the motive of pure and divinely imparted love. I believe that this definition will be found correct by a true exegesis of the Word of God; to this then let us now direct our attention, praying for the light of the Holy Spirit upon our investigations.

1. The Scriptures demand a perfection of that love toward God and man. "Thou shalt love the Lord, thy God, with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it. Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." This profound summary of the moral law determines the requisite standard of Christian character. To measure up to this standard a man must be made perfect in love. He can do neither of these things unless the principle of love be the strongest principle of his life; not only the strongest, but the supreme principle, before which every other interest and influence gives way. And the apostle calls "love the bond of perfectness." Again, the perfect man fulfills the law of God, and "love is the fulfilling of the law." We notice two things in this law of love; first, with reference to God: It requires the whole heart of man, "with all thy heart and with all thy soul." With singleness of purpose the soul adores God, all the powers and faculties are in an attitude of devotion and consecration to him; he is the joy of the heart, his will the law of life obeyed with gladness, and suffered with patience and trust. The soul cries out, "Whom have I in heaven but thee, and there is none upon the earth that I desire beside thee." It is a love that finds its satisfaction in the glory of God, and not in the attainment of its own honor. Unselfish, pure, devoted, all the aims of life are made to subserve the glory of God. This love toward man must be perfect. "As ourselves" we must love our neighbor. The divine law requires an unselfish love to our neighbor. We are to "love our enemies, bless them that persecute us and despitefully use us, that we may be the children of our Father which is in heaven." We are to do good to all men. To do all this entirely and impartially is to be perfect in love. This is the scriptural standard, which no one can lower, to which we are called by the Word of God in all places of the holy writings, and which none can refuse to accept without denying the oracles of God.

2. Love is the law of perfection; "the fulfilling of the law," the "bond of perfectness." The aim of the commandment "is love out of a pure heart and a faith unfeigned."

Holiness is the qualification for the fulfilling of the law. It is to be "love out of a pure heart," a holy heart, a heart entirely sanctified by the grace of God. Love, pure love, finds its source in holiness. It is so with God, it is so with man. Holiness is purity, freedom from sin or moral disease or the perversion of spiritual functions. To be entirely holy, fully sanctified, is to have every principle of antagonism to the law of God eradicated from the heart. This is heart purity, the heart conforming to a law of holiness, justice and goodness.

> "A heart resigned, submissive, meek,
> My great Redeemer's throne;
> Where only Christ is heard to speak,
> Where Jesus reigns alone.
>
> "A heart in every thought renewed,
> And full of love divine,
> Perfect and right and pure and good,
> A copy, Lord, of thine."

Such a heart alone is capable of the law of perfectness. Without holiness no man can love God with all his heart, or his neighbor as himself. This, the necessary qualification for fulfilling the royal law of Christ. The Holy Scriptures give us many and varied terms to express freedom from sin or holiness. These passages are co-ordinated with those which have for their specific import the teaching of the perfect love and consecration of the law of perfection. And this because they are parts of the same thing. Does the Bible anywhere teach this doctrine of holiness? "Be ye holy in all manner of conversation." "And without holiness no man shall see the Lord." "But now being made free from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life." Here we have freedom from sin. "Let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God." And again, "May the God of peace sanctify you wholly, and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ." "Cleansed us from all unrighteousness." Sanctified, cleansed, made holy, perfected in holiness, are all terms of similar import. It is a cleansing from all those evil passions of the soul which sorely press upon us in times of trial and temptation. Those roots of bitterness, initial points of antagonism to the holy law, such as anger, jealousy, pride, selfishness, uncharitable thinking, unholy ambition, glorying in self, sympathies with evil lusts, impatience, resentment, all these are taken out of the wholly sanctified, and they must be, in order to love perfectly. But there is a positive aspect to holiness. While sin is excluded, and the law of sin with it, yet there is a positive principle added to the heart of the entirely sanctified: viz, the law written upon the heart. "For this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, saith the Lord; I will put my laws into their mind, and write them in their hearts: and I will be to them a God, and they shall be to me a people." This is the great work which is completed in the work of entire sanctification. The holy law becomes the rule of life and continues ever present in the heart of the perfect man in Christ Jesus. This is what the apostle signifies when he speaks of the "heart being established, unblamable in holiness before God." This is a state of perfect conformity to the blessed will of God. Here all the soul's desire is to have the will of God done in all things. A blessed harmony between the will of God and the will of man is realized, and a peace therein, that the world can not take away nor destroy as long as the soul fully assents to the provisions of the Father of lights.

Love is the law of perfection and holiness, the qualification for perfection. Conformity to the image of God is the state of perfection. "Perfect even as your father in heaven is perfect," is the language used by our Savior. Like God in spiritual character, though not to the degree of his sublime holiness, but partaking of his divine nature and conformed to the image of his Son. "But we all with open face, beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image from glory to glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord." This blessed image was lost in Eden; it is restored in Christ. The grandeur of the atonement finds its highest expression in the restoration of man to the image of his Maker. The mighty alchemy of grace surpasses all other heights of supernatural achievement in the transformation of man's fallen and sin-marred nature to the redeemed child of God, in whose life is blended the atoning grace of Christ with the imparted purity of God and the radiant joy of the Holy Ghost. This is the "new man, which after (after the fashion, like) God is created in righteousness and true holiness." This is the climax of the stupendous scheme of redemption. To the attainment of this all the revelation of God points; the providences of life and the leadings of the Holy Spirit all conspire to bring men to this state of perfection. This preparation is the preparation needed at the judgment of the great day; it is "to present us faultless before the throne of his glory with exceeding joy." All other works of grace have this as the objective point. Repentance, justification, regeneration and the inward workings of the Spirit, all conspire to urge the soul on to the realization of the completed image of God restored within. This is the object for which we groan, this prize held out to the earnest soul; this the blessed satisfaction in store for those "who hunger and thirst after righteousness," who shall be filled with glory and God. This is the fullness of the blessing of the Gospel of Christ, which is offered to all who will seek the grace of God with unquenchable desire.

II.—WHEN IS THE WORK TO BE EXPECTED?

At death? No, for our Lord said, Be ye perfect. Nowhere in Scripture is the state of Christian perfection connected with death, any more than any other time. Neither is death a means of securing this perfection. We are urged to "cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of flesh and spirit," not at death or near there, but now; "to perfect holiness," not at death, but now. We are called upon to "love the Lord our God with all our strength" now; to "be holy" because God is holy now. There is no reason why we should not be holy now that is not an equally good reason for not being holy at death. If holiness were the result of works, tribulations and disciplinary sorrow, this might be deferred until late in life; but this doctrine of works is utterly repugnant to the Word of God, and finds no place in the scheme of the atoning merit of Christ. Neither can death, the sad disaster of sin, be called in to assist the work of redemption. If holiness is the result of works, it is no more of grace. If it be the result of free grace, it is the direct and sole work of God in Christ. And time is no factor in spiritual dynamics. One day with the Lord is as a thousand years. But if entire sanctification is the result of the atoning and interceding work of the Lord Jesus, it is attainable whenever faith reaches the point of appropriating the blessing.

The whole question reduces itself to this: Is sanctification the result of the atoning work of Christ, and is it taught in Scripture that man should seek this state of perfect love which is included in the state of the entirely sanctified? If it is as we have clearly shown, there is nothing for us to do but to seek it, and that with all our mind, soul and strength.

If it be possible, let us have perfect man before we die: the world and the church need them sadly enough. Christian perfection is offered to us and urged upon us to prepare us to live as well as to die. "That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto every good word and work." "Now the God of peace, that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus Christ, that great shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the everlasting covenant, make you perfect in every good work to do his will, working in you that which is well-pleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ; to whom be glory forever and ever. Amen."

It is singular to notice the present tenses of this blessed life. Our Lord in his sublime prayer for his people made this the chief theme of that high priestly utterance, that they might "be sanctified through the truth," and this, that they might "be one" with God and his Son in their deep unity; "that they may be made perfect in one, and that the world may know that thou hast sent me, and hast loved them, as thou hast loved me."

This whole prayer seems to be laden with the counsels of perfection, so lofty in its aspirations, so profound in the intensity of its desires, so comprehensive in the scope of its application to the need of the disciple, the world, the ages. He who breathed that prayer is to-day interceding for us still at the throne of his glory, presenting the finished atonement as the ground for his people's perfection, and sending forth the Spirit of all grace to accomplish in them the rich fruition of his work of redeeming love. "Having liberty, therefore, brethren, to enter into the holiest by the blood of Jesus, by a new and living way," and "let us come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need."

The Water Valley Camp Meeting.

The Water Valley Camp Ground is situated four miles northwest of the town, on a beautiful plat of ground, near some good springs. The tenters arrange to have the meeting on the full moon in August or September. This year the meeting began on the twenty-fourth of August and closed the thirtieth. It was a good meeting, a season of refreshing from the presence of the Lord. The tents—some fifty-five or sixty—were all occupied. The congregations were large, and, in the main, profoundly attentive to the preaching of the Word. There are always some who go just to be going—to see and to be seen. They are driftwood on the current of time, and live for pleasure more than for God. Some attend just to enjoy the social pleasures of the occasion. The great body of the people, however, go to worship God, to sing and pray, and to hear preaching. These always get a blessing. The singing at the meeting was slow, low, and very poor. There seemed to be no competent leader of song. The camp meeting needs an organ and a good choir to lead the singing. Water Valley could and would furnish both but for the views and prejudices of a few who are opposed to organs and choirs. It has come to this: we must have an organ and a choir, or no singing worthy of the name. The old-time leaders of song are all dead, or else they have hung their harps upon the willows and refuse to lead in singing any longer. I seriously doubt the wisdom of a large body of intelligent Christians yielding to the prejudices of a few in this way, and especially so when the work of God is hindered thereby. The salvation of souls and the worship of God in inspiring song is too great a matter to be given up to the whims of people who do not know what is best. Those who want an organ and a good choir and good singing ought to have their way about it next year. Turn about is fair play. There is no good reason why a large majority should yield to a very small minority all the time. If there is any religion in yielding, it is high time the minority were doing a little of it. In my time I have taken some dozens of organs all to pieces, and I have never yet found a devil in anyone of them. I have found a few mice, spiders, cockroaches, lint, and much dust, but never a sign of a devil, and yet some say, "There is a devil in the organ." I have seen some organists that got the devil into them for a time, and I have seen some who were opposed to organs as devilish as organists ever dared to be. A contrary organist looks mighty ugly for the time being, and a stubborn and mulish opponent to organs and choirs looks just as ugly while the spell is on him. No matter who gets contrary, the organ always remains placid and sweet, and gives out the sweetest notes to the touch and tread of friend or foe. Mark what I say: the devil is in the people, not in the organ. But some say, "If eating meat cause my brother to offend, I will eat no more meat." Just so. That is good. Good sense, good brotherhood, and good religion, too. If opposing organs and choirs cause my brother to offend, I will oppose organs and choirs no more while I live. Some people never see but one side of a question, and that is their side of it. If there had been singing worthy of the name, this camp meeting, I believe, would have been far better than it was.

The main part, and best part, of the preaching was done by Rev. T. J. Newell, A. M.; R. A. Burroughs, P. E.; Bro. Boling, P. C.; Bro. Cole, L. P., and T. H. Haines, railroad engineer. Bro. Newell, specially, spoke the Word of God with great power and unction. Your correspondent was present to fill in the odd hours, and to rest the brethren who were doing the main part of the work.

The visible results—that which could be counted—were the conversion of some fifteen souls; but seeds were sown that will germinate and grow and bear fruit for years to come. The camp meeting was a time of seed sowing. Many will date the beginning of a new life from that meeting, and as many, perhaps more, moved up on a higher plane of Christian living. The good done will not be fully known until some thousands of years after we have gotten home. The preaching was doctrinal, practical, theoretical, experimental, mental, spiritual, expository and hortatory—all sorts. It ran the gamut of salvation from conviction for sin to final salvation.

GILDEROY.

Along the Coast.

Moss Point is really a "Methodist" town, and as lovely a little hamlet as the South can very well boast; real stir and hustle giving one an idea of business. The milling business being the principal, there are six large mills and planers in operation, each one employing a full force of workmen. The best character, and the one we so seldom find, is the kindness toward church and pastor. This is certainly a haven of rest for a tired, overworked preacher, who, like Moses, had held his hand up till it was heavy; they find this a stone to rest upon. The parsonage is an inviting shady nook joining the church, and the members all seem to think that the preacher's family must be paid, housed, and fed well. The church paper is widely distributed, so it looks as if this was a chosen place. The drives are delightful, and at twilight there are heaven-born glories. We wonder what need have we to visit Italy or Southern France when we have such sunsets at home. Standing on the Pascagoula river, just as the sun is kissing the earth good-night, while the last rays linger lovingly over the water, which sparkles like a valley of diamonds as every ripple reflects the brightness, my soul was exalted to reverence and worship, and I murmur to myself, "It is the Lord that commandeth the waters," and I forget for the time this great struggling world, with all its sin and misery, its heartaches and tears. Over in the west, following in the wake of the sun, was the new crescent, while the horizon was inrid with heavenly hue, outlined with a roseate after-glow. My soul became so wrapped up in the contemplation of such a scene that I would not have been startled had an angel folded back the curtain and let us take a view of the golden portal beyond. Such a scene moving over this busy world—so bright, so glorious with its dewy fragrance and twilight hush—brings hope to the weary and comforts the sorrowing. How is it some can doubt? Methinks could chance, blind chance, or destiny, or naught devise and construct such perfect mechanism?—balance sun, moon and stars, and let them sweep so grandly through space? I thought such must have been a scene like this on that balmy Syrian spring day, when Jesus fed the people with barley loaves along the banks of the Sea of Galilee. The evening air was calm, while the placid waves invited the weary disciples to enjoy a sail. When out from shore the waves were lashed to fury by the fey winds from snowy Harmon and the table-lands of Bashan as they came howling down the narrow gorge upon the quiet waters. The sails were torn away, and, rudderless, they were drifting on to destruction, when they heard the beloved voice saying, "It is I; be not afraid," and the Master came to them. Just so the heart, lashed by the stormy winds of passion and vice, till Jesus walks upon the water and rebukes the winds and waves. It is not strange to me, and it seems easier for Christians who live outside of the storm-winds of this sinful world to walk closer to God. Hedged in from sin and misery, and surrounded by the brightest gifts of nature, this Southern hamlet is favored. The dwellers are all substantial, charitable Christians, dwelling in good fellowship, regardless of creed.

N. M. H.

Gospel Echoes from the Yazoo-Mississippi Delta

Three miles northwest of Cleveland in Bolivar county, on Jones Bayou, is to be found a large settlement of white people, who, for some time past, had desired to build a house wherein they might worship the Lord, and hence early in the Spring but a few suggestions were necessary in order to make arrangements for immediate action. Nearly every man in the neighborhood came together, bringing hammers and saws, etc., and without the expenditure of one dollar for labor, they erected a building that would be a credit to any community. On Easter Sunday we held the first service, and organized with the names of sixteen good men and women on roll (we now have 30).

Sunday, Aug. 6, we commenced a meeting, which was protracted through the week following. Rev. L. M. Lipscomb came Tuesday evening, and preached till Friday night. The congregations were large at all the services, sometimes the house being full. One night it commenced raining about sundown, and continued to rain all night; but still the people came (some several miles) in the rain, and filled the house. Eight were received on profession of faith, two by letter, seven adults baptized, and more have already declared their intention to follow. The Lord was present with us, and blessed both preachers and people, and we rejoiced in hope of the glory of God. One night during the meeting an impression was made upon me (and it was evidently divinely wrought) that some one, at least, in the congregation would never hear another gospel sermon, or receive another warning to flee from the wrath to come and be saved from his sins, and so it was. A young man present, who had left his home in Indiana several years ago, and had led a life of sin, was taken sick that night after services, died the following Monday, and was buried Tuesday. "He that, being often reproved, hardeneth his neck, shall suddenly be destroyed, and that without remedy." I used several illustrations the night referred to relative to the sudden deaths of some who had been so plainly warned, and further stated that no one in the congregation could offer the excuse at that last great day that they had not been warned. Are these things not plain enough, and will men still remain in their sins?

Bro. L. M. Lipscomb is educated, earnest, consecrated, and his preaching is forcible and stirring. He preaches Christ crucified, and sinners are convicted, and men and women are converted. We shall meet beyond the river—by the grace of God.

THOMAS B. CLIFFORD.

Cleveland, Miss.

Indian Mission.

MR. EDITOR: Will you allow me through the columns of the ADVOCATE to ask the children to assist me in raising money for the Indian Mission in Mississippi? There are many poor, little heathen Indian children in Mississippi that have no education, no Bible, no Sunday-school, and do not know anything about Christ, our loving Savior.

Now, children, will you not help me in raising money for these poor heathen Indians? If you will, God will bless you, and the poor lost Indians that are now lost, will rise up in the judgment and call you blessed.

And now I will make a proposition to the children. I will give as good a Bible (Oxford) as I can get from Bro. Laird & Dominick for $2 to the boy or girl under sixteen years old that will raise and send me the largest amount of money by the first day of December, 1893, for the Indian Mission.

Now, you must not collect that that is already promised to me, but get all you can outside of that. And remember, if you fail to get the nice present you will be doing a great work; so go to work now and see who can get it most. Get your pastor to send it along by postoffice money order on Vicksburg, or draft on Vicksburg or Jackson, or by registered letter; and may God bless all the little folks!

A. D. MILLER.

Oak Ridge, Miss., Sept. 7, 1893.

> "O, none can tell thy bulwarks,
> How gloriously they rise;
> O, none can tell thy capitals
> Of beautiful device;
> Thy loveliness oppresses
> All human thought and heart;
> And none, O peace, O Sion,
> Can sing thee as thou art."

SUNDAY-SCHOOL LESSON.—Sept. 24, 1893.

PREPARED BY REV. A. F. WATKINS.

Third Quarterly Review.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"So then, faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God." (Romans x, 17.)

CENTRAL THOUGHT.—The World for Christ.

INTRODUCTORY.

TIME.—The lessons for the quarter cover a period of twenty-two years, extending from the council at Jerusalem, held in A. D. 50, to consider the relation of the Gentile Christians to the Mosaic ritualistic observances, to the close of Paul's first imprisonment at Rome, in A. D. 63.

PLACES.—The most notable places mentioned during the quarter are: I. In Asia: Jerusalem, Cæsarea, Ephesus, Troas and Miletus; and, 2. In Europe: Athens, Corinth, Philippi, Thessalonica and Rome; and, 3. The islands: Cyprus, Crete, Malta and Sicily.

PERSONS.—Among the persons of the lessons may be mentioned the following: I. The missionaries: Paul, Barnabas, Silas, Luke and Timothy. 2. The civil rulers: Agrippa, Felix, Festus, Gallio, Publius, Claudius, Lysias, and Julius, the centurion. 3. Of women: Bernice, Drusilla, Priscilla, Lydia, and the four daughters of Philip of Cæsarea. The many others mentioned need not be named.

THE BOOKS from which the lessons are taken are the Acts of the Apostles and the Epistle to the Romans. The latter half of the former book furnishes all of the lessons except the last, and presents us with an account of the missionary labors of St. Paul up to the time of his first imprisonment. The Epistle to the Romans, from which the last lesson is taken, is the ablest production of the pen of the great apostle.

PREPATORY NOTE.—It would be well, in studying the lesson, and as far as practicable in teaching, to trace the missionary journeys and note the position of the cities upon a map, and to mention some connection in which each of the persons named appeared in the lesson, and the relation in which each one stood to Paul and the gospel that he preached.

LESSON 1—JULY 2, 1893.

Subject: Paul Called to Europe. (Acts xvi, 6-15.)

Golden Text: "Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost." (Matt. xxviii, 19.)

Central Thought: The World's Redemption.

LESSON 2—JULY 9.

Subject: Paul at Philippi. (Acts xvi, 19-34.)

Golden Text: "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." (Acts xvi, 31.)

Central Thought: Salvation by Faith.

LESSON 3—JULY 16.

Subject: Paul at Athens. (Acts xvii, 22-31.)

Golden Text: "God is a spirit, and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and truth." (John iv, 24.)

Central Thought: Seeking After God.

LESSON 4—JULY 23.

Subject: Paul at Corinth. (Acts xviii, 1-11.)

Golden Text: "The preaching of the cross is to them that perish, foolishness; but unto us which are saved, it is the power of God." (I. Cor. i, 18.)

Central Thought: The Ministry of the Word.

LESSON 5—JULY 30.

Subject: Paul at Ephesus. (Acts xix, 1-12.)

Golden Text: "When he, the spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth." (John xvi, 13.)

Central Thought: The Holy Ghost.

LESSON 6—AUG. 6.

Subject: Paul at Miletus. (Acts xx, 22-35.)

Golden Text: "Remember them which have the rule over you, who have spoken unto you the word of God." (Heb. xiii, 7.)

Central Thought: Consecration.

LESSON 7—AUG. 13.

Subject: Paul at Jerusalem. (Acts xxi, 27-39.)

Golden Text: "For unto you it is given in the behalf of Christ, not only to believe on him, but also to suffer for his sake," (Phil. i, 20.)

Central Thought: Jewish Prejudice.

LESSON 8—AUG. 20.

Subject: Paul before Felix. (Acts xxiv, 10-25.)

Golden Text: "Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong." (I. Cor. xvi, 13.)

Central Thought: The Power of the Truth.

LESSON 9—AUG. 27.

Subject: Paul before Agrippa. (Acts xxvi, 19-32.)

Golden Text: "Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God." (I. Cor. i, 24.)

Central Thought: Jesus the Messiah.

LESSON 10—SEPT. 3.

Subject: Paul Shipwrecked. (Acts xxvii, 30-44.)

Golden Text: "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble." (Psalm xlvi, 1.)

Central Thought: Deliverance from Peril.

LESSON 11—SEPT. 10.

Subject: Paul at Rome. (Acts xxviii, 20-31.)

Golden Text: "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ." (Rom. i, 16.)

Central Thought: The Hardness of Unbelief.

LESSON 12—SEPT. 17.

Subject: Personal Responsibility. (Rom. xiv, 12-23.)

Golden Text: "It is good neither to eat flesh nor to drink wine, nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth." (Rom. xiv, 21.)

Central Thought: The World for Christ.

FROM THE WORK.

Continued from First Page.

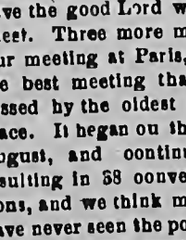
Rev. B. H. Rawls, Montrose, Miss., Aug. 18: "We commenced a meeting at this place one week ago. Bro. J. G. Sibley did the preaching. The entire community was moved. On Tuesday a revival commenced and lasted to the close of the meeting. There were some conversions and fifteen joined the church. The meeting lasted six days. Bro. Sibley did excellent preaching, and has thereby endeared himself to our people. Thank God for the good that was accomplished."

Rev. J. J. Kelly, Brodnax, La., Aug. 29: "We just closed a meeting at Bonne Idee. It lasted a week. Bro. Wm. G. Evans did the preaching. During this meeting a member professed faith in Christ, and the shout of praise and the cry of penitence was heard at the altar. A number of church members professed conversion, one was added to the church, fifteen children were baptized, ten ADVOCATES taken on your fifty-cents proposition. Twenty souls at the altar the last night of the meeting."

Rev. J. H. Foreman, Coffadeliah, Miss.: "We have held three of our protracted meetings, all with good results. At Moss Hill we did all the preaching, except one sermon by Rev. J. A. Burton. Our third Quarterly Conference embraced the fifth Sunday in July. Our presiding elder preached four interesting sermons, appreciated by all who heard them. Monday morning he left us. Bro. Burlou came in, and we held the fort until Thursday night. Many were made happy in the love of God. Saturday before the second Sunday in August we commenced a meeting at Hester's Chapel. At this place we had a wonderful revival of religion: 18 conversions and one accession; got five new subscribers to the ADVOCATE. Many thanks to Bros. J. C. Long and T. H. Rivers for their valuable services. To God be all the praise."

Rev. C. C. Grisham, Banner circuit, North Mississippi Conference: "Allow me to say through the ADVOCATE, that the Lord has been with us in great power. We have closed our seventh meeting, the result of which has been about 90 conversions and 65 additions to date, and more to follow. We began praying for a hundred, and I believe the good Lord will grant the request. Three more meetings to hold. Our meeting at Paris, our home, was the best meeting that has been witnessed by the oldest people of this place. It began on the first Sunday in August, and continued eight days, resulting in 38 conversions, 23 additions, and we think more will join. I have never seen the power of the Spirit so wonderfully displayed. Old men and women shouted aloud who never did before. Fathers, mothers, aged men were found weeping at the altar. Young men and ladies pray in public since the meeting. A young men's prayer meeting organized, and the community stirred as never before. 'Bless the Lord, O my soul.' Thanks to Bros. Lagrone and Bruner, local brethren. Our meeting at Hunter's Chapel began on the second Sunday in August. Dr. W. T. J. Sullivan, of the Kosciusko district, preached two grand sermons on Sunday, one of which was the memorial service of Father Nathan Lamar, who had been a true servant of God for nearly eighty years. Truly, it was a memorable day! Dr. Sullivan preached the funeral sermon of his wife last year, and it was his request before he died to preach his also. Long will the Doctor live in the hearts of that people. Bro. G. W. Baohman, our beloved colporter and Sunday-school agent, was with us through the week and endeared himself to that people, preaching once a day for five days. His sermon on Children's Day must have been the effort of his life, and it was said by old members to be the grandest day ever witnessed there. The communion sermon and services on Friday were delightful. God bless these good brethren!"

Thousands of Dollars



Mr. S. G. Derry.

I spent trying to find cure for Salt Rheum which I had 13 years. Physicians said they never saw so severe a case. My legs, back and arms were covered by the humor. I was unable to lie down, could not walk without crutches, and had to have my arms, back and legs bandaged twice a day. I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and soon could see a change. The flesh became healthy, the sores soon healed, the scales fell off, I was able to give up bandages and crutches, and a happy man I was. I took

Hood's Sarsaparilla

7 months; and since that time, 2 years, I have worn no bandages whatever and my legs and arms are sound and well." S. G. DERRY, 45 Bradford St., Providence, R. I.

HOOD'S PILLS are the best after-dinner Pills, assist digestion, cure headache. 25c.

Tulane -:- University Scholarships.

TULANE UNIVERSITY, New Orleans, for the purpose of encouraging post-graduate studies, offers fifteen scholarships to the graduates of its own and other colleges. The appointments are made for merit, and entitle the holder to free tuition and an honorarium of one hundred and fifty dollars.

For further particulars address the Secretary of Tulane University, New Orleans, Louisiana.

Evergreen -:- College,

EVERGREEN, LA.

FOR BOYS AND GIRLS.

Offers Board and Tuition for the entire session, payable quarterly, for $120.

For particulars address,

C. C. WIER, Pres.

McTyeire -:- Institute,

MCKENZIE, TENN.

Prepares students for Vanderbilt and such institutions.

Expenses for five months, $72.50 to $82.50.

Students completing our course enter Vanderbilt without examination.

Next session begins August 31.

For circulars or information address

J. H. HARRISON, Prin.,
McKenzie, Tenn.

Clinton Female Academy.

(Chartered in 1852)

WILL OPEN MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1893

Course thorough. Charges lower than offered by any school of its grade in the South.

CHARGES PER MONTH.

Tuition per month	$2 00 to $3 00
Music " "	3 00
Use of Piano per Month	1 00
Painting in Oil " "	3 00
Drawing " "	1 00
Latin, French and Book-keeping, each per month	1 00
Incidental Expenses per Session	50

Board, Tuition, Washing, Fuel and Lights, $12 per Month. $120 per the Session of Ten Months. For particulars address the Principal,

Mrs. S. E. MUNDAY, Clinton, La.

GRENADA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

Is Devoted to the Education of Girls and Young Ladies.

FALL TERM OPENS SEPTEMBER 5TH, 1893.

The Institute affords the very best advantages for culture in Vocal and Instrumental Music; in Art, Drawing, Painting, etc.; and in all the branches of collegiate study—English, Latin, French and German. The teachers are experienced and competent. The Boarding Department is home-like and comfortable. The health is fine. The expenses are moderate. For catalogue address Rev. Thos. J. Newell, A. M., Pres.,

Grenada, Miss.

MILLWOOD Female Institute.

This Institute is located near Jackson, La., and is as remarkable for its delightful environments as its healthy location.

Special teachers in each Department.

Charges lower than any school which offers the same advantages.

Session opens Sept. 4, 1893.

Send for Catalogue.

MISS M. McCALMONT,
Principal.

Louisiana State University AND Agricultural and Mechanical College.

J. W. NICHOLSON, A.M., LL.D., President.

The next session (1893-'94) will open on the fifth of October, 1893, with a full and able corps of Professors and Instructors. Five Courses of Study, healthy locality, excellent discipline, splendid equipments. Tuition free. Cost for maintenance, per session of nine months, $131. Number of students last session, 186. For catalogue giving full information

Address ALVAN C. READ, Secretary,
Baton Rouge, La.

East Mississippi Female College.

The 24th Session begins September 6, 1893.

Situated in the City of Meridian, is easy of access from all points.

The health record is unsurpassed.

The buildings are commodious and comfortable.

The faculty has been chosen with reference to EXPERIENCE, THOROUGHNESS and EXCELLENCY of CHARACTER.

Our terms are to suit the times.

For catalogue or further information apply to REV. T. S. HOLLOMAN, A. M., Pres., 1101 23rd Avenue, Meridian, Miss.

WESLEYAN FEMALE COLLEGE. MACON, GA.

Annual Session begins September 20th, 1893. Best advantages in Literature, Music and Art. For safety, health and domestic comfort, there is no better home for girls. Apply for Catalogue to

REV. W. C. BASS, PRES.

PATENTS THOMAS P. SIMPSON, Washington, D. C. No atty's fee until Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide.

READ THIS.

Board and Lodging by Day, Week or Month.

Regular meals, 25 cents. Lodging, 25 to 50 cents.

I endeavor to make my place home-like and comfortable. Give me a call.

MRS. BRAKEL,
No. 535 Chartres St., near Northeastern Depot.

ANGELL'S HOMŒOPATHIC PHARMACY,

153 and 155 JULIA ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Richard Angell, M. D., Proprietor.

DEALER IN

Homœopathic Medicines, Book and All Other Articles used in Homœopathic Practice.

Try Angell's Celebrated Whooping Cough Syrup.

North Mississippi Conference Colportage and Sunday-School Agency

KOSCIUSKO, MISS.

Any Good Book Furnished at Publisher's Prices.

A specialty is made of the Books, Periodicals and Sunday-school Supplies of our church, which are furnished at Publishing House prices exactly.

Bibles and Testaments, All Styles and Sizes, Are a Particular Feature of the Work.

Our House requests that all the business of this Conference be transacted through this office.

All orders for books or papers promptly filled, and all pertinent questions concerning good literature and our Sunday-school interests will be readily answered.

G. W. BACHMAN,
Colporter and Sunday-school Agent.

WALL PAPER.

The Spring patterns of Wall Paper are handsomer than ever before, and we are able to offer them to you at prices which are within the reach of all. We believe that anyone buying cheap paper will do better to invest 10, 12½ or 15 cents and buy a gilt paper or a fine blank for the small difference than to invest 5 cents in a cheap blank; but if you want the 5-cents paper, we have it and will be glad to sell it.

MATTINGS.

In novel and dainty designs, which can not be had elsewhere, as we control our own private patterns. Prices from $5 per roll of 40 yrds, and up

LACE CURTAINS,

Rugs, Screens, Easels, Oil Cloth, Window Shades and Upholstering Goods.

ESTIMATES

Given for papering in the country under the direction of our foreman and with our own experienced corps of men.

Heath, Schwartz & Co., Lim.,

116 Camp Street, New Orleans.

$21 PAID WEEKLY

To active, faithful men and women, boys and girls, working for us taking orders for THE ILLUSTRATED WORLD'S FAIR, edited by John McGovern, the Prince of the Literary West. 25c. a month, or $2.50 a year. Entire series, from July, 1891, to January, 1894, 30 monthly issues, only $6.00. Sells at sight. Most beautiful, interesting and popular, and the only publication receiving official recognition. THE ORGAN OF THE FAIR. Chicago Inter Ocean says: "It is a handsomely prepared and valuable publication, to which many celebrities are contributors." Send 15c. (stamps) for full particulars and sample copy containing fifty large rich engravings of the World's Fair. Address.

THE NATIONAL BOOK CONCERN,
134 VAN BUREN ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

DO YOU

Want a teacher for a Summer school? A bookkeeper for a few months while your regular man takes in the World's Fair? A fine young man for any kind of honorable work? If you do, write to DR. W. B. MURRAH, President, or J. W. CHAMBERS, Agent, of Millsaps College, and they will supply the man.

WANTED.

An A. M. graduate, having twenty years' successful experience in managing large institutions of learning, wants to lease desirable school or college property. Parties interested please address

"COLLEGE PRESIDENT,"
Care of ADVOCATE.

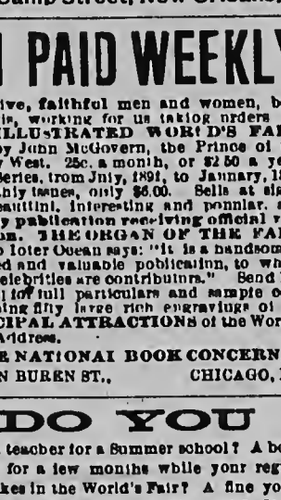
Advertising in England, European Continent, Etc.

SELL'S ADVERTISING AGENCY, Limited.

Capital, $250,000. Henry Sell, Manager (editor and founder of "Sell's World's Press").

Full particulars regarding British or European Advertising, sample papers, rates, etc., at the London Office, 167-168 Fleet street, or at New York Office, 21 Park Row, Ground Floor.

Kursheedt's Marble Works



120 and 122 Camp St., New Orleans

$525

Agent's profits per month. Will prove it or pay forfeit. New Articles just out. A $1.50 sample and terms free. Try us. Chidester & Son, 2f Bond St., New York City.

When answering advertisements please mention the Advocate

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

GREAT FAST MAIL ROUTE.

Four Daily Trains between NEW ORLEANS and CHICAGO.

The Only Line running Pullman Buffet Sleepers and Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes.

FREE RECLINING CHAIR CARS TO CHICAGO.

St. Louis Without Change.

The Only Line running a Double Daily Train Service to

ST. LOUIS.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS FROM NEW ORLEANS TO

Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York

The great Steel Bridge, spanning the Ohio River at Cairo, completed, and all trains (freight and passenger) now running regularly over it, thus avoiding the delays and annoyances incident to transfer by ferry boat.

TICKET OFFICE: Corner St. Charles and Common Streets.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.
A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

Speed and Comfort Combined When Traveling

VIA THE

T. AND P.

THE SHORT LINE TO

NEW ORLEANS, MEMPHIS,

AND POINTS IN THE

SOUTHEAST

THE DIRECT LINE TO

North and West Texas, Arizona, Old and New Mexico, Oregon, Colorado and California.

THE FASTEST TIME TO

Hot Springs, Little Rock and St. Louis

PULLMAN'S FINEST BUFFET SLEEPING CARS

On all Through Trains between

NEW ORLEANS AND DENVER,
NEW ORLEANS AND ST. LOUIS,
NEW ORLEANS and SAN FRANCISCO,
NEW ORLEANS, Ft. WORTH and DALLAS.

Lowest ticket rates, time tables, and all desired information will be furnished by any of the ticket agents of the Texas & Pacific R'y or

W. A. DAHLL, Traf. Pass. Agent.
GASTON MESLIER, Geo'l Pass. and T'kt Agt.
L. S. THORNE, Third Vice President and General Superintendent, Dallas, Texas.

Yazoo and Mississippi Valley RAILROAD COMPANY.

All trains arrive and depart from new Passenger Station, cor. Howard Ave. and Rampart St.

	Leaves.	Arrives
Kansas City and Memphis Fast Train	5:00 p. m	6:35 a. m
Vicksburg & Natchez Ex.	7:55 a. m	6:25 p. m
Bat. Rouge "Coast Train."	3:40 p. m	10:00 a. m

The Only Line running Solid Trains between New Orleans, Memphis and Vicksburg, with Modern Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars through to Memphis and Kansas City.

The direct and favorite route to Kansas City, Denver, and All Points West.

The short line to Hot Springs and points in Arkansas and North Louisiana.

Commutation Tickets, Mileage Books, Party Rates and Week End Excursions.

Summer Excursion Tickets on Sale in season.

Ticket Office: St. Charles St., cor. Common.

JAMES DINKINS, Div. Pass. Agt.
J. W. COLEMAN, A. G. P. A.
A. H. HANSON G. P. A.

CLARK & MEADER,

16 and 18 CARONDELET ST.

BRANCH STORE:

Cor. ST. CHARLES and NAPOLEON Avenues,

NEW ORLEANS.

Stuffed Olives in Oil; Boneless Anchovies in Oil; Boneless Anchovies in Salt; French Crescent Olives; Mammoth Queen Olives; Capers ao Nature!; Mushroom Powder; Bijou Cans of Anchovies; Thon a huile; Pure of Foie Gras; Sardines Truffle; Pure of Sardines; Truffled Sardines; New Maple Syrup in Quart bottles, 1 Gallon and ½ Gallon Cans; Maple Sugar in 1-pound cakes; Franco-American Game Pates, such as Wild Duck, Grouse, Partridge, Pheasant, Chicken, Chicken Liver, Woodcock; Entrees—Chicken Curry a la Indienne. Chicken Sante a la Marengo; Calves' Tongues with Tomato Sauce; Veal and Green Peas; Calves' Tongue, sauce Piquant; Braised Beef a la Jardeniere; Ross' Belfast Ginger Ale, Sarsaparilla, Club Soda, and Raspberry Vinegar; Putoma's Roe Herring; Clysmic Water; Smoked Beef; Small Whole Boneless Cooked Hams in cans; Whole Boiled Beef Tongues in cans; Wheatena; Pettijohn's California Breakfast Food; Schumacher's Rolled Wheat and Avena; Cerealine Flakes; Mott's Pure Sparkling Sweet and Crab Apple Cider; Large Smoked Beef Tongue.

J. C. MORRIS CO., Limited.

40, 42 and 44 Tchoupitoulas Street.

E. F. DYER, Pres. E. P. MACKIE, Treas.

WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

Refrigerators, Freezers, Water Coolers, Fishing Tackle, Seines, Oars, Hammocks, Croquet, Baseballs, Baskets, Brooms, Brushes, Fruit Jars, Bottles, Flasks, Demijohns, Rope, Twine, Axle Grease, Wrapping Paper, Bags, Stationery, Cheese Safes, Cages, Scales, Tacks, Chimneys, Lamps, Tinware, Blacking, Woodenware, Cutlery, Clocks, etc.

W. W. CARRE.

LUMBER MERCHANT

AND MANUFACTURER OF

PLANTATION CABINS, STORES, Etc.

Nos. 343, 344, 346 and 348 Howard Ave.,

NEW BASIN. NEW ORLEANS

The only Harmony book ever written, that can be readily understood by the average student.

GOODRICH'S Analytical Harmony.

(A new Theory of Composition, from the Composer's standpoint.)

Clearer and more helpful than anything I have seen. ARTHUR FOOTE.

A welcome relief from our present difficulties. WM. H. SHERWOOD.

Invaluable to teachers and pupils. EMIL LIEBLING.

It will be eminently successful. CLARENCE EDDY.

Goodrich has solved the great problem. B. MOLLENHAUER.

Delightfully clear. HARRISON WILD.

Plainly expressed and easily understood. JOS. H. GITTINGS.

A COMPANION VOLUME TO "MUSICAL ANALYSIS."

—PRICE, $2.00.—

THE JOHN CHURCH CO.,
Cincinnati—New York—Chicago.

A NEW

UNIQUE and VALUABLE Historical Chart of Christianity from the Apostolic Period through the Reformation has been prepared by REV. M. LOUCKS, D.D., of Dayton, Ohio. For particulars address postal to him and receive circulars free.

REV. M. LOUCKS, D.D, Dayton, Ohio.

POSITIONS GUARANTEED

Guarantee in Writing. Send for free catalogue of DRAUGHON'S Consolidated Practical Business College, Nashville, Tenn. Cheap Board. No vacation. MENTION THIS PAPER.

Shorthand in Vest Pocket.

DR. LAFFERTY, the Stenographer to the Virginia Senate, has given the CONVERSATIONAL SYSTEM OF SHORTHAND in a series of simple, witty, chatty talks; each illustrated. You learn it while you laugh. 64 pages. Price 50 cents. Address him, Richmond, Va.

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA.

Session begins 15th Sept. Full equipment and corps of instructors in Academical, Engineering, Law, and Medical Departments. Excellent Climate. New Gymnasium, with baths free to all students. For catalogues address

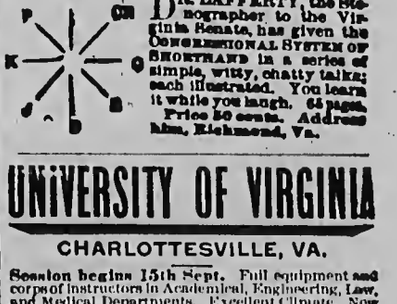
WM. M. THORNTON, LL.D., Chairman.

UNIVERSITY SCHOOL, Petersburg, Va.

The twenty-ninth annual session of this school for boys begins MONDAY, October 2nd. Thorough preparation for University of Virginia, Yale, Harvard, United States military and naval academies, and all the best technical schools. Full staff. For catalogue, address W. Gordon McCabe, Head Master.

VIRGINIA MILITARY INSTITUTE, LEXINGTON, VA.

36th Year. State Military. Scientific and Technical School. Thorough Courses in general and applied Chemistry, and in Engineering. Degrees of graduate in Academic Course, also degrees of Bachelor of Science and Civil Engineer in Technical Courses. All expenses, including clothing and incidentals, provided at rate of $236.50 per month, as an average for the four years, exclusive of outfit. New Cadets report Sept. 1st. SCOTT SHIPP, Superintendent.



FENCING

WIRE ROPE SELVAGE

GALVANIZED WOVEN WIRE

McMULLEN

RAILROAD, Farm, Garden, CEMETERY, LAWN, POULTRY and RABBIT FENCING. Thousands of miles in use. Catalogue FREE. Freight paid. McMULLEN WOVEN WIRE FENCE CO., CHICAGO, ILL.

Are You Unemployed?

Will you work for $18 per week? Write to me at once. JOSEPH R. GAY, Pres. C. P. & L. Co., 5th Ave., CHICAGO, ILL.

No Tobacco. NO OPIUM.

The only practicable way to reach

CATARRH

thoroughly and pleasantly. A positive cure even if all else has failed. Sample FREE by mail.

DR. J. W. BLOSSER & CO., DALTON GA.

CHURCH SCHOOL FURNITURE

Before purchasing any PEWS, PULPITS or any other Furniture, write Wm. H. Morrow, No. 8 Noel Bl'k, Nashville, Tenn., for Catalogue.

WHY PAY DEALER'S PROFIT?

$2.75 buys a $30 White Steel Baby Carriage, freight prepaid, shipped on 10 days' trial. Latest design and style. Perfect, reliable and finely finished. Nothing but the best material used and warranted for 5 YEARS. We have been in the manufacturing business many years, and are reliable and responsible; make and sell nothing but what we can guarantee as represented, quote lowest factory prices. Write to-day for our large free catalogue, which is one of the most complete ever published.

OXFORD MFG. CO., 340 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WE WANT AT ONCE

RELIABLE MEN every where (local or traveling) to advertise and keep our Show Cards tacked up in towns on trees and fences along public roads. Steady work in your own county. $70 A MONTH SALARY AND $2 A DAY EXPENSES ADVANCED every 15 days when started. FRANCO-GERMAN ELECTRIC CO., CINCINNATI, O.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

THE LARGEST ESTABLISHMENT MANUFACTURING

CHURCH BELLS CHIMES & PEALS

In the World.

PUREST BELL METAL (COPPER AND TIN.)

Send for Price and Catalogue.

McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY, BALTIMORE, MD.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY

THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO., Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A.

Best Lapel Organs and E. Berlin Violins.

CHURCH BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.

Price & Terms Free. Satisfaction Guaranteed.

THE CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO.

CINCINNATI, OHIO.

SOLE MAKERS OF THE BLYMYER BELLS

FOR CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM &c.

Catalogue with 2500 testimonials, Prices and Terms Free.

Christian Advocate.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased Preachers, $1

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

All correspondence with the ADVOCATE, literary or business, and all money due or to become due should be addressed to Rev. J. M. Beard, CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans, La.

Capt. G. A. R. Lawrence is an accredited agent of the ADVOCATE in the city and country, and he is authorized to take subscribers, contract for advertisements, and receipt for money due on subscription or otherwise.

Rev. J. M. BEARD, D. D., Editor and Publisher.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. J. M. BEARD, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. J. B. A. AHRENS, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. J. W. CHAMBERS.
REV. W. B. LEWIS.
REV. R. J. JONES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER.

Thursday, September 21, 1893.

The ADVOCATE to subscribers and renewals from now until Jan. 1, 1895, for $2.

A chief danger to our young people of the Epworth Leagues, and one which has often been pointed out, is that youthful enthusiasm and inexperience, provoked by the fogyism and fossilism with which it will be inevitably thrown into conflict, will commit them to rash and even revolutionary measures. Let them go slow (?), and not forget that the church is their mother, and all her interests theirs.

The Atlanta Journal publishes a two-column article from the pen of Dr. W. C. Black, so long and favorably known to the ADVOCATE public, on the subject of a choice of political methods in temperance revolution. He advocates, with much ability, the local-option plan, which has been so successful in Mississippi and some other States, as against party prohibition. We should be glad to publish extracts if our columns permitted.

A Southern Holiness Convention is called to meet in Jackson, Tenn., Oct. 21. This is the result of much consultation among brethren who are leaders in the movement. In a note from Bro. J. W. Lowrance, pastor of our leading church in Jackson, he says: "Extend a hearty invitation to all our brethren who are interested in the spread of holiness as taught in Mr. Wesley's Plain Account." This will be a notable occasion on many accounts, and Jackson is centrally located, has good rail facilities, and many Christian homes. Let everybody do his part towards making the convention a success.

The papal establishment has been practically set up on American soil, and Monsigneur Satolli is the uncrowned Pope. When Leo passes from the stage of action, which in the nature of the case can not be longer than a few months, the Cardinal Consistory will choose another Italian, as has been their custom for centuries, and a nuncio bearing the triple crown, or a summons to a coronation at the Vatican, will come by the first ocean greyhound. If the sage of Valladolid could have known that he was discovering a popedom in the far West, perhaps he and his countrymen would have been less exclusive in their attentions to the Indies and South America.

The new religion is called idealism, though it is safe to say that it is not ideal, even if its professors are idealists and its beliefs idealistic. Perfection it seeks, as it has a warrant to, both from God and the better class of men; but, alas! it is the perfection of the ideal and of the creature, both of which the creed itself, with remarkable candor, declares are unknown and indiscoverable. This makes perfection and vagary mean the same thing (God being denied), and will go far towards confirming the suspicions of that growing community who represent the views of Count Zinzendorf in modern theology. It is a renewal also in a small way of the heathen philosophy which was so extensively patronized by the Roman Catholic Church in the Middle Ages.

Prohibition.

WHAT BECAME OF A REJECTED MS.

The Mississippi Leader publishes a prohibition article from the pen of B. T. Hobbs, strong and well-written, but arraigning the churches with some severity for their want of consistency in dealing with prohibition, and which was originally contributed to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, and rejected by Dr. Carter, on the eve of a crisis which brought on a change in the management of the paper; and the Leader improves the occasion to say that it was not the publication of such articles as this, and Dr. Carter's editorial, which it was written to approve, that brought upon the ADVOCATE the financial embarrassment which about that time all but overwhelmed it; that very week the publisher throwing up his contract, and the following Dr. Carter himself resigning; and he adds in the vein of moralizing: "Indeed, does it not all argue an alarming decay of vital godliness in the church, and among the people, and the growth in its stead of that spirit of covetousness and worldliness of which the liquor traffic is the most diabolical incarnation, and which should arouse all true Christian men and women to a renewed sense of duty and danger. Who will answer?"

This is a challenge which we can not suffer to pass, and while we much regret that the Leader has made so liberal a use of Dr. Carter's name, for he is no more guilty than the writer of this article might have been under similar environment, and than thousands who are even more advantageously situated, we hasten to reply that it is our firm conviction, in harmony with the view of this writer, that the church does not live up to its professions in the matter of giving practical support to its convictions on the great moral questions of the day. Martyrs for the truth are greatly in the majority when resolution is the order of the day; but we are sad to say that when revolution tinges the East with its red beams they are quite as much in the minority. They are mighty on dress parade, with bugles blowing and a great display of red silk in banners and sashes; but when the color changes to the brown of embattled hosts, and the music varies to dirges sung by lattice-work shells plowing the air with the haste of one on important business, and to hissing minies raging in a minor key, they seem to think it no sin to appear in a civilian's garb and to conduct their maneuvers from front to rear. Soldiers of the cross there are who never exchange shots with the enemy, who forever bivouac on neutral ground, and who contribute no more to aggressive warfare, or defensive even, than to swell the census of an army that is fast getting to be as luxurious and unwieldy as that which Xerxes, the Persian, led against the Grecian league. This is a great grief to us, and it ought to be to the Leader; but we are not quite sure, as our contemporary seems to think, that it is a good reason for breaking ranks and taking service with every adventurer who calls for recruits, and who proposes to substitute for all controversy with an enraged and resourceful enemy, a single desperate charge upon one or more of his exposed outworks. Temperance may be our trust in a certain sense, but it is not our religion; and prohibition may be our hope, but it is not our church, or our party either, until we can see, at least, a faint sign that its smoke of battle is advancing at least as rapidly as our own is retiring. Of one thing we are quite sure, and that is, that prohibition can not win by abuse of the church, and that brave soldiers can not be made to fight by incoherent invective denounced against flying ones. And the Leader which, by the way, is a very well edited paper, and whose religious bearings we know nothing about, will bear us out in the statement that the Methodist Church, of all the churches, in this or other lands, has the best record for courage, devotion and consistency upon all issues affecting public morals and political reforms. In Mississippi, particularly, it has been in the van of the local-option battle, and has, with the help of the Baptist and other churches, added victory to victory, until the greater portion of the great State is free from the awful curse. We congratulate our contemporary on this result, and wish the party to which it belongs equal success in fighting prohibition battles.

Work.

Work is the effect of the Divine blessing, and not of the Adamic curse. The Sovereign of all the worlds on high is a day laborer, and there are no idlers around the throne. Up there, is movement and the effect of purification, for that which moves both lives and conserves life. Down here, is stillness and stagnation by a corresponding effect of the same law. It is not labor that kills, but the accident of constraint and friction that there is in it. There is nothing that is so healthful, and which so much promotes longevity, as a genial and fruitful task. The political economy that will set everybody to work is what the world is waiting for. A paternalism builded on industrious habits of the million, and that provides first-class jails for the wage consumer only, is one that everybody will welcome, and that will be "looking forward" to the millennium. Idleness and misery have been bedfellows from the beginning. Perspiration may not have been intended as sauce for bread, but it certainly was not intended for anything worse than a little sour leaven. It is far better for a man to eat his bread with sweat and tears, than for him to eat none at all. It is fasting and feasting that kills. Bread and the condiment above mentioned are innocent of gout and dyspepsia, and while not denied their daily food, have sweet contentment for a table companion.

Indeed, we are so low down that we can not rise to the blessing without traversing the dark realm of curse. The Savior took the way of malediction as an example for us. It was not by accident that his hands were familiar with the tools of ordinary industry. He wrought at the carpenter's trade by way of sublime example. It is hard for men to learn that the accursed and the redeemed are identical in this order, but it is necessary above all things that they should. The world nor the natural order of things neither was destroyed by the curse. The bottom but dropped out, and the result was not to empty, but only confuse the contents. Our Lord came to supply another foundation to the wreck of matter and morals too, and to restore to their old trend of divinity the reversed wheels of its machinery. Therefore he was the ideal toiler in at least one sphere, and the exemplary in two. The world of grace to his thought was a vineyard in which there were to be no idlers. His call was a calling. His disciples were stewards, money lenders, horticulturists, laborers, who had borne the heat and burden of the day, servants at a feast, or sent out into by-ways and hedges, the incumbents of a high calling. He taught both by precept and example that work was God-like as well as the Divine order, and that an idle brain and life was the devil's paradise. His formula of reward contemplated not the righteous, but the faithful, and are addressed not so much against wickedness as unprofitableness. "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful over a few things," and "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these," and "Blessed are they, . . . for they cease from their labors and their works do follow them."

The New Era.

The new era is not scientific, and signalizing human progress chiefly, but Christian, and setting forth the triumph of divinity, in spite of both human and Satanic opposition. Hence the symbol of the cross inscribed on all banners, and the persistent foolishness of preaching. Miracles of science, even of the advanced nineteenth-century type, can not be brought into comparison with the miracles of our Lord Jesus Christ. Science, indeed, in the age of its greatest triumphs, is best known by the feats that it can not accomplish, and the difficulties that hedge it about as a weakling in the sphere of omnipotence. But the gospel now, as in all the ages of the past, proudly stoops to conquer, and adapts the most notable endeavors of human skill to bridge the unknown and circumvent destiny as the stepping-stones upon which it swiftly passes to a great millennial age. Railroads, printing presses, magnetic conductors and electro motors, hasten the conversion of the world. Even the repeating rifle, dynamite and standing armies are avant couriers of the coming reign of the Prince of Peace, for that which makes war impossible will efface race and national boundaries and compel world union and fraternity.

Gospel victories are not blazoned on the world's bulletin boards, because invisible. They advance through a spiritual realm, and death is conquered or heaven gained, while science, impotent, looks on from afar. The latter is mighty in its own sphere, and can arrange complicated machinery and start it with a button, and shoot cablegrams around the world; but she has never been able to wire the immortals or to swing a suspension bridge across the rapids above the dark falls that will hold until a human step can reach it. There on the threshold of the unknown its chrysalis bursts and, poor, feeble, wingless insect, it lies prone. It finds at length that even the world moves without it, and that eternity does not slip a cog or tighten a band to accommodate its most trusted theory of the creation or its sagest discovery of spheric existence or laws. Its attitude of rebellion against the gospel, if we may so express it, is mere guerilla revolt; it is clouds and shadow in a dark league against the sun, and only tending by their opposition to increase the brilliance of its effects. Never so much at a loss is it as when it affects to be teacher or preacher, for it has no light but that which it digs painfully out of the earth, or filches from the under sky with kite-string device. Wooden-headed and metal-voiced, science is the one thing in the bright world that seemingly possesses life to which faith is an impossible condition, and, therefore, it knows no pentecosts and no tongues of fire. Its prescience is a delusion, its victories disasters, and through its successive Waterloos, and over the prone bodies of its slain, the gospel has scored the first of its great triumphs and acceded to world empire.

Dr. Buckley, the sage, and editor of the New York Christian Advocate, avers that if an Annual Conference of the M. E. Church should admit a preacher to its membership who was not sanctified or seeking sanctification, its action would be subject to review by a higher body.

Honor to Whom Due.

We quote the following paragraph from the columns of the Daily Picayune, and which looks as if it might have been condensed from a half-column article on the same subject which occurred in a July number of the ADVOCATE, and is substantially identical with one lately appearing in the Iberia Enterprise:

An apparatus to register the time taken by each person in using a telephone has been invented in Germany. It is called a telephonometer, and it is the design of the telephone companies to use its figures as a basis for their charges for the use of telephones. When this meter is attached to telephones, talk over a telephone, it can be predicted, will be as concise as a telegraph message.

Not the least singular thing about the wonderful instrument described above, and called "telephonometer," is that it was not invented in Germany at all, but in New Orleans, La., and that it was not brought to perfection by a body of savants under instructions from Dr. Strecker, chief inspector of the German Government Telephone Department, but by our worthy friend and parishioner, Joseph H. Tabony, Esq. Letters-patent to this effect issued to Jos. H. Tabony and Atwood Violett, on good sheepskin of the greatest commonwealth and most prolific mother of illustrious patents and patentees in existence, are in possession of the editor of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, and may be seen by any who may desire to inspect the document. It seems to be a clear case of the fraudulent appropriation of American brains and industry, for which that murky, if not muddy, code, called International Law, will perhaps afford no redress. We trust that the newspapers quoted above, and many others in which we have seen allusions to this invention, will make the correction due.

Hope.

A man may know whether he is a Christian or not by the amount of hopefulness that his life contains. It is so much an element of the redeemed life that the apostle in one place declares that "we are saved by hope." Hope describes the contrast between the saved and the unsaved man as no term equally well understood by all the people does. The sinner despairs, that is his mood; the Christian hopes, that is his. The former's ultimate of expression is a wail, the latter's a shout.

A man can not be a Christian and cherish moroseful tempers. It is against the nature of the supernatural in redemption. The lark rises and sings through seas of radiance that are practically endless, not more because the light falls than because its own soul of song ascends. It was born with wings, and both a piccolo and tremolo attachment; and how could it keep from singing? So the Christian. So the man begotten again unto a lively hope.

If any be now in heaviness through manifold temptations, let him understand that he is for the time being overcome by the very spirit of the evil one, and that never was there upon him such necessity for faith and prayer. That snare of the devil, which induces Christians to despond, and that he employs so successfully both upon the weak and the strong, can not long hold the weakest of all the songful tribe if minded to rise upon these two wings. With these gracious means and the exceeding many and precious promises at our command, "let us hold fast the confidence and the rejoicing of the hope firm unto the end."

Dr. J. J. Tigert is preparing a work on "The Constitutional History of American Episcopal Methodism."

NOTES.

The way to Calvary is the "long way."

Love is bottom fact and top sentiment.

Unbelief palsies the arm of omnipotence.

The "big opening" lures many people to destruction.

Faith makes the weakest saint to be a match for Apollyon.

A man's spirit is not bowed if you can not get him to kneel.

Send us a subscriber or two along with your revival bulletin.

Every Methodist meeting should close with an altar service.

The application of a sermon should be in the calling of mourners.

Religious enjoyment is love in bloom, and religious employment love in fruit.

Verdure and bloom are sometimes admissible, but they will not do in the place of fruit.

Three things wait upon a religious revival in small or great: growth, happiness, and fruitfulness.

How often has the Lord of the vineyard come to us in the season, expecting fruit and finding none!

If anything is drearier than a funeral it is the dreary service for the dead of one of the new-fledged societies.

"Calling down fire from heaven" is a good thing to do, only let it be of the sort that burns up sin, and does not harm the sinner.

The good all-round Methodist is one who holds prayers in church, family and closet, and gives to all sorts of the collections.

As we approach to the meaning of the word "Methodist," we become more and more surrounded with the atmosphere of perfect love.

Newspapering, like other schemes "on paper," is a most frequent subject of failure. A good strong syndicate with large capital and unlimited faith should be at the bottom of every such enterprise.

During the past ten years there has been a steady decline in minister's marriage fees, and this must be accounted for by a corresponding downward tendency in one or other of the sexes as other values have not changed materially.

The ADVOCATE is offered to new subscribers and renewals from this date until Jan. 1, 1895, for $2. This is the only reduction of price that our patrons can reasonably look for at present, or in the near future. Applications must be accompanied by the cash.

We are much obliged to Bro. Armstrong, P. E., of the Waco district, for the two-columns' drubbing that he administered to Dr. Hoss, in the Kentucky Methodist, with our now limmons paragraph as a text. We only regret that he was not as successful in quoting the last-mentioned from the Nashville's columns, imparting to it the change an element of profundity and anti-climax that even it was never intended to possess.

In the matter of contributions, be patient to the editor that he may be generous to all. Our drawer is overflowing, and, in the nature of the case some of the MS. is more urgent than other. News from the work, which we would be glad to receive in a more condensed form, is published in the order of dates. If your meeting was not something out of the usual order it is hardly news to the public; and if it was, condense and abridge that others may have a chance.

The horrible lynching at Southport on Saturday, is one of the kind that is making history very rapidly for our part of the country, and that deserves the utmost condemnation of every good man and woman. Crime of any sort can not justify crime, and how the killing of one innocent man can be made the motive for slaying two or more is something for which, perhaps, an angry mob only could render a reason. That the great mass of the community unite with the newspapers in hearty condemnation of the atrocious occurrence is encouraging, but it will do little to arrest the snap judgment of the newspaper paragraphist and Associated News reporter at the North, and will in no way mitigate the quantity or the quality of the abuse that will be heaped upon the Southern people. Such occurrences are deplorable from every point of view.

PERSONAL AND OTHERWISE.

Bishop Galloway is holding the Kentucky Conferences.

Rev. F. G. Hoouit made the ADVOCATE a pleasant call on last Saturday.

The ADVOCATE is offered to subscribers for $2 from this date to Jan. 1, 1895.

Bro. La Prade is at Mansfield, La., assisting Bro. Faunt LeRoy in a revival meeting.

Bishop Key was to have dedicated the new church at New Athens, in Claiborne parish, last Sunday.

Rev. J. J. Smylie, of the Mississippi Conference, returning from Meridian, Miss., to his family and work, spent a pleasant half-hour in the ADVOCATE office on Monday.

Rev. N. B. Young, of the Vancleave work, Mississippi Conference, gave us a genial call on Tuesday. He was en route to Ponchatoula to marry a couple.

Dr. C. W. Carter is looking much improved since his emancipation from editorial toils. He was filling his appointment at Wesley Church, on the Lower Coast mission, last week.

Rev. John F. Foster, the popular pastor at Natchitoches, La., looked in on the ADVOCATE, en route from Seashore to his charge, one day last week. He was recovering from a slight malarial sickness, but seemed in the best of spirits.

Rev. Maroy Lyons, of Morgan City, and one of the editors of the Prohibitionist, gave us a call on Saturday last. That paper, he informs us, will be printed on a smaller sheet after Oct. 1, but with all the work done at home, and in better form.

Rev. H. C. Morrison, editor of the Kentucky Methodist, made the ADVOCATE a pleasant and appreciated call when in the city two weeks ago, and the current personal referring to the event, and which was handed to the printer, was mislaid. We trust that he may visit us again soon.

"Times of Refreshing," a new song book, compiled by Rev. W. T. Dale, B. D., and published by J. W. Burke & Co., Macon, Ga., has been received by the ADVOCATE. It is highly recommended by pastors, evangelists and gospel singers. Note edition, 35 cents each; $3.60 per dozen. Word edition, 12 cents each; $1.20 per dozen.

It is not probable that there will be a reduction in the price of the paper after Nov. 1, as some had hoped; the majority of the committee being quoted against the measure; but to new subscribers and renewals we offer the paper from this and subsequent dates to Jan. 1, 1895, for two dollars, if the application is accompanied by the cash.

Malone Female College is advertised in another column. Located at Holly Springs, Miss., in a first-rate community, noted for both religious and educational progress, it should have a large patronage. Bro. Honnoll, the president, is both able and progressive, and deserves well of the community which he serves in that capacity. North Mississippi owes it to him and to herself to send him her daughters.

Mansfield Female College began its Fall session about the middle of the present month. Mansfield is one of the best communities of the State, where society and health are unsurpassed, and Methodism is the prevailing religion. The college buildings are beautiful for situation, large and spacious, and furnish ample accommodation for the boarding and dining patronage under one roof. Dr. A. D. McVoy is a model and veteran school president, and the faculty has been well selected. Louisianians should be prompted both by State and Church pride, as well as self-interest, to patronize this old and excellent school.

We regret very much to see in the daily papers the resignation of Dr. B. W. Bussey from the pastorate of the Coliseum Place Baptist Church. Business interests in Georgia compel his removal there for the present. Dr. Bussey is thoroughly evangelical, and has stood shoulder to shoulder with his brethren of the other Protestant Churches in every good work of reform during his New Orleans pastorate, which covers a period of seven years. He will be deeply regretted here, not only by the church of which he was the faithful pastor, but by all classes of the people who had become acquainted with his many excellent traits of mind and heart, and sterling character.

Amanda Smith's Own Book is a lively narrative, reminiscential and goalpy, of the religious life of the author, which has been conducted more or less in the public eye, and through American, European and African revival tours, for nearly a score of years. Amanda Smith is a typical negro and a typical saint too, and has had a wonderful experience as preacher and teacher, addressing all kinds of both civilized and uncivilized audiences. The book, like the personage, is thoroughly unique and enjoyable. We loaned it to a sister who is decidedly averse both to women and African preaching, and she has been quite in raptures over it. Mayer & Co., Chicago, publishers. Price, $1.50.

Financial Outlook of Board of Missions.

Upon the eighteenth of August we sent from the Mission Rooms a circular letter to the pastors, making two requests: First, That they immediately forward all the missionary money they had collected to date. Second, In view of the unparalleled financial stringency, and its effects upon our work, to make the collections a matter of extraordinary effort. Two weeks have elapsed, and it is due the church that a statement be made concerning the situation.

The financial status of the Board of Missions, at this season of the year, was probably never better. We had retired up to July 31, $74,000 of our debt, and our credit was such that we had without difficulty made arrangements with the banks to meet our drafts until returns from the Annual Conferences should yield us ample provision for all demands. But the monetary stringency throughout the country, which had steadily increased in July, brought about such contraction of currency by the middle of August that a large number of banks suspended, among them several in Nashville. Funds that had been at our disposal suddenly became unavailable. We made efforts here and elsewhere to borrow, in order to prevent delay in sending out drafts due Sept. 1, but failed.

It was at this critical moment that we appealed to the pastors of our church to aid us by sending what they had already collected on foreign missions, instead of holding these sums until Conference. The result fully justified our expectations. The Southern Methodist preacher is loyal to his church, and always responds to her appeals. If remittances continue to come in as they have been doing, we will not only tide over without protest, but be able to send our drafts to the field as usual. Most gratefully would we acknowledge the faithful promptness of our brethren.

There is another phase of the situation, however, to which it is the part of wisdom to call attention. The relief that has been given is temporary and to meet an emergency. The pressure has been so long continued, and has covered so wide an area, that we have grave apprehensions that unless the collections are now pushed with extraordinary vigor they will fall short during this fiscal year of the Board.

It is well known that for three years our appropriations have been lopped off until scarcely anything has been left but root and stock. A shortage in collections this year means reduction in appropriations next year, and further reduction means a death-blow to our missionary enterprise. We must not, and can not, cut down further. I appeal, therefore, in the name of our Master, and for the sake of our brethren in the field, for more faith in God, more supplication for the Holy Ghost, and for immediate and untiring effort to secure the amount asked of each pastoral charge for foreign missions.

WALTER R. LAMBUTH,
Cor. Sec. pro tem.

Mission Rooms, M. E. C., S., Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 30, 1893.

Semi-Centennial.

On Monday evening next, Sept. 25, a church reception will be held in the lecture-room of the Lafayette Presbyterian Church, Magazine street, near Jackson avenue, celebrating its fiftieth anniversary. Addresses by Dr. B. M. Palmer and Dr. J. B. Walker. All are invited.

"The Mississippi Leader."

I wish to say to the readers of the ADVOCATE that the Mississippi Leader, published at Brookhaven—B. T. Hobbs, its editor and business manager—is the property of the Prohibition party of Mississippi, in harmony with the National Prohibition party. Every nickel that may be derived from its publication, including all job work, over and above the actual expenses, and a moderate salary to its editor and business manager, will be expended in prohibition work in Mississippi, and I earnestly request every friend of our cause to send the editor one dollar, take the paper, and get others to take it. Our enemies are strong and entrenched behind the liquor power. We must fight if we win. We need a few Joshuas now. Come, brethren, don't sleep on your part. The issue is the cause of God, the church and our homes.

HENRY WARE.

Pass Christian, Miss.

Everywhere should the truth be impressed upon the minds of the young that total abstinence is the only absolute safeguard against the perils which go with strong drink.—Christian at Work.

200 Agents Wanted.

One in every community in State of Mississippi to sell Bishop Fitzgerald's Epworth Book. Prospectus, 50 cents. Holman Self-Pronouncing Sunday-school Teacher's Bible. Prospectus, $1. Imitation of Christ, beautifully illustrated by Thomas a Kempis. Prospectus, 75 cents. Full supply of International Bibles in stock. Send for catalogue. Order your Sunday-school supplies for the year, and remit quarterly, if you can not send cash with order. Apply at once.

We have a good supply of Bishop Haygood's Jack-knife and Brambles; also Josiah Strong's New Era, or Coming Kingdom. Jack-knife, $1. New Era, paper, 35 cents; cloth, 75 cents. Many other new books.

LAIRD & DOMINICK,
Jackson, Miss.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

BY REV. ROBERT H. WYNN.

Epworth League and Temperance.

The League prayer meeting topic for Sunday, Sept. 24, "Abstinence for the sake of others" (I. Cor. x, 27-33), suggests the subject given above as a suitable one for discussion at this time. In the text, to which reference is given, there may be found Paul's statement, and personal application to himself and the Corinthians, of the principle that is embodied in the topic, and it is a principle that may rightly be said to govern the Christian in relation to the subject of abstinence from intoxicants. In order to have Paul's full treatment of the subject, and its application, read together chapter viii, 1-13, and chapter x, 14—xi, 1. By a study of the passage, it may be seen that the question, as to what I, as a Christian, should abstain from, can not always by answered by referring it to my own conscience, even though the conscience be guided by the strict letter of the moral law; but that the moral quality of certain acts must be determined by their relation to those within the circle of my influence. "All things are lawful for me, but all things are not expedient," in that they cause others to stumble, and by this means become, indirectly, immoral acts. In order, therefore, to obey the exhortation of verse 31, "Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God," we must study our relations to others; for as he says, in the very next verse, "Give no occasion of stumbling." Paul announces that his own cause of action in all questions that should arise involving this question of relation to others, should be governed by "the profit of the many," and not by "mine own profit" (ver. 33); he then urges all Christians to be "imitators" of him in this particular, even as he is an imitator of Christ. (Chapter xi, 1. R. V.)

The best work that the Epworth League and other such organizations can do in the direction of the final overthrow of the liquor evil, is to create a temperance sentiment among the rising generation, that is based on Christian principles, for this is necessarily antecedent to any successful temperance reform. If you would save your brother from stumbling into a drunkard's grave, be a total abstainer yourself. If it was necessary to employ this principle in the case of such an apparently trifling thing as the "eating meat offered to idols," with how much greater force does the principle apply to the question of abstinence from drink, where there is far greater danger of positive injury, than in offending the tender conscience of the pagan weakling? Intemperance is a positive evil of such magnitude as to have elicited deliverances from all branches of the church. Even the Roman Catholic Congress, the other day, in its resolutions, urges temperance and total abstinence upon its constituents.

Provision is made in the Constitution of the League that the Department of Christian Effort shall, at certain times, provide for temperance meetings; and so it is here suggested that on the evening of Sept. 24 there be held a temperance meeting, in accord with the topic.

The Department of Literary Work may render valuable aid to the cause of temperance in the way of instruction as to the appalling magnitude of the evil. The temperance question is a vital one with which the church must deal; let not the League ignore it.

* * *

EPWORTH LEAGUERS AND TEMPERANCE.

This temperance question is everywhere the theme of discussion. What stand must Epworthians take in the battle against this great curse?

1. Be in earnest concerning this subject.

2. Be thoroughly informed as to the effects of alcohol and narcotics upon the body and soul. No one need live in ignorance concerning this matter. Enough is published, and the results of using these evils may be seen at every turn one makes.

3. Be total abstainers.

4. Be careful to use your influence upon the side of temperance at all times, in all places, and under all circumstances, for you can hold no neutral position.—Zion's Herald.

* * *

Let Leagues be organized through the Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Mississippi Conferences, wherever they do not already exist. The attempt may, in many cases, seem impracticable; but, if properly undertaken, there is no need for failure. Try it, and the wisdom of the effort will be vindicated in its effect upon pastor and people. Where Leagues are already established, let the forces be so active that, after a while, we may organize League Conferences. It seems that we have been lagging behind other Conferences in Epworth League interest. This is certainly true in Louisiana; about the others there is no definite information at hand.

* * *

The Union Epworth League, of New Orleans, invites correspondence with other Leagues. Help may in this way be both given and received. Address Miss Addie S. McKnight, secretary, Union Epworth League, Box No. 748, New Orleans.

LOOK!

WILKINSON'S

Matchless Sulphuric Acid and Iron Tonic

WELL WATER.

The Most Wonderful Tonic in America.

Please Read Carefully What the Chemist of New Orleans and Board of Health Says It Contains.

BOARD OF HEALTH, STATE OF LOUISIANA, New Orleans, Aug. 9, 1893.

Mr. W. W. WILKINSON—

Dear Sir: Below please find the results of analysis of the sample of water marked "Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water," submitted to me for examination, accompanied by the following affidavit:

The State of Alabama—Butler County.

Before me, F. M. Black, a Notary Public in and for said County and State, personally appeared J. F. Bergamer, Sheriff of Butler County, who being duly sworn on oath, saith that he went to the well of Mr. W. W. Wilkinson on this day and seen the Matchless Mineral Water drawn from the well and put in a five gallon demijohn and labeled to A. L. Metz, M. D., Chemist of Board of Health, No. 63 Carondelet Street, New Orleans, La.

(Signed) J. F. BERGAMER, Sheriff Butler County.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, July 20th, 1893.

(Signed) F. M. BLACK, Notary Public.

Color	Yellowish red and clear
Odor...(when heated to 140° F.)	Terebinthinous
Taste	Very Astringent
Phosphates	Heavy Traces
Chlorine as Chlorides	3.102 grains
Per U. S. gallon of 231 cub. inches
Equivalent to Sodium Chloride	5.083 grains
Sulphuric Acid	785.108
Iron (Ferric) Oxide	334.480
Iron (Ferrous) Oxide	101.920
Aluminum Oxide	7.681
Calcium Oxide (Lime)	30.476
Magnesia	26.872
Potash	2.322
Soda	6.045
Silica	6.049

These constituents are probably combined as follows:

Grains per U. S. gallon of 231 cub. inches
Iron (Ferric) Sulphate	836.200
Iron (Ferrous) Sulphate	213.775
Aluminum and Potassic Sulphate (Alum)	29.900
Calcium (Lime) Sulphate	74.018
Magnesium Sulphate	80.616
Sodium Sulphate	7.725
Sodium Phosphate	Heavy Traces
Sodium Chloride	5.083
Silica	6.049

The residue, after evaporation, crystallized, and the total weight, including water of crystallization, at 212° F., was 1.564 grains per gallon.

A. L. METZ, M. D.,
Chemist of the Board of Health of the State of Louisiana and of the City of New Orleans.

Cures Dyspepsia in its worst form, Chronic Diarrhœa, Diabetes, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Sores, Bilious Colic, Tetter, Ring Worm, Chronic Sores, Ulceration of the Womb, Throat, Catarrh, Debility. Best Natural Tonic in the World.

As a Tonic and Alterative.—A teaspoonful to a tablespoonful in one-half glass of water three times a day, directly after eating; but if stomach is soured, take before eating.

As a Cathartic.—Three to five tablespoonsful in same amount of water.

For External Application.—Use as a wash without diluting (warm if possible).

For Injection.—If water is too strong, slightly dilute and use twice a day.

For Cholera Morbus and Cramp Colic.—Two tablespoonsful every hour or two until relieved (in a little water).

For Fistula.—Warm and wash with one-half water. Harness bruises, old sores or fresh cuts, same.

For Colic in Horses.—Pint. If not relieved in five minutes, repeat second dose. Never fails.

Will keep full strength for any length of time in any climate. Never dilute except as used.

Best Natural Iron Tonic in the World.

Cures Diseases of the Stomach and Purifies the Blood.

1. W. D. Rogers says: "Your Mineral Water has cured me of dyspepsia, and my wife of womb disease, when all else failed."

2. John H. McCullough says: "This water cured me of dyspepsia after suffering four years and trying medicine, doctors, etc."

3. W. D. Newman says: "I was afflicted for twelve years with fetter. Matchless Mineral Water cured me when all doctors and treatment failed."

4. Rev. Chas. R. Lamar was cured of dyspepsia of more than two years' standing by use of two gallons of Matchless Mineral Water.

5. J. H. Gilbert says: "Matchless Mineral Water is, beyond doubt, the best remedy known to me for sore eyes."

6. Jesse B. Basser says: "I have suffered long from chronic ulcerated sore leg. Offered $100 to doctors to cure. This water cured me."

7. Rev. J. M. Whitehead: "It cures every species of indigestion; can eat anything I want, and a good appetizer."

8. James J. Ingle says: "I have suffered five years with kidneys and liver. Have used one bottle. Most wonderful medicine I ever used."

9. J. G. Lighfoot says: "My son down five years. General debility and impure blood. Doctors failed. Two bottles Mineral Water cured him."

10. John Brannan says: "I was down three years with bilious colic. Spent $150 for medical treatment; grew worse; one and a half gallons. This water cured me."

11. Martin Eady says: "My eye was about out from gun cap in it. The two bottles of Mineral Water made a complete cure of my eyes."

12. George Green says: "I have been suffering fifteen or twenty years with chronic diarrhœa. The Matchless Mineral Water cured me."

13. W. J. Gardner says: "For seven or eight years I was victim of nervous dyspepsia and all its horrors. One quart Mineral Water cured me. Spent thousands of dollars for medical treatment. Would not go back for $10,000."

14. J. B. Brown says: "My only child, three years old, sick two years. Spent much for medical treatment. Child given up to die. Mineral Water cured him. I would not take $1,000 for benefits of that bottle of Mineral Water."

15. Mr. J. A. Davis, Bonham, Texas, says: "My horse was as sick with colic as any horse I ever saw. One pint of water cured him in five minutes."

Price: Per bottle, 25c, 50c, and $1,

Address C. M. FUSH,
106 Camp Street,
NEW ORLEANS, - - - LA.
Send stamp for circular.

FOR

Biliousness, Dyspepsia,

SICK HEADACHE, WEAK STOMACH,

—AND ALL—

Disorders of the Liver.

TESTIMONY.

I have used Brodie's Pills for many years in my family, and have found them invaluable in all cases, and, as a Liver Pill, do not think they have an equal. GEO. H. WILEY.

Sold By All Druggists.

Price, 25c. a Box:

I. L. LYONS & CO., Prop's,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

QUALITY AND PRICE IS WHAT TALKS.

"A Grade, $51.50. "A Grade, $45.

Look at these beautiful vehicles and low prices. You can't buy 'em from your local dealer for double the money. Write for our 1893 star catalogue, the finest ever published. Over 100 Styles. Vehicles $10 and upward. Harness $5 and upward.

"A Grade, $130.

ALLIANCE CARRIAGE CO., CINCINNATI, O.

UNIVERSITY PREPARATORY SCHOOL,

73 COLISEUM STREET.

T. W. DYER, - - - Principal.

The Eleventh Session begins Oct. 2 with a full corps of teachers. The location is perfect. The surroundings are attractive. The grounds are large (quarter of a square), with separate yard and accommodations for smaller boys. A few boarding pupils can be accommodated. References: The clergy of New Orleans and the faculty of Tulane University.

VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Next Session opens September 20th.

Full graduate as well as under graduate courses. Ten Fellowships for college graduates. Seven Departments—Academic, Engineering, Biblical, Law, Pharmaceutical, Dental, Medical. Fully equipped laboratories and museums.

WILS WILLIAMS, Secretary.

Queen & Crescent Route

"Finest Trains in the South."

Through Cars to Chicago without change, from New Orleans, Meridian, Birmingham, Chattanooga, Jacksonville, Fla., Atlanta, Macon, Asheville, N. C., Knoxville, Tenn., Lexington and Georgetown, Ky. Choice of routes via Cincinnati or via Louisville. Stop-overs allowed on all World's Fair tickets, at Chattanooga, Louisville, Indianapolis or Cincinnati.

For further information as to Rates, Car Service, Sleeping Car Reservations, etc., call on or address any agent of the Queen & Crescent Route or E. T. V. & G. Ry.

D. G. EDWARDS, G. P. A., Cincinnati, O.

THROUGH CARS TO CHICAGO.

MALONE COLLEGE

For Young Ladies.

HOLLY SPRINGS, MISSISSIPPI.

The Third Annual Session will begin Monday, Sept. 20, 1893.
Location, highest point in the State. Elevation, 613 feet.
Health unsurpassed in the Southwest.
Course thorough and comprehensive.
Each department under the charge of specialists.
Special advantages offered in music, art and elocution.
A HOME SCHOOL for pupils under Christian influences.
Terms moderate. For catalogues or further particulars address

Rev. J. W. HONNOLL, President.

Classical and Commercial Institute,

7 PRYTANIA STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Regular session begins Sept. 4th. Students admitted at any time. Full Classical and Literary Courses. Commercial Sciences taught practically. Normal Penmanship. Shorthand and Type-writing, standard systems. Day and night classes. Ladies admitted to Commercial Department. Boarding Department under supervision of Principal. Write for circular.

Endorsed by the editor of the ADVOCATE and W. H. LaPrade, D. D., pastor of Carondelet Street Church.

H. S. CHENET, A. M., Principal.
G. W. HARMAN, Prin. Com. Dep't. LYMAN C. REED, A. M., Assistant.

Spencerian Penmanship

With BOOK-KEEPING, COMMERCIAL LAW, SHORTHAND and TYPE-WRITING Thoroughly Taught in the

Commercial Department, Classical and Commercial Institute, 7 PRYTANIA ST., NEW ORLEANS.

G. W. HARMAN, Principal.

Entire expenses for three months: Course, $90, including board, tuition, etc.

Ladies received in this department.

Office Telephone, 83. Yard Telephone, 831.

Pennsylvania Coal Company,

Office, 67 Carondelet Street.

PITTSBURGH COAL.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

L. S. WIDNEY, Manager.

Cotton Presses, Factories, and the Family trade supplied at Lowest Market Rates.

CITY YARDS: Foot of Robin Street, Foot of Desire Street, Corner Short and St. Charles Avenue.

The Great Church LIGHT.

FRINK'S Patent Reflectors give the Most Powerful, the Softest, Cheapest and the Best Light known for Churches, Stores, Show Windows, Parlors, Banks, Offices, Picture Galleries, Theatres, Depots, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room. Get circular and estimate. A liberal discount to churches and the trade. I. P. FRINK, 551 Pearl Street, N. Y.

IT SHARPENS the appetite, improves digestion, and restores health and vigor; all the organs of the body are roused to healthy action by Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. More than all, the liver—and that's the key to the whole system. You have pure blood or poisonous blood, just as your liver chooses. The blood controls the health, the liver controls the blood, the "Discovery" controls the liver.

You can escape just about half the ills that flesh is heir to, by being ready for them. Brace the system up with this medicine, which prevents as well as cures. For all diseases caused by a disordered liver or impure blood—dyspepsia, biliousness, the most stubborn skin, scalp and scrofulous affections, the "Discovery" is the only remedy so certain and effective that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

You pay only for the good you get.

Have patience, Alice. I will drive that Malaria from your body and get you well

I have got that Wilkinson's Matchless eral Sulphuric Acid and Iron Well Water. ill send and get a circular and let you d all about it.

PRICE: 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per Bottle.
M. Fush, 106 Camp St., New Orleans.

HENRY P. DART,

Attorney-at-Law,

49 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

—A—

Washington and Lee College

SCHOLARSHIP

FOR SALE CHEAP.

Apply at

Werlein's Music Store,

135 Canal Street.

CARPETS!

Don't have your carpets half cleaned; all know how impossible it is to clean carpets by hand.

All dust thoroughly taken out by steam.

Feathers purged of all impurities.

44 St. Peter Street.

NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

Founded by Dr. Eben Tourjee. CARL FAELTEN, Director.

The Leading Conservatory of America.

In addition to its unequalled musical advantages, exceptional opportunities are also provided for the study of Elocution, the Fine Arts, and Modern Languages. The admirably equipped Home affords a safe and inviting residence for lady students. Calendar Free.

FRANK W. HALE, General Manager, Franklin Square, Boston, Mass.

Huntsville Female -:- College.

HUNTSVILLE, ALABAMA.

Forty-fourth Session begins Wednesday, September 6, 1893. Healthy, well-furnished; twenty Officers and Teachers. All departments of Female Education thoroughly taught; Music, Art, Languages, Sciences, Literature and Commercial Course. A Christian home for pupils. Charges reasonable. For Catalogues, etc., apply to

Rev. A. B. JONES, President.

Mississippi

Industrial Institute and College.

BUREAU OF EDUCATION.

Persons desiring to employ competent teachers, or young women qualified to do good work as dress makers, telegraphers, type writers and book keepers, are invited to correspond with this Bureau. No charge for services.

Apply to MISS S. C. McLAURIN,
I. I. and C., Columbus, Miss.

HOPKINS'

PRINTING OFFICE,

20 Commercial Place,

John P. Hopkins. New Orleans

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

HOME CIRCLE.

BE PATIENT WITH THE CHILDREN.

They have such tiny feet!
They have gone upon a little way to meet
The years which are required to break
Their steps to evenness, and make Them go more sure and slow.

They have such little hands!
Be kind—things are so new, and life but stands
A step beyond the doorway. All around
New day has found
Such tempting things to shine upon, and so
The hands are tempted off, you know.

They are such loud, clear eyes,
That widen to surprise
At every turn! They are so often held
To sun or flowers—showers soon dispelled
By looking in our face;
Love asks for such, more grace.

They are such fair, frail gifts!
Uncertain as the rifts
Of light that lay along the sky—
They may not be here by and by,
Give them not love, but more, above
And harder—patience with the love.

—Central Presbyterian.

Longing for God.

"I have loved thee with an everlasting love; therefore with loving kindness have I drawn thee."

Too late I loved thee, O thou beauty of ancient days, yet ever new; too late I loved thee. For thou wert within and I abroad; there I searched for thee, I in my deformity plunging among the fair forms which thou hast made. Thou wert with me, but I was not with thee. Things held me far from thee, which unless they were in thee were not at all. Thou didst call and shout, and didst burst through my deafness. Thou didst flash and shine and scatter my blindness. Thou didst breathe forth odors, and with every breath I draw I pant for thee. I tasted, and I hunger and thirst. Thou didst touch me, and I yearn for thy peace. Where hast thou not walked with me, O Truth, teaching me what to beware and what to desire, when I referred to thee whatever I could discover in this earthly state? Nor in all these things can I find a safe place for my soul but only in thyself; there may my scattered members be gathered, so that nothing of me shall be separated from thee.

And sometimes thou admittest me to an unusual affection, felt in my inmost soul, and rising to a strange sweetness, which if it were perfected in me, I know not what in it would not belong to the life to come.

O Truth who art Eternity, and Love who art Truth, and Eternity who art Love, Thou art my God; to Thee do I cry night and day!—St. Augustine.

Senator Voorhies on Lincoln.

"Speaking of his numberless stories, I recall one he once told during an argument in a lawsuit. The lawyer on the other side was a good deal of a glib talker, but not reckoned as deeply profound or much of a thinker. He was rather reckless and irresponsible in his speech-making also, and would say anything to a jury which happened to enter his head. Lincoln, in his address to the jury, referring to all these, said: 'My friend on the other side is all right, or would be all right were it not for the peculiarity I am about to chronicle. His habit—of which you have witnessed a very painful specimen in his argument to you in this case—of reckless assertion and statements without grounds, need not to be imputed to him as a moral fault or as telling of a moral blemish. He can't help it. For reasons which, gentlemen of the jury, you and I have not time to study here, as deplorable as they are surprising, the oratory of the gentleman completely suspends all action of his mind. The moment he begins to talk his mental operations cease. I never knew of but one thing which compared with my friend in this particular. That was a small steamboat. Back in the days when I performed my part as a keel-boatman I made the acquaintance of a trifling little steamboat which used to bustle and puff and wheeze about in the Sangamon river. It had a five-foot boiler and a seven-foot whistle, and every time it whistled it stopped.' "—Kansas City Times.

Tried and Failed.

Professor Myers, of London, has prepared a sentence and sealed it in an envelope which is to remain in the archives of the Society of Psychical Research, of which he is secretary. He says he will communicate that sentence after death to a living person who is sensitive enough to receive messages from the spiritual world, and that individual will repeat the message to the officers of the organization. If when the envelope is opened the contents are found to be identical with the sentence in possession of the clairvoyant, the power of communication with the spirit land, he says, will be established beyond the doubting of a human mind. In substance this has been tried and failed. Mrs. Helen Hunt Jackson exacted a promise of her twelve-year-old boy shortly before his death, that he would communicate with his mother, if possible. She never heard from him. She had been inclined toward spiritualism, but became disenchanted.

Where Will They Go?

James Russell Lowell once said in the presence of some skeptics: "When the microscope search of skepticism, which has hunted the heavens and sounded the seas, to disprove the existence of a Creator, has turned his attention to human society, and has found a place on this planet ten miles square where a decent man can live in decency, comfort, and security, supporting and educating his children, unspoiled and unpolluted, a place where age is reverenced, infancy respected, womanhood honored, and human life held in due regard—when skeptics can find such a place ten miles square on this globe, where the gospel of Christ has not gone first and cleared the way, and laid the foundations, and made decency and security possible, it will then be in order for the skeptic literati to move thither, and there ventilate their views."

He is a model church treasurer who sympathizes with his pastor's wants, and sees that he is paid promptly. The minister is to be congratulated who is blessed with an official of this character. There are many of them, but their number needs multiplication at a growingly rapid rate. One of these worthies recently came to our notice. Compelled to be away for months, he did not forget his minister's needs, nor make his absence an excuse for keeping him out of his monthly remittance, but arranged to have his check on time. He belongs to that order of treasurers who, if the funds are not exactly on hand, will advance the amount needed, and see that the church makes it good to him in due season. A thoughtful, prompt and energetic treasurer is worthy of all honor and commendation.—Ex.

How independent of outward circumstances the Holy Ghost can make the Christian! What a bright light may shine within us when it is all dark without! How firm, how happy, how calm, how peaceful we may be, when the world shakes to and fro, and the pillars of the earth are removed! Even death itself, with all its terrible influences, has no power to suspend the music of a Christian's heart, but rather makes that music become more sweet, more clear, more heavenly, till the last kind act which death can do is to let the earthly strain melt into the heavenly chorus, the temporal joy into the eternal bliss.—Spurgeon.

"A Catholic paper published at Scranton, Pa., displays this notice at the head of its first page: 'To whom it may concern: There is not money enough in the coffers of the entire rum element in America to buy a single inch of advertising space in the Index.' That is a bold thing for a Catholic paper to say; but there is not a Methodist paper in the land that needs to say it."—Baltimore Methodist.

OUR YOUNG PEOPLE.

THE CHILDREN'S HYMN.

BY J. R. EASTWOOD.

The earth, with leaves and blossoms fair,
Grows brighter day by day,
And in the green fields everywhere,
We see the lambs at play.

While birds to one another call,
And sing with tuneful voice,
Shall we not praise the Lord of all,
And in his words rejoice?

Each golden morning is his gift:
The days, no longer dim,
Abound with light and joy to lift
Our grateful thoughts to him.

O God! may our young hearts discern
Thy hand in all we see,
And from the world of beauty turn
To love and worship thee!

What Dotty Told Grandma about the Missionary Society.

BY DOROTHY SEABROOK.

"We have a Missionary S'ciety, our Sunday-school class has. Miss Alice—she's our teacher—got it up, and every other Saturday aft'noon we meet at her house, and she tells us stories 'bout the heathen, and we sing songs 'bout 'em, and take up a c'llection, and sometimes have somethin' to eat, and have real good times.

"Not the last time we met, but the time before that, Miss Alice said she was tired of doin' all the work of the s'ciety, and the next time we met we must 'lect a president and somethin' else, I've forgot what she called it. We didn't know just what she meant by 'lect, but she said she'd show us how to do it. So when we went there last Saturday, she gave us each a little piece of paper and a lead pencil, and said that we must each write or print on our paper the name of the little girl we'd rather have than anybody else to be our president, and she'd take up the papers and count 'em and the little girl that most of us wanted, would be the one.

"Well, when she gave me my paper, I just thought, and thought, and I couldn't think of anybody I'd rather w'd be president than myself, so I wrote my own name.

"After while Miss Alice passed a basket 'round and took up all the papers, and looked at 'em, and she laughed, and laughed, till she 'most cried; for gramma, don't you think every girl in that s'ciety had written her own name, so didn't any of us get to be president, nor nothin'. And gramma, when I came home and told mama 'bout it, she said when people are selfish, and try to get the best of everything just for their own selves, and don't care whether other folks get anything, or not, she thought it served 'em just right to be dis'-pointed."

And grandma said she thought so too.—Christian Observer.

He Believes in the Bible.

"In reply to your inquiry, 'What book has helped me most,' writes Congressman Elijah A. Morse to the Boston Globe, "I have to say that all other books to me may be 10 000 lanterns, but they are not the sun. The Book of books that has helped one the most is the blessed Bible. I have read it morning, noon and night from my childhood. I once heard a man say who had committed the Book of Proverbs to memory that he would defy any man to state any circumstances or condition in life he couldn't fit a proverb to.

"Daniel Webster said of the book: 'It is the book of all others for lawyers as well as divines, and I pity the man who can not find in it a rich supply of thought and rules for conduct.'

"John Quincy Adams said: 'The first and almost the only book deserving universal attention is the Bible, the book of all others to read at all stages and in all conditions of human life.'

"Thomas Jefferson said: 'It will make better citizens, better fathers, better husbands.'

"John Adams said: 'The Bible is the best book in the world; it contains more of my little philosophy than all the libraries I have seen.'

"Queen Victoria said to an African prince who inquired the secret of England's greatness and glory: 'Tell the prince that this book is the secret of England's greatness.' "

From Lack of Exercise.

Asken—"What kind of a fellow is Dumleigh?"

Tell—"Well, Dumleigh is a fellow who, if he were to think twice before he spoke, would lose the use of his voice."

The Street Arab's Trust.

The following incident is one that John B. Gough loved to relate:

A story is told of a London street boy who had both legs broken by a dray passing over them. He was laid away in one of the beds of a hospital to die, and another little creature of the same class was laid near by, picked up with famine fever. The latter was allowed to lie down by the side of the little crushed boy. He crept up to him and said: "Bobby, did you never hear about Jesus?"

"No, I never heard about Jesus."

"Bobby, I went to mission school once, and they told us that Jesus would take you to heaven when you died, and you'd never hunger any more, and have no more pain, if you axed him."

"I couldn't ask such a great big gentleman as he to do anything for me. He wouldn't stop to speak to a boy like me."

"But he'll do all that if you ask him."

"How can I ask him if I don't know where he lives? And how can I get there when both of my legs are broken?"

"Bobby, they told me at the mission school as how Jesus passed by. Teacher says as he goes round. How do you know but what he might come round to this hospital this very night? You'd know him if you was to see him."

"But I can't keep my eyes open. My legs feel so awful bad. Doctor says I'll die."

"Bobby, hold up your hand, and he'll known what you mean when he passes by."

They got the hand up; it dropped. They tried again; but it fell back. Three times he raised the little hand, only to let it fall. Bursting into tears, he said: "I give it up."

"Bobby, lend me your hand," said the other little fellow. "Put your elbow on my pillar. I can do without it."

So one hand was propped up. And when they came in the morning, the boy was dead, his hand still propped up for Jesus. You may search the world, and you can not find a grander illustration of simple trust than that of the little boy that had been to the mission school but once.—Exchange.

A Father's Gifts.

Your boy comes to you and asks you to buy him a fishing rod, and he says: "I saw one to-day in a window, which was just what I want. Can't I go down now and buy it?" and you say, "No, not to-day, wait a little." A week passes, and the lad begins to say to himself, "I wonder if father has not forgotten all about it." Then you put into his hands a better rod than he has ever seen before, and the boy is overwhelmed with surprise and pleasure. And yet the main thing in all this is not that your son has received what he wanted, but the gift won, through delay, has given him a new view of his father's wisdom, and a new confidence in his affection; which makes him say: "Hereafter, when I want anything of this kind, I will leave it all to father." And so the main thing a man gains, when God at last answers his prayer, is not the gift, but the clearer consciousness that God is better than his gifts, and that he has all in God.—Dr. Vincent.

Mr. D. L. Moody has the art of impressing himself upon his audiences as fully as any man now living. He is absorbed in his subject, and his hearers become absorbed in it; too. But Mr. Moody has found one class of hearers who give, at least, passive resistance to all his appeals, and he describes their attitude in his strong way, when he says that "the Angel Gabriel could not preach to a congregation that had been reading the Sunday newspapers."

"I do not remember ever to have heard in my father's home one disrespectful or unkind word concerning a minister." That is what we overheard a young woman say not long ago. She paid to her parents a very high compliment, and described a condition of things which should find a counterpart in every Christian home in the land. —Christian Steward.

God is a prayer-hearing and a prayer-answering God. And he hears and answers not according to your culture or your standing in society, but according to your faith and your obedience.—Western Recorder.

If you look at a dozen common lamp-chimneys, and then at Macbeth's "pearl top" or "pearl glass," you will see the differences—all but one—they break from heat; these don't; you can't see that.

Common glass is misty, milky, dusty; you can't see through it; Macbeth's is clear.

Tough, clear glass is worth fine work; and a perfect chimney of fine tough glass is worth a hundred such as you hear, pop, clash on the least provocation.

Pittsburgh. GEO. A. MACBETH CO.

NOBODY wants it. Vacuum Leather Oil for 25c, and your money back if you want it.

Patent lambskin-with-wool on swob and book—How to Take Care of Leather—both free at the store.

Vacuum Oil Company, Rochester, N. Y.

LOOK OUT!

"In peace prepare for war, in health for sickness." This old adage is always wise and timely, especially so just now. Summer is on, with its debilitating influences. Nerves are flagging, appetites failing, energy and strength yielding, even now. Shortly will come decay of vegetation, when malaria will "ride on every passing breeze" and count its victims in every home. Now is the time. Repair the wastes. Restore the vitality. Fortify the system. Ward off the perilous attacks of malaria and pass safely and happily through. You can do this by using DR. KING'S

ROYAL

GERMETUER.

It is the best preventive, the best restorative, the most unfailing cure. Pleasant to take as lemonade, and harmless, unique, matchless, perfect. "The ultima thule of medicines." Try it now. For sale by druggists.

Rev. J. B. Irwin, D. D., the popular pastor of the Tulip Street Methodist Church, Nashville, Tenn., says: "Having tested the Germetuer for more than a year by repeated use, I take pleasure in saying I have found it a prompt relief and cure for dyspepsia and nervous debility. I keep it on hand and would not be without it. Besides being a valuable remedy, it is a pleasant and refreshing drink."

$1 A BOTTLE, SIX FOR $5.

Germetuer Pills are the best. Fifty in a bottle, 25c.

Said the Owl

to himself, "If the moon I could get, whenever I'm dry my throat I could wet; The moon is a quarter—with a quarter I hear; you can purchase five gallons of

Hires' Root Beer."

A Delicious, Temperance, Thirst-quenching, Health-Giving Drink. Good for any time of year.

A 25c. package makes 5 gallons. Be sure and get Hires'.

ATHENS, GA.

I can say from experience that it is the best water I ever knew. It is my life and health. I have received more permanent benefit from it as a dyspeptic than all the other remedies I have used. I would suggest that you get druggists all over the land to keep it, and then boom it in the papers. It is good for piles, skin diseases, dyspepsia, etc. My general health never was better, and the Matchless Mineral Water is the prime cause of it. I have preached sixteen times it the last ten days, and feel no inconvenience from it, I am always glad to hear from you.

Very truly and sincerely,

S. P. RICHARDSON,

Presiding Elder.

—FOR SALE BY—

Chas. M. Fush, 106 Camp St., New Orleans.

AGENTS WANTED ON SALARY or commission, to handle the new Patent Chemical Ink Erasing Pencil. The quickest and greatest selling novelty ever produced. Erases ink thoroughly in two seconds. No abrasion of paper. Works like magic. 200 to 500 per cent. profit. One Agent's sales amounted to $630 in six days. Another $37 in two hours. Previous experience not necessary. For terms and full particulars, address, The Monroe Eraser Mf'g Co., La Crosse, Wis. X 878.

8% GUARANTEED by a leading Trust Company is offered at par. Suitable for large and small investments. Full information furnished by W. B. Lown Mills Building, New York.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

DR. PRICE'S Cream Baking Powder.

The only Pure Cream of Tartar Powder.—No Ammonia; No Alum.

in Millions of Homes—40 Years the Standard

MARRIAGES.

WILSON—McCLELLAN.—At Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, Shanghai, China, July 27, 1893, by Rev. C. F. Reid, D. D., Rev. W. A. Wilson, of the Japan Mission Conference, to Miss Mary A. McClellan, representative of the Woman's Board of Missions, Shanghai, China.

BUDDUTH—RUSSELL.—At the residence of Mr. T. James, Starkville, Miss., Sept. 6, 1893, by Rev. T. C. Wier, Mr. W. H. Budduth to Miss Ella T. Russell.

LEA—HAMILTON.—At the Kent House, Rolling Fork, Miss., Sept. 10, 1893, by Rev. W. H. Lewis, Mr. J. D. Lea and Miss Forest Hamilton.

Surely yoo heaven where angels see God's face
Is not so distant as we deem
From this low earth! 'Tis but a little space,
The narrow crossing of a slender stream;
'Tis but a veil which winds might blow aside.
Yes, these are all that us of earth divide
From the bright dwelling of the glorified,
The land of which I dream.

—Horatio Bonar.

OBITUARIES.

We publish obituaries of 200 words free of charge; for all over this, one cent per word must be sent. If you want the notice to appear in its order, comply with this rule. Count the words, and send one cent for each word over 200.

Mrs. Elizabeth Patrick.

This matriarch, who passed away in the afternoon of Aug. 25, 1893, at her home near Jackson, was one of the most excellent women in Mississippi Methodism. Her maiden name was Hackleford, and her birth-place, Huntsville, Ala., on Jan. 1, 1812. In 1833 she was married to Robt. A. Patrick, and immediately thereafter removed to Mississippi, locating at Benton, in Yazoo county. After three years they settled in the vicinity of Jackson, and there lived in happiness and honor until each fell on sleep. She was happily converted and joined the Methodist Church at Jackson in 1840, under the ministry of Rev. Dr. J. B. Walker. From that day of her espousal to the Lord to her peaceful death, she was a zealous, loyal, cheerful Christian, loving her Master's cause and working therefor with unmarred diligence.

She had a cheerful, sunny heart, full of hope and tenderest sympathy. When others were cheerless, her smile was brightest, and her ringing voice an inspiration to redoubled effort. Though a widow with the care of a family after the war, when strong men yielded to the burdens of disappointment and loss, she was brave and hopeful, and easily adjusted herself to changed social and industrial conditions. To her large liberality and enterprise are we indebted for the little church built in the neighborhood, which has been the spiritual home of so many of the faithful. Her hospitable doors swung open to the coming of the preachers, and under that roof they delighted to abide. Only two children survive her, a son and daughter, who cherish a sweet and blessed memory. A mother in Israel, of many graces and shining virtues, has gone to her rich reward. CHAS. B. GALLOWAY.

Jackson, Miss.

MYERS—Our hearts are sad! A deep gloom has been cast over the entire community, and the church has lost one of its brightest members to the death of Mrs. JENNIE MYERS. Beautiful in form, feature and character, she will be missed by all who knew her. Gentle, generous, kind and noiseomlog were some of her noble traits. Her disposition was sunny and bright. She was the light of the neighborhood.

The surroundings of some people make it difficult for them to live up to the full measure of a Christian. Such were her surroundings; yet she filled her position as a Christian woman far better than most persons with the very best advantages. She delighted in church work, and was the recognized leader at Jordan Chapel.

Many friends followed her remains to the grave, and they were truly mourners. Her mother, sisters, brothers and husband are almost heart broken. It seemed hard to be taken away just when life was opening out to her as a beautiful flower, sending its sweetness in every direction. Having a comfortable and pleasant home, she looked forward to a long life of usefulness and happiness. She had scarcely placed the cup of earthly joy and pleasure to her lips when it was snatched away. Such is life. When we think we are best prepared to live then we die. It is said, "Death loves a shining mark." It was true in her case.

Jennie C. Howard was born in Trinity, Catahoula parish, La., May 18, 1857; joined the M. E. Church, South, 1873; married Mr. D. F. Myers, of Tensas parish, April 19, 1892, and died in Franklin parish, Aug. 23, 1893. Her little babe preceded her to the grave just one week. May the Lord comfort the bereaved and save them in heaven! J. WHITE DAVIS.

HOLLEY—Miss ELLA HOLLEY, eldest daughter of J. M. and A. E. Holley, died Aug. 16, 1893, at Yazoo City, Miss.

Oh! how sad it was to see her broken-hearted parents, brothers and sisters kneeling by the grave of their loving daughter and sister while all that was mortal was being consigned to the tomb, there to await the coming of her blessed Savior; then she will rise triumphant in glory.

"There let the way appear
Steps unto heaven;
All that thou sendest me,
In mercy given;
Angels to beckon me
Nearer, my God, to thee."

Grieve not, fond parents, as those who have no hope; her sweet spirit is now with its Savior. Sorrowing relatives and friends, she leaves you all the influence and memory of her fragrant, beautiful and trusting, happy life as an inspiration and an inheritance. Remember that as God takes our loved ones from us they become as so many beacon lights kindled along the other shore to guide our wandering feet and draw us heavenward.

"Oh! let those heavenly portals wide,
No longer be to me denied;
One single beam of light divine
Will rescue this faint soul of mine;
Then I may sing thy praise nor wait
Outside the golden gate."

A FRIEND.

PARHAM—WILSON, son of — — and Anna Parham (nee Vaughn), aged twenty-three years, departed this life on July 25, 1893. Wilson was the only son of his widowed mother. He was not only her protection, but to her a source of daily comfort and joy. He joined the M. E. Church, South, at Vaughn's Chapel when six years old. To his mother and two sisters he was much devoted. He had a genial, kind disposition, honest and upright in his dealings. He was regular at church and his Sabbath-school, and a true friend to his pastor.

Why did the good Lord take him from his loving mother? "What I do now ye know not, but ye shall know hereafter," saith the Lord. "Not a sparrow falleth without his notice." "All things work together for good to them that love the Lord." K. M. HARRISON.

COSTLEY—My precious and ever dear mother, Mrs. L. E. COSTLEY, was the daughter of Gabriel and Abigail Scott. She was born in Jefferson county, Miss., July 17, 1816; was married to L. B. Costley, April 11, 1849, and died at the residence of her son, J. S. Costley, in Franklin county, Miss., June 6, 1893, aged seventy-six years ten months and twenty days. She leaves behind an aged husband, five children and one only sister to mourn her loss. But, bless the Lord! we mourn not as those who have no hope, for her life was a Christian warfare.

In her diary she says: "I was early impressed with a deep sense of duty which I owed to my Creator. At the age of twelve years I joined the M. E Church, South. In the year 1835 I sought my Savior until I found him precious to my soul. For several days I rejoiced with that joy that is unspeakable and full of glory. But after awhile doubts arose, and for some years I struggled against them until at last one night, after my family had retired, I knelt and poured out my soul in secret prayer. God heard my cry, and poured out such a blessing that I could not contain it. May 22, 1871—I now have five children which lay near my heart. Oh, that my soul was a flame of fire, that I might penetrate their hearts and bring them all very near to God. July 25, 1875—I have made up my mind to live nearer my God than ever before in my life. Oct. 4, 1879—I feel the sweet consolation of the Holy Spirit this evening; it is light and liberty to my soul." And thus she went onward and upward to higher and holier things.

In her last illness her sufferings were very great, in consequence of which she talked very little; but whenever asked about her future prospects would reply, "All is well." She was ever loyal to her vows, never shrank from any duty. She lived her religion every day. Hers was a life that was filled up with kind words and kinder deeds. She never let an opportunity to do good pass. Her devotion to her little motherless grandchildren was past all description. She loved them with a love that was akin to God. But, dear ones, weep not.

She has gone to her God; she has gone to her home,
No more amid peril and error to roam.
Her eyes are no longer dim,
Her feet will no more falter;
No grief can follow her,
No pang her cheek can alter.

Soul-honored, beloved, to earth unconfined,
Thou hast soared on high, thou hast left us behind;
But our parting is not forever,
We will follow thee by heaven's light,
Where the grave can not dissever
The souls whom God will unite.

M. A. GUICE.

MARKHAM—Mrs. A. J. MARKHAM was born in Montgomery county, Ala., Sept. 15, 1828; was married to Geo. Markham, Nov. 9, 1815. In 1853 she joined the M. E. Church, South, under the ministry of Rev. H. J. Harris, of the Mississippi Conference, and died of consumption, after long and patient suffering, June 16, 1893.

Sister Markham was a good mother, a faithful wife, a good neighbor, a consistent member of the church, and we trust a true Christian. The home of Bro. and Sister Markham was brightened by eight children—three of whom still survive, five having preceded her to the home not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

Farewell, dear mother, sister, friend. By the grace of God we will meet you and all the loved ones at the beautiful gate, where parting will be left and feared no more. May God bless all the bereaved, and help them to so live that they may be happy in this world and in the world to come! A. D. MILLER.

WELLS—HAYDEN WELLS, only child of W. R. and M. Portis Wells, was born at Union, Newton county, Miss., Sept. 21, 1891; died, July 27, 1893, at the same place.

This death was unusually sad, because little Hayden was so smart and affectionate that his parents and all his uncles and aunts were very much attached to him; and then he was only sick six hours. His sorrowing mother said to me: "Oh! it is so hard; but I am going to live nearer God than ever, so I can meet dear little Hayden." W. M. WILLIAMS, P. C.

GRIFFING—WALTER HUGH GRIFFING, son of William Griffing and Bettie Osborn, was born Dec. 25, 1892, and died at his father's home, in Franklin parish, La., AUG. 24, 1893.

Little Walter came to brighten papa's and mama's home only a few short months; but the golden chain of love had wound so strongly around their hearts that they were torn and left bleeding when it was severed. God bless the parents in this, the loss of their first-born, and help them to go to him!

J. WHITE DAVIS.

An Only Daughter Cured of Consumption

When death was hourly expected from Consumption, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H James was experimenting, he accidentally made a preparation of Indian Hemp, which cured his only child, and now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. Hemp also cures night sweats, nausea at the stomach, and will break a fresh cold in twenty-four hours. Address Craddock & Co., 1602 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa.; naming this paper.

THE BEST WAY.

This world is a difficult world, indeed,
And people are hard to suit;
And the man who plays on the violin
Is a bore to the man with a flute.

And, I myself, have often thought
How very much better 'twould be,
If every one of the folks that I know
Would only agree with me.

But since they will not, then the very best way
To make this world look bright
Is never to mind what people say,
But do what you think is right.

—American Paper.

Mr. P. D. D. Delacroix, Cypremort P. O., La., Nov. 30, 1888, says: "Three years ago an agent representing Dr. Davis' Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar came into my store. Being busy, was unable to give him any time. Before leaving he gave me a sample bottle of Davis' Wild Cherry and Tar, asking me to give it to anyone suffering with a cough or cold. Several days afterward I caught a heavy cold. Remembering the sample, thought I would try it. Six teaspoonfuls cured me. Ordered a supply at once, and have sold it with satisfaction to all. It acts like magic on all my family, and I would not be without it. I take pleasure in recommending it at all times." One dollar bottles hold two and a half times as much as 50c. bottles.

I want an active agent in every parish in the bounds of the Louisiana Conference to handle that wonderful new book by Bishop Fitzgerald, The Epworth League Book. Don't miss this opportunity of a lifetime. First come first served! Prospectus, 75 cents.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp St., - - - - - - - New Orleans.

Notice.

I have the best thing in the way of a Teacher's Bible for an agent to handle ever published. Write for full descriptive circulars at once.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp St., - - - - - - - New Orleans.

No mineral water will produce the beneficial results that follow taking ONE or more of "BEECHAM'S PILLS" with a glass of water immediately upon arising in the morning.

Painless. Effectual. Covered with a tasteless, soluble coating.
"Worth a guinea a box."—Price only 25 cents.
Of all druggists, or a box will be mailed on receipt of 25cts. in stamps by D. F. Allen Co., 365 Canal St., New York. 57

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR
The Celebrated
CHOCOLAT MENIER
Annual Sales Exceed 33 MILLION Lbs.
Write for Samples. Sent Free. Menier, Union Sq., N. Y.

Marble, Slate and Hardwood Mantels.
TILES for Fire-places and Floors. GRATES of all kinds.
SLATE HEARTHS. BUILDING MATERIAL.
GEO. M. LEAHY,
No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Designs and prices furnished on application.

Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.

Losses Paid by Chicago Fire, 1871, $3 236 091.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429,729.

All Losses Paid in Cash without Discount, as Soon as Adjusted.

Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office, the same as with local companies.

DIRECTORS IN NEW ORLEANS.
GUSTAF R. WESTFELDT, Chairman. L. C. FALLON, LUCAS E. MOORE, C. M. SORIA.
CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Resident Sec'y. H. V. OGDEN, Resident Secretary.

Home Insurance Co., of New Orleans
No. 78 CAMP STREET.

CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1886,	$400,479.08
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1887,	$413,860.76
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1888,	$459,869.50
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1889,	$510,584.54
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1890,	$551,897.82
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1891,	$600,414.81

Steadily Increasing in Strength and Popularity.
Solicits Fire and River Business

Liberal Settlements and Prompt Payments.

Thos. Sefton, Pres't. Capt. J. B. Woods, Vice-Pres't. Jno. G. Byrd, Sec'y
J. B. WOODS, JOS. BAYLE, JNO. BARKLEY, JNO. J. BARR, ANDREW STEWART, CHAS. CHAFFE, J. B. LEVERT, E. BORLAND, P. R. RICE, W. B. BLOOMFIELD, W. T. HARDIE, THOS. SEFTON.

W. R. LYMAN, President. JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-President. JOHN E. WHITING, Secretary
Crescent Insurance Com'y.
Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.
Cash Capital, - - - - - - $300,000.
Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849. ANNUAL and TERM POLICIES Issued on Desirable Fire Business.
See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

Millsaps College,
Jackson, Miss.

The Second Session Begins Sept. 20th, 1893.

College Fees, Only $30 for the Entire Session.

Board in Students' Homes and in Private Families, $12 per month.

Provision has been made for the payment of the College Fees in the case of young preachers and the sons of preachers.

For Catalogue and other information address
W. B. MURRAH, PRESIDENT.

Waynesboro Collegiate Institute,
WAYNESBORO, MISS.
On M. and O. R. R., 63 Miles South of Meridian.

Will begin its second session Sept. 11th, 1893. Enrollment last session over 200. It prepares boys and girls for college, or fits them for the practical business pursuits of life. Our curriculum is not extensive. We aim at thoroughness. Board and tuition reasonable. Send for catalogue.

REV. W. W. MOORE, A. M., Principal.

—THE—
Great Southern Music House of
Philip Werlein
Is Prepared to Suit All Comers.

Elegant and Durable Pianos from $250 up.
Good Second-hand and Slightly Used Pianos from $50 up.
Send for Catalogues and Prices.
135 Canal St., New Orleans.

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.,
SUCCESSORS TO
STERN'S
Fert. and Chem.
Manufacturing Com'y
14 UNION STREET,
New Orleans, La.

MANUFACTURERS OF
High Grade
Bone Fertilizers,
PURE
GROUND BONE
ACID PHOSPHATE,
KAINIT,
Etc.

Write for Agricultural Hand-Book. Buyers of Cotton Seed.

AS A GARMENT OF MERIT
THE GENUINE JACKSON CORSET WAIST
STANDS AT THE FRONT.

It is Rapidly Replacing Old-Style, Uncomfortable and Unhealthful Corsets.

Easy-fitting, yet giving complete support to the form. It is well made, of good material and fast colors. We ask you to try it.

For sale by leading merchants everywhere. Take no substitute. If your dealer will not get it for you, write to the factory.

Made Only by the JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.

ROSE TOBACCO CURE
In all its Forms. For proof write the ROSE DRUG CO., Birmingham, Ala.
A quick, cheap, pleasant and absolute cure for the Tobacco Habit

FURNITURE!
Largest Stock,
Lowest Prices,
Greatest Variety,
Most Reliable Goods.
J. G. Grant. 28 & 30 Camp St., New Orleans, La.
Write for Illustrated Catalogue.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

A train on a Michigan road was held up by five men on Sept. 15 and robbed of $75 000.

There were eleven new cases of fever at Brunswick, Ga., on Sept. 17, and an epidemic was declared.

Ohio Day at the World's Fair was celebrated on Sept 14. Over fifty thousand people were in Ohio's contingent on that day.

The machinists of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, in Mobile, went out on a strike last week on account of a reduction in wages.

Generous contributions, in response to Gov. Tillman's appeal, have been sent to the sufferers by the South Carolina floods. New York has been especially lavish in her aid.

It is understood that the government officers have captured the man who stole $105,000 worth of gold from the mint at Philadelphia, and that $100,000 worth of the precious metal has been recovered.

Rapid progress is being made at the Washington Gun Foundry in the construction of the twelve 13-inch rifles for the four new battle-ships now nearing completion. Several of them are practically completed and three are reported as ready for testing at the Indian Head proving grounds. These are the most powerful guns ever built for the United States Navy.

At five minutes before noon, on Sept. 16, 75,000 men were gathered upon the north and south boundaries of the Cherokee strip awaiting the signal which would announce to them the arrival of the hour when the land should pass from the ownership of the United States government into the possession of its individual citizens. The signal was given, and a wild rush was made for homes.

Senator Voorhees will move to prolong the day sessions of the Senate into the night, and it is understood that he and his supporters will make as strong an effort as the circumstances will permit to have the Repeal bill pushed to as speedy a termination as possible. The motion will, of course, be opposed by the adherents of silver, and it may be expected that it will at least introduce an enlivening element into the proceedings of the Senate.

The House Repeal bill will again occupy the attention of the Senate this week to the exclusion of almost every other subject. There may be some division during the morning hour of each day over resolutions of inquiry or any subject that can be legitimately taken up, but the principal part of each day and possibly of each night will be devoted to the consideration of Mr. Wilson's measure to destroy the vital clause of the Sherman act.

FOREIGN.

There were fifty-one new cases of cholera and twenty deaths from that disease around St. Petersburg, on Sept. 16.

The insurgents' fleet's guns began the bombardment of Rio de Janeiro on Sept. 14, and have caused much damage.

The Portuguese government has decided to send another warship to Rio de Janeiro, as the advices received are of the most serious description. The bombardment of Rio is resumed every now and then, and much damage is said to have been done to property.

Ville Franche, near Nice, is now said to be the place where France will allow Russia to establish a station, dock, arsenal and store depot for her fleet, and this cession is said to be part of the prize France has had to pay for the alliance said to be existing between herself and Russia.

The Marquis of Salisbury's great rally of peers against the Home Rule bill has accomplished what the Unionists least intended. Instead of discouraging Gladstone, the action of the lords has aroused all the old man's pugnacity. He has accepted the gauge of battle thrown down by the upper house, and he is determined to make the fight all along the line.

It is reported that M. Jules Garnier, of Paris, has invented a new and very expeditious and cheap method of manufacturing steel, which, it is claimed, bids fair to revolutionize the steel-making industry altogether. A bar of iron and a stick of charcoal are laid together in a parallel direction in an electric fire-brick furnace at a temperature of 1,000 degrees, and a strong current of electricity is passed through them. The iron, M. Garnier claims, is instantaneously converted into steel of the very best quality.

The Congress of Mexico began its Autumn session on Sept. 16. The President's message contained interesting allusions to the present stringent condition of the country's finances and to the silver question. The President said that he believes that in view of abundant and increased crops, the general increase in the federal government's receipts, and the solid manner in which the mercantile community throughout the country has withstood the crisis of the past two years, there is not the least to fear of the future.

Don't you know to have perfect health you must have pure blood, and the best way to have pure blood is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the best blood purifier and strength builder.

Hood's Pills may be had by mail for 25c. of C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Free! Free!

AN ELEGANT LITHOGRAPH PICTURE OF MILLSAP'S COLLEGE.

We need $1,500 to pay for furniture already bought to finish furnishing the college and to make necessary improvements.

To everyone sending us $1 we will send the picture unframed, and to everyone sending us $5 we will send the picture neatly framed ready for hanging. Let us hear from you.

JOHN W. CHAMBERS, Agt.

Jackson, Miss.

For Dyspepsia

Use Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

Dr. F. H. WELTY, Hamilton, Va., says: "I have tried it frequently, and always with the most satisfactory results. Nothing is equal to it for treatment of dyspepsia and the various complications resulting from disorders originating in the stomach. I consider it invaluable."

Notice.

Rev. Dr. B. Carradine will begin a meeting with me at West End, Meridian, Miss., on Oct. 15. The object of the meeting will be the conversion of sinners, and the entire sanctification of believers according to "Wesley's Plain Account of Christian Perfection." Preachers and other workers are urged to attend. Let all who will come to work notify me, and we will provide entertainment for them.

W. W. HOPPER, Pastor.

Meridian, Miss.

By using Hall's Hair Renewer, gray, faded or discolored hair assumes the natural color of youth, and grows luxuriant and strong, pleasing everybody.

Emperor William and the King of Wurtemburg reviewed the Thirteenth Army Corps on Sept. 15. The Emperor led his infantry regiment past the King, and then the King marched past the Emperor at the head of five regiments. The Crown Prince of Italy, who was present, paid marked attention to the Emperor and Empress at the banquet, which followed the review.

BEECHAM'S PILLS cures Sick-Headache.

Camp Meeting.

The New Prospect Camp Meeting will begin on Friday eight before the fourth Sunday in October (Oct. 20). Ministers of the gospel are invited to attend, and will be furnished with transportation from the railroad to camp ground. Get off at Ocean Springs, where you will get hacks, etc. N. B. YOUNG.

Vancleave, Miss.

Camp Meeting Calendar.

Camp Meeting	Begins.
Mt. Zion	Sept. 21
St. Tammany	Sept. 22
Palmer	Sept. 30
Salem	Oct. 5
Shiloh	Oct. 6
New Prospect	Oct. 20

Colored Knights of Pythias Supreme Lodge Meeting, New Orleans, La.

Queen and Crescent Route, and Louisville Southern Railroad, will make one and one-third fare rate for the round trip, to New Orleans, La., on account of the meeting of the Colored Knights of Pythias Supreme Lodge, New Orleans, La., Sept. 25-30, 1893, inclusive. Tickets on sale Sept. 22 to 27, on certificate plan, from all points on Q. and C. and L. S. R. R.

Solid vestibuled trains from Cincinnati to New Orleans. Ninety-four miles shortest line. Only 26½ hours.

Call on agents for full information.

W. C. RINEARSON,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Cincinnati, O.

I. O. O. F. Demonstration in Chicago.

The Queen and Crescent route, and Louisville Southern railroad, on account of its first-class train service, elegant equipment, and quick time, has been named as the official route of the I. O. O. F. from the South to the grand I. O. O. F. Demonstration, to be held in Chicago, Sept. 23 to 30, 1893

Ask agents to quote you rates, and take the Queen and Crescent route through car lines to Chicago.

Choice of routes via Cincinnati or via Louisville. W. C. RINEARSON,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Cincinnati, O.

Frink's Improved Reflectors.

New York Mills, N. Y., Sept. 1, 1893.

I. P. Frink, 551 Pearl St., New York—

Dear Sir: One year ago we put into our church two of your sixty-inch Reflectors. At that time I wrote you that after a fair trial I would inform you of our like or dislike.

They prove far better than we expected; they have done all you said they would, and you might have made your recommendation stronger, for they are perfect. They give a steady, clear and brilliant light, by which the fine print can be read in any corner of the room. Very kindly, H. M. DANFORTH,
Pastor M. E. Church.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Philip Werlein,

New Orleans, wants you to write to him if you want to get a good Piano cheap, or an Organ, Music or Musical Instruments. His is the old reliable music store of New Orleans.

Oak Ridge, Miss.

We have held two other meetings since last report. The first at Phœnix, Yazoo county, Miss. We had a good meeting. The church somewhat revived, some conversions, and thirteen accessions. I was assisted by Bros. J. A. B. Jones, J. W. Ellison, T. B. Holloman, and T. J. Miller. All did excellent preaching to the entire satisfaction of pastor and people. May the good Lord graciously bless them in their work!

Our second was held at Oak Ridge, Warren county, Miss. Had a fine meeting. Church revived, several conversions, and thirty-three accessions. I was assisted by Bros. I. W. Cooper, D. D., and T. J. Miller. Bro. Cooper did the most of the preaching to the great delight of pastor and people. He is one of our strongest men in the pulpit, and a good revivalist. Bro. T. J. Miller is in favor with all my people, and a good revivalist.

I want to here and now thank all the brethren for help rendered, and will say, anyone needing help will be fortunate to secure the help of any of them.

We have an appreciative, intelligent, and kind people. They are in great favor with the writer, whether he is with them or not. Some preacher had better arrange to get the Warren circuit about two or three years from now.

We have had a very successful year up to date. Have received ninety-one members this year. We want a hundred. Pray for us. I think the secret of our success lies in the fact that we administered discipline the first half of the year, and then secured good help, and made a strong effort to build up the church. Pray for us.

A. D. MILLER, P. C.

Aug. 30, 1893.

A Lady Born.

True politeness does not consist of the artificial airs of the drawing-room, in what is sometimes called "company manners," that continue so long as there are persons present to look on whose good opinion is desired, and relapse into barbarism as soon as the company has gone. It is the inborn impulse of a higher and nobler nature. Here is an apt illustration:

An aged truckman bent under the weight of a big roll of carpet. His bale hook fell from his hand and bounded into the gutter out of reach. Twenty idle clerks and salesmen saw the old man's predicament, and smiled at his look of bewilderment. No one ventured to help him. A fashionably dressed young woman came along, took in the situation at a glance, and without looking to the right or left stepped into the gutter, picked up the hook in her dainty, gloved fingers, and handed it to the man with a smile. The idlers looked at each other and at the fair young woman.

The old truckman, in a violent effort to express his thanks politely, lost his hat. It rolled into the gutter where the hook had been. This was almost too much for any woman, young or past young; but this New York girl was equal to the occasion. Into the gutter she tripped again and got the soiled hat. When she handed it to the truckman a happy smile was seen to play about her lips.

"God bless ye, miss," the old man said, as the fair maiden turned her back on the idlers and went on her way. What an example of true politeness!—Exchange.

BIBLE CORNER.

(Contributed by a Little Girl.)

PLAN FOR READING THE BIBLE IN ONE YEAR'S TIME.

January—Read Genesis and Exodus.
February—To the tenth of Deuteronomy.
March—To the end of I. Samuel.
April—To the end of II. Kings.
May—To the end of Nehemiah.
June—To 100th Psalm.
July—To the end of Isaiah.
August—To the twentieth of Ezekiel.
September—To the end of the Old Testament.
October—To the end of Luke.
November—To the end of Corinthians.
December—To the end of the New Testament.

This division gives about sixty-five or seventy-five pages per month, or about two pages per day for every day in the week, and four pages every Sunday.

Reader, paste this on the inner cover of your Bible and try it:

Begin the day with God:
Kneel down to him in prayer,
Lift up thy heart in grateful praise,
Thankful his love to share.

Open the Book of God
And read a portion there,
That it may hallow all thy thoughts,
And sweeten all thy care.

Go through the day with God,
What'er thy work may be;
Where'er thou art, at home, abroad,
He still is near to thee.

Conclude the day with God;
Thy sins to him confess;
Trust in the Christ atoning blood,
And plead his righteousness.

Lie down at night with God,
Who gives his children sleep;
And when thou treadest the valley of death,
He will thee guard and keep.

—From a Little Girl.

THE ADVOCATE needs money; pay up!

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

JACKSON DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Yazoo City	30, Oct. 1
Edwards	7, 8
Sharon, at Sharon	14, 15
Mount Olivet, at Mount Olivet	21, 22
Lake City and Lodi, at L. C. (Thurs.)	28
Silver Creek and B Lake, at Hillsdale	28, 29
Yazoo circuit, at Fletcher Chapel	Nov. 4, 5
Madison, at Wesley Chapel (Wed.)	8
Camden, at Sbrock	11, 12
Bolton, at Bolton (Wed.)	15
Pocahontas, at Pocahontas (Sat.)	18
Jackson—First Church	19
Jackson—Capitol Street	19
Flora, at Flora (Thurs.)	23
Benton, at Midway	28, 25
Tranquil	26, 27
Canton	Dec 2, 3

Trustees of church property will have their reports ready. Stewards are earnestly exhorted to diligence, that all financial obligations may be fully met.

E. H. MOUNGER, P. E.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Leakesville, at Avera	30, Oct. 1
Wayesboro and S., at State L. (Tues.)	3
W'boro circuit, at Winchester (Wed.)	4
Shubuta circuit, at DeSoto (Thurs.)	5
Clark circuit, at Manasseh	7, 8
Vossburgh circuit, at Central	14, 15
Eucutta circuit, at Eucutta	21, 22
E. and Stonewall, at Enterprise (Tu.)	24
Meridian—East End (Wed.)	25
Daleville cir., at Daleville (Thurs.)	26
Linwood circuit, at Hopewell	28, 29
North Kemper cir., at Melleu (Wed.)	Nov. 1
DeKalb circuit, at Pt. Ridge	4, 5
Blumsville, at Scooba (Tues.)	7
Landerdale (Thurs.)	9
Why Not circuit	11, 12
Chunky circuit (Thurs.)	18
Marion circuit	18, 19
Meridian—West End	25, 26
Meridian—Central (Sun. and Mon.)	Dec. 3, 4

Church Registers and Records not presented at third Quarterly Conference will be called for. The attention of trustees and preachers is called to Ques 28. The preachers will please see that the written reports are presented. The attention of local preachers and exhorters is called to Ques. 15. Written reports will be looked for. Let preachers and stewards and all the members strive to bring up full collections as thank-offerings to God for his many mercies.

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Newton and Hickory, at Newton	30, Oct. 1
Decatur, at Mt. Hebron	3
Neshoba, at Mars Hill	5
Walnut Grove, at Rocky Point	14, 15
Carthage and W. Grove, at Carthage	16
Hillsboro, at Oak Grove	17
Lake, at Lawrence	21, 22
Rose Hill, at Missionary	28, 29
Trenton	Nov. 2
Clarksburg, at Liberty	4, 5
Morton and Forest, at Morton	5
Fannin, at Fannin	10
Brandon, station	11, 12
Montrose	16
Raleigh	18, 19
Shiloh, at Cato	24
Marvin, at Wesleyana	25, 25
Westville	28
Homewood	Dec. 2, 3

C. MCDONALD, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Zachrie, at Deer Ford	Sept. 23, 24
Slaughter, at Slaughter	24, 25
Gloster and Cent., at Gloster	Oct. 1-3
Amite, at Woodland	1, 2
E. Baton Rouge	7, 8
Port Vincent, at Maurepas	14, 15
Live Oak, at Friendship	21, 22
North Wilkinson	28, 29
Wilkinson, at Bethel	Nov. 4, 5
Bayou Sara, at Star Hill	11, 12
St. Helena, at Center	18, 19
E. Feliciana, at Gilead	25, 26
Springfield, at Wesley Chapel	30
Franklinton, at Fisher's	Dec. 2, 3
Amite City, at Amite City	2, 4

P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Tallisheek circuit, at St. Tammany C. G.	Sept. 22-26
Covington cir., at St. Tam'y C. G. (Mon.)	25
Ocean Springs, at O. S. (Wed. night)*	27, 28
Bay St. Louis, at Handsborough	29, 30
Whitliugton c. (4th round), Palmer C. G.	30 to Oct. 3
E. Pearl miss., at Pine Grove (Tues.)	10

The Conference for charges marked with * will be held on second day published.

Let special prayer be made by all our people for the camp meetings. Observe the quarterly fast. Have General Rules read, and registers on hand for examination. Preachers will please try to "clear the decks" of the collections during this quarter, at least in good subscriptions. Push the interests of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

HENRY E. PARTRIDGE, P. E.

Hattiesburg, Miss.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Hazlehurst	Sept. 22
Providence, at Georgetown	23, 24

R. S. WOODWARD, P. E.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

KOSCIUSKO DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Kosciusko and Durant, at Durant	Sept. 28, 2
Poplar Creek circuit, at Shiloh	30, Oct. 1
Ebenezer circuit, at Bethany	7, 8
Lexington and Tchula, at Tchula	5, 6
Ethel circuit, at Tabernacle	14, 13
Belzona circuit, at Hickory Grove	21, 22
Stewart circuit, at Stewart	28, 29
Sallis circuit, at Sallis	31
Louisville circuit, at Louisville	Nov. 4, 5
Rural Hill circuit, at Rural Hill	5, 6
Wier circuit, at Pisgah	10
Chester circuit, at Ackerman	11, 12
Koscinsko circuit, at Salem	18, 19
Kupora circuit, at Walthall	25, 26

Let local preachers be present with written statements, and let trustees report wbel property, its title, and condition and value. Let stewards give diligent care to collect, and to urge our people to pay the allowances.

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, P. E.

COLUMBUS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Starkville station	Sept. 28, 24
Crawford	30, Oct. 1
Columbus circuit	7, 8
Columbus station	8, 9
Starkville circuit	14, 15
Brooksville	21, 22
Sturges	28, 29
Phœbe	Nov. 4, 5
Sparta	11, 12
Mashulaville	17
Sbuqualak	18, 19
Macon	13, 20
Hebron	22

T. C. WIER, P. E.

GRENADA DISTRICT—FOURTH ROUND.

Grenada station	Sept. 28, 24
Tillatoba (Sat.)	30
Minter City and Strathmore	Oct. 1
Charleston	2
Coffeeville	7, 8
Oxford station	14, 15
Toccopola	21, 22
Cherry Hill (Tues.)	24
Atlanta	28, 29
Banner (Tues.)	31
Chapel Hill	Nov. 4, 3
Pittsboro (Tues.)	7
Abbeville	11, 12
Grenada circuit	18, 12
Water Valley circuit (Sat.)	25
Water Valley station	28, 27

Local preachers, please be ready with written report as Discipline directs. Also trustees of church property will please have written reports as they are required to do by law.

R. A. BURROUGHS, P. E.

HOLLY SPRINGS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Holly Springs cir., at Pleasant Grove	Sept. 28, 24
Potts Camp	30, Oct. 1
Ashland circuit, at Wesley	7, 8
Connersville, at Bethlehem	14, 15
Olive Branch, at Miller	21, 22
Shelley Creek	28, 29
Red Banks circuit, at Wesley	Nov. 4, 5
Mt. Pleasant circuit, at New Salem	11, 12
Byhalia circuit, at Byhalia	18, 19
East Holly Springs, at Lamar	25, 26

J. W. HONNOLL, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Como	Sept. 23, 24
Pleasant Grove, at Lee's Chapel	30 Oct. 1
Courtland, at Center Hill	7, 8
Nesbits	14, 15
Mt. Vernon, at Free Springs	21, 22
Pleasant Hill, at Lewisburg	28, 29
Arkabutla (Tues.)	31
Morgansville mission	Nov. 4, 5
Cockrum, at Green Leaf	11, 12
Wall Hill	19, 19
Pacola	25, 26

If stewards and pastors will address themselves faithfully and constantly to their respective duties, salaries and connectional collections will be paid in full. Brethren, the Lord and the church expects everyone to do their duty.

H. C. MORRHEAD, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Tupelo station	Sept. 23, 24
Verona and Nettleton station	27
Fulton and Nettleton circuit	30, Oct. 1
Prairie	7, 8
Shannon	11
Aberdeen station	14, 15
Saltillo	21, 22
Amory and Smithville	25
Pontotoc	28, 29
Tremont	Nov. 4, 5
Okolona circuit	8
Houston and Wesley	11, 12
Athens	18, 12
Buena Vista	25, 26

J. B. STONE, P. E.

WINONA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Greenwood	Sept. 28, 24
Winona	30, Oct. 1
Carrollton	7, 8
McNutt	14, 15
Indianola	21, 22
Leberton	24
Sidon	28, 29
Black Hawk	Nov. 4, 5
Valdeu	11, 12
Weal	15
Carrollton circuit	18, 19
Winona circuit	26, 26

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Clarksdale	Sept. 24
Gunnison	Oct. 1
Rosedale	8
Cleveland	15
Bolivar	22
Shaw	29
Lyon	Nov. 5
Winterville	12
Friar's Point	19
Greenville	26

J. A. RANDOLPH, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Ada, at Prospect	Sept. 23, 24
Columbia, at Columbia	30, Oct. 1
Centerville, at Trout Creek	7, 9
Evergreen, at Bunkie	14, 15
Chicot, at Fairview	21, 22
Montgomery, at Montgomery	28, 29
Big Cane, at Mellville	28, 22
Lecompte, at Lecompte	Nov. 4, 5
Dry Creek, at Dry Creek	11, 12
Spring Creek, at S. C. Camp Ground	18, 19
Boyce and Colfax, at Boyce	25, 25
Simsport, at Simsport	Dec. 2, 3
Pineville, at Pineville	9, 10

N. B.—The local preachers and presidents of Boards of Trustees will please have their reports written in full; the preachers furnish full statistical reports. Let the stewards bestir themselves. They want a good preacher next year.

S. J. DAVIES, P. E.

ARCADIA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Farmerville, at Farmerville	Sept. 23, 24
Lisbon, at Lisbon	30, Oct. 1
Homer station	1, 2
Summerfield, at Alabama	7, 8
Gansville, at Rochester	14, 15
Sparta, at Bienville	21, 22
Downsville, at Downsville	28, 22
Ruggold, at Andrew Chapel	Nov. 4, 5
Vernon, at Oak Ridge	11, 12
Minden, at Minden	18, 19
Hayneaville, at White Hall	25, 26
Valley, at Sapps	Dec. 2, 3
Vienna, at Antioch	9, 10
Ruston station	10, 11
Arcadia, at Arcadia	13

J. L. P. SHEPPARD, P. E.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

South Bossier, at Fillmore	Sept. 2, 8
Mooringsport, at Pine Hill	2, 10
Red River, at Campo Bello	15, 17
Sabine, at Mt. Pleasant	22, 24
DeSoto, at Pelican	Oct. 1, 2
Grand Cane, at Grand Cane	7, 8
Wesley, at Wesley Chapel	14, 15
Coushatta, at Coushatta	13, 15
North Bossier, at Huge's Spurr	21, 22
Pleasant Hill, at Marthaville	28, 29
Caddo, at Keachie	Nov. 4, 5
Shreveport station and mission	11, 12
Victoria mission, at Victoria	16, 12
Cane River, at Provencal	19, 20
West Natchitoches, at Shiloh	21, 22
Anacoco, at Holly Grove	23, 24
Many, at Many	25, 22
Fort Jessup, at Fort Jessup	26, 27
Natchitoches station	Dec. 2, 3
Mansfield station	9, 10

The official members of South Vernon mission are requested to meet at Holly Grove, Nov. 23. (Include those representing Petersburg, Pine Ridge, Hamans, Midkiff, and Wood's Schoolhouse.)

Boards of Trustees are earnestly requested to be ready with carefully prepared reports of the condition and value of the property in their charge

The District Sabbath-school Convention meets at Robeline, Oct 22, at 10 A. M Arrangements will be made for entertaining the delegates.

The Board of Managers of Mansfield Female College will meet at 9 A. M., Dec. 1, at the college.

The trustees of Pierce and Paine College property are requested to meet at Marthaville, Oct. 28.

ROBT. J. HARP, P. E.

529 Hope St., Shreveport, La.

DELHI DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

West Monroe, at W. Monroe	Sept. 23, 24
Monroe	24, 25
Bastrop, at Bastrop	30, Oct. 1
Lind Grove, at Boulto	7, 8
Winsboro, at Winsboro	14, 15
Oak Ridge, at Mer Rouge	21, 22
Rayville, at Union	28, 29
Oakley, at Jourdin Chapel	28, 22
Calhoun, at Mt. Ariel	Nov. 4, 5
Lapine, at Frantoms C.	11, 12
Lake Providence	18, 19
Waterproof	26, 15
Delhi	Dec. 2, 3
Floyd	7
	2, 10

H. O. WHITE, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

New Iberia	30, Oct. 1
Abbeville, at P. G.	7, 8
Franklin and Jeanerette	14, 15
Indian Bayou	21, 22
Plaquemine Brulee	28, 22
Pattersen and Morgan City	Nov. 4, 5
Lake Charles—B. Street	11, 12
Jackson Street and W. Lake	12, 12
Grand Chenier	18, 12
Sulphur Mine	25, 26
Lake Arthur	Dec. 2, 3

JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

Snakes.

The story is told of a traveler who had for his room-mate a snake charmer. In the night the traveler was aroused by a passage of a snake over his face, while at the same time he heard the voice of their keeper say: "My snakes have got loose; keep perfectly still; take no notice of them, and they will not hurt you." Biting and malicious criticism fails even to seriously annoy us if we keep quiet and take no notice of it. The only criticism we have really to fear is the just judgment of God.—Exchange.

BABY'S BLOOD AND SKIN

Cleansed and purified of every humor, eruption, and disease by the celebrated

CUTICURA REMEDIES

Those great skin cures, blood purifiers, and humor remedies afford immediate relief in the most torturing of Itching and Burning Eczemas and other itching, scaly, crusted, and blotchy skin and scalp diseases, permit rest and sleep, and point to a permanent and economical (because most speedy) cure when the best physicians and all other remedies fail. Thousands of grateful testimonials attest their wonderful, unfailing, and incomparable efficacy. Sold everywhere. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Boston. "All About the Skin, Scalp, and Hair," mailed free.

BABY'S Skin and Scalp purified and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP. Absolutely pure.

HOW MY SIDE ACHES!

Aching Sides and Back, Hip, Kidney, and Uterine Pains, and Rheumatism relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster. The first and only instantaneous pain-killing, strengthening plaster.

WIDOW HOOD'S LODGING HOUSE,

No. 19 ST. CHARLES ST.

I wish to announce to the public that I have renovated and refitted my house, and solicit the patronage of the traveling public. Open all night. Beds can be had for 25 and 50 cents. I especially solicit the patronage of Christian people visiting the city.

WIDOW A. A. HOOD.

Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water.

W. W. Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water is still on sale at Gloster, Miss., by Wm. B. Hines, as heretofore, and as advertised in this NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. Now I wish sub-agents all over Louisiana and Mississippi, who can have circulars by writing to me for them. Will be glad to have the same patronage given heretofore by friends and sick ones. This water is making wonderful cures. WM. B. HINES.

Gloster, Amite Co., Miss., Sept. 2, 1893.

Cincinnati Conservatory of Music,

MISS CLARA BAUR, Directress.

Thorough musical education after the methods of foremost European conservatories. The Conservatory will as usual be open during the entire Summer, and students can, as during the school year, enter at any time.

Branches taught: Vocal culture, the Pianoforte, Organ, Harp, Violin, and all other Orchestral instruments; also Guitar, Mandolin and Banjo; Elocution, Delsarte, Modern Languages, English Literature and Art.

Young ladies from a distance can board in the Conservatory building, where they pursue their studies under the supervision of the Directress. For Catalogue address in full,

MISS CLARA BAUR,
Conservatory of Music, 4th and Lawrence,
Cincinnati, O.

FAT PEOPLE

To reduce your weight SURELY use Willard's Obesity Pills and lose 15 pounds a month. No injury to the health. No interference with business or pleasure. NO STARVING. They build up and improve the general health, beautify the complexion and leave NO WRINKLES. Lucy Anderson, 54 Auburn St., Cambridge, Mass., writes: Three bottles of your Obesity Pills reduced my weight from 235 pounds to 190 and I never felt better in all my life. I am much pleased with the result, and shall do all I can to help you. Our patrons include Physicians, Bankers, Lawyers, and leaders of Society. Our goods are not sold in drug stores; all orders are supplied direct from our office. Price per package $2.00 or three packages for $5.00 by mail prepaid. Particulars (sealed) 4cts. ALL CORRESPONDENCE CONFIDENTIAL.

WILLARD REMEDY CO., BOSTON, MASS.

FREE by return mail, full descriptive circulars of MOODY'S NEW and MOODY'S IMPROVED TAILOR SYSTEMS OF DRESS CUTTING Revised to date. These, only, are the genuine TAILOR SYSTEMS invented and copyrighted by PROF. D. W. MOODY Beware of imitations. Any lady of ordinary intelligence can easily and quickly learn to cut and make any garment, in any style, to any measure, for ladies, men and children. Garments guaranteed to fit perfectly without trying on. Address MOODY & CO. CINCINNATI, O.

INTERNATIONAL BIBLES.

Largest Type Teacher's Bible in the World.

We have for years been trying to get a large type Teacher's Bible which was not too large and heavy. We have 11 in this series. Besides this feature, the helps are entirely new, and were written by the greatest scholars of both America and Europe, which guarantees their superiority over all others. Everyone who is familiar with the Oxford and Bagster Teacher's Bibles knows that the book printed in Minion type makes the most desirable sized volume, but the Minion type is too small for any but the best eyes; and while their books in Bourgeois type suit the eyes, they are entirely too large and heavy for convenient handling. This International Series overcomes both these faults by having the Bourgeois type book no larger or heavier than the much smaller type (Minion) Oxford and Bagster books, while the prices are much less than for books of corresponding type in any other series, and the bindings are not only similar in design, but equal in every particular to the older Teacher's Bibles; and some of these bindings are finer than those of any other Teacher's Bibles we have ever seen.

We are specially glad to be able to say that the prices of these Bibles are in many cases much cheaper than the Oxford or Bagster Books, while they are altogether equally well made and have the newest and best helps and Maps. We claim for these new Teacher's Bibles that they give

The Largest Type in the Smallest Book.
The Newest and Best Helps.
The Newest Maps, Which Were Made Especially for This Series.
Bindings Unsurpassed.
Smaller Prices Than Any Other Series.

We confidently assure our patrons that in the INTERNATIONAL TEACHER'S BIBLE SERIES we have the very BEST line of Teacher's Bibles ever offered.

Write us for a Descriptive Catalogue showing size of type, size of books, etc.

Address

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp Street, - New Orleans, La.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY
THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO., Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S. A.
Best Imported Copper and E. India Tin.
CHURCH BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.
Price & Terms Free. Satisfaction Guaranteed.

B.&S. BUSINESS COLLEGE, LOUISVILLE, KY.
Superior advantages. Send postal for circular

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 40.—NO. 39. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1893. WHOLE NO. 1936.

Rev. J. M. BEARD, D. D., Editor and Publisher. } PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA CONFERENCE, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH. { ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

THE DIVINE RESPONSE.

BY EOLINE.

I saw a child perched on his father's knee,
His thought bent on the beauty of a toy.
So long he sat and played, unmindful he
Of father waiting love-sign from his boy.
But when he reached his father's cheek to press,
Then felt soft kisses on his dewy lips
In quick response, with many a fond caress
From fountain stirred by baby finger tips.

Then I bethought me of my Father's love,
His ceaseless watch-care o'er life's little play,
His patient waiting while each toy I prove;
Long-suffering still though I my love delay.
Waiting—till baubles cloy and him I seek,
And stretch my hands his garment's hem to hold—
With quick response, that ere my need I speak,
His everlasting arms may me enfold.

O Heart of Love, I turn from earth's vain play
And lift mine eyes in faith to look in thine;
I'm weary now of dust and ashes gray,
And reach to clasp thine all-strong hand in mine.
And thou dost never fail a soul in need;
I see thy smiling face, thy look of love,
I feel thy clasp of hand to help me speed
From vanities of earth to things above.

—Exchange.

Legislation.

BY BISHOP J. C. KEENER.

The object of all legislation should be to secure the greatest good to the greatest number. But when we review the legislation of our country, both State and National, we find that much of it has a tendency in the opposite direction, and instead of securing good, lashes upon our backs evils of heavy burden. This will be the case so long as evil men rule in our State and National councils, and they will continue to rule until we learn to rely more on men than party.

Now, we do not wish to be understood as depreciating the importance and utility of party politics, nor the virtues of party fealty, if there be any, but we do wish to be understood as advocating the best men for all offices of honor, trust, and profit. "Party and not men" has been the rallying cry long enough to teach us that what we need to-day in our government more than anything else is men in office who will vote down evil of every kind, no matter where found nor by whom practiced.

Many of the burdens that we are carrying to-day with anguish of spirit and intensity of suffering are imposed by legislation, or a want of proper and just administration. We need help to-day at the hands of Congress, and it is the duty of this body to give relief to the people as far as possible. We are crushed and cursed by giant evils, and many of these exist because they are legalized, and others because they are not stopped by the strong arm of the law. The liquor traffic continues to deal out ruin and death under the sanction and by authority of law. The courts of the country and law-making bodies have proven themselves respecters of persons. Justice is trodden under foot and disregarded. One man is punished for playing a game of cards and another licensed to run a gambling hell. One lewd woman is incarcerated for walking the streets at night and another licensed to run a bawdy-house. The States and Nation punish criminals, and for the sake of revenue become aiders and abettors of crime. The whole thing is a medley of contradictions, a bundle of inconsistencies, and a travesty upon justice and right. These things can be overcome by proper legislation. To show the magnitude of a giant fraud, winked at by the government, we print the following in reference to dealing in futures:

"Has not the time come when the people of this country should calmly look into the ethical conditions and obligations of property—of those vast masses of wealth of which our fathers had not the slightest thought or the feeblest conception? Sums which have accrued in the hands of individuals, through the protection extended by the general government to railroads, to scientific discoveries, and also as the inevitable consequences of war, have aggregated in the hands of a few persons, the wealth of empires.

"All capital is merely stored labor. It may be as the locomotive, the representative of a thousand minds that at various periods have, by little and little, brought it to its present untold perfection for producing wealth. But the rights of stored labor are simply those of labor—it may be of day labor. The two are mutual—indeed, identical. The respect demanded from the day laborer for the welfare and the property of others is equally required from all corporations, unions, stock companies, trusts, guilds and organizations of capital, working under the protection of the State.

"The breadth of the operations of chambers of commerce, or the enormous speculation of mercantile firms, can not in the slightest degree change their essentially ethical character. Millions can no more be permitted to threaten the well-being of the State's population than should a foreign power. If the basis of the mercantile policy of banks, commission houses, exchanges in New Orleans, New York and Chicago be essentially unsound, it must sooner or later be felt throughout the whole country and by every citizen in it.

"The fact we would bring out in connection with this general statement of the laws of business economy is that the mercantile world in the South and West has been and is now controlled by the wholesale gambling and massive frauds of cotton futures—that the centers of New York, Liverpool and New Orleans have yielded to this colossal scheme of hazard until the production of the Southern staple has no effect upon its market value.

"Eight millions of bales certainly do and must have a fixed relation to the consumption and demand for cotton in the factories of Great Britain and of the Northern States. Such relation should primarily determine its price in the markets of the world; but it does not. This was clearly seen in the reduced figures at which the last crop was sold by the planter. If the agriculturist can not have the benefit of the enhanced worth of a universally short crop, he is at sea in all his calculations. The positive yield of cereals and fibers, of herds and flocks, are the certain reliance of the whole country in all its trading, both foreign and domestic. It constitutes a basis, next to the value of land, which should regulate all the financial movements of the year. The seasons must determine the annual wealth of a people. The yield of the harvest, as compared with its cost, must enrich or impoverish the farmer. This is the natural and legitimate process of producing values available, whether for present or future use.

"But during the past three months there have been sold in New York and elsewhere 56 000,000 of bales of cotton, or seven times the actual product of the entire crop for the year 1892. This would be equal to the average yield of twenty-eight crops in one year. All which, beyond the 8 000,000 of bales, is purely an imaginary value, with which the agriculturist has nothing to do. The counting-house produced this amazing harvest while the farmer was simply asleep. The actual cotton of this past year's crop would yield $280 000,000; but the ideal cotton would yield, at the same rate, $7 840,000,000. This is the figuring against which the cotton planter has to make headway. That the Congress of the United States should hesitate to adopt some measure of relief, immediate and stringent, for the benefit of the whole country, against this colossal fraud, which is steadily undermining the national credit and destroying mercantile confidence in all departments of industry, should be a matter of alarm to all sober citizens. It is one of those disasters which, like a tornado, can not be measured until its work of ruin shall have been accomplished.

"If honesty and the substance of wealth constitute a healthy, universal basis of confidence, need we be surprised that a dropsy which awells $280,000,000 to more than $7,000 000,000 should prove fatal to the mercantile solvency of the entire country? The recent failure of firms and banks in Milwaukee, Denver, Kansas City, Memphis, Louisville, Nashville, in Indiana, Ohio and Illinois, and throughout the far West, can, in not a few instances, be traced directly to dealing in futures. Surely, 'corners' in rib sides, mess-pork, in lard, wheat, oil, eggs and grain, indicate the widespread character of this national disease which is steadily destroying the value of all values, and calls for national relief. For many of those even who are outside this charmed circle of hazard, for the mutual relations of trade and industry, must go down in such a general wreck of credit.

"Futures, so called, are not really a question of time, but of substance. One thousand bushels of potatoes, if they have been planted, hoed, gathered, barreled, hauled and put upon the market, represent that much labor, and are worth money at any reasonable time which may be imagined, near or far; but a thousand 'barrels' of 'potatoes,' so called, marginal, spectral potatoes, more ethereal than ether, are worthless to-day, yesterday, and forever. They are a fraud put upon the market for the purpose of gambling in 'potatoes' rather than with cards or dice. The mercantile sobriety with which these potato futures are quoted and sold can not hide the essential character of a transaction which differs in no sense from the chances of a faro table.

"All the gambling dens in this country and in the Baden Badens of Europe are child's play as compared with this huge monster that quietly envelopes in its coils the fortunes, and even the lives, of myriads; which is educating every honest workman, every youth, every tradesman, to be impatient of nature's slow production, and to stake all upon the shove of a card or the bulletin of a 'bucket-shop.' The Louisiana Lottery curse was a small thing when put alongside this Fraudulent Creation. Nor is this all. In ordinary games of chance there is some chance, but in this deeply planned scheme there is absolutely no chance. A clique, composed of a few individuals or firms, located at convenient centers, wield all cotton futures. They seem to be independent of each other, but at bottom they constitute a conspiracy of gamblers. The transactions between themselves seem to be real, but they are not all sales and purchases, but merely bogus trades for swindling purposes. Yet they rule the price of cotton. Now, as a matter of course, if these could be fully, fairly detected, they would be treated as Russia has treated the Jews—expelled the country. They, doubtless, have many agents who are true to them, but dream not that they are parties to anything beyond the accidents and uncertainties of chance in 'future' quotations. But the facts are as stated, and will eventually come to light. Meanwhile they spread the net in sight of the bird, and the silly bird walks into it. The whole South is victimized by this quadrilateral of gamblers. Millions of gold are being raked in annually by this deal that ought never to have left the plow-worn hands of the Southern farmer. Here is no small cause for our present financial distress. Credit is invalidated by the speculations of the mercantile world. The ethical quality of all wealth must not be overlooked. Unless the business of the counter be honest in respect to all who deal over it, there can be no permanent prosperity in the counter; but ruin, endless ruin, forever waits upon the 'unrighteous mammon.'"—Nashville Advocate.

Notice.

To the Pastors of the M. E. Church, South, in Mississippi and Louisiana—

Dear Brethren: I beg leave to call your attention to the fact that the month of October is the time set apart for taking a collection in your churches for the Bible cause, and to urge that such a collection be taken during said month in every congregation in which one has not already been taken during the year. Surely no work more richly deserves offerings at the hands of the people than that which is being done by the American Bible Society, and, doubtless, many of your people will contribute to it if you will explain to them its nature and needs. Please do this in each congregation in your charge, and urge everyone present to contribute something towards putting the Word of God in the hands of the poor, the blind and benighted of earth. Money for the work is very greatly needed. Countless millions are yet to be supplied with the Word of Life. Please let us have an offering from every congregation, and, if possible, from every member of every congregation. Yours in Christ,

J. W. McLAURIN.

163 Camp street, New Orleans, Sept. 26, 1893.

The Nashville and Memphis Christian Advocates are requested to copy.

Missionary Debt—Mississippi Conference.

BRANDON DISTRICT.

Rose Hill circuit, G. H. Thompson, P. C.....$10
Clarkshurgh circuit, P. D. Hardin, P. C..... 2
(With the promise from each brother beloved of more to follow.)

Now, let the example of Neshoba, and Rose Hill, and Clarksburgh, provoke the others to good works, and wake up Eucutta, Waynesboro, Clarke, Lauderdale, Daleville, Linwood, North Kemper, DeKalb, Marion and Binnsville circuit, and Central Church, Meridian, to a full sense of the opportunity and the needs of the hour. Let the long silence in the Jackson, Vicksburg, Brookhaven and Woodville districts be broken. It has been a long pull, a weak pull, and a pull not together!

T. L. MELLEN,
Sol. for Miss. Conf.

FROM THE WORK.

Rev. J. F. Evans, Kosciusko, Miss., Sept. 2: "Our meeting at this place, of ten days' duration, just closed. Fine feeling in the congregation, and ten joined the church. Revs. J. A. Whitehurst and H. P. Crowe did the preaching. The election for prohibition came off yesterday. Suppose about 250 majority in favor of prohibition. Praise the Lord!"

Mrs. D. A. Wimbish, Laurel, Sept. 8: "I attended the Leaf River Camp Meeting, and they invited Christians to the altar who wanted to be sanctified. I went, for I have prayed earnestly for two years to receive the blessing, and my heart has been burdened, and I had almost given up the last hope; but I prayed as I never did before, and I praised the Lord for entire sanctification at the altar Monday night. Praise the Lord for that glorious gift!"

Rev. R. I. Allen, P. C., Fearn Springs, Miss., Sept. 4: "We have good news to report from the Mashulaville circuit. Our protracted meeting at Mount Hebron Church, last week, resulted in twenty additions to the church. We had the Spirit's presence, and felt his power. We thank God for this gracious visitation. There have been three other meetings held on the work. That at Hashuqua was quite good, and resulted in nine additions. The others, at Middleton and Mashulaville, were not great in visible results, but we trust that good was done. We are hopeful for the future of the work."

Rev. S. S. Holladay, Wesley charge, La., Sept. 2: "We have just closed three protracted meetings on this work with good results. Fourteen accessions to the church, ten or twelve conversions. Some of them were as bright conversions as I ever saw. One more meeting to hold. Bro. W. H. Hill, of Coushatta, a man that we have all learned to love, assisted us in these meetings, and preached with power and demonstration of the Spirit. The people on this charge, or at these churches, now have a weekly prayer meeting, and are at work, while the preacher is preaching at other places. To God be all the praise."

Rev. C. C. Grisham, Banner circuit, North Mississippi Conference, Sept. 9: "We have just closed another glorious meeting of five days at Salem Church. Thirty additions, a large number of conversions, about eighteen fathers and mothers joined the church, fifteen adults baptized, ten infants baptized, and left the meeting to close Thursday night in the hands of Bro. Bruner, a local preacher. Thanks to him and Bro. Lagrone, L. P., who have stood so faithfully with me in all my work. We have had over one hundred conversions to date; ninety-seven added to the church. Two more meetings to hold. To God be all the praise."

Rev. A. T. Buck, Shuqualak, Miss., Sept. 7: "Just closed an eight-days' meeting at Ridgeway. The Lord was with us in great power. I never witnessed a greater awakening of the people. At one service there were thirty-five penitents at the altar, twenty of whom were converted, and fifteen joined the church. At the next service four came to the altar; were all converted, and all joined the church, and so on till there were, at least, forty conversions, and twenty-seven were received into the church. Nine family altars were erected, a young men's prayer meeting organized, and a number of the new converts led in prayer. Bless the Lord! we are happy on the way. Dr. T. C. Wier was with us three days, holding Quarterly Conference and preaching with power and profit."

Rev. Wilson Moore, P. C., Ada circuit: "I desire to let you know that I am numbered among the living, awake to the arduous duties of an itinerant, endeavoring to discharge the same in the fear of God. From the presiding elder's reply to your criticism, I learn that all the charges, excepting two or three, have been blessed with revivals. I suppose he numbered mine among those that have not been blessed. I can not say that we have had a general revival, but we have held some meetings, with good results, so that while on others the Lord has been calling, we would not have our beloved presiding elder believe that he has passed us by. As some of my brethren have been kind enough to class me as a gum-log, it is expected of me to set the world on fire in a few months, especially when I find the people scattered and divided. The only time we object to a gum-log is when it is sobby. I am not sobbing; therefore, I apprehend no danger of being thrown overboard. I believe that the people are more united and more spiritual than when I first began working among them. More anon."

Rev. W. H. Lewis: "August 17 to 24 was a season of refreshing to the people in and around Anguilla, Miss. Our meeting began the night of the seventeenth, preparatory to the coming of Rev. J. W. Chambers, who reached us Saturday morning. Bro. Chambers came in the Spirit of the Master, gained the love and attention of the people from the first service, and the Lord blessed his preaching in the conversion of souls and the upbuilding of his church. From Sunday on he preached three times a day, and every service was honored of the Lord. The meeting was pronounced one of the best ever held in this section of the Delta. The church is now enjoying a higher plane of spiritual living than ever before, and preacher and people feel greatly blessed by the visit of Bro. Chambers. Seven joined the church, one infant baptized, and another to be baptized on the third Sunday in September. May God bless the work accomplished here to the upbuilding of his kingdom at the other churches on the work!"

Jas. M. Griggs, L. D., Indian Village, La., Sept. 3: "Permit me to say to all concerned that we have just closed a glorious protracted meeting at this place (Indian Village), conducted by Rev. N. Crocker, L. P., though at this time preacher in charge, being thus promoted by the presiding elder after the departure of Rev. G. A. Mandeville. The Holy Ghost was with us from the beginning to end in power to convict, convert and revive. Our church is in far better condition, spiritually, than for four years past. We expect to have good meetings all over the work. We have no big sermons preached, but the simple truth of God's Word is preached, and it is owned of God and made the power of God unto salvation. There were eight accessions to the church, five by profession of faith in Christ, and baptized, and three restored to membership. Old feuds settled, family altars erected, and prayer meeting organized, and everything is moving out on a line of spirituality. I wish to say just here that there was not a word said about sanctification as a second blessing, but the Apostolic Creed, repentance toward God, and faith in our Lord Jesus Christ, was the unanimous theme of preaching. May God help us to bring this work to the front ere this year closes! Pray for us, brethren, all that see this writing."

Rev. J. T. Abney, P. C., Sunflower, Sept. 6: "Since the first of August we have been able to hold a meeting at each of three appointments. Although I may not be able to give such a glowing account as some, yet I feel what has been done is worthy of mention through the ADVOCATE. Our first meeting was held at Sunflower Chapel, beginning Aug. 5 and continuing till Aug. 12, resulting in the reception of twenty-three members, several professed conversion, three or four family altars erected, church greatly strengthened, and much good accomplished. Bro. W. H. Lewis came to our assistance on Monday, and rendered valuable service by his plain and pointed preaching. Sunday, Aug. 13, we began a meeting at Bethel. Though hindered greatly by rain, we continued till the following Saturday. There was not the interest manifested by the members that was necessary for a good meeting; hence apparently but little good was accomplished. One member was received. Bro. D. A. Little, our beloved presiding elder, came to our assistance Friday; preached three plain, practical sermons. After the eleven o'clock sermon, on Saturday, our third Quarterly Conference was held, which closed the meeting. August 27 our meeting at Sharbrough's Chapel began, to continue till Aug. 31. Owing to sickness in neighborhood we failed to have as good a meeting as was wanted; but, considering all, we had a good meeting. Received four members, baptized one infant, church gave evidence of being somewhat revived; so we feel our time not entirely lost by protracting our meetings thus. Bro. W. H. Lewis came to our assistance at Sharbrough's Chapel, Tuesday; rendered some effective service, as is characteristic of the man. We tender Bros. Little and Lewis thanks for their assistance, and praises to God for his wonderful blessings."

WEST MONROE, LA.

We have just closed a good meeting at Bowman's Chapel. I began on Wednesday before the fourth Sunday, and preached until the following Tuesday, when Bro. I. T. Reames came to my assistance. His preaching was a demonstration of the presence of the Holy Spirit. The church was somewhat revived. I was taken sick on the last day of the meeting, and, as a consequence, I am now here in hopes of building up, so as to be able to do work that is before me between now and Conference.

Our meeting at Faulk's Chapel begins the Tuesday after the third Sunday, and our West Monroe meeting early in October. At this last I expect to have the help of Dr. C. F. Evans, of Meridian, Miss. We are praying and working for a glorious revival of the "old-time kind." The people are very considerate of us, and treat us just as well as though it were the first of the year. They have spent in parsonage improvements, "these hard times," about one hundred dollars, and have not slighted the preacher, either.

WM. G. EVANS.

Cooper's Well, Miss., Sept. 7, 1893.

REVIVAL NOTES FROM THE MERIDIAN DISTRICT.

North Kemper circuit, Blair, W. J. Ferguson, P. C.: 6 accessions since protracted meeting, making 16 at that point.

Wayneshoro and State Line, Goldwood, J. V. Penn, P. C.: 24 accessions, beside 8 who transferred from Wayneshoro. Goldwood is the $600 church just built, and which God has accepted by this gracious revival. "Them that honor me I will honor." (Samuel.)

Vossburgh circuit, Pachuta, R. Bradley, P. C., assisted by J. V. Penn: 4 accessions; Vossburgh, assisted by H. B. Trevilion, 3 accessions. The new Chapel Hill Church will be ready for dedication Oct. 22.

North Kemper circuit, Blair, W. J. Ferguson, P. C.: 4 accessions after departure of the presiding elder. At Union Ridge, on same circuit, there were 4 accessions.

Clarke circuit, J. N. Ware, P. C.: Liberty, assisted by D. P. Bradford, 2 accessions; Frost Bridge, assisted by R. C. Gavin, L. D., 2 accessions; Manasseh, assisted by R. C. Gavin, 9 accessions. Great good otherwise done.

Leakesville circuit, Mt. Pleasant, W. J. Dawson, P. C.: 2 accessions; Washington, 3 accessions. At Mt. Pleasant Bro. Dawson was assisted by A. T. Bell, of Wayneshoro circuit, and at Washington by A. C. Burt, of Augusta circuit.

Marion circuit, Coker's School-house, Geo. Bancroft, P. C., assisted by Rev. B. F. Ormond and L. B. Moore, exhorter: 4 accessions, church revived, discipline administered, and the offenders saved to the church and to God.

Enterprise and Stonewall charge, Enterprise Church, I. L. Peebles, P. C., assisted by T. B. Holloman and D. P. Bradford: 3 accessions to our church and 1 to the Baptist Church.

Clarke circuit, Andrew Chapel, J. N. Ware, P. C., assisted by I. L. Peebles: 3 accessions, making 24 accessions on the circuit since July 26.

Shuhuta circuit, DeSoto Church, D. P. Bradford, P. C.: 19 accessions, and Conference collections all provided for.

Marion circuit, Pleasant Hill Church, Geo. Bancroft, P. C., assisted by B. F. Lewis and the presiding elder: 7 accessions, "membership greatly revived," and Conference collections provided for.

At Why Not, Sunday, Sept. 17, I baptized Brn. Ed. M. Mayo, his wife and three children—"all his house"—besides one other infant and two other adults.

East Mississippi Female College, Rev. T. B. Holloman, president, opened to-day, Sept. 6, with more than sixty matriculates, and the prospects good for, at least, as many more. The outlook is the most encouraging in the history of the college.

I was present Monday, Sept. 4, at the opening of the Hickory Institute, under the charge of Profs. Cox and Tann, with Miss Ennie Jones in charge of the music department. This school is in the Brandon district, and is doing good work. T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

Continued on Second Page.

THE MINISTER'S SABBATH NIGHT.

BY FRANCES RIDLAY HAVERGAL.

Rest him, O Father! Thou didst send him forth
With great and gracious messages of love;
But thy embassador is weary now,
Worn with the weight of his high embassy.
Now care for him, as thou hast cared for us
In sending him, and cause him to lie down
In thy fresh pastures, by the streams of peace.
Let thy left hand be now beneath his head,
And thine upholding right encircle him,
And underneath the everlasting arms
Be left in full support. So let him rest,
Hushed like a child, without one care;
And so give thy beloved sleep to-night.

Rest him, dear Master! He hath poured for us
The wine of joy, and we have been refreshed.
Now fill his chalice, give him sweet new draughts
Of life and love, with thine own hand; be thou
His ministrant to-night; draw very near
In all thy tenderness and all thy power.
O speak to him! Thou knowest how to speak
A word in season to thy weary ones,
And he is weary now. Thou lovest him—
Let thy disciple lean upon thy breast,
And, leaning, gain new strength to "rise and shine."

Rest him, O loving Spirit! Let thy calm
Fall on his soul to-night. O holy dove,
Spread thy bright wings above him, let him rest
Beneath its shadow: let him know afresh
The infinite truth and might of thy dear name—
"Our Comforter!" As gentlest touch will stay
The strong vibrations of a jarring chord,
So lay thy hand upon his heart, and still
Each overstraining throb, each pining pain.
Then, in the stillness, breathe upon the strings,
And let thy holy music overflow
With soothing power his listening, resting soul.

Doctrinal Dissensions.

MR EDITOR: Is it not enough—aye, more than enough—for Satan to reap a harvest of souls from among those who have always dwelt in sinful darkness, and who have ever refused to be led into the light, and more than enough that he should go forth and incite the evil-minded to murder, strife, theft, drunkenness and profanity, and such crimes; but when he stealthily and surreptitiously climbs over the great and high wall that encloses God's children, and seeks to create dissension among them, is it not time to be warned of our weakness and neglect, and to implore the Almighty to come to our help? Is it not to Satan chiefly that we owe the fact that the ill feeling and dissension which has hitherto been kept smothered, if in existence at all, has of late burst into a flame in the columns of our paper, if we consider that which must be conceded to be the ostensible cause? Is it not obvious to all that he is enraged because its editor claims for himself and advocates for others a closer relationship with our Father above, and has boldly asserted his views on an important doctrinal subject now agitating the minds of Christians, not only of our church, but of all the foremost evangelical organizations doing most for the advancement of Christ's kingdom?

Let us examine ourselves. Where are we, and to what extent have we, as Methodists, drifted, that to-day we find ourselves doubting and denouncing one of the fundamental teachings of Scripture and the basis of Methodism? The trouble is that our people—or, rather, God's people—have overlooked the great importance of this doctrine, and, consequently, the church is almost entirely ignorant of what is meant by such passages of God's Word as is found in Luke xviii, 1; Col. i, 28; Col. iv, 12, and Christ's own command, "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect." It does seem strange that the Bible lays so much stress upon this subject of Christian attainment, and yet so many converted people know little or nothing about it. Our ministers seldom mention it, and when they do they usually speak of it as a growth that never matures.

Now, Mr. Editor, I am not sanctified, and have to make the confession that until very recently I did not believe in the possibility of a pure heart, and, like many others, through envy and profound ignorance, dared to denounce it as a delusion; but, after having read Dr. Sawyer's book, "The World in the Church," and Dr. Carradine's book on "Entire Sanctification," and from a constant, if not a close, study of God's Word, I have come to the conclusion that there is still a higher work to be had from God than the new birth.

I have often not only felt myself an unworthiness and a "proneness to wander," but grieve to say that I have noticed the same disposition in old Christians, both laymen and preachers. But not long since I was greatly stirred at the reading of Dr. Sawyer's book, and was deeply moved by his earnest appeal for a return to the old standard. After the perusal of this excellent and much-needed work, I was, by some means, persuaded to read Dr. Carradine's book on sanctification, and was deeply convicted of the great truths of this doctrine that some are wont to term heresy, and was soon persuaded that as the founder of and all the foremost workers of "old-time Methodism" were second-blessing men, the only way to return to the old paths is to let the Lord equip us for the conflict as he equipped the fathers of Methodism, and I am now resolved to ent has heard many able sermons preached on the new birth, and among many confessions he has this accusation to make, viz.: that he has never heard one preached on sanctification, either entire or in part.

I know of no books, except the Bible, more important to Methodism just at this time than "The World in the Church," and Dr. Carradine's book on sanctification; and if all Methodists would read them in the order in which I have mentioned them, I confidently believe there would be a great rallying to the "old standard," the dangerous drifting would immediately cease, and the grand old ship begin to move up stream with a speed and steadiness that would surprise those of us cherishing the fondest hopes and anticipations.

I am glad that the editor has opened the columns of the ADVOCATE to a full discussion of this most precious doctrine, and it is to be hoped that the ministers of Christ will consider and discuss it in a spirit of meekness. The paper has improved, and is improving with every issue, and promises to become the giant journal of Southern Methodism. Let Satan howl; God will uphold the just and own their labors. Thank God for the ADVOCATE, its editor, and the stand he has taken.

METHODIST.

Is It Right.

We take it for granted that good men want always to do right, and will, if they see clearly wherein the right lies, and what it is. Yet how many good men do and say what is wrong, and at times seem to entertain wrong thoughts and feelings towards each other! This grieves the brotherhood, offends weak consciences, lowers the standard of Christian character and conduct, and mars the peace of Zion. In the ritual of our church it is declared of a certain tender relationship that it "should not by any be enterprised or taken in hand unadvisedly, but reverently, advisedly, and in the fear of God." Ought not the same delicate care and thoughtfulness characterize us in all we write or say, and especially in our judgment of, and dealing with, our brethren in Christ? Do we always ask beforehand, Is it right? What is said or done or written may be true, or agreeable to our opinion, belief or conviction; but is it fair, courteous, manly, sincere, just, brotherly, Christ-like, "in the fear of God?" Is there in it any of pride, arrogance, self-will, rashness, wounded vanity, bitterness, revenge, self—any of "the old man," which both "growth-in-grace" and "second-blessing" men claim to be "crucified" and "dead"? When the deed or word has gone past recall, should not the same test be applied; and, if the judgment is against us, penitence, confession and amendment be in order?

Let us try some things by this guage; and may we all sincerely utter the prayer recorded in Psalms cxxxix, 23, 24! Is it right to wrangle or contend over the precious doctrine of holiness? to stickle for terms, phases or methods; or oppose them, and oppose each other, because not in accord with individual opinion or preference? Preach the doctrine; urge the experience; seek it; groan after it; get it; live it; help others to see its beauty and get it in their hearts and lives, we may—ever we must do. We should also be well informed as to the teaching of "the Standards" and "the Word" concerning it. Nor can we teach it without convictions on the subject; nor perhaps successfully without a clearly defined theory. We may also have our belief as to theory, our views as to methods, our experience as to phases; but is it right to regard all as unbelievers and opponents on the one hand, or fanatics and schismatics on the other, who do not fall in with us and pronounce our Shibboleth? Is it right to contend so for a theory, or oppose so a theory as to engender feeling and provoke partisanship?—so that love, the peerless jewel in the crown of holiness, be dimmed, if not lost; brethren become suspicious of each other and drift apart; others hindered rather than helped to walk in the King's highway; and while contending for theories, we and they fail of the blessed experience?

Is it right to win victories at our brother's expense?—to overcome by his wounding?—to uncover and glory in his defects and failures in order to strengthen our position? Do we not thus join "the adversary," who ever rejoices in iniquity? Should we not rather, like the two sons of the drunken patriarch, go backward, as we cover our brother's fault? "Stonewall" Jackson was shot down by his own men through mistake; Christian men and ministers sometimes even in presence of the enemy turn their guns on each other through—what? Is it right?

Men even when contending, as they believe, for "the faith once delivered to the saints," often chafe at opposition; take matters as personal to themselves; "hit back," and with words that blister where they fall; and make personal thrusts in place of loving remonsometimes judge from partial, prejudiced ex parte statements of a brother's views, words, conduct and work. Is this right? Sometimes sympathy and co-operation in each other's work for the Master are refused or withheld because of divergence in views or non-concurrence in methods; and sometimes efforts against sin and in the interest of holiness are thus neutralized because made by those "who followeth not with us." Is it right thus to lag or break ranks, with the enemy massed before us? Oh! for more of the "unity of the Spirit in the bonds of peace!" Differ in some things we may and will; love each other we ought and must. How we need a humbling of self before God, a thorough searching of heart, deep contrition for all said or done without love, a mighty baptism of the Holy Ghost, locked shields all along the line of battle, a forward movement of all God's hosts against the foe! May God grant it to us! And that he may, let all lovers of his name fervently pray! (Phil. iv, 5-8.)

HENRY E. PARTRIDGE.

Hattiesburg, Miss.

Possibles and Impossibles.

God can not change; then we must. God can not become like us; we must become like him. God will not come down; then we must come up to his standard. "The battle is not ours, but God's." Like Joshua, we must get down and let the Lord lead. If religion is not supernatural, it is nothing. If supernatural, who limits its possibilities? God certainly does not. The two omnipotences are God and faith. "With God all things are possible." "To him that believeth all things are possible." The Son of God linked them together. If the finite can not touch the resources of the infinite by a God-ordained way—faith—then these wonderful statements are meaningless. If you have faith as a grain of mustard seed (reference is made to quality, rather than quantity, however small, so it be real faith), ye shall say unto this mountain, etc.: According to your faith (the quality) be it unto you. Real faith, which is not only a "believing," but a "following," a living contact with a living Christ, gives the more abundant life. "I am the true vine; abide in me, and I—my life—in you. The branch of 'itself' can do nothing: no more (longer) can ye, except ye abide in me." This living in Christ, as the branch lives in the vine, brings to us the real life, "the substance" of the vine. My the (vine's) joy, peace, life, etc. The life of the branch is the vine; the glory of the vine is the fruit—its way of expression, as to sort and quantity, containing the elements of propagation. His (the vine's) seed remaineth in him—the embryo—capable of perpetuating the kind. Christ (the vine) of God (the husbandman) is made unto us (the branches) wisdom, righteousness, sanctification and redemption. Herein is my Father (the husbandman) glorified, that ye (the branches) bring forth (i. e., from the vine) much fruit, for of him (the vine), and to him (the vine), and through him (the vine) are all things expressed through you (the branch), on condition of abiding—staying in the vine—by faith. The branch lives because I (the vine) live. Ye (the branches) shall live also. We love because God loves; live because Christ lives. We share everything possessed by the vine, for if God (the husbandman) spared not his Son (the vine itself), how shall he not with him (the vine) also freely give us (the branches) all things? If, when we were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more we shall be saved by his life. If there is pardon, peace, purity in the vine, the fullness is there for the branches. If the branches are not conscious of possessing these graces, it is because there is no living contact with the vine. Separate, severed from me, ye can do nothing. The branch expresses all the will of the vine; the vine diffuses itself through every fibre, pore, the inmost being of the branch, giving forth beauty, grace, fruit. The branch reveals the perfection of the vine; the branch grows—how like the lilies!—by abiding (a living contact) in the vine, by appropriating to itself what the vine gives, by submitting to all the will of the husbandman. The branch has power. All power is given unto me (the vine), not you (the branch), in heaven. As far as the husbandman is concerned on earth, as far as the salvation of men, nations, the world, is concerned, I have this fullness of life, growth, power, purity, etc., for you (each) me (definite) for them. Abide, live in me by faith, and you shall know what ye have believed of the doctrine, whether it be of God or men.

Faith is the only road God travels. It is impossible for us to please God without faith. Enoch touched God for translation, and God took him, and he had the testimony while living that he pleased God. Don't be afraid of offending God by exercising faith. Touch God with real faith for a definite thing, and you will get exactly that for which the vine, and the vine will diffuse itself through you.

* * * * * * * *

We have just closed our fourth protracted meeting. A number of conversions; the church getting the collection up, exercising a living faith in a living Christ, and getting a real experience. The substance of the true vine, love, joy, peace in the Holy Ghost.

J. M. DEAVENPORT.

Saltillo Charge.

Reminiscences.

FIFTY YEARS AGO.

"How dear to my heart are the scenes of my boyhood,
When fond recollection recalls them to mind;"
But dearer by far is the spot near old Bethel,
Where Jesus, my Lord, spoke peace to my soul.

These reflections are due to a notice in the ADVOCATE of the purpose to build again the fallen walls around old Bethel Camp Ground. In the Fall of 1842, at a camp meeting (in the grove meeting), held beneath the wide-spreading beech tree, I was converted, and started out in a new life. I was convicted as a sinner under the preaching of Elijah Steele; joined the church and was received and baptized by Dr. Winans as a probationer "on six months' trial" at Old Midway Church, near Centreville (Amite county), Miss.

In reviewing this, to me, glorious transaction, memory recalls the man who led in the battle against sin and wickedness in those days long past. Away back, when I was but a boy, I remember John C. Burruss, the orator of the pulpit; and Kingston, the trumpet-tongued Irishman; and Hamilton, the elegant and eloquent preacher; and Charley K. Marshall, whose reputation as a pulpit orator was as widespread as that of S. S. Prentiss as statesman and lawyer, not only as preacher, but scientist as well, who loved to peer into the heavens and consider the handiwork of the great Architect of the universe; W. Langarl, the meek, devout man, whose conscientious scruples revolted at the idea of human slavery, and he hied away to more congenial climes (North); and Wm. Hinds, who played Jonah until lashed into obedience by the vows he had taken, and the wooings of a gentle heart, and of noted men who bore the burden in the heat of the day later; Wm. Winans, D. D., the ponderous logician and theologian, whose discourses mark him as among the grandest thinkers of his day; and Benj. M. Drake, the loving and lovable man of God, sweet-tempered and kind, whose gentle manners won the love of his flocks and the respect of sinners. His mantle seems to have fallen on his sons. Dr. Drake discovered the widow's son in his obscurity, the piney woods cowboy; became his mentor and afterwards the biographer of Elijah Steele, who fell so early in the battle, a martyr for the cause of his Master, at New Orleans. There was also Uncle Berney Pipkin, zealous, earnest Christian worker. He belonged to a preacher family, and many of his relatives were ministers of the gospel of peace, and "Uncle Tommy" Clinton, the quiet, busy little Irishman, always about his Master's business, visiting the widow and the orphan, "keeping himself unspotted from the world," the loving husband and tender father, the "good Samaritan," always ready to go to the cry of distress, no matter whence it came. Billy James, who wore his religion, like his Sunday coat, all the week and Sunday too. There was the mellow-voiced Angel, M. D., whose sweet songs and gentle voice beckoned a gentle heart, whose throbbings moved him toward the sinner; and W. H. Watkins, self-made, a very Chesterfield, a born aristocrat, who was as careful of his toilet as the belle of fashion, everywhere a gentleman; and many others of less notoriety among men, but known of God, who adorned the life of the profession, and wrought faithfully in the "vineyard of the Lord." All these, no doubt, are enjoying the presence of their Lord in "Elysian Fields."

Noted among the laymen of this period was Edward McGee, whose deeds of charity and munificent endowments were as extended as his means. I well remember the McGee Church in New Orleans, built (as I heard) through the munificence of Edward McGee and Harry Hill, and the "mothers in Israel." I can not refrain from a word of praise to their memory; so modest, so unassuming, so meek, how unlike some of the gentler sex of the present day.

"When these dreams of life are fled,
When these wasted lamps are dead,
When in cold oblivion's shade,
Beauty, wealth and fame are laid;
Where immortals reign,
There may we all meet again."

BYTHEL HAYNES BAIRD.

Pidcoke, Texas, Sept. 8, 1893.

The Cigarette Habit.

I will endeavor, in this communication, to place before the minds of those who may read this, and especially the cigarette smoker, some of the evils consequent upon the cigarette habit. I will not, however, attempt to give the pathology of diseases resulting from the habit, as I have never availed myself of the opportunity of holding a post mortem examination on a subject who died from disease consequent upon cigarette smoking. In fact, there has not been much scientific research along this line. It seems that our scientific brethren have somewhat overlooked this bebit as a cause of disease. I will now cite the reader to some cases in which we can not attribute disease to any other cause than to the excessive use of cigarettes. I have recently met a gentleman who has been an inveterate cigarette smoker for a number of years. This gentleman was educated for an attorney, which profession he followed up to a year or two ago, when he had to give up his profession on account of this habit. He is now in the last stages of consumption. This gentleman informs me that there has not been any consumption in his family for the past ten generations. He is the last of seven graduates of the University of Virginia, all of whom were inveterate cigarette smokers. The six who have gone before died from disease consequent upon the cigarette habit. Neither of the six lived to be thirty-nine years old. The above gentleman is only thirty-seven and has no hopes of living to be thirty-nine. In fact, the average life of the cigarette smoker is thirty-five years. Now, that the use of cigarettes has been the cause of this gentlemen's disease is very evident to my mind, and I do not think that any one physician or laymen, can deny the fact that the inveterate use of cigarettes has been the cause of this gentlemen's trouble. In my estimation this habit ranks among the worst habits to which the human race is addicted at the present time. That the continued and excessive use of cigarettes gradually undermines the system can no longer be denied; for in this day and time we frequently see men and boys suffering the evil consequences of this habit. I do not think we can doubt or deny the fact that the continued use of cigarettes incapacitates men and boys for the performing of the duties of the several vocations of life. Now that we can see, if we will look, what this habit is doing for our present generation, and how much worse the effects will be on the future generations, I think it is time to wage war against it. I went to say, as I was once a slave to this habit, that if we were the only ones to suffer its evil effects, it would not be so bad. But it is the harm we do others by influencing them to form the habit.

Now we come to the question: Where do a great many boys form this habit? Sad, though true, many of us smoked our first cigarette while at college. I hope soon to see the time when the presidents and professors of our colleges will prohibit students smoking cigarettes while under their care anywey. I think also that the temperance lecturer and the clergy of the different denominations or churches, while preaching against the use of spirituous liquors, should also endeavor to teach people the evil consequences of this habit. Some States of the Union have legislated against the sale of cigarettes and cigarette papers, and in one of the States the law prohibits one smoking on public highways, in public buildings, or anywhere except in one's own premises. I hope the time is not far distant when all States will legislate against the sale of cigarettes and cigarette papers. I sincerely hope that those who have influence over those who are slaves to this nefarious habit will wield it against it. If you have a son or any relative or friend who is a slave to the cigarette, do your utmost to induce them to abandon the habit before it is too late. For the time will surely come when they will wish they had never smoked a cigarette. With the sincere wish that this may be of vital interest to those who may read it, I remain,

Very truly, J. L. WILSON, M.D.

FROM THE WORK.

Continued from First Page.

Rev. J. S. Sanders, Rocky Mount, La., Sept. 5: "I enclose to you a list of subscribers for the ADVOCATE. We are now in the midst of a glorious revival at Concord Church, North Bossier circuit. Great power on the people. The house is overflowing, and sometimes people are standing round the doors and windows we can not get in. We have had a great many bright conversions, and a number of glorious sanctifications. Six converted last night; eighteen accessions up to date. We have had 117 accessions to the church on North Bossier circuit during the last thirteen months, and have the fourth new church now under erection, which is a part of the fruit of our meeting held there six weeks ago. Praise God for a gospel of power."

Rev. P. Burkett, P. C., Brooklyn, La.: "I want to say a few words through the ADVOCATE. I was appointed to the Lepine mission at the last session of the Annual Conference, and we have had a very pleasant time to date. The spiritual state of the church, I think, is on the up-grade. There have been 28 added to the church; at Pine Grove 15 accessions. The Lord was with us in power; and thanks to Bro. Will Insbinsi for assisting at this place. At Franiem's Chapel 7 were added. The Lord was with us in converting power, and the church was stirred by the power of the Holy Ghost. At Bethel we had a good meeting, though not what it ought to have been. Thus the good work goes on; and to God be all the praise! This is a kind and loving people. Finances low, but the good people say they will bring them up. Pray for us."

Rev. H. C. Parrott, P. C., Pontotoc, North Mississippi Conference, Sept. 12: "We closed another great revival meeting recently on this work at the old camp grounds, five miles south of Pontotoc. We report as follows: 46 conversions—not mere professions; 25 more added to our church, 'such as we trust shall be saved;' and, best of all, an old-fashioned revival of old-time religion, so that an almost lifeless church is alive again and at work, carrying on the good work in family prayers, prayer meetings, etc. Before the meeting closed I raised the collections ordered by the Conference, and the stewards have already and in sight the pastor's salary. Bro. M. E. Tumlin, of Shannon, was with us four days of the first week, and proved himself to be a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, preaching clear, strong gospel sermons with power and in demonstration of the Spirit, and was equally efficient in the altar services. The Lord bless Bro. Tumlin and his dear ones. We expect to secure some subscribers for the ADVOCATE this Fall. We all want to thank you for the improved paper you are giving us. It gives no uncertain sound and has the right ring."

Rev. W. M. Williams, Decatur, Miss.: "You can let your readers hear from Decatur circuit. Our first meeting was held at Union, in which I was assisted by Bro. W. W. Hopper, of Meridian. Results: Two additions and the church wonderfully revived. I expect there has been more Scripture read there in the last month than there has been in a year before. We are expecting great good to result from that meeting. At Hebron we were assisted by Bros. J. C. Ellis, T. H. Rivers, L. P., and Balone, Congregational. Some of the sisters got revived, and some of our Baptist brethren. But we never did get any of our members there warmed up so they would pray in public. At Decatur I was assisted by Bro. I. L. Peebles and T. H. Rivers, L. P. Well, everybody and all his folks in this country love Bro. Peebles, and they came out to hear him—even to a hard-shell Baptist preacher. But while he was listening to Bro. Peebles and chewing his tobacco and spitting on the floor, one of the brethren pointed to the notice, 'Please don't spit on the floor,' and he said, 'Well, I haven't been to hear a Methodist preacher in thirteen years and I think it'll be thirteen years more before I hear another.' We had a fine meeting. Nine accessions and about as many conversions. The church wonderfully revived. There were only a few church members who hardened their hearts and withstood every appeal. God only knows what will become of them. I find that the sinners in the church are harder to move than the sinners outside."

L. H. Johnson, Mt. Pleasant, Miss.: "The Sunday following your departure from Victoria Camp Meeting for New Orleans, the Rev. G. H. Jacobs, of Mt. Pleasant circuit, assisted by Rev. Joseph Harris, of Red Banks and Victoria circuit, commenced a protracted meeting at Union Church, seven or eight miles northeast of Victoria. Bro. Harris remained one day only with the meeting. He put that day in for the Lord. This left the meeting entirely in the hands of—I liked to have said Bro. Jacobs and a few zealous members—but the great head of the church, thank God, reigned triumphantly for a week; the Rev. D. W. A. Scruggs did some good, effective work and preaching. But to God we give all the glory! There were between thirty-five and forty conversions and reclamations. The meeting closed Sunday at eleven o'clock service amid the shouts and hallelujahs of new-born souls to God. On Sunday night at Mt. Pleasant Church, your correspondent called on one of the Union converts—Bro. John Ballard—to conduct the prayer meeting. He accepted the invitation, and, after one or two prayers and the reading of a chapter from St. John, he called for penitents and many responded. In a short while there was a general shout in Israel's hosts, and the result of the meeting was five bright conversions. Glory to God! The Lord God omnipotent reigneth. Let the earth rejoice. Let the multitude of isles be glad thereof. I failed to tell you that the brother who conducted the meeting is very young and inexperienced—a student of Mt. Pleasant High School. May the Lord bless and make him useful and a power for good in his Master's vineyard, is the prayer of your humble brother in Christ."

SUNDAY-SCHOOL LESSON.—Oct. 1, 1893.

PREPARED BY REV. A. F. WATKINS.

The Power of the Gospel.

(Romans i, 8-17.)

GOLDEN TEXT.—"I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth." (Romans i, 16.)

TOPICAL OUTLINE.—I. Paul's Commendation (v. 8). II. His Desire and Purpose (vs. 9-15). III. His Sense of Obligation (vs. 14 and 15). IV. His Message (vs. 16 and 17).

CENTRAL THOUGHT.—The Preaching of the Gospel.

INTRODUCTORY.

TIME.—A. D. 58—three years before Paul's visit to the Imperial City, and just before his eventful visit to Jerusalem, recorded in Acts, twenty-first chapter.

PLACE.—The Epistle was written from Corinth, and sent by the hand of Phebe, a deaconess of Cenchræ, who was about to sail for Rome.

THE PURPOSE of the Epistle, as gathered from its contents, was, 1. To assure them of his interest and his desire and purpose to visit them, and prepare them for his promised visit; 2. To instruct and establish in the faith those who had never enjoyed the personal ministry and guidance of any of the apostles; and, 3. To send his brotherly greetings to the many friends who were at that time residents of the city and members of the church at that place.

Of the origin and character of the church in Rome it may be well to say that the church was founded probably through the labors of unknown Christians, who were converted either on the day of Pentecost, or subsequently, by the preaching of the apostles, especially of Paul in his great missionary journeys, and who, upon returning to Rome, or upon going thither, organized and maintained a Christian church there. There is no evidence going to show that any apostle had up to this time visited the city, and none that Peter was in any special manner connected with the founding of the Christian church in the world's capital. The church at the time of Paul's letter was probably strong and influential, and was composed largely of Gentiles, who may, or may not, have been formerly Jewish proselytes. United with these Gentiles were, doubtless, a number of Jewish Christians.

The Epistle, which Coleridge has called "the most profound book in existence," presents Paul's conception of God's plan for the recovery of the human race, and is an elaborate exposition of the truths presented by the apostle in his sermons as an ambassador for Christ. Here we find that which was to the Jews a stumbling-block and to the Greeks foolishness, that which lashed into fury the exclusive Pharisee of Jerusalem and excited the contempt of the philosophic Athenian, that which Paul meant in his noble exclamation, "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to them that believe." The first seven verses of our chapter contain Paul's authentication of the Epistle, and his salutation to the persons to whom he wrote, and the verses which constitute the lesson for to-day form his introduction to the presentation of his theme.

EXPLANATORY.

I.—PAUL'S COMMENDATION.

Ver. 8. Several considerations go to show Paul's wisdom in, first of all, commending the Christians in Rome for the virtues that they possessed. It assured them that he, who was writing to them as a teacher, was acquainted with their affairs and willing to give them credit for what was good in them. This would make them the more willing to accept his teaching, heed his counsels and receive his reproofs. Then, too, it would encourage them to the continued and patient exercise of these Christian graces to know that they were marked and appreciated by their fellow-Christians "throughout the whole world," and were doubtless helpful to the development of the same graces in others.

II.—HIS DESIRE AND PURPOSE.

Vers. 9 and 10. His practical interest in them had found expression in his prayer that the God, whom he served in the gospel of his Son, would open the way by which he could come to them, that he might strengthen and establish them in the knowledge of the gospel, to which already they were conspicuous in their loyalty. His unceasing prayer would imply that his was not a sudden impulse, but an abiding desire to visit them. No fact in the later years of Paul's life is more evident than his desire and purpose to preach the gospel in Rome. To do so would be to meet the many old friends, whose names find mention in the last chapter of our Epistle; and then, too, great cities, as great strategic points, had from the first been the chosen fields for the apostle's labors. So now, having visited Athens, the center of culture, and Corinth and Ephesus, the centers of commerce, he would preach also in Rome, the center of power—the heart of a heathen world.

Vers. 11 and 12. These verses contain the reasons for his desire to labor among them, viz.: that he might add to their knowledge and establish them in the faith, thus helping them "to grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ." (II. Peter iii, 18.) His additional reason, given in verse 12, was no idle compliment; it shows the humility of the great apostle and his appreciation of the mutual dependence of Christians upon each other, and of the help and comfort that come to both in the exercise of the virtues of the common faith.

Ver. 13. Not only had a desire been cherished, but a purpose had been formed—a purpose, the accomplishment of which had been hindered up to that time, but which would soon be carried out in a manner very different from all that Paul had planned. To Paul the manner was of little moment; the purpose was supreme. To convert Rome was to convert the Roman Empire.

III.—HIS SENSE OF OBLIGATION.

Ver. 14. Paul here lays down the great principle of Christian service—a principle at war with the exclusiveness of the Jew, the indifference of the Greek and the selfishness of our common humanity. It is the only principle worthy of one who is the disciple of him who "came to seek and to save the lost." It is the principle of universal indebtedness under a common Fatherhood to a common brotherhood. In nothing is Paul the Apostle more sharply in contrast with Saul the Pharisee than in this sense of world-wide obligation. The expression, "Greek and Barbarian," shows the obliteration of all radical and national lines, and "wise and unwise" the effacing of all class distinctions.

Ver. 15. The sense of obligation being realized, the apostle stands ready to discharge the duty. No debtor was ever more willing to pay his debts than this divinely commissioned servant of him who came among men "as one who serves;" and no constraint of legal necessity was ever more pressing than that under which he stood whom "the love of Christ constrained" to a self-denying service in which life itself was "not counted dear."

IV.—HIS MESSAGE.

Ver. 16. The gradual elevation of style which marks the chapter from the beginning of our lesson finds a fitting culmination in this verse, while at the same time we find in it an additional reason for his readiness to preach the gospel in Rome. That he should have emphasized the gospel as the power of God unto salvation in writing to the Christians of a city which was the very synonym of power, and the governmental center of an empire whose central idea was power, is significant. To the Romans Paul would say: The gospel is no weak and despicable thing of which men may be ashamed; it is the power of God unto salvation. The world had never heard such a message before; it can never hear another such.

Ver. 17. For in this gospel is revealed to the intelligences of heaven and earth the truth that God can be just and at the same time the justifier of the ungodly. To the eye of increasing faith this atonement becomes more glorious, more complete, and that which is the condition of justification is seen to be the condition of the regenerated and ever-expanding life.

PRACTICAL THOUGHTS.

1. If you would help a man, recognize all that is good in him and give him credit for it. (Verse 8.)

2. Paul was better fitted to be helpful when the opportunity came because of having prayed that it might come. (Verses 9 and 10.)

3. Only "by the will of God" can any journey be prosperous to his children. (Verse 10.)

4. The spirit that leads a man to say, "I am debtor," has in it the power to uplift; every other spirit tramples down. (Verse 14.)

5. Men are ashamed of weakness, not of power, and only those can be ashamed of the gospel whose lack of faith forbids the realization of its power. (Verse 16.)

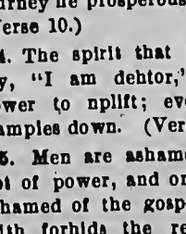
Hall's Hair Renewer contains the natural food and color-matter for the hair, and medicinal herbs for the scalp, curing grayness, baldness, dandruff, and scalp sores.

Bishop O. P. Fitzgerald, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, thus expresses his appreciation of the Methodist press:

A Bishop can go to some places; the weekly newspaper can go to every home if the preachers will introduce it. The pastor can make a visit now and then; his faithful coadjutor will go fifty-two times a year, harrowing in the seed that he sows, deepening the good impressions he has made. It is a sort of telephone by which all the family can converse with one another—a class meeting led by the editor. By it the revival note struck in one place echoes in every part of our Methodism. The good word printed multiplies into a million of words. The weekly family religious newspaper is, next to the ministry, the most efficient agent in the work of evangelization in modern times.

Blood Poisoning

Mrs. Mary E. O'Fallon, a very intelligent nurse of Piqua, Ohio, was poisoned while assisting physicians at an autopsy 5 years ago, and soon terrible ulcers broke out on her head, arms, tongue and throat. Her hair all came out. She weighed but 78 lbs., and saw no prospect of help. At last she began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and at once improved; could soon get out of bed and walk. She says, "I was cured by



Mrs. M. E. O'Fallon.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

and am now a well woman. I weigh 128 lbs., eat well and do the work for a large family. My case seems a wonderful recovery and physicians look at me in astonishment, as almost like one raised from the dead."

HOOD'S PILLS cure liver ills, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, sick headache, indigestion.

Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water.

W. W. Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water is still on sale at Gloster, Miss., by Wm. B. Hines, as heretofore, and as advertised in this NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. Now I wish sub-agents all over Louisiana and Mississippi, who can have circulars by writing to me for them. Will be glad to have the same patronage given heretofore by friends and sick ones. This water is making wonderful cures. WM. B. HINES.

Gloster, Amite Co., Miss., Sept. 2, 1893.

Tulane -:- University Scholarships.

TULANE UNIVERSITY, New Orleans, for the purpose of encouraging post-graduate studies, offers fifteen scholarships to the graduates of its own and other colleges. The appointments are made for merit, and entitle the holder to free tuition and an honorarium of one hundred and fifty dollars.

For further particulars address the Secretary of Tulane University, New Orleans, Louisiana.

Evergreen -:- College,

EVERGREEN, LA.

FOR BOYS AND GIRLS.

Offers Board and Tuition for the entire session, payable quarterly, for $120.

For particulars address,

C. C. WIER, Pres.

McTyeire Institute,

McKENZIE, TENN.

Prepares students for Vanderbilt and such institutions.

Expenses for five months, $72.50 to $82.50.

Students completing our course enter Vanderbilt without examination.

Next session begins August 31.

For circulars or information address

J. H. HARRISON, Prin.,
McKenzie, Tenn.

Clinton Female Academy,

(Chartered in 1852)

WILL OPEN MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1893

Course thorough. Charges lower than offered by any school of its grade in the South.

CHARGES PER MONTH.

Tuition per month	$2 00 to $3 00
Music " "	3 00
Use of Piano per Month	1 00
Painting in Oil " "	3 00
Drawing " "	1 00
Latin, French and Book-keeping, each per month	1 00
Incidental Expense per Session	50

Board, Tuition, Washing, Fuel and Lights, $12 per Month. $120 per the Session of Ten Months. For particulars address the Principal,

Mrs. S. E. MUNDAY, Clinton, La.

GRENADA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

Is Devoted to the Education of Girls and Young Ladies.

FALL TERM OPENS SEPTEMBER 5TH, 1893.

The Institute affords the very best advantages for culture in Vocal and Instrumental Music; in Art, Drawing, Painting, etc.; and in all the branches of collegiate study—English, Latin, French and German. The teachers are experienced and competent. The Boarding Department is home-like and comfortable. The health is fine. The expenses are moderate. For catalogue address Rev. Thos. J. Newell, A. M., Pres.,

Grenada, Miss.

MILLWOOD Female Institute.

This Institute is located near Jackson, La., and is as remarkable for its delightful environments as its healthy location.

Special teachers in each Department.

Charges lower than any school which offers the same advantages.

Session opens Sept. 4, 1893.

Send for Catalogue.

MISS M. McCALMONT,
Principal.

Louisiana State University AND Agricultural and Mechanical College.

J. W. NICHOLSON, A.M., LL.D., President.

The next session (1893-'94) will open on the fifth of October, 1893, with a full and able corps of Professors and Instructors. Five Courses of Study, healthy locality, excellent discipline, splendid equipments. Tuition free. Cost for maintenance, per session of nine months, $181. Number of students last session, 188. For catalogue giving full information

Address ALVAN C. BEAD, Secretary,
Baton Rouge, La.

READ THIS.

Board and Lodging by Day, Week or Month.

Regular meals, 25 cents. Lodging, 25 to 50 cents.

I endeavor to make my place home-like and comfortable. Give me a call.

MRS. BRAKEL,

No. 535 Chartres St., near Northeastern Depot.

ANGELL'S HOMŒOPATHIC PHARMACY,

153 and 155 JULIA ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Richard Angell, M. D., Proprietor.

DEALER IN

Homœopathic Medicines, Book and All Other Articles used in Homœopathic Practice.

Try Angell's Celebrated Whooping Cough Syrup.

North Mississippi Conference Colportage and Sunday-School Agency

KOSCIUSKO, MISS.

Any Good Book Furnished at Publisher's Prices.

A specialty is made of the Books, Periodicals and Sunday-school Supplies of our church, which are furnished at Publishing House prices exactly.

Bibles and Testaments, All Styles and Sizes, Are a Particular Feature of the Work.

Our House requests that all the business of this Conference be transacted through this office.

All orders for books or papers promptly filled, and all pertinent questions concerning good literature and our Sunday-school interests will be readily answered.

G. W. BACHMAN,
Colporter and Sunday-school Agent.

WALL PAPER.

The Spring patterns of Wall Paper are handsomer than ever before, and we are able to offer them to you at prices which are within the reach of all. We believe that anyone buying cheap paper will do better to invest 10, 12½ or 15 cents and buy a gilt paper or a fine blank for the small difference than to invest 5 cents in a cheap blank; but if you want the 5-cents paper, we have it and will be glad to sell it.

MATTINGS,

In novel and dainty designs, which can not be had elsewhere, as we control our own private patterns. Prices from $5 per roll of 40 yrds, and up

LACE CURTAINS,

Rugs, Screens, Easels, Oil Cloth, Window Shades and Upholstering Goods.

ESTIMATES

Given for papering in the country under the direction of our foreman and with our own experienced corps of men.

Heath, Schwartz & Co., Lim.,

116 Camp Street, New Orleans.

$21 PAID WEEKLY

To active, faithful men and women, boys and girls, working for us taking orders for THE ILLUSTRATED WORLD'S FAIR, edited by John McGovern, the Prince of the Literary West. 25c. a month, or $2.50 a year. Entire Series, from July, 1891, to January, 1894, 30 monthly issues, only $6.00. Sells at sight. Most beautiful, interesting and popular, and the only publication receiving official recognition. THE ORGAN OF THE FAIR. Chicago Inter Ocean says: "It is a handsomely prepared and valuable publication, to which many celebrities are contributors." Send 15c. (stamps) for full particulars and sample copy containing fifty large rich engravings of the PRINCIPAL ATTRACTIONS of the World's Fair. Address.

THE NATIONAL BOOK CONCERN,
134 VAN BUREN ST., CHICAGO, ILL

DO YOU

Want a teacher for a Summer school? A bookkeeper for a few months while your regular man takes in the World's Fair? A fine young man for any kind of honorable work? If you do, write to DR. W. B. MURRAH, President, or J. W. CHAMBERS, Agent, of Millsaps College, and they will supply the man.

WANTED.

An A. M. graduate, having twenty years' successful experience in managing large institutions of learning, wants to lease desirable school or college property. Parties interested please address

"COLLEGE PRESIDENT,"
Care of ADVOCATE.

Advertising in England, European Continent, Etc.

SELL'S ADVERTISING AGENCY, Limited.

Capital, $250,000. Henry Sell, Manager (editor and founder of "Sell's World's Press").

Full particulars regarding British or European Advertising, sample papers, rates, etc., at the London Office, 167-168 Fleet street, or at New York Office, 21 Park Row, Ground Floor.

Kursheedt's Marble Works

120 and 122 Camp St., New Orleans

$525 Agent's profits per month. Will prove it or pay forfeit. New Articles just out. A $1.50 sample and terms free. Try us. Chidester & Son, 2 Bond St., New York City.

When answering advertisements please mention the Advocate

ILLINOIS CENTRAL R. R.

GREAT FAST MAIL ROUTE.

Four Daily Trains between NEW ORLEANS and CHICAGO.

The Only Line running Pullman Buffet Sleepers and Through Cars for All Classes to

CHICAGO,

Connecting with all Buffet and Dining Car Lines East, and the ONLY LINE Running Through Cars for All Classes.

FREE RECLINING CHAIR CARS TO CHICAGO.

St. Louis Without Change.

The Only Line running a Double Daily Train Service to

ST. LOUIS.

ONLY ONE CHANGE OF CARS FROM NEW ORLEANS TO Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York

The great Steel Bridge, spanning the Ohio River at Cairo, completed, and all trains (freight and passenger) now running regularly over it, thus avoiding the delays and annoyances incident to transfer by ferry boat.

TICKET OFFICE: Corner St. Charles and Common Streets.

J. W. COLEMAN, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., N. O.
A. H. HANSON, G. P. A., Chicago.

Speed and Comfort Combined When Traveling

VIA THE

T. AND P.

THE SHORT LINE TO

NEW ORLEANS, MEMPHIS,

AND POINTS IN THE

SOUTHEAST

THE DIRECT LINE TO

North and West Texas, Arizona, Old and New Mexico, Oregon, Colorado and California.

THE FASTEST TIME TO

Hot Springs, Little Rock and St. Louis

PULLMAN'S FINEST BUFFET SLEEPING CARS

On all Through Trains between

NEW ORLEANS AND DENVER,
NEW ORLEANS AND ST. LOUIS,
NEW ORLEANS and SAN FRANCISCO,
NEW ORLEANS, FT. WORTH and DALLAS.

Lowest ticket rates, time tables, and all desired information will be furnished by any of the ticket agents of the Texas & Pacific R'y or W. A. DASHIELL, Trav. Pass. Agent.
GASTON MESLIER, Gen'l Pass. and T'kt Agt.
L. S. THORNE, Third Vice President and General Superintendent, Dallas, Texas.

Yazoo and Mississippi Valley RAILROAD COMPANY.

All trains arrive and depart from new Passenger Station, cor. Howard Ave. and Rampart St.

	Leaves.	Arrives
Kansas City and Memphis Fast Train	5:00 p. m	6:35 a. m
Vicksburg & Natchez Ex.	7:55 a. m	5:35 p. m
Bat. Rouge "Coast Train."	3:40 p. m	10:00 a. m

The Only Line running Solid Trains between New Orleans, Memphis and Vicksburg, with Modern Pullman Buffet Sleeping Cars through to Memphis and Kansas City.

The direct and favorite route to Kansas City, Denver, and All Points West.

The short line to Hot Springs and points in Arkansas and North Louisiana.

Commutation Tickets, Mileage Books, Party Rates and Week End Excursions.

Summer Excursion Tickets on Sale in season.

Ticket Office: St. Charles St., cor. Common.

JAMES DUNKINS, Div. Pass. Agt.
J. W. COLEMAN, A. G. P. A.
A. H. HANSON G. P. A.

CLARK & MEADER,

16 and 18 CARONDELET ST.

BRANCH STORE:

Cor. ST. CHARLES and NAPOLEON Avenues,

NEW ORLEANS.

Stuffed Olives in Oil; Boneless Anchovies in Oil; Boneless Anchovies in Salt; French Crescent Olives; Mammoth Queen Olives; Cepes au Naturel; Mushroom Powder; Bijou Cans of Aluettes; Thon a huile; Pure of Fois Gras; Sauciases Truffe; Pure of Sardines; Truffled Sardines; New Maple Syrup in Quart bottles, 1 Gallon and ½ Gallon Cans; Maple Sugar in 1-pound cakes; Franco-American Game Pates, such as Wild Duck, Grouse, Partridge, Pheasant, Chicken, Chicken Liver, Woodcock; Entrees—Chicken Curry a la Indienne, Chicken Sauté a la Marengo; Calves' Tongues with Tomato Sauce; Veal and Green Peas; Calves' Tongue, sauce Piquant; Braised Beef a la Jardeniere; Ross' Belfast Ginger Ale, Sarsaparilla, Club Soda, and Raspberry Vinegar; Potoma's Roe Herring; Clysmic Water; Smoked Beef; Small Whole Boneless Cooked Hams in cans; Whole Boiled Beef Tongues in cans; Wheatena; Pettijohn's California Breakfast Food; Schumacher's Rolled Wheat and Avena; Cerealine Flakes; Mott's Pure Sparkling Sweet and Crab Apple Cider; Large Smoked Beef Tongue.

J. C. MORRIS CO., Limited,

40, 42 and 44 Tchoupitoulas Street.

E. F. DYER, Pres. E. P. MACKIE, Treas

WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

Refrigerators, Freezers, Water Coolers, Fishing Tackle, Seines, Oars, Hammocks, Croquet, Baseballs, Baskets, Brooms, Brushes, Fruit Jars, Bottles, Flasks, Demijohns, Rope, Twine, Axle Grease, Wrapping Paper, Bags, Stationery, Cheese Safes, Cages, Scales, Tacks, Chimneys, Lamps, Tinware, Blacking, Woodenware, Cutlery, Clocks, etc.

No Tobacco. NO OPIUM.

The only practicable way to reach

CATARRH

thoroughly and pleasantly. A positive cure even if all else has failed. Sample FREE by mail

Dr. J. W. SLOSSER & CO., DALTON GA.

QUALITY AND PRICE IS WHAT TALKS.

"A" Grade, $87.50. "A" Grade, $45.

"A" Grade, $180.

Look at these beautiful vehicles and low prices. You can't buy 'em from your local dealer for double the money. Write for our 1893 star catalogue, the finest ever published. Over 100 Styles. Vehicles $10 and upward. Harness $5 and upward.

ALLIANCE CARRIAGE CO., CINCINNATI, O.

The only Harmony book ever written, that can be readily understood by the average student.

GOODRICH'S Analytical Harmony.

(A new Theory of Composition, from the Composer's standpoint.)

Clearer and more helpful than anything I have seen ARTHUR FOOTE.

A welcome relief from our present difficulties. WM. H. SHERWOOD.

Invaluable to teachers and pupil. EMIL LIEBLING.

It will be eminently successful. CLARENCE EDDY.

Goodrich has solved the great problem. H. MOLLENHAUER.

Delightfully clear. HARRISON WILD.

Plainly expressed and easily understood JOS. H. GITTINGS.

A COMPANION VOLUME TO "MUSICAL ANALYSIS."

—PRICE, $2.00.—

THE JOHN CHURCH CO.,

Cincinnati—New York—Chicago.

A NEW UNIQUE and VALUABLE Historical Chart of Christianity from the Apostolic Period through the Reformation has been prepared by REV. M. LOUCKS, D.D. of Dayton, Ohio. For particulars address postal to him and receive circulars free,

REV. M. LOUCKS, D. D, Dayton, Ohio.

POSITIONS GUARANTEED Guarantee in Writing. Send for free catalogue of DRAUGHON'S Consolidated Practical Business College, Nashville, Tenn. Cheap Board. No vacation. MENTION THIS PAPER.

Shorthand in Vest Pocket.

DR. LAFFERTY, the Stenographer to the Virginia Senate, has given the CONGRESSIONAL SYSTEM OF SHORTHAND in a series of simple, witty, chatty talks; each illustrated. You learn it while you laugh. 65 pages. Price 50 cents. Address him, Richmond, Va.

UNIVERSITY SCHOOL, Petersburg, Va.

The twenty-ninth annual session of this school for boys begins MONDAY, October 2nd. Thorough preparation for University of Virginia, Yale, Harvard, United States military and naval academies, and all the best technical schools. Full staff. For catalogue, address W. Gordon McCabe, Head Master.

VIRGINIA MILITARY INSTITUTE, LEXINGTON, VA.

58th Year. State Military, Scientific and Technical School. Thorough Courses in general and applied Chemistry, and in Engineering. Confers degree of graduate in Academic Course, also degrees of Bachelor of Science and Civil Engineer in Technical Courses. All expenses, including clothing and incidentals, provided at rate of $336.50 per month, as an average for the four years, exclusive of outfit. New Cadets report Sept. 1st.

GEN. SCOTT SHIPP, Superintendent.

FENCING WIRE ROPE SELVAGE.

RAILROAD, Farm, Garden, CEMETERY, LAWN, POULTRY and RABBIT FENCING. Thousands of miles in use. Catalogue FREE. Freight paid. McMULLEN WOVEN WIRE FENCE CO., CHICAGO, ILL.

Are You Unemployed?

Will you work for $18 per week? Write to me at once. JOSEPH R. GAY, Pres. C. P. & L. Co., 56 FIFTH AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.

CHURCH SCHOOL FURNITURE

Before purchasing any PEWS, PULPITS or any other Furniture, write Wm. H. Morrow, Bl'k, Nashville, Tenn., for Catalogue.

WHY PAY DEALER'S PROFIT?

$2.75 buys a $9 White Reed Baby Carriage, freight prepaid, shipped on 10 days' trial. Latest design and style. Perfect, reliable and finely finished. Nothing but the best material used and warranted for 5 YEARS. We have been in the manufacturing business many years, and are reliable and responsible; make and sell nothing but what we can guarantee as represented; quote lowest factory prices. Write to-day for our large, free catalogue, which is one of the most complete ever published.

OXFORD MFG. CO., 340 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

The Great CHURCH LIGHT

Frink's Patent Reflectors for Gas, Oil or Electric, give the most powerful, softest, cheapest, and best light known for Churches, Stores, Banks, Theatres, Depots, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room, for circular & estimate. Liberal discount to churches & the trade. Don't be deceived by cheap imitations.

I. P. FRINK, 551 Pearl St., N.Y.

Established 1857.

SKIN DISEASES Tetter, Ringworm, Chapped Skin, Burns, Piles, Chilblains and all skin troubles cured by CREVE'S OINTMENT. 50c. Druggists. HISCOX & CO., N.Y.

ARE YOU CONSUMPTIVE

Use PARKER'S GINGER TONIC without delay. A rare medicinal compound that cures when all else fails. Has cured the worst cases of Cough, Weak Lungs, Asthma, Indigestion, Inward Pains, Exhaustion. Invaluable for Rheumatism, Female Weakness, and all pains and disorders of the stomach and bowels. 50c. & $1 at Druggists.

HINDERCORNS. The only sure cure for Corns. Stops all pain. 15c. at Druggists. HISCOX & Co., N. Y.

B. & S. BUSINESS COLLEGE, LOUISVILLE, KY. Superior advantages. Send postal for circular.

THE LARGEST ESTABLISHMENT MANUFACTURING CHURCH BELLS CHIMES & PEALS in the World. PUREST BELL METAL (COPPER AND TIN.) Send for Price and Catalogue. McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY, BALTIMORE, MD.

BELLS

Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. Send for Catalogue C. S. BELL & CO., Hillsboro, O.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY

THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO., Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A. Best Ingot Copper and E. India Tin. CHURCH BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES. Price & Terms Free. Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Christian Advocate.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

SUBSCRIPTION, - - $2 PER ANNUM.
Ministers and wives of deceased Preachers, $1

All Preachers of the M. E. Church, South, are authorized Agents, to whom payments may be made.

All correspondence with the ADVOCATE, Ulness ary or business, and all money due or to become due should be addressed to Rev. J. M. Beard, CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans, La

Rev. J. M. BEARD, D. D., Editor and Publisher.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. J. M. BEARD, D. D.
REV. S. S. KEENER.
REV. J. B. A. AHRENS, D. D.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. J. W. CHAMBERS.
REV. W. B. LEWIS.
REV. R. J. JONES.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. T. J. SULLIVAN, D. D.
REV. J. D. CAMERON, D. D.
REV. T. C. WIER.

Thursday, September 28, 1893.

The ADVOCATE to subscribers and renewals from now until Jan. 1, 1895, for $2.

Great revivals are in progress at Water Valley and Long Beach, Miss. Two hundred conversions at the former, and more than a score in the first week at the latter.

Rev. T. Masao, converted Japanese and theological student at Vanderbilt University, at Nashville, discoursed to a good house at Rayne Memorial Church, Sunday morning, and to a full one at Felicity Street Church, Sunday night. Bro. Masao, we should judge, is far above the average of intelligence among his own countrymen, and, with a thorough education under the very favorable auspices of Vanderbilt University, will be a great factor in solving the problem of Methodism in the Island Empire. We feel sure that we do not overstate the facts when we say that his lectures were thoroughly enjoyed by the representative audiences to whom he spoke, and that he will always be heard with pleasure in New Orleans.

The Western Christian Advocate comments: "Damon and Pythias are no more entitled to immortality than the three Julien brothers, whom the twenty-five chivalrous and drunken avengers of the murder of Judge Estopinal hanged in New Orleans, last Saturday night, for no other offense than refusing to purchase their lives by revealing the hiding-place of their guilty brother. It is not in evidence that they knew his place of concealment; but whether they did or not, they loved him well enough to die for him." This is a good sample, though mild, of what we told our readers last week to expect. It is often in these cases just a pen stroke from felony to martyrdom, and most especially if the offender be dark-skinned and inhabit south of Mason's and Dixon's line. It is not more certain that the men who took the lives of the Juliens were bad men than that these negroes were among the worst that the country contained.

The editor of the connectional organ, in its last number, devotes two columns to our brief rejoinder to some of his animadversions upon the popular view of sanctification, as presented by us a few weeks ago. Our mixed metaphor he can not away with, though it certainly was not mixed when it came into his possession; and as for our garbled texts, though they are all admitted to be genuine and only in one or two instances credited to the wrong author, he waves them aside with ex cathedra frown and gesture quite becoming to one who sits on so exalted a tripod. Indeed, the grave subject of discussion seems to pass wholly from his view, while he concludes for the public that this writer is careless, confused, untrustworthy. On the contrary, let us assure our brother that the slight errors noted are altogether attributable to the haste with which we are accustomed to dispose of minor points of business—as his objections to our late editorial, and to another fact, quite incidental, that our concordance is not a pocket edition. One thing in his article we noted with real pleasure, and that is the statement that he is both a believer in and candidate for sanctification. In a future number we hope to resume the discussion with both greater diversity and coherency of Scripture proofs.

The Cardinal's Speech.

"Society's elevation and betterment" is due, according to Cardinal Gibbons, in his address before the Parliament of Religions, to the Roman Catholic Church; but society in this age will hardly admit the soft impeachment. But here are the stipulations on which he founds the remarkable claim:

1. 'It has purified society in its very fountain, which is the marriage bond.' This gives no credit to our Lord Jesus Christ, and modern Protestantism, the greatest domestic saviors, according to the chronicles with which the reading public he addressed is most familiar. Indeed, we have never heard this claim made anywhere outside of the Roman Church, which is an exceedingly suspicious circumstance. If the Cardinal would only take the trouble to investigate the marriage bond, both as to its substance and fruits, in the Roman Catholic strongholds of France, Spain and Italy, where the domestic function is notoriously in a rapid state of decline, and compare it with the same subject as it exists in England, the United States and Protestant Germany, he would quickly forsake his dogma for something more stable. Alas! for the marriage bond when it has a race of celibates for its guardians and defenders.

2. 'It has proclaimed the sanctity of human life as soon as the body is animated by the vital spark.' This is both dogmatic and vague. But he means that it has put a stop to infanticide, which is by no means clear. It does not baptize children until the eighth day, which is about a week later than heathen parents devote their babes to destruction. But if the Jewish Church proclaimed infant sanctity on the eighth day, a few thousand years before this quite modern dispenser of good customs existed, how can the Cardinal, with any shadow of sense, attribute the proclamation to Rome.

3. 'There is no place of human misery for which the church does not provide some remedy.' This, he declares, means infant asylums, which, as a remedy, is far from promoting prevention, and which, as a means of building up a decaying church that has no hold upon the heart of mankind, and which for reasons not necessary to mention can obtain no recruits from adult populations, is unexcelled.

4 and 6. 'She has hospitals and she secures retreats for those on the threshold of death.' And he should have added, administers them mercilessly in the interest of Romanism, as all Protestantism and the balance of the world are thoroughly aware. The Charity Hospital at New Orleans, though never intended for a Romanist charity, is as completely under the control of the Roman See, and run as exclusively to build up the cause of this foreign religion in America, as if it had been paid for by Peter's pence, and was not supported out of the State and municipal treasuries. Rome gets from the Protestant world vastly more hospital subsidies than she grants, and if she had not built hospitals during the ages that she has taxed the nations, and gathered Pope's pence, she would not have been wise in commercial matters, which is a charge that can not be alleged against her.

5. 'She has orphan asylums.' Answered above.

7. 'She reclaims the victims of moral disease.' But not in her own ranks. It is not most to her credit either that she gives more attention to fallen women than fallen men. She does nothing to save her vast armies of saloon men and criminals of varied types. The last most notable murder conspiracy in New Orleans, barely failing of its object, was headed by a Roman Catholic of standing and influence, who was brought up as a waif in one of her orphan asylums. And in the copy of the paper from which we obtain the heads of the Cardinal's great address, we have the account of a singular contretemps at a railroad train robbery, of a Catholic priest approaching the robber caught in the act, and addressing to him the following queries, the first of which was, of course, answered in the affirmative: "Are you a Catholic?" "Do you practice your religion?"

8. 'She has been the unvarying friend and advocate of the bondman.' This is another dogma. Else why is it that slavery has lingered longest and died hardest on Roman Catholic territory.

9. 'The Savior of mankind never conferred a greater temporal boon on mankind than by ennobling and sanctifying human labor and by rescuing it from the stigma of degradation branded upon it.' This is remarkable candor, as it leaves the Roman Catholic Church out of the question, and places the whole responsibility of the Pope's labor encyclicals on his own feeble shoulders. The greatest joke and solecism of the age is the assumption of paternity over labor and laborers by that ancient aristocrat. A pensioner of the poor, he may be, but a savior never. Nothing has so much promoted poverty and multiplied tasks for the million in all ages as Roman Catholic luxury and sinecurism practiced all the way from the Pope down to the Pope's puppet. But none are so blind as those who will not see, nor so soft as those who have been humbugged in the greatest matters from the tenderest age.

The Cardinal author of this address, it is but just to say, is a man of both sense and moderation, and his descent to dogma, on this notable occasion, proves only that with no better cause, and far less art than the Italian Satolli, who has been promoted over him, and who made a decided hit at the late Catholic Congress, he did the best that he could.

The Aim of the Gospel.

The gospel demonstrates two things, viz.: the "shame of the sinner," and the "glory of God." Its cross is an emblem which is intended to keep the former forever in mind, while its crown as constantly images the latter to our thought. Paul was not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, though as suggestive of shame as the most ignominious life, and as the most criminal death, because the same gospel, by an alchemy all its own, had power to change the sinner into a saint, and the servant of the devil into a son of God. The reproach of Christ, which is but the reproach of sin rolled back upon him, it contains ad nauseam, and beholding it the proud world turns away its eyes, recognizing in that darkness the spectacle of its own corruption; but, on the other hand, the glory of the living God shines through it with such intensity and constancy as to make all the underskey of poverty, mourning and death to beam with effects of transfiguration so mighty that even the angels break off from their age-long ecstacy to ponder it, and that the redeemed can not be diverted from it by the superior joys of the realm whither they have been translated.

The revelation of the gospel is from faith to faith, and it no sooner saves the sinner from something than it saves him to something. It takes him out of the miry clay first, and sets his feet on a rock, second. It cures him of dumbness, initially, and puts a new song in his mouth ultimately. It cancels his shame with the glory of God, and its varying degrees with the topless horizons of Divine excellence.

It is the height of sinful presumption to declare that God can not do more for the sinner than to save him from his sins, or blot out his crimes as a dark cloud. He did not more intend to save the sinner from hell by the matchless ethics of the gospel than to save him to heaven by its incomparable doctrine and destiny of a higher life. It is the power of God unto salvation; all its depths, and all its heights. Sinners we were, saints we are. Companions of devils we have been, made meet for seraphic embrace we have become. Negative salvation and positive salvation thus stand for the two poles of the gospel, the removal of either of which would defeat the Divine plan in its promulgation.

Lord, from what hast thou not saved the meanest of us, and to what canst thou not save the best of us? Let us not foolishly limit thy power, applying to thee those measures of our wickedness and weakness, both of which thou hast purposed to entirely destroy. We can not deny the benefits of thy grace, but we should be equally foolish to refuse the pledges of thy glory as well as its supernal ministries.

But a leading mystery of the gospel is found in the fact that though we are always saved from sin, yet are we always saved sinners. The chief of the apostles was ever taunting himself with being the chief of sinners. Even the redeemed in heaven preserve the memory of the curse in their jubilant ascriptions of praises to Him who washed them from their sins in his own blood.

The Greatest Thing.

Love is undeniably the greatest thing in the world; but if it were only that, then indeed it might signify nothing more than "a sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal." Nothing is much more empty than love as a sentiment, unless it be the great empty world of which it is the insignificant content. The love of family, the love of country, the love of species, the love of God, as a natural adjunct of man's being, is largely vagary, and likely to explode under tension, or to be overridden and annihilated by any one or more of the inferior passions mounted on the hot steed of self-will. "Without natural affection" was not the peculiarity of one age or the distinguishing weakness of one community. But if we speak of it as gospel sentiment it is weaker still, for as such it has no claims upon men or the world either, that it can enforce. The world of civilization or barbarism is deaf as a blind adder to the gospel of noun and adjective. It is only when it takes the verb form, and has its conjugation in the heart and not on the tongue, that it becomes vital and impressive as rays of resurrection.

The greatest thing in the heart is love, albeit inferior and impotent in the world. Love was not made for "court or camp or grove," but for the deep recesses of the human soul. Its bridal chamber is close-curtained from the vulgar world, and it goes abroad oftener in indefinite sighings and incoherent murmurings than in tones and sentences. Married to mere oratory, it is mismated, and dependent for warmth altogether upon the gulf stream of talk, an idle thing. Think of love being beguiled by art or artifice or laying its head anywhere but in the lap of an obscure Delilah. Love in the heart is a song of seraph, but love in the world is mere wing-clipped sentiment. It is a voice giving little distinction in the sound, and, when intelligible, piping melo-drama. Heliogabulus fed on nightingales' brains, and moodily cried, "Vox et præteria nihil;" and you and I have listened to sage discourses on love as a rumor in the world from some such text as "God is love," or "Now abideth love," and arisen from a feast less satisfying. Love in the world, like schoolboy ambition, is a glorious cheat, but love in the heart is the best treasure. In a spiritual realm its sovereignty is absolute. Waving its sceptre from that throne the dullest landscape becomes a heaven, and more marvelous still the least perfect of the species an angel, "for he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God and God in him."

In a Nutshell.

The Savior assures us that our heavenly Father knoweth what we have need of; but he tells us, "Ask, and ye shall receive." Does not that mean that we shall receive whatever we ask for, but only what we ask for, and not until we ask for it?

Does anyone ask for pardon until he is convicted of sin? And, then, what does he ask for, but forgiveness for having offended God? And, being pardoned, he feels at peace with God? But very soon he finds out (what he did not know before), that there is something remaining (which is the depravity inherited from the fall of Adam), that prompts him to sin, and too often he does sin again. And thus enlightened, some (all might) make a full, unreserved and unconditional surrender and consecration of themselves to the Lord, and ask him to eradicate and remove all that depravity, and deliver them thus from all desire and propensity to sin. And then he does that second work of grace instantaneously in answer to the prayer of faith, as he did the first.

If anyone asks why the inherited depravity was not removed when the actual sins were pardoned, let it be answered, the actual sins even were not forgiven until conviction was felt and pardon asked. But at that time the existence of the inherited depravity was not suspected, much less then asked to be eradicated. An inebriate may drink until mania a potu seizes him; then he calls for a physician to relieve him of that distress. But he may, or he may not, ask him to cure him of that thirst for stimulants; he may even be unwilling to give them up. And, therefore, the doctor treats only his mania a potu; and leaves lurking there his thirst for drink, which soon overcomes him again, and whenever temptation comes upon him. The fault was in the patient, not in the doctor. And so the fault of depravity remaining is in the convert, not in God. All Christians may have all the depravity, inherited from the fall of Adam, removed, and may have it done as soon as they find out what it is that still lurks behind after conversion, and prompts them to sin until it is removed. Many, most of new converts, stumble in the dark right along there, and are tempted to think that they have been deceived, mistaking mere emotion for conversion. And many become discouraged, and suffer great trouble with doubts, if not feel despair, when they might be enjoying "fellowship with God, and walking in the light, as he is in the light, . . . the blood of Jesus Christ his son cleansing them from all sin." But many, if not most, professors suffer on "with doubts and fears oppressed," thinking they can and will grow into the blessed state of deliverance from evil, a thing for which they have no warrant from Scripture.

There are numerous instances of people being instantaneously delivered from the craving for whisky, opium, tobacco, etc., in answer to earnest and faithful prayer, and unreserved and unconditional surrender and consecration to the Lord, which is an indispensable prerequisite to such freedom and cleansing, and all other, who being thus delivered, have no relish for those things, but, on the contrary, an aversion to them. This can hardly be doubted by anyone who will take the trouble to examine the accumulated testimonies to the facts. And, if the Lord of all does deliver from one evil propensity, and from another, "why should it be thought a thing incredible with any, that he will deliver his beloved children from all," if they go to him in meekness and faith, and leaning upon his holy commands.

NOTES.

Oh! the good we all may do
As the days are going by.

***

By so much as ours is a scientific age is it an unfeeling age.

***

There is a pain of gain that we should avoid, and a gain of pain that we should cultivate.

***

"Rank is but the guinea's stamp, Man is the gold for all that."

***

There is said to be quite a fluency of the circulating medium in the neighborhood of the World's Fair.

***

A paragraph that is going the rounds relates that "many Sunday-schools are cold and few are frozen."

***

"The works of God are fair for naught,
Unless your eyes, in seeing,
See hidden in the thing the thought
That animates its being."

***

The rich and the poor meet together and drop the same denomination of Uncle Sam coin in the contribution basket.

***

The Christian who does not kneel in the kingdom of the holy, will hardly fall on his face in the kingdom of the holiest.

***

Servitude and freedom represent two states of the religious life, and servants and sons, two corresponding ranks of Christians.

***

The century in which we live is utilitarian, but not humanitarian. That which develops nature retards spiritual force.

***

The Lord puts a high value upon the servant who does not suffer his heart and conscience to be calcined by the hard times.

***

America will pay more to the World's Fair this year than to the conversion of the nations that sit in darkness. Is it progress?

***

The Master, uttering the key-note for the disciple, exclaimed (when coming into the world), "I delight to do thy will, oh God!"

***

You may call it perfect trust or perfect love, or fullness of the blessing, or what you like, but it is the one thing needful for life and death.

***

Science unlocks the secrets of nature, but for all that is a blind and stumbling guide, knowing nothing of the counsels of the Most High.

***

The imperfect law of bondage to worldliness and fleshliness came by Moses, but the perfect law of liberty to serve God came by Jesus Christ.

***

The believer's part in the work of salvation is expressed by the phrase "out and out," and the Savior's part by its antonym, "through and through."

***

The fulsomeness of some of the writing to and about our Bishops is no discredit to them, but it is a great shame to the man who both denies his Lord and his Christian manhood in this way.

***

When the gospel becomes impressive homily on the one hand, or on the other, more prelection about the unknown, with current topics for a basis, it is groping in the very darkness that it was appointed to dispel.

***

The man who proposed to double his gifts to the church because the times were hard, was a man of sense and discrimination, and needed not to be told that times and seasons of monetary crisis were the covetous man's opportunity, and the very impediments of Christian beneficences of all kinds.

***

We offer to give the American Farmer and Farm News free one year to all our subscribers paying up arrearages and a year in advance, and to all new subscribers paying a year in advance. The F. and F. N. is a large 16-page illustrated paper, the result of a recent union of four of the oldest standard agricultural papers in America. It has an immense circulation, and is more widely quoted than almost any other farmer journal.

***

In preaching sensation is to be avoided; the seraph whom John saw flying in the midst of heaven, and having the everlasting gospel to preach, came not near the earth. And spirituality is to be cultivated, for the whole of redemption as to its agencies for saving may be reduced to the seven spirits beheld by the same seer proceeding from the throne of God. In the former kind Mr. Talmage, though otherwise a great genius, excels, and in the latter, Mr. Spurgeon, with somewhat more of the Wesleyan fervor, would have been quite the beau ideal. This, and it alone, will account for the greater element of strength in the latter's ministry.

PERSONAL AND OTHERWISE.

Mineral Wells Holiness Camp Meeting, Mineral Wells, Texas, closed with one hundred and six conversions and one hundred and forty sanctifications.

W. B. Thomson, W. H. N. Msgruder, E. P. Mackie and J. H. Keller are the delegates from the New Orleans district to the Annual Conference, which meets in Homer, La., Dec. 14.

We are authorized by Dr. Carter to announce that the Preachers' Meeting will resume its weekly sessions, Monday, Oct. 2, at 11 A. M., in the pastor's office of the Carondelet Street Church.

Rev. Samuel P. Jones, grandfather of Sam. P., Jr., and Joe, and hero of some of their most telling anecdotes, is still living in the family town of Carterville, Ga., at the age of eighty-eight years.

The American Farmer and Farm News, the great agricultural paper, will be sent free to new yearly subscribers and renewals to the ADVOCATE, when the application is accompanied by the cash and a request to that effect.

Rev. R. S. Woodward, P. E., of the Brookhaven district, in a note to the editor says: "We are having gracious revivals in all parts of the district. Three new churches are nearly ready for dedication, and work on another will begin soon."

Rev. C. H. Ellis, of New Iberia, paid us a pleasant call last week. He was on his way from New Iberia to the St. Tammany Camp Meeting, and Bro. Rawls' work adjacent, where he is under engagement for evangelistic help for a few weeks.

Capt. Geo. A. R. Lawrence, who has been our traveling agent during the summer, retires from the work this week much to our regret and the paper's loss. Cause: hard times and inadequate pay. No business enterprise could have a more faithful and capable representative, and we shall earnestly desire to hear of his prosperity in a new field.

Report of the Seventh International and Second World's Sunday-School Conventions.

HELD IN ST. LOUIS, AUG. 30-SEPT. 5, INCLUSIVE.

The sessions of the conventions were held in the spacious Music Hall of the immense Exposition Building. The estimated seating capacity of the hall is 11,000, and is arranged amphitheatre style, with two galleries, one above the other, and a platform capable of seating 500 people. The whole interior was tastefully decorated with flags, etc. Hung upon the walls were the maps of many of the States, Territories, and Provinces of Canada, as well as of England and other European countries. There were also exhibited separate maps giving the Sunday-school statistics of all these sections. An immense sheet was stretched above and across the wide platform, having printed upon it in large letters this Scripture text: "The God of peace, that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, that great shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the everlasting covenant, make you perfect in every good work to do his will, working in you that which is well pleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ; to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen." Over the center of the platform was suspended an immense globe, ten feet in diameter, with the Western Hemisphere in full view. At the opposite end of the hall was this motto: "Organization for Evangelization."

A special selection of stirring songs had been prepared for the occasion, and a choir of 500 voices had been trained under the leadership of Prof. Lindsey to properly render them, with cornet and grand organ accompaniment. The first half-hour of each session was spent in singing and prayer. Every delegate was supplied with a copy of the collection of songs, and asked to join in the singing, as were also all others present. Imagine these enthusing songs sung in a spirited manner by several thousand voices! Was it any wonder that the people flocked there in such numbers that even standing room was sought after! The thought of being a part of such a company was itself an inspiration!

There were three sessions of the conventions daily, except on Saturday and Sunday. The seventh International Convention, consisting of delegates chosen from all the States, Territories and Provinces, was formally opened on the night of Aug. 30. Louisiana was represented by six of her thirty-two delegates. Stringency in the money market prevented many from attending. Those who did get there were richly rewarded for their self-denial in other directions. Any Sunday-school convention is an educator, be it but the gathering of a few intelligent and consecrated workers in a little town; much more so when the brightest minds, widest experienced workers and noblest Bible readers are met together to discuss approved methods for gathering in young and old in the Sunday-school room to study the Word of God.

The Christians and good people of St. Louis excelled themselves in providing for the comfort and entertainment of their guests. The mayor of the city delivered a splendid address of welcome to the convention, characterized throughout with a Christian sentiment. It was responded to in earnest, heartfelt words by representative delegates from the four quarters of our country.

Twice during the session of the conventions was the city illuminated in our honor. Such a blaze of light and beauty few have ever witnessed!

Reports of five minutes' length were received from all the sections represented. Some were interestingly read by lady delegates. Each delegation had seats assigned them and a hannerette to designate them.

Pledges were made by each delegation for carrying forward the work of the International Committee for the ensuing three years. A colored man is to be employed for organizing the work among the colored schools of the South. Mr. Wm. Reynolds was retained as field superintendent and international organizer. His address, entitled "A Look at the Field," was instructive, encouraging, animating and inspiring. It closed with feelingly commending the Book our mother read.

The report of the International Lesson Committee, through its secretary, the saintly Dr. Warren Randolph, was instructive and enlightening. It unanimously convinced the vast assembly that the system was a God-appointed method of provoking a united study of all of his Word, and the course of the committee was enthusiastically endorsed. As many know, the purpose of the International Lesson System is to go through the entire Bible once every seven years. The plan was inaugurated in 1872; so that at the close of this year, 1893, those who began with its institution will have gone through the Bible systematically three times, and committed to memory 1,100 golden texts, besides familiarizing themselves with the contents of the entire Bible.

In addition to this great and extensive system of uniform Bible lessons, there is also an International Bible Reading Association, with headquarters in London, England. Their secretary reported at the convention a present membership of 450,000, scattered over the entire globe. He had a map showing with a star every place where their members were located. This map, by the way, was a revelation to many as to where the Bible was most read and most needed. The members obligated themselves to read the Bible every day, and especially the home readings selected by the International Lesson Committee.

The statistics show over 11,500,000 engaged in Sunday-school work in United States and Canada.

Dr. Phillips, a native of India, and serving the World's Sunday-school Association as missionary in his own country, gave us a thrilling report of his work among those millions groping for light and peace through the unsatisfying teachings of Brahmanism, Buddhism, etc. While the adults are hard to work upon, the children are susceptible to gospel teaching and permitted to attend Christian schools, because of the moral influences manifested in a better deportment in the domestic and social circle. Dr. Phillips' services were also secured in opening up a Sunday-school work in Japan. In his closing address, before final adjournment of the World's Sunday-school Convention, he suggested as our motto as we should part, "Jesus Only." It was enthusiastically approved.

Prof. Hamill gave us an instructive address on "Normal Class Work," and the necessity for its encouragement, in order to make the teacher more effective in his or her work in the Sunday-school. Some States, through their associations, have a regular course and award diplomas to all who complete it acceptably. "Better work in every department" is now the cry, and better workmen is the result.

Mr. B. P. Jacobs, of Chicago, was elected president of the World's Sunday-school Convention, and holds office until the assembling of the next World's Convention in Europe in 1898, and election of his successor. Mr. Lewis W. Miller, of Akron, O., was elected president of the International Convention, and holds office until the assembling of the next International Convention in Boston in 1896. Both of these men are eminent Sunday-school workers, and well known on both continents. Associated with them is the best talent and experience the world at present affords, both as to executive work and biblical knowledge. Add to all this humble consecration to Christ and a united purpose to win the world for him.

How shall I describe the touching things said and done during the closing session of the great convention. Hearts were warmed by the energy of the Holy Spirit, tears were involuntarily shed as we communed one with the other, voices were husky as we sang in closing, "God be with you till we meet again," and intense silence reigned as Dr. Warren Randolph pronounced the benediction, with President Jacobs on his right hand and ex-President Belsey on his left. Our faces turned homeward, as we felt we had left the Mount of Transfiguration, and it was "Jesus Only." E. P. MACKIE.

If you are Bilious, take BEECHAM'S PILLS.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

BY REV. ROBERT H. WYNN.

The Pastor and the Epworth League.

(1) What is the duty of the pastor towards the Epworth League?

While it is true that there is a mutual obligation between the two, nevertheless, the obligation of pastor to the League is first, since it is the pastor's duty to take the initiative in organizing the League on his charge, and, after it is organized, to have general supervision of its affairs. He can scarcely expect anybody else to perform either of these duties for him; and both of these obligations must be fulfilled before the League's obligation to the pastor can be considered as existing at all. As to the first-mentioned duty, I will quote from an article written for the St. Louis Advocate by Bishop O. P. Fitzgerald:

"It became the duty of every pastor" (i. e., when the General Conference organized the Epworth League), "where the conditions made it practicable, to make an earnest effort to organize the Epworth League within his charge. His ordination vows made it obligatory for him to do so." In a great many places, perhaps, the conditions have been impracticable; in such cases, the only thing to be done is to try to prepare the way for it. But in no case need the pastor expect the young people of his charge to organize for Christian work without his co-operation and encouragement; nor need he expect the League, after he has organized it, to prosper without his continued attention to its interests. It is his duty to keep the League within the limits that have been placed about it, to give constantly needed suggestions as to plans for effective work, and to encourage the religious enthusiasm of the individual members. There is an address to the pastor accompanying the Constitution, from the General Sunday-school Committee, which it would be well for every pastor to read, and of which I will here quote an extract:

"Dear Brother: You observe that the Constitution of the Epworth League gives you general supervision of all its affairs. Its success, therefore, will depend materially upon the manner in which you exercise this supervision. If you show no special interest in it, your young people will likely look upon it with indifference, and you will have no organization in your congregation; or if a League should be organized, it will languish and die. On the contrary, if you indorse it, and encourage your young people to organize and enter heartily into the work, it will flourish and become a mighty agency for good."

(2) What is the duty of the Epworth League to the pastor?

When the pastor has performed his part, then the obligation of the League to pastor begins. When the pastor expresses an earnest desire to organize the young people for systematic Christian service, they ought at once to rally about him. I am of the opinion that timidity and unwillingness, on the part of the young people, to co-operate with the pastor, will, to a very large degree, account for the scarcity of Leagues among us. After the League is organized, it should not expect the pastor to do everything; for, in that case, the chief end of the League, which is to enlist the working powers of the young, would be defeated, and, besides, the pastor does not have the time and strength to spare from his other arduous duties. How can I help the pastor? That ought to be one of the questions that the Leaguer should ask himself.

The Epworth League may, if it is willing, be of untold value to the pastor. If its chief purpose—viz., the quickening of the spiritual life of its members—be kept steadily in view, and not sacrificed in the interest of social and other subordinate interests, it will certainly infuse spiritual life into the entire church membership, and nothing could encourage the pastor more than this. Through the work of the various committees, the work of pastoral visitation may be, is greatly supplemented; the Sunday-school roll may be lengthened, the collections may be augmented, the number of church periodicals taken may be increased—all this, and much more, if the League remembers its obligation to the church, and the pastor, as the representative of its interests.

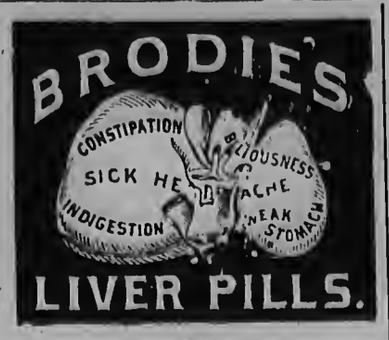
There is mutual helpfulness, then, between the pastor and the League.

***

There is much encouragement in the fact that in nearly every charge in which the League has been fairly tried, it has worked wonders. . . With scarcely an exception the League has given an impetus to church work in general, and to that in behalf of the young in particular.—Bishop Fitzgerald, in St. Louis Advocate.

***

Up to Sept. 11 there have been reported to the Epworth League office in Nashville twenty-two Leagues organized in the State of Louisiana, and forty-one in the State of Mississippi. How many of these are now in active operation?



FOR

Biliousness, Dyspepsia,

SICK HEADACHE, WEAK STOMACH,

—AND ALL—

Disorders of the Liver.

TESTIMONY.

I have used Brodie's Pills for many years in my family, and have found them invaluable in all cases, and, as a Liver Pill, do not think they have an equal. GEO. H. WILEY.

Sold By All Druggists.

Price, 25c. a Box.

I. L. LYONS & CO., Prop's,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

WESLEYAN FEMALE COLLEGE, MACON, GA.

Annual Session begins September 20th, 1893. Best advantages in Literature, Music and Art. For safety, health and domestic comfort, there is no better home for girls. Apply for Catalogue to

REV. W. C. BASS, PRES.

INTERNATIONAL BIBLES.

Largest Type Teacher's Bible in the World.

We have for years been trying to get a large type Teacher's Bible which was not too large and heavy. We have it in this series. Besides this feature, the helps are entirely new, and were written by the greatest scholars of both America and Europe, which guarantees their superiority over all others. Everyone who is familiar with the Oxford and Bagster Teacher's Bibles knows that the book printed in Minion type makes the most desirable sized volume, but the Minion type is too small for any but the best eyes; and while their books in Bourgeois type suit the eyes, they are entirely too large and heavy for convenient handling. This International Series overcomes both these faults by having the Bourgeois type book no larger or heavier than the much smaller type (Minion) Oxford and Bagster books, while the prices are much less than for books of corresponding type in any other series, and the bindings are not only similar in design, but equal in every particular to the older Teacher's Bibles; and some of these bindings are finer than those of any other Teacher's Bibles we have ever seen.

We are specially glad to be able to say that the prices of these Bibles are in many cases much cheaper than the Oxford or Bagster Books, while they are altogether equally well made and have the newest and best helps and Maps. We claim for these new Teacher's Bibles that they give

The Largest Type in the Smallest Book.
The Newest and Best Helps.
The Newest Maps, Which Were Made Especially for This Series.
Bindings Unsurpassed.
Smaller Prices Than Any Other Series.

We confidently assure our patrons that in the INTERNATIONAL TEACHER'S BIBLE SERIES we have the very BEST line of Teacher's Bibles ever offered.

Write us for a Descriptive Catalogue showing size of type, size of books, etc.

Address

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
9 Charles St., - New Orleans, La.

WIDOW HOOD'S LODGING HOUSE,

No. 19 ST. CHARLES ST.

I wish to announce to the public that I have renovated and refitted my house, and solicit the patronage of the traveling public. Open all night. Beds can be had for 25 and 50 cents. I especially solicit the patronage of Christian people visiting the city.

WIDOW A. A. HOOD.

Do You Crochet ?

or knit, or do fancy work of any sort? If so you can fully appreciate the merits of Glasgo Twilled Lace Thread.

It has a twilly texture peculiar to itself that in parts the richest appearance and effect to lace and all other fancy work. It is more economical and far superior to linen thread in every way and for every purpose. It is also equal to the very best threads made in the country for all sewing purposes, whether by hand or machine. One spool will convince you. Ask your dealer for it, or send 10 cents for sample spool, 500 yards.

12 Illus. tidy patterns, 12 Illus. bed spread patterns, 5 cents each, by mail. Illus. Crochet Books, 1, 2, 3, 10 cents each.

GLASGO LACE THREAD CO., Glasgo, Conn.

Queen & Crescent Route

"Finest Trains in the South."

Through Cars to Chicago without change, from New Orleans, Meridian, Birmingham, Chattanooga, Jacksonville, Fla., Atlanta, Macon, Lexington and Georgetown, Ky. Choice of routes via Cincinnati or via Louisville. Stop-overs allowed on all World's Fair tickets, at Chattanooga, Louisville, Indianapolis or Cincinnati.

For further information as to Rates, Car Service, Sleeping Car Reservations, etc., call on or address any agent of the Queen & Crescent Route or E. T. V. & G. Ry.

W. C. RINEARSON, G. P. A., Cincinnati, O.

THROUGH CARS TO CHICAGO.

Classical and Commercial Institute,

7 PRYTANIA STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Regular session begins Sept. 4th. Students admitted at any time. Full Classical and Literary Courses. Commercial Sciences taught practically. Normal Penmanship. Shorthand and Type-writing, standard systems. Day and night classes. Ladies admitted to Commercial Department. Boarding Department under supervision of Principal. Write for circular.

Endorsed by the editor of the ADVOCATE and W. H. LaPrade, D. D., pastor of Carondelet Street Church.

H. S. CHENET, A. M., Principal.
G. W. HARMAN, Prin. Com. Dep't. LYMAN C. REED, A. M., Assistant.

Spencerian Penmanship

With BOOK-KEEPING, COMMERCIAL LAW, SHORTHAND and TYPE-WRITING Thoroughly Taught in the

Commercial Department, Classical and Commercial Institute, 7 PRYTANIA ST., NEW ORLEANS.

G. W. HARMAN, Principal.

Entire expenses for three months: Course, $90, including board, tuition, etc.

Ladies received in this department.

WESLEYAN FEMALE INSTITUTE Opens Sept. 6th, 1893.

STAUNTON, VIRGINIA. Climate and surroundings exceptional. Handsome buildings, now being remodeled, thoroughly renovated, repainted inside and outside, and refurnished with new pianos, carpets, &c. Steam heat, gas light, bath rooms on every floor. New Laboratory thoroughly equipped. Excellent Faculty of Experienced Teachers. Advanced courses in English, Latin, German, French, &c. Special advantages in Art. Conservatory Course in Music. One hundred and forty-one boarding pupils from eighteen States. Terms moderate. For Catalogues of this celebrated old Virginia school, address

W. W. ROBERTSON, President, Staunton, Virginia.

LOOK!

WILKINSON'S

Matchless Sulphuric Acid and Iron Tonic

WELL WATER.

The Most Wonderful Tonic in America.

Please Read Carefully What the Chemist of New Orleans and Board of Health Says It Contains.

BOARD OF HEALTH, STATE OF LOUISIANA, New Orleans, Aug. 9, 1893.

Mr. W. W. WILKINSON—

Dear Sir: Below please find the results of analysis of the sample of water marked "Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Water," submitted to me for examination, accompanied by the following affidavit:

The State of Alabama—Butler County.

Before me, F. M. Black, a Notary Public in and for said County and State, personally appeared J. F. Bergamer, Sheriff of Butler County, who being duly sworn on oath, saith that he went to the well of Mr. W. W. Wilkinson on this day and seen the Matchless Mineral Water drawn from the well and put in a five gallon demijohn and labeled to A. L. Metz, M. D., Chemist of Board of Health, No. 63 Carondelet Street, New Orleans, La.

(Signed) J. F. BERGAMER, Sheriff Butler County.

Sworn to and subscribed before me, July 28th, 1893.

(Signed) F. M. BLACK, Notary Public.

Color	Yellowish red and clear
Odor	(when heated to 140° F.) Terebinthinous
Taste	Very Astringent
Phosphates	Heavy Traces
Chlorine as Chlorides	3.162 grains

Per U. S. gallon of 231 cub. inches

Equivalent to Sodium Chloride	5.083 grains
Sulphuric Acid	735.108
Iron (Ferric) Oxide	324.480
Iron (Ferrous) Oxide	101.592
Aluminum Oxide	7.891
Calcium Oxide (Lime)	80.476
Magnesia	26.872
Potash	2.522
Soda	6.045
Silica	6.049

These constituents are probably combined as follows:

	Grains per U. S. gallon of 231 cub. inches
Iron (Ferric) Sulphate	836.200
Iron (Ferrous) Sulphate	218.775
Aluminum and Potassic Sulphate (Alum)	29.900
Calcium (Lime) Sulphate	74.013
Magnesium Sulphate	80.616
Sodium Sulphate	7.725
Sodium Phosphate	Heavy Traces
Sodium Chloride	5.083
Silica	6.049

The residue, after evaporation, crystallized, and the total weight, including water of crystallization, at 212° F., was 1.564 grains per gallon.

A. L. METZ, M. D.,
Chemist of the Board of Health of the State of Louisiana and of the City of New Orleans.

Cures Dyspepsia in its worst form, Chronic Diarrhœa, Diabetes, Sick or Nervous Headache, Piles, Sores, Bilious Colic, Tetter, Ring Worm, Chronic Sores, Ulceration of the Womb, Throat, Catarrh, Debility. Best Natural Tonic in the World.

As a Tonic and Alterative.—A teaspoonful to a tablespoonful in one-half glass of water three times a day, directly after eating; but stomach is sonred, take before eating.

As a Cathartic.—Three to five tablespoonsful in same amount of water.

For External Application.—Use as a wash without diluting (warm if possible).

For Injection.—If water is too strong, slightly dilute and use twice a day.

For Cholera Morbus and Cramp Colic.—Two tablespoonsful every hour or two until relieved (in a little water).

For Fistula.—Warm and wash with one-half water. Harness bruises, old sores or fresh cuts, same.

For Colic in Horses.—Pint. If not relieved in five minutes, repeat second dose. Never fails.

Will keep full strength for any length of time in any climate. Never dilute except as used.

Best Natural Iron Tonic in the World.

Cures Diseases of the Stomach and Purifies the Blood.

1. W. D. Rogers says: "Your Mineral Water has cured me of dyspepsia, and my wife of womb disease, when all else failed."

2. John H. McCullough says: "This water cured me of dyspepsia after suffering four years and trying medicine, doctors, etc."

3. W. D. Newman says: "I was afflicted for twelve years with teiter. Matchless Mineral Water cured me when all doctors and treatment failed."

4. Rev. Chas. R. Lamar was cured of dyspepsia of more than two years' standing by use of two gallons of Matchless Mineral Water.

5. J. H. Gilbert says: "Matchless Mineral Water is, beyond doubt, the best remedy known to me for sore eyes."

6. Jesse B. Bassor says: "I have suffered long from chronic ulcerated sore leg. Offered $100 to doctors to cure. This water cured me."

7. Rev. J. M. Whitehead: "It cures every species of indigestion; can eat anything I want, and a good appetizer."

8. James J. Ingle says: "I have suffered five years with kidneys and liver. Have used one bottle. Most wonderful medicine I ever used."

9. J. G. Lightfoot says: "My son down five years. General debility and impure blood. Doctors failed. Two bottles Mineral Water cured him."

10. John Brannan says: "I was down three years with bilious colic. Spent $150 for medical treatment; grew worse; one and a half gallons. This water cured me."

11. Martin Eady says: "My eye was about out from gun cap in it. The two bottles of Mineral Water made a complete cure of my eyes."

12. George Green says: "I have been suffering fifteen or twenty years with chronic diarrhœa. The Matchless Mineral Water cured me."

13. W. J. Gardner says: "For seven or eight years I was victim of nervous dyspepsia and all its horrors. One quart Mineral Water cured me. Spent thousands of dollars for medical treatment. Would not go back for $10,000."

14. J. B. Brown says: "My only child, three years old, sick two years. Spent much for medical treatment. Child given up to die. Mineral Water cured him. I would not take $1,000 for benefits of that bottle of Mineral Water."

15. Mr. J. A. Davis, Bonham, Texas, says: "My horse was as sick with colic as any horse I ever saw. One pint of water cured him in five minutes."

Price: Per bottle, 25c, 50c, and $1.

Address C. M. FUSH,

106 Camp Street,

NEW ORLEANS, - - - LA.

Send stamp for circular.

The Change from Girlhood to Womanhood—is fraught with dangers. At this period the young woman is especially sensitive, and many nervous troubles, which continue through life, have their origin at this time. If there be pain, headache, and nervous disturbances, or the general health not good, the judicious use of medicine should be employed. Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best tonic and nervine at this time. The best bodily condition results from its use. It's a remedy specially indicated for those delicate weaknesses and derangements that afflict women-kind at one period or another.

For all women, at all times of life, in all cases of peculiar nature, the "Prescription" is the safe agent that builds up, strengthens, and cures.

In catarrhal inflammation, in chronic disorders and displacements common to women, it is guaranteed to benefit or cure, or the money is refunded.

Dr. Sage's Remedy positively cures Catarrh.

Have patience. Alice I will drive that Malaria from your body and get you well

I have got that Wilkinson's Matchless Mineral Sulphuric Acid and Iron Well Water. I will send and get a circular and let you read all about it.

PRICE: 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per Bottle.

Chas. M. Fush, 106 Camp St., New Orleans.

HENRY P. DART,

Attorney-at-Law,

49 CAMP STREET,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

—A—

Washington and Lee College

SCHOLARSHIP

FOR SALE CHEAP.

Apply at

Werlein's Music Store,

125 Canal Street.

CARPETS!

Don't have your carpets half cleaned; all know how impossible it is to clean carpets by hand.

All dust thoroughly taken out by steam.

Feathers purged of all impurities.

44 St. Peter Street.

NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

Founded by Dr. Eben Tourjee. CARL FAELTEN, Director.

The Leading Conservatory of America.

In addition to its unequalled musical advantages, exceptional opportunities are also provided for the study of Elocution, the Fine Arts, and Modern Languages. The admirably equipped Home affords a safe and loviting residence for lady students. Calendar Free.

FRANK W. HALE, General Manager, Franklin Square, Boston, Mass.

Huntsville Female -:- College.

HUNTSVILLE, ALABAMA.

Forty-fourth Session begins Wednesday, September 6, 1893. Healthy, well-furnished; twenty Officers and Teachers. All departments of Female Education thoroughly taught; Music, Art, Languages, Sciences, Literature and Commercial Course. A Christian home for pupils. Charges reasonable. For Catalogues, etc., apply to

Rev. A. B. JONES, President.

Mississippi

Industrial Institute and College.

BUREAU OF EDUCATION.

Persons desiring to employ competent teachers, or young women qualified to do good work as dress makers, telegraphers, type writers and book keepers, are invited to correspond with this Bureau. No charge for services.

Apply to MISS S. C. McLAURIN, I. I. and C., Columbus, Miss.

HOPKINS'

PRINTING OFFICE,

20 Commercial Place,

John P. Hopkins. New Orleans

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

HOME CIRCLE.

ALONE WITH GOD.

Into my closet fleeing as the dove
Doth homeward flee,
I haste away to ponder o'er thy love.
Alone with thee.

In the dim wood; by human ear unheard,
Joyous and free,
Lord, I adore thee, feasting on thy Word.
Alone with thee.

Amid the busy city, thronged and gay,
But one I see,
Tasting sweet peace, as unobserved I pray
Alone with thee.

O happy life! Life hid with Christ in God!
So making me,
At home, and by the wayside, and abroad,
Alone with thee.

—Presbyterian.

Uncle Dan's Prayer.

BY ANNA TEMPLE.

Aunt Hester was all worked up, and she gave us a piece of her mind on the subject as we walked home from church together. The cause of her indignation was, that our church had just resolved to send out a missionary of its own, and our pastor had preached an earnest sermon on the words: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."

"Stuff and nonsense, all this talk about foreign missions;" said Aunt Hester. "India belongs to England—why are we sending men out there? Let England take care of her own cannibals. Our money was made in America, and it ought to be spent in America."

"Better take off that India shawl of yours, Hester," Uncle Dan remarked, glancing at his wife. "You know Brother Joe bought it with the money he made at the Chester factory. And whose money bought that silk dress of yours? It seems to me I have often heard that boasted about as having been made at Redfern's—'Tailors to Her Majesty.'"

"What has that to do with the subject of missions? Every woman who goes abroad gets her dresses made either in London or Paris—that is taken for granted. But to come back to what we were talking about. I think that the poor home missionaries are the ones to help. Look at them toiling away in that Western land of ours; and read the pitiful accounts of which the Home Mission Monthly is full. America is a large enough field for work."

"'The field is the world,'" said Uncle Dan, slowly.

"I know it is," replied Aunt Hester, with an impatient gesture. "But what I mean is this: let England take care of her part of the world, and America of her part. Here we are snpporting a boy in a school in Venice—an institution started by an English lady. Then, too, we are sending out money to China, and a missionary to India; and all the while enough immigrants are ponring into our own land to keep us all busy trying to convert them. Why, Dan, yon can't deny that we need a host more workers, now, in onr own land."

"I can't deny either that our Lord said—and it seems to me he ought to have known—'Go ye into all the world.' I fancy that command was laid upon Americans as well as any other nation, and it does not leave out onr country, you see; it takes in all the world at once."

"You may say what yon will, bnt home missions is my cry; and sure as I am an American, it always will be."

"I am glad our Lord did not think as you do," said Uncle Dan. "You and I would have been 'without hope in the world' if he had not started foreign missions."

"Dan Merrill, you are irreverent!"

Uncle Dan laughed.

"Well, Hester," he said, "yon talk so much about home missions, what do you do for them?"

Aunt Hester did not answer, and the subject was dropped. I was of my aunt's opinion, but not wishing to prolong the argument I did not say anything.

That evening, as we met at family prayers, Uncle Dan astonished us. He read, as was his custom on Sunday nights, the chapter from which the morning text had been taken. When he had closed the Bible we rose as usual, preparatory to kneeling for the prayer. But he stopped our doing so.

"Please keep your seats," he said; "I have a suggestion to make," and he took from the table by his side a sheet of paper. He unfolded it very slowly, and a curious expression passed across his face as he looked at us over his spectacles.

"I want to ask," he said, "whether it would not be better—if we are only going to work for home missions—to offer snch a prayer as this? It seems to me it would be a little more consistent than the prayers we are wont to offer."

And he read the following petition:

"Dear Lord, thou wilt certainly excuse us Americans from obeying thy command to 'go into all the world.' So many are coming to us from 'all the world' that we find that home missions demand all of our attention. We pray thee to bless our American money which is used for American work; and incline more American hearts to do more American work; and grant that the coming of the day may be hastened in America, and that thy glory may be seen throughout these United States."

Then, as usual, he ended this petition with the Lord's Prayer; but in the first part of it he had inserted some words of his own which shocked us all, and made us look at each other in amazement. "'Our Father,'" he read, "'which art in—the heaven over America—hallowed be thy name—by Americans. Thy kingdom come—in America—; thy will be done—in America—as it is done in heaven.'"

"Daniel Merrill," cried Annt Hester, jumping up from her chair in her excitement, "you surely can't be in earnest! What a dreadful prayer! Why, it's—it's the most irreverent thing I ever heard; it's—it's wicked."

Uncle Dan looked at her in a certain quiet way of his.

"I do not see anything wrong in that prayer, Hester," he said. "You pray it in your heart all the time. If we are to confine our work strictly to this country, why not our prayers? For, you know, work without prayer is nseless, and prayer without work does not mean anything. If my work says only, 'Thy kingdom in America,' why should not my lips say it also?"

Uncle Dan's words set me to thinking; there seemed some sense in them.

More Nice Than Wise.

I never knew a good horse that had not some odd habit or other, and I never saw a minister worth his salt who had not some crotchet, oddity. Now, these are bits of cheese that cavilers smell out and nibble at; the first is too flowery and the second is too dull. Dear me, if all God's creatures were judged in this way, we should ring the dove's neck for being too tame, and shoot the robin for eating spiders, kill the cows for swinging their tails, and the hens for not giving milk. When a man wants to beat a dog he can soon find a stick, and at this rate, any fool may have something to say against the best minister in England.—C. H. Spurgeon.

Almost Everybody now knows that

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder

Is the Quickest, Purest and Best of all the Baking Powders, and everybody should know that 99% of the Baking Powders contain Ammonia, Alum, Lime or other hurtful ingredients.

What a revelation to the good housewife when she uses her first can of DR. PRICE'S and beholds the beautiful work it does, so immeasurably superior to that of any other.

OUR YOUNG PEOPLE.

A DILLAR! A DOLLAR! A TEN O'CLOCK SCHOLAR.

BY CLARA C. FANT.

A dillar! a dollar! a ten o'clock scholar,
What makes her wear such a frown?
Her lessons were heard, and she missed every word,
And the children all turned her down.

Mama called her early, bnt this little girlie
"Hadn't slept enough," she said,
So she lolled about, and at last got ont
Right on the wrong side of the bed.

She dressed so slow, and dilly-dallied so
She didn't get to breakfast till late,
Then everything was cold, and how she did scold,
And fretted all the time she ate!

When she took her books, all her pretty looks
Where spoiled by an ogly pout.
She dawdled on the way, missed her lessons today,
And that's what she is so cross about.

A dillar! a dollar! an eight o'clock scholar!
What makes her such a happy lass?
Her lessons are heard and she knew every word
And stands at the head of her class.

Mama called her early, and this little girlie
Would be up in a minute she said;
Turned once about, and then got right ont
Just on the right side of the bed.

She dressed right away, and without any delay
She sat down to study her books,
Till, the breakfast bell ringing, she ran down singing,
With the sweetest of smiles and of looks

Kissed her mama good-bye, and promised to try
To do her very best all day,
And because she was good, just as good as she could,
She has been so happy and gay.

A dillar! a dollar! I hope every scholar
Will perceive a lesson in this rhyme,
To do every minute the duty that's in it,
And so, keep happy and gay all the time.

—Christian Observer.

Holly Springs, Miss.

Candy-Making and Candy-Eating.

"I am told," said a cynical gentleman, "that confectionery is made, put up and handled entirely by girls and women, but I do not believe it. From what I know of women, I infer that if the preparation of confectionery were completely in their hands, none of it would ever reach the public. It would all be eaten up." This cynical person, like most cynics in their judgments, ignored an important characteristic of human nature. It is this, that liberty is often one of the best means of regulation.

In most establishments where confectionery is manufactnred, the female employees, when they begin their service, are told to eat as much candy as they like. Their employers even show a solicitons interest that they shall consume as mnch as possible.

"You are doing very well," said a superintendent in a candy-making shop to a girl who had been in his employ for a day or two, "except in one respect—you don't eat candy enough. Unless you can eat more we shall have no confidence in yon."

Thus encouraged, the girl ate a great quantity of varions sorts of confectionery the next day—and never wished to eat any more as long as she lived.

This is the secret of the free permission. A new employee, set down in the presence of so much sweetness, and free to help herself, consumes too much for her palate and digestion; disgust follows satiety, and from that time forward the candy-maker is content to let her confections pass through her hands without tasting them.

In Russia, where repression rather than freedom is the order of the day, a different practice, and apparently a cruel one, prevails in the confectionery establishments. The girls employed there are never permitted to taste the candies; and in order that they shall not do so secretly, a sort of moral muzzle is put on them.

They are made to sing incessantly, when at work, a song especially composed for the purpose. Any young woman who interrupts her singing for an instant is at once under suspicion, and is watched.

Of course, the employees, in such circumstances, are continually tempted to eat the candy, and their torture is made the more like that of Tantalus by the words of their song itself, which are in praise of the sweetness and deliciousness of the candy they are handling.

They learn to sing on ceaselessly and indifferently, but it is said by those who have been mnch in these Russian candy shops that the girls' utterance occasionally becomes singularly thick.—Youth's Companion.

"Ma," said a discouraged urchin, "I ain't going to school any more." "Why, dear?" tenderly inquired his mother. "Cause 'tain't any use. I can never learn to spell. The teacher keeps changing the words every day."

How the Apostles Died.

From the history and tradition we learn that all the apostles, excepting Saint John, died unnatural and cruel deaths, as follows:

1. Peter was crucified in Rome, with his head down, on a cross similar to that used in the execution of Jesus.

2. Andrew was bound to a cross and left to die from exhaustion.

3. Saint James the Great was beheaded by order of Herod of Jerusalem.

4. Saint James the Less was thrown from a high pinnacle, then stoned, and finally killed with a fuller's club.

5. Saint Philip was bound and hanged against a pillar.

6. Saint Bartholomew was flayed to death by command of a barbarous king.

7. Saint Matthew was killed with a halberd.

8. Saint Thomas was shot by a shower of arrows while at prayer, and afterwards run through the body by a lance.

9. Saint Simon was crncified after the manner of Jesus.

10. Saint Mark was dragged through the streets of Alexandria nntil he expired.

11. Saint Luke was hanged on an olive tree in Greece.

12. Saint John died a natural death.

13. Paul was beheaded by command of Nero.

14 Judas hanged himself and "fell and his bowels gushed."

15. Saint Barnabas was stoned to death by Jews.

Prompt People.

Don't live a single hour of your life without doing exactly what is to be done in it, and going straight through it, from beginning to end. Work, play, study, whatever it is, take hold at once and finish it up squarely; then to the next thing, without letting any moments drop between.

It is wonderful to see how many hours these prompt people contrive to make of a day; it is as if they picked up the moments the dawdlers lost. And if ever you find yourself where you have so many things pressing upon you that you hardly know how to begin, let me tell you a secret: Take hold of the very one that comes to hand, and you will find the rest will all fall into file, and follow after like a company of well-drilled soldiers; and though work may be hard to meet when it charges in a squad, it is easily vanquished if you can bring it into line.

You may have often seen the anecdote of the man who was asked how he had accomplished so much in his life. "My father taught me," was the reply, "when I had anything to do, to go and do it." There is the secret—the magic word, now!—The Lutheran.

What If You Are Little?

Little people and little things have often been used to do great good. This big world is made up of little grains of sand; the great sea is composed of small drops of water; the little bee, which you, no doubt, have watched humming about the flowers in your garden, little by little gathers much honey.

So do not be discouraged, children, because you are little, nor talk only of doing this or that when you are big. A little star shines brightly away up in the sky on a dark night, and yet it may be the means of saving many seamen from shipwreck; and little Christians may do a great deal of good in the world if they try.

Baxter became a Christian when a mere child; Polycarp was converted at nine, Matthew Henry at eleven, Robert Hall at twelve, Spurgeon joined the church at fifteen, was preaching at seventeen, and he testified that of the multitude of children he had received into the church none had become backsliders.—Christian Observer.

In South America, a boy who wants to own a pet animal, gets a monkey instead of a dog. Sometimes he can buy a monkey already trained, and if he can do so he is a very happy boy, because wild monkeys are ugly little fellows, and it takes a long time to teach them how to live with civilized people. A South American boy has to pet a monkey, because there are not enough dogs in South America. But with the South American boy a nice, tame monkey, with soft fur hair and snapping black eyes, is very highly prized, and he becomes attached to it, just as an American boy becomes attached to his Collie or his Newfoundland; so he does not feel the need of a good dog.—New York Ledger.

"Honesty is the best policy." Nobody contradicts it. Your dealer can get lamp chimneys that almost never break from heat, or those that break continually. Which does he get? Which do you get?

Macbeth's "pearl top" and "pearl glass" are tough against heat; not one in a hundred breaks in use. The glass is clear as well as tough. They are accurate, uniform.

Be willing to pay more for chimneys that last till they rot, unless some accident happens to them.

Pittsburgh. GEO. A. MACBETH CO.

MILLIONS In it. Vacuum Leather Oil for 25c. and your money back if you want it.

Patent lambskin-with-wool on swob and book—How to Take Care of Leather—both free at the store.

Vacuum Oil Company, Rochester, N. Y.

LOOK OUT

"In peace prepare for war, in health for sickness." This old adage is always wise and timely, especially so just now. Summer is on, with its debilitating influences. Nerves are flagging, appetites failing, energy and strength yielding, even now. Shortly will come decay of vegetation, when malaria will "ride on every passing breeze" and count its victims in every home. Now is the time. Repair the wastes. Restore the vitality. Fortify the system. Ward off the perilous attacks of malaria and pass safely and happily through. You can do this by using DR. KING'S

ROYAL

GERMETUER.

It is the best preventive, the best restorative, the most unfailing cure. Pleasant to take as lemonade, and harmless, unique, matchless, perfect. "The ultima thule of medicines." Try it now. For sale by druggists.

Rev. J. B. Irwin, D. D., the popular pastor of the Tulip Street Methodist Church, Nashville, Tenn., says: "Having tested the Germetuer for more than a year by repeated use, I take pleasure in saying I have found it a prompt relief and cure for dyspepsia and nervous debility. I keep it on hand and would not be without it. Besides being a valuable remedy, it is a pleasant and refreshing drink."

$1 A BOTTLE, SIX FOR $5.

Germetuer Pills are the best. Fifty in a bottle, 25c.

Any Time is the right time for everybody to drink

Hires' Root Beer

A temperance drink.
A home-made drink.
A health-giving drink.
A thirst-quenching drink.
A drink that is popular everywhere
Delicious, Sparkling, Effervescent.

A 25 cent package makes 5 gallons of this delicious beverage. Don't be deceived into a dealer's for the sake of larger profit, tells you some other kind is "just as good"—'tis false. No imitation is as good as the genuine HIRES'.

ATHENS, GA.

I can say from experience that it is the best water I ever knew. It is my life and health. I have received more permanent benefit from it as a dyspeptic than all the other remedies I have used. I would suggest that you get druggists all over the land to keep it and then boom it in the papers. It is good for piles, skin disease, dyspepsia, etc. My general health never was better, and the Matchless Mineral Water is the reason cause of it. I have preached sixteen times it the last ten days, and feel no inconvenience from it. I am always glad to hear from you.

Very truly and sincerely,

S. P. RICHARDSON,

Presiding Elder

—FOR SALE BY—

Chas. M. Fush, 106 Camp St., New Orleans

AGENTS WANTED ON SALARY or commission, to handle the new Patent Chemical Ink Erasing Pencil. The quickest and greatest selling novelty ever produced. Erases ink thoroughly in two seconds. No abrasion of paper. Works like magic. 200 to 500 per cent. profit. One Agent's sales amounted to $620 in six days. Another $93 in two hours. Previous experience not necessary. For terms and full particulars address, The Monroe Eraser Mf'g Co., La Crosse, Wis. X 875.

8% GUARANTEED by a leading Trust Company is offered at par. Suitable for large and small investments. Full information furnished by W. E. Lown Mills Building, New York.

Piso's Remedy for Catarrh is the Best, Easiest to Use, and Cheapest.

CATARRH

Sold by Druggists or sent by mail. 50c. E. T. Hazeltine, Warren Pa.

MARRIAGES.

FORD—KEPPNER.—At the Carondelet Street Church, Aug. 15, by Rev. J. M. Beard, Mr. Jno. R. Ford and Miss Mary Keppner.

MORRILL—JONES.—At the residence of the bride, 177 Lafayette street, Aug. 14, by Rev. J. M. Beard, Mr. J. L. Morrill and Miss Genevieve Jones.

HOFFMAN—CHAMBERLAIN.—At 112 Camp street, Sept. 13, by Rev. J. M. Beard, Mr. Albert M. Hoffman and Miss Laura Chamberlain.

THOMAS—HOWELL.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. B. W. Howell, near Gilbert, Franklin parish, La., by Rev. J. White Davis, Mr. Simeon N. Thomas and Miss Mary E. Howell.

GARRISON—RHODES.—At the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Moon, Lucille, Miss., Aug. 2, 1893, by Rev. B. F. Lewis, Prof. John Earl Garrison and Miss Callie Rhodes.

HARPER—CHRISTIAN.—At the home of the bride's father, Sept. 14, 1893, by Rev. J. F. Wynn, Miss May Christian to Mr. W. G. Harper, all of Rapides parish.

FLENIKEN—SMITH.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. B. E. Smith, Sept. 10, 1893, by Rev. H. J. Bolts, Mr. Joseph J. Flenniken to Miss Julia J. Smith, all of DeSoto parish, La.

MIDDLETON-VALENTINE.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. L. Valentine, near Stonewall, La., Sept. 6, 1893, by Rev. Lewis A. Reed, Thomas C. Middleton, Esq., and Miss Mattie Valentine.

FUTURE GLORY.

"Faith, Hope and Love were questioned what they thought
Of future glory, which religion taught:
Now Faith believed it firmly to be true,
And Hope expected so to find it too!
Love answered, smiling, with a conscious glow,
Believe? expect? I know it to be so."

—Selected.

OBITUARIES.

We publish obituaries of 200 words free of charge; for all over this, one cent per word must be sent. If you want the notice to appear in its order, comply with this rule. Count the words, and send one cent for each word over 200.

WARDEN—Mrs. OLIVA WARDEN (nee Huston), daughter of W. N. and M. S. Huston, was born in Tuscaloosa county, Ala., March 22, 1856. Her parents moved to Claiborne county, Miss., when she was an infant. She was raised in three miles of where she died. She joined the Methodist Church, South, under the ministry of Rev. V. D. Skipper, in 1886 or 87, at Sarepta, Claiborne county, Miss., and remained a member of the same to the day of her death. She was married to Mr. Charles Warden, by Rev. W. L. C. Hunnicutt, April 25, 1888. She lived at the old home for two years with her husband. They moved to Jackson, Miss., in 1890; remained there for one year and six months, after which her health became so bad she moved back to her mother's, where she fell on sleep, March 25, 1893. She had not made any profession of religion before she was taken sick; but for one year and a half before she died expressed herself as being satisfied that God, for Christ's sake, had forgiven her sins and received her into the family of the Lord. About one year before she died God, in mercy, pulled back the veil of the flesh and allowed her to behold the beauty of the home of the soul. She said to her sister, while eating breakfast the morning after the vision, "I am not going to live long, and the place that I saw is where I am going." One week before the summons came, "Come up higher," while her body was racked with pain, she was permitted to shout the praises of Him who had done so much for her. Holding to the hand of her brother-in-law, she said, "Henry, I am so happy." She had been talking for several days about moving. Her mind seemed to dwell upon the recent move she was to make, and her desire was to take the family with her. May the Lord grant that it may be an unbroken family!

The morning of her death the family stood round her in tears. She said to her sister: "Don't do that; it wearies me. I am going to rest. I wish I was there now." Just an hour or two before she died she said: "Mary, get Charlie, and let us go, for Martha is waiting." Just then her eldest brother came in, and said, "How are you, Olive?"—and, notwithstanding the fact that those ravenous cancers had devoured her body, she answered: "I am well. God has received my soul at last." Just then the Lord, in mercy, hushed the rumble of the flesh, and she caught the sound of the angelic voices as they sing his power to save in that noble, sweet sound, and she said, "It is so pretty." May God bless and keep her loved ones! D. F. GUICE, P. C.

PURCELL—C. W. PURCELL. As we write this name many in Pine Bluff, Ark., as well as at the home in Carroll county, Miss., are feeling the influence of sad bereavement. The subject of this notice was born Jan. 10, 1869, and died Aug. 26, 1893.

Thus has ended a young life, and in our tears we ask, Was that life a failure or a success? We are glad to say, A grand success. Our reasons are, when but a child he gave his life—soul and body—with all the service he could render, to God who gave it. This prepared him to be a blessing in the home. His father said, "He never gave us trouble." When he left that home he came to Pine Bluff, said by some to be a wicked city, where many young men, coming, too, from pious families, have been wrecked and gone to despair. But not so with Charley Purcell. He brought his church certificate, identified himself with the church, and until God called him home the Lakeside Methodist Church was blessed by his work and consistent life; and when we saw death claim him the church, the Sunday-school and the Epworth League felt his loss. But to him it is gain. He said to his father, "Tell mother, brothers and sisters I will see them no more upon earth, but to meet me in heaven." His memory is a blessing. J. F. CARR, Pastor.

Pine Bluff, Ark.

HARRELL—SCOTT LINARD, son of Frank and Annie A. Harrell, was born March 7, 1887, and died at his father's home in Rankin county, Miss., July 12, 1893.

Little Scott was the pride of his fond parents' hearts; he was loved by all his neighbors, and bid fair for a useful and happy life. But Jesus has called the precious little one home to himself. He took a delight in the Sunday-school; and how sweetly he recited his verse for Children's Day:

"So let me take my little heart,
All filled with God's own love,
And give it as God's dwelling-place,
Like to the heaven above."

He has gone to take a part in the Children's Day that shall never end. P. D. HARDIN.

STEVENS—J. C. STEVENS died at his home in Sabine parish, La., near Pleasant Hill, July 9, 1893. He was born Sept. 10, 1839, in Lawrence county, Miss., and when a small boy moved to Rankin county with his father, and remained with him until the Spring of 1860. He went to Simpson county, and lived with his uncle until the commencement of the war. He then volunteered and went off in the defense of his country. He served four years in the war, always at his post. He received one wound during his stay in the army. He came home at the close of the war, and on Nov. 8, 1866, he was married to Miss Mary A. Holladay. In 1872 he moved to Sabine parish, La., where he spent the remainder of his days.

Bro. Stevens was first a member of the Baptist Church; but in 1877 he attended a protracted meeting held by Rev. J. B. Cassity, P. C., near Pleasant Hill. He joined the Methodist Church, and in a short time had all his children, five in number, dedicated to God by baptism. On account of ill health he did not attend church often; but when he was present his prayers were fervent, his word tempered with the Holy Ghost.

The writer has been personally acquainted with Bro. Stevens for thirty years, and for the past fifteen years it was his delight to talk of duty and the comforting influence of the Holy Spirit. He made mistakes in life, but he was always willing to confess his faults to God and man. The writer was with him a few days before he died. He was in a condition that he could not talk to be understood, but gave signs that all was well. On Sunday morning, July 9, he passed away; died in triumph of a living faith, leaving a wife and seven children to mourn his loss. May the good Lord temper the wind to the shorn lambs, and lead them by the gentle cords of his love into the ways of duty and righteousness! Dear brother in Christ, brave soldier, loving father, affectionate husband, we will meet you in the kingdom above.

S. S. HOLLADAY.

DREWETT—Miss KATIE R. DREWETT was born Feb. 27, 1878, and died at the home of her parents, June 15, 1893. Sister Katie united with the M. E. Church when quite small. She leaves a kind, loving mother and father, with her brother and sisters, to mourn her death. Why should they weep for their loved one? Before she made her departure from this world, while on her death-bed, she sang hymns of praise and said that she was going to Jesus. I visited her during her sickness. She told me that she was all right, spiritually. She has now gone to occupy that place that Jesus went to prepare for her—that place where God and the holy angels dwell. Her chair around the fireside is now vacant. Her sparkling eyes and smiling face will never be seen in the home of her loved ones again.

How great the loss! How sad the separation! But—blessed thought!—this separation need not be forever. Her loved ones, through faith in the precious blood of the Lamb, can meet her again in that world where all tears shall be wiped away and separation known no more, in that world where we shall know as we are known. May God's richest blessings rest upon the bereaved loved ones!

W. D. GASKINS, P. C.

BLACK EDGE—JAMES W. BLACKLEDGE, son of Bro. J. Blackledge, was born May 29, 1890, and departed this life July 31, 1893.

The little boy for whom this sketch was written was the pride of the father and mother and kindred; they all loved James. How sad to think that he must be taken away so soon! But God took him, and he is a shining little saint with the angels in heaven. May this make heaven more bright and more desired by father and mother, because little James is there. God bless the father and mother of little James, and enable them to so live here in this life that when death comes they may meet little James in heaven! J. H. EVANS.

LAGRONE—Died, at Oak Ridge, La., Aug. 16, 1893, WILLIAM LAGRONE. The deceased was born in Newberry district, S. C., on Aug. 25, 1817. On Aug. 9, 1838, he married Miss Susan Callaway, who survives him. In September, 1844, he joined the M. E. Church, and was a faithful, consecrated Christian till his death. The deceased was for years superintendent of a Sunday-school and a leader in prayer meetings. He died at the home of his son, surrounded by wife and children. Just before his death he expressed a willingness to depart. A good man has gone home. C. E. MCDONALD.

An Only Daughter Cured of Consumption

When death was hourly expected from Consumption, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H James was experimenting, he accidentally made a preparation of Indian Hemp, which cured his only child, and now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. Hemp also cures night sweats, nausea at the stomach, and will break a fresh cold in twenty-four hours. Address Craddock & Co., 1032 Race street, Philadelphia, Pa., naming this paper.

SENSE AND SOUL.

To him whose ear is finely keyed
Fair mysteries reveal the reed;

To him whose scent hath subtle power
Sweet secrecies unfold the flower;

For him whose eye hath flaw nor fleck
The barest rock doth beauty deck;

For him whose taste hath eager edge
Rich fruitage doth the blossom pledge;

For him whose touch the keenest is
Are born the heart's deep ecstacies;

But whose soars o'er every sense,
His is life's rarest recompense.

—Congregationalist.

For over fifty years Dr. Davis' Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar has cured coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, throat and lung affections. It is the regular prescription of a physician of extensive practice, who, after prescribing it for twenty years, was induced by the gratifying results to make it a proprietary medicine. Davis' Wild Cherry and Tar soon became known as the best remedy for all throat and lung troubles. Why? Because it has merit and will cure. A. C. Hafflefinger, Philadelphia, says: "I know a man suffering with his lungs who was in the hospital a year without benefit. I induced him to take Davis' Wild Cherry and Tar, and to-day he is well. I know it saved his life." Try it.

Linnæus said of alcohol that "man sinks gradually by this fell poison; first he favors it, then he warms to it, then he burns for it, then he is consumed by it."

I want an active agent in every parish in the bounds of the Louisiana Conference to handle that wonderful new book by Bishop Fitzgerald, The Epworth League Book. Don't miss this opportunity of a lifetime. First come first served! Prospectus, 75 cents.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp St., - - - - - - - New Orleans.

Of 411 paupers in the Edinburgh poorhouse not one was an abstainer, and 407 admitted that their poverty was due entirely to intemperance.

Notice.

I have the best thing in the way of a Teacher's Bible for an agent to handle ever published. Write for full descriptive circulars at once.

F. D. VAN VALKENBURGH,
106 Camp St., - - - - - - - New Orleans.

No mineral water will produce the beneficial results that follow taking ONE or more of "BEECHAM'S PILLS" with a glass of water immediately upon arising in the morning.

Painless. Effectual. Covered with a tasteless, soluble coating.
"Worth a guinea a box."—Price only 25 cents.
Of all druggists, or a box will be mailed on receipt of 25cts. in stamps by B. F. Allen Co., 365 Canal St., New York. 27

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR
The Celebrated
CHOCOLAT MENIER
Annual Sales Exceed 33 MILLION Lbs.
Write for Samples. Sent Free. Menier, Union Sq., N. Y.

Marble, Slate and Hardwood Mantels.
TILES for Fire-places and Floors. GRATES of all kinds.
SLATE HEARTHS. BUILDING MATERIAL.
GEO. M. LEAHY,
No. 112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Designs and prices furnished on application.

Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company.
Losses Paid by Chicago Fire 1871 $3 239 091.
Losses Paid by Boston Fire, 1872, $1,429,729.
All Losses Paid in Cash without Discount, as Soon as Adjusted.
Losses and all matters of business settled by officers and directors in New Orleans without reference to any other office, the same as with local companies.
DIRECTORS IN NEW ORLEANS.
GUSTAF R. WESTFELDT, Chairman. L. C. FALLON, LUCAS E. MOORE, C. M. SORIA.
CLARENCE F. LOW, Ass't Resident Sec'y. H. V. OGDEN, Resident Secretary.

Home Insurance Co., of New Orleans
No. 78 CAMP STREET.
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1886, - - - - - $400,479.08
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1887, - - - - - $413,860.76
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1888, - - - - - $459,369.50
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1889, - - - - - $510,584.54
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1890, - - - - - $551,897.82
CASH ASSETS, December 31st, 1891, - - - - - $600,414.81
Steadily Increasing in Strength and Popularity.
Solicits Fire and River Business
Liberal Settlements and Prompt Payments.
Thos. Sefton, Pres't. Capt. J. B. Woods, Vice-Pres't. Jno. G. Byrd, Sec'y
J. E. WOODS, JNO. J. BARR, J. B. LEVERT, W. B. BLOOMFIELD
JOS. BAYLE, ANDREW STEWART, B. BORLAND, W. T. HARDIE,
JNO. BARKLEY. CHAS. CHAFFE. F. B. RICE. THOS. SEFTON.

W. B. LYMAN, President. JOSEPH BOWLING, Vice-President. JOHN E. WHITING, Secretary
Crescent Insurance Com'y
Incorporated as a Mutual Company in 1849.
Reorganized as a Stock Company in 1860.
Cash Capital, - - - - - - - $300,000.
Has paid over TEN AND ONE-HALF MILLIONS for losses since 1849. ANNUAL and TERM POLICIES Issued on Desirable Fire Business.
See our Agents throughout Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

Millsaps College,
Jackson, Miss.
The Second Session Begins Sept. 20th, 1893.
College Fees, Only $30 for the Entire Session.
Board in Students' Homes and in Private Families, $12 per month.
Provision has been made for the payment of the College Fees in the case of young preachers and the sons of preachers.
For Catalogue and other information address
W. B. MURRAH, PRESIDENT.

MALONE COLLEGE
For Young Ladies.
HOLLY SPRINGS, MISSISSIPPI.
The Third Annual Session will begin Monday, Sept. 20, 1893.
Location, highest point in the State. Elevation, 613 feet.
Health unsurpassed in the Southwest.
Course thorough and comprehensive.
Each department under the charge of specialists.
Special advantages offered in music, art and elocution.
A HOME SCHOOL for pupils under Christian influences.
Terms moderate. For catalogues or further particulars address
Rev. J. W. HONNOLL, President.

—THE—
Great Southern Music House of
Philip Werlein
Is Prepared to Suit All Comers.
Elegant and Durable Pianos from $250 up.
Good Second-hand and Slightly Used Pianos from $50 up.
Send for Catalogues and Prices.
135 Canal St., New Orleans.

Standard Guano and Chemical Man'f'g Co.,
SUCCESSORS TO
STERN'S
Fert. and Chem.
Manufacturing Com'y
14 UNION STREET,
New Orleans, La.
Write for Agricultural Hand-Book.

MANUFACTURERS OF
HIGH GRADE
Bone Fertilizers,
PURE
GROUND BONE
ACID PHOSPHATE,
KAINIT,
Etc.
Buyers of Cotton Seed.

ROSE TOBACCO CURE
In all its Forms. For proof write the ROSE DRUG CO., Birmingham, Ala.
A quick, cheap, pleasant and absolute cure for the Tobacco Habit

FURNITURE!
Largest Stock,
Lowest Prices,
Greatest Variety,
Most Reliable Goods.
J. G. Grant. 28 & 30 Camp St., New Orleans, La.
Write for Illustrated Catalogue.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

Two new cases of yellow fever and one death were reported in Brunswick, Ga., on Sept. 24.

A Wabash passenger train rushed into an open switch and was crushed to pieces in collision with a freight train near Kingsbury, Ind., on Sept. 22. Eleven persons were killed, and many injured.

Brooklyn streets were the scene, on Sept. 24, of a bloody riot that lasted nearly three-quarters of an hour, in which 130 Italian laborers, 79 Irish laborers and 80 policemen participated. Many of the fighters were badly injured.

The Rev. Bernard Enis, a Catholic priest of Minneapolis, has recovered $417 from a Chicago local express company for the loss of his valise. The valise contained forty type-written sermons of his own composition and some note books.

It is claimed that the distinction of turning out of a single circular-saw mill the greatest amount of lumber in eleven hours' time is credited to M. T. Jones & Co., of Lake Charles, La., who recently cut 191,323 feet of lumber during that time.

A correspondent of the New York Tribune suggests a colossal World's Fair in New York to celebrate the advent of the twentieth century. He thinks that if the United States does not take up the project, some of the great nations of Europe will, or, perhaps, Brazil.

A Q. and C. passenger train was derailed at Argo, Ala., on Sept. 22, and the engine leaped down an embankment, followed by the postal and baggage cars, which were crushed to pieces. The engineer, fireman, postal clerk and porter were injured. The passenger cars, containing 200 people, remained on the rails, and none were hurt.

Coffee merchants are alarmed lest the Brazilian revolution will seriously interfere with the coffee export and injure their business. They have communicated their fears to the officials in Washington, and Secretary Herbert has replied to them that he believes the Charleston will be able to fully protect American interests in Rio de Janeiro.

The silver men in the Senate are more determined than ever in their fight against the unconditional repeal of the silver purchasing clause. They are defiant and confident. Their purpose is to force a compromise, and they also hope for such improved financial conditions as will weaken the demand for repeal. Hence their struggle for delay.

FOREIGN.

The affairs at Rio de Janeiro remain unchanged; the rebel fleet still threatens bombardment, and negotiations are yet progressing.

Fragments of woodwork, coats and other wreckage have floated ashore in the Gulf of Finland, showing that the Russian warship Pousalka, with ten officers and 150 seamen, has foundered, and that all hands are lost.

The Siamese government has sent special envoy to Pekin to ask whether China will help Siam resist with arms the new French demands. In Bangkok the people are hoping that China will support Siam with her navy.

A prominent Brazilian diplomat declares that the revolution in Brazil is due to President Peixoto's squandering the nation's money and his systematic nepotism. It is said that if the rebels are victorious, the monarchy will be restored.

A deputation from the unemployed of London waited upon the lord mayor on Sept. 23. The applications for relief are already ten per cent. greater than last Winter. It is urged that a system of national relief for the unemployed should be organized.

It is rumored from Rome that the Pope may leave Italy on account of the increasing hostility to the church displayed by the Italian government. Signor Santa Maria, the minister of justice and ecclesiastical affairs, has resigned because he is not in accord, it is said, with the government's plan of reopening the conflict with the Vatican, which arises from the Pope's friendship for France and his recent utterances concerning republican government. The Vatican is considering arrangements for the expatriation of his holiness, and has made overtures to Spain on the subject.

Intimate friends of Prince Bismarck say that the old statesman was greatly pleased and touched at receiving the Emperor's message of sympathy and the offer of a residence in an imperial castle, and is most warm in his expressions of appreciation of the Emperor's generosity. The reconciliation between the Emperor and the iron chancellor has produced an especially excellent impression in south Germany. The press everywhere is lavish in its praise of the Emperor, and believe that his action will lead to a meeting between his majesty and Prince Bismarck, but it is generally agreed that the prince's health and age will prevent any political importance being attached to such a meeting.

Summer Weakness, that tired feeling, loss of appetite and nervous prostration are driven away by Hood's Sarsaparilla, like mist before the morning sun. To realize the benefit of this great medicine, give it a trial.

Sure, efficient, easy—Hood's Pills.

Notice.

Rev. Dr. B. Carradine will begin a meeting with me at West End, Meridian, Miss., on Oct. 15. The object of the meeting will be the conversion of sinners, and the entire sanctification of believers according to "Wesley's Plain Account of Christian Perfection." Preachers and other workers are urged to attend. Let all who will come to work notify me, and we will provide entertainment for them.

W. W. HOPPER, Pastor.

Meridian, Miss.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate

For Impaired Vitality

and weakened energy, is wonderfully successful.

An enterprise firm in Palestine has sent out a circular to clergymen throughout Great Britain offering them water from the river Jordan "at a nominal price" for use at baptisms, and quoting the court circular as saying that the children of the royal family are always christened with water from the river mentioned.

200 Agents Wanted.

One in every community in State of Mississippi to sell Bishop Fitzgerald's Epworth Book. Prospectus, 50 cents. Hulman Self-Pronouncing Sunday-school Teacher's Bible. Prospectus, $1. Imitation of Christ, beautifully illustrated by Thomas a Kempis. Prospectus, 75 cents. Full supply of International Bibles in stock. Send for catalogue. Order your Sunday-school supplies for the year, and remit quarterly. If you can not send cash with order. Apply at once.

We have a good supply of Bishop Haygood's Jack-knife and Brambles; also Joshua Strong's New Era, or Coming Kingdom. Jack-knife, $1. New Era, paper, 85 cents; cloth, 75 cents Many other new books.

LAIRD & DOMINICK,
Jackson, Miss.

Camp Meeting.

The New Prospect Camp Meeting will begin on Friday night before the fourth Sunday in October (Oct. 20). Ministers of the gospel are invited to attend, and will be furnished with transportation from the railroad to camp ground. Get off at Ocean Springs, where you will get hacks, etc.

N. B. YOUNG.

Vancleave, Miss.

Colored Knights of Pythias' Supreme Lodge Meeting, New Orleans, La.

Queen and Crescent Route, and Louisville Southern Railroad, will make one and one-third fare rate for the round trip, to New Orleans, La., on account of the meeting of the Colored Knights of Pythias Supreme Lodge, New Orleans, La., Sept. 25 30, 1893, inclusive. Tickets on sale Sept. 22 to 27, on certificate plan, from all points on Q. and C. and L. S. R. R.

Solid vestibuled trains from Cincinnati to New Orleans. Ninety-four miles shortest line. Only 26½ hours.

Call on agents for full information.

W. C. RINEARSON,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Cincinnati, O.

I. O. O. F. Demonstration in Chicago.

The Queen and Crescent route, and Louisville Southern railroad, on account of its first-class train service, elegant equipment, and quick time, has been named as the official route of the I. O. O. F. from the South to the grand I. O. O. F. Demonstration, to be held in Chicago, Sept. 23 to 30, 1893

Ask agents to quote you rates, and take the Queen and Crescent route through car lines to Chicago.

Choice of routes via Cincinnati or via Louisville.

W. C. RINEARSON,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Cincinnati, O.

Bro. Van Valkenburgh informs us that he has engaged a store at No. 9 Chartres street (near Canal), and straight across from Camp street. He expects to be there ready for his friends and customers Oct. 2, with a full supply of school books and stationery. Besides, his regular line of Bibles and good literature, generally, will be on hand.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, has been used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Philip Werlein,

New Orleans, wants you to write to him if you want to get a good Piano cheap, or an Organ, Music or Musical Instruments. His is the old reliable music store of New Orleans.

Camp Meeting Calendar.

Camp Meeting	Begins.
Palmer	Sept. 30
Salem	Oct. 5
Shiloh	Oct. 6
New Prospect	Oct. 20

Free! Free!

AN ELEGANT LITHOGRAPH PICTURE OF MILLSAPS COLLEGE.

We need $1,500 to pay for furniture already bought to finish furnishing the college and to make necessary improvements.

To everyone sending us $1 we will send the picture unframed, and to everyone sending us $5 we will send the picture neatly framed ready for hanging. Let us hear from you.

JOHN W. CHAMBERS, Agt.

Jackson, Miss.

Millsaps College.

The friends of Millsaps College will be glad to know that the opening of our second session is highly satisfactory. There are one hundred and thirty students here now, and others are coming by every train. The attendance this session will, I think, be largely in excess of the attendance last session. Nearly every section of Mississippi is represented. Louisiana sends a number of very promising boys. All the members of our faculty are in place, and everything gives promise of a most prosperous session.

W. B. MURRAH.

Henington Camp Meeting.

Please give a place to the following paragraph accidentally omitted in our report of our camp meeting:

Dr. I. W. Cooper preached at the request of our association the anniversary sermon upon the following theme, "What Methodists Owe to Methodism." The sermon gave such satisfaction that its publication has been requested.

The singing was conducted by that distinguished singer and musician, D. J. Evans, of Texas. Our music was of the best. We now use the piano, organ and cornet. They add much to the music of our camp meetings.

J. W. MCNEIL,
Sec. Henington Camp Meeting Ass'n.

Louisiana Conference.

NOTICE TO PRESIDING ELDERS.

Send to me at Homer, La.:

1. Names of lay delegates.
2. Local preachers to be ordained.
3. Applicants for admission on trial.

Please attend to this, and save your friends trouble when they visit the seat of the Conference.

J. A. PARKER, P. C.

Homer, La.

Grand United Order of Odd Fellows.

One fare for the round trip, via Queen and Crescent Route, on account of the Grand United Order of Odd Fellows' Meeting, Jackson, Miss., Oct. 17, 1893.

The Queen and Crescent Route will sell tickets for the occasion of the Fiftieth Anniversary of G. U. O. O. F. of Mississippi from all stations in Mississippi, Oct. 16 and 17, good to return until Oct. 18, at the rate of one fare for the round trip.

Call on agents for particulars.

W. C. RINEARSON,
Gen. Pass'r Agent, Cincinnati, O.

Plans of Episcopal Visitation, 1893-94.

FIRST DISTRICT—BISHOP KEENER.

Tennessee Conference—At Lebanon, Tenn., Oct. 18.
Arkansas Conference—Clarkeville, Ark., Nov. 22.
Little Rock Conference—At Hot Springs, Ark., Dec. 6.
White River Conference—At Jonesboro, Ark., Dec. 13.

SECOND DISTRICT—BISHOP WILSON.

West Texas Conference—At Beeville, Tex. Nov. 1.
German Mission Conference—At Grassyville, Tex., Nov 9.
Northwest Texas Conference—At Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 15.
North Texas Conference—At Wichita Falls, Tex., Nov. 29.

THIRD DISTRICT—BISHOP GRANBERY.

Virginia Conference—At Danville, Va., Nov. 22.
Baltimore Conference—At Fredericksburg, Va., March 22.

FOURTH DISTRICT—BISHOP HARGROVE.

Illinois Conference—At Nashville, Ill., Oct. 5.
North Mississippi Conference—At Columbus, Miss., Nov. 29.
South Carolina Conference—At Sumter, S. C., Dec 6.
Alabama Conference—At Opelika, Ala., Dec. 13.

FIFTH DISTRICT—BISHOP DUNCAN.

Holston Conference—At Broad Street Church, Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 11.
North Alabama Conference—At Talladega, Ala., Nov. 15.
Western North Carolina Conference—At Tyron Street Church, Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 29.
North Carolina Conference—At Edit Street Church, Wilmington, N. C., Dec. 6.

SIXTH DISTRICT—BISHOP GALLOWAY.

Memphis Conference—At Central Church, Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 29.
South Georgia Conference—At Dawson, Ga., Dec. 13.

SEVENTH DISTRICT—BISHOP HENDRIX.

Northwest Mexican Conference—El Paso, Tex., Oct. 25.
Central Mexico Conference—City of Mexico, Nov. 15.
Mexican Border Mission Conference—Monterey, Mexico, Nov. 23.
Texas Conference—Navasota, Tex., Nov. 30.
East Texas Conference—At Orange, Tex., Dec. 7.

EIGHTH DISTRICT—BISHOP KEY.

China Mission Conference—At Shanghai, Oct. 18.
Indian Mission Conference—At Vinita, I. T., Nov. 1.
Mississippi Conference—At Hazlehurst, Miss., Dec 7
Louisiana Conference—At Homer, La., Dec. 14.

NINTH DISTRICT—BISHOP HAYGOOD.

North Georgia Conference—At Gainesville Ga., Nov. 29.
Florida Conference—At Palatka, Fla., Jan. 8.

TENTH DISTRICT—BISHOP FITZGERALD.

Los Angeles Conference—At Los Angeles Cal., Sept. 27.
Pacific Conference—At Fresno, Cal., Oct. 11.

Unlike the Dutch Process

No Alkalies

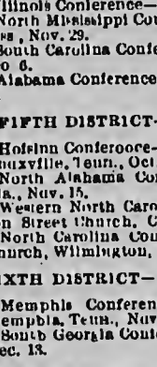
—OR—

Other Chemicals

are used in the preparation of

W. BAKER & CO.'S

Breakfast Cocoa



which is absolutely pure and soluble.

It has more than three times the strength of Cocoa mixed with Starch, Arrowroot or Sugar, and is far more economical, costing less than one cent a cup. It is delicious, nourishing, and EASILY DIGESTED.

Sold by Grocers everywhere.

W. BAKER & CO., Dorchester, Mass.

QUARTERLY CONFERENCES.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

BROOKHAVEN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Crystal Springs	30, Oct.	1
Brookhaven	7,	8
Magnolia, at Magnolia		13
Lebanon, at Lebanon	21,	22
Caseyville, at Bethel		28
McComb City	28,	25
Summit, at Summit	29,	30
Bowerton, at Rehoboth	Nov. 4,	5
Terry, at Spring Ridge		7
Brookhaven circuit, at Bethel		10
Adams circuit, at Adams	11,	12
Holmesville and Topisaw, at H.		17
China Grove, at China Grove	18,	19
Gallman, at Gallman		23
Pleasant Grove, at Wellman	25,	26
Providence		30
Hazlehurst (night)		30
Beauregard, at Beauregard	Dec. 2,	3
Wesson	2,	3

R. S. WOODWARD, P. E.

VICKSBURG DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

South Warren, at Wesley Chapel	30, Oct.	1
Crawford and J. St., at S. V. (M. night)		1
Crawford St., at Vicksburg, (M. night)		2
Wesley Chapel, at Natches, Fri. night)		8
Washington, at Washington	7,	8
Jefferson St.—Natches, (Mon. night)		9
Roxie, at Roxie (Wed.)		11
Utica station	14,	15
Martin, at Cane Ridge	21,	22
Learned, at Bear Creek	28,	29
Fayette, at Fayette	Nov. 4,	5
Sunflower, at Sunflower (Wed.)		8
Rolling Fork, at Rolling Fork, (Thu.)		9
Warren, at Oak Ridge	11,	12
Meadville, at Meadville	18,	19
Mayersville	25,	26
Rocky Springs, at Cayuga (Fri.)	Dec.	1
Hermanville	5,	6
Port Gibson (Tues.)		5

D. A. LITTLE, P. E.

JACKSON DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Yazoo City	28, Oct.	1
Edwards	7,	8
Sharon, at Sharon	14,	15
Mount Olivet, at Mount Olivet	21,	22
Lake City and Lodi, at L. C. (Thurs.)		28
Silver Creek and B Lake, at Hillsdale	28,	29
Yazoo circuit, at Fletcher Chapel	Nov. 4,	5
Madison, at Wesley Chapel (Wed.)		8
Camden, at Shuck	11,	12
Bolton, at Bolton (Wed.)		15
Pocahontas, at Pocahontas (Sat.)		18
Jackson—First Church		19
Jackson—Capitol Street		22
Flora, at Flora (Thurs.)		26
Benton, at Midway	28,	26
Tranquil	28,	27
Canton	Dec	2, 5

Trustees of church property will have their reports ready. Stewards are earnestly exhorted to diligence, that all financial obligations may be fully met.

E. H. MOUNGER, P. E.

MERIDIAN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Leakesville, at Avera	30, Oct.	1
Waynesboro and S., at State L. (Tues.)		2
Wilborn circuit, at Winchester (Wed.)		4
Shubuta circuit, at DeSoto (Thurs.)		5
Clark circuit, at Manasseh	7,	8
Vossburgh circuit, at Central	14,	15
Enoutta circuit, at Enoutta	21,	22
E. and Stonewall, at Enterprise (Tu.)		24
Meridian—East and (Wed.)		25
Daleville cir., at Daleville (Thurs.)		26
Linwood circuit, at Hopewell	28,	29
North Kemper cir., at Mellen (Wed.)	Nov.	1
DeKalb circuit, at Pt. Ridge	4,	5
Binnsville, at Scooba (Tues.)		7
Landerdale (Thurs.)		5
Why Not circuit	11,	12
Chunky circuit (Thurs)		16
Marion circuit	18,	19
Meridian—West End	25,	26
Meridian—Central, (Sun. and Mon.)	Dec. 3,	4

Church Registers and Records not presented at third Quarterly Conference will be called for. The attention of trustees and preachers is called to Ques 28. The preachers will please see that the written reports are presented. The attention of local preachers and exhorters is called to Ques. 18. Written reports will be looked for. Let preachers and stewards and all the members strive to bring up full collections as thank-offerings to God for his many mercies.

T. L. MELLEN, P. E.

BRANDON DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Newton and Hickory, at Newton	30, Oct.	1
Decatur, at Mt. Hebron		5
Nanoba, at Mars Hill		5
Walnut Grove, at Rocky Point	14,	15
Carthage and W. Grove, a. Carthage		15
Hillsboro, at Oak Grove		17
Lake, at Lawrence	21,	21
Rose Hill, at Missionary	28,	29
Trenton	Nov.	2
Clarksburg, at Liberty	4,	5
Morton and Forest, at Morton		5
Fannin, at Fannin		10
Brandon station	11,	12
Montrose		15
Raleigh	18,	15
Shiloh, at Cato		24
Marvin, at Wesleyana	25,	26
Westville		28
Homewood	Dec.	2, 3

C. MCDONALD, P. E.

WOODVILLE DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Gloster and Cent., at Gloster	Oct.	1-3
Amite, at Woodland		1, 2
E. Baton Rouge		7, 8
Port Vincent, at Manrepas		14, 15
Live Oak, at Friendship		21, 21
North Wilkinson		28, 29
Wilkinson, at Bethel	Nov.	4, 5
Bayou Sara, at Star Hill		11, 12
St. Helena, at Center		18, 19
E. Feliciana, at Gilead		25, 26
Springfield, at Wesley Chapel		3-
Franklinton, at Fisher's	Dec.	2, 3
Amite City, at Amite City		3, 4

P. A. JOHNSTON, P. E.

SEASHORE DIST.—THIRD ROUND.

Ocean Springs, at O. S (Wed. night)	Sept.	27, 28
Bay St. Louis, at Handsborough		29, 30
Whitlington c. (4th round). Palmer C G 3.30 to Oct. 8
E. Pearl River, at Pine Grove (Tues.)		10

The Conference for charges marked with * will be held on second day published.

Let special prayer be made by all our people for the camp meetings. Observe the quarterly fast. Have General Rules read, and registers on hand for examination. Preachers will please try to "clear the decks" of the collections during this quarter, at least in good subscriptions. Push the interests of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

HENRY R. PARTRIDGE, P. E.

Hattiesburg, Miss.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

KOSCIUSKO DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Poplar Creek circuit, at Shiloh	30, Oct.	1
Kosciusko circuit, at Bethany	7,	8
Lexington and Tchula, at Tchula	8,	9
Ethel circuit, at Tabernacle	14,	15
Belzoni circuit, at Hickory Grove	21,	22
Stewart circuit, at Stewart	28,	29
Sallis circuit, at Sallis		31
Louisville circuit, at Louisville	Nov.	4, 5
Rural Hill circuit, at Rural Hill		5, 6
Wiar circuit, at Pisgah		10
Chester circuit, at Ackerman		11, 12
Kosciusko circuit, at Salem		18, 19
Eupora circuit, at Walthall		25, 26

Let local preachers be present with written statements, and let trustees report what property, its title, and condition and value. Let stewards give diligent care to collect, and to urge our people to pay the alluwances.

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, P. E.

COLUMBUS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Crawford	30, Oct.	1
Columbus circuit	7,	8
Columbus station	8,	9
Starkville circuit	14,	15
Brooksville	21,	22
Sturges	28,	29
Phebe	Nov.	4, 5
Sparta	11,	12
Macheleville		17
Shuqualak	18,	15
Macon	18,	20
Babson		22

T. C. WEIR, P. E.

GRENADA DISTRICT—FOURTH ROUND.

Tillatoba (Sat.)	Sept.	30
Minter City and Strathmere	Oct.	1
Charleston		6
Coffeeville	7,	8
Oxford station	14,	15
Tocopola	21,	22
Cherry Hill (Tues.)		24
Atlanta	28,	29
Banner (Tues.)		31
Chapel Hill	Nov. 4,	5
Pittsboro (Tues.)		7
Abbeville	11,	12
Grenada circuit	18,	15
Water Valley circuit (Sat.)		25
Water Valley station	26,	27

Local preachers, please be ready with written report as Discipline directs. Also trustees of church property will please have written reports as they are required to do by law.

R. A. BURROUGHS, P. E.

HOLLY SPRINGS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Potts Camp	30, Oct.	1
Ashland circuit, at Wesley	7,	8
Connersville, at Bethlehem	14,	15
Olive Branch, at Millar	21,	22
Shelley Creek	28,	29
Red Banks circuit, at Wesley	Nov. 4,	5
Mt. Pleasant circuit, at New Salem	11,	12
Byhalia circuit, at Byhalia	18,	15
East Holly Springs, at Lamar	25,	26

J. W. HONNOLL, P. E.

SARDIS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Pleasant Grove, at Lee's Chapel	30, Oct.	1
Courtland, at Center Hill	7,	8
Nesbits	14,	15
Mt. Vernon, at Free Springs	21,	22
Pleasant Hill, at Lewisburg	28,	29
Arkabutla (Tues.)		31
Morgansville mission	Nov. 4,	5
Cockrum, at Green Leaf	11,	12
Wall Hill	18,	15
Panola	25,	26

If stewards and pastors will address themselves faithfully and constantly to their respective duties, salaries and connectional collections will be paid in full. Brethren, the Lord and the church expect everyone to do their duty.

H. C. MORRHEAD, P. E.

ABERDEEN DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Fulton and Nettleton circuit	30, Oct.	1
Prairie	7,	8
Shannon		11
Aberdeen station	14,	15
Saltillo	21,	22
Amory and Smithville		25
Pontotoc	28,	29
Tremont	Nov.	4, 5
Okolona circuit		8
Houston and Wesley	11,	12
Athens	18,	15
Buena Vista	25,	26

J. B. STONE, P. E.

WINONA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Winona	30, Oct.	1
Carrollton	7,	8
Mesutt	14,	15
Indianola	21,	22
Leherton		24
Sidon	28,	29
Black Hawk	Nov.	4, 5
Valden	11,	12
West		18
Carrollton circuit	18,	15
Winona circuit	25,	26

S. M. THAMES, P. E.

GREENVILLE DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Gunnison	Oct.	1
Rosedale		8
Cleveland		15
Bolivar		22
Shaw		29
Lyon	Nov.	5
Winterville		12
Friar's Point		19
Greenville		26

J. A. RANDOLPH, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Plaquemine, at Donaldson	Nov.	12
Carrollton (Tues.)		14
Gretna (Thurs.)		16
Baton Rouge		19
Parker Chapel (Tues.)		21
Morgan (Thurs.)		23
Gloss Tete, at Harmony		26
Dryades (Tues.)		28
Lower Coast (Thurs.)		30
Algiers (Sun. and Mon.)	Dec.	5
Crajo (Sun. evening)		5
Louisiana Avenue (Mon.)		4
Carondelet (Tues.)		5
Felicity (Thurs.)		7
Rayne Memorial (Fri.)		8

Pastors will see that all reports required by law are presented. The Conferences in the city, held during the week, will open promptly at 7 P. M.

C. W. CARTER, P. E.

ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Columbia, at Columbia	30, Oct.	1
Centerville, at Trout Creek	7,	8
Evergreen, at Bunkie	14,	15
Lecot, at Fairview	21,	22
Montgomery, at Montgomery	28,	29
Big Cane, at Melville	28	26
Lecompte, at Lecompte	Nov.	4, 5
Dry Creek, at Dry Creek		11, 12
Spring Creek, at S. C. Camp Ground		18, 19
Boyce and Colfax, at Boyce		25, 26
Simsport, at Simsport	Dec.	2, 3
Pineville, at Pineville		9, 10

N. B.—The local preachers and presidents of Boards of Trustees will please have their reports written in full; the preachers furnish full statistical reports. Let the stewards bestir themselves. They want a good preacher next year.

S. J. DAVIES, P. E.

ARCADIA DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Lisbon, at Lisbon	30, Oct.	1
Homer station	1,	2
Summerfield, at Alabama	7,	8
Gansville, at Rochester	14,	15
Sparta, at Bienville	21,	22
Downsville, at Downsville	28,	29
Ringgold, at Andrew Chapel	Nov.	4, 5
Vernon, at Oak Ridge	11,	12
Minden, at Minden	18,	19
Haynesville, at White Hall	25,	26
Valley, at Sapps	Dec.	2, 3
Vienna, at Antioch		9, 10
Ruston station		10, 11
Arcadia, at Arcadia		12

J. L. P. STEPPARD, P. E.

SHREVEPORT DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

DeSoto, at Pelican	Oct.	1, 2
Grand Cane, at Grand Cane	7,	8
Wesley, at Wesley Chapel	14,	15
Coushatta, at Coushatta	15,	16
North Bossier, at Hope's Spurr	21,	22
Pleasant Hill, at Marthaville	28,	29
Caddo, at Keachie	Nov.	4, 5
Shreveport station and mission	11,	12
Victoria mission, at Victoria	18,	19
Cane River, at Provencal	19,	20
West Natchitoches, at Shiloh	21,	22
Anacoco, at Holly Grove	24,	24
Many, at Many	25,	26
Fort Jesup, at Fort Jesup	26,	27
Natchitoches station	Dec.	2, 3
Mansfield station	3,	9, 10

The official members of South Vernon mission are requested to meet at Holly Grove, Nov. 25. (I include those representing Petersburg, Pine Ridge, Hemans, Midkiff, and Wood's Store-house.)

Boards of Trustees are earnestly requested to be ready with carefully prepared reports of the condition and value of the property in their charge.

The District Sabbath-school Convention meets at Robeline, Oct 25, at 10 A. M. Arrangements will be made for entertaining the delegates.

The Board of Managers of Mansfield Female College will meet at 8 A. M., Dec. 1, at the college.

The trustees of Pierce and Paine College property are requested to meet at Marthaville, Oct. 28.

ROBT. J. HARP, P. E.

630 Hope St., Shreveport, La.

DELHI DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

Bastrop, at Bastrop	30, Oct.	1
Lind Grove, at Bonito		1, 2
Winnsboro, at Winnsboro		7, 8
Oak Ridge, at Mer Rouge		14, 15
Rayville, at Union		21, 22
Oakley, at Jourdin Chapel		28, 29
Calhoun, at Mt. Ariel		31, 31
Harrisonburg, at Island	Nov.	4, 5
Lapine, at Frantoms C.		11, 12
Lake Providence		18, 19
Waterproof		25, 26
Delhi	Dec.	1, 2
Floyd		3
		1, 12

H. O. WHITE, P. E.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—FOURTH ROUND.

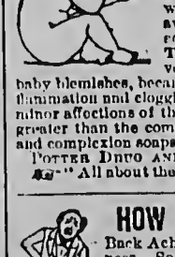
New Iberia	30, Oct.	1
Abbeville, at P. G		7, 8
Franklin and Jeanerette		14, 15
Indian Bayou		21, 22
Plaquemine Brulee		28, 29
Patterson and Morgan City	Nov.	4, 5
Lake Charles—B. Street		11, 12
Jackson Street and W. Lake		13, 19
Grand Chenier		17, 18
Sulphur Mine		25, 26
Lake Arthur	Dec.	1, 2

JNO. A. MILLER, P. E.

The American Protective Tariff League, on Sept. 19, announced the appointment of Mr. John T. White, of Jeanerette, La., as State secretary for that State. Mr. White is a firm protectionist and an excellent organizer. The League expects to extend its work in this and other Southern States very largely in the next year.

BAD COMPLEXIONS

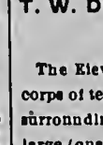
Pimples, blackheads, red, rough, and oily skin, red, rough hands with shapeless nails and painful finger ends, dry, thin, and falling hair, and simple baby blemishes are prevented and cured by the celebrated



CUTICURA SOAP

Most effective skin-purifying and beautifying soap in the world, as well as purest and sweetest of toilet and nursery soaps. The only medicated Toilet soap, and the only preventive and cure of facial and baby blemishes, because the only preventive of inflammation and clogging of the pores, the cause of minor affections of the skin, scalp, and hair. Sale greater than the combined sales of all other skin and complexion soaps. Sold throughout the world. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Boston.

"All about the Skin, Scalp, and Hair" free.



HOW MY BACK ACHES!

Back Ache, Kidney Pains, and Weakness, Soreness, Tenderness, Strains, and Pains relieved in one minute by the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster, the only pain-killing strengthening plaster.

UNIVERSITY PREPARATORY SCHOOL,

73 COLISEUM STREET.

T. W. DYER, - - - Principal.

The Eleventh Session begins Oct. 2 with a full corps of teachers. The location is perfect. The surroundings are attractive. The grounds are large (quarter of a square), with separate yard and accommodations for smaller boys. A few boarding pupils can be accommodated. References: The clergy of New Orleans and the faculty of Tulane University.

Cincinnati Conservatory of Music,

MISS CLARA BAUR, Directress.

Thorough musical education after the methods of foremost European conservatories. The Conservatory will as usual be open during the entire Summer, and students can, as during the school year, enter at any time

Branches taught: Vocal culture, the Pianoforte, Organ, Harp, Violin, and all other Orchestral Instruments; also Guitar, Mandolin and Banjo; Elocution, Delsarte, Modern Languages, English Literature and Art.

Young ladies from a distance can board in the Conservatory building, where they pursue their studies under the supervision of the Directress. For Catalogue address in full,

MISS CLARA BAUR,
Conservatory of Music, 4th and Lawrence, Cincinnati, O.

VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Next Session opens September 20th.

Full graduate as well as under graduate courses. Ten Fellowships for college graduates. Seven Departments—Academic, Engineering, Biblical, Law, Pharmaceutical, Dental, Medical. Fully equipped laboratories and museums.

WILS WILLIAMS, Secretary.

FAT PEOPLE

To reduce your weight SURELY use Willard's Obesity Pills and lose 15 pounds a month. No injury to the health. No interference with business or pleasure. NO STARVING. They build up and improve the general health, beautify the complexion and leave NO WRINKLES. Lucy Anderson, 84 Auburn St., Cambridge, Mass., writes: Three bottles of your Obesity Pills reduced my weight from 235 pounds to 190 and I never felt better in all my life. I am much pleased with the result, and shall do all I can to help you. Our patrons include Physicians, Bankers, Lawyers, and leaders of Society. Our goods are not sold in drug stores; all orders are supplied direct from our office. Price per package $2.00 or three packages for $5.00 by mail prepaid. Particulars (sealed) free. ALL CORRESPONDENCE CONFIDENTIAL.

WILLARD REMEDY CO., BOSTON, MASS.

FREE by return mail, full descriptive circulars of MOODY'S NEW and MOODY'S IMPROVED TAILOR SYSTEMS OF DRESS CUTTING. Revised to date. These, only, are the genuine TAILOR SYSTEMS invented and copyrighted by PROF. D. W. MOODY. Beware of imitations. Any lady of ordinary intelligence can easily and quickly learn to cut and make any garment, in any style, to any measure, for ladies, men and children. Garments guaranteed to fit perfectly without trying on. Address MOODY & CO. CINCINNATI, O.

$1.50 AMERICAN WATCH

$1.50 will now buy a reliable AMERICAN WATCH in a HANDSOME GOLD PLATED Dust Proof Case. Will not vary one minute in 30 days. Is as durable as any watch made. FULLY GUARANTEED. (Subscribers of this paper will tell you we are reliable.) Has AMERICAN patent lever MOVEMENT, Patent Escapement and Regulator, Lantern Pinion, 240 beats to minute. No key required to wind or set; weighs less than 2 ounces. Postpaid for $1

Christian Advocate.

VOL. 40.—NO. 40. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1893. WHOLE NO. 1937.

Rev. J. M. BEARD, D. D., Editor and Publisher. } PUBLISHED FOR THE LOUISIANA CONFERENCE, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE AND NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH. { ENTERED AT THE POST-OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

REST FOR THE TOILER.

BY KATHERINE LEE BATES.

Not wrath, dear Lord, thy mercy seals
Our own unrighteous hands
Hold back thy shining chariot wheels,
And rob the wistful lands.

For none shall walk in perfect white
Till every soul be clean;
So close for sorrow and delight
These human spirits lean.

But thou go forth and do thy deed,
In forest and in town,
Nor sigh for ease, while pain and need
Are plucking at thy gown.

And thus, when bitter turneth sweet,
And every heart is blest,
Perchance to thee God's hand shall mete
His unimagined rest.

— Zion's Herald.

Bishop Key in North Louisiana.

BY J. A. P.

The announcement that a real Bishop would, at a certain time, put in a personal appearance at Athens, in Claiborne parish, La., where he would preach a sermon and dedicate a church-house, and go thence to Homer, where he would preach again, were as unusual to most people in these parts as such an announcement would have been with the title "angel" placed for Bishop.

Notwithstanding the fact that when the whole territory of Louisiana, as it is now known to exist, geographically, was "Louisiana circuit of the Mississippi Conference," and served by J. G. Jones, a very large proportion of the work was in Claiborne parish, and all of it in North Louisiana, yet fewer episcopal visitations have been made here than elsewhere in our State.

It may be noted, furthermore, that while this portion of our Conference has shared but little of episcopal labor and personal supervision, North Louisiana is, and ever has been, the stronghold, not of Protestantism only, but of Methodism as well.

I think it entirely within the bounds of certainty when I say that the two sermons by Bishop Key, on Sept. 17, were heard by a greater number of Methodist people than ever heard any other Bishop who has preached in Louisiana. And to keep this statement up to the requirements of certainty, I am not going to except the hundred, or more, preachers—lay and itinerant—who hear the Bishops at our annual sessions of the Conference. Indeed, a Bishop, or other connectional officer of the church, will touch more Methodists at any given point in the northern part of our Conference territory than anywhere else within our bounds. And these Methodists are strictly orthodox—they are poor.

Well, for once the Bishop has been here, and has left behind him "a sweet savor" of sentiment.

Having previously arranged to that end, I met Bishop Key at Athens, Sunday morning, where I heard a truly fine sermon at 11 A. M. At 2:30 P. M. we were mounted on a phaeton en route for the Homer parsonage, with the Bishop on board. It was hot, dry, and dusty, but by 5:30 we were receiving refreshments from the ministries of the "heroine of the parsonage," and at 8 o'clock P. M. were entertained with another fine sermon.

